DEDICATION

As a Token of Our Appreciation of the Untiring Efforts and Hospitality of those who have helped make our Social Life at Clemson one that will always be remembered with pleasure, we the Class of Nineteen Hundred Twenty Eight dedicate this volume of Tapestry to our Hostesses, the Ladies of the Campus.
In these pages we have done our best to portray the progress emanating from the arduous efforts and to depict the various phases of our college life; to preserve them for posterity and to ponder over in years to come when memories assuming the fragrance of old wine, make one feel again the joys of youth without its cares.

ALMA MATER

Where the Blue Ridge yawns its greatness,
    Where the Tigers play;
Here the sons of dear old Clemson
    Reign supreme alway.

CHORUS

Dear old Clemson, we will triumph.
    And with all our might.
That the Tiger's roar may echo
    O'er the mountain height.

We will dream of greater conquests.
    For our past is grand:
And her sons have fought and conquered
    Every foreign land.

Where the mountains smile in grandeur.
    O'er the hill and dale;
Here the Tiger lair is nestling.
    Swept by storm and gale.

We are brothers strong in manhood.
    For we work and strive:
And our Alma Mater reigneth
    Ever in our lives.

The Engineers of '28 rendered their first service to the college by discovering that the old engineering clock in the vine-entangled tower had stopped. For two years this engineering class, the largest in the history of the school, crowded its activities within the walls of this old building whose antiquated classrooms and equipment were in keeping with the unmoved hands of the clock. There were dreams of a new Engineering Building and equipment, but little hope for their realization. Then, as though fate had timed the act, Commencement of '26 found the old structure in smoldering ashes—a martyr to engineering progress.

A new building was now inevitable but would it become a reality before the graduation of the class of '28? During the Junior year gang-plank gossip, classroom discussions, and universal speculation among the students seemed to avail little in deciding this momentous question. In the meantime, classes were being held in every available nook and corner of the campus: old dwellings, basements, out-grown churches and the like.

Fortunately the Legislature realized the pressing need of Clemson, and through the unceasing efforts of Col. Allen Johnstone the heretofore vague hopes for a new building became a reality. The Seniors returned in the fall of '27 to find the new building under rapid construction. Although this class has had scant opportunity to make use of Riggs Hall, it has the satisfaction of knowing that Clemson has one of the most modern and best-equipped Engineering Buildings in the South.
CLEMSON REMINISCENCES AND PRESAGES

CLEMSON COLLEGE is the result of the ambition, scholarship, experience and vision of Thomas G. Clemson. The institution reflects the culmination of years of study and thought in the field of science, particularly in the field of agricultural science.

The College is situated on the old Fort Hill estate. Three-fourths of the estate was willed to Mrs. Clemson, a daughter of Mrs. John C. Calhoun; but at the death of Mrs. Calhoun the estate was sold at public auction to pay some old mortgages. Mr. Clemson, with the help of his wife, purchased the estate.

In 1889 the General Assembly of South Carolina proceeded to convert Thomas G. Clemson’s dream into a reality. The College was opened in July, 1893, with an enrollment of 446 students.

The College made steady advancement from 1893 to 1911 under its three presidents. Clemson was beginning to be of vital importance to the state when Dr. Riggs took the president’s chair.

Dr. Riggs came to the institution in 1896 as coach and engineering instructor and served in this capacity until 1901, when he was elected to direct the engineering department. In 1911 he was made president of the College. Research in the fields of agriculture, textiles, livestock and fertilizers entered the constructive as well as instructive stage during his time at Clemson. The agricultural extension service became of value to the state and the engineering department advanced beyond its embryonic period. While he was the executive the Clemson Tiger took many high honors. Dr. Riggs died in Washington, at a Land Grant Conference, on January 22, 1924. The memory of him will ever be revered in the minds of those who knew him and his work.

Professor Earle, the present director of the engineering department, served in the capacity of president from the time of Dr. Riggs’ death until September, 1925.
At the beginning of the 1925-26 school term the liberal-minded, constructive Dr. Sikes became president of the College. The president is a clear-thinking man with a striking personality. Under his splendid guidance Clemson has taken enormous strides toward perfection and has been placed on the list of accredited colleges in the South. Some of the many advancements which have resulted from his untiring efforts are the erection of new engineering and shop buildings, the acquisition of one of the finest coaching staffs in the South, the introduction of mass athletics, the selection of competent professors, and the molding of an adequate curriculum. These changes have helped raise the enrollment to 1,210 students. The very highest praise is due Dr. Sikes for the progress the College has made thus far under his administration.

