Clemson University today is meeting the challenge of tomorrow with relevant educational programs focusing on conditions of our time and of the future. By merging a broad range of specialized talents into an interdisciplinary approach, the University is channeling student interest and eagerness to solve contemporary problems into realistic, constructive, academic and research programs.

In anticipation of a student body of 10,000 by 1975, the University is responding to the educational programs at the undergraduate and graduate levels. This is particularly evident in the Colleges of Liberal Arts and Education and in the School of Nursing, which are providing several new and innovative programs for Clemson's surging coed enrollment.

The University's program of physical expansion is being geared to complement its increasing enrollment and expanding academic curricula. Top priorities are being given to the construction of a University Union and Student Relations Activity Facility, new buildings for the College of Forestry and Recreation Resources and the Biological Sciences, and an addition to Lee Hall which houses the College of Architecture.

Clemson University is proud of the many accomplishments of its past, but the true measure of the University's worth will be decided by its contribution to the future. What has been done will serve as fitting prologue for what we are determined to accomplish in our fourth quarter-century of meaningful education, research, and public service programs.

The Clemson Alumni Association is dedicated to serving the students of Clemson University through the advancement of the University's educational student activities programs.

The Association is the tie that maintains the closeness of the Clemson family as its members scatter to all parts of the world in pursuit of their careers—and the tie that links the students of yesterday to the students of today.

From the income of the Alumni Loyalty Fund, which has totalled nearly $2 million in the last 15 years, grants are made to the University for programs of scholarships and fellowships, faculty development and research, undergraduate education, graduate education and student activities.

The on-campus Alumni Office maintains records of and contact with nearly 25,000 former students. While serving the alumni by helping them maintain contact with their University, the Alumni Office also serves Clemson's 8,000 "now" students in many ways during each college year.

alpha epsilon delta

On February 20, 1971, the South Carolina Gamma Chapter was established at Clemson University as the 100th chapter of Alpha Epsilon Delta, international premedical honor society. Members are given an opportunity to develop a well-rounded personality and qualities of initiative, leadership, and self-education through participation in chapter activities such as a freshman premedical orientation program, guest speakers, and films.

Alpha Epsilon Delta is primarily an honor society, but it also has an educational objective—to stimulate an appreciation of the importance of premedical education and to promote cooperation and contacts between premedical and medical students and educators. The chapter attempts to bind together similarly interested students and to use its knowledge for the benefit of health organizations and the community.

G. DAN JACOBS, President
In November, 1971, the local honor sorority, Phi Sigma Omega became affiliated with the national honor society, Alpha Lambda Delta, which promotes high standards of learning, and encourages superior scholastic attainment among the freshman women in Clemson University.

Membership is restricted to freshman women with a minimum or normal student load who at the end of the first semester or the entire freshman year have earned a grade average of 3.5.

The chapters initiate their own particular activity programs. The National Council favors the groups' sponsoring only such activities which foster a wholesome respect for achievement of scholarship. The purpose of membership is to recognize in freshman students potentiality for scholarly development and to encourage them in the pursuit of learning.

MELODY BAKER, President
alpha zeta

Alpha Zeta, the honorary brotherhood of students in agriculture and related sciences, is a national service fraternity stressing scholarship, leadership, and character. Membership is open to male students enrolled in the agricultural sciences who meet minimum scholastic requirements and have displayed outstanding character and leadership potential.

Local service projects in the past have included monitoring selected study rooms in the Plant and Animal Sciences Building and maintaining an honor board of outstanding students in agriculture. In addition to these projects, this year's plans call for establishing a sister organization to honor women agricultural students and starting a freshman counselling program.

Alpha Zeta recognizes the many problems of the world today—malnutrition, poverty, declining natural resources—and it seeks to promote agricultural betterment in the worldwide community through its members' educations and professions.

To express one's own life and character by what he is able to accomplish for his fellowman is conveyed by the phrase—"Serving I live." This is the motto of Blue Key National Honor Fraternity, the goal each member strives to continually follow, the actions each member displayed before being invited into the organization. The membership of Blue Key is comprised of those students who are leaders in scholarship and student activities at Clemson.

