To Our Mothers,

Whose distinguished and self-forgetting services,
Amidst all the vicissitudes of life,
Whose faith in the ultimate success of American young-manhood,
Whose fortitude and approval have made Defeat bearable and victory sweet,
Whose priceless virtues of sacrifice, truth and liberty Have brightened the future for all,
We, in warmest love and affection, Do dedicate this volume of Taps.

JOHN ROBERT ADAMS
Collier, S. C.

"O, gentlemen, the time of life is short!
To spend that shortness basely were too long."

HORTICULTURE

Palmetto Literary Society; Y. M. C. A.; '19 Club; American Legion; Senior Dancing Club; Sec., Tr. Edgefield County Club; Horticultural Club; Vice-President Edgefield County Club; Pres. Edgefield County Club '20.

Yes, several years ago there came a pert lad from the obscure recesses of Colliers, S. C. The person in question is none other than our hale and hearty "Red" Adams. He, being dissatisfied with his conception of life, decided upon this "Heaven of Dreams" as a site to build his future wide expanse of knowledge on the subject of horticulture. The war intervened, however, and the lad's meanderings in life were entirely changed for a couple of years. Anyway, "Red" returned to us with the same optimistic smile and care-free life that has always been so characteristic of him. With his straightforwardness and ambition to conquer, "Red" has won a host of friends who predict that his future will be strewed with roses and that some pretty girl will be proud to say, "My own dear Robert."

In a year unknown, "Red" ventured from the quiet town of Lowndesville into the gates of our institution of learning. He, however, claims Washington as his home now. We wonder why.

But he entered into the depths of various and sundry kinds of knowledge, principal among which is the wiles of the vampire, and the actions of a skyscraper under the stresses of the elements. For, my gentle reader, "Red" is an architect, renowned in and around our "College of the Foothills."

Rembert has an enviable disposition, one that attracts and holds the friendship of all those who come in contact with him. He is a diligent worker, a serious-minded student, and one who is likely to make his college and native home proud of him; and we predict that before long he will have started an American Renaissance in architecture.

Among the outstanding features of the class of ’20, we find him—just plain “Suber.” He belongs to the Greenwood gang, it’s true; but his pleasing disposition and good traits of character give him de cided credit. He has proved conclusively that a cheerful word and a pleasant smile will inevitably bring about true comradeship. Marion’s easy man-ters and fluent command of his mother tongue enable him to easily adapt himself to any situation, as is frequently shown by the effectiveness of his reveille explanations.

When the soft strains of “Home Sweet Home” are wafted by the early morning breeze, he is generally engaged in the ancient art of picking them up and laying them down.

“Suber” must have chosen his course wisely, for it was largely due to his ability that the Clemson Judging Team won a high place at the National Dairy Show, in competition with other colleges from all over the country.

Allison, with the accent on the broad “A,” says his home town is Blacksburg. Then there are those who say that “Switzer” once passed through Blacksburg en route to a summer camp at Petersburg, Virginia. Regardless of all that, they must play football in his native heath, for “Switzer” has been Clemson’s regular fullback for quite a time. Then there must be many social events in his country, because he makes them “fall” with equal regularity upon gridiron and dance floor. But “Switzer” wins both friends’ and girls’ hearts, because he claims that the man with his hat in his hand and a smile on his face gets on in the world.

He tells us that he specializes in engineering, his professors tell us that he doesn’t. Take your choice.
At any rate, it is partly due to J. “Switzer” Allison that Clemson has her place in the football sun.
DENNIS MALONE ALTMAN

"I can smile at the hand that is raised to slay me."

HORTICULTURE

Corporal; Sergeant; 1st Lieutenant; Senior R. O. T. C.

A few years ago there originated in Galivants Ferry a lad who is destined to excite no little public sentiment. Being led by an ardent desire to revolutionize his "briar patch" in the science of Horticulture, Clemson alone lay as his objective. Unfortunately, an acute attack of rheumatism disabled him, but upon recuperation he received a hearty welcome into the class of '20. "Froggie" possesses the friendship and admiration of all that know him; furthermore, the ostentatious conspicuity of his lubricious phraseology effects the dissolution of all the fairer sex (sentimentally), and oftentimes knocks 'em dead. He displays unusual mental abilities, and will certainly be successful when he returns to guide and accelerate the eager hearts of his Ferry by imparting to them the knowledge he obtained in the diligent pursuit of his course at Clemson.

It was while attending the Lowryville High School that the desire to go to college took root in Tommy's system. As the best is none too good, he came to Clemson. From the first Tommy has been a studious boy, and, as a result, has "shot" his professors for four years.
Chemistry is his specialty, and he can be found spending much of his time in the laboratory learning the uses of alcohol but never uses any himself. Tommy takes the sunny view of everything. He wears a cheerful countenance at all times and has a smile for everyone he meets. He is a little timid with the ladies, but we have reasons to believe that he will win some fair damsel's heart by other means than words. We know that "Andy" is bound to be heard from later in the fields of chemistry.

Behind the spotlight of football fame, we find "Booboo," and the wonderful part about it all is that he is just plain "Booboo." He has taken his credit and his glory with that manly spirit, characteristic of the ideal—the spirit of modesty, of self-equality. Possibly that is why he is so generally known, respected and admired by his fellow-students. And so, we might go ahead and tell of his successes in all other activities, but enough is said when we add that he has been a boon to every enterprise he has ever entered.

Our prediction for "Booboo" is that he will attain the zenith of success in his chosen profession. He leaves with the good wish and good will of all.

Who hassoed this specimen and brought him to college is more than we know; but it is difficult to give in so few words a fair description of such a worthy character, one who is doing more than merely "getting by."

Such desire and ability to "drink deep of that Persian spring" is rarely seen among college boys. We envy him his unusual skill in "shooting" the "profs." But, along with his brilliance, honesty, perseverance, and agreeableness is linked one failing (?)—that of "falling" for the ladies. He is an ardent admirer of a certain South Carolina college; and, when that name is mentioned, a smile that betrays his inward happiness plays over his countenance. But let us hope that his sound judgment will dominate his sentimentalities. With absolute confidence that he will make a great success, we all join heartily in a fond farewell.

Who have we in our midst now? It is A. R. Ballenger, the youth who laid aside his rod and gun to come to Clemson to prepare for the great struggle that lies ahead. Seeing wires stretched from pole to pole, which led him into town, he decided to take up the study of that mysterious element which is conveyed so swiftly through these wires; therefore, he is a member of the happy gang of “Cripites.” Albert’s greatest ambition is to make greater achievements than our old friend, Dr. Steinmetz. His cheerful disposition, combined with his good traits, has won him many friends. He is a hard worker, has the ability to think clearly, and the capacity of seeing tasks done in an efficient manner. We can but predict that Wellford has put forth one of the greatest coming engineers.

From the noted town of Rock Hill, the home of bonnie wee girls and of touring cars, came this youngster. It is not altogether inappropriate then that he is known far and wide as “Doc.” for many are the times that he has ministered to hearts and the like that seemed in the rapid stage of deterioration, pining away from a nameless melancholy. In years, “Ske” is one of the firstlings of our flock; yet an old head rests upon the apex of his spinal column. All the lad says he calls chemistry his only love; yet we know that hearts are in the game and that at last he will succumb. Anyway, he is delving into a science that “surpasses the old miracles of mythology.”
“Doc” is seldom caught unprepared in the classroom; and his eagerness, enthusiasm, forthrightness, and desire and love for truth are qualities that cannot but make him a credit to his Alma Mater.

This short, stout, light-haired boy wandered away from Anderson in the fall of '16 and found himself at a burg called Clemson, where he remained for four years. Although he had never seen a briar patch, he took Ag and has since trudged the long and difficult paths of theoretical farming. "J. C." or "Jasper," as he is called, is quiet and unassuming. His cheery word of greeting and his smile have won him many friends, and he has been characterized by his friendliness to all and his readiness to help others. To really know this lad, one has to be intimately associated with him.

In the fall of '18, he went to the Officers Training School at Camp Gordon, and was working hard for one of Uncle Sam's commissions when the Kaiser yelled "Kamerad." After being discharged he returned to Clemson. Horticulture is his chosen work, and we all wish for him every success in his chosen work.

CHEMISTRY
Private; Corporal; First Lieutenant, Recording Secretary, Prosecuting Critic Hayne Literary Society; Chemistry Club; Spartanburg Club; Senior Bible Class; R. O. T. C., Camp Lee, Va.; American Legion.

It is reported that the whole town of Inman turned out to see Walter G. Bishop board the train for Clemson. Even the undertaker was present, thinking that he would soon have a job. Despite all these evil omens, Grady has made good at Clemson. His congenial and honest nature have made many friends for him. He is an earnest supporter of all college activities, and he is an especially hard literary society worker.

Grady's chosen profession is chemistry. As a laboratory worker he is hard to beat. Likewise he has no mean ability in "shooting" the other professors. We feel sure that if he follows up the work he will some day be a famous analytical chemist.

Bishop is a firm believer in the fairer sex. Some day in the near future, we predict that there will be a quiet home wedding solemnized in Inman. Here's the best of luck to you, old boy.

"M. I." or "Joe" came to us in the fall of ’16 with a strong determination to make good and hold up the traditions of the Electric City from which he hails. With this in view, Joe has taken great interest in athletics. Basketball is his specialty, winning his block "C" in this branch. Forward is his position on the quintet. He was also one of our representatives on the tennis team during his junior and senior years.

In the fall of ’18, he left with a bunch of other Tigers to serve his country. As he was nearing his commission, November 11 rolled around and everything was off—Bill had quit. Military ambitions were lost forever, and he returned to finish with his class.

As a student he is very diligent, and succeeded from the beginning to "shoot" the "Pros" exceedingly well. Judging from his past, we predict that there is a successful future awaiting him.

Class Basketball Team; American Legion.

Four years ago, Manning, generally known as "Young Black," came from the city of Anderson to unite with the Tiger clan, and he has made a true one. M. J. stood near the top of the list in the academic line. As to athletics, he was one of the best tennis players in college, representing us in two tournaments held in Columbia. He was a hard worker on the basketball squad, making the sub-team three years. The senior class team was led to the championship by him. The signing of the armistice was the only thing that kept him from a commission in the U. S. A. After being discharged, he came back with the "bunch" to finish.

His good fellowship has won for him a host of friends, and we all predict success for Manning as he goes out into the world.

In September 1913, "Bob" entered Clemson. His ability to sing, together with his splendid character and sunny disposition, soon made him a favorite with the boys. In the spring of '17, he entered the first Officer's Training Camp and received a commission as second lieutenant of infantry, being later promoted to the rank of 1st lieutenant. After serving his country for almost two years, he returned to Clemson determined to win his "sheepskin" with the class of '20.

"Bob" is a true southern gentleman; what more can be said of any man? His ability as a leader and his devotion to duty can but make for success in any profession he may choose to follow. A host of friends wish for "Bob" every success as he takes his departure from his Alma Mater.

Behind his unassuming manner, he has a reserve force of power and strength of character. Boggs is a man who thinks a lot and acts only on his own convictions. He came to us in 1917 from Davidson. He brought with him ideals that are essential to success, and has held to them. He is the mainstay of the Chemistry Club, a staunch supporter of the "Y," and landmark at all the Y. M. C. A. conferences all over the country. Besides all this, Boggs has completed the last side of the triangle by making quite an enviable record in athletics. He expects to take up surgery, and with his surgical instruments will carve his way to success.

Four years ago, "Cliff" decided to give up the full life of Charleston, and he jumped away to the woody wild of Clemson. His cheerful "don't give a - ain't won for him a host of friends, Cliff first intended to become just a plain "aggie," but as the price of "ball" continued to rise, he saw business future along that line and pursued his studies accordingly. He has a wonderful way of handing "ball" to his "profs," and, if he can judge it equally as well, there will be no limit to his accomplishment later on.

"Cliff" loves the ladies, and nothing suits him better than to get a letter from the "City by the Sea." He had no military ambitions till his senior year, and then connected up with the Colonel's staff. Here's to "Cliff," and may your future be as bright and prosperous as were your days spent with us.

Of course everybody likes "Bobby"...it is just his way to be a friend to all. Four years away from home and away from the presence of his "ideal" has strengthened his zealous character and has made him a bigger man. It was due to his persistence and steadfastness that he became one of Uncle Sam's lieutenants during the World War. After the termination of the "Big Scrap," "Bobby" returned to college and quickly got the electric wires connected and the motors humming. His reserved habits and sound judgment have made him a good student. Among the ladies and his associates, he is always the true gentleman.

As other sons of old York have done, he too, will delve deep into the intricate science of electricity, and at some future time his engineer will enlighten his country with his luminous intellect.

"Gaiter" is a fox from the Swamp Fox town and is certainly a shark when it comes to a financial transaction. "Gaiter's" ability to handle the fair sex is well known; and, although, he claims not to have any special choice, he often makes a tour to a distant part of the State for reasons unknown. He is one who is naturally capable and studies very little; although he is taking one of the hardest courses here. Judging from the interest he took in automobiles the past summer, he will probably enter the automobile business upon the completion of his electrical course here. "Gaiter" has many friends in the corps who will wish him much success in his life's work.

And this is Eddie; known amongst the fair sex as "Honey B" and by the he-sex as a true friend. The story goes that Eddie learnt everything that the high school could impart; so he came to Clemson. The general public and this bad got acquainted when he undertook to sell "need no washing" collars to the Eskimos of McFeeley's army. And does he love the ladies, and does he dance? He does 'em to perfection. Eddie has had the honorable career of backing the military game four years with a clean sleeve. He has but two objects in view; to be a friend to all and to be an electrical engineer. With his winning smile and his engineering ability, we cannot but predict for him success in both.

Tom’s college career began in 1914, and it was his greatest ambition to learn the scientific arts of dairying. He has made many friends among the boys and everyone holds him in their highest esteem, for you will find him the same tomorrow as you found him yesterday. He is an efficient leader, always ready to meet what might come and capable to remove any obstacle in his path to future success.
After his junior year, he enlisted in the Signal Corps, U. S. A., and was soon made a first sergeant. After training "rookies" eleven months, Tom sailed for France; returning eight months later as a 2nd lieutenant, O. R. C. After two years absence, he is back with a determination to make good in his chosen life work, and all of his friends wish him a life a future success filled with happiness.

