In presenting the 1927 volume of "Taps" our aspirations have been two-fold: we have striven to picture accurately Clemson as it is—progressive, successful—in hopes of instigating further progress; and to set forth a composite, tangible reminiscence that will brighten fading memories long after the hair has turned grey and the golden web of youth has been spun.

Dedication

As an emblem of appreciation, admiration, and respect to one who has proved himself a success, who has exerted every ounce of energy and ability that he possesses for the betterment of this institution, who has been a friend, a counselor, and a guardian of progress; we, the Class of 1927, dedicate this volume of "Taps" to

Book I
A new world loomed before us
Whose globe we four years trod
The scenes of nature’s grandeur
The path awinding upward
Gave counsel to a man

Eleven
And likewise, in the living,
Dwells a guiding hand.
A crystal moonlit fountain
Lent lure to Love’s hue
Here, as the creeping ivy,
Our understanding grew
A tradition-mantled structure
Beckoned duty to the fore
A noble fallen hero
Prompts courage despite gore.

Private; Corporal; Sergeant; First Lieutenant; Cosmopolitan Club; Manager Track and Cross Country; Vice-President Cosmopolitan Club '26; A. S. C. E.; President A. S. C. E. '27; Member Senior Class Council; Member Clemson College Golf Club; Sabre Club; Member Clemson Rifle Team, Camp McClellan, '26; Rifle Sharpshooter, R. O. T. C., Camp McClellan, Ala.

Walter left the plains of Alabama to join the Clemson Tigers in the fall of '23. Soon after his arrival they gave him the name "Johnnie" along with numerous others, but the first has outlived all the others.

Johnnie cast his lot with the Electricals, but after a year he decided that he would join the Civils, and with them he expects to graduate in June. In this course he has been a success and we expect him to continue so that some day Clemson will justly be proud of him.

To know him is to like him, because he is always jolly and a friend to every one. He is liked not only by the boys, but by the girls as well.

Though he will leave his "Tiger" friends in June, he will not be forgotten. We, the Senior Class, wish him the very best of luck in his problems of life.

Ludlow, the boy from Meriwether, came to Clemson in the fall of '22 with full intentions of being among the followers of Agriculture, but as the time passed he was convinced that he had made a mistake in the choice of a course. He knew that he was not made for a farmer, so he turned to Civil Engineering as his life's work.

Ludlow's aim is to be a Civil Engineer who is looked upon as one who accomplishes something worth while.

Go to it boy, we are all behind you and expect you to make a success in any course you may choose to follow.

C.; Senior R. O. T. C.; Camp McClellan, Ala.; Jailbird Club.

Ross, a product of the Anderson High School and Bailey Military Institute, emerged from the fog in the fall of '23, and came to the air of the far-famed Tiger. He felt the need of a higher education; he came after it, and got it. Upon finishing Bailey Military Institute, Ross jumped into the business whirl and became connected with a well known Anderson cotton firm. After grinding away for more than a year he suddenly realized that his educational motor didn't have the power to propel him up and above the muddling throng. Did he quit? No, he went in search of more intellectual gas; Clemson became his filling station.

As for personality, "Alec" has one of those "winning" ones. He is an optimist, in the strictest sense of the word. He wears a perpetual smile, knows no enemies, but has a host of friends of both sexes.

Here's to you "Alec"; we wish you much success.

The sorrow that attended the departure of "R. D." from Clio for the halls of learning of Clemson in '23 was nothing compared to the sorrow that will be ours when we part from him in the never-to-be-forgotten year of 1927.

Although the ranks of the "Educationalists" were swelled by the addition of "R. D.", during the four years that he has been with them, he has taken an active interest in anything that would help his Alma Mater. The disciples of "Sookie" were indeed fortunate to secure such a valuable addition to their number. The loss of him will mean the loss of a man who has filled a place as no one else could have filled it, and one who has always been willing and glad to help others to help themselves.

The best that we can wish "R. D." is nothing more than he well deserves, and we have the highest expectations that he will make as much of a success of life as he has made of his college career. Our best wishes go with you, "R. D."

Harold, feeling rather ambitious, decided to cast his lot with the Mechanicals, and because of the desire to see something that doesn't exist, he has explored the mysteries of steam with a determination that cannot be excelled.

Shortly after reaching Tigertown this young lad realized that four years was a very short time in which to prepare for his chosen profession, and as a result he has been a hard worker. He is a man who thinks a lot and acts only on his convictions. Harold possesses that "never say die" spirit which is sure to characterize his success in life.

You can always find Harold where the fun is thickest, and if he is once your friend you can always rely on him. His congenial disposition, sterling integrity, and wonderful strength of character have won for him the admiration of all who know him.

Harold, the boy, may be the best in the world be years.

"Crip" decided that he could see better things by looking through a telescope, so in the fall of '23 he joined the "Clarke Clan." Ever since he has been one of the boys.

While at Clemsom he has made many friends among the faculty and the students. In fact, he has gained the friendship and respect of everyone who has met him. "Crip's" combination of characteristics has helped him wonderfully in gaining so many friends here and at other colleges (where they do not play football). He seems to be at home anywhere, and it seems that he always "fits in."

Besides being one of "King" Cole's Expert Machine Gunners, "Crip" has done many other things which prove that he is fully capable of doing his share of the work.

Here's a wish and a bet that "Crip" Aull will make things hunk in this old Solar System.

"Though-boy", for thus he is known to everyone, has by friendliness and witty sayings won the admiration of all his classmates. After becoming acquainted with Clemson and the Tiger Spirit, he decided to join the ranks of those who uphold the Purple and Gold on the gridiron. Since making this decision, he has fought like a real Tiger. He chose the Civil Engineering course as his college work, and it is very likely that he will succeed in life as he has here. Class work comes first with him, but it is rumored that he always finds time to write to some fair maiden in Walkhall.

Paul, luck to you. May success be yours in whatever you undertake.

Hard working, industrious, amiable, and courteous—that's "Jake." These qualities have bound to him many friends—friends not only for college days, but friends for life. To know him is to know a man.

The results of his hard work, industriousness, and amiability are best shown in the manner in which he edited The Tiger and commanded the second battalion. In addition, his class work has not suffered, for he ranks high.

"Jake" plans to go into the army after graduation. This will be a loss to the civil engineering profession, but when one wins someone else must lose.

As far as records show, Cupid's dart has failed to pierce the heart of this young man. But we do know that if the prize were to fall it would be a rich one for the "inferior sex."

Here is the best of success to you, "Jake."

We are proud that we have had the privilege of knowing and working with you. We expect you to be Chief of Staff of the United States Army some day.

"Still water runs deep," and "Johnny" is true to the maxim. Records showed the worth of a capable, concentrated brain, and opposite these records appeared the name "Baker". With each passing year grew the love and respect for "Johnny" in the hearts of his schoolmates.

The prominence and popularity of most men is quickened by fate, reaches a climax, and soon recedes. It shall never be so with "Johnny". Each of the many honors that has been bestowed upon him, and the many prominent offices that he has filled, have been made into sound stepping stones leading upward to the untold heights of success.

No words are too colorful, no praising too emphatic to portray accurately this "man among men". Yet few words may picture him: were the men of the world lined up and a selection made of a friendship that the best would cherish, "Johnny" would stand foremost.

In the fall of '23 there emerged from the sand dunes of Chesterfield a lad, bound for new worlds to conquer. He chose Clemson as his objective and therefore entered the ranks of "rattlers" with a crash. During his four years here he has done himself justice in his work—displaying outstanding abilities, sharing equal honors with the best in his class. His name is inscribed among the few who have met the requirements and qualifications of distinction. His outside activities have been mostly literary. The Chronicle has been replete with his many poems. "W. L." is a true friend and gentleman—a man whose friendship is golden. So, here's to you, old boy! May many fond memories of old C. A. C. linger with you and help you to "carry on" and never forget the Class of '27 and your Alma Mater.

Harold is one of the boys who have come to us from the “town on the Edisto.” As we review the history of the Class of ’27 we see him, a smiling, cheerful, happy young lad, and his four years with us have made of a loyal Tiger an even more loyal one.

Harold has chosen as his work Electrical Engineering, since he must have realized that Engineering is the art of taking the material at hand and producing a finished product that is polished and ready for service. From “Crip” and the others, he has absorbed some of the methods of that process.

He is one of the men who have given little thought to distance and transportation when it came to taking a trip. He has always succeeded in arriving at his destination without any trouble.

However, when we come to the end of a class history, we find a man who has always been a true Tiger, an honest man standing four-square for the right, a little man with a big heart and a winning personality. He is a true friend, and a gentleman, and to know him is to love him. May success be yours, Harold; we know it awaits you.

A rare combination, one that is seldom found, this,—always a pleasing countenance, and a store of ready wit and talent. Fred is the embodiment of these striking traits. None know him but to like him; his sterling character and jovial good nature have won him many friends and a warm place in the hearts of every classmate.

Fred has that touch of “stickability” that always results in the accomplishment of what he sets out to do.

In many forms of college activities we find Fred a steady booster; he has been a loyal “Tiger”, and judging from his correspondence we would think that he is loyal to one of the fairer sex.

Fred has chosen Agronomy as his major course. Go to it, Fred. We are wishing you a happy future along with the choice of your heart.

Friends, here you have a true fighter, one who holds his ground to the last ditch. As one of Uncle Sam's fighting "Doughboys" in the "old Hickory" division, he helped to break the famous Hindenburg line. We envy him the wound he received in his country's service. Here we have proof of the fighting spirit of this Tiger.

Charles joined the Tigers fresh from his ventures into the field of matrimony. (This occasion in his life probably spurred him on.) He has pursued his studies in his chosen field of horticulture faithfully and well. His conscientious and diligent work has won for him the unreserved respect of his professors. He numbers many friends among his classmates because of his frankness and pleasing disposition.

Keep fighting, Charles. We predict for you a bright future.