While members are actively involved in other phases of college life, the fraternal bonds within Blue Key remain strong. Each year the brothers join together to plan, direct, and coordinate Tigerama. Tigerama is a student variety production traditionally presented on the eve of Homecoming. This year's Tigerama was a Halloween special with the theme being "Clemson—1984." Although this is Blue Key's main service to the school, the members endeavor to uphold Blue Key's motto while at Clemson and to stimulate the ambition for intellectual achievements and the desire to serve Clemson and fellow students.
alpha tau alpha

Alpha Tau Alpha, a national professional honorary fraternity for teachers and teacher trainees in agricultural education, has been an established fraternity on the Clemson campus since May, 1932. The purposes of Kappa Chapter of Alpha Tau Alpha is to develop a true professional spirit in agricultural teaching and to help train agriculture teachers to be leaders in their rural communities. Through various activities which it sponsors during the year, the fraternity tries to foster a fraternal spirit among its members.

Members of Alpha Tau Alpha are invited to join on a basis of scholarship, leadership, character, and outstanding achievement in the field of agricultural education. Each year the fraternity awards a medal to the senior with the highest scholastic average.

MICHAEL E. PITTS, President
mu beta psi

Since 1928 Delta Chapter of Mu Beta Psi, national honorary music fraternity, has been working to promote a better fellowship among the musicians and to advance music to its proper place as an educational subject on the Clemson campus. Mu Beta Psi also ushers for the university Concert Series, sponsors the Pep Band, the North-South basketball doubleheader, and a contestant in the Miss Homecoming Contest. Foremost in the fraternity's achievement is the annual musical variety show, "Springsounds," a kaleidoscope of musical talents and tastes of the Clemson campus.

Any male who has actively participated in either Tiger Band, Concert Band, or the University Singers for two semesters is eligible for membership. This year Delta Chapter has the honor of having Tony Hilton, National Vice President of Mu Beta Psi, as one of its brothers. Also, Mr. Edmund Winston, a faculty member of Clemson University, was inducted as an honorary member of Mu Beta Psi.

order of athena

Order of Athena was chartered in the spring of 1968 by the brothers of Blue Key as their sister organization. The purpose of the society is to honor those senior women at Clemson University who have shown outstanding scholarship, leadership, and service abilities. The sisters of Order of Athena serve as hostesses at the Blue Key drop-in and aid Blue Key in other projects.

Order of Athena has developed a program of guest speakers from the University faculty who are involved in research. This is so that the sisters may be aware of the research that is in progress at Clemson and also other outside interests of the faculty members.

Presently Order of Athena is striving towards becoming affiliated with a national women's honorary organization.

phi eta sigma

Phi Eta Sigma is a national honor fraternity that strives to recognize the outstanding scholastic achievement of freshmen. Unlike many other honoraries that judge eligibility on leadership and scholarship, Phi Eta Sigma membership is based solely on scholastic performance. A minimum grade-point ratio of 3.5 accumulated during either the first semester or the first two semesters serves as a base requirement for admission. This year, as in the past, Phi Eta Sigma sponsored freshman achievement tests in both English and Mathematics, and the winners were recognized with special awards on Honors and Awards Day. At the same time, the senior with the highest grade-point ratio was given a Phi Eta Sigma key. The highlight of the year came during April when Phi Eta Sigma had its annual banquet in honor of the new initiates.

CARL M. POE, President
Phi Psi

Phi Psi, a national honorary textile fraternity, is dedicated to the advancement of the textile industry and the promotion of brotherhood within the industry. Iota Chapter of Phi Psi at Clemson has as its goal, the improvement of the textile industry through the production of qualified textile students. Each year the fraternity sends representatives to the Phi Psi national convention. The brothers of Iota Chapter help the Textile Department in many ways throughout the year, including conducting tours on high school visitation days, and sponsoring a student-faculty picnic to promote a fellowship within the department.

JEFF LANGLEY, President
Phi Kappa Phi, national honor society concerned with recognizing and encouraging scholarship in all fields of university endeavor, is celebrating its 75th anniversary this year.

Founded as a national society in 1897, Phi Kappa Phi now includes 128 university chapters. Clemson’s Chapter, founded in 1935, annually sponsors an essay contest for the University and awards a cash prize to the junior with the highest grade point ratio. Nationally, the society awards fourteen $3,000 fellowships annually. A Clemson senior, Mark Savitsky, received a fellowship in 1971.