What the future holds for Clemson with a man like Dr. Sikes as her president is not hard to imagine. Before many years Clemson will probably have a new gymnasium, a new textile building, a new barracks and another engineering building, all of which will be equipped to meet the highest standards. Future years will see constructive changes in all courses and see Clemson take the seat of honor in athletics again. From these reminiscences and presages Clemson should rank among the foremost colleges in the country, and her students should be of untold value to the State and Nation.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

Four long years have now passed since this class first entered Clemson. Back in the fall of '24 when over four hundred wild-eyed freshmen disembarked in the front of the Main Building, all of their dignity was stripped in a moment. Large, robust Sophs, the kind that we had heard so much about, we were now privileged to see. A care-free year followed, every day brought something new.

Then all of a sudden we were sophisticated Sophomores. Sophomore days were not what they seemed, nobody loves a Sophomore, and we wished that we were "Rats" again. Juniordom was our next goal and soon it was reached. Then days began to pass—we were on the brink of dignity.

Since we have passed through all of the stages necessary for a college education it all seems as a fond memory—a memory that shall linger on. Happiness and fun: gloom and darkness, have been our lot. We have rejoiced and suffered together.

Great changes have been wrought since our green days of '25. Changes for the better, progress necessitates changes. The changes are quite apparent to the members of our class: the "bull ring", post-walking, and a few other unnecessary things have passed on.

We are now out of college and in the great University of Life: some of us have a good start and others of us are handicapped. It is now too late, we have to make the best of it.

"The Moving Finger writes: and, having writ, Moves on: nor all your Piety nor Wit Shall lure it back to cancel half a line Nor all your tears wash out a word of it."

 Almost three hundred Juniors the date of September 13, 1927, is very memorable. We had met with great success both as Freshmen and as Sophomores. Now we were scrambling to matriculate and try our luck as Juniors. It was a merry time as friend hailed friend, and old acquaintances were renewed. No longer were we sophisticated Sophomores! Already we had assumed something of that dignity and pride which so often characterizes a young Junior. While we were matriculating, even among our laughter and good cheer, a seriousness and an earnestness of purpose could be seen in every face, as we slowly pushed our way along the hall, in and out of each office.

It was not easy for us to accustom ourselves to the old college atmosphere again; that was one of our most difficult tasks. But soon we were on our way again, determined to succeed. And how well have we succeeded! Yet success did not come at our bidding; we have had to fight and toil, watching and seizing our opportunities as they came.

We have occupied an outstanding place in athletics. The notable work of Pressley, Hall, Davis, and Snowden should certainly not pass unmentioned. In other phases of athletics, also, we have shown our untiring work. Our past is bright: our future is even brighter.

And now, with the thought of our Senior year looming just before us, we begin to realize our responsibilities: we look forward with yearning eyes and with eager anticipation. What does the future hold? May we not be forgiven for speculating? Look back upon the past. Hardships and troubles, pit-falls and snares have beset us on every hand. But we have won: thus far we have won, and the battle is ours. Let us take courage and go forward more determined than ever: for there are other battles to fight, and there are other tasks to perform. Ours is a triumphant banner, and we shall proudly bear it on to our goal.

G. M. Dickinson.
Junior Class Historian.
SOPHOMORES
SOPHOMORE CLASS HISTORY

ON SEPTEMBER 13, 1927, about four hundred "ex-rats," now the dignified Sophomores, arrived at Clemson. We thought, after having answered our last new-boy call, that we would rest on flowery beds of ease for the rest of our college career. We were sadly mistaken. "Big Ben" for the "ags," "Wee Willie" for the engineers, and "Bill" for the chemists soon taught us that Sophomore only meant suffermore.

Low marks and demerits were handed out to us so generously that we were soon "knee-deep" in them. We, realizing our situation at the end of the first term when blue slips were all the mail that came on the company halls for two days, "snapped out of it" and came out successfully at the end of the semester.

Last year we had a taste of Freshman life and its knocks, therefore we tried to be light on "rats." We could almost call ourselves chicken-hearted, but the "rats" seemed to have the opinion that we should be called "rough on rats." They would lie around on the campus in their spare time gazing around at the trees just thinking, as though they were nature poets.

Over half of our successful Tiger Eleven was made up of Sophs: a thing that we are proud of. Not only in this sport was our class well represented but also in basketball, boxing, baseball and track. We were equally prominent in all other college activities.

And now, as Father Time mows away the days, bringing before us the close of our Sophomore year and the beginning of our Junior year, we will strive on with unfailing courage to give our best for the glory and honor of Clemson.

