Dedication

In token of our love, and of the inspiration which they have been to us this volume of Taps is affectionately dedicated to
Our Sweethearts
the girls we loved, still love, and always will love

OF ALL EARTH’S MAIDENS FAIR AND YOUNG AND GAY
OUR SWEETHEARTS ARE THE FAIREST THAT WE KNOW.
ARE FAIRER THAN THE FAIREST FLOWERS THAT GROW
WITHIN THE FRAGRANT DEW-DRENCHED FIELDS OF MAY.
THE SOFT, SUN-KISSED SNOW, ON WHICH DOTH PLAY
THE CLOUD-ESCAPING RAYS, AND WHICH DOTH BLOW
IS NOT MORE PURE THAN THEY IN WHOM THE GLOW
OF INNOCENT YOUTH MAKES SWEET OUR THOUGHTS TODAY.

HOW FAIR, HOW SWEET, HOW PURE! HOW SWEET AND TRUE!
HOW WORTHY OF A MAN’S PURSUIT AND CARE—
OUR SWEETHEARTS AND OUR LOVERS, TOO!
WITH WHOM WE WOULD OUR DEAREST TREASURES SHARE!
AND LIFE’S UNKNOWN PATHWAYS TRAVEL THROUGH,
AND SWEETLY LIVE AS YEAR LAPSED INTO YEAR.

Senior Class Poem

EAR after year we've worked together
From early morn 'till late at night.
Through all sorts of foul and sunny weather.
E'en though 'twas hard, we find delight
In calling back those days of old
When we were guileless Freshmen still;
How we pined to live it through, and stroll
Into the place that Sophomores fill.
And so it was that Sophomore found us
With work to do, but time for play.
We labored on with Freshmen round us,
Who kindly helped us on our way.
But in Junior we sobered down
And found our work, our time and place,
And now in Senior we have found
A vastly different course to face.

So out into the world we go,
With all its struggle, toil, and pain;
Far from the friends and scenes we know.
Far out into life's teeming main,
Where we must new conditions meet,
And learn to solve the problems of the day;
Catch from the shortlived hours so fleet
The good things we would have with us stay.

But still endearing memory calls
And bids us linger yet a while;
Look o'er these scenes again, where falls
An unwonted sweetness, and smile.
Here many a pleasant hour we've passed,
And learned many a lesson well;
Formed many a friendship that will last—
How dear those days, let memory tell!

'Tis the old familiar scene
Made sweeter at the parting hour,
But in memory 'twill e'er be green
Nor ever lose o'er us its power.
Come, classmates, gather 'round and sing
A song before we bid adieu.
To Clemson our offerings bring,
And pledge ourselves to e'er be true.

—W. J. Hunter
Senior Class History

In September, 1911, about three hundred and fifty strong, we arrived on the campus from almost everywhere. We were about as green and as scared as you could well imagine, and the largest Class, by a good majority, that has ever entered Clemson. During our Freshman year, we, as all other Freshmen, were looked upon as a crowd of greenhorns. Some of us joined Literary Societies; one or two of our crowd made the Varsity eleven; and several of us made the Varsity nine. Indeed, we might well be called the hard-luck Class; for, just at the time of our entrance, there was practically no law against hazing, and we, of course, were the victims. When we came back as Sophomores, expecting to get revenge on the next Class, we found that a new Commandant had taken charge of the Military Department, and that instead of finding a bunch of scared "rats," we found only an aggregation of "recruits," whom we had to honor, and treat as if they were real folks.

When we came back as Sophomores, we found that, for various reasons, our Class had been reduced to two hundred strong. We, as all other Sophomores, felt that we owned the College, and as all other "wise fools" felt that we should be given special attention in every phase of college life; indeed, the Athletic teams were beginning to take special notice of some of our men.

Then came Junior. By this time we were beginning to see that the only way we would ever accomplish anything would be by hard work; so we got busy. Men of our ranks did a majority of The Chronicle work, and were making the Literary Societies go, and indeed the men above us were beginning to take notice of the fact that we had some real men in our Class.

Now we have reached privileges of wearing a cap cord, and having Senior privileges, we have come to the decision that we are not so wise as we had imagined Seniors to be. Instead, we find that we are just getting our minds in shape to receive a real education. We are now, we are proud to say, the largest Class that has ever been able to reach Senior—one hundred and six strong. This is one fact of which we shall always boast, for surely this is something of which to be proud. We have a number of men of whom we have a right to be proud. A number of them have made good in athletics; and we have some of the best Editors in the history of the College. We have made great improvements in The Tiger, The Chronicle, The Agricultural Journal; and are getting out one of the best numbers of Taps that was ever dreamed of. We have the honor of having in our Class the "longest" and the "shortest" man that has ever graduated from Clemson. We also claim that we have the best Orator that Clemson has had in a number of years.

But the time is soon to come when we must part—perhaps never to see each other again. It will be a sad parting, for some of the best of friends will be separated for life. Although we do not realize it, our College days—though they have their trials and difficulties—are the happiest days of our lives. Let us hope that none of us will ever do anything that will not bestow honor upon our Class and upon our College. And now, as the light of the day of June the eighth fades into darkness, the Class of 1915 goes out to meet the toils and difficulties of the world.

"Doc," as he is called by all, except one, who calls him "Dockie Dear," has one great weakness—ladies. His winning ways and line of "hull" make him popular among the "fair ones"; while his leadership and character have won him a front place among his fellow-students. "Doc" is some business man, being proprietor of the "Jew Shop." He hasn't decided whether he will get rich in Argentina, or go back to that town with the fitting motto, "Union Suits."

"Bill" came to us in 1911, from Union, S.C., but soon migrated to Virginia. "Bill" spends most of his time at the store. He determined to be Governor of Virginia; but he doesn't get this, he says he will take President of the United States. "Bill" has gathered around him many friends since coming to Clemson. If he should fail to become President, we know he will revolutionize the apple industry in Virginia. We wish him much success.

"H. D." came here along with the rest of us, but since then he has forged ahead of us, a leader in whatever required work and faithful application. "D." is a serious-minded, precocious chap, speaking only when he has something to say. "Barker's" chief delight is to shoot all his professors for "Block-Hundreds"; his pastime is quoting poetry. He must be in love. It is whispered that his favorite fruit is the Georgia "Belle" Peach. His chief aim while here seems to be "Do It, Do It Right, Do It Right Now:"

This, ladies and gentlemen, is the engineer of our Class. "Frank" he is called; but we think a very appropriate name for him would be "Slide Rule." His cartoon will show what he can do with this instrument. He has one very bad habit, that of making hundreds on all exams. It is often said that when "Frank" enters an exam room the Prof. trembles, because someone is going to get "shot." Too much cannot be said of his ability, and we expect great things of him after graduation.

"Gene," as he is commonly known, hails from Laurens, S. C. Besides being long, lean, and lanky, he is quite an athlete and ladies' man. He has won fame as a stump speaker for Cole Blease, among showers of chalk and erasers. His time is spent between studying and training his pompadour in the way it should go. Yet, "Gene" is a diligent student, and we predict for him future success in his chosen profession of medicine.

"Prep" is the product of Clover, S. C. His name is not derived from having prepish ways but from a preparatory school he attended before entering here. He is an independent lad, noted for being an extremely pleasant carefree fellow. If there is any fun stirring anywhere, "Prep" may be counted on as one of the ringleaders. And if he isn't tempted into a matrimonial career Clover will shortly be illuminated.

It has been hinted that "George" smuggled himself into barracks in his big brother's coat pocket, even if he did come from Pomaria. "George" is a combination of Napoleon and Steinmetz. He leads his marine company through storm and sunshine, and knows how to wire—home for money. "George" won his fame as a soldier by mobilizing some famous Senior Privates. He has convinced us that he is there when it comes to arguing—by keeping us awake till the early hours. His many friends wish him much success for his future.

"Ikey" blew in to us from the Spartan City, in the fall of '11. He has stuck with us faithfully since then, and has gained the reputation of being the "best" in the line of everything he started at. Besides being the best musician, he is one of the best in that electricity stuff, and also one of the best-liked fellows in the whole school. We predict for him the best of success in his chosen line of work—Electricity; or in whatever he may decide to follow.