Membership in Phi Kappa Phi is limited to second semester juniors with at least a 3.5 GPR and seniors having a cumulative 3.3 or better GPR. Prospective members must have completed at least half the hours required for graduation at Clemson, and all college work taken is considered in the Phi Kappa Phi GPR. Election and initiation take place twice a year.
psi mu psi

Psi Mu Psi, chartered in the fall of 1970, became the honorary music sorority of Clemson University. With the goal of promoting music on the campus, Psi Mu Psi encourages sisterhood among the women students involved in Tiger Band, University Chorus, and Concert Band.

HARRIET QUATTLEBAUM, President
tau beta pi

Tau Beta Pi, founded in 1885 at LeHigh University, is the nation’s oldest engineering honor society. South Carolina Alpha, the local chapter, was instatted in 1928 with the purpose of recognizing in an appropriate manner those undergraduate students in all fields of engineering who have demonstrated their superior scholarship and exemplary character.

Members are selected from those men and women who rank in at least the upper fifth of the senior engineering enrollment and the upper eighth of the junior engineering enrollment.

Tau Beta Pi also strives to encourage a spirit of liberal culture through sponsorship of essay contests, a slide rule course, academic awards, and talks to the engineering freshmen each year.

Membership in Tau Beta Pi represents the highest mark of achievement for an engineering student, and is an honor which is universally respected in the engineering profession.

Sigma Tau Epsilon is Clemson University's honor society for the College of Physical, Mathematical, and Biological Sciences and the College of Liberal Arts. Sigma Tau Epsilon's membership is based on scholastic achievement and its purpose is to recognize honor students, to promote fellowship, and to create a body of men and women who are willing to use their own scholastic abilities to aid their fellow students.

Sigma Tau Epsilon's main project is to offer free tutoring to all students enrolled in liberal arts and physical, mathematical, and biological science courses. This service was begun two years ago, and it is now a tradition of Sigma Tau Epsilon. Courses are offered each week in such diverse subjects as chemistry, mathematics, English, and foreign languages. The program has been an immense success and, through its dedicated membership, will continue to be a success in the future.

Tiger Brotherhood was born during the cadet walkouts in the twenties. During its early years, Tiger Brotherhood assumed the role of cadet government, making suggestions, holding discussions, and representing the student viewpoint in matters affecting cadet life.

Today Tiger Brotherhood, still embracing the same basic tenets as established by its founders, promotes high standards of social and ethical conduct, while recognizing in its members an earnest devotion to Clemson. Tiger Brotherhood has served as a spirit-booster for the past few years by selling orange hats, BEWARE stickers, and Pew-Power flags. Tiger Brotherhood, a cross-sectional representation of the Clemson community, provides a viable forum for ideas and unending service to Clemson. Students, faculty, and staff all work within the bonds of brotherhood to champion a closer relationship.

Xi Sigma Pi is a national honorary forestry fraternity. The objective of the fraternity is to maintain a high standard of scholarship in forestry education, to work for the improvement of the profession and to promote a fraternal spirit among students engaged in forestry activities. For a student to be eligible for Xi Sigma Pi fraternity he must be in the upper twenty-five percent of his class and have finished ten semester hours of professional courses.

The Alpha Beta Chapter of Clemson has a scholarship award program approved by the Honors and Awards Committee of Clemson University. The fraternity presents awards to the freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior who have excelled scholastically in forestry. Xi Sigma Pi continually strives for the betterment of forestry at Clemson by setting high goals for the individual forestry student.

The purposes of the Agricultural Economics Club are to create and promote fellowship among majors of agricultural Economics, to study current agricultural and economic problems, to obtain a better understanding of the services the Agricultural Economist can render, and to provide opportunities for better communications between members and professional workers in the agricultural social sciences.

The activities of the club include a student-faculty barbecue in the spring. There are contests among members of the club, such as public speaking and essay contests. Some members represent the Club in contests away from Clemson. There are various awards for winners of these contests and merit awards for outstanding contributions to the club. The Club has monthly meetings if necessary.

American Association of Textile Chemists and Colorists

The American Association of Textile Chemists and Colorists is a scientific and technical professional society. The Association offers the student both professional and social advantages through the promotion of increased chemical technology for textile structures and the encouraged interchange of professional knowledge. In addition to these activities, the Association maintains co-operative relationships with other similar organizations and with agencies of the Federal Government.