The little town of Ashton gave up a worthy son when Marshall decided to enter Clemson in the fall of '25. Since that time he has gained many friends and proved himself an earnest worker. We do not know just what this aggressive youngster's plans are for the future, but we believe he intends to specialize in some branch of Science. Here is where we wish him success.

Class work comes first with him, but since he is a well known "Sheik", he can always find time to write to that fair maiden at Withrop College.

M. R., your natural ability, combined with the inspiration of that little girl, is sure to make a success of you. Success for you is our fondest wish.

In the fall of 1923 Clemson gathered to her folds a nobleman of nature, one "Bill" Berry by name. To know him is to discover a heart of purest gold enshrouded within a cloak of honest friendliness and sincerity. Although he has not yet startled the world with any wondrous works, nor has he thrilled a grandstand with the feats of an athletic Nimrod, he has accomplished a feat more enviable than either of these. He has acquired the esteem and respect of all who know him; things that gold cannot buy. The crystal sphere prophesies a fruitful future for him.

This young man joined the ranks of the Tiger clan in the fall of '23. We all agree that Ridge Springs lost one of her most worthy lads, but Clemson profited by the loss: for George is a loyal Tiger, a true friend, and a gentleman. He is a man of high ideals and possesses a strong character. This lad has a smile for everyone, and is always ready to lend a helping hand to the unfortunate. He has won a warm place in the hearts of the students and of all who know him.

From the interest he has taken recently in Winthrop College, we predict that he will soon take one of the fairer sex to share his happiness.

Best wishes and good luck to you, George ole boy. The Class of '27 feels confident that success is yours.

With several years of Prep School preparation, "Doc" entered Clemson with a determination which, backed by ability, has molded for this institution and this state a wonderful prospect of future years. His work and achievements here have been great in every respect.

Seriousness is an asset possessed by few college men. "Doc" possesses this envied attribute. Reserve, true friendship, deep sense of duty, and loyalty to every act and friend also go to make a combination seldom found among boys. Duty before pleasure, friends before self, and thought before speech or action—all these can be justly applied to Brabham.

Although quiet and unassuming "Doc" has been honored with a great many leading positions in college and student activities. His scholastic records show steady work in his chosen course. He leaves us with his record unblemished.

May the best be yours, "Doc". May your success be great and your troubles few. We shall expect great things of you in life.

Hailing from the mossy and sunny land of the Edisto River section, his life is necessarily a romantic one. His is the history which should be written in metre—a life made up of witty jokes and merry repartee. "Buddie" claims that he was never a ladies' man but we believe he was, and that he quit from an over dose of female attention. His "Hum" betrays him, though, and we have a lingering suspicion that he was a salesman for a matrimonial bureau, since he is so adept at getting his friends in "dutch", yet manages to stay free and single himself. He can tell you what kind of a girl she is by her stationery, and the workings of the ladies' minds are as clear to him as the Evolution problem. Coming from "Geechee land" he possesses a rare brogue which he, alone, can understand, if slightly excited.

However, "Buddie" is an earnest worker and a thorough student, a true friend to all, well deserving the many friends that he has made during his stay at Clemson.

In the fall of ’23 there came to Clemson a lad who has won for himself many friends, through his splendid personality and good nature. Leland decided from the first that he wanted to become an Electrical Engineer; so he cast his lot with “Crip” and he is now, according to “Crip”, a rival of the Class of ’09.

Leland is a product of Central High School and this institution may well be proud of him. Besides holding his own in classes, he has made quite a name for himself in athletics.

No truer Tiger than Leland has ever walked the Clemson campus, and we wish him all the luck he deserves in the future.

Sit up and take notice, dear readers. The above picture represents one of Salley’s proud citizens. Salley is very proud of him, and proud she should be, for he is a very fine fellow. Brodie, as we know him, but “Harold” to Columbia College, entered Clemson in the fall of ’23. He decided at once to become one of “Crips’” protégés, and cast his lot with the electrical engineers. Quite wise was his decision, for he is a very adaptable fellow, and makes good at anything he undertakes. We may expect Salley to be revolutionizing the electrical industry in the near future.

Brodie is a boy whom everybody likes. He makes friends everywhere. He has only one weakness and that is “girls”. But it also seems that the girls have a weakness when they encounter this fair lad from Aiken County.

Here’s luck to you, Harold, and may your luck be evenly distributed between Perry and Salley.

To the world at large this lad is known as W. Carroll Brown, but such a title fails to expose the wholesome manliness that the name "Buck" rightly infers. Intellectually, "Buck" far exceeds the average student, which fact his college record attests in vivid certainty. But his intellectuality is not of the narrow, memory-efficient type. He has discernment, forethought, keen analytical power, and enviable creative and imaginative capacities. All his judgments are of a cool, unerring type, yet there is a geniality and warmth about his criticisms that provokes admiration. He has a liveness of mind and personality that escape exact definition.

Weighty, impressive, striking, he is never so mechanically polished that he loses the enchantment of personal warmth and enthusiasm. His life is the equilibrium of mental excellence, strength of will, and emotional moderation. His career has been a following of the paths of the "Golden Mean".

Wilson, the fair blonde lad from Florence, has made his impression on the hearts of his fellow classmates during his four years in our midst by being always ready for a joll' excitement. He has used enough tires and gasoline going to Rock Hill to make Henry Ford's Fords, and John D. Rockefeller's gas business an assured success. If Winthrop loves him like he loves Winthrop, we look for nuptials as soon as they both find it out. He knows, personally, eleven hundred cadets and has eleven hundred friends at Clemson. He will always be a success because he always strives to succeed wherever he goes. Whatever his task in life is, he will be surrounded by well wishing friends. Here's luck to you, Wilson.

When he came to the parting of the Lo! Here is a man who can think and act for himself. This lad hails from Honea Path; and Honea Path's loss was Clemson's gain. In "Jimmie" is embodied those traits that make a real man. He has not only demonstrated these traits in the classroom, but also on the Cross-country course, and in track as well.

"Jimmie" has made scores of friends at Clemson, and fortunate indeed is the man who can call him friend for here he has one who will stick by him through thick and thin and never reckon the consequences. With his ability, his high ideals, his power of determination, we cannot predict anything but a bright future for him in the Mechanical world.

Luck to you, "Jimmie".

Carter, commonly known to us as Troy, came to Clemson in the fall of '24, determined to waste his time taking Agriculture, but as all great men do, Troy realized his first big mistake in life; therefore, he changed courses and decided to take the best course at Clemson College, Textile Engineering. It took a good man to make up the work that Troy did in order to finish with the Class of '27, but of course he was equal to the task.

During the time that Troy spent at Tigertown, his friends looked upon him as being a boy of fine character, high morals, and determination. With these qualities blended together one cannot look for anything but success of the highest degree; and we are sure that before long, he will be one of the leading "bobbin' dodgers" of the South.

When "O. R." sheaded the train for Clemson in the fall of '23 there was heard above the roar of sirens and fog horns a mournful drone. What was it? Yes, quite right! The wails of Weeping Wis-
don. She knew her doom was sealed for Causey was off in war paint and on her trail. Others had found her an elusive will of the wisp. At last a determined little warrrior with a spirit of never-say-die was abroad, and when such is the case, victory needs must crown him.

Yes, that's Causey straight through. A plucky little fellow, a friend true as steel, and a scholar of estimable worth. He is a Tarheel by adoption but a Sandlapper at heart, with innumerable friends among the

"Gerald", as he is known to the moun-

All of his spare time he has devoted to business transactions in the candy and confectionery line, and today stands as the greatest financial "wizard" of the class.

Charlie came to us in the fall of '23 from the city of Williamston. He came to Clemson for several reasons—the most important was to get the preliminary training necessary before entering the Textile world. He is a diligent worker, and is striving for the things that are worth while. His one weakness is the power that the fairer sex has over him.

His pleasing and unassuming personality has won him a warm place in the hearts of his many friends. He is a true friend, a loyal Tiger, and is always ready to help anyone in any way he can.

It is not necessary to predict a future for this lad because we all know he will be a real success in all walks of life. So here's to you, Charlie. We wish you the best of luck and happiness in the future.

Out of the shadow of the standpipe in the City of Belton crept a shy and lowly candidate for "rathood." A sudden, despondent group of fellows have gathered. The world seems to have no charm, and life is bleak and dreary. The door opens, a glow of enthusiasm, warmth, and good fellowship immediately fills the room. Frowns give place to smiles and the new comer establishes himself a little dearer in the hearts of his friends.

Thus may we picture "Jake". In disposition he is a paragon. His very being is a smile, but not the authentic type that bores. He possesses a keen intellect and an originality of wit that one seldom is graced with. The ability to judge human nature is termed "A Gift from Heaven", if this be true, Heaven never opened its flood gate more bountifully on one mortal than on Ezra. And along with his gracious endowment came a quality worshiped by the gods—sincerity.

"Jake", during his four years at college, has woven many, many unspeakable friendships that will follow him through life.

In the fall of '23 the Twin City, Batesburg-Leesville, was thrown into the chaos of distress, because of the unexpected exodus of one of its most noted celebrities, "Red" Cullum. Where, why, and how he had gone was a puzzling mystery to his many friends in the quiet city that was proud to claim him as her own.

"Red" had decided to become a Tiger. Furthermore, "Red" chose Civil Engineering as his life's work; his chief ambition being to dam up Cripple Creek, a booming brook whose gushing, irresistible torrent had often wafted "Red's" sailboats into the land of the unknown.

"Red" has not let his studies interfere with his health, but nevertheless he has developed into a proficient engineer.

This loyal "Tiger" hails from the nearby village of Sandy Springs, which, though but a speck on the map, has furnished Clemson with some of her best men. "Bob" has a pleasing personality that wins the esteem of those around him and gains him friends on every hand. This, with his natural ability, has accounted in large measure for his rapid climb to a captaincy in the King's army.

"Bob" is courteous to a nitty which leads to that finer and fuller trait of character and comradeship.

We can foresee nothing but success for one so industrious and so determined as "Bob". Therefore, we look with expectancy to a rapid rise to the heights of his profession in the realm of education.