“Dennis” entered Clemson as an engineering student in 1913; but, seeing the error of his way, he cast aside his instruments and gripped the plow handle with the “aggies” of ’18. “Bru” soon established himself in the hearts of all that knew him, as a friend, a good man and true. Like others of his class, at the end of his junior year, he forsook studying and enlisted in the greatest army on earth.
As a member of the 61st Coast Artillery Corps, Dennis spent a year at Fort Moultrie and then departed for the battlefields of France. After spending seven months overseas, he returned to Clemson to renew his acquaintances with old friends and studies. In whatever capacity “Bru” may attempt to serve, he will make good for he possesses those sterling qualities that go to make a man. His classmates and many friends wish for him a happy and successful career as he starts out on the road of life.

Though hardly out of sight of Seneca, his native town, John stopped at Clemson and took up abode in the sphere of knowledge. After steadily climbing the pathway that leads to the senior class, John has reached the goal and is to graduate. While at Clemson, he has shown rare traits and has made many friends.

John is a conscientious student and has all the characteristics that go to make up a man, and, greatest of all, he is a friend worth having. All would not be told if we did not say that John is fond of the ladies, just as they are fond of him, though it is hard to say where his true love resides. As to the final outcome we will say that he will marry a fair, sweet damsel.

The little town of Winnsboro contributed "Dick" to the class of '20 with a feeling of pride in the fall of '16. Little did the fairest of the town dream of the changes four year's habitat among the foothills of the Piedmont would produce in him, and now the sighs which accompanied his farewell have been transformed into longings for his return.

Through four years of struggle, "Dick" has remained a loyal member of class '20, and is one of whom we are justly proud. To know "Dick" is to admire him, for his congenial manners and hearty handshake are ever ready to greet you. With such excellent traits and such rigid determination, we can predict only a brilliant career in whatever "Dick" undertakes; and, as consolation to some unknown damsel, we prophesy that before the ink on his "sheepskin" will have dried, he will have besieged and captured some fair maiden.

The above named "Chap" is a remarkable one in many respects. He hails from the very populous rural section of Greenville county. He, having high aspirations, early entered the "Prep" class of Clemson College, then under the domain of "King" Sease. His application to work was ideal and his advancement satisfactory. He, however, for various and sundry reasons, dropped out of college for a period of several years. When he finally returned, the call to the colors broke into his college career, and he was forced to leave again.
"Chap," after securing his discharge, again turned his eyes Clemsonward, and is now an honored member of the present senior class. We predict for "Chap," in the future, a career even more brilliant than has been his college record.

Here he is, just fresh from Clemson, and a standing model for all. Desirous of obtaining the best there is and risking his life to get it, he bought a ticket to Clemson. He braved the dangers of the Blue Ridge and finally landed in the nest of the Tigers. Roy, called such by the fair ones, soon learned to walk around very lightly.
He is an ardent admirer and a favorite "Shiner" among the ladies. In fact, he has to carry a stick to drive 'em off when he goes to Anderson College. Daily he greets the P. O.; and every Saturday, he and a "Fliver" are seen heading towards Anderson. He spent four years for the cause of

In September of '16, "I. Heck," the blushing countryman, paid a sad and lingering farewell to Renno, his beloved old briar patch in the wild woods of Laurens, and started for a four-year sojourn in Tigertown. His optimistic nature and progressive endeavor have made him a winner. A farmer by nature, and proud of his profession, he hired up with the agronomists, purposing to put into practice all the theory that Prof. Blackwel should attempt to expound including the heredity of blue eyes.

His broad intellect, his large store of common sense, and his sound judgment are evidences that he shall receive his share of honors in a life of noble success. As a friend, he is always ready to lend a helping hand; and though he does not appear to be a ladies' man, we predict that, ere he has traveled far along the paths of bachelorhood, he will follow "JoJo's" advice and take unto himself a pretty young lady and a good South Carolina plantation.

George decided not to withhold his many talents from a needy world; so he cast his lot with us in the fall of '16. Being fresh from Renno, he was somewhat wild at first but was soon tamed, however, under the strenuous course of training given him by the older members of the corps. George became a model "rat," always conspicuous by his absence on most occasions. This lad passed successfully through this stage of metamorphosis and came back to make good his intention of cutting reveille and entertaining the "rats." These things he did, and he has been with us ever since, except when the call of Uncle Sam carried him to Camp Jackson for seven months.

We will miss him when he is gone, for his cheerful disposition has won him many friends; but we all wish him great success in his chosen field of Agronomy.

Once the little town of Summerville turned loose one of its wildest citizens and hooked him for passage to Clemson, where under the influence of authority, a great change has taken place in the young man's life. "Herman Oswald" is now one of the brightest and most liked inmates of the school.

"Cootie" came to Clemson with a bean chocked full of math and has always taken great pleasure in astounding his "profs" with his knowledge of facts and figures. Upon declaration of war with Germany, Herman went to camp and took it upon himself to make for his Uncle Summie a promising officer. "Cootie" is now a member of the class of '26, and his many friends predict for him a wonderful future, provided the bewitching smiles of Venus do not get him for another henpecked victim.

This tall, handsome young man is known familiarly as "X" and was a former '19 man.

In June 1918, he entered an officer's training camp at Plattsburg Barracks, N. Y., from which he emerged, in due season, with a commission as 2nd Lt. of Infantry. He then put in five month's hard work training "rookies" at Camp Grant for the "Big Scrap."

On the dancing floor, "X" is a star, being a past master of the Terpsichorean art. To catalogue his virtues and good qualities would require a volume, but suffice it to say that his splendid nature has made him a favorite with the boys. When it comes to a need of shrewdness and loquacity of dealings in occasions of great moment, we have learned to look to "X"—hence his position on the cooperative committee for three years. The best wishes of his many friends go with him as he leaves the halls of old Clemson.

During his senior year, "Molly" has worried with two afflictions, both beginning with the letter "J." We hope that in civil life he will not have any such satellites. We can but predict success for this curly-headed youngster, this gay old boy who fills our lives with brightness here. "Molly" expects to enter the theatrical profession. Not far away from Clemson is the great and renowned city of Pendleton. In the heart of the city, a sad scene was taking place. "Bob" was being torn from his mother's arms and sent to a bi'j college four miles away. He came here in a "flivver;" and, after unloading his "glad rags," settled down in a company. Robert, being a violinst, craved music; therefore, he got a slide trombone and soon became a marvel on the slippery instrument. "Bob" is a past master of the art of writing letters, and receives four and five daily. But let's forget his minor faults since his merits are so numerous. "Bob" will break his neck to help a fellow; he will lend his last nickel; he will stick by you. He intends to be a mechanical engineer, and a man with his qualities is sure to win.

"J. V." came to us from the "City of Success." In him we can boast of a jack of all trades, for as yet, we have found no subject with which he is not entirely familiar. This lad cast his lot with the hard "G" Company gang his "rat" year, but changed to the band because of his love of music and his great dislike of reveille. He is one of the brightest boys of our class, although he has never been known to study, but he can concentrate and think deeply. "Snake" is the term of endearment that we all use in speaking of him, our dear brother. He originated in Laurens—that loud little spot in South Carolina made famous by her prominent sons at Clemson. In his native haunts he is a dear, especially among the women, and we find him the same way at school. He is not really militarily inclined, but the glories of a military office have been thrust upon him, due partly to his ability as a leader and partly to his military mein.

Although he has not impaired his health by study, his record as a student is an enviable one. With his easy manners, congenial disposition, and sincerity he has drawn about him a host of friends, and with these and many other noble characteristics we feel that he is amply provided to fight life's battles. Among that brawny and noted "rat" tribe to little conglomerate of ire, wit, and determination.

By the optimistic flash of his grey eyes and that

"Gus" came from Cottageville, the promising stock-raising section of the state, to which he as-

He has for a long time been an ardent admirer of the fair sex, and when his ideal country damsel dons her cap and flashes her bright eyes in his

a twinkling and he will be in an ecstasy of love-

This "fair representative" of the Game Cock County four years ago decided thusly: "As for my part, I'll take Clemson," What a wise decision to make! He came with a determination to see the long and tedious four-year game played to a finish. And thus he has done most admirably. He has performed the task well, keeping in mind that "discretion is the better part of valor."
Long ago, "Lockey" learned that all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy. He has strong social inclinations. The ladies have taken advantage of this fact, and a "few favorite ones" take up a part of his time, but not all of it.
He believes that there are many vacant places

during his college career, success is already ex-

’Twas a hot blustering day in September when the whole town (including the four-piece brass band) turned out and marched to the railroad station. The cause was that Luke, their big-hearted boy, was going off to college. Luke drifted in here and began to wonder if he could stand the tiresome routine, being used to a high life. He soon settled down and worked himself into the good will of his classmates. He was willing to help where he could, and when the war broke out, he wanted to beat the Boches by himself; but Uncle Sam persuaded him to take a “shave Tail.” After he won the war, he came back to us with the intention of grabbing that old “dip.” Luke is bound to win as he is a zealous worker, a big-hearted fellow, and a real man. Luck to you, old boy.

Although destined to be a globe-trotter, Gordon had not gone far on the Blue Ridge when he landed at Clemson and began to penetrate the realm of science. Gordon is a conscientious, serving student; and, in addition, is a good old scout. Once he boosted Walhalla, but now Walhalla boosts him. Gordon did his bit in downing the Kaiser, for upon hearing the artillery at Fortress Monroe belch forth storms of war, the Kaiser learned that Gordon was at the wheel, and consequently fled to Holland.

But the best for last—a ladies’ man—we’ll say he is. Should his intentions be exposed, we are inclined to believe that his frequent visits to a nearby college would end but for the fact that he intends conferring the degree of “M.R.S.” upon someone of the fair sex. We’re watching you, Gordon—good luck to you!

Pendleton, the town of such great renown in colonial days, aroused from a long slumber and has again given rise to an illustrious son in the personage of Jay Garvin. Jay entered Clemson as an indifferent “rat” but soon learned that the only way to succeed was to choose an ideal and not stop until it had been realized. He became fascinated with the spindles and looms in the Textile Building and decided to cast his lot with the “Lint Heads.” There is no telling what will finally be Jay’s life work; for, though he is preparing to be the president of a big cotton mill, still there is a likelihood that he will become the president of some college, as he has already selected the “Dean.” It makes no difference which of these professions Jay decides to follow, as a man of his ability and earnestness will undoubtedly succeed in whatever line of work he enters.

Since that time "C" has changed quite a bit and does not expect so much but does more for others, especially the fair sex, and puts out more to make "P's" for himself.

After completing the high school course at Abbeville, this hearty lad decided to come to Clemson to learn more about the mysterious phenomenon, Electricity. By looking over his records, we find if we consider his abilities to "shoot" the professors for high marks as an asset, that "C.C." or "I Square," as he is known to us has profitted by his four years stay at Clemson.

"C.C." entered Clemson with the class of '19, but heedless of the call of Uncle Sam, he offered his services to his country, and they were immediately accepted at Camp Jackson. Desirous of obtaining that coveted "sheepskin" he came back to Clemson to finish his course with the class of '20.

He has a line that covers anything from heart smashing to “ten per cent off for you only.” “Jack” expects to enter the electrical world, but we bet that he won’t be the one to decide whether the parlor shall have chandelier or shade lamps.

As a man there is no better, no truer, and no finer than this long, lanky baton-slinger. He is a man’s man and a good one at that. Good luck to you, Jack. If you relieve the world of its change as you did us in the Jew Shop, success is yours.

“Annie” began his career at Clemson as a “prep” in 1913, and for four years has applied his energies to the class work and the gridiron. He was a member of the sophomore class football team, champions of '15, and also played varsity ball during '16, '17. Upon the completion of his junior year, he joined the colors and became a member of the famous “Wild Cat” Division. After spending eleven months in the “States” training the “rookies” and eleven months in France as a first sergeant, “Annie” is back with us. He has cast his lot with the class of '20 and has won many new friends in the corps.

After completing his course in animal husbandry, his many friends feel sure that he will make a great success in whatever profession he may choose to follow, and their best wishes go with him.

Just four years ago there arrived at Clemson with several hundred other "rats" one "Jug" Harris. As green as the rest, with bowlegs and flop ears, he was hailed as a curiosity: but the dry wit and smiling countenance of this Belton lad soon won for him a host of friends.
"Jug" developed into an excellent baseball player and is commonly known as the "shining light of Belton." He made the team his sophomore year and won his letter. He was chosen captain of the '20 team, and we predict a most successful season.
Besides baseball "Jug" takes an active part in all college activities. All his classmates and friends hold him in their highest esteem. "Jug" chose Entomology as his profession, and if politics does not lure him away from his subject, some day he will be a renowned "bugologist."

In the fall of '18 this green-looking lad from Easley joined the class of '20. It would be hard to say what his intentions were, but Doyle has won the admiration of his classmates and numbers his friends by the scores. Doyle takes part in most of the college activities and is an earnest worker in the literary society. Until his senior year his military ambitions were high. Doyle is 5' 11"; and, with the ladies, he stands every inch of it. His chosen profession is Entomology; and, if he traps the bugs like he does the ladies, nothing but success can come to him. Doyle hopes to go to the "Wawakee Shore" and learn the art of playing the ukelele, then return to the States and claim some fair damsel. He will, no doubt, be one of the country's greatest Entomologists some day, and we predict a long and successful career for him.

The idea that a preacher's son is always the worst is untrue. For four years an apparently quiet fellow has displayed an unexpected earnestness of purpose. This is "Dave" Henry. John can adjust himself to any occasion, and his perseverance and ability are shown by his conscientious work in the class room and in all phases of college activities. The Y. M. C. Just about four years ago, there strolled into Tigerton a farmerish-looking, hayseed sort of a fellow, who gazed in awe at the clock on the main building and wondered what made it run. But time has passed and we see a polished gentleman, fresh from the many massages of the Clemson faculty.