The Student AATCC Chapter encourages membership from any interested student. In addition to its other benefits, it also visits dye, chemical, and processing facilities and participates in many student related events including the intramural sports, Homecoming, and informal get-togethers.

Kim Deacon, President
The American Association of Textile Technology, established at Clemson in 1962, comprised of Textile majors, and industrial Management majors whose secondary concentration is Textiles. A student may participate while in college as a student member, advancing the aims and goals of the chapter, and after graduation, join one of the national professional AATT chapters. The purpose of AATT is to keep students informed on current developments in the textile industry and to develop an understanding of all aspects of the industry. This purpose is accomplished by having speakers and taking field trips to various industries. AATT members help with the construction of a homecoming display each year and are active during high school day in Sirrine Hall. The highlight of the year is the student-faculty softball game.

DAVID S. RUTLAND, president
In 1922, Professor B. E. Goodale and a group of dairy students started the Clemson Dairy Club, which later affiliated with the national American Dairy Science Association. This year the club sponsored the Dairy Cattle judging team. Tom Hammond, Steve Mills and Joel Riley went to Columbus, Ohio, to compete in the national collegiate contest.

This year's activities included cookouts, awards banquet, naming a Dairy Princess, Miss Jan Murray, and the annual student-faculty football game. The ADSA participated in Coalition Night on the Clemson Campus, where they sold ice cream to students. A publication is being planned for distribution across the state. Many scholarships sponsored by various dairy organizations are made available to ADSA members. Perhaps the most cherished award is made by the ADSA to the student showing the most improvement during his stay at Clemson.

TOM HAMMOND, president
The American Chemical Society, Student Affiliates is a professional organization directed toward the chemically oriented student. Each year different projects are conducted so as to broaden the students' view of chemistry. This year's projects included picnics, field trips, and trips to Nashville, Tennessee for the Southeastern Regional Conference of the American Chemical Society, and the V.I.P. for the annual Southeastern Sectional Conference of Undergraduate Student Chemists. Bimonthly meetings are also held in which different films pertaining to chemistry are shown as well as talks given by local professors.

The American Chemical Society, Student Affiliates is therefore dedicated to professionalizing the undergraduate chemically oriented student at Clemson. Through the organization the student becomes more aware of the field of chemistry and is able to become acquainted with the chemical community while at Clemson.

RAWSON GRIFFIN, president
The Student Chapter of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, founded at Clemson in 1947, has as its main objective the professional development of its members. Membership is limited to Chemical Engineering students who have attained at least a Sophomore rating.

Meetings of the organization are held tri-weekly and feature professional, off-campus speakers in order to give members first-hand knowledge of the chemical industry and its operations. AIChE also sponsors several social functions through the year including one "tea party" each semester, a cookout coupled with a football game between seniors and underclassmen, a homecoming display, constructed in front of the Chemical Engineering Building, Earle Hall, and a spring banquet. The organization is also active in both the regional and national sectors of AIChE.

MIKE HODGE, president
The American Society of Agricultural Engineers promotes the interests of the students in Agricultural Engineering, emphasizing the professional aspects of this curriculum.

The South Carolina branch carries on a variety of activities besides its monthly meetings at which informative and interesting persons speak to the organization. The branch supports itself with a field project each year, which involves working a fourteen-acre field of soybeans. With revenue from this crop the branch is able to sponsor a barbecue chicken dinner for the State Section meeting of ASAE. Each year the branch enters a report for the Food and Industrial Equipment award, and has a very fine record in this particular activity. The branch also tries each year to sponsor a field trip which concerns the profession.

TOM PLUMBLEE, president
The American Society of Civil Engineers is the civil engineering graduate's professional organization. The Clemson University student chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers was established in order to provide opportunities for the students in civil engineering to make professional acquaintances and associations with various personnel and corporations.

A number of professional speakers in various fields of civil engineering highlighted the engineering phase of A.S.C.E. this year. Working many hours on a Homecoming display, which was located in front of Lowry Hall, publishing The A.S.C.E. Newsletter twice monthly, playing student-faculty softball games, and hosting the Carolina Conference rounded out the civil engineers' calendar year.