FRESHMAN CLASS HISTORY

THE day of September 6, 1927, at last arrived and it will long remain in our minds: for on that day we entered college to spend the best four years of our life. The remainder of the week, known as Freshman Week, was spent in getting the “new boys” (as we were to be known for the following school year) acquainted with the professors and the college in general. Another day will also be long remembered: this was September 13, 1927. On that day the “old boys” swept down on us like the wolf on the fold, cutting our hair off in hunks and also cutting otherwise. The call of new boy, the sight of a broom, and the sound of a bell nearly caused grey hairs to replace our youthful locks. We were made to feel so unnecessary and obscure by the “uppers” that we thought it hardly worthwhile to be at college. As we became accustomed to the ways of “Ole” Clemson, our ideals came floating back to us and we began to settle down to work. Not many days had passed before the “new boys” scented the true Tiger spirit and became full-fledged cubs.

Our “rat” football team did not have the misfortune of last year’s “rat” team to lose the State Championship by one point. The 1927 Cubs marched straight to the championship crown through all the opposition the State could offer. Our “rat” basketball team was not to be outdone by the football team, so they took up the march where the football team left off and annexed a Freshman State Championship in basketball. Judging from the excellent material on hand it seems as though our baseball team will likewise bring home the bacon.

The time is fast approaching when we shall be changed from the “new boy” into the “old boy.” Every true Tiger Cub has within him the spirit of our Freshman class: he may long for the time when he will become a “Soph,” but always in his mind will linger those cherished memories of his Freshman year at Clemson.

G. F. Kirchner,
Freshman Class Historian.

The state classic. Before the largest crowd ever to attend an athletic exhibition in South Carolina, the Jungaleers crushed the Gamecocks. Never before has the "esprit de corps" been roused more. The Tigers, backed by the entire Cadet Corps, entered this tilt to win and although dame fortune denied them for three periods, their drive continued and found a glorious reward in the last few minutes of the game. Captain "Bud" Eskew led the assault that smashed the Carolinians to overwhelming defeat and was the star of stars, for every Clemson warrior must be classed as such in a game so well-played.
CLEMSON 0—PRESBYTERIAN COLLEGE 0
A great game. The Tigers opened their season in impressive style and fought the strong Bluestocking eleven to a scoreless tie. The Purple forwards were impregnable and to them we owe the game.

CLEMSON 3—AUBURN 0
Our first victory over the Tigers of the Plains in two decades. The score does not convey the margin of this defeat. Every Clemson warrior performed well, and the unerring toe of 'Pip' Timmerman did not fail when the crucial moment arrived.

CLEMSON 7—N. C. STATE 18
An unexpected defeat. The Wolfpack was ravenous and the Jungaleers fell before their onslaught after a hard fight. A rally in the last quarter gave the Tigers a touchdown and threatened two others, but fate denied them a victory.
Clemson 26—Erskine 6

The Purple eleven rushed madly through the Seeders and won a decisive victory. A great battle of Sophomores and the Clemson second-year men retaliated for the defeat handed them last season by the Erskine Freshmen.

Clemson 7—Wofford 0

The Terriers gave us a scare when they held the Tigers scoreless for three quarters but a pass, Eskew to Mouledous, in the last few minutes of play gave us the game.

Clemson 13—Citadel 0

The Bull Dogs lived up to their reputations as fighters but were powerless before the strong Purple machine. The Clemson forwards were impregnable while McMillian and Davis were slashing through the Cadet line.
Clemson 0—Georgia 32

Captain Eskew's greatest game. We lost by an overwhelming score but many will cherish in their memories the grit displayed by the Tigers in this contest. The Georgians were one of the strongest elevens in the country and the Jungaleers were outclassed, but not out-fought. "Bud" Eskew's stellar work won him honorable mention for a place on the mythical All-Southern eleven.

Clemson 0—Furman 28

A defeat for which we make no excuses. We believe that the Tigers were as strong as the Hurricane but an erratic and listless game gave them a just score. We regret our loss but look forward to a different score in our next Thanksgiving Day game when we hope to throw off the jinx that Furman has held over us for the past four years. We remember with pride the work of O. K. and Harlan Pressley in this disaster.