"Walt" arrived upon the scene in September, 1911, and being very much fascinated by a look through a transit, he immediately joined the "Hobo" crew. "Walt's" straightforwardness and fine carriage have achieved for him a notable military career. He is especially fond of the girls and poetry. His popularity and many friends confirm the fact that he is an all-around good fellow. With all his frankness, good nature, and jovial spirit, we see nothing less than a bright future in store for him.

Leaving the Methodists, at Wofford, "Ernest" blew into our midst in the Junior year to take the Electrical Course, and since has been a faithful member of this Class. Though burdened with make-up work, he found time for the Literary Societies, in which he has taken a prominent part. He also pilots the A. I. E. E. "Ernest" is not a sport; yet we know him to be a great admirer of the fair sex. It is a sure bet that, with his deep, firm set determination, he will make good.

"To strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield"

Senior Private.

"Genie," staggered from Boston in the fall of 1911, and his form criticisms way ended his stay in the college. Since entering here he has made many lifelong friends. His greatest ambition was to "shine" in the professional and the records show that he has succeeded in the undertaking. "Genie" is one of the most military men among our ranks. "Genie" uses the biggest words heard, and is often accused of having swallowed a dictionary. He has been due in his hard work that he has become such a success. We cannot tell what will be his fate, but we feel safe in saying that he will soon and his "Genie" will become one of the world's greatest horticulturists.

"Bris," or "Big Henry," as he is known to all, entered College with the intention of making good, and has succeeded in everything to which he has turned his hand. At home and at College he has always been a leader. He is a man of experience, having tried everything from stoking on a gasoline tug to leading German figures in a ballroom. That he will reach the top in his profession is the belief of all who know him.

"G. N.," as he is commonly called, received a "Dip" from Furman in 1913. Being unusually bright, he entered the Junior Class, and he expects to get another "dip" in June, with the Class of 1915. "O. D.," as he is sometimes called, arose from the ranks to a first lieutenancy by inventing new commands in military tactics. His sole aim in life is to stick to a thing until he gets it. With this aim in life, we predict a brilliant future for him.

“Birmie” is a worthy product of Orangeburg, where he has been greatly missed since his departure in the pursuit of knowledge. "Herminghaum" thought he was a military genius, but the "Col." didn’t share his views, and consequently he is a high ranking member of the Clean-Sleeve Club. “Jim” is known to be very truthful and industrious, and we sincerely believe that he will be able to figure out the "route" whereby alcohol may be obtained—a by-product from the manufacture of cotton goods.

“Kid” is one of Greenville’s representatives, and well may she claim him for a fair representative. Because of his reserved, unassuming ways, he was known only to a few intimate friends at first. But his pleasant manners, his high ideals of life, his absolute honesty and integrity, coupled with an abundance of native ability, gradually singled him out from the common class of boys. In the last two years, many honors have been his, and to each he has been conscientiously faithful.

"Kitty," or "Squire," came to us from historic Winnsboro, in the fall of '11. Since entering Clemson, he has accumulated a vast amount of knowledge, attained high military standing, and caused the "mailman" no end of trouble. He has the "rep" of receiving more mail than any other cadet in College. "Kitty" is a typical ladies' man, a fine athlete, and an all-around good fellow. We wish him all success in the horticultural world.

Honor, loyalty, frankness, fearlessness, and long legs characterize "Dick." These traits have made him a true friend to his friends. He tries everything once; and even tried the Colonel's Crowd," in Junior, but didn't like it—so he resigned. His marked ability is shown by the admirable record he has made for himself. His one great failing is "Girl," but his wonderful "line" has made his failing a great success, and won lots of love for his "CAUSE—Y."

This great big brown-eyed Chapmonian cast his lot with the '14 Class; but, on account of sickness, he was unable to finish that year, and came back the next year full of determination to be a great Agronomist. His intelligent look has carried him through College, and it will win him a great place in life. Owing to his silver-tongued oratory, this lad might decide to be a great politician, after giving Agronomy a thorough trial.

"Frank," or "Sarg," as he is better known, is a pessimist, true and tried. He swears that there is no girl living that he cares for; but we who room with him know better than he does. He thought that he was getting an easy course when he took Agriculture, but was surprised to learn differently when the exams came. We predict a happy life for "Sarg," knowing that there is no member of our Class who better deserves it than he does.

On a dark and stormy night, "Virgil," "Admiral," left the woods around Horatio for Clemson. Here he startled the world by a military career like unto a meteor—startling in its brilliancy, but dying at its brightest moment. Bright and cheery, like the rest of the gamecock lads, he has the fault of building air castles. The chiefest castle was built or about Remberts. But—! However, we are assured that Sumter County will ever be proud to say: "This is my son."

“Percy,” or “P. C.,” first discovered the light of day in the Electric City. Being ambitious, he strayed away, but later was caught at Anderson, where he was sentenced to serve two years behind the bars. He has skipped through College to the “Jingle of the Silvery bells.” His chief ambition in life is to be commandant of Frazier’s Military Academy. We predict that “Percy” will spend the rest of his life in breaking ladies’ hearts, and dobbing spinning frames.

Well! here comes quite a little chap; and we would say that Clarendon County should look to “His Highness.” “Peter” or “P. We invariably find his floor carpeted with old scraps of paper, as he never polices his room, for fear of falling into the habit. On visiting him, we are always welcomed with his favorite song, “I Love the Ladies.”

"Ralph" is the genuine article, a chip off the courteous Southern type of a gentleman. He has made many friends among the cadets. Everywhere he goes, his winning way increases his ever-widening circle of friends. For this type of man, success is assured. He will be a successful civil engineer—"Nothing can keep a good man down." The girl who wins him will possess a valuable prize, love, and assured happiness.

A gift of true worth he possesses, a royalty of gracious size—the true word and the honor of a thoroughbred gentleman.

His possessions have won for him many things—among them, the esteem of his professors; a fine record; a host of true friends and a private's misfortune, namely: Extra. His favorite pastime is expounding the uses of "Musical Bonbons." His ability, canny application, and admirable character are sure to make a future full of success for him.

“O’Dell” is a product of the swamps of Georgetown. He has won great fame around barracks by telling of his wonderful experiences while hunting ducks and fishing in the swamps around Georgetown. Some thought that the College was robbing the cradle when “Hugh” entered, but his unfailing attendance upon early “men’s meetings,” and his later decision to become a “hoss doctor,” have convinced us all that he is indeed a “man among men.” “Hugh” has prospered as the efficient financier of our Y. "Duvy," a quiet, serious lad with striking personalities, became imbued with a thirst for electrical knowledge, and came to Clemson in 1911 to quench it. He drank deep of the Pierian spring, as is evidenced by his ability to "shoot." He is a deep thinker, a sound reasoner, and a regular storehouse of information. He has many close friends, who admire his fine qualities. We predict that in the future we shall hear of "Duvy's" great work as a consulting engineer of the General Electric Company.

"A little learning is a dangerous thing; Drink deep, or taste not the Pierian spring"
“Dave” left the city of Cameron in 1911, join the ranks of the Clemsonites, and since that time has been a faithful member of the “Hutch-Lovers.” It is reported that he is also something of a ladies’ man, and his frequent trips to the hotel serve in no way to contradict this assumption. However, in spite of this, he stands well in his classes and is sure to end up O. K.

“Miss” Folk came from the great city of “Po-o-mary.” He is specializing on the “dyeing” phase of the textile industry, and can give valuable information about this and all stages beyond. He has always made good at everything, making numerous friends at College and among the fair sex. Nothing but success can be predicted for “Miss” Folk, for his motto is: “Never work in single harness, but rather in double.”

At present he is running experiments to see if he can grow apples on cucumber vines. “Ned” is modest, handsome, and wise; his ability to grasp ideas is wonderful. These qualities will undoubtedly make his future brilliant.

Corporal; Sergeant; Second Lieutenant and Principal Musician.