"Tubby" is a big man with a big heart. His good natured ways, his winning smile, and his true character have made his acquaintances his friends. "Tub" is undecided as to whether he will enter the field of commutators or to follow "old Meg" through the rows of growing corn. There is one thing certain: He will have a better-half soon after he gets his "dip" even though cotton drops to a nickel a pound. "Tubby," ole boy, success is yours, even though it be your lot to teach electricity at Clemson College.

Back in the days of old, when knights were bold, the custom of parting one’s hair precisely down the center came in vogue. Now, in these days of sports, "Cutie," the moth before the flame, has fallen. "Cutie," though rather quiet in public, is one who can entertain privately (referring to the opposite sex). He naturally holds a high place with the ladies—the honor being thrust upon him. "Cutie" is a steady and dependable fellow and one who can do any task with a smile. He hails from Aiken, though he won’t admit it and is proving to be a future asset to his home town. Take a tip fellows, watch Aiken grow, when "Cutie" gets back home.

Hey, fellows! what’s that round little object coming down the road? What is that black parcel that he has in his hand?
On a closer inspection we found it to be "Roy," "Trambone" or "Ostrich" Holley and his famous gilted slide. "Roy" would rather "shimme" than eat, and he sure loves to eat. He is a speculator in the art of fertilizing "Ostrich" eggs. His one failing is that he is taking "aggie," but he intends to run his farm on the installment plan, the terms being: seed down, and one crop a month for three months. As a friend or a pal, he can’t be beaten.

Who have we here? Why it is dear old "Rastus," the boy with the big smile and the winning disposition. "Rastus" won his fame at Clemson by being able to choke a cigar fifteen times in one evening, and an "Old Virginia Cheroot" at that. "Rastus" chose electrical engineering; and, as he says that engineering is his calling, we predict that he will do great things after he leaves his Alma Mater.

All in all, "Brer" Johnston is a fine old scout. He is a good man, and is as true to all as the days are long. He greets everybody with a smile and has a disposition that would outlast the tarnation afforded by an army mule. "Dago" wandered from the foothills of the mountains of Pickens county and landed at "Tigertown" where he fell in ranks to fight the battle with the class of '20. His good nature has won for him many friends; and, though he is a lady-killer, we lay it to the fact that he never had a chance to "camp" the ladies until he took his stand at Clemson, and you know, "there's no fool like an old fool if he once gets started." He took a stand for his country by entering the C. O. T. S., but the war was soon over.

"A Farmer I Will Be" is his favorite song, and he intends to sing this song while riding on one of his tractors—no mules for "C. T." "Charlie" is slightly bashful, but this might be a frame-up, as ladies generally like bashful men. "Charlie," though quiet, is a keen business man and is fair in his deals. Great excitement prevailed in the small town of Beaufort when this fair lad left for the wilds of Clemson. From the beginning, he cast his lot with the "aggies" and has persistently overcome the difficulties and problems of the mysterious science. Though he is not much of an athlete, he is a hearty supporter of the Tigers. That happy, congenial disposition of his has won the friendship of all who know him; and those staunch, true qualities of character have won their confidence and esteem.

Though not ranking high in the military circles, he has "shot" his professors and has made rapid progress in his work during his four years in college. It is rumored that there is a certain little lady in whom he is deeply interested, for he visits the post office quite frequently. With the other sex, he is "lion," for it is said, "Music hath the power to charm the raving beast," and Ralph is a great musician and Glee Club star. It has been said, "To have friends, one must show himself friendly," and herein lies the explanation of Ralph's having so many friends in the student body. Since Frank's arrival from the fair land of Sumter, he has traveled through four years of trouble and anxiety; but, because of his agreeable nature, he has surrounded himself with a host of friends. However, his friends are not all limited to Clemson; for, judging from the superfluity of mail that he receives, he has also accumulated quite a number of admirers in the "fairer land."

Frank has become so attached to the fertile fields around Sumter that he has chosen a course at Clemson that will fit him to make the lands of his original habitat glow in the paths of progress. It is our prediction that after he has settled down, you will hear of him as a leading farmer of South Carolina.

"Warhorse" hails from the prosperous County of Florence. His friendly personality enables him to make friends everywhere he goes, and he is always willing to do them a favor at any time. Like his eyes, the world has always appeared blue to him; but due to the lightness of his head, trouble has been prevented from weighing too heavily upon his broad shoulders.

Early in life he decided to make "Mother Earth" yield unto him more of her bountiful increase; and in order to further his knowledge in the science of agriculture, he came to Clemson in the fall of 1916. During his "Rat" year, he was infected with military inclinations and has ever since held a high place in the eyes of the military authorities here; however, he has not let this stand in the way of his search for wisdom. He chose dairying as his profession, and we have reasons to believe that he will become a leader in this progressive industry in the Pee Dee section of our state.

No, this is not Napoleon, but it is "General Leland." McClellanville launched a great undertaking when she sent him to Clemson; but for the last four years, at least, his home town has had need to be proud of her representative, "General," as his name signifies, is a military man, but he hasn't let militarism interfere with his work. Campus walks and talking with the ladies constitute his greatest handicaps, but he doesn't care to have them removed.

No boy is more straightforward and honest than this seacoast lad. In every branch of his work he is energetic; and among the students and in the class work his clean record is to be admired and praised. Interest in religious work is his most noted characteristic, and everyone knows what to expect of him.

Though small in stature, this military genius would cause Napoleon and Caesar to gaze upon his form with praise, wonderment, and adoration. To say the least, he is a real "chip" from gigantic military block. After attending Camp Gordon for a short time, he was transformed into a second lieutenant, which fact the Kaiser was aware of, and consequently applied for a cessation of hostilities. Leslie came to Clemson in the fall of 1916 and took up his studies in mechanical and electrical engineering. He is a hard worker; therefore we can but predict for him a long and prosperous career in his chosen profession.

He claims outwardly not to be a "ladies' man" but to one who knows him at all times he is quite the opposite. Then, we will make another prophecy. That is, he is going to change the handle on some fair damsel's name before the sun makes many more trips from winter to summer.

Just as Petain said they weren't going to pass at Verdun, "Bill" said they weren't going to pass the gridiron stone wall; and every true Clemson man knows "Von Litsy" because of his ability to hold practically any line in the South. Every girl in the South knows him because of his ability to hold their hearts. At least, they say he does; so why should any one doubt it? He tells folks that he takes animal husbandry—after talking with him for five minutes one readily understands why. But when he finally leaves his Alma Mater's walls to seek fortune in the great world, it is no exaggeration to say that no man will leave more or truer friends. "Good gracious, man!" That is "Bill," the man who will make the class of '20 famous because of the contribution he is going to make to veterinary science. After three years of study, he decided that the anatomy of the horse is a greater field for research than any other branch of the science. He came to us in '13 but dropped from the midst of the class of '19 because of illness. However, it did not take him long to make every man in the class of '20 glad to have him in their class. Yes, he is a handsome fellow; but, as yet, he has been able to withstand all the attacks of the fair sex.

"Bill's" true knowledge of human nature stands him in good stead in performing his duty. His pleasant smile and good word take the sting out of the inflicted penalty, no matter how hard it may be.

Even Summerville took on a wintry aspect as "The Prince," with a pair of sax and a real new collar tied up in a curious design of handbag, boarded the west-bound train for Clemson. "Ned-thu" sailed the educational seas with little difficulty until he became exposed to the breezes of "differential" and "integral," but a little "boning" soon put him again in the fair winds, and we now see his only living equal in the Stienmetz. "Goat's" great hobbies are to love the women and to write poetry, and our only fear is that his bewitching tunes will enchant some fair damsel who will win the big heart of our friend. "Mike" forsook all military ambitions until he became a senior; then it was that the Colonel saw genius in him and bestowed upon him a second lieutenancy. With his big friendly heart and his winning smile, we can predict nothing but success for him in life.

Because of his military appearance and soldierly bearing this product of Greenwood County early received the title which followed him four years—"Stonewall." This nickname is not inapplicable to the man by any means, for indeed he is as substantial as a rock. He isn't a literary genius exactly, although he has attained a fair degree of success in this line, but he is blessed with an abundance of common sense. When we add to his natural ability and brilliance the fact that he has applied himself wisely and well, we are not surprised to find that his record at college is a good one.
He has chosen as his life work the honorable occupation of farming. No doubt he will revolutionize practices in his community within a brief period. In our mind's eye we see him ten years from now in a mansion on his up-to-date farm living the happy life of a bachelor? He leaves with his fellow students' best wishes for the first part of the prediction to come true.

"Captain" says that he deserves his diploma. There are some few skeptical ones who claim that it is merely a matter of form with the faculty and that they knew it was pass the "Captain" up this time or else he would cling like the Wax-dering Jew forever. Regardless of that he is ready to step out on the big pathway. We know his daily habits too well to predict anything less than true success for him. His smile which has hither-to proven his most efficient weapon will continue so; and, like Cupid's arrows of long ago, pierce every heart, causing them instantly to respond to this appeal of good humor.
His power of thought will keep on improving with age, like good beverages, and eventually will be the cause of his becoming an important factor in the melting-pot of humanity. He will do his part well, and after all it is that which constitutes true success—the realization of a task well done.

In "Mac" You will find one of the deepest thinkers of the class. He came to us in September 1916 in quest of higher learning, and by steady work has stood among those at the head of his class. He is one of the most earnest men in the band of '20.
The giggling girls have had very little influence over this sturdy fellow; but a pleasant smile spreads over his face when a certain one's name is mentioned.

"Doc," as he is known to all of us, has taken an active part in all the college activities, being a prominent man in the circles of the Agricultural and Calhoun Literary societies. He is also on the Taps staff. This cheerful and earnest labor all counts for the good of the college, and we predict that he will be a great factor in enlightening the citizenship of South Carolina, for he is a natural leader and has chosen vocational education as his major work.

In the fall of '15, this handsome lad from Long-of a "rat." "Squeedunk" remained with the class of '19 two years, then decided he'd rather finish under the banners of the class of '20; so he remained in hibernation one year and entered junior with us. "Squeedunk," once a visitor to Pendleton, is now a weekend caller at Anderson College.

In class standing, he has an enviable record, and a more loyal Tiger cannot be found. This boy is with the "big men," and with his congenial nature, pleasant smile, and unlimited knowledge of the subject, it is only a question of time till the southern farmer will place him in the "Hall of Fame" for his part in the extermination of the boll weevil.
A bright future awaits you, "Mac."

Well, well, well! Look who's here. Fred, better known as "Mac," hails from the town of Starr, a town noted for its great men, and "Mac" is an example. No one is better liked or more generous than is "Mac." A truer friend cannot be found. He is especially gifted along the line of literature. We often see him writing books to the various colleges in the state, especially Winthrop. His good nature and jovial disposition have won for him a host of friends, not only among the corps, but also among the fairer sex.
Electricity seems to be "Mac's" hobby. He says he will have reached his ambition when he becomes president of the General Electric Company. Luck and success to you, "Mac."

has not been shining with its usual brilliancy.
For, at that time its brightest ray, in the person of "Sammie" bought his first railway ticket and boarded the "Limited" for Cherries.
Since his arrival at Clemson, "Mac" has been busily engaged in the acquisition of knowledge and the gaining of friends. His success in both these fields has been phenomenal. He is noted for his happy and generous disposition. His friends are limited only by his acquaintances. His wit and mental alertness have caused his professors to admire him and his classmates to envy him.
We predict for "Sammie" a brilliant future. If he follows his course in dairying we can truthfully predict that the country will soon be flowing with one safely over the matrimonial seas. Luck to you, "Mac."

For three years, he turned an attentive ear to the alluring voice of military honors, but he soon found his mistake and laid aside his military

When "Jack" enlisted in the army, a wave of joy spread over the entire country. Why? Because everyone knew that the war would close in two months' time, for "Jack" was never known to hold a job over two months in his life. He says that it is the height of his ambition to be a good "hoss" doctor; so that is why he left his home in Olanta, "the capital of Sheep Island," and came to Clemson to add his name to the list of "vets."

By hard work and earnest effort, he has made an excellent record in class work; and, by his remarkable qualities and good-natured smile, he has won numerous friends. Judging from the record of his four years in college, we expect to soon find "Jack" at the head of his profession.

Bishopville claims to put out finished products, and she lived up to a good name when she shipped as "Fung." He is small, but when he comes around you will know that he is in the neighborhood. Always jolly, full of fun, he adds sunshine to our days of gloom.

However, like most men, we find even "Fung" susceptible to the wiles of women. He is particularly prodigal in the art of dancing, which, together with his personality, has gained him a notable reputation with the fair sex.

He has an enviable record as a hard worker. This is shown by his class standing, and his persistent and faithful effort on the athletic field, his specialty being football. Although "Fung" is undersized as a varsity man he has made the big husky Tigers fight from sunup till sundown to hold their positions.

To know him is to like him—he is in truth what Kipling called A Man. That he will attain unbounded success in life is inevitable. Go it "Fung"—long may you wave.

He found the ways peculiar and the means different, but he went to work with all sincerity. He is now one of the hard-workers of the class; and, though small in stature, he tips the scales in mentality. Be the favor great or small, "C. S." is always ready to give a lift to the one that's down. In class work, he is always in the lead, for he seems only to remember the letter "E" when his grades are at stake.
With the ladies, he is the "favored one." He has chosen horticulture as his life's work; and, at present, he is gaining much experience by utilizing quite a bit of his time in classifying "peaches." Big in stature, big in mind, firm in purpose, this smiling lad can do nothing but succeed. To know him is to like him; he has a good word and a smile for all. "Hotel" was a tower of strength on our football team; he helped many times to bring the Tigers to victory with his fast line backs and short end runs. "Johnnie" numbers his friends by the score; his popularity was shown when he was elected president of the senior class, and in that capacity he has shown his ability as a leader of men. the most noise, for although small of stature, to measure from his neck up proves the fact that he has all the requirements of a real man.
"Polly" deems it man's highest ambition to sat-this assumption, he has turned his energies to the study of horticulture, knowing that the surest way

Don't let this quiet, unassuming air deceive you, for behind it all we find a volume of liveliness, a man whose life is teeming with spirit and fire; so, after all, we conclude that silent power is the strongest kind, and we'll have to hand it to "Pullman," he's show, but he's everlastingly there.