The functions and field trips this year, as always, were planned to best acquaint and interest civil engineering students with the various phases of their field, and to create a professional relationship between the students and faculty.

SLADE EXLEY, president
The American Society of Mechanical Engineers is a national, professional engineering society dedicated to the advancement of the engineering profession. Membership is open to all mechanical engineering students in good standing.

ASME students participate in such contests as the Bendix Award Contest which is judged on best organization, programs and student participation. Other contests participated in by ASME are the design problem contest, and the technical paper presentation. Members also take an active part in various activities such as field trips, the annual Homecoming display, and the regional student conference, which keep them busy and also provide enjoyment. Meetings are twice a month and serve to acquaint the students with the faculty and industry.

The American Society of Mechanical Engineers is a very useful outlet for students. The organization brings together all Mechanical Engineering Students from freshmen to graduates. Many friendships and working relations are developed that will be of value after graduation.

BRENT MOORE, president
block and bridle club

THE BLOCK AND BRIDLE CLUB PAGES ARE DEDICATED TO WILLIAM L. (BILL) COPLELAND IN MEMORY OF HIS WORK IN THE CLUB AND AS AN ANIMAL SCIENCE MAJOR.

The Block and Bridle Club is the most active agricultural club on campus. Its membership is made of Animal Science majors, minors, and those with a genuine interest in Animal Science. The activities of the club are continuous throughout the year. A barbecue lunch is served by the club at a football game in the fall. For the first time this year the Block and Bridle Club participated in Aggie Week. The club won the award for the best display and tied for overall honors. During the Christmas holidays the club takes a trip to visit various livestock operations throughout the Southeast.

Second semester is also busy. A barbecue is served at the Bull Testing Station Sale in February. The Little International is a club project in the spring. All club members have the opportunity to exhibit and judge University livestock. Plans are being made to have a horse show and the Block and Bridle Club is in the process of building an arena to be used for the horse show.

The highlight of the year is the spring banquet at which time awards for the year's work are presented.

Clemson Graphic Arts Society

Shortly after the start of the first graphic arts course, some students interested in expanding the program formed the Clemson Graphic Arts Society, more commonly known as 'C-GAS.' The purposes are to promote graphic arts education at Clemson and throughout the state, and to contribute to its development on a national scale.

Funds are raised through cooperation with other campus organizations. Campus activities, once promoted with drab lettered notices are now often advertised by professional looking posters created by CGAS. Through these activities, the quality of graphic communications at Clemson has been raised considerably and the graduates from many disciplines have gained new insight into the value of quality visual communications.

Through CGAS, graphic arts has become more than a subject of classroom study. It is known across campus as a field of technological glamour and a means to improved creative expression.
The Clemson 4-H Club is an organization for former 4-H Club members and students who are interested in 4-H or other phases of the Cooperative Extension Service. It provides opportunities for development of its members in leadership, citizenship, and social potential. Since its founding in 1922, the 4-H Club has encouraged its members to maintain their social and service contacts with students and alumni.

The 4-H Club plays an active role on the Ag Council. Its members assist with the square dance and also help the Inter-Fraternity Council with their Christmas party for underprivileged children in the Clemson community and help to prepare Aggie Week.

Each winter the club sends delegates to the Southeastern 4-H Collegiate Week-end. Here 4-H'ers meet to discuss issues and exchange ideas.

The club includes majors from Pre-Medicine to Agronomy but each member works for a common goal.

ELLEN STOUDENMIRE, president
society for technical operations

The Clemson University Society for Technical Operations is a new organization developed to stimulate and promote the interest and advancement of students majoring in Technical Operations. The Technical Operations curriculum is a four-year, student-oriented course of study leading to a B.S. degree in Technical Operations. It includes a broad base of fundamentals and their application in the areas of electricity, heat and mechanics. There are thirty-six hours of electives in the curriculum which permit developing a program for each student in terms of employment opportunities that suit his aptitudes and interests.

The requirements for membership in the Society are enrollment in the Technical Operations curriculum and an interest in meeting fellow students. The meetings include guest speakers from various engineering and industrial firms. Projects, both for school and special conferences, and social functions are other activities members of the organization enjoy.