FRESHMAN FIRST STRING MEN—State Champions
'28 BASKETBALL TEAM

No team showed as much improvement during the current year as did the basketball quintet. The squad, composed of men of little experience, met many adversities during the early part of the season. Game after game avoided their grasp, but each by a smaller margin. Each contest saw a marked improvement in the Tiger play, however, and by mid-season they had passed the novitiate stage and were playing stellar ball. Their efforts were well rewarded, and the defeat of several strong Conference teams made the Jungaleers eligible for the Southern Conference meet in Atlanta, where they acquitted themselves well, losing to Auburn, the runners-up for championship honors, by one point.

We are glad to honor the men who have so well supported Clemson's colors. They have paved the way to greater victories for the next season. We are also glad to do homage to Coach Cody, who, in our opinion, has no peer in the South.

RETROSPECT

The records for '27-'28 are closed forever. Both victory and defeat have been encountered and neither has tarnished our pride nor our honor. We have rejoiced in success and suffered in adversity, but time will wipe the scores from our memories and leave only fond reminiscences of the loyalty of our teams. They have incarnated the unwavering Tiger spirit and have fought each contest with the zeal inherent to true athletes and gentlemen. After all, it matters not who won or lost, "it's how you played the game."

Clemson's athletic star is again above the Southern horizon. Each season is but a period in a cycle or trend that will lead eventually to supremacy. Many stellar athletes must pass on with our class, but their deeds will live on and will prove stepping-stones to greater successes for future Tiger teams.

We are proud of the athletes of the class of '28. They will never don the Tiger uniform again, but enshrined in their hearts is a spirit that time cannot efface. The rules of sport are those of life, and in this greatest of games they can bring even greater honors to their Alma Mater.
For when the One Great Scorer comes to write against your name
He writes not that you won or lost but how you played the game.

Some Facts: 1. The Clemson Y. M. C. A. was organized in 1895. The first full-time secretary was Mr. Ray Legate, secured in 1906. The building was completed in 1915 and opened the first of January, 1916. The cost was $78,000.00 complete—furnished. The money was raised by contributions from Rockefeller for fifty thousand, the Board of Trustees for fifteen thousand, students, alumni, faculty and friends $10,000.00. Paid off since erection $3,000.00. The College furnishes heat, lights, water and repairs, also $500.00 towards one of the secretary’s salary. The other expense of secretaries, janitors, men employed in the building, building supplies, cost of program—all is raised by means of memberships, proceeds from picture shows, game rooms and rentals from dormitory.

State Tax $1,337.75 through March 21, 1928—Paid.

Improvements: During the past year there have been many improvements in the Y. M. C. A. building, one of the most helpful being the purchase and installation of two large fans to furnish proper ventilation for the auditorium. Another was the purchase of new curtains, draperies and flowers for the Reading Room, another being the securing of Mrs. Hodges as part-time Hostess, and still another being the purchase of considerable new furniture and the repair of other furniture. New rooms with permanent partitions. Quite a bit of painting in the cafe and other parts of the building. The addition of a third full-time secretary in the person of Mr. J. R. Cooper. Family memberships.
THE Y. M. C. A. SWIMMING POOL

The swimming pool is a thing of interest and value in developing men physically. Men need to know how to swim and, too, there is probably no better exercise. Such an accommodation is found in the swimming pool of the Y. M. C. A. The pool is always filled with good water and is kept in good condition. During the winter the water is heated to a comfortable temperature so that those who enjoy this sport need not wait for a good swim. Special hours have been arranged for children and ladies on the campus, and cadets use the pool at other times. The swimming team uses the pool for practice and life saving tests are given there also. Therefore, the swimming pool is used by the cadets and many of the campus people and many of them hardly see how they could get the pleasure and development derived there from any other source.

THE Y. M. C. A. GYMNASIUM

"A tired mind, a weary step; an hour of play, a world of pep." The "Y" gymnasium, although not a large one, affords to the students and people of the community an opportunity to keep fit by exercising daily. Each Monday evening, members of the faculty gather for an hour of volleyball or other games. Company basketball and volleyball tournaments are conducted for the cadets in order to encourage them to exercise more. A number of the more energetic fellows exceed the "daily dozen" by indulging in a bit of wrestling and boxing. The girls of the community also enjoy many happy hours of play on the court.
THE Y. M. C. A. AUDITORIUM

With a seating capacity of approximately four hundred, and comfortably ventilated by two large fans, this auditorium serves many needs at Clemson. It is here that the successful Sunday evening meetings are held, having an average attendance of over three hundred. Likewise, the auditorium lends itself to the social needs of man. The campus people and students gather for an evening of fellowship and mirth on many occasions such as "class nights" or community socials. The little folks are given free motion picture programs on Saturday mornings and Monday afternoons. The auditorium also serves as the community theatre; thus, it is here that the Clemson people see the leading motion picture productions of the year.