Yes, the spirit of romance has visited him, and he is a charter member of that innumerable host whose creed carries with it the belief that the hand that rocks the cradle rules the world. He is a great dreamer and in his wildest fancies has pictured a beautiful little nest off in some shady sheltered spot where "him and her" could live the life of eternal happiness. And so in choosing his life's work, he sought for and found a profession that would enable him to make his dreams come true.

During his career in school, he has been a boon to every enterprise he entered—what more could we wish than that he "carry on" in life?

One September day, the family and friends gathered around to bid "Jimmie" good-bye before he started to Clemson in search of a higher education. "Jimmie," quiet and reserved manner, soon won him a host of friends among the corps and the faculty. He entered the service of his country in the fall of '18, but returned to college and took up work with the class in January, 1919. Besides making an excellent record in class, he has also made an admirable success in other branches of college life. The Palmetto Literary and the Agricultural Societies have received whole-hearted support from him.

It was back in 1912 that "Harvey," the "Hill City" lad, left for the wilds of Clemson College. His brain was filled with the intricacies of machinery, and it was for the purpose of straightening this out into the worth of a much-talked-of engineering education, that he left his home town. Harvey is a hard, determined worker, a valuable friend, and an ardent lover. Being always in a jovial humor, he is liked by everyone.

During the "Scrap," he was with the Engineers Enlisted Reserve Corps, and served his "Uncle" until the close of the war.

"Gene" hails from the city of Clinton. Rather than have cast his lot with the Presbyterians of that town, he joined the ranks of the Tigers. For four years, he has been a member of the class of '20, and his broad smile and congenial nature have won for him a host of friends among the corps.
All the while, "Gene" has been on the varsity baseball team. He is an excellent fielder, and all the baseball fans know that a homerun in coming when this lad goes to the bat. In fact, few men have "Gene's" ability to hit the "pill."

"Gene" exhibits a keen interest in the fairer sex, especially in one member of that sex. If he does not go in for professional baseball, we predict that there will soon be a contract let for a bungalow in Clinton. Here's good luck to you, "Gene," may your life be long and happy.

"Sixty" sailed in from "The City by the Sea" in the fall of '16 fully intending to study mechanical engineering but soon changed to "the only course," architectural engineering. His military career began very brilliantly; but, during the latter part of the "Goat's" reign, he gave up all military honors for the sake of his friends and " reveille tickets."

Joe is a great lover of music, and his favorite piece is "The Memphis Blues." He is a good dancer and revels in the sport. With a ready hand, a high sense of humor, and square, he has won a host of friends among the boys and the fair sex. So strong is his "drag" with the latter that he is often called the heart-smasher.

In the fall of '16, the dusky little town of Gray Court bade farewell to one of her best and most beloved sons. This chap came to us with an ardent determination to make good. With his gentle disposition and ever winning smile, he won the hearts of the student body, as well as the love and admiration of the professors. The name "Vamp" would be equally as applicable to him as the name "Runt," for his favorite pastime is thinking of and admiring the gentle members of the fair sex. Although "Runt" is no musician, his favorite song is, "Over the Hills to Virginia," and he keeps the halls of barracks resounding its fascinating words. He has been an active supporter of all things that tend toward the brightening of college life. "Runt" specialized in agricultural education and is bound to succeed in that field.

In the fall of 1916 Dillon's representative appeared in our unprotected midst in the person of "Rang," who soon began the various duties of "rat" with a determination and smile that has been his chief characteristic throughout his career here. "Rang" exhibited his military attitude early in life and donned the chevrons near the close of his first year. This was the beginning of his service as an "officer" in the Colonel's army. This son of Dillon has also made an enviable record in his class work.

"J. W." is a typical ladies' man, too. He numbers his correspondents by the scores, and the class of '20 is very fortunate in keeping him until the finish in spite of the efforts of many of his girls to win him from us. "Rang" could have chosen no course that so appropriately corresponds to his "line" than animal husbandry. His winning first honors in the live stock judging contest at the Southeastern Fair this year proves ability in this kind of work.

Yes, in the fall of 1915 we saw a lad of about sixteen summers approaching this stockade, and afterwards learned that he was going to abide with us for four years. The lad in question is no other than the strong manly specimen known to everyone as "Bill Rodgers. He, becoming desirous to broaden his already broad conception of life, and wanting the distinguished title of "Tiger" attached to him, attached himself to the college to pursue the mechanical and electrical engineering course.

When the war was over, "Bill" returned to us in person, but he left his heart in Columbia. Love, peace, and contentment reigns over his life in alternate spells, which fact causes him to cherish the highest ideals. With these traits of character "Bill" has won the affection of everyone with whom he came in contact. We predict that he will enlighten the electrical world and make some pretty woman a good husband.

"Runt" was made from a mixture of neatness, originality, and charm plus sincerity and whole-heartedness. He came to us from Laurens and early began to make numbers of friends, this number having increased till now it is a veritable host. At first, one would think that his skill and talent as a musician is the ultimate cause of his fame; but, on taking a closer view, we find that modesty has kept his better self from us and that his irresistible personality is what holds us all.

"Runt's" lasting "pep" and college spirit has livened us when things have looked dark and desolate; and so, in bidding him a fond farewell, his classmates join with one accord in saying that he is, in truth, a tribute to his Alma Mater. Success can but follow a man of his type.

It is a characteristic of these Laurens boys to play football, and Roper has lived up to the rule. Since first here, he has played in, around, and with quarter. He must have a working knowledge of the best army on earth, for he speaks variegly of Camp Gordon and of folks in and around Atlanta. This former "Gamecock" began his career at Clemson during the awful days of the S. A. T. C. Rush spent the first two years of his college life at a brother institution, but realizing that it is "never too late to make amends," he came to Clemson and joined the class of '20. Civil engineering appealed to "A.E.;" so he joined the famous "Hoboites." Rush has not been with us long, but during that time everybody has learned to like him; and although handicapped by a late start, he has made good in every line of college work.

His splendid disposition has made him many friends among the students and the faculty. When "A.E." leaves his Alma Mater, his numerous friends wish him a rushing start up the road of success.

"Hal" began with taking a prominent part in all college activities, but the war interfered with his plans of finishing with the class of 18.

He enlisted with the first in the spring of '17, and later spent six months in France. After being discharged, he returned to Clemson and again became an enthusiastic and hard-working Tiger both on the athletic fields and in the class room.

It is easy to predict that "Hal" will make a great success in his course along agricultural lines. Clemson may well be proud of this young man whom she sends forth as a worthy graduate.

He came to Clemson with the determination of making good, and through these four years he has been accomplishing his purpose. His earnest desire to succeed shows that he is willing to pay the price of hard work. "Rip" has covered himself with military honors, having contracted military ambition and aspiration to such an extent that he was appointed "Major." "Rip" decided to cast his lot with the anatomists; and, if his knowledge of horse medicine could be converted into serums and antitoxins, all the pains of the Equus family would cease. One of his striking characteristics is his affinity for the ladies, and, if he sticks to his profession as close as he does to his girl, we predict a great future for him. We expect much of "Rip."

He was going good but responded to his country's call, being among the first to enter an officers' training school and to receive his commission. Shortly, he was patrolling "No Man's Land." There he represented Clemson in a way that everybody should be proud of, for he exhibited remarkable brilliancy and skill during the thickest part of the battle of the Meuse-Argonne and Vosges.

After spending about one year in France, "Lonnie" returned to America with new sensations and a still higher determination to succeed, but realized the need of another year at Clemson; consequently, he cast his lot as an energetic member of the class of '20.

It is seldom that a college student has had such thrilling experiences as "Railroad."
The morning of his college career, which dawned so brightly, soon set in the red glare of battle. He had finished the junior class with honor when Old Glory called her sons to fight in the fields of France. Not hesitating, "Railroad" enlisted in the famous "Rainbow" Division and sailed for France October, 1917. Always leading his men where the fight was thickest, he exhibited conspicuous bravery in the Five Major Engagements in which our men took part. While leading his men in the Argonne offensive he was wounded twice but kept going till the third bullet brought him to earth. "Railroad" was commended by his commanding officer for gallant and meritorious conduct in action.

It was an eventful week in September, 1916 when this lad was launched among us for the purpose of increasing his knowledge, most especially along the mechanical-electrical line. It was a brave undertaking for that little city, but this, her representative, is destined to make her famous.
We have endured his presence with increasing interest until now we consider it a necessity for our existence. "Charlie’s" jovial and pleasant disposition has won innumerable friends for him. He has always been a loyal supporter of all college activities, and he played on the champion junior football team of '19.
"Charlie" is a regular college cut-up, and holds undisputed sway over all members of the fair sex with whom he meets. However, "C. L." says that some day he expects to refrain from all his mischievous flirtations and take the matter seriously. We expect to see him at the head of some large electrical corporation in the near future.

In the fall of '15 "Pearlie" came to Clemson from the swamps of Berkeley, with the high ideals of a true Carolinian. This lad, with his winning smile, soon won for himself a prominent place in the hearts of his fellow students. He was a member of the '19 class; and was doing conscientious and diligent work, work which was attended with high marks of honor and distinction, when the war drums of America sounded, "Pearlie" responded to his country's call to duty. He served as a private and a sergeant, and was going up for his commission when the clarion notes of peace sounded through the murky clouds of war. He then again took his place as a hearty and enthusiastic member of the Tiger clan. We take great pride in presenting to the world this young man, as a Clemson graduate who is making of life a success.

This genuine specimen of manhood, just as anyone else, began at the bottom and ascended to the top. At first, people beheld him as a mystery which perplexed the normal mind; professors were amazed and pupils were amused. The undiscovered power of thought and action were revealed and "Pat" was soon conquering the fields of learning with an unparalleled art.

"Levi" can be depended upon as a true friend, and he possesses every quality that a real man admires. No man fears his physical stature, but his mental alertness, wit, and originality cause even the most brilliant to remain silent in his presence. Men are jealous of this mystical celebrity, but "others" adore the fascinating smiles and irresistible bestowal of his affections. "Levi" pleads "not guilty" to this charge, but circumstantial evidence convicts him. Success with his plantation and possessions is inevitable, for it could not be otherwise. No wonder the world is advancing when such as these are at the wheel.

He received the name "Radio" for being such an ardent supporter of the signal corps in which he served during the late war. In all of his undertakings he is a very ardent worker. This serious-minded lad from Florence county has won for himself many friends among the corps and has made a high record during the entire four years in college, never having failed on any subject.

"Radio" is not much of a ladies' man, but his dearest wish is to have a little wife and a large plantation. He has made rapid strides toward the fulfillment and realization of his wish by taking "Bull" which has to be used quite freely in obtaining both. Four years ago, “Country” decided to try his fortunes at college; so in the fall of ’16 he left Richburg and came to Clemson. From the very first, “Country” has been a studious boy, and often his answers to questions were even too deep for his professors to grasp.

“Steve” nas never aspired to be a military genius; so we find him as a member of the Clean Sleeve Club, having served four years as a distinguished private. He loves to miss all military formations, but when mail is called he is always present. Farming is his hobby; and, with this end in view, he chose agronomy as his major subject.

Great was the weeping of Williston when the

but once here he was quick to accustom himself

Don't laugh. This is not a joke, but the same old "Owl" that has been hooting around Clemson for the past four years. "Hoots" is as wise as he looks; but jaded from the many campaigns of capturing hearts. During his "rat" year, he acquired the habit of "shooting" his professors, and this habit has given him a record to be proud of. His good-natured smile and frankness have won him many friends, who predict that he will be a leader in life, as he has been here. To be a distinguished journalist is his aim; so well may the City of Success be proud when this Editor of the Tiger directs the columns of her journals.

"Johnnie" is the name of this lad, and he hails from that sandy country known as Barnwell county. "Johnnie"'-s particular characteristic is that healthy beard which you see on his face. Don't see it? Well, he shaves just once per annum, and he had that picture taken just following the fateful event. If ever you wish to find him at home, go to see him just after reveille. You'll always find him in bed.

When the war was raging, John chose the artillery for his branch of service and hied himself to the hills of Kentucky, not only to learn the art of using a 3-inch, but more especially to find out about Kentucky's famous horses, women, and—2.5%. "Johnnie" believes in the farmer's life and hopes to own a stock farm some day. Boys, he's a real man, a true friend, a real American, and an honest countryman—that's "Johnnie" Mims Walker.

“George” came to Clemson, not a kid, but a full-grown man. His entrance into the military service took him from us for a year and a half, but he returned with the same tenacity that he left with. His meanderings in the army broadened him; and now his honest countenance does not betray his thoughts.

Like all other men, “George” is fond of good-looking skirts. The ladies cheer him up and make the old bachelor’s smiles disappear, but they failed to “vamp” him in the army.

“George” has chosen vocational education as his life’s work, and it is hoped that those of citizens of South Carolina will imbibe the high and lofty ideals of this strong, brave, daring, yet gentle leader.

“Pot, ” “Major,” or “Whit” is a native of Orangeburg, with the inherited good qualities of that “town on the Edisto.” Upon his arrival at Clemson, he has developed a variegated conversation, that he was a “linthead” of no small amount of intelligence. Aside from spinning and weaving “Whit” loves to swim, eat, sleep through reveille, and read “breezy stories,” but above all his favorite pastime is dancing. During his stay at Clemson, he has developed a variegated conversation, termed “Bull,” which vamps even the wisest of the fair sex. Although not having military honors thrust upon him, “Pot” is a true Tiger and is infatuated to the fullest extent with loyalty to Clemson. With his originality and jovial disposition, “Whit” has won a host of friends who are proud to say that they know “Pot.” Here’s hoping that he has derived enough benefit from sleeping through “Swine’s” classes to enable him to make a success in the textile world.