LEONARD McPHERSON, president
society of american military engineers

The Society of American Military Engineers is a national organization in which engineers from the Armed Forces and from all fields of civilian engineering practice to increase the engineering potential of the United States. Meetings of the Clemson chapter of SAME are held for the presentation and discussion of appropriate engineering topics and for social and professional association. Speakers and films add a great deal to the meetings of the society. Approximately four field trips are taken annually to various places of interest throughout the eastern part of the United States. During the fall semester, the members enjoyed a trip to the Keowee-Toxaway Project. Trips to the Lockheed facilities at Marietta, Georgia, and a trip to the Charleston Naval Base have provided enjoyment and have kept the members busy.

BILL DRENNAN, president
The purpose of the student Education Association is to disseminate information to prospective teachers concerning teacher trends, professional opportunities, and educational activities. Such programs as tutoring, educational tours, substitution in the public schools, and first hand observation of new methods are designed to give the prospective teacher information which will be useful in his future career.

SEA aids the Education Department in holding conferences here at Clemson and is affiliated with the Head Start and Day Care centers of the surrounding areas. SEA also sponsors several lectures and panel discussion by well known educators on the current issues facing education. The Student Education Association is primarily for those interested in education, however its membership is not restricted to education majors.

JAMES PRATE, president
The Clemson Student Chapter of the Associated General Contractors received their charter in November, 1968, from regional AGC officials in Charlotte, N. C. In its fourth year, AGC has united its Building Construction majors with support from the local contractors of the Piedmont Association.

Programs featuring interesting speakers and field trips have provided many valuable insights into the vast construction industry. As a special service to its members, AGC has scheduled interviews for seniors and has helped in gaining summer employment for underclassmen. Several well-established companies participate in these employment programs.

The AGC hopes to provide a closer relationship between the student and the construction industry. Membership is open to all students interested in the construction profession.

WILLIAM MARTIN, president
delta sigma nu

The primary purpose of Delta Sigma Nu is to promote fellowship and familiarize its members with the medical professions. Beginning as the pre-medical fraternity, it has grown to include other majors in areas of health and medicine. Women are now included in the fraternity and make up the Delta Sigma Nu Auxiliary.

Activities of Delta Sigma Nu include films and trips to medical facilities. This year, in conjunction with the Bioengineering Department, members toured the Rhodes Engineering Research Center and observed experimental surgery. Joint projects with AED were planned, and interesting speakers from medical schools spoke to the groups. One highlight of the year was a trip to the Medical University of South Carolina in Charleston. Trips to Shakey's and a banquet helped to round out the year.

MICHAEL WEBB, president
kappa alpha sigma

Commonly known as the Agronomy Club, the purpose of this organization is to develop among its members a greater appreciation and understanding of agriculture and to foster a spirit of co-operation and mutual helpfulness among Agronomy Club members. Not only are members drawn from the Agronomy majors, but any student interested in agriculture is eligible to join.

Activities of the club are varied. A chicken barbecue was sponsored by the club before the first football game this past year. Each year the club participates in the Southeastern Soil Judging Contest and in the National Speech Contest. Every spring a banquet is held by the club to honor all the graduating seniors. Also, several cookouts are held each year to encourage fellowship among the members. The common feeling that "agriculture is dull" can be hardly disputed by the Agronomy Club members.

HAROLD D. HUNNICUTT, president
food science club

The Food Science Club of Clemson University is dedicated to increasing interest in challenges and opportunities in the realm of food science. Membership is open to anyone interested in any aspect of food science. The club meets monthly and has interesting speakers associated with various universities, schools, the government, and private food industries. There are also field trips where students may observe various phases of food processing.

The club has undertaken such projects as processing smoked turkeys, sponsoring high school essay contests, and finding summer jobs for its members. These club projects have raised funds, given Clemson new students in food science, and given students a better idea of the opportunities available in the food processing industries.

At the same time the club works for the betterment of food science, Clemson University, and ultimately, the world. It is proud of its goals and confident of its success.

HERB DAVIS, president
forestry club

Professional foresters are a close-knit group, and at Clemson this solidarity is begun as students in the Forestry Club. Members enjoy the Club’s programs that show different phases of the modern forester’s varied opportunities for service to society. The Club sends contestants to the Southern Forestry Club Association’s annual conclave to test Clemson students’ forestry skills against other southern forestry students. The Clemson Forester is an annual publication of the Club sent to all forestry graduates and other interested persons to acquaint them with the Forestry Department’s recent activities.