Javan "Slidin Sylvester" Moore blew the fuses of the Electric City, Anderson, and landed at Clemson, with his trombone in one hand and an old boy's suitcase in the other, to study about animals. Although "Wank" is considered a good fellow, he has been sliding his way through school—on his trombone. He joined hands with the Glee Club, and finally led them on a tour. "Javan's" good nature and pleasant disposition have won him many friends; and we all wish him much success.

"Keep time. How sour sweet music is, When time is broke, and no proportion kept!"

"Jerry" is a product of Florence. With his ready wit, his love of fun, and his willingness to help others even before he helps himself, he has become a general favorite. He amuses himself by making one hundred on "Dicky," writing jokes on his friends in the columns of The Tiger. He can capture an innocent in or offer up a fervent prayer with equal ease. He's too busy to study, yet his record ill compare favorably with the best.

"Case of language is his, Jacked by a ready wit and a kindly heart, That seeks to amuse, not to wound."

"Jim" comes from the famous swamp of Marion County. He honored Clemson with his presence in 1911. He is a real artist with the ladies. Unless he gets three letters a day, he declares that all the girls have "kicked" him. "Jim" has made many friends here by his quiet, honest, easy disposition. His only failing is his love for study(?). We feel sure of "Jim's" success, as he is likely to revolutionize the agriculture of the world.

"Henry," or "Pie," is a cute, good-natured fellow, whose great winning ways have won for him the best regards of his classmates, theorist, and an expounder of fire-coals and frogs is he. Combining his military aspirations, soil theories, etc., he bids fair to astonish the world. Small in stature, large in ideas at heart, he has the world at his feet—that is his part of it—the soil. That "Pie" will succeed we feel sure.

In “Dickery,” Calhoun County has a son of whom to be proud—keen in intellect, studious in habits, standing for all that is good and for the betterment of life. Some day “Wallace” will make Æolian Hill, of Calhoun, as widely known in that county’s agriculture as the Æolian harp is known in history. After four years of diligent work, “Dickery” is prepared to make his commencement in the battle of life. A bright, prosperous future is predicted for him.

Call him "Duck," and he will smile; but it is as "Pete" we know him best. Never depressed in spirits, he takes life as it comes, brightening those around him with his cheery smiles and ready wit. Though he lost much time during his course, he has by his optimism and perseverance remained true to his Class. It is his chieftest ambition to find the ideal of his dreams, and then become mayor and political leader of Watson's Siding.

"Dn." hails from that progressive "City" of Fort Mill. He acquired the prefix "Miss" shortly after his arrival, because of his popularity with the "Boys." He showed a marked partiality to midnight parades, pugilistic encounters, and Chicora College. He will no doubt make a success as a matrimonial diplomat or a professional heart-smasher.

Tonight I Walked Across the Campus

TONIGHT I walked across the campus,
Cooled and freshened by the western breeze,
The scattered lights made rugged outlines
Of the buildings and the stately trees;
And my thoughts swept backward o'er the past
When first I saw this self-same view,
Recalling all that then was cast
Upon my mind—those things so new.

Years have passed, but these scenes are changed not:
The walks and trees and all as of old,
But to me they now are dearer;
For mem'ry wraps them in her fold
And marks them mine for all the years.
Though I should go through devious ways
And life be cloyed with weary cares,
They still are mine, those scenes and friends and days.

Room Regulations

VDETS must remember that all men make mistakes, it will be useless to send in explanations of reports.

2. It will not be necessary for Cadets to arrange articles in lockers for inspection; they will be reported anyway.

3. Cadets are reminded that the hand is quicker than the eye; it will avail nothing to watch the inspecting officer ransack lockers.

4. No Cadet will be allowed to get sick on drill days.

5. Cadets must not throw match stems and apple cores out of the window or in the wastebasket. They are to be placed in the pockets, and removed each morning at police inspection.

6. All Cadets who willingly assist the Commandant in removing small grandstands from parade grounds at Guard Mount will be given a credit of ten punishments; those who have to be urged will be given a credit of five. Those Cadets who do not assist at all will not be required to stand around and laugh.

7. Hereafter Dress Guard Mount will not be held. The Senior Privates seem to enjoy making a mess out of it more than the Commandant enjoys the compulsion of their attendance.

8. Cadets will not be allowed to destroy articles of clothing in barracks, as the College has a laundry for that purpose.

9. Cadets no longer have the privilege of throwing bottles of hydro-sulfide in the Assistant Commandant’s room; it is very annoying to contend with broken glass.

10. In the mess-hall, Cadets must not pour water in the derby hats of visitors; the College cannot afford to waste the water.

11. Cadets must remember that they know nothing about medicine; it will be useless to ask the surgeon why he gives pills for broken bones and ingrowing toenails.

12. Cadets are warned not to steal chickens from Professor Houston; they are all too old to eat, anyhow.

Seventy-Six
Junior Class History

In the Fall of 1912, about three hundred boys entered the State Prison for the uneducated, and took on the title of "Rats." We soon settled down to work, and began looking forward to the great trip to the Capital City and the State Fair.

In September of 1913, only a few more than two hundred were entered upon the list of very modest Sophomores. We came a week ahead of the "Rats," and when they arrived we were ready to give them a warm welcome. It was the greatest privilege of our lives to reign supreme over these innocent creatures, and we took full advantage of it. It was in this year that we surprised the whole Clemson world by winning the Class football cup. In all College activities, this Class has come to the front with men that have kept the standards up to the notch. But in this second year a large number either asked for pardons, or decided that they loved the Sophomore year so well that they would try it again.

At the beginning of this last session, we had a total of about one hundred and twenty. These tried few have worked hard to get this far toward the end of our four-year sentences. We have done our part in keeping up the work of the school, and we have attempted to better the conditions as much as possible.

It seems that we have had a hard-luck year in athletics this session, however. We put out decidedly the best team, in the estimation of all the athletic judges, but by a piece of luck the Sophomores defeated us with a score of thirteen to twelve.

A very bright future lies before us now, as we are about to take upon our shoulders the responsible name of Seniors. This is where we expect to do our greatest work for our Alma Mater.

"Half the Battle Is Won"

If you had been at Clemson one day in September, 1913, and could have seen nearly three hundred men hitching themselves to a cart and beginning to pull, you would have asked,

“What are you men pulling?”

We would have replied, “Class of 1917.”

Later, looking back on the road, we see that some of our men have fallen, and will not rise; but the remaining ones pull on, and before long we shall have reached the end of the first mile. It is summer; and our first vacation is given us.

September comes, and the harness is again put on; but the ranks are thinned, and we have barely two hundred men. This makes an extra load on us; and you ask,

“Will you continue to pull?”

We reply, “Yes! for we have the Class of 1917.”

Still, some drop out on the road, but we only brace ourselves and pull harder. As we reach the end of the second mile, we gasp for breath and stop to rest. It is summer again, and, as we rest, we look ahead, and find that we have two miles to go. You ask,

“Will you ever reach the end of the road?”

We reply, “Yes! we will; because we are ‘all together, all the time, for our Class of 1917.’”

Freshman Class History

T WAS on the sixteenth day of September, in the year 1914, that the Freshman Class migrated from their numerous haunts in the noble State of South Carolina to the vicinity of Clemson College.

They arrived nearly three hundred strong, and after many hours of weary waiting, and the passing through details which were altogether useless in our estimation at that time, they became full members of the corps of cadets.

It may be said that there was little difference between their appearance and that of the meadows in springtime; in fact, they were almost too verdant to realize or appreciate sciences which their superiors, the Sophs and Juniors, tried so hard to teach them.

The first few weeks, being full of novelty and excitement, passed off very rapidly.

The fact that the corps could not go to the State Fair seemed to bring despair to many, and was almost a struggle for them to remain in College; but the great part which they played in athletics went to prove that some of the best men in College were in the Freshman Class. The excellent football team which was developed by them predicts a glorious future for the Class of 1918.

ANY noble sacrifices were made to assist a wounded comrade. A sad spectacle indeed! Many tears dropped from the woe-begone countenances of the stricken mourners.

"If you have tears, prepare to shed them now."

Rap! Rap! Rap! And then my bedroom door was thrust open, while a comrade in piteous accents asked if I would not please come and help carry a poor rat to the hospital. "He has been walking post, has swooned and fallen down, and is now nearly dead! Oh, please hurry and help us before he dies": and my midnight visitor rushed away.