In the fall of 1916 "William Penn" was caught, shod, and shipped to this seat of higher learning. Since that date he has received many lasting impressions. The fascination of the military uniform caught his eye at once, and his Napoleonic qualities have been developing ever since. He has been a very apt student in the profession and last year decided to try his gun on the Hun. "Wingie" entered the C. O. T. S. at Camp Gordon; but the Armistice blighted his every hope.

He has been an active man in the various branches of college life; taking a leading part in literary society work, Sunday school and church work.

There has entered into his life an inclination toward the opposite sex, and he often speaks of his high school days and the scenes of the "Nearby College. We predict that he will soon return to show the farmers of his community the value of Vocational Agricultural Education with the greatest success.

Desirous of adding wisdom to "Wise," George prospered from Prosperity to "Tigertown," and became a member of the great old class of '20. George has many interesting romances connected with his innocent young life, the most interesting of which is the one about the girl whom he met in the ice 'team' parlor.

His hobbies are: girls, good-looking clothes, and dances; however, he is an earnest and apt worker, self-possessed and determined. He seems to have taken his ideals from the Golden Rule, as his faith is based on that eternal principle of the fraternal brotherhood of man. And so it goes without saying that George is beloved by all his classmates; and, when he confronts life's problems and complexities, we feel sure that he will attain a most successful position, in whatever capacity he may serve.

Prof. Noah Webster, when he described a wolf as a "very ravenous, rapacious or destructive animal" went wide of his mark, for "Fred" is an exceedingly tractable animal. The prophecy that the wild and the domesticated beasts should some day lie down together has been fulfilled, and we dwell in perfect peace with him.
To place the proper estimate upon one's fellows is indeed a full task, especially in this case. Our friend is of a type which one likes to meet. He is imposing, but not overbearing. He is a leader with no manifestation of pride. He is a man among men; but withal, he is reserved. Fred's college mates have not withheld their show of appreciation of his many characteristics, and have honored him militarily, scholastically and socially.

"M. B." came to us from Aiken. Whether it was the Yankee "gab" or the sand dunes that he ran away from, is hard to say; nevertheless, we find him a hard and earnest worker of the class of 20. Martin has a quiet, thoughtful, yet congenial nature. If you become his friend once, you are always his friend. He takes an active part in everything that pertains to the good of the Tigers.
"B." once had military ambitions, but he has lost them, and now he revels in a sweet Reveille sleep. Martin's greatest joy is to receive letters, especially blue and pink ones. Necessarily, most of his money goes for postage.

Here is a man whom we cannot help but admire. His career at Clemson can do nothing else than reflect credit on his home county, Chester. There he became so fond of gazing upon the realities of nature that since coming to Clemson, the call of the movies has overpowered him. But such sentimentalities have had no detrimental influence upon his college course. His studies have always been the first consideration, and he is to be commended because of his conscientious work.

"Yabbo" has never been known to say anything of his fellow man. He is reserved, and his admirable qualities have won him many friends who can never forget his amiable disposition.

"Yabbo" decided to study the great science of veterinary medicine. We are sure that he holds all those qualities that will secure for him a reputation and a position in his chosen profession.

One whose ideas and ideals are based on that eternal principle of a true brotherhood of man, can but succeed in life.
Senior Class History

Behold, fellow-classmen. Look into this shining sphere and recall your past four years, those four years through which you have struggled to obtain that priceless treasure, education. Ignorant and lacking in knowledge as to what the future held for us, we entered these halls of learning. Veiled and mysterious were those years which were to pass us by while we dwelt within these walls in search of light. As the years have passed by, that veil has been lifted, until now, we, as Graduates, can look into that future with a clearer vision and a nobler conception. The years which we have spent in this institution are only a small sample of the life which we are about to enter. We have learned what fellowship and true manhood mean, some of us have learned what sympathy and real sorrow are, some have been through the hell of war. Only through suffering can we reach perfection; only through hard work can we obtain success. We have worked toward the goal upon which we now stand, that of graduation. Let us begin the new race of real life with renewed vigor, and, in the future, keep high the standards of Class '20.

In the fall of 1916, Class '20 made its debut into Clemson's life, academic, social, sport life, everything in fact. Although the members of this famous class were at that time greenhorns and hayseeds, they were soon polished up by the men of '19, who were very gracious in their assistance to their brothers of the lower class.

Then came Sophdom. Class '20 came into its own. Profiting in their abundant knowledge of broom-sticks and pool-cues, these husky second-year men became masters of the "poor-rats." Not only did they become masters in the application to the "posterior," but they became tutors in domestic science. Fun and frolic did not constitute the entire lives of these merry sophomores, for they soon began to show their fellow students that they were right there when it came to work. From this class came many famous warriors of the gridiron and the diamond. In the class room as well as in the field, this class showed itself to consist of workers. During this year the clouds of war were fast covering the land. Several men responded to the call of their country and left the walls of their Alma Mater to fight for their land.

Our Junior year was begun in the midst of the war period. Our ranks were thinned to the limit. Very few men above the age limit were in the class. Then came the order that all men from eighteen to forty-five could fight for Uncle Sam. The S. A. T. C. was organized. There was no Class '20. We were soldiers. From these men who stayed at the college, many were sent to the training camps throughout the country. Just before Christmas, the Kaiser quit, and the soldier-students and the college men in the camps were returned to their homes. After the holidays, the old class was reorganized, and the junior year was successfully completed in spite of the interruption.

And then we returned to that high and long-looked-for year, the senior year. For three long and tiresome years we had looked forward to senior privileges and our “dips.” Though handicapped by the period which always follows a war, we have fought through this year, and now we are at the goal to which we have striven, that of graduation.

We are soon to enter the world, there to labor, live, love, and learn. May we do our best in showing the world that Class '20 is a class of good men and true. Let us hold those standards and principles we have always held for our own above us. Strive on, Class '20, show'em the old, old “pep.”.

—H. C. WALKER, Historian.
That we might give expression to our appreciation for earnest assistance and painstaking care in the preparation of this volume of Taps, we, the class of '20, dedicate this page to him.
Third Quarter Up

In September of 1917, there journeyed to Fort Hill three hundred of the greenest swains that could be found in all Carolina. Of course, the blow to the campus life was quite stunning, and complete recovery from that blow has not yet been experienced. We were not, however, at this time abandoned to our own lonely instincts. The sophomores were especially interested in making us feel at home; in fact, they made sure that we were not without bath, reveille, and radiator tickets. In various other branches, too, their introductory ceremonies were rendered exceedingly impressive. As is always the case, our class suffered numerous thinnings in the course of that remarkable year; and we came to our second mile with a comparatively small enrollment.

We, nevertheless, took up second year duties with vengeance, which duties, however, were destined to be short-lived. Along came the S. A. T. C., and we became all one class. We enlisted in McFeeley's army and in Randle's navy. When the Kaiser learned of the aforesaid naval organization's maneuvering on the Seneca, he immediately suspended operations and retired to private life. Then came the period of relaxation, and, for the remainder of the session, we lived in the full enjoyment of that life so dear to every sophie.

It is needless to say that we are proud of our class. Its record in all branches of student activities, its splendid service in the late war, the type of its individual members—these are facts we deeply appreciate.

We are now looking forward to the future: we are dreaming sweet dreams of senior privileges, of golden hat cords, and of diplomas. Let us strive to uphold the already high record of the class, not forgetting that as we render so shall we be rendered unto.

—J. R. SCHENCK, Historian.
HAVING experienced the many perils of “rat” life, we at last found ourselves sophomores. Assuming the duties of the sophomore at the beginning of the session which has just passed, our class has had an enjoyable and successful year. The enjoyment may be attributed to the fact that we were, for the first time, able to spend our Sunday afternoons in peaceful slumber, our minds forever freed from that well-known Clemson motto, “Spare the rod and spoil the rat.” Then, too, we took great pleasure in curing the “rats” of that terrible disease commonly called “homesickness.” It was our time to send and not be sent for several yards of skirmish line, a few reveille tickets, two pints of cadence, and the like. We regarded the motto as had our arch enemies, the sophomores, of our “rat” year.

The college spirit of the “class of ’22” cannot be overestimated. The class has contributed its share of that famous spirit, the spirit that has made Clemson men dare and do, and the spirit that forever lives in the heart of the Clemson graduate. Each man of us has his shoulder to the wheel, striving with all his might that, when we complete the league, Clemson may be even better than she is today.

We are “half a league onward,” onward toward that sunny day in June, 1922, when our career at Clemson shall reach its glorious conclusion; and when, with our “sheep-skins” securely tucked under our arms, we shall bid adieu to our Alma Mater. We are proud of our college. It stands a great monument to the memory of that great South Carolina gentlemen, the late Senator B. R. Tillman. It was he mainly who gave to us the opportunity, and we have tried to take advantage of it. May our achievement during the remaining “half a league” and our success afterward prove us worthy of his untiring efforts.

Freshmen

The First Quarter Up

On the sixteenth day of September, nineteen hundred and nineteen, Clemson was invaded by more than two hundred and fifty as uneasy and as scared “new-boys” as were ever seen on the campus. Not one shall ever forget that memorable day.

After matriculating, we were taken to our rooms, rooms which were to be known as home for the next nine months, and rooms in which we were “at home” to our numerous callers.

During the first week, we met many sophomores who earnestly insisted that we remember their names. They intensified their desires in such a way as that each letter of their names left a deep and lasting impression on us, both bodily and mentally. We also purchased bath, reveille, and radiator tickets, and other necessary commodities of college-life—all at a very reasonable and businesslike figures. But so much for the purely jovial side of our existence in the barrack.

The freshmen football squad this year was better than any other “rat” team ever seen in action on Riggs field. Our basketball team was also a terror, pushing the other class teams for first place. These accomplishments have gratified us to the extent that all else unpleasant has been obscured, and we, at the end of the year, find ourselves still “clothed and in our right mind,” ready for the next reel; however, when our “dips” are signed, we firmly believe that it will be a deserved privilege to graduate from the hard life of “rats” and to be accorded a place among the full-blooded sophomores.

One Year Agricultural Class

The members of the O. Y. A. class have completed what is probably one of the most momentous years of their lives. The total enrollment of the class stands among the foremost of those classes of the past, and the individuals composing that enrollment could hardly be surpassed for their serious and sober reflections concerning the duties that are ahead.

An O. Y. A. group labors under vastly different circumstances from that which attends upon any other class. They must quickly adjust themselves to the routine of college life, or else their time is flown before they have accomplished worthy results. They are exposed to countless branches of the agricultural science, so much in fact that few there be who are able to take in and digest all. It is nevertheless true that members of former classes have made noticeable additions to the industrial life of South Carolina, and we do not contemplate doing less.

Of our number, there are men from three different states and representatives from every corner of the Palmetto state. All of these are men who are striving hard to fill with credit their future positions in life, men who have determined to add their all to the agriculture of South Carolina, and men who, when the final score is called, will justly deserve an honorable and fair place among ex-Clemson men.

Historical Sketch of Athletics

Clemson is comparatively a young college; but the thunderous roar of the Tiger has made a name for her throughout the Southland.

It was in the year 1896 that the question was asked, "Why should not Clemson have a football team?" This question aroused much interest and enthusiasm and was answered by an organization known as the "Clemson College Football Association." There was no gridiron at Clemson; but the enthusiastic Clemsons overcame the obstacle by practicing on the small parade in front of barracks. The fascination of the great game gripped the Tigers, and they determined to have the yell of the Tiger heard at other southern colleges.

The first game was played with Furman on October 28, 1896. The Tigers drew their first blood and defeated Furman by a score of 14 to 6. The second game was played with the South Carolina College at the State Fair—Carolina winning by a score of 12 to 6. The third and last game of the season at Clemson was played with Wofford—Clemson winning by a score of 16 to 4. Clemson had started her football career which was to make her grow bigger and stronger as each year became history.

The year 1900 brought Coach Heisman to Clemson, and the well coached Tigers won everyone of the six games that were played during that season. Clemson kept that steady upward climb, and, in 1903, for any other college to claim the S. I. A. A. championship, she would have to battle the mighty Tigers.

The unquenchable thirst for scrimmage and contest upon the diamond has animated the spirit of Tigerism, until, today, athletics has become a prominent factor in college life, and the name, "Tiger," is a source of pride to every true son of Clemson.

The April-fool event of 1908 was the cause of the loss of a number of good athletes. There were only two varsity men around of whom the team of 1909 could be built. With that determination that is characteristic of the Tiger, a team was trained that did credit to the Tiger's name. Each year the team has been steadily growing stronger with the result that Clemson is rapidly climbing to the top in the S. I. A. A. The class of 1920 brought some football material to Clemson that has been molded into stars of the gridiron. A number of the men of the class of '20 made the all-state team, and two of the men made the all-southern team. During the past season, three Clemson Tigers made all-southern—their names and positions being as follows: Banks, quarterback; Lightsey, guard; and Potts tackle.

In the year 1916, the athletic association had a debt of three thousand dollars hanging over it. The questions of financing the athletic teams had assumed serious proportions, and something had to be done in order to raise the necessary funds. Under the managerial ability of Prof. Henry, enough funds were raised in the student body to keep athletics going. Each member of the class of '17 gave his note for a sum of money to go to the aid of athletics. Each succeeding graduating class has done likewise, till now, the debt has been paid, and the association has some funds to its credit.

The Tigers have lately finished their twenty-fourth season of football. They have claimed many victories from their opponents, and, at times, they have met defeat; but they have always played the game in a sportsmanlike way, and that, after all, is the best that can be said of any athletic team.

—M. C. JETER, Historian.
The Men Who Made 'Em
What They Are

"JIGGS" DONAHUE.

And now, with your kind permission, I will present, not introduce, to you the snappiest coach in the South—"Jiggs" Donahue. "Jiggs" toiled with the Tiger gridironmen for three seasons and has succeeded in placing the Purple and Gold once more in the limelight of Southern foot-ball circles. Donahue played foot ball and then coached at Washington and Lee. From there, "Jiggs" came to Tigertown, and now Clemson boasts of having the best foot-ball coach there is in the South.

"COUNTRY" MORRIS.