But alas! "Bob" has succumbed to the charms of one of Anderson's fairest. If letters, coming in such numbers, have any bearing on the greatness of love, it is ours to predict that they will share their happiness together soon after graduation.

Gaston joined the Clemson Tigers in his Sophomore year. He entered Davidson College in the fall of '25 and took his Freshman work there. During his stay with us he has always proved himself a gentleman, a true and loyal "Tiger". We have found in him qualities of true manhood, honesty, sincerity, and diligence.

He is a lover of his books and a hard worker, and always stands for the right.

Such qualities are sure to prove themselves a master key to the door of his future success. His congenial personality has won a host of friends who are wishing him the best of luck as he goes forth into the Electrical World.

"Jerry" entered the portals of learning at Clemson with the determination to make a reputation of his own. Through the long years of hard study his ambition has become intensified all the more. He has had a vision, a goal in view.

He has a natural love for nature and plants. Plants have an appeal for him as for no other. Nature speaks to him in intimacy. Few plants there are that this ardent and zealous lover of nature is not able to chase down and name. His determination and perseverance have overcome untold obstacles that lay in the path of his search for knowledge. From all outward signs, Gerard is due to place Burbank's accomplishments 'in the shade'.

Jerry's kindly disposition, his genial and witty amiability have won him a place secure in the hearts of his associates. His amiability insures his keeping many friends.

"Where there's smoke there's fire", and if you trace the invisible smoke which is ever present when "Mid-nite" is near, you will find at the end of your search an intense flame which burns with eternal brightness. This fearless youth is the one and only Dewey Gibson, and never has there been his like. Unique and original, he is characterized by his wild unrest—he is always wanting to do something exciting, and if things seem dull he can always evolve some scheme of amusement.

To some, "Mid-nite" is a deep study, but to those who know him he is read as readily as the pages of a first-grade reader. His gaiety, merry jest, and sprightly wit keep him in the limelight of his many friends. By his inherent grace and ease of manner he lives at the pinnacle of the "heavenly". He loves the bright lights of society, but his sense of judgment keeps him from being blinded. "Flow, wine; smile, woman; and 'Mid-nite' is consuded". He is surrounded with friends at Clemson and elsewhere, and because his friends have sought a friend who is "Now and Forever", they have chosen "Mid-nite".

"There is a tide in the affairs of men which taken at the flood leads on to fortune."
Lockwood, better known to his many friends at Clemson as "Puss", embarked on this sea of good fortune in the fall of 1923 when he chose Clemson as his Alma Mater.

When the new faces began to appear about the campus, this youngster from "The Town of Loving Hearts" was among the first to begin work as an Engineering Student. In the months and years that followed he has won his way into our hearts and has so applied himself that he stands out as one of the best students that Clemson has produced.

Four years have passed, and as a disciple of both "Crip" and "Sam", "Puss" has proved that he is made of the stuff that counts.

As the years pass on, may the best in the world be for you, a true Tiger, and a friend without equal.

Friends, this is "Bully". From Leesville, this lad came all the way to be a Tiger. Immediately upon entering, he donned the football uniform and went out to make the Freshman squad. This he did with ease. In class, he is never at a loss for an answer to the "prof's" question, and thus, he has made a record of which to be proud.

Characteristic of Homer is his sunny disposition. With it and his ability to charm all comers, he has made many friends while here. He is sound of brain, intelligent, and blessed with native ability. With such traits and such conservativeness as he possesses, he will succeed wherever he goes.

At the opening of school in the fall of 1923 the campus was again covered with many bright faces. Among these was a fair young lad from Nichols. In the four years that are now history the Class of '27 has learned to love and admire him. He was none other than the ever smiling Cecil Goodyear.

During his stay at Clemson, Cecil has taken a great interest in the activities of the college. He has been serving on the Friendship Council of the Y. M. C. A. for three years, and in his senior year, was elected a member of the J. V. Cabinet and President of the Friendship Council.

Cecil's fine personality has won for him many friends among the fairer sex as well as on the campus, and no doubt in a short while he will have some girl to share the great future that life has in store for him.

"Fatty", as we all know him, entered Clemson in the fall of '25. He first took it up to himself to plan and then design a great cathedral, therefore he started out to take Architecture. At the beginning of his Sophomore year he decided that he had rather become a "Steinmetz". He then became a very loyal and staunch follower of "Crip" and "Red". Quite well has he succeeded for he is very adapted to "Crip's" course. We may expect great things of him in the electrical world.

Googe is a big robust sort of chap, always brimming over with laughter. He is a boy that everybody likes. His magnetic personality gains for him friends everywhere, and his determination always brings him success.

If anyone is in need of help of any kind he only has to go to "Fatty". Many are the times we have been in his room and heard people ask him for help of different kinds. Always we have heard him cheerfully say, "I will be glad to if I can."

A man of Googe's personality and adaptability is sure to succeed, no matter what he undertakes.

Well, here is a Tiger who originated in little city lost in his leaving was counteracted by the gain Clemson experienced in his coming. Heyward, a noble, friendly him.

While he doesn't pose as one of the ten is easily capable of excellent work. And but for a bit of "jeal", lodged in his anatomy, there would be nothing to check his progressiveness. "Rip" has initiative and

On the athletic field and in the ring he has displayed his wonderful agility and quickness, and in so doing, has placed Clemson far ahead of self. His name is a would have had his long since. Take him, men, as a model of the old "Tiger Spirit".

When Clemson boasts, she mentions little "Jimmie" Greene.

Friendships have not been neglected by him. "Jimmie" may count every Clemson man his friend. All of us know and remember his ready, genial smile and his hearty welcome. A more sincere and loyal friend is hard to find.

As "Jimmie" goes out into this old world he takes with him the best wishes hear the old Clemson Tiger growling deep in his throat, mourning the loss of his fa-

In the autumn of '23 a Tiger roamed into this lair. He was not a "cub" in years at that time. The staid old hills of Cherokee must have bowed even lower when Hamrick strolled away again for they had but recently got him back from war's grim arms, whence he had gone with the Bugle's call in '17. The war left him physically exhausted, but with a keen and receptive mind and with an ardor and enthusiasm that has never dimmed.

When we came here we found him older in years and wisdom, but a wonderful "pal" just the same. He has never been obtrusive, but always honest and reserved, and true-blue to the core. Possessed of such a noble philosophy of life as he is, his goal can but be success, our sublimest faith and sincerest hopes are with him.

So here's to you, the staunchest pal a fellow could have. We doff our hats to you—a man, and know the world will find in you the same.

Alexander Cheves Haskell, Jr., known to the Corps as "Hoss", lives near the banks of the Savannah River just far enough out of Georgia to be a valued citizen of the Palmetto State. Alex, a disciple of the well known "Hoss" Mullins, followed in that man's footsteps, but he took a short pace that he didn't get any further than a captain.

With that old "Plowboy stride" of his, Alex kept his place on the cross-country team and track squad for the four years that he spent at Tiger town and by using his "block" and his legs he won his "Block" in the early stages of the game.

Alex is free from all encumbrances of the fairer sex and it is said that the only maiden that ever caused him to look twice happened to be of the bovine species. Some girl for some unknown reason wrote the boy a letter one time. It was three days before he mustered enough courage to open it and then in the excitement he missed three classes.

Alex has made his mark at Clemson and has made it well.

His loyalty is a by-word among his friends; for once you have gained his friendship it is now and forever with him. He doesn't give his friendship lightly, and he never takes it back.

By his determined efforts "Tick" has gained a distinction that is perhaps enjoyed only by himself. He has represented Clemson in every branch of sport at some time during his school career. Harold first yearned to be a great soldier but after a brief stay at one of Uncle Sam's training camps, he decided the life was too strenuous and departed for Clemson to study Architecture. His marked ability and faithful work have caused him to succeed admirably in his chosen course, and he can now readily tell you the difference between the Corinthian Order and a municipal building.

Harold is a "shiek", if the more gentle sex informs us correctly, and for this reason the sisters love him and the stags envy him. Kinard came to us in '23 for the purpose of studying Chemistry. We all know how unusually well he has succeeded in his course. He has made an enviable record as a chemistry student, and as a student of all sciences as well. Nowhere is there a more ardent lover and supporter of Science.

Not everyone at Clemson knows Kinard, but those who are so fortunate as to know him, know that he is a rare friend and an all-round good fellow.

Long hours in the library and laboratory have not caused him to forget a certain girl in the old home town. Certain it is that she will always help and inspire him to achieve great things.

We prophesy great things for you, old boy. Go after them.

Jimmie entered Clemson in 1921 as a candidate for a degree in Civil Engineering. After a successful freshman year he decided to equip himself with a background of practical experience. He returned to Clemson in 1925 after two successful years of extensive road work.

Jimmie possesses the faculty of thinking and acting instantly in an emergency, indecision is totally unknown to him. He has an irresistible personality and a spirit of "never say die." These qualities go to make up the real leader that he is. He is a confirmed optimist and fatalist, as is evidenced by his pet phrase: "why worry?" He doesn't have to worry because he makes things come out to suit himself.

He is a high jumper of no mean ability and was a member of the varsity track team.

As for girls—well just take a shunt at this Spanish-looking gentleman-soldier.

Here is one of the most worthy lads that Greenville has ever given to the Tigers. Tom came to Clemson in the fall of '23 and cast his lot with the Textiles. He has been very successful in this course and we all predict a great future for him. However, everyone is afraid it won't be for him alone. He has very important business in Greenville almost every weekend, but as much as he thinks of this business, he also thinks of his work.

He is a good sport, a true friend, and a gentleman.

Following in the footsteps of his brother, "J. D." decided to seek his higher education at Clemson. He entered in the fall of 1923, and has done his bit in fighting the battles of college life ever since then.

He, having as his ambition to be a second Edison chose Electrical Engineering as his course, and has very earnestly applied himself to such, as is evidenced by his high-class standing.