Up I sprang from my cozy bed, all thoughts of tender dreams having been rudely swept out of my mind by the shocking tale I had just been told. Suppose the poor rat should die ere I helped them carry him to the hospital!

Beset with many misgivings, I hastily slipped on my trousers, and pulling on a uniform blouse and cap, I rushed out into the hall and grabbed the stretcher. What was my surprise when I found that I could barely lift a side, although many stalwart comrades were assisting.

Low means and words in tender accents. "Who is it?" greeted my ears, but not a word could I learn as to his identity. The air seemed charged with ether, or some subtle drug, perhaps escaping from the pillow of the poor rat, as his comrades bent around the stretcher. The dark, uncanny, murky feeling of death seemed to prevail in the immediate vicinity of the stretcher. In the words of the Indian—"Silence so still, can see silence."

One great big Senior, "Cat," actually bore down beneath the heavy burden of the poor helpless rat, wondering how a "rat" of such apparently small size could weigh so much. Later, he found that the whole crew of the "Salvation Army" were bearing down on the stretcher with all of their weight.

"Fritz" rushed out when the procession stopped on his hall, grabbed the stretcher, and urged that the "poor rat" be carried immediately to the Commandant's house.

"Bill" bore the burden through several halls to the guard-room before he was finally stopped by members of the "Army."

One of the men who had previously joined the hospital corps, Captain Berly, rushed out and shouted, "Who is the rat? In my Company?" and fled to the guard-room at double quick time to report the dead "rat" absent from Taps.

All this time someone had been apparently fanning and mopping the brow of the sufferer.

"Poor fellow," someone whispered, after we had proceeded down half a hall. "Let's set him down here by the door, and let him cool a bit."

The stretcher was now placed near the door, and I began to experience great fear as they began to roll the cover back little by little, expecting to see a pallid and comforted face, perhaps writhing in the very agonies of death itself. "Oh! he has disappeared!" I exclaimed, as there appeared to be no one between the sheets. I began to experience mysterious and awesome shivers over his strange disappearance, and—"Ah! Pshaw!" for there cuddled in the middle of the bed lay—a poor, dead, genuine, four-legged little rat.

And thus ended the first episode in this tragic death.

The next night, about ten-thirty, the funeral began. Amid much shedding of tears, piteous moans, low whispers, last farewells—all mixed in with funeral dirges—the last funeral rites to the dead were duly and lawfully accorded.

And thus ended the second and last episode in this most tragic and heartrending death of a "poor 'rat'."
After All

AFTER ALL, there's joy in life,
Though serious minded we may be;
It matters not how full of strife
Our minds become, we still can see
The silver lining shining through—
Beyond the gloomy hours that rise.
See things that will our hopes renew,
And smile as earth before the sunny skies
As drift they back, those gloomy hours.
And our thoughts to fairer channels turn;
We find the joy that once was ours,
And the calm brow which once did burn
Reveals its peace. Then forth again
We sail upon life's bounding sea.
Gleaning from our care and pain
A priceless serenity.

—W. J. Hunter, '15

A Memory

OME, travel with me through the fields of May.
My little sweetheart of the long ago.
Come pin a rose upon my breast today
For old time's sake, and let me feel and know
That you are sweetly laughing by my side.
What bliss were mine, if such could only be!
Ah, together we would roam the country wide,
And as of old, still sing our songs of glee.

No, no, can never be, this idle dream.
Those dear days have forever taken wing;
And but the dearer grow and dearer seem
As time the years records, but still they bring
A sweetness pure and rare that mellows 'way
To sadness. And comes again that bitter hour,
When death and fate with their relentless sway
Did take my love, and holds me with its power.

STARTLING DISCLOSURES

Special Investigating Committee Unearths Scandal in College Circles

GOOD WORK OF REFORMERS

The appointment of Watson, Moore, and Swinehart as special members of the Reform Committee was to have been expected. These young men have been most prominent in the reform movement. The Committee spent the entire afternoon in questioning cadets in regard to social and religious activities. Many startling disclosures were made.

Mr. Osborn was first called to the stand.
Q. "Do you enjoy your work at Clemson?"
A. "No, I have to get up so early in the morning that I haven't time to make myself look nice."
Q. "Why should you desire to look 'nice'?"
A. "Because I meet the Colonel every morning as he comes to Chapel; I want him to see my new pressed uniform."
Q. "Do you like the professors in your department?"
A. "O, yes; but they give me low marks."
Q. "Why is that?"
A. "Because they are jealous of me. One gave me a 5 in Chemistry because my paper staggered him. Of course, I should have made a 1."
Q. "What do you think is a fellow's greatest purpose in going to college?"
A. "To learn the latest styles in drilling, and how to win the good opinion of Colonel Cummins."
Mr. Osborne was dismissed. The committee next heard from Mr. Miley, on football.
Q. "What is your name?"
A. "Jay Miley, the College Lad."
Q. "Do you play football?"
A. "I have played for five years."
Q. "What position did you play on the team?"

HOFFMAN TELLS OF FIRE

A great crowd gathered at Spartanburg to hear of the burning of Clemson's main building, during the session of 1894-95, as told by Mr. Hoffman. Mr. Hoffman described in glowing terms the great conflagration. The tireless efforts exerted by him and the other cadets were explained in detail. This story, as told by Mr. Hoffman, never grows tiresome. In addition to his splendid story of the fire, Mr. Hoffman showed several views of the new building, taken by himself during construction.

It is indeed a rare treat to have men among us who can bring to mind these old times through personal memory. Mr. Hoffman never tires of telling of the planting of the shade trees in front of Barracks No. 2. He was unanimously elected historian of the Clemson Alumni.

Hunter Joins Salvation Army

It was a great surprise to the Corps of Cadets, when the name of W. J. Hunter was placed upon the rolls of the Salvation Army. The wild, reckless life of Mr. Hunter has been familiar to all. His utter indifference to the worthy efforts of leaders of that association has been a source of wonder. Their perseverance has not been in vain; and Hunter is saved at last.

Salome Dance Given Under Auspices of Y. M. C. A.

A large crowd gathered in the Y. M. C. A. Store, at tattoo last night, to witness the Salome Dance, presented by the Y. M. C. A. From the reports, everyone was pleased with the dance. It is asserted by some that the dance was given to attract customers, in hopes they would be persuaded to purchase crackers.

FUTURE CONTEMPORARIES

Mr. J. T. Wood has accepted a position as director of the Salvation Army choir. Mr. Wood had considerable experience in this line of work while he was at Clemson College. He was director of the Association choir at Clemson. He was also Chaplain of the Class of '15.

—Greers Sun

Mr. D. J. Watson, one of Anderson County's most energetic citizens, has accepted a position with the Southern Railway (on a sleeper). He was recommended for the position by Professors Earle and Dargan, of Clemson College. His many friends wish him much success with his new position.

—The State

Among the great scientists of the modern age, Mr. B. F. Simmons stands pre-eminent. This fame is due to the recent discovery of a new planet. Mr. Simmons has been using the telescope since boyhood; it was always predicted that he would make a discovery. He has named the new planet "Mikeanus."

—Progressive Farmer

The Hon. J. T. Rosa, Member of Congress from the Ninth District, has introduced a bill which requires that the labels of all canned goods be stamped into the container. While at Clemson, Mr. Rosa borrowed a can which he supposed contained salmon, and later found out that it was a can of coal tar.

—Georgetown Monthly Review

Many friends regret that Mr. W. A. Rowell, author of the famous book, "How to Detect Deception in Women," left for Honolulu last night. Mr. Rowell, it is reported, did this in order to avoid breaking any more hearts.

—Pennsylvania Grit

The voters of Honea Path regret that Mr. J. W. Sanders, recent candidate for Adjutant-General, was defeated. Mr. Sanders, who has always had high military aspirations, even while at Clemson College, will undoubtedly run for the office again two years hence. He believes that success in military achievements is reached only through perseverance.

—Honea Path Chronicle

Mr. P. H. Senn, known everywhere as "the man who put the deal in 'Ideal' Cold Cream," recently moved from Chicago to St. Louis. He will there assume entire charge of Hoyt's German Cologne Factory. This factory selected him from a vast multitude of cologne dealers because he has always used Hoyt's Colognes so profusely.