"Country" made Clemson famous befo' de war, and then, for a year or two, Tigertown suffered on without his presence. But with the return of foot-ball Weather, Coach Morris returned to take up the job of assistant coach. After a term with the gridironmen, "Country" took charge of the basketball team and then when spring came jazin around he undertook the duty of learning the Tigers the arts of the American Sport.

"COACH" FOX.

Fox came to Clemson last fall, and, therefore, I deem it wise to introduce to you Coach Fox, of the University of Georgia. The role of the Goat fell upon Fox and the Freshie recruits was his job. Fox rounded the Freshmen into great shape and before November came his men were hailed as the premier freshmen eleven of the South. "Coach" then assisted "Country" in developing moundsmen for his base ball team, when he was not actually at work making a track team for Tigertown to boast of.

"SHORTY" SCHILLETTER.

And for no other reason than to show his love for his Alma Mater and the Tigers, "Shorty" Schilletter spent his fall afternoons assisting Coach Donahue in training the Tiger gridironmen. For two years, "Shorty" held the honor of being an all-Southern tackle and during the 1914 season he was captain of the Tiger eleven. Therefore, "Shorty" knew the game and his services were valuable in making the Tigers the eleven of the South.

“Give ’em HELL, TIGERS!”

1920—

“Eat ’em up, Tiger, ride ’em on the rail
We’re goin’ to pull the feather out the Gamecocks tail.”
So: One, Two, Three, Four, who in the hell are we for—TIGERS!
"STUMPY" BANKS, Captain

And it comes to pass that the present editor has that special privilege of being the fourth man to pen the praise of "Stumpy" Banks for Taps. And to tell of all the wonders performed by this youngster would require unlimited space; therefore, we will only state that "Stumpy" played his fourth year with the Tigers, and, during those years, made himself famous, not in his native state alone, but throughout the entire South.

"BOO" ARMSTRONG, Captain-Elect

"Boo" received his early training under the auspices of Coach Hart, and when Coach Donahue arrived on the scene during Armstrong's Sophomore year, he found a genuine half-back waiting on him. Last season, "Boo" completed his third year of varsity ball with the Tigers, and not only won fame as an all-state player, but also received an honorable mention from Walter Camp for a perch on the coveted all-American eleven. "Boo" is to return to Tigertown next fall to captain the Tigers, and we predict for him a great season.

"NOISEY" KAY

Emerging from obscurity in the class games during his Sophomore year, "Noisey" easily landed a berth on Donahue's eleven and became one of the greatest ends of the game. When the 1919 season opened, "Noisey" was back on the job and did his part in making the Tigers once again one of the foremost elevens in the South.

"BULL" LIGHTSEY

Clemson played Tech, and from that game emerged a hero. "Bull" had been playing star ball on that old guard position for the Tigers for quite awhile, but, when the game ended with Tech, Lightsey ended one of the best games of his career. His playing won for him an undisputed berth on the all-Southern eleven, along with undying fame. "Bull" gets his walking papers this year but it is his intentions to return to Tiger-ville and do his best in making Clemson the premier eleven of the South.
Few players can boast of having a greater career on the gridiron than can "Daddy" Potts. "Daddy" set sail from the town of Fort Mill some time during the fall of 1916 and registered as a member of the class of '20. For the first three months "Daddy" played with the "rat" eleven, and then, in his Sophomore year, he won a permanent roost on the Tiger squad. For two years, "Daddy" has been recognized as a tackle of all Southern ability.

"SWITZER" ALLISON

When the fall of 1916 rolled around, the city of Blacksburg was lacking one of its leading citizens, for "Switzer" Allison had left the village and packed the sand to Clemson. Allison reached the height of his fame during his Sophomore year and ever since has been one of the leading full backs in the state. "Switzer" played his third year of varsity ball with the Tigers and his intentions are to return next fall and give his aid in putting the Tigers on the top ring in Southern foot ball.

"RAILROAD" GILMER

"Railroad" is another of the stars that the class of '20 boasts of having brought in, but, owing to the war, Gilmer is now a member of the class of '21. Gilmer is one of the greatest guards that ever donned a Clemson uniform, and, had it not been for injuries received during the early part of the season, his name would undoubtedly have been amongst the few. "Gil" will be back to hold down that old guard position next fall and he promises all opponents a good time.

"SHAG" SIMMONS

"Shag" played foot ball with the Porter Academy for quite awhile and then he hit the road for Clemson and arrived just in time to play class ball during the winter of 1918. Then, when the fall of 1919 drew into view, "Shag" was on the job and ready to try his hand. The boys from Tennessee were the first that Simmons had a chance to go against, but, in that game, he won not only his fame as a tackle, but also a permanent place on the squad.
"SUSIE" OWENS

Owens, at right tackle, left Laurens and came into the Tiger’s lair three years ago. "Susie" played his second year of varsity ball this season; and only injuries received during the early part of the season kept him from being recorded as one of the best tackles in the state. Owens still has two more years of varsity ball with the Tigers, and we are sure that "Susie" will be on the job next season when the Tigers moblize for ten victories.

JOHNNIE O’DELL

Johnnie claims that he learned to play football in the city of Spartanburg, and, during the past two seasons, he has developed into one of the best ground-gaining full-backs playing under the tutorship of "Jiggs" Donahue. Last season saw O’Dell in his prime, and once started with the ball it took more than one man to throw him.

TOM DUNLAP

Tom began playing football in his first year at Clemson and then went to the Naval Academy to become an officer. But that kind of a life did not appeal to Dunlap; so as soon as the fall of 1919 rolled around, Tom came back to Clemson, and it wasn’t long before he was showing the stuff. Tom developed into a sure passer of the pigskin, and, by next season, we can see no way out of it but that he is to be the premier passer on the greatest eleven in the South.

"PUG" ROPER

"Pug" is another star who arrived at Clemson with the class of ’20, and his two boasts are that he played with the Tigers’ greatest eleven and that he is a native of the village of Laurens. For three years "Pug" labored against fate on the end position, but each year failed to land a permanent berth. Last season, when Coach "Jiggs" Donahue began to look for a quarter-back, he soon found in Roper, just the man he was after. "Pug" ran the team during the greater part of the season and showed great ability in this position.
"PINKEY" COLBERT

"Pinkey" journeyed the long and dusty road from Oklahoma in order to be a member of the class of '20 at C. A. C., but the trouble with Fritz caused Colbert to lose a year. However, when football weather rolled around, "Pinkey" was again on the job. "Pinkey" started playing football under Coach Hart and in those days became a star end man. This season he was shifted to guard, a position which he held down but which he had to give up on account of injuries which kept him out of a great many of the season's games. "Pinkey" has another year with the Tigers and he states that he is going to take a shot at the backfield.

"LONG JOHN" SPEARMAN

"Long John" Spearman first made himself known at Clemson by playing star ball on the Sophomore class eleven. Then the war kept him busy for a season, but, when August, 1919, rambled around, Spearman saddled the mule and arrived at Clemson just in time to develop into one of the best linemen in Donahue's outfit. Spearman played at both guard and tackle this season and next year we expect to see "Long John" outshining all opponents in that old line.

"JOHNNIE" SCHENCK

Before the end of the year "Johnnie" developed into a star end. Schenck is one of the liveliest ends in the game and few plays ever mature over his side of the world. It is hoped that "Johnnie" will be able to return to Clemson next fall as his presence is greatly needed in making the Tigers the greatest eleven in the South.

"RED" GETTYS

"Red" began to play ball while still a "rat." but this year was his first appearance in varsity circles. "Red" has developed Into one of the best ball passers in the game and his playing has won praise from the leading coaches of the South. Injuries kept Gettys out of a great many of the games this year, but we are looking to him to land that all-Southern job next fall.
“SPIDER” BAILES

“Spider” is only a Sophomore, and usually a Sophie doesn’t rate much, but the game which Bailes put up on tackle made him one of the most promising recruits on Donahue’s squad. This being his first shot at varsity, “Spider” did not get into any of the scraps this season, but “Jiggs” saw promise in this bird, and made him a substitute on many of the trips. In another year Bailes promises to be one of the greatest tackles of the game.

“CAT” RANDLE

“Cat” boasts of being one of the heaviest men on Donahue’s squad and opponents find it extremely difficult to push Randle out of the way; and to walk over him without the use of a step ladder is impossible. “Cat” started to “put out” this year and would have won his letter had not a broken bone kept him out of the game for the rest of the season. “Cat” will be back on the job next season and everyone is looking to him to “put out” and be one of the best guards on the Tiger aggregation.

“GOLDIE” KEYSERLING

“Goldie” began his football career at Clemson in his Freshman year, and last season played a brand of ball that made him recognizable in the eyes of “Jiggs” Donahue. Playing the position of guard, “Goldie” was beset by many difficulties, but these he overcame in time, and, when next season rolls around, Keyserling is predicted to develop into one of the greatest guards of the game.

“P. I.” LOWMAN

Lowman is another backfield man of great promise, and, although playing with the varsity crew for the first time this season, showed that he had plenty of the stuff that it takes to make a half-back. “P. I.” had some experience in carrying the ball, before he came to Clemson, and adding that to his three years under “Jiggs” Donahue there is nothing else for him to do except develop into one of the best halfbacks of the game. Lowman will be back in the game next year, and the eyes of the world are upon this bird from Orangeburg.
"HAL" SAMS
And where Lady Luck is, "Hal" Sams isn't. Sams started playing ball with the Tigers long years ago, and, in those days, his playing in the line won praise from all who saw him play. Then Sams got mixed up in the scrap overseas and for two long years gave Fritzie a great time. But Sams returned to Clemson and soon developed into a backfield man. But, as ever before, just when things looked bright, "Hal" would break something or other and be laid up for a long, long time.

FRED McGEE
Freddie came to Tigerville along with the rest of the crew of the class of ’20, but, for some reason, failed to get the lead out until his last year was upon him. Last fall was the first time that McGee tried out for a perch on the varsity outfit, and, had not a lame leg kept him out of the game, he would have undoubtedly landed a berth in the backfield.

TOM JACKSON
Tom did not start the season off as manager, but, when he did start, things went with a boom. There is not the shadow of a doubt but that Jackson made one of the best managers that the Tigers ever boasted of. Tom was ever on the alert, and the wager is ten to one that no one ever put a thing over on him. All of his time was given up to the business and welfare of the team and he did everything in his power to assist both the players and the athletic association. If Tom can manage her as well as he can manage a football team, all's well.
How It Happened

LONG about the time of the year when all the little yellow dogs are being pursued by dog catchers, an' all like that, an' when the scare of hydrophobia an' all like that is terrifyin' the niggers an' everybody. "Jiggs" Donahue sent through the Palmetto State a whoop that carried with it the directions that anybody who wanted to play football on that championship team he was about to formulate must at once put down the plough, bid farewell to Lord Chesterfield, and proceed immediately to that clearance of woods so designated as Clemson College. Now, most everybody knew that when "Jiggs" said to move—move it must be; an' then most of the good football players in the state wanted to play for the Tigers, so, 'fore that whoop went out good, about fifty men were already assembled on Riggs Field with the intentions of making the name of Tiger a name to be dreaded by all opponents. Now we aint going to tell you much about this man "Jiggs" more than just to say that he could dance and sing and love the ladies and play football like hell. Old "Country" Morris was there, also, as "Jiggs'" right-hand man. Then "Shorty" Schillette, a former Tiger rounder, did his share at "hossin'" out the candidates and the incumbents. Fox, a used-to-be star for the University of Georgia, took the Cadet Freshmen in charge and taught 'em everything from Sunday School lessons to playin' football.

Well, everything got into shape, and the Tigers sent word that they were ready to take a shot at the bunch from Erskine. That bunch sailed in from Due West on the 27th of September, and along with them came a scrappy looking chap answering to the name of Philips. In fact, the whole bunch put up a scrappy game and fought the Tigers hard, but, at the end of the fray, the Tigers were leading with 53 points while Erskine failed to score against the Tigers. Both Harris and Banks played a great game for the Tigers, an' the only reason they did not score more points for the Purple and Gold was the fact that Coach Donahue decided to give the scrubs a chance.

Then the fun started as Davidson blossomed in from the old Tar Heeler State and brought along the intention of giving the Tigers a drubbin'. Spectators, an' all like that, came in from every part of the world around Clemson to see the battle between the Wildcat and the Tiger. The old Tiger wasn't very greedy that day, somehow or other, and they only romped on that North Carolina bunch for seven points. Davidson had along a powerful full back by the name of Black, but even this individual could do nothin' against the Tiger line; so Davidson failed to score. Armstrong, at halfback, made the touchdown, and Gettys, at center, played a great game. Thackston, at end, received injuries in this game that caused this star to quit the game for good.

Next came the game with the Tech, guys, which was played in Atlanta on the 11th of October. Some game! The Tiger Special carried about two hundred loyal Tiger rooters, who raised such a racket that they drowned out the entire Tech crew. Tech came on the field with the intentions of running things over on the bunch from Tigerville, but in that they hit a disappointment, because the first half went to the tune of 0 to 0, with the odds decidedly in favor of the Tigers of Tigertown. Clemson broke up the famous Heisman shift and didn’t even leave the pieces. But, in the next half, the Techites played from the open formation, and, when the Tigers finally left the field, Tech had raised the score from 0 to 28. Clemson won undying fame for the playing put up in this game and was dubbed by the papers as the “Fighting Tiger of Clemson.” Lightsey, at guard, played the game of his sweet young life, while the playing of Harris and of Banks won praise from all who saw ‘em in action.

Auburn picked a good chance and played the Tigers just after the hard fought game with Tech. The Tigers met the Plainsmen in Auburn on the 17th day of October. But that aint the worse part of it—the game went three long quarters without the pig skin taking a trip across the goal line. Then, all at once, some bird of the Auburn bunch shot a pass to another of his classmates—and that is the end of a sad story. Auburn kicked goal, but that was useless. “Boo” Armstrong was again the hero of the day in the back field, while “Daddy” Potts did noble work in the line.