While he is by no means a sheik, his mind does at times turn to the fairer sex. This may be attested by the many letters which he receives from alnder and elsewhere. My prophecy is that he will never be a member of any bachelor society.

"J. D." is a true friend and a gentleman, a man that you have to know in order to fully appreciate.

Here's to you, my lad. We are expecting you to make a record for yourself and Clemson.

Back in the fall of '29, when men were men and murder a duty, this stately lad hove into Clemson from Santuc.

As he passed through the market section of Sandy Springs, he halted his gigaffe at the sight of an “Adventure” magazine—Ah, for adventure was something he had heard of. He mounted his steed and sailed on to Tiger town. The lure of the story proved fatal. As he passed the gates, he met a famous Danish Prince, Ophelias Blowberg. In a flash young Silver drew his slingshot, relieved his captive of a chew of licorice—and was away in a finish.

The Discipline Committee met. For the sun sank Landlubber had bartered his fiery steed of popular characteristics for a man-o’-war constructed of selected cornstalks. Away he glided down the traditional Seenu’ off for a career of blood.

Years have passed, lives to him have been as mushrooms, things to be stepped on. But now old age has come, with its aches and ills, and other qualms; so Silver has returned to be revived by the Tiger spirit, and to graduate with the Class of '27.

“Snake” is the personification of all that goes to make a regular fellow. His cheerfulness, wit, and willingness to help everyone, have earned numerous friends for him. Always smiling and congenial—that’s Sam all over. All these attributes of charm have naturally attracted the ladies, and “Snake” has a new “line” for every girl he meets.

Sam doesn’t spend all of his time with the ladies, as his class records will testify. He is one of the outstanding men in the electrical section, and will some day discover why electricity is so shocking. When he leaves school and enters his chosen profession, he is sure to write his name in big letters upon the topmost pinnacle of success. Although he is not an original member of the Class of ‘27, the class is glad to have him as a member of its honored group.

Above our life we love a steadfast friend—that is why we all love Sam. Of a quiet type that never pushes his way by extra effort among his associates or to positions of high honor, he possesses an enriched and endowed gift of diligently working his way to the top and winning the highest esteem of those about him. Sam would do nothing to bight the happiness of his friends. He would do just opposite. It is not his fault that he unconsciously captivates the hearts of the girls claimed by his friends, but it is due to his captivating manner and pleasing personality.

But these things never cross the path of duty of Sam for there is no other more capable and efficient. It is said that every man has his gift and the tools go to him that can use them. Truly he has used his tools for his many accomplishments, characterized by nobility of purpose, have always been attained by patience and perseverance even though it has never been necessary for him to "crack" a book. Along with this Sam possesses the qualities of a true gentleman, and he may be relied on as a faithful friend, "Mung et Semper".

This lad, with his pleasing and unassuming personality, has made many staunch friends while sojourning at "Tigertown". It was in '21 that he left us, but he returned in '25 to take his place with this class, which would have been minus a real asset had he not returned.

"Bill" or "Rambing' Wreck", did not join our class until his Junior year. He came to our ranks from Georgia Tech from which he received his nick-name. Prior to this he finished at Tech High School in Atlanta.

Since deserting the "Yellow Jackets" and joining the "Tigers" he has shown up well in basketball, tennis, cross-country and, last but not least, in "bobbin-dogging". Bill has acquired two bad habits during his stay at Clemson. He smokes "Camel" cigarettes and writes too often to a certain young lady in Atlanta.

Although he has been with us only two years he has a host of friends. He believes that the way to have friends is to be a friend.

That "Mac" has led a widely active life since he has been a student at Clemson is not more than half manifested by a glance at the list of honors, of which he may well be proud. One can hardly mention any branch of college activities presented at Clemson in which "Wedge" has not been a participant, and he has acquitted himself with credit in every phase. Too, the scope of his knowledge permits him to converse on almost any topic, thus making him a peculiar combination of salesman, promoter, lecturer, and go-getter. There comes a time in the course of human events when a youth finishes high school and wonders, "Where now?" Such was not true of "Jake". Two or three years before the fall of '23 he decided to enter Clemson with the full expectation of learning more about the processes of Agriculture.

During his stay with us he has been known for his "witty" sayings, his ability in the classroom, and his quiet, peaceful manner. "Jake" has little to say, but when he speaks everybody listens for they know there is something going to be said.

"Jake" is a lover of nature, and probably that is one reason for his casting his lot with the "Aggies" and becoming a disciple of "Lord" Collings. He likes to spend his spare time in the woods with his gun ready to capture any game that appears. He claims that he likes his gun better than he does the girls, but we are not certain about that.

"Jake" is known to us as a man of fair play. What more could we request? Although a man small in stature, he has a big heart and will listen to reason at all times. He justly deserves much for his sterling character, mental worth, and natural ability. Briefly, it may be said of him that he is a gentleman and a scholar.

In the fall of 1923 Georgia lent South Carolina one of her worthy native sons to the end that South Carolina's halls of learning might afford the development of a latent leadership. Both states have profited by this transaction, and it was with a spirit of welcome that Clemson received Warren Maxwell into her midst.

Naturally and by application Warren is a leader. His activities cover most of the phases of college life; and whenever he chose to direct his efforts along a particular line, leadership in that activity was inevitably attained. Warren is an outstanding student in religious activities and literary society work, and his scholastic record is not paralleled.

Cheerfulness, friendliness, courteousness, and similar virtues may be aptly used to describe Warren, for in him we find the elements of character so mixed that the class of 1927 might stand out to all the world and say, "This is a Christian gentleman!"

The name plate which appears in connection with the above "Sup" has long since ceased to be representative of the facial terrain for which it was dedicated. This advertisement is better known to his friends at Clemson and Camp McClellan as "Droop".

A glance at "Droop's" military honors will convince anyone that he is a soldier second only to Napoleon.

"Droop" first had an ambition to become a man of literary attainments, but after a stay of a year at Carolina he abandoned the idea and departed for Clemson to prove his engineering ability. His inability to adapt himself to the military life at Clemson was the cause of his taking two extended vacations. However, "Droop" came back in '25 and resolved that he had sown all of his wild oats, and now everyone is proud of him and the work which he has done in all phases of college life.

To his friends, "Droop" is known as a man of sterling character, strong in his convictions, but with it all a prince of a fellow. A gentleman and a scholar is Meredith.

With his ready smile and optimistic attitude, along with other admirable traits he has gained a host of friends.

Coming to his Alma Mater with noble intentions, conducting himself in such a manner as to bring honor to himself and his school, he has reached the heights of Success. He carries into the world of tomorrow, into which he is soon to embark, the ideals of a true gentleman. We can predict nothing other than Success there.

So here's to you, "Judge"—may you never fail us.

Once a friend, always a friend, and "Shine" is always ready to be a friend to anyone. With "Shine", a man's wealth lies not in his money but in his friends. It is a pleasure to be in his company, for you are immediately imbued with a spirit of optimism. His winning personality and good disposition are like a magnet, and not a few fair ladies are proud to be called "one of 'Shine's' girls." His influence at Clemson has ever been prevailing, and many a time as Cheer Leader, when the "Tigers" were confronted by defeat, by his undaunted spirit of loyalty to his Alma Mater, he raised the spirit of the students and team from its lowest ebb to cause them to push on to victory.

As an executive, he may be judged by the honors which his classmates have instilled in him as a natural-born leader of men. By saying it all in just a few words, "Shine" is "Shine", now and forever; he will be recognized by everyone who has had the good fortune of being affected by his rays of friendship.

"Red" must succeed, for he is a gentleman by birth and a scholar by acquisition. His irrepressible good nature and engaging manners have gained for him boundless admiration. Always affable with life and glowing with happiness, he is delightful, witty and sensible. He is known by his hilarious laugh and intoxicating smile, and is not stingy with either. He is the life of every party, but is always retaining the correct proportion of reserve and dignity; and by his laudable enthusiasm in everything, he is always welcomed. One must go a long way to find another who is always in such perfect good humor.

Merging wit with wisdom, he is active and aggressive. His cares and worries are hidden behind a veil of cheerfulness, and secretly they are well attended.

Being born and reared in the shadow of Clemson's revered walls, Carter is a Tiger by heredity and by choice, and to this dual relationship together with his personality and determination can be accredited the wonderful success he has made of being a Tiger. During the four years that he has spent at college he has run many races, won many medals, broken records, and captured honors.

Although no book worm, he has held his own with the pedagogues, but his "long suit" is outside activities. He can be truly called the outstanding athlete of the Class of '27. When his class calls for leaders, Carter's name is always mentioned.

He has held honors—state, national, and local—of which he is to be proud, but to be valued above all these are the friendships he has made.

What more can be said of a man than that he is a loyal “Tiger” and a true friend to all? These are outstanding characteristics of “Bill”. He came to us that never-to-be-forgotten September day, four years ago, wearing the same winning smile that has won him so many friends. He may be small in stature, but his heart makes up for this. “Bill” cast his lot with the electrical engineers, and for the last four years has been chasing those electrons Steinmetz missed.

He is a hard worker, not only in his classes, but also in everything he undertakes, and he is certain to make a success. We all wish to you, Bill, both success and “Beo”, and everything that goes with these.

He has wasted but few moments on the fairer sex while at Clemson, thinking perhaps that women and Prof. Crandall’s Education would not mix; however, we predict that some school will be greatly benefited by his presence as a teacher, and that some girl will be made happy when he “pops the question”.

Here’s hoping your County and State will realize your ability as we do, and that you may never rest until success has been yours.

This lad possesses those innumerable qualities which go to make up a true scholar and gentleman. He is one of the few who have never to study but who always stand at the head of the class.

"Buster" has a personality which acts as a magnet in attracting to him the trust and confidence of all who know him. He is an efficient executive and has held many positions of prominence here. Not overbearing or forward, he is always good natured and smiling. He makes friends wherever he goes. He never allows his joviality to interfere with his duty; however, he is always ready to perform any task that comes his way, and perform it well.

"Buster" has helped make many social functions a huge success. We predict for him a great success in life.