—St. Louis Daily

The book, "Why Ladies Like Tall Men," by Mr. D. D. Buyck, the local author, has met with thunderous success. We, the editorial staff of this paper, wish Mr. Buyck the same success with his future works.

—St. Matthews Astonisher

Mr. W. E. Blake has returned to this country, after a lengthy visit across the water to Germany, where he has been doing research work in an endeavor to prove that the lightning bugs of today use direct-current magnetos instead of the alternating-current machines, as is supposed by many of the leading authorities.

—New York Intelligencer

Mr. J. C. Cannon has recently completed his first work, in the form of a book entitled, "How to Shoot 'Em." This book is selling rapidly, especially to the cadets at Clemson College of our State.

—Fountain Inn Sprinklings

Mr. W. W. Caughman, of our city, has entered suit against Mr. J. R. Clark, of this section, for an infringement on his patented method of raising disturbances without cultivation. We hope that this matter can be settled out of court, as both men are prominent in the church circles of our community.

—Learnings from Lexington

New York is delighted; millions are entertained at the O'Doud Theater, while the first presentation of a masterpiece, "The Plain Blunt Man," is enacted. This wonderful play was written by Mr. W. J. Hunter, a literary genius, and a graduate of Clemson College, S. C. His success is assured.

—The New York Sun

Mr. R. F. Jenkins was attentively listened to by a million persons yesterday. His address, "Why I Think Little, and Why I Talk a Great Deal," has created a new era in the evolution of philosophy. New Yorkers seem to think that in this respect he excels the Grecian Aristotle. Mr. Jenkins is a graduate of Clemson College. His balm is healing; his philosophy soothing.

GREAT THEFT COMMITTED

The police court of Abbeville tried the daring thief, Joe Murray, for stealing money from the Methodist Church treasury. It is thought that he was assisted in this bold robbery by his colleague, "Huffy" Dukes. Murray said, on the witness stand, that he lost the money in a "crap" game.

—Abbeville Medium

Mr. W. A. Teal has signed a contract with the Victor Talking Machine Company for fifty thousand dollars a year. Mr. Teal sings only two hours a week. He devotes the remainder of his time to the study of weevils, in which he became interested while at Clemson College.

—Saturday Blade

Hon. F. D. Stribling, chief-of-staff of the American Army, has been steadily promoted since graduation. He believes that he now rivals Napoleon in military achievements. He began this brilliant military career under J. C. Cummins at Clemson College.

—Police Gazette

Dr. A. L. Shealy, Quack Horse Doctor, has produced a new serum for the TINEAC-TINAVOSAMYCOSIS (disease of the hambago region). This serum will be of inestimable value to the breeders of terrapin.

—Christian Herald

Mr. J. A. Simpson, former graduate of Clemson College, has invented a brand of chewing tobacco known as "The Imperial High-Grade Chewing Tobacco." He guarantees nine c. c. of ambeor per .0414 grams. The manufacture of this tobacco was necessitated by the inability of Mr. Simpson to find a brand suitable to his fastidious gustomation.

A. "Well, really, you know, I never really played on the regular team. Under existing conditions, the best men don’t make the team."

Q. "State what the existing conditions are."

A. "Well, you see, Coach puts men like Schiller, McMillan, and Webb on the team, while stronger fellows are kept out."

Q. "Were you ever hurt in playing football?"

A. "One time my eye was blackened. But if a fellow plays a gentlemanly game there is slight danger. Some of the men are too rough. I am decidedly in favor of a change."

Mr. Briggs was next put on the witness stand.

Q. "Are you a student of Clemson College?"

A. "I have for four years been enrolled as a scholasticus of that institution."

Q. "Will you state whether there is any truth in the charge that you have cynical tendencies?"

A. "I am, gentlemen, entirely without any astrobilaneousness, esoteric anfractuosities of mentality, or idiosyncrasies of personality, without any insinuatory manifestations of cerebellous imbalances. Such charges are made by those who seek to injure my fame."

Hereupon the committee embraced Mr. Briggs, and dismissed him.

Mr. J. E. Norris next faced the chair.

Q. "What is your name?"

A. "None of your damned business."

Q. "Are you a member of the Y. M. C. A.?

A. "All the efforts of my vigorous constitution have been spent in the uplifting of that highly esthetic organization."

Q. "Is the Association accomplishing its object?"

A. "Can such a question be even implied, when a character so imbued with all the noble ideals which that organization sets forth stands in your honorable presence?"

Q. "So it is true that the profits of the Y. M. C. A. are unreasonably large?"

A. "Alas! that was true until Kittles became clerk, and ‘Prep’ Barnett, ‘Pij’ Iler, and ‘Cutt’ Raudle became customers."

Q. "How did that affect it?"

A. "Kittles tried to lay up money for a Fair trip, and the above-mentioned custom-among men and women, and at least passable good looks. As I say, such men as myself are not met with every day."

Q. "Is it true that undue expenses were incurred?"
A. "Well, of course, there were certain necessities, and—"

Q. "Is it true that you neglected the delegates for other ladies?"
A. "Well, you see, I met a more stunning girl than any of the delegates."

Q. "Describe the lady?"
A. "She has a head like a Cossenian oval; in front view she looks like a hyperbola, and on the side she looks like a sine curve."

Q. "Was the meeting a success?"
A. "It could not help but be, sir; I was there."

Q. "Thank you, Mr. Smith. That will do."

Mr. F. C. LeGette fought “Jake” Dillion at Reno yesterday. Mr. LeGette was slightly worsted. LeGette is a graduate of Clemson College, S. C. “Jake” Dillion is a graduate of Cladlin University.

The friends of Ditto Witty Evans will be glad to know that he has returned from Africa. For several years he has been studying the habits of the “jungle people,” especially their art of making love. He is now in California trying to win the fair hand of some “Jap” Spinster.

CLASS OF 1915

Edward Hunter, impressed by the wonderful record of the Class of 1915 during their college days, has endeavored to keep a record of their life work. He has kindly presented the Tiger with the following clippings:

We are pleased to hear that Mr. G. J. Lawhon, who graduated in the Veterinary Department of Clemson College in 1915, and who has been an efficient Corporal-Veterinarian in the United States Army for several years, has been promoted to the rank of Lieutenant-Veterinarian. He is now assured a position of luxury and ease for all time. We rejoice with him in his good fortune.

The Rev. J. J. Murray, formerly a student of Clemson College, will preach next Sunday at the Methodist Church. His sensational success in evangelistic work is often wondered at by his college-mates, who remember the wild life he led and the late hours that he kept during his college career.

This is another instance which supports an old theory that a man must first experience the pleasures of sowing wild oats before he will be able to save others from reaping what they have sown.

—Bingville Bugle

Mr. L. LeGrand, one of New York’s most promising architects, has just completed the New York Museum, for intellectual negroes of the South. He shows a masterful degree of efficiency for this particular line of work. The building is unique, in that it covers the one-thousandth part of an acre, is ten feet high, and cost the stupendous sum of $127.13. The back porch is to be used as a dance-hall, which is one of Mr. LeGrand’s “original ideas.”—Journal of American Institute of Architects.

Dr. W. K. Magill, the great and distinguished veterinarian, whose specialty is dyeing brown horses black, is to be congratulated that he has been thrice blest. Mr. W. H. Arthur has just been elected president of “The Cridercultural Society” of Virginia. The Society is to be congratulated upon selecting for this office such an able man. It is reported that he is one of the wealthiest men in Virginia. One of his old classmates confirms this statement, and says that it was no more than was expected, considering the excellent course in grafting Mr. Arthur took under Professor Crider, while at college.

—Palm Beach Observer

Last year, when Capt. D. E. Barnett resigned from the United States Army, he became one of our most noted citizens. So it is with regret that we announce that he is to leave us to join a detective agency. He says he has been immensely interested in such work ever since he detected a crook among his professors at college.