The Forestry Club has many social activities throughout the year, including the initiation of new members and production of a colorful Homecoming display. The Club is also involved in intramural sports during the school year, and frequent cookouts bond student-faculty relationships. Of a social nature, but with the useful purpose of producing revenue, club members cut pulpwood and firewood for sale locally.

The Clemson Horticulture Club brings together students not only from all phases of horticulture, but from all stages of academic achievement, from freshmen to graduate students. It also gives students an opportunity to work closely with faculty members. The friendship and ties begun here will develop into an unbroken Horticulture network extending throughout South Carolina and other areas of the U.S. As the old members graduate and move on to new activities, new freshmen will move in to take their places, all finding, or having found, mutual ground in the activities of the Horticulture Club. The Club's activities include a faculty-sponsored cookout in the fall, grape juice sessions during the year, a banquet in the spring, and various club financial projects.

TERRY OGLETHORPE, president institute of electrical and electronic engineers

The Clemson University Student Branch of The Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers is a component of the world's largest engineering society. The primary purpose of the club is the dispersal of information. A secondary purpose is service to its members, and the uniting of student electrical engineers both professionally and socially.

The Clemson Student Branch considers education its primary function and offers educational opportunities through meetings and field trips. Its primary service is that of being the voice of Clemson's Electrical and Computer Engineering students. This year the student branch organized elections within the E. & C.E. Departments for student members of two academic committees. The student branch organized several field trips and presented several interesting speakers which helped to keep open communications with the electronics industry. The engineers, in the true spirit of homecoming, combined their talents to produce an electrical display this year.

ROBERT MCNAB, president
the microbiology club

The Clemson Student Chapter of the South Carolina Branch of the American Society for Microbiology was formed by a group of undergraduates majoring in microbiology in order to promote student interest and development in microbiology, personal associations and interchange of ideas, to develop and maintain a wholesome relationship both socially and intellectually among the members of the club and the faculty, and finally to cooperate with other branches and the American Society for Microbiology in all matters pertaining to operation of the organization.

The Clemson Student Chapter is the first student chapter to be recognized by this professional organization and as such has opened this course of action to many other interested microbiology majors in colleges and universities throughout the state and possibly throughout the nation.

DAVID RUSS, president
Recognized as the national professional organization of managers from all areas of the business world, the Society for the Advancement of Management is dedicated to increasing the quality of management and managers. The activities of the more than 200 university chapters of SAM correlate university, theoretical training and practical aspects of the business world. Functions such as panel discussions, plant tours, business films, meetings with guest speakers and research projects serve to stimulate the student's thinking, widen his knowledge, and broaden his outlook. All combine to give every member an opportunity to prepare himself for the business world through active participation in the functions of the club. Surely the future belongs to those who prepare for it, and SAM helps prepare students to meet the growing needs of our world by developing tomorrow's managers today.

ALLEN TEAGUE, president
poultry science club

The Poultry Science Club is composed of students majoring in poultry science, but is open to all persons interested in poultry.

This year the club held a banquet for Gamma Sigma Delta on October 18. The two main activities for the club are the annual chicken barbecue at the Homecoming game on October 30 and the annual trip to the Southeastern Poultry and Egg Association Convention. The barbecue takes the full effort and cooperation of every club member for the funds earned at this event help pay for the expenses incurred at the Convention. The Southeastern Association pays for all freshmen and seniors. This year the convention was held in Atlanta, Georgia, from the 23rd to the 26th of January.

During the course of the semester the meetings consist of business matters, special speakers, and films on the commercial poultry industry.

HENRY MOORHEAD, president
The Pre-Vet Club serves to introduce all interested students to veterinary medicine in all facets, as well as aid them in their social, cultural, and scholastic activities. It does so by sponsoring activities and speakers which gives further insight and interest into veterinary medicine.

Besides the annual cookout for all members, activities include square dances, the observance of a controlled medical operation, and a trip to the School of Veterinary Medicine at the University of Georgia. Balancing these activities are lectures presented by people in the veterinary field. The programs are oriented towards the veterinary student, and include such topics as zoo veterinary medicine, animal training, fields of veterinary medicine, setting up an animal clinic, and veterinary law. The programs are highlighted by a visit of former Clemson students that are attending vet school.