Charlie hails from the level stretches of sand swamps where huge, stately live oaks and silent, hanging moss lend a somber charm and an impelling beauty to the country. He won a scholarship to Clemson and joined the "Hill Tigers" in the fall of '25.

Making this his base of operation, he has sailed out at intervals intent on securing some fair trophy of the hills. But by no means has this been the dominating motive of his pilgrimage to Clemson.

Charlie has an intense desire for knowledge. Trustworthy and dependable, he merits the utmost confidence of his friends and associates. He is an earnest student and a hard worker. His utter frankness and sincerity have won him many friends.

Here's to you Charlie. Your loyalty to friends and your determination have stamped you as a success.

“Cyrus” came to Clemson with the determination to win. Throughout his course he has shown the qualities of perseverance and hard work. “Cy” shows that a real man can succeed because in the face of adverse circumstances he has remained with his original class.

“Cy” has not broken any records in athletics or flourished as a military genius, but he is always present when the glee club goes into action. He has worked hard to “make the club,” and deserves much credit. The nickname “Songbird” was bestowed upon him by some admirer.

Condensed into as few words as possible, that which characterizes him is the spirit of “never say die.”

“Cy’s” many friends wish him great success in his chosen field of work.

“Pick” is not the seeker of popularity, so commonly found in such a large body of men. On the other hand, he is the reserved true blue that is to be most desired in a friend. He is delightfully frank, yet tactful enough, and with that so sought for quality of being understood.

This 220 pounds of solid man has been cruelly deprived of a permanent seat on the football team by a bad knee. Yet, despite his bulk he is active on the diamond and graceful on the basketball floor. We have vainly hoped that this malady would soon be cured.

Nobody knows whether or not “Pick” can handle the ladies. He has never tried. We think that he is a confirmed woman-hater. Yet by the time the glories and beauties of the success that is sure to come are laid at his feet, he will, no doubt, have been captivated by one of them.

"Hanks" came to "Tigertown" in the fall of '25. He was a natural lover of animals of the farm, and thus cast his lot with the "Ags", later joining the "Bull" Division. His goal has not been to attain military or athletic honors, but to know good animals when he sees them. He decided what he wanted, and ever since has been striving diligently toward that end. He has made good in the classroom, and has formed a host of friends. His success as a student is to be contributed to his natural ability coupled with a willingness to work and a desire to make good.

Will you cast your eyes upward and look into the face of a boy who stands high in his class work as well as in stature?

"Lanky" holds the distinction of being the tallest lad in the Class of '27. This is probably due to the crowded environment of Donalds.

At first, Rasor found it very difficult to become accustomed to the quiet life at Clemson, but in a short while he became a tame Tiger.

After two years at Clemson, Rasor became a disciple of "Sookie", and since then has put forth much effort in his desire to become a professor.

We have been unable to find out much about this lad's love affairs, but we believe that there are a few things which he has kept from us.

"Lanky", we, the Class of '27, are proud to call you one of our classmates. May you always be successful in making friends as you have been while at Clemson.

Some Entomologists are born while others are made. We would conclude that Lucius was made an Entomologist as he spent two years in College before making up his mind to take "Bugology". But never can it be said that he wasted any of his four years at Clemson for he chased away every doubt with a determination to learn entomology in all of its phases. Knowledge so gained "sticks" and is the keynote to real success in whatever path you may choose to tread.

Hail the "Mighty Pedro", the conqueror from the great metropolis of Bennettsville. A man among men, is this lad, and a terror among ladies.

"Pete's" first venture in the sea of knowledge was to join the ranks of Electricals. At the close of his Junior year he decided that he had missed his calling; so he became a charter member of Prof. Brearley's Academic Course. The fact that he was president of the Calhoun Literary Society showed that he was well fitted for this course.

No one could wish for a better friend than "Pete". To say that he is a "prince of a fellow" would be putting it too mildly. His attractive personality, his good nature, and his willingness to sacrifice for others have made for him a host of true friends at Clemson.

This dark-eyed lad is none other than "Robbie", sometimes called "Dur-Plug", because that is his favorite and only "Cuss" word. He hails from the historic old town of York, from whence a large number of Tigers have come. His motto should be, "Be what you are", as he has always been open-hearted and loyal to his friends. He is well known by his ready smile and winning personality.

Although small in stature he is not afraid of trouble. This is evidenced by the fact that he chose Electrical Engineering as his profession. He has been a faithful disciple of "Slim", and one of his chief joys was making Entropy Charts for "Red", while "Spark Plug" says that he certainly would like to retain Robbie as assistant instructor in machine-shop.

"S. T." first came to Clemson in the fall of '21. But the call of matrimony was so great that he left after one year and took unto himself a wife. His better judgment, however,prevailed in him and he came back, brought his family with him and cast his lot with the Class of '27.

He is one of Prof. "Cotton Future" Crandall's disciples and a good one. He couples his ability and head vision to advantage. Great things are in store for him despite the worries of being a father and husband. He has taken part in college activities, especially literary society work. When it is announced that Prof. Smith is to speak, everyone knows that something worthwhile is coming.

"S. T." is a gentleman, and a true, loyal friend. Not knowing him is a loss to anyone.

Here's to you, my lad. We are certain that success will be yours.

“Talley” or “Red”, as he is better known, decided to cast his lot with the famous Civils of ’27. After making this decision, he came to Clemson in the fall of ’23.

“Red”, a real man and a true friend, has gained a big place in the heart of every man in his class. A broad smile and a look that says “Never give up” is what you see when you see “Red”.

Talley, we do not know what your intentions are, but we do know that something big is in store for you. We know this because we know what you stand for here—the clean, honest things that count most in life.

Always remember, Talley, that the Class of ’27 is with you at all times.

O Success, who is this but now added to your chosen few? What, no sparkling genius flaunting proudly his achievements? Indeed; it is but our old friend, “Bub”, or William Gladden Smoke. St. Matthews, we pray that long may tranquil peace and progress be with you to aid in the harboring of such contributions as you have made to Clemson in the past.

No sudden flare of ostentatious deeds or boastful words characterize this young man. Yet, lurking within the mysterious recesses of his ambitious life, the motives and the persistent determination that ever bring forth for popular approval the fruits of a faithful worker. Time only is needed to unveil the true worth of such industry.

His quiet, easy disposition but reveals a beautiful mode of character attraction, “Bub’s” bonds of friendship are truly bonds, and not to be severed by the frivolous, petty encumberances of daily life. Maintain those ideals, Smoke, and there is no fear from us as to the degree of success that awaits you in years to come.

"Ed" came to us as a native South Carolinian, but he gets his mail at MacFarlin, N. C. In the fall of '25 "Ed" boarded the train at Cheraw bound for Mr. Clemson's College. He decided to cast his lot with the "Ags" and later to specialize in "Bull". He has made many friends for himself while with the Tigers. He has made many friends among students and faculty. While thinking of his friends we must not forget the members of the "Fairer Sex", for they are many.

"Ed" is determined to know all that is possible for him to know about "Bull". Therefore, he has decided to seek more knowledge at Ames after leaving here.

"Ed", we wish you much luck in the livestock industry. May the best be yours.

"Steve", as he is known by his many friends, was among those who answered the call for loyal Tigers in the fall of '23 with a determination to master wisdom and understanding, he chose his work in the broad field of Agriculture with Agricultural Education as his major subject.

During his stay with us, "Steve" has been an honest and faithful worker, and is worthy to be called a true Clenison Tiger. The people of Sharon should lift their hats to this lad because he has not only been successful in his scholastic work but his ideals are high and he is a man above par.

He is a loyal and congenial friend who always stands for the right. We have found in him qualities of true manhood honesty, sincerity, and diligence.

His winning personality has won for him a host of friends who are wishing him great success as he goes forth into the world.

"Bob", seeing the Textile Industry leaping to the front, decided to join in the great rush; therefore, he cast his lot with the Textile Engineers.

His firmness along with his kindness has gained him a warm place in the heart of every "Linthead."

"Bob", we know there are big things before you, and knowing how capable you are of meeting these things, we are placing a "sure bet" on your success. May the best be yours at all times.

The month of September 1923 was indeed successful in its undertaking of bringing to this institution a lad from Holly Hill known as Harry Lee Stoutamire.

Harry Lee, as he is known by the boys, came here to join this Class of '27 with an excellent record from high school, and he most assuredly has not gone back on the record he made in the "Old Home Town". He is well known among the boys of the college because of the active part which he has taken in the various phases of college activities. It is with much regret that we have to part, Harry Lee, because all of us have learned to admire you. Your personality will win you many friends—yes, especially among the fairer sex, no matter what your vocation may be.

Keep up the good work, and always remember that the Class of '27 is your friend as a class or as individuals. We are expecting great things of you.

"Dick", as he is known to us, thoroughly absorbed the Tiger Spirit from his brother and followed in his footsteps; thus reaching Clemson in the fall of '25. With a vision of the great things that remain undone in the Civil Engineering world, "Dick" joined the select group of those who are continually hunting lost moments through a transit.

Now "Dick" is just an all-round good fellow, a true friend, and a loyal Tiger. Worries never seem to come this lad's way, yet he has won the respect of both fellow-students and professors by his conscientious work and good scholastic record.

Here he is, the boy with the laughing eyes and merry wit, "Jim", as he is known by his many friends, journeyed from the chicken center of the state to Clemson in the fall of '25 to cast his lot with the "Aggies".

After finishing his second year at Clemson, "Jim" decided that the farmers of the state should know more about agriculture; therefore, he joined the great host of "Crandalites" in order that he might be able to administer his knowledge to them.

While at Clemson "Jim" has won the respect of the boys, the faculty, and last but not least, a certain girl.

"Tyranny Ed", as we know him best, comes from one of the textile centers of the South—Piedmont.

From the first "Ed" has been an ardent disciple of "Swine", "Pop", and "Brutal Joe", in fact not many men know as much about textile engineering as "Ed".