—Laurens Sentinel

“Son” Tarrant, the well-known baseball player of the Federal League, has joined the Lyceum course until the baseball season opens. He will appear here, at the Clemson College Chapel, January 19. He is a noted tenor singer. Clemson should feel justly proud of her noted son, the product of the Bowery Singing School.

Mr. Josh Ward, after graduating at Clemson College in Electrical Engineering, has been admitted to the bar. Mr. Ward is recognized by all the attorneys in the State to be the best debater in the South. —Georgetown Astonisher

At the meeting of the Methodist Conference, in Sumter, Rev. D. E. Swinehart was unanimously elected bishop of the South Carolina Conference. Rev. Swinehart has been pastor of the Methodist Church at Clemson College for the last three years. His many friends wish him much success as leader of this great denomination. —Sumter Daily Times

Mr. M. R. Smith has accepted a position as ticket seller at the Idlehour Theater. Mr. Smith was given this position because he is considered the most attractive man in town. (ad.) —Pendleton Annual

The Yale Athletic Association has secured the services of Mr. N. G. Thomas as assistant coach for this season. Mr. Thomas comes highly recommended by Coach Williams, of Clemson. Mr. Thomas played quarter on the Clemson squad for two years. —White and Blue

Mr. J. H. Trescot, a graduate of Clemson College in 1915, has joined the army. Mr. Trescot will be Major of one of the battalions. He was one of the most military men at Clemson, having reported five hundred cadets in less than three months. —Army Bulletin

Mr. E. P. DuVernet, generally known as the "Second Steinmetz," has returned home for a short visit from Alaska, where he has been experimenting in wireless power transmission to be used in the radium mining districts. —Greenville News

The citizens of White Stone are to be congratulated upon having secured the services of Mr. J. C. Foster, to give demonstrations in road construction. "Carrie's" large feet were a great factor in helping him secure this position. —Spartanburg Herald

Montrose Edmunds, a former Columbia boy, who graduated from Clemson a few years ago, is now doing some great work as assistant manager of the Parr Shoals Electric Company. —Columbia Record

Mr. E. W. Garris, the noted horticulturist, was in town Saturday with a supply of vegetables. It will be of interest to note that he has recently discovered that "sulphur" fumes are excellent for destroying diseases of tomatoes. —Round Terrier

Benedict College now has one of the best football teams, of its kind, in the South. The credit of such a team should be given to "Mutt" Gee, who has been coaching the team for the past two years. —The State

Our much beloved and tender pastor, Rev. A. S. Smoke, preached the most interesting and touching sermon, on last Sunday, that we have heard in some time. —St. Matthews Times

The Newberry Cotton Mill has been exceedingly fortunate in securing Mr. C. E. Folk as manager. Mr. Folk is a Clemson graduate, and a man of wide reputation in cotton mill circles. —Newberry Daily

In inspecting the Seventeenth Infantry, a few days ago, we were escorted over the camp by the Officer of the Day, Lieutenant Cummins, and his orderly, J. E. Glover. Mr. Glover has just been recommended for a corporal. —Washington Star

Miss Sallie Rosenbaum and Mr. J. M. Smith were married at the Baptist parsonage a few days ago. Their many friends wish them much success in the future. Mr. Smith intends to build a model toy factory, so that he can get funny and amuse the children of the neighborhood. —Starr Daily News

Mr. M. K. Gravely is fortunate in securing the services of Mr. M. A. Smith this season. Mr. Smith will have charge of all of the tobacco warehouses. Mr. Smith is a graduate of Clemson College, and is well fitted for the job. —Lake City News
It is of special interest to the public to learn that Mr. T. A. Jennings, a graduate in the Veterinary Department of Clemson College, has written a book on "How to Make Beauty." Mr. Jennings, while at Clemson, began to realize the need of a book dealing on this subject, and after graduating he took a post-graduate course at Molar Barber College in this city.

Great excitement prevailed throughout Colorado when a heavily loaded train of passengers fell thousands of feet to certain death while crossing a recently constructed bridge spanning the famous Grand Canyon. None of the passengers survived. The trestle was built on contract by Mr. R. G. Kennedy, a "Hobo" graduate of Clemson College. Because of deception to the public interest, R. G. Kennedy is now at large, a fugitive from justice.

Wonderful! Astonishing! Clemson graduate makes startling disclosure. German scientists sit up and take notice while Mr. J. D. Jones gives an address, "The Simblance of a New Dye," which treated of the transformation of opaque objects into transparent objects, to Berlin University. While the German scientists were looking closely at his experiment, Jones, by some magic power, suddenly made himself transparent, and escaped. We are not sure that he has the power to reverse the experiment.

Mr. F. L. Bunker, head of the firm, "Bunkem, Ketchum, and Cheatum," has become one of the richest men in our country, through the fact that he was able to monopolize the supply of moving picture films, and sell at his own price. It is said that he had some experience in the moving picture line while at Clemson College.

A patent has recently been granted to Mr. J. R. Clark, of this section, by the office at Washington, on his ingenious method of raising umbrellas without fertilizers.

—Lexington Lookout

Mr. Bristol, who is now a Math. professor at the University of South Carolina, has perfected a system of teaching that requires the expenditure of practically no energy. It is said that the idea is not entirely original with him, having received many of his points from a mathematics teacher at his Alma Mater.

—Beaufort Bugler

Mr. Bennie Bostick, a Clemson graduate, owns and operates on a profitable basis one of the largest and most up-to-date lettuce farms in this vicinity. His wonderful success is due in part to the instruction received from the now famous Palm Beach professor, and partly to the effect of a very valuable paper which he composed during his college days, entitled "Commercial Lettuce Growing."

—Swampville Croaker

Mr. "Sarge" Sullivan, a recent graduate of the Entomological Division of Clemson College, has recently returned from a trip abroad, where he has been pursuing some scientific research work. On his way back, he stopped at Oxford University, to deliver an address, entitled, "What a Lightning-Bug Does When It Shines," before a meeting of the American Entomological Association.

—The Laurensville Herald

Mr. George Briggs, a recent graduate of Clemson College, and now a resident of this city, has recently won much fame through his edition of a stupendous compendium of erudite knowledge, entitled, "The Encyclopaedia Difficultum Verbem Brigandierii," in which no word of over twenty letters is omitted.

—Columbia Science Leader

Mr. G. E. Berly, now a captain in the Tenth Infantry, has recently attracted much attention in scientific circles by the discovery, as a result of his constant experimental work while at Clemson College, of a new and infallible method of burning, which is effective through the thickest pods of asbestos or other resistant material.

The latest dances were exhibited last night in great style at the Charity Ball, by Mr. R. G. Causey, from Australia. The beautiful Madame Bridget O'Turke, the Ausstralian belle, was his partner. Mr. Causey is originally from South Carolina, U. S. A., where he attended Clemson College of that State. After graduating in "Ball," he went to the Australian jungles, and "bullied" the natives there into teaching him their latest and most grotesque dances, and after giving them an aristocratic finish, as he alone can do, he presents them to the world.

The Yorkville News is proud to say that one of her native boys, Marshall S. Barnett, his again been promoted in the army ranks.
He has just been made first major in the Fourth Regiment. The rapid rise from Second Lieutenant, immediately after graduation, to First Major, certainly speaks well for our former Yorkville lad. We are proud of him, and join his many friends in wishing for him even greater success.

Prof. F. S. Barnes, head of the Electrical Department at Cornell, has many "personal friends" at the Western Counting House, who will be delighted to know that he has succeeded in perfecting the most original invention of this era. He has designed a wonderful little buzzer, to be used in the army service, that will cause a current of electricity to jump twenty-five feet between connections, if the wire becomes cut.

Mr. G. N. Burnett, of Clemson College, '15, has recently accepted a position as Professor of English at Furman University, which school he attended before his entrance at Clemson College. Mr. Burnett, it is said, has a desire to turn Furman into a military college, due to the favorable impression the military life made on him at Clemson.
—Greenville Daily News

Mr. Egypt Grendel Kittles preached to a large crowd at Keowee today. His text,
"The New Creed," is startling, in that it is entirely out of harmony and inconsistent with the Apostles' Creed. Mr. Kittles took a Civil Engineering course at Clemson, but he was not able to follow it up; for the call to religious duty proved to be too strong.