On, or about the 25th of October, the train stopped at Calhoun and a husky bunch of mountaineers from the hills of Tennessee unloaded. This crew immediately began crabbin’, just ’cause the fellows around Clemson didn’t make Calhoun any bigger than it is, an’ all like that. But, finally, this crew got settled, and, amid the homelike surroundings of the barking of dogs and the hooting of owls, went fast to sleep. Next day, this bunch from the University of Tennessee, who had held the powerful Vandy eleven to a tie score just a few weeks previous, received a licking at the hands of Donahue’s Tigers. The final score was fourteen to nothin’. Simmons, a recruit from the Salty City, made his debut into Tiger athletics and played a great game. “Bill” Harris played a wollopin’ good game behind the line, while to the work of Schenck at end is due considerable praise.

About this time of the year, the people of the state gathered at Columbia in order to see a fair then going on, and, on Thursday of that same week, a whole pile of all kinds of specimens of humanity was in Columbia to see the Gamecock get his annual spankin’ at the hands of the mighty Tiger of the foot-hills. The alumni of Clemson turned out in full force and the Capitol City bloomed with purple and gold. Then about 1 o’clock on that day, the Tiger faced the Gamecock. Coach Foster, of the Carolina bunch, had a bunch that his gang was going to lick the Tigers this time for sure. Old man “Dixon” Foster lost that bunch and the Tigers spilled the boys from the University for a 16 to 6 score. Carolina “sprised” ‘em all when she put one over the line, but “Jiggs” is a tricky sort of a youngster, and some still believe that the Tigers just let ‘em do it so as to give the Carolina sup-Armstrong was again the hero of the day. “Red” Williams, on the flank, played a pretty game for Clemson, while the work of Dunlap, at center, is deserving of a great deal of credit.

Then, as the pumpkin was about to get ripe, the would-be preachers from the Presbyterian College jazzed over to Tigertown to give battle to the Clemson cadets. Clemson was just at that time recuperating from a strenuous schedule an’ didn’t much care to fool with the boys from Clinton. But right is right, an’ so, whether they wanted to play or not, the Tigers had to get out and whip the lads from P. C. The crew from Clinton brought over a fast bunch of players and came very near carrying off the bacon. The hard playing of Armstrong was the only cause for a Tiger victory. In the second quarter P. C. slipped one over on the Tigers, and, by utilizing the air to advantage, got one across the goal line. Clemson then came back strong, and, if the game had lasted longer, maybe the score would have been different; but, as it was, the Tigers ended with 19 points, while the P. C. birds accumulated only 7 points.

The Citadel was the next bunch to get bumped at the hands of the Tiger. As the story goes, it was a warm day in November when the Bull Dog and the Tiger met on the battlefield at the county fair in Orangeburg. The Tiger needed but this game in order to cinch the cup—and they got it. During the halves, the Citadel bunch got an idea that the Clemson crew had no right to parade a goat, which was decorated with Citadel colors, especially when those colors are predominating about that part of the goat's anatomy porters sometimes to talk about. "Stumpy" Banks played stellar ball by a score 33 to 0.

Then, on the 21st day of November, Clemson received the shock of her life. The Furman gang was met in Greenville, and, although the Tigers had often heard of the strength of the Baptist eleven, little attention was paid to such foolish rumors. But, ye gods an' all like that! How bad it did sound when the first quarter ended and the score stood with Furman standing on the top. In the next quarter, Clemson entered with a bitter feeling, and it wasn't long before "Boo" Armstrong crossed the goal line with a tie score. Neither side kicked goal. In the last round Furman scored again by the forward pass method, but the bird who caught the pass stepped outside of the line and the score was nix. Furman was trained by the air method and nearly ran the Tigers wild with those fool passes. And so it was that the Greenville gang claimed a share in the State championship honors, for they did hold the Fighting Tiger of Clemson to a tie. Again, in this game, "Switzer" Allison showed the stuff and was ranked as a star player, while the playing of Armstrong made him loved by all loyal Tigers.

Turkey Day—and the last game of the season, University of Georgia and the City of Athens. All that—and then the Tigers. But everybody and everyone thought that the strong University gang would walk away with the frail line of Donahue, because Georgia had held the South's most powerful eleven only a week before that. Georgia bucked the Tiger line and failed to gain; then they tried the ends with the same useless effect. Then they tried the air; and, lastly, resolved to kick the old hide away every time they got it. The Tigers let two chances at scoring slip away, and one of these chances was when the Tigers bucked the line until the ball was on the two-foot line—and one down to go. A fumble at this point caused Clemson to lose the ball—and also the game. The Tigers undoubtedly out-played the Goober state lads, but Lady Luck was decidedly against the Tigers. Thus the game ended 0 to 0. Here, as before, Armstrong won fame by his stellar playing, while the work of his running mate, Allison, won praise from all. The whole Tiger line starred as it held the terrific onslaught of the Georgians.
Baseball History '19

At THE first call for the diamond stars, Riggs field was the scene of much action, for there was a very large number out to land places on the varsity nine. With "Jiggs" Donahue, our peppy little coach, who built up such a strong team in 1918, and seven letter men back with us, prospects were never brighter.

After the battle was over, "Stump" Banks was chosen as chief receiver, with Bitham, a husky "rat," as an assistant. On the mound material was bountiful. Captain Thrower, the hero of many games of the preceding year, was ready to deliver the goods for us again. "Lefty" Atkinson, our hard-hitting pitcher and outfielder, was ready to use his southpaw for the purple and gold. Garrison, our tall, lanky lad, was, as usual, ready to show his steam and twisters; while Boozer, a freshman, was on hand to show his ability.

Bankhead, an out-gardener of 1918, was shifted to the initial sack, and "Varsity" proved that he could hold down an infield position with enviable style. At the keystone sack, Woodward showed us that Eddie Collins was not the only second baseman in the U. S. The "hot corner" was assigned to "Jug" Harris, who packed the sand there during the 1918 season. At short, we were all pleased to see "Cutie" Jordan complete his fourth year at this difficult position.

In the out-gardens we were very fortunate in having "Gene" Richbourg, the hard slugging man, to save many games with his "shoe string" catches. At center, Poe was stationed, and to have found a swifter, surer fielder would have been impossible. When not on the mound, Atkinson was seen in right field, and Lowman was called on in case "Lefty" took the box.

To keep the varsity continually on the jump, we had many good men. Haggard, Boone, Hartzell, Crisp, Thomason, Parlor, Elliott, Thornton, Robertson, Armstrong, Potts, Allison and others.

The Tigers opened the season by losing to Furman—2 to 0. This game was perhaps the slowest game ever played under baseball rules, for the Furman pitcher averaged two minutes per ball. However, this game only served to put the pep to the Tigers and the get-up and go for revenge against all opponents. The features of the game were a three-base hit by Cox for Furman, and the all-around work of Woodward, Harris and Banks for the Tigers.

The Tigers returned home only to meet defeat at the hands of Newberry, 6 to 4. The stellar work of the Tigers was a three-base hit by Bankhead and the timely hitting of Richbourg, Woodward and Harris. The fielding of Poe was nothing short of professional.

Trinity next came along to get her share of the victories at the Tigers' expense and carried off both games of the series, 8-2 and 3-1. The first game was featured with a home run by Banks and the all around work of Bankhead and Woodward. The second game went twelve innings, and the best work of the day was displayed by Richbourg and Poe with the bat, the fielding of Harris and Lowman.

Next came a two-game series with the University of Alabama, the team that won the Southern honors. Alabama won the first game easily by the score of 8-2. The second day saw the table turn, and the Tigers took in their first victory by the score of 4 to 3, in twelve innings. The features of the game were the pitching of Boozer and the hitting of Poe, who rapped out four safe ones, including a four-bagger.

The first victory was followed by losing one and tying with U. of Ga. The first game was dropped by the score of 7 to 6. For the Tigers, the hitting of Poe, Richbourg and Bankhead, while the fielding of Jordan and Harris, were outstanding. The second game was an eleven-inning duel between Boozer and Satterfield, ending 2-2. The pitching of Boozer, who held Georgia to three singles, was outstanding, while the fielding of Woodward and Poe aided the young twirler in keeping the hits low.

Carolina came up and split with the Tigers, taking the first game, 2-1. The work of Garrison on the mound, the hitting of Atkinson, and a one-handed stab by Woodward, was outstanding. The second game was a fair specimen of what the Tigers were capable of doing. They won an easy victory of 8 to 2. The whole team fielded and hit the old pill as though they were playing the Reds for the world’s championship.

The champions next fell victims to the “spit ball artist” from P. C. This was one of the prettiest games on the local diamond. They played errorless ball, but could not connect at the right time. P. C. won 2 to 1.

The Tigers journeyed down to Anderson and met the snappy Erskine nine. Of course, the A. C. girls were present, and the purple and gold were flying everywhere. The Tigers seemed to be attracted too much by the pretty girls, and, as a result, Erskine carried away the bacon, 6 to 1.

The Tigers came home and pounced upon the Citadel, defeating the military lads from the “City by the Sea,” 9 to 2. Wofford came over and captured a beautiful twelve-inning game, 4 to 3.

The Tigers left home on the last round of the season, full of pep and fighting spirit. The first stop was made at Erskine, and the “Holy City” boys took the game, 3 to 0. From there, the team journeyed to Newberry with the determination to end the season successfully. Atkinson was called to oppose the mighty Luther, and “Lefty” proved equal to the task, the Tigers winning, 3-1. The feature of the game was the “double-squeeze” by the Tigers in the fifth.

The Tigers then strayed to the Capitol to meet our old rival, the Gamecocks. Major Thrower was selected to work for the Tigers, while Skinner was chosen by the Gamecocks. The game proved to be a pitchers’ duel, with Thrower receiving the best support, the Tigers winning, 4-0. The feature for the Tigers was the playing of Jordan at short and the pitching of Thrower and the batting of Poe.

With the final game of the season at hand, Coach “Jiggs” asked Capt. Thrower if he would like to end his Clemson career on the mound, and although holding the Gamecocks to four hits the previous day, Major was eager to show that he could do it again. The game developed into one of the prettiest ever played on the Carolina diamond. Thrower again pitched masterful ball, allowing the Carolina lads only three singles, the Tigers winning, 1-0.

Although the Tigers began the season with eight straight defeats and lost many of the remaining games, the team fought like true Tigers all through the season.

With “Country” Morris with us as coach and “Jug” Harris as captain, we are looking for a very successful team in 1920.
Varsity in Action
Basket Ball

HEN "Country" Morris started basketball practice, just after the Christmas holidays, he found awaiting his pleasure one of the best bunches of court material that the Tigers ever boasted of. “Pinkey” Colbert traveled the long and dusty road the whole way from Oklahoma, and his playing not only gave him an unquestioned place on the all-state quint, but also made him a terror throughout the entire South. “Pinkey” never failed to star in a single game played. Black was another of the letter men out for another season, and his playing won praise from spectators in every game. Going undertook the job of managing the team and displayed in grand style both his managerial ability and his ability as a star player. Boggs, a man of the class of ’20, made his debut in basketball circles in the Tigers’ first game of the season and won for himself a permanent berth on the team. Boggs’ work as jumping center excelled that of all opponents. Coles, with a nickname of “Pick,” played scrub ball under Coach Donahue last season, and this season he proved not only worthy of a permanent roost, but also a sensation. Bryan, a recruit, came to Tigertown with the sole purpose of playing basketball and started the ball rolling by winning a berth on the team in his “rat” year. Fitzgerald, another pride of the class of ’20, decided very late in life that he would like to try his hand at tossing baskets, and, for the first time in his life, tried for the varsity team. “Fitz” made the team and also made a hit with his playing. Black, M. J., another one of Anderson’s famed ladies’ men, played with the Tigers this season for his fourth attempt, and his efforts this year met with great success.

After the Gamecock battle, the Tigers undertook to invade Georgia soil and were defeated by the University of Georgia by a score of 36 to 22. Georgia Tech was then taken on in Atlanta and the Clemsonites were recorded as having lost another game, the score being 32 to 26. Manager Going then brought the Tiger quintmen back into friendly territory and invited the boys from Auburn over for a game. Auburn came over and gave the Tigers the worst licking of the season, winning by a score of 60 to 11. After the Auburn affair the birds from the University of Georgia came over and won a game by a score of 34 to 24. That game ended the Tigers losing streak and Lady Luck paid more attention to Morris’ gang than ever before. Davidson was played at Davidson and was defeated by a score of 28 to 25. Coach Morris then went to Clinton and defeated the Presbyterian lads, 32 to 23. The next game was played in the Tiger’s own back yard, with the boys from Newberry as visitors. In this game the visitors made only 15 points, while the Tigers piled up 53 counters. Then came the big event of the season—the game which the Tigers longed for and which every loyal Tiger swore to win. The birds with the yellow jackets came over with the intention of giving Clemson another licking, but the Tigers were ready for any punishment that the Techites might be able to inflict.
Black, M. J.  Coles  Boggs  Colbert
Fitzgerald  Black, J. M.  Bryan
Clem on opened the game with a rush, and before the end of the first half of the Little Georgia Tech was a defeated aggregation. The Tigers put the dubbin' on Tech in great style and allowed the boys from Georgia to assemble only 17 points, while they were racing the floor for 41 points. The season ended with a game with Presbyterian College on the home grounds. P. C. went good during the last half, but could do nothing better than make 37 points against the Tiger's 51.

The Seniors put out one of the best basketball teams ever seen on the local court. The senior five won the title in the first half and then interested things up a bit by giving the "rats" a chance in the second half. Then came the finals—three games between the seniors and the freshies for the rag. The seniors won out in the last game by the score of 16 to 15. Boggs, at center, played a class of ball that won him a berth on the varsity squad. Black, at forward, put up a snappy game throughout the season. Power, at guard, also played a fast game. The playing of McGee and Jones at guard was largely responsible for the winning of the cup by the seniors. Cullum, at guard, also played good ball.
Track

AF TER a season’s delay during the scrap with Kaiser Bill, the Tiger trackmen donned the flimsy togs and began to warm up. The time they started practice was during the first days of March and the call was sent out by the manager of the Trackmen, “Pint” Cornwell. Not a single letter-man was back at College, therefore, the team had to be made up of recruits and a few of the men who had scrubbed during the 1917 season. The athletic association could not obtain the services of a coach; therefore “Jiggs” Donahue watched the men run around a bit while cussin’ out the ball players.