The very fact that "Tripod" is so skillful in his profession does not mean that he has slighted the second phase of college life. The truth is that "Ed" has been an admirer of the fair sex ever since his High School days, but for this one fault, "Ed" would be the best soldier in Clemson's Army.

To the I. O. R. M. much of "Ed's" success has been made possible for these brothers have stood behind him at all times in his climb for knowledge and fame.

"Boone's" ambition is to become a dyer. At the present time he is "Swine's" most promising understudy.

"Dan" is a boy that is bound to make a success in life. He has one of the most pleasing personalities that is to be found in any boy. In his four years of college he has formed a character that has been unblotted.

Besides his managerial duties, "Racehorse" has also made a brilliant record on theuder paths of the South. His keen heels have spelt disaster for many of the best sprint men in the conference.

He came here to learn more of the methods of agriculture in order that he might utilize the great natural resources of Orangeburg lands. Tyler does a great deal, and talks little. Steadily "Rinnie" has worked with his studies and classes. The reward is apparent when one looks over the scholastic records. He has devoted most of his four years at Clemson to his course, and holds his honors there. When there's a task to be done, "Rinnie" is present to do his part successfully. Duty never calls that he is not ready and willing at any hour.

What more can be said of a fellow when you can say that he has succeeded in his undertakings, and has proved himself a true friend to all who know him? After pursuing for two years at Wofford the path which leads to an A. B. degree, Watson decided that he had rather look into a transit than into dusty literary books. Therefore, he journeyed to the University of N. C. to study Civil Engineering. However, after being there three months, Watson concluded that he should become a tiller of the soil. Thus, at the beginning of the second semester of last session, Watson became a Tiger.

Although joining our class far along the trail which winds its way upward to graduation, Lewis readily won for himself a warm place in the hearts of the students and faculty, to say nothing of the girls. Being the possessor of a big heart, a good sense of humor, a lovable disposition, and a charming baritone voice, Watson was destined to be loved by those who knew him.

After graduation, Lewis hopes to remain in South Carolina to grow farm products and rear Americans. We are wishing for him that which he deserves—the best that life has to offer.

This is "Ack", the boy who is honest, noble, and straightforward. To know him is to like him. His congenial manner and free heart mark him as a true friend wherever he goes.

From the beginning, it was his purpose to make college everything it should be. With this in view he set to work diligently to achieve his purpose, which he has accomplished without a doubt. His efforts have been gradually rewarded, for not only has he obtained a good education, but has made for himself a host of friends whose esteem he will carry forever. Truly a man's college career has been successful when he has proved himself a scholar, a friend, and a gentleman.

After carefully considering the different courses offered in the curriculum, "Ack" decided to take the Academic course. This was a wise decision, for he has certainly become efficient in the scientific field.

We are sure that with the good disposition he possesses, he will be greeted by the greatest of success in anything he undertakes.

"Attention!" No such command is necessary to those who know our popular Elko entry; for though he wields a sword dangling at his side, his posture and eminence in the corps depend not upon it for stability. On the contrary, it is his calm reserve, his dauntless courage, together with his generous and amiable disposition that have made him one of the most outstanding exponents of leadership in the Class of '27. A man of excellent human doth who has the rare merit of feeling that if ever he let loose, his talent would not set the world on fire; one who having nothing to say, abstains from giving us worldly evidence of the fact by asking us the length of a piece of string; but a man to the manner born, careful of dress, affable in his manner, and conscientious in his endeavors.

If the members of his class should be asked to define "man", every finger would point with pride to the modest but striking figure of Youngblood. That he will be a great success is unquestionable; that his classmates shall cherish him in his triumphs a certainty. God speed, "Scrap!"
Senior Class History

Probably the most momentous day in our lives since coming to Clemson was that first day in the early fall of nineteen twenty-three when we, for the first time as college students, sighted the buildings that were destined to become our home for the greater part of the coming four years. For many of us it was our first glimpse of Clemson. The "kindly" Sophomores awaited our arrival with the highest expectations, and they were not in the least disappointed, we being warmly welcomed into their midst as Tigers. The welcome seemed then unnecessarily prolonged, lasting until we were sufficiently imbued with the "Tiger Spirit" to become fitting successors to the crown of Sophomores. During the Freshman year we adopted the honor system, which had already been adopted by the two preceding Freshman classes.

The size of our class was materially reduced during the Sophomore year on account of an unfortunate incident, but we were still able to pass on to the oncoming Sophomores the ideals and spirit of the Class of '27. We were, as tradition would have us, "wise fools" indeed, but even that obstacle did not prevent us from giving to Clemson the foundation of a movement that has since grown into a reality—that of student government.

At the beginning of the Junior year we realized that the days of our "self conceit" and frivolity were now behind us and we turned our faces toward the future with a more serious aspect and a much more humble outlook. We were just beginning to learn how little we really did know and to appreciate the magnitude of the task confronting our professors in attempting to teach us something. The student government, under which we had many more privileges than formerly, was established for the first time.

Out of the original class of about three hundred and seventy scared "Rats" only one hundred and sixty-five weathered successfully the storms of the preceding three years. To this number the leadership in the activities of the student body was handed down by the Class of '26. Though our record in football has not been auspicious, yet we have much to be proud of in our record of participation in baseball, basketball, and track. In the other fields of student activities the class has always strived for the betterment and uplifting of the ideals and standards at Clemson.

To us the Class of '27 is greater than all the classes that have passed beyond these gates in the Jones gone by. In that spirit we point with pardonable pride to the record which we leave behind us. As the curtain drops on our last act as students of Clemson, we go forth into the world as Freshmen in the great school of life. As we look back on the four years spent together, they seem as but four short months; as we look forward on the years to come, they seem to hold bright futures for us, who are strong in the knowledge that we are loyal sons of our Alma Mater.

Junior Class History

September 8, 1924, saw over four hundred Freshmen assembled on this old campus. Many were quite dignified with the dignity that comes with a High School diploma, but strange to say this dignity disappeared in a very short period through the efforts of the upper classmen. Our ambition during our “rat” year was to be “Sophs”. A “SOPH” seemed not only to rule the world, but to lend a helping hand with the Universe. Although our rat year was marked by strikes, fires and examinations, enough survived to form an unusually good Sophomore Class.

Much to our surprise we found that the life of a Sophomore was not the bed of roses that it appeared to be. From our “rat” viewpoint, nothing was more desirable than to be a Soph, but our viewpoint was reversed after being a Soph for a few months. Examinations and demerits left enough of our class to form one of the best Junior Classes that have ever been at Clemson.

Thus, after being humble “rats” and important Sophomores, we settled down to the quiet life of a Junior. Thoughts of a “Dip” later on began to intrude themselves upon us and the thoughts made the wiser ones study.

So after three years on our way, if we pause and take stock of the Juniors, we shall see that they are the leaders of the school. Not only was the Junior Class well represented on the football team, but the team was captained by a Junior. The basketball team, the cross-country team, the track team, the baseball team, the tennis team—on all of these our class is well represented.

One more year remains for those of us who have taken advantage of our opportunities. We have formed many friendships that will last. We think we have learned some things, but that remains to be seen. We know, however, that the Class of ’28 is the best class at Clemson.

Sophomore Class History

On September 8, 1926, about three hundred former Freshmen were finding their way back to dear old Clemson. We were full fledged Sophomores and believed that we were surpassed by none.

Our first task was to impress upon the Freshmen their exact station in the social life of Clemson. This was done in many ways mainly by cutting their hair and doing other things, all in the life of a Freshman.

The path of the Sophomore was not the bed of roses that we had believed it to be when we were “Rats”. We found this path beset with pitfalls of Chemistry, Descript, and Physics.

The Sops were well represented on the Tiger eleven, nearly half the squad being made up of men who had made names for themselves on the “Rat” team of last year. In other fields of athletics, we expect members of our class to set the pace for the rest of the school. In other branches of college activities our men have been equally prominent. Some have gone in for the work of the literary societies, some for the college publications, and some for music and drama. All have acquitted themselves in a manner creditable to the class.

And now as the sands in the hour glass have sifted lower and lower, until with the passing of the last grain, the Junior year looms bright before us, we meet it undaunted, secure in the conviction that the same determination to struggle forward for success, which has characterized us as Sophomores, will stand us in good stead as we enter the threshold of Junior.

Freshman Class History

On the first day of September, nineteen hundred and twenty-six, over four hundred "New Boys" arrived in Tigertown, ready to organize one of the largest and best Freshman classes in the history of the college. For the first few days we felt rather unnecessary and homesick, and stood around gazing at the barracks with shaky knees and thumping hearts waiting for free hair cuts and the Sophomore reception which we knew were to come. At this reception the Sophomores lowered our estimation of self somewhat, yet our aspirations were not dimmed. With the thought of our abilities foremost in our minds we grimly set to work.

We soon incorporated the fighting spirit of the Tiger, and our football team threw fear into every Freshman eleven in the state—fear that they would become the prey of the young Tiger who was fast learning his strength. We lost the State championship game by a score of seven to six.

Practically half of our class has participated in one or more sports and every "Rat" team has well represented our Alma Mater. We are proud of our athletes, and next year we hope to furnish the varsity with plenty of material, and help carve the name of CLEMSON upon the topmost reaches of the Southern athletic world.

We have trodden the path of the "New Boy" and we welcome the day when we shall be Sophomores. We have had many sad experiences together, but we have been able to cultivate the old "Tiger Spirit" which always remains in our hearts, and we shall always strive to bring greater honors and glory to Clemson.

B. C. HARVEY—Guard. 200 Pounds
Freshman Football '23; Varsity '24, '25; Captain '26.

This, ladies and gentlemen, is none other than the redoubtable “Chubby” himself, the boy with the red hair and fiery temperament. He played a brand of ball this year that was unrivalled in the annals of the game. He could be depended upon to “hold that line” when all others failed. He was as consistent as “the red old hills of Georgia” and as a leader he had no peers. “Chubby,” we are all proud of you.