WANTED: A position as plowman on a large farm. I wear a shoe No. 37 (eighteen inches wide), and guarantee to pack all dirt firmly behind the plow, so that no steam roller is needed. Write early, as I may migrate to Europe, and wed one of the rich widows who has survived the war. I am, Yours in all bigness of heart, “Farrie” Coster.
O. D. Pate: Why all this mirth?
Fresh Rat (walking past for first time, straightens up and looks serious, and answers): On account of the war.

O. G. "Brigadier" to Fresh Rat: What would you do if a most beautiful and angelic creature should happen to cross your post?
Fresh Rat: I'd call the Officer of the Guard.
O. G. "Brigadier": What would you do if an awe-inspiring militant suffragette, carrying an umbrella, should cross your post?
Fresh Rat: I'd call the Corporal of the Guard.
O. G. "Brigadier": That is quite correct. I believe you are thoroughly conversant with your orders. Take your post.

Senior Sanders (whispering to another Cadet as Professor Hare comes into the room at first meeting): "Gee, he hasn't got much hair."
Professor Hare overhears, and remarks: "No; Hare's name, not my nature."

A Cadet who had finished his problem on the board behind Professor _____'s chair, said: Professor, I've finished.
Professor _____: Whoo-oo! I can't see it. Suppose you copy it on the board in front, where I can see it.

Dr. Calhoun: Mr. Smoke, if you were a drop of water, and sank down three or four thousand feet, what would become of you?
"Preacher" Smoke's imagination takes him down into the unfathomable depths, but he finally comes to, with a s'gh of relief, and answers: I don't know, Professor, but I guess there would not be another "Smoke."

Vaughan (whispering to a Cadet behind him in the English Exam.): Say, what kind of poetry did Milton write? Epidemic poetry, wasn't it?

Can someone kindly explain where "Kitty" Cathcart kept his chew of tobacco, while he starred in the "Romancers"?

*NOTE—All jokes printed here are guaranteed eighteen karat.

Cureton (in classroom): Professor, I will have to use Napoleon logarithms to get that problem.

"Old Top" Rivera (returning from the Cadet Exchange): I told him for some, and he asked me "No."
The junior is still in search of his cigar stump, which P. D. Stribling smoked.

What is the reason that Ebenezer Grinell Kittles and J. Miley (The College Lad) deny the charge that they were stoned while returning from a society call?

"Sing Number 99, No. 99. This is one of 'Bob' Sweeney's favorite poems."

"Jojo" refuses to lend his clawhammer coat to one of the Ladies' Men. Why?

Bob Sweeney: I am learning Hamlet's soliloquy now.
Jojo: You had better be learning the Devil's soliloquy.

SONG: "Why Not Tonight?" composed by Dr. Hugh Enry Ukes. An appealing song for generous and gifted folks, but capable of producing morbid effects in the minds of poor debtors.
SONG: "My Love Is Like the Red, Red Rose," composed by Junter, H. W. A pure, sparkling gem, to inspire faith in the hearts of the most abject victims of false loves. Really the one soothing note of the season is touched. All hopeless bachelors and old maids should not be without a copy.

FOR SALE: "Revised Manual of Arms Par Excellence," by Sir Henry B. Darker. A most wonderful production, containing commands heretofore unthought of in military lines, but of great use in theoretical battles. All captains who expect to become great generals should not be without a copy.
WANTED

A good barber for the English Department.
To know who is that Crum on the Faculty.
An automatic chair-turning and roll-calling device.
A good method to keep trousers from bagging at the knees.
A saddle for a cornstalk horse of another color.
To see a dollar bill.
A marine corps for drill on rainy days.
To know how to hold up socks without using thumbtacks.
To know what is so rare as a day in June.
A new kind of pill.
A self-eraser for a lecture-room in the Chemistry Building.
To know if a bull is a male cow.
To know how a hare can raise poultry.
A new brand of hot water for the mess-hall.
To know how many acres of cotton bulls raise before they are killed for beef.

WANTED: A place where all care is blown away to the winds, and sweet and gentle maidens to sit with laughing eyes upturned from beneath flowing curls and gaze into my own eyes forever and a day. I shall be charmed to receive an immediate answer.—E. W. Dyans.

WANTED

Expert young woman tennis player.
Besides being very lithe and graceful, must be of surpassing beauty (beautiful brown hair and adorable eyes preferred). No old maids need apply. Will appreciate an early reply

ROE T. JOSA
An Elegy Written in a Cold Barracks

The bugle early blows the dawn of breaking day,
The chilly winds blow wet across the lea;
And soon to barracks, Colonel plods his weary way
To ope our doors, and look for you and me.

No heat has tinkled in our radiators yet,
No amperes yet disturb our carbon lamps;
We hurry out to rainy reveille, and get wet,
And then we feel like hungry, freezing tramps.

We look aloft, to try to tell the time by sun—
That golden planet ne'er has thought to rise,
And just before we back to barracks break and run,
We're deluged by the cloudy, dripping skies.

We stand around in our cold rooms and try to swear,
Our teeth begin to chatter in our heads,
Our words pour forth; we know they never treat us fair,
By letting us crawl back into our beds.

We hover around, our minds with pleasant memories filled
Thoughts rambling back to pleasant days of yore,
When men were men, and Senior Privates never drilled,
But now do what they never did before

No more for them the blazing cigarette does burn,
No more they gaily free the night from care;
At ten o'clock, they promptly from their jaunts return,
Lest by hard luck they circle Cummins' Square.

Let not ambitious sergeants mock their plodding walk,
Nor grinning corporals laugh at them today;
Seniors should never cease their prattling, wasted talk;
They are the fools that crowd our walking way.

To you who have the nerve to read this line of bosh,
A couplet we to your attention call:
"Captains and Lieuts. are but the wayward breath of Josh,
The Senior Private's the noblest of them all."

One Hundred Seventy-Five
The Seniors' Rubaiyat

AKE, for the man who scattered into flight
Thou hundred students from this school of Light.
Bids us come back, diplomas to pursue:
Stay here nine months, and then, forsooth, be through.

In those fair months when days and checks are brief,
We pick up books that bring us to grief.

Each morn a thousand bugles blow, you think;
Ye Gods! methinks 'twould drive a man to drink;
And this first Autumn month that brings the drill
Brings extras also; they enough to kill.

Oh, list ye to the Seniors' merry chant:
"A dope, a cheese, a cigarette, and thou
Beside me, sitting in the restaurant,
Oh, restaurant were Paradise now."

Some for the glories of this world, and some Sigh for the Colonel's praises sweet, to come:
Take shoulder bars, and office too, and go
On to that place where chilly winds don't blow.

Yon fatted calf, that looks for you and me,
Would give us extras, and never let us be
Free as we will, to roam the world again.
How oft, hereafter, will be burn in pain?

When roll the months and Christmas winds blow raw,
We homeward hie, and turkey-bones do gnaw

In April days, when rains come pouring down,
And springs for Nature a faint, violet crown.
The day shall come when Sweeney sweetly sings,
And joyous laughter to our faces brings

I sometimes think that never grows so sad,
Days like these days, the best we've ever had;
However wet old Cummins Square may be,
We walk our hours together, you and me.

And the reviving dope, with cold, crisp glass,
Cause many a fond memory to pass:
Thus: Lately through the cafe doors agape.
Came gliding to my chair an Angel Shape—
She sips the drink, and bids me lift mine eyes:
I look up. Not there! Vanished through the skies.

Ode to Spent Money

When I consider how my money's spent,
The "filthy lucre" that buys cheese and dopes,
I sometimes think that all my busted hopes
Remind me of the coin that I have lent.

Could I but swipe my eats, as some men do,
The cost of living would, methinks, go down;
And then I'd spend my kale for those sweet things
Men call cigars; also the weed to chew
I'd have. That thing, the military crown,
That some on bended knee would win, now clings
Upon the forehead of a "pick-thank" man.
For things thus base, some men would money spend;
And linger through their days of "drillful" bliss.
Why men will sacrifice to live like this,
The PLAIN BLUNT MAN can never comprehend.
"Can you make both ends meet at school?" you ask:
Far sooner could I make Bob Sweeney work,
And in the soiled earth his hands to smirch;
By far, you understand, an easier task,
Drive then, this thought into your crusty pate:
"They also earn, who in the Mess-Hall wait."