The candidates tried out after a fashion and finally Manager Cornwell delayed his daily visit to the town of Pendleton long enough to attend to the arranging of a training table for his crew. Then Cecil Hicks was elected captain of the bunch, and the Tigers traveled to Atlanta to meet in the Southern Competition on Grant’s Field. Clemson came out in great style in the preliminaries, but the final strain got the best of the Tigers and fifth place, out of a possible thirteenth place, was made by the field men of Tigertown. Clemson ended the meet boasting of nine points. Five of these points was made by Covington on the high jump, and the remaining four was split fifty-fifty between Carter and Boggs. Clemson failed to land a place in the speed proposition.

Next the Gamecocks of Carolina began to crow because they thought that they had at last cinched the state championship or something. Then the Tigers challenged those birds from Columbia and finally the Gamecock and the Tiger met at Tigertown one bright Saturday afternoon. After an hour or more the Gamecocks could boast of only 28 points, while the Tigers had rolled up a total of 81 points. Carter proved the individual star of the afternoon, with a total of sixteen points. Voight and Boggs tied for second, each with ten points to their credit. Covington took first place in the high jump while Hicks was coming in first in the 440. Morecock took first place in the half while Going finished first in the mile. Carolina scored only one first place.

The prospects for a winning track team this season are as bright as April sunshine. Coach Fox, a former Georgia star, is to handle the flimsy clad men of Tigertown and with Covington for the jumps, Boggs for the vaulting, Going for the distances, Gilmer for the shot, Colbert for the discus, and Voight for the sprints, he has a nucleus around which to build a winning team. And, then, Manager Covington has announced that the Tigers are to participate in not less than four meets this season, one of which is to be the S. I. A. A. meet in Atlanta.

The personnel of the team as it appeared at the close of last season:

Carter—18 Points—Broad Jump, Shot Put, Hurdles, Pole Vault.
Boggs—12 Points—Pole Vault, Discus, Hurdles, Shot Put.
Covington—12 Points—High Jump, Broad Jump.
Voight—10 Points—100 and 220 Yard Dashes.
Morecock—7 Points—Mile and Half-mile.
Going—7 Points—Mile and Half-mile.
Hicks—6 Points—440 and 100 Yards.
Gower—2 Points—440 Yard Dash.
Young—1 Point—220 Yard Dash.
Saunders—1 Point—44 Yard Dash.
Tiger Fishmen

And again, the Tiger swimmers are organized and ready for a big season on the water. We just can’t say what’s the reason, but the only team that is willing to meet the Tigers is the bunch from Georgia Tech. But, as this sheet goes to print, the waterhead manager of the water ducks states that he is endeavoring to get the Tigers a meet with some of the best teams in the South. Brenau was suggested as a source for a challenge, but, being a married man, the manager thought that his wife might object. The Tigers were greatly weakened by the loss of Schirmer, who was the main star on last season’s team; but a good many of the recruits are showing the form, and coach, water boy, bell hop, etc., Schwettmann says that he is confident of putting out a winning team.

The personnel of the team for the 1920 season is as follows:

Olandt—20 and 40 Yards Dash and Relay.
Muckenfuss—Medley and 40 Yard Breast.
Robinson—220 Yard, 40 Yard Back, and Medley.
Geraty—100 Yard, 40 Yard Back and Relay.
Crossland—40 and 100 Yards and Relay.
Bryan—20 and 100 Yards and Relay.

G stands for Greenville, so near yet so far,
H stands for heat, always below par.
I is for Ikey, either Sammy or Jake.
J, that man, Jensen, makes the poor Aggies quake.
K is the letter that's silent in flea,
L is for Luke, our General-to-be!
M stands for Maiden, the Chorus-girl, kind.
N stands for Neelly, for flirting he's fined!
O is for Officer, either Major or Late.
P is old"Fug," oh! ain't he cute!!
Q—that's a question which we can't approve,
R—cruel Reveille, our sleep to remove.
S stands for sausage, an unusual bill of fare.
T stands for Toper, a creature so rare.
U is for Union, together we stand,
V is for Victory, the cry of our Clan.
W's for Women—they take all our time.
X, Y, and Z is the end of our rhyme!

Jokes

Clemson's one-time favorite song: "The Flatter the Plate the Fewer the Soup."

"Boo" Armstrong (to sweetheart): "Last night I dreamed that you were very much in love with me. What would that mean?"
She: "It means that you were dreaming."

"Chap" Chapman: "That building seems to be going round and round."
"Bob" Blake: "Naturally; it's a circulating library."

Heard in a "bull-ring:" "Say, boys, did you even see a horse fly, an inkstand, an umbrella holder, or a cement walk?"
(Small noise in rear): "No, but I've seen a pot-plant, a photo-play, and a 'Dear Kiss.'"

She (telephoning to him): "Dear, send me a kiss over the phone."
"Gaitor" Brown: "Oh, no! Our cook is on our party-line, and the wires might get crossed.

INFORMATION WANTED

The COLUMBIANS want to know why the census reporters left out 30,000 people from the city's population.
"Pegag" Allison wants to know ten or twelve more girls who desire to correspond with a charming young man.
"Road" Shedd wants to meet Sergeant York and discuss the last war.

SOCIAL ITEM

Quite a spry old place, Tigertown is. We have some of the following royalty with us: 2 Kings, Dukes, 1 Knight, 2 Bishops. Their money is handled by a Bankhead who runs their Banks and issues Bond(s) to the Goldsmith, who fixes their Price. Their money will buy them a Carr with which they Cann travel over England. One of the Kings, having no Hair, tries the Lemon treatment and sleeps constantly on his Davenport. He wears a Hood to keep the Storks from picking on his shiny Berry.

She: "Do you love me Frank, dear?"
"Joe" Rivers: "Frank? Not Frank; Joseph."
She: "Oh! I forgot. I thought it was Wednesday night."

Telegram Operator: "Don't you want to sign this telegram?"
"Jimmy" Poole: "It isn't any use. My girl knows my handwriting."

"Preacher" Jeter: "Did you know, Professor, that I always speak as I think?"
Professor: "Yes, only oftener."

"A little satire now and then, is relished by the wisest men."

Many a picture of health is hand-painted.

SLEEP

By an anti-reveilleus

SLEEP—The gunmen, divorcées, speedsters, tired business men, shimmiers, and even the poor Kadettes are crying for it, moaning for it, bewailing for it. Indeed, it should be had.

According to Prof. A. Schleapppee Hededmann, we should have at least ten hours of sleep and four hours of peaceful meditation in bed. During this time we can rest our poor bones from the tiresome labors of the day, and think over the problem of how to get out of paying the gas bill (this refers to class '20 only), how to get away with the thousand and one problems that confront a man at college (this includes the abolition of reveille and angel food at mess) and how to persuade her to be Mrs. instead of Miss, (here you go again, dip-getters). These wonderful hours can be aptly put to the use of constructing Castles in Spain and of "blowing bubbles."

The average Kadette is overcome by the strenuous disease of Neurasthenia. What is it? Why, it's the reason that mine and thine is so confused, why we can't learn that fifty page lesson in "——" (here supply any subject in the catalog), and why we write twenty pages to "She" and only one measly post-card home.

Oh, Sleep, what crimes are committed in thy name! Oh, Sleep, thou Alternating Current in the Electricity of Life!! Oh, thou key that winds up the timepiece of Life, the Eternal Ingersoll of the Yawning Kadette.

THAT CLASS '20 DECK

ACE (of Spades, except after a good shower)—"Dago" Jones.
KING (of the rum squad)—"Spot" Voight.
QUEEN (one of many, yet the only one)—Any '20 man's girl.
JACK (with the proper suffix, i.e., "Pegasus")—"Peg" Allison.
TEN (when it comes to African golf)—"Cy" Young.
NINE (Curfew-time in Prosperity)—"George" Wise.
EIGHT (past tense of his favorite pastime)—"Charlie" Kendrick.
SEVEN (three twins and a boy! Maybe, 1930)—"Stud" Baker.
SIX (A. M. and home from the Club!)—"Bill" Rodgers.
FIVE (make it 4.98 and I'll take it)—"Razor" Ginner.
FOUR (time to quit work, personified by)—"Eddie" Bunch.
TREY (the kind they serve breakfast on?)—"Bill" Moore.
DEUCE (the lowest in the deck—steerage)—"Shorty" Lawhon.
JOKER (at least he thinks he is)—"Froggy" Altman.

Alumni Department in the Far Future.

Mr. Rainbow Shedd, who for the past forty years has been speaking on the subject of the "great war," recently spoke in New York City on his time-worn oration, "How I won the War."

Brigadier-General Leland, who, when at Tigertown was a great militarist, is now commandant of the State Insane Asylum at Columbia.

Messrs. Tubby Holley and Squeedunk McEachern, who were such prosperous dealers in second-hand jewelry while at Clemson, are now the sole owners of Uncle Iddy's Hock Shop at Pomaria, S. C.

"Count" A. H. Dula is now Mayor of the prosperous city of Monck's Corner, S. C. Count was always one of the royalty.

Hammond, J. A., is now director of the Band at Prosperity, S. C. Mr. Hammond settled here soon after the Class graduated.

"J. Switzer Pegasus Hevamp" Allison is now one of the country's foremost birdmen. He is popularly known as the "Ace of Spades." Besides being a great flyer, "Peg" is still vamping the ladies, now corresponding with females in forty states and Mexico.

Mr. Suber Allen is now in the Citrus Fruit business, with Lemons as a specialty. As Suber injects his personality into his business, he is a great success.

Mr. J. Spot Voight is now Editor of the "Charleston Half-Acre Buzzard," the South's foremost yellow sheet. As a murderer of the English Lingo, Red is paramount, having mispelled four thousand words in one article, which won him undying fame.

Our old friend, D. Ravenel, is now chief argufer for the Christian Science Debating Council. Dan has at last received his calling, he being famous for once arguing that Black was White because Red was Green. He won.

Rimes and Rimes

There was a young fellow named O'Dell,
Who first met a girl and then fell.
   He gazed at her frock,
   Stumped his toe on a rock,
   And gently muttered out, "Oh, H!"

There was a young gent, "Cutie" Holley,
Whose life was serious, not Folly.
   But he once met a girl,
   Set his brain in a whirl,
   And he fell for the lassie, O! Golly.

The graduate of today enters a world electrical.

Gathered from the distant waterfalls or generated by the steam turbine, electric power is transmitted to the busiest city or the smallest country place.

Through the co-ordination of inventive genius with engineering and manufacturing resources, the General Electric Company has fostered and developed to a high state of perfection these and numerous other applications.

And as electricity, nearly as old as the graduate of today, appears in a practical, well-developed service on every hand, recognize its power, study its applications to your life's work, and utilize it to the utmost for the benefit of all mankind.

LEFAX

Facts-on-Leaves.

That success in business and engineering depends to a large extent on accurate, up-to-date information is axiomatic. The problem is how to get it quickly when you need it.

Bound books are likely to be somewhat out of date even at the time they are published. The periodicals are good and necessary, but they are not convenient for reference. If you clip the articles which interest you, chances are you can't find them when you need them. If you don't clip, you probably forget where and when any particular article appeared.

LEFAX has solved this problem for thousands of men. The editors constantly search through periodicals, proceedings of business and technical societies, government publications, etc., for helpful data.

The articles selected are carefully checked for accuracy and boiled down to essentials. They are then published in standard loose-leaf form, self-indexed and classified for filing into filing boxes or cabinets. The sheets are also punched for insertion in the pocket binder, so that you can carry them conveniently when you go on a trip.

The old standard data, such as tables of weights and measures, interest and discount, logarithms, mathematical formulas, properties of steam, wire capacities, water, flow, etc., are also published in this form so that you can have both the new and the old data together in one place.

About 1900 data sheets (3800 pages) have already been published. You can get as much or as little of this collection as you want. You can buy the complete set, or one or more of the classified sets containing sheets relating to a particular branch, or you can go over the list and select just the sheets you want. New data sheets are published monthly.

LEFAX BLANK SHEETS

Another part of the Lefax system is the series of blank forms which enable you to keep at your finger tips the results of your own investigations, the data which you collect in your reading, and the information you gather from conversation with other men. There are over 100 different forms. You simply write or chart the facts you want to keep on a blank suited to the purpose, fill in the proper index words in the upper right-hand corner, and file alphabetically.

You can also keep your diary, expense account, addresses, appointments and ordinary memoranda on these sheets.

All these forms are the same size and punching as the data sheets so that your own notes and the printed data sheets can be combined in the same book or file.

LEFAX MAGAZINE

Lefax also publishes a unique monthly magazine containing interesting and useful articles on business, management, advertising and selling, labor problems, government, education, science and many other timely topics. The magazine pages are also sized and punched like the loose-leaves, indexed and classified, and articles which interest you are conveniently removed for filing.

The magazine contains the monthly list of new data sheets and keeps subscribers posted regarding other developments in loose-leaf service.

Many thousands of men are using Lefax. Hundreds of them have written UNSOLICITED that Lefax has made their work easier and pleasanter, that it has increased their efficiency—their earning power. Chances are it can do the same for you. Look it over at our store and give it a trial.

Royster's Fertilizers

Fertilizers contain plant foods which the growing crops take up and use to produce greater yields, just as animals eat corn, hay, etc., which they digest and use to increase their size and weight. Only when animals are fed a properly balanced ration in sufficient quantities, do they make economical gains; similarly, only when plants are supplied with fertilizer properly proportioned to meet their requirements, do they produce the most profitable yields.

Many materials are used in making fertilizers and many of these materials act differently: some act quickly and some results on other crops, so it is very important that these fertilizer materials be selected and combined in such a way as to slowly, some are best for one crop, while others give better meet the needs of different crops, and F. S. Royster Guano Company has made a study of this subject and manufactures fertilizers especially suited to different crops and to different soils.