H. L. “Bud” ESKEW—Quarterback. 175 Pounds

At quarterback, Bud’s peerless generalship and extraordinary ability made him invaluable to the '26 team. Bud is a demon at passing. It was his excellent headwork and accurate pass that won the N. C. State game. The team should be congratulated for selecting this lad as next year’s captain. He holds the confidence of his teammates, and is a very conscientious worker. “Bud”, may the team of ‘27 march on to victory under your leadership.

W. P. TIMMERMAN—End. 150 Pounds
Freshman Football '24; Varsity Football '26.

“Pap” was a mainstay on the Freshman team of '24. He did not go out his Sophomore year, but love for the game forced him to again don the “moleskins” with the squad of '26. Absence from the game did not seem detrimental, for “Pap’s” ability and versatility readily won for him a place on the first eleven. Next season should find “Pap” at his best.

C. M. REYNOLDS—Fullback. 174 Pounds

“Pete’s” last year of football was considerably interrupted by injuries. He began the season as an end, but was later shifted to fullback. He gave a good account of himself at this position.

P. B. AUSTIN—Tackle. 187 Pounds

“Plowboy” was one of the mainstays in the Tiger line this year. He plays tackle and plays it well. On the offense the quarterback could always depend on “Plowboy” to do his share of opening the opponents’ line. On the defense he was an agony to the opposing team. They would start a smashing play at this big boy, but there it would stop and when the smoke had cleared away “Plowboy” was seen to have his man in a death grip.
Athletics

J. E. WALL—Guard. 190 Pounds
Freshman Football '25; Varsity Football '26.

Ed started his football career at Clemson with the Freshman team of '25. His ability to hold a line on defense and to go through one on offense won him a position on the varsity his Sophomore year. We believe that he will make one of the best men that Clemson ever had before he finishes.

B. H. CUTTINO—End. 140 Pounds

"Happy" is a man that never misses a play. On offense he doesn't stop at getting one man, but gets up and gets another. On defense he plays equally as well. With two years' experience on the varsity we expect him to be the best in the state next year.

G. C. IMES—Halfback. 160 Pounds
Freshman Football '25; Varsity '26.

George started his football at Clemson with the Freshman team of '25. We expected great things from him this year and we got it until he was injured the first of the season. He has plenty of football ability and we are hoping to see him use it next year.

W. W. BANKHEAD—Fullback. 175 Pounds
Freshman Football '22; Varsity '26.

"Bank" left Clemson in '23 with the intention of playing football for P. C., but he was ruled out. He knows football, and has more than his share of poise, coolness, and judgment. We are glad to see you in the Clemson line-up again, "Bank."

G. N. DAVIS—Tackle. 180 Pounds

"Guy" came to Clemson from Carlisle Military Academy and brought with him his ability to play football. "Guy" played tackle on the Freshman team of '25, and continued to hold down this position on the varsity this year. "Guy" played stellar ball this year and with two more years to play he should help Clemson accomplish great things.

TAPS

Two Hundred Seven
W. W. Klugh - Quarterback. 165 Pounds
Freshman Football; Varsity '25, '26.
"Woots" is a boy who has been a faithful worker on the football squad. Although injuries have kept him out of the game some, he has played some real football. He leaves us this year and will be greatly missed in next year's line-up.

Joe Robinson - Tackle. 198 Pounds
Freshman Football '24; Varsity '26.
"Smokey Joe", the hard boy from the Textile Corner of the South, played tackle in the Tiger line this season. He was a terror on the defense and T. N. T. on the offense. "Smokey Joe" was known for his fighting spirit, for he never let up for anything. They all feared this big boy, because it was a loss of yardage to run a play his way.
"Smokey Joe" will be back with us again next year and great things are expected from him. Here's to you, "Smokey"; may you keep up that fighting spirit and always be successful.

T. F. McGlone - Tackle. 190 Pounds
Freshman Football '24; Varsity '26.
Tom is generally conceded as the laziest man on the campus, but on the athletic field he gives his all, and his all is exceptionally good. Tom's easy going and likable ways make us glad that he is going to be with us another year.

Lawrence Marshall - Guard. 180 Pounds
Freshman Football '25; Varsity Football '26.
Lawrence Marshall, the boy from the "Capital City", better known to the Clemson Cadets as "Moose", played his first year of Varsity football this season. When he was on the offense, the quarterback could rely on "Moose" to do his share of opening a hole for him. He is a terror on the defense, and there was very little yardage gained over his side of the line.
"Moose" is a Sophomore this year and will be with us two more years. Here's luck to you and your football career. "Moose".

R. B. Midkiff - Halfback. 160 Pounds
Freshman Football '24; Varsity Football '26.
Bob hails from the wilds of Virginia. He received his first football knowledge in Alexandria, Va. In his Freshman year, Bob showed up well. Bob, in his first year of varsity football, sprung into prominence as a halfback. He is in the game every minute; on the offense he is fast and elusive, and on the defense he seldom misses a tackle. We will remember him as a man who always played the game like a true Tiger.

TAPS

T. M. REEVES—End. 175 Pounds

Freshman Football '24; Varsity '26.

"Rot" Reeves is a peppery, scrappy end. His Charleston brogue and witty remarks keep his classmates laughing, but on the athletic field these same remarks inspire his teammates to fight for victory. "Rot" is a loyal Tiger and will be heard from during his next two years at Clemson.

F. M. HOKE—End. 175 Pounds

Freshman Football '25; Varsity '26.

"Ted's" first achievement in sports at Clemson was with the Freshman team of '25. During that year he played a wing position and struck fear into the hearts of the opponents who tried to gain over him. This year was Ted's first with the Varsity eleven, and he lived up to the reputation he made for himself last year. He has two more years at Clemson and we expect much from this lad in the future.

L. S. DAVIDSON—Tackle. 190 Pounds

"Rattie" has held down his side of the line for two years. His teammates call him "Baby Face" because of his fair complexion, but never has an opponent on the football field called him by that nickname—he hits too hard. LeRoy had to leave us after football season. Here's hoping he'll return next fall, for he is a valuable man.

R. E. McCONNELL—Fullback. 170 Pounds

"Mac", at full, is a hard-hitting, aggressive back who is hard to stop and hard to pass. For two years he has been an important cog in the machinery of the Tiger backfield. "Mac" gives his all to the game and his hard tackling has thwarted many opposing backs who have aspired to cross the Tiger goal. We are expecting much of this lad next season.

J. H. TALLEY—End. 185 Pounds

Freshman Football '25; Varsity '26.

"Hamp" was one of the mainstays in the varsity line-up this year. He could be depended upon to take care of everything that happened around his end. Although he had to leave school after the season, we predict a great football career for him when he returns.

TAPS

Two Hundred Nine
R. F. McHILLIAN—Quarterback. 110 Pounds
Freshman Football '25; Varsity Football '26.

"Mac" came up from last year's Freshman team on which he played stellar ball. He has also shown up well during the past season. His punting and field generalship have been outstanding, and much is expected from him in the future.

H. A. LITTLEJOHN—Halfback. 160 Pounds

Littlejohn's ability to play football was very evident his Freshman year. He is a hard hitter and a fighter from start to finish.

W. N. MARTIN—Guard. 180 Pounds

"Walt" was one of the "fightenest fighters" in the state last year. His spirit and ability make him one of the most valuable members of the team. He is a Junior this year and we are fortunate in having him with us one more year. "Walt" has a wonderful personality, and this, with his fight, will carry him far in anything he undertakes.

E. L. WARR—End. 170 Pounds

Ed plays an end that is hard to gain around. He always gets his man from the beginning to the end of the game. He has great possibilities for next year, which will be his last.

M. H. HENDEE—Quarterback. 135 Pounds
Freshman Football '23; Varsity Football '25, '26

"Tick" has worked hard since he came to Clemson in '23. He has proved himself worthy of his success. He is a level-headed field general and a good runner.
J. C. HAIR—Center. 175 Pounds
“Rabbit”, playing his second year varsity ball, believes in fighting hard every minute of play. To say, “he hits 'em hard and wishes 'em well,” is to describe him in action. “Rabbit” is one of the best offensive and defensive centers on the squad, and great things are expected of him next year’s team.

O. K. PRESSLEY—Center. 185 Pounds
Freshman Football '25; Varsity '26.
“O. K.” played his first year of varsity football this past season. He held down the center position with a fight and determination that everyone is aware of who saw him play. On defense he was as a stone wall, while on offense one could always count on him to get his man. His passes from center could not be excelled. On punts he was right there, waiting for the safety man to catch the ball.

J. C. VALENTINE—Halfback. 165 Pounds
Scrub Football '25; Varsity Football '26.
Although this was Jack’s first year on the varsity, he has worked hard since his Freshman year. Jack puts every thing he has into the game every minute that he plays. We hate to see him leave, for he will be missed very much on next year’s team.

C. M. TURNER
Manager '26.
Here he is—one of the best managers that we can remember. “Turner” was always on the job, when he was needed. The team was very wise in selecting a man like “Turner” to handle its business. Congratulations, Turner!

R. W. HALL—Tackle. 230 Pounds
Freshman Football '25; Varsity Football '26.
“Fat” began his football career at Clemson as an outstanding man on the Freshman team in '25. He is a real football player, and every ounce of his 230 pounds is nothing but that. He missed All-state by the small margin of one vote. With the experience gained this season he should be well prepared to do great things next year.

G. H. DUNLAP—Shortstop.

Freshman Baseball '25; Varsity Baseball '26.

"Floopy", as he is known to us, is a valuable man on the Tiger nine. He fields his position like a "big-leaguer" and can be depended upon to get a hit when it is needed. He has two more years on the Tiger squad, and we are expecting great things from him.

H. L. ESKEW—First Base.

Freshman Baseball '25; Varsity Baseball '26.

In baseball, as well as in other sports, "Bud" is a dependable man in the line-up. "Bud" plays a good first base and is a consistent man at the bat. We predict a great success for him in his remaining years at Clemson.

R. D. ANDERSON—Pitcher.

Freshman Baseball '24; Varsity Baseball '26.