—J. G. Todd
Football Season

Nothing reckoning the success of a season, the summing of the scores is not the only thing to be considered. Many other things count greatly. Improvement, development of material for following years, etc., must also be considered. It can be said that our season was successful. It was an improvement over the previous; and a better season yet is anticipated for next year, as it will be the third year of "King Bob's" regime.

It is true that the schedule for last season was a hard one, as there was not a single Varsity game played on the campus. This was unavoidable in arranging the schedule, and was compensated for by having Scrub and Freshman games on the campus, and by the "Saturday Afternoon Matinees." Too much praise cannot be given to our loyal Alumni, who supported and helped us in every way possible—even to the extent of the furnishing of the Freshman team by the Atlanta Alumni Chapter.

Varsity Schedule

In the first game of the season, Davidson tied us on their home gridiron, October 3. At Knoxville, October 10, we lost to the University of Tennessee, in a hard game, by the score of 27-0.
Auburn won from us on their home grounds, October 17, by a score of 28-0.
A practice game was played, October 24, against Furman, at Greenville, the score being 36-0 in our favor.
Our luck took a turn when we romped over our old rival, Carolina, October 29, at the Fair Grounds in Columbia, by a score of 29-6.
From Columbia, the team went to Charleston, and procured another victory in defeating the Citadel, 14-0, October 31.
On November 7, another old rival, Georgia, was defeated, 35-14, at Athens.
The team then went to Richmond, and on November 14 defeated Virginia Military Institute, in a hard-fought game, by the score of 27-23.
On Thanksgiving Day we suffered, not our greatest defeat, but the one that hurt us most. Georgia Tech defeated us, in a slow and dragging game, by the score of 26-6.

Scrub Schedule

On October 10, our scrubs romped over Clarkesville, on campus, to the tune of 62-0.
Georgia Reserves were defeated at Abbeville, October 20, by a score of 26-0.
The Scrubs fared better in their last game of the season than did the Varsity, by defeating Gordon, on the campus, October 25, by a score of 26-0.

Freshman Schedule

Riverside was defeated on the campus, October 17, by a score of 6-0.
Defeat was met at the hands of the Georgia Freshmen, in Athens, October 24; the score being 20-0.
On October 30, the Freshmen tied P. C. of S. C., in a close and hard-fought game on the campus, 6-6.
Wofford Scrubs were defeated, on the campus, November 14, by a score of 19-8.
Total points by C. A. C. (all teams)—215.
Total points by Opponents—104.

Schilletter, Captain

James, Manager

Two Hundred Three
McMillan  Quarterback

The star of the season. His brilliant playing and head work was responsible for the winning of several games. The fastest man on the team.

Littlejohn  Right Tackle

Strong on defense. Second year on team.

Arthur  Quarterback

First year on the team. A player of good judgment, and a strong and fierce tackler.

Suggs  Right Guard

One of the “Center Trio,” who uses his hands to good advantage on defensive work.

Stribling  Right End

A fast end, who was out of the game a great deal on account of injuries. Very fast, and a hard worker.

Gee  Left End

Hardest tackler on the team, and good on breaking up end runs.
Webb  Fullback
Captain, and fourth year on the team.
Strong on defense and offense, and a good punter.

Randle  Center
One of the best centers in the State.
Strong on breaking through the line and getting plays.

Major  Right Halfback
Strong on defense. Also good on punting, and hard to stop on end runs and line backs.

Captain of next year's team. Seldom fails to gain ground; and aggressive at all times.

Harris  Left Halfback
A good punter and ground gainer.
First year on the team. Uses his head well, and keeps cool.

Jennings  Left End
A hard worker, who was out of the game for a time on account of sickness. First year on the team.

The 1914 Season

Last year, the Athletic Association was fortunate in securing a local man as coach—Roberson, a former Clemson star in baseball. The Tigers captured the State Championship rather easily, as usual, and made a strong showing among the teams of the S. I. A. A. In Schachte and Gaulden, two new men, was found a pitching staff that worked like veterans, and backed by one of the best infields in the South, and a fast, hard-hitting outfield, they seldom failed to win their games in good style.

Webb at first, Cureton at Short, and Parker at third were a trio that starred throughout the season, the three hitting for an average of around .350. Captain Webb made All-Southern, while Cureton received mention for a place; Tarrant, Brown, Webb, Gaulden, and Cureton made places on All-State, while Parker was recognized as the fastest infielder in the South.

Below is a summary of the season's hitting:

HE future of the team is indeed bright. We were unfortunate in losing two of our standard point runners, Ward and Lewis, but we almost have our old team intact.

Jackson, LeGrand, Adams, James, Odom, and others will take care of the sprints, while great things are expected of McMahon, Verner, and Stribling in the hurdles. Verner, Stribling, and others will vault, while Cox and Stribling will handle the weights. We predict a successful season for Clemson.

Two Hundred Sixty-Two Retreat

RIPPLING, fold on fold, Old Glory waves
Within the sunset’s slanting rays
While the buglers sound retreat
The echoing hills catch up the strain
And pass it back and forth again,
’Till all the air grows wildly sweet.

Then sweeter still the nation’s song
Thrills the heart and makes us strong
While that flag is furled to rest.
And in the half-light of the hour
A something feel we of the power
That girds us ’round and throns the breast.

Sweet hour that marked the end of day
And made us young and strong and gay
For years, now marks a fond adieu.
And from these scenes we now depart
Deeply touched in life and heart.
But determined to be true.

—W. J. Hunter, ’15

Two Hundred Sixty-Three
The End

With faces grim, with eyes grown dim,
With fingers all crippled and sore,
We write these lines, turn down our steins,
And close the sanctum door.
We've worked like mad for every ad,
From air compressors to pills;
We've done our best—
God give us rest,
And cash to pay the bills.
IT'S ALL OVER.

Value of a Technical College Education

A young man can make no better investment than in a technical education. Viewed merely as a matter of business, even if he has to borrow the money at interest, he will find that his increased earning capacity will, perhaps even the first year after graduation, be sufficient to repay the loan. It is a poor business policy to wait to earn the money necessary to pay for an education, with an earning capacity only one-half or one-third that of an educated man. Every year of untrained, uneducated labor represents a direct financial loss. Every boy of ability and ambition, whose parents are unable to pay for his education, should get some friend to endorse his note at the bank, and begin preparation that will make for greater earning capacity and a fuller life. There is no time to lose. The world is looking for 1,000 horse-power men, and is willing to pay for them.
There is already a surplus of the one-horse-power variety.

A College education is no longer a luxury of the rich, but more a necessity of the poor boy whose parents can give him little or nothing to start on. In earning capacity, a College education represents at the outset a capital of from $15,000 to $30,000, depending upon the energy, character, and personality of the possessor; and the capital increases with every year of its efficient use.

There never was a time in the history of the world when expert knowledge was so much in demand, so indispensable to individual success, and so highly compensated.

Clemson College brings within the reach of every boy in South Carolina the benefits and possibilities of a technical education. He is here offered an opportunity to enjoy some of the good things of life. The way is provided whereby, if he have the ambition and capacity for knowledge, he need not continue in ignorance. Here, at a cost lower than at any similar institution, can a young man obtain an education second to none.

Keep Your Insurance Money at Home

Did you know that between five and six million dollars were sent out of this State annually for Life Insurance premiums alone? Think of what an era of prosperity we would have in South Carolina if this money were kept in the State each year.

We represent the only South Carolina Old Line Legal Reserve Life Insurance Company. With thousands of satisfied policyholders over the State, it has won and deserves the consideration, the business, and the praise of every loyal, patriotic South Carolinian, who wants to aid in the upbuilding and development of his State. Every dollar of the premiums collected is kept in South Carolina, and invested in first mortgages on South Carolina real estate.

Our policies are brief, liberal, and clearly expressed, with a guaranteed low cost.

Think it over, and take your next policy in the Southeastern. We have the experience, and can advise you intelligently in regard to the policy best suited to your needs.