Practically every department of the College has occasion to use the auditorium for class purposes during the year.

THE CLEMSON Y. M. C. A. CAFETERIA

Although called a "cafeteria," this is in reality a dining room and lunch room. This portion of the building is rented to Mrs. Mary Albergotti and is operated for the convenience of transients, guests of the College and of the Y. M. C. A. and for "extra-curricula" nourishment for the students. This is equipped with some very good fixtures and has electric refrigeration.

The cafeteria is open all times from early morning until late at night. Mrs. Albergotti has consistently tried to keep open for the accommodation of special groups and for special occasions. Although it is located on the bottom floor of the building and rather out of the way, yet it is attractively operated and maintained so that those who find the way once know to return.

ZEPHYRS OF A QUIET AFTERNOON

It was an ideal day for football, snow covered the ground to a depth of two feet, six inches, icicles dropped from the trees, while the only relief from the sweltering heat was afforded by numerous fans which overspread the field of battle. The stands were filled at an early hour, the stands were a mass of waving pennants, their wavers numbering some 10,000 souls. It was rumored that several persons were turned away by "Bear" Gee.

The Horde was the first to take the field, led by their sturdy Captain "Pop" Glenn. John Lane showed off his team by demonstrating a few of the latest dance steps. They ran a few signals, then retired to the end of the field where they relapsed into their weekly crap game.

The stands were filled at an early hour, the stands were a mass of waving pennants, their wavers numbering some 10,000 souls. It was rumored that several persons were turned away by "Bear" Gee.

The Horde was the first to take the field, led by their sturdy Captain "Pop" Glenn. John Lane showed off his team by demonstrating a few of the latest dance steps. They ran a few signals, then retired to the end of the field where they relapsed into their weekly crap game.

The chunks were received by an ovation only surpassed by that of their opponents. Red Carpenter tried to frighten his opponents by rendering the "obligato from Sears and Roebuck in the key of F." But Bill Lippincott came back with a horse laugh which evened things up. Promptly at 5:48 1/4, Lord Collings kicked off 10,000 centimeters, the ball ascribing a beautiful parabolic arc and striking "Will Rogers" Clarke on the head while he was deeply engrossed in an explanation of the "whichness of what" for the benefit of "Pus" Johnson. Slide Hodge slipped around right end for a gain of eighteen yards and was downed by "Big Ben" Goodale who mistook him for a cow. "Rabbi" Holtzendorff and "Shoe" Shuboltz were put out of the game for profanity and fighting on the next play.

At this juncture Mrs. Pickens rang the supper bell at the Hotel and the Horde scurried from the field thinking they were going to get something to eat. Referee Lifsey awarded the game to the chunks, basing his award on paragraph 981 cadet regulations and everyone left the field happy.

COLOR

Never has color had the power to influence sales as it does today. More clothing, more textile fabrics for use in the home are being sold simply because color has a universal sales appeal.

Manufacturers in the textile field are not only aware of the rapidly growing demand among consumers for color but colors which are fast.

Du Pont dyes are available which satisfactorily fill this requirement, dyes which impart to textile fabrics the enduring color qualities
the public is being taught to expect.
A bunch of Cadets were whooping it up at Martin's on the road to Calhoun.
The boy that handles the soda fount was humming a popular tune.
At a table up front with a dope in his hand sat the noble Slim McCant.
And staring at him with love in her eyes was the beautiful Ella Fant.

Then out of the night, which was dark and light, and into the welcome retreat.
There strolled a Cadet fresh from his studies, and, Oh, he looked so sweet.
His face was worn, his collar was torn, and his underwear was of silk.
And he flipped a dime at the soda boy and called for a Chocolate Milk.

No one knew who the Cadet was, and we all turned round for a look.
He didn't mind and drank right on, with his right hand twined round a book.
Then the Cadet turned from his chocolate milk, which by now he had almost inhaled.
In a khaki suit made by Rowland, he up and said to the gang.

"There's a few little words I'd like to say," and his visage suddenly paled.
"I'm awfully ruff and very ruff, and I sure don't give a Dang.
I want to say in a military way, and no one must say I shan't.
That one Cadet here is a 'Tea-bounds clear and that one is Slim McCant.'"

Then I shut my eyes and the girlie screamed, two voices were heard on the air.
C'ief Allison came. I opened my eyes and saw with a half wild stare.
Sitting there propped in the chair once filled by the noble McCant.
Was the stranger grand holding the hand of the lovely Ella Fant.