Although "Andy" has not played regularly with the varsity, he has been a valuable man on the squad. He has worked hard and we expect to see him do something before he leaves.

C. A. BRYAN—Pitcher.

Freshman Baseball '25; Varsity Baseball '26.

Charlie is one who works hard in victory or defeat. He has a good head and arm which are the main essentials of a good pitcher. With this combination and his ability to hit, he will be a valuable man to the team for two more years.

W. N. MARTIN—Outfield.

Freshman Baseball '25; Varsity Baseball '26.

"Walt's" judgment of a ball in the field and at bat is hard to beat. When one is hit to his part of the field, it is an easy out. When he is at bat, it is hard to slip one by him that should be called a strike. He is a hard worker and has plenty of spirit all the time.

T. HARMON—Pitcher.

Freshman Baseball '25; Varsity Baseball '26.

"Tramp" had some trouble with his arm last year, but he is "mighty cruel" with the batter when he is going good. It was his "cruel" ball that defeated Tech last year and we are expecting to see him do it again.
G. A. SMITH—Pitcher

"Lefty" was a pitcher who could be depended upon to win his game most any time. He suffered injuries last year that kept him out of the game until the last of the season, but he ended up by pitching stellar ball. He has a wonderful chance to make good in the big leagues and our best wishes go with him.

W. B. ABBOTT—Third Base.
This was Ben’s first year on the varsity, and he showed great ability in handling the hot corner. He is a quick thinker and a valuable man to any team. We are counting on him for the next two seasons.

J. N. MOORE—Outfield.
Freshman Baseball ’25; Varsity Baseball ’26
Moore is said to be one of the best fielders that has been on the Tiger squad in several years. His fielding is spectacular and his hitting equally as good.

W. W. HUDGENS —Second Base
After “Bill” had played ball all over the country he settled down, wearing a Clemson uniform. He is a player that knows baseball and puts all he has into the game at all times. We are glad to have him with us for two more seasons; he is a great asset to the Tiger squad.

J. A. MILLING—Outfield.
“Shine” is a player that never gives up in victory or defeat. He has great ability to play baseball and we have never seen the time when he didn’t put everything he had in the game. He leaves us this year and the squad will miss him very much when practice is called next season.

T. R. LITTLE—Manager
Assistant Manager ’25, ’26; Manager ’27.
“Bob”, as we all know him, is a true Tiger and a good manager. He has won the highest esteem of all his associates by his manly disposition. “Bob” has worked hard for two years, and has proved to be one of the best managers we have ever had, and well deserves the honor bestowed upon him. We are expecting many victories from “Bob” and his men.

C. C. NEWMAN—Captain Forward
Varsity Basketball '25, '26, '27.

Carter has been a great asset to the Tiger team for the last three years. He is a man who puts every ounce of his energy into the game from start to finish. His accurate shooting has been outstanding in every game in which he played. He will be missed sorely on the squad next year.

J. L. BROCK—Forward
Freshman Basketball '25; Varsity Basketball '26, '27.

Brock has been outstanding at Clemson for two years. He can be counted upon to do his share of the scoring. His speed and accuracy at shooting is something to be noticed. We regret very much to see him leave us this year.

H. L. ESKEW—Guard
Freshman Basketball '25; Varsity Basketball '26, '27.

This fiery, auburn-thatched guard played a most consistent game this season. His fight was the main cog in our machine. Besides playing a fine defensive game, he was a good shot, and his speediness and alertness gave him many open shots, which he usually made good.

T. F. McGLONE—Center
Freshman Basketball '25; Varsity Basketball '26, '27.

Lazy Tom McGlone seems to be a lazy man on the campus, but not so on the court. He is one of the best centers in the state, and very few ever got the jump on him. Tom is the mainspring about which we will build our next year's team.

M. H. HENDEE—Forward
Freshman Basketball '24; Varsity Basketball '26, '27.

"Tick" was our two-point man and was known as "two-point Tick". He played forward and a mighty good one. On several occasions he pulled his team out of the fire and put them back into running. He was one of the best floor men in the state, and will be missed on our next year's team.

D. L. BATSON—Guard
Freshman Basketball '26; Varsity Basketball '27.

Davis certainly did his part in all the games this year. His defense was excellent, and when a man shot a basket off him, he earned it. He is only a Sophomore and has two more years to do big things. Luck to you.

TAPS

Two Hundred Twenty-Four
R. B. MIDKIFF—Guard
Freshman Basketball '25; Varsity Basketball '27.
When Bob is guarding a man, you can be sure that he will seldom get a chance to shoot. Bob is fast and elusive on the floor, and is a good shooter. Luck to you in your next and last year at C'lem-on.

J. T. BEASON—Guard
Freshman Basketball '25; Varsity Basketball '27.
Although Beason has not played regularly he has worked hard and will be a great asset to the team before he finishes.

J. T. MUNDY—Forward
Freshman Basketball '25; Varsity Basketball '26, '27.
Mundy played excellent ball during his Freshman and Sophomore year; this year he was better than ever. He can always be depended upon to fight every minute of the game with his all. We are expecting him to be a great help to the squad next year.

M. L. HANNA—Forward
Freshman Basketball '26; Varsity Basketball '27.
Speed and endurance mean a great deal to this man because he has both. With two more years to play, there is a great future for him.

J. B. O'DELL—Guard
Freshman Basketball '26; Varsity Basketball '27.
This was James' first year on the varsity squad and he showed up unusually well. His defensive playing was excellent and his goal shooting was consistent.

W. N. MARTIN—Guard
Freshman Basketball '25; Varsity Basketball '26, '27.
Walt plays a stellar game of basketball just as he does in other sports. It is mighty hard for an opponent to get a shot when he is around. Walt has one more year on the court and we are expecting him to be better than ever next year.

Retrospection

Peacefully, now, we review our athletic standing. The exciting, thrilling anticipation of approaching contests has subsided and resolved itself into history. Not boastfully do we recall the results of late Tiger encounters; nor, do we strive to evade the open records of achievements made. Dame Fortune did not fondle with tender care our representatives collectively. With grim determination and ever patient endeavor have our men entered the fray. Can we in our memory affront them with reproach merely because hampered by undeniable and numerous unfavorable conditions, they failed to materialize our optimistic dreams of successive victories? Far be it from that. On the other hand, as we thoughtfully view the aftermath, we hold dear those heroic efforts vainly expended when odds were inevitably amassed against them.

Tigers are they, and Tigers we, who understand the cyclical period which will surely pave the way for future success for Clemson. Indeed, we have rejoiced in our victories; true, we have suffered in our defeats. Yet, back of it all there stands the aim of athletics. Looming up in the background, dominating activities entirely, is the glory of a dear old Alma Mater. We hold sacred the late endeavors of our teams which have toiled unceasingly to enthrone it in majestic splendor over the collegiate athletic situation.

IF --

(With Pete's Apologies to "Rudy,"

If the Professors would study our lessons, preparing them carefully and well,
And go to classes while we sleep, undisturbed by muffled bell,
And give themselves quizzes, making "A's" on every one,
Putting the marks by our name, with the notation "Well done",
Even making out the examinations—they would know best what they knew,
And stand the things, we don't care, correct the papers too.
Then the semester ended, he would drop a line to Dad,
Extolling our merits, telling what a smart son he had.
If Col. and his cohorts thought demerits were ten dollar bills,
Giving them accordingly, sparingly from the till,
And thought that special permits were things to give away,
Allowing all students to have one at any time of day;
And if drill were scheduled for Sunday (Richards "Blue Laws" would take care of that).

And if we could graduate as Cols. having Lieuts. at our call,
Military life would be a pleasure and the army would get us all.
If dances were given instead of chapel, with orchestras all around,
And the faculty entertained at intermission, dressed in garb of clown,
And all the year's long-winded speakers were standing on the stairs,
Making use of their powerful lungs to percolate fresh air,
And if Sgt. Peck and his crew, rigged in butler's array,
Passed among the dancers, dispensing cocktails from a tray.
If this were true, my boy, school would be a balm,
And the hallowed day of graduation would certainly lose its charm.

Examination

(By Dr. Calhoun)

Ques: If Col. bought coal would Prof. Cheat-em?
Ans: Col. wouldn't mind losing a Peck or so.
Ques: If Cleopatra were loose would Prof. Hunter?
Ans: Who wouldn't?
Ques: If Erlene were cold would Johnnie Baker?
Ans: I don't know.
Ques: What is Thomas G. Clemson's middle name?
Ans: Guess—
Ques: Who built the Lincoln Highway?
Ans: Prof. Rhodes.
Ques: What do you expect to make on this examination?
Ans: A grade.

“Horse” Haskell: “If I said, ‘I am handsome,’ what would that be”?
“Pat” Patrick: “Pre-tense”.

...then Lieut. Balcar brought out his horse pistol—the one that he had raised from a colt.

“Look here, young man, are you trying to tell me that the Generals are in the private offices and the Privates are in the general offices?

To Mr. W. C. Brown as Editor, to Mr. J. H. Baker as Business Manager, and to their able staff of co-workers, we wish to express our congratulations on this, the fruit of their labors. We hope every Clemson man will like the 1927 volume of "Taps". It has been a pleasure indeed to work with your staff in the production of this book.

In our capacity as publishers, we have prepared the extra designs, made all the plates of illustrations, printed and bound this book—in one modern plant—with the supervision of experienced annual men who are interested in Clemson.

Serving colleges for a quarter of a century, we are specialists in preparing college catalogs, bulletins, view books, Y. M. C. A. handbooks, programs, menu cards, business and personal stationery.

Our representative will appreciate an opportunity of consulting with your new annual staff upon their election.

Appreciation

We, the staff of "Taps"—1927, wish to express to our friends our thanks for their help without which our efforts would have been ineffective.

Especially to the faculty and the student body; to Jacobs & Company, our publishers; to White Studio, photographers; to the advertisers whose names appear in this section; and to others who have by their advice and cooperation contributed to making this book, we extend the hand of good-fellowship and say:

"THANK YOU"