The year's activities officially end with the spring banquet, which has the purpose of installing new officers.

JIM YEAMAN, president
society for the advancement of agricultural education

The Society for the Advancement of Agricultural Education at Clemson University is a valuable organization for all students who are majoring or minoring in agricultural education. It is especially valuable for those students who are planning a career in teaching agriculture.

The objectives of the Society are to develop leadership, motivate scholarship, and facilitate social development. Educational activities include conducting student exchange programs with other universities, providing high school students with occupational information, and administering an educational grant for upperclassmen.

The major social functions sponsored by the Society consist of Fall and Spring cookouts, a Spring banquet, and both formal and informal initiations each semester. An annual project is a chicken barbecue at one of the home football games. Educational films and agriculturally-oriented speakers are presented for the programs at the regular monthly meetings in an effort to promote vocational agriculture.

Alpha Phi Omega is the national service fraternity. For thirty one years Gamma Lambda chapter has been at Clemson serving the students and community.

This year APO again operated its Used Book Exchange. The annual Christmas Tree lighting was accompanied by a message from Dr. R. C. Edwards.

Other services provided are the Emergency Self Help Program, which teaches the students and community basic emergency injury relief, the continued Infirmary Duty, helping the Clemson Day Care Center, and visiting the Boys’ Home of the South.

Anyone interested in the campus, community, and the nation, and holding a high regard for leadership, friendship, and service can join Alpha Phi Omega. A very gratifying feeling of brotherhood has developed over the years within Gamma Lambda. It is a unique brotherhood, one which invites others to participate as a brother of Alpha Phi Omega.

canterbury association

The purpose of Clemson University Canterbury Association is to promote friendly communication between its members and to participate in service to the community. The Association contributes to the upkeep of the Clemson Day Care Center, entertains underprivileged children, and each year brings high school students from the Tamassee D. A. R. School to Clemson for a football or basketball game.

With the assistance of Rev. Thomas Davis, the club furnishes acolytes when needed. Several members also sing in the church choir, and four members are lay readers.

Each month the club has a dinner at Holy Trinity Episcopal Church, highlighted by prominent speakers from the local community.

Members of the Canterbury Association enjoy entertainment and fellowship with their fiberglass boat on Lake Hartwell and in their lounge at Holy Trinity.

All interested Clemson students are welcome to join Canterbury.

THOMAS FIELDER, President
The purpose of the Chester County Clemson Club is to unify and to bring about better relations among students from Chester County attending Clemson University. Every year, the club gives a scholarship loan to an incoming Clemson freshman from Chester County. Included in its activities are a Christmas dance in Chester and various other parties during the year. Like many other organizations here at Clemson, the Chester County Clemson Club also takes part in the intramural sports activities.
God so loved He gave...
Jesus so loved He came...

we so love we share Christ with others.
Through numerous activities, the members of the Clemson University Democrats Club seek to learn about politics and current political happenings, as well as to participate in political activities.

The members this year have been active in preparation for the '72 Presidential Election. During the year it is planned to get the campus more involved in the political atmosphere of the present. It is our purpose to present speakers that will include professors and local, state and, with a lot of luck, national politicians so that the student body will be better able to make their own decisions, which through their vote will affect the course of the nation.

The CUDC provides in its regular meeting valuable information revealing the basic philosophy of the National Party.

The year looks to be a very exciting one leading up to a reformed Democratic Convention in Miami.

THOMAS FEWELL, President
The Clemson Forensic Union represents the new look in Clemson University's forensics program. The Union is a combination of the still active Calhoun Forensic Society, Delta Sigma Rho-Tau Kappa Alpha (National Forensic Honorary), and the Clemson intercollegiate debate teams. The Union's activities include campus, community, and intercollegiate programs.

The Calhoun Forensic Society, Clemson's oldest student organization, sponsors the campus and community activities of the Forensic Union, which included in 1971-1972: "Clemson Discussion Night," a campus speech contest, parliamentary procedure workshops, and monthly debates on current issues sponsored by the Calhoun Forensic Society.

The DSR-TKA National Conference was held in the spring at the University of New Mexico in Albuquerque.

SAMUEL WILLIAMS, President
The Clemson University Young Republican Club has been working for years to channel student political concern toward constructive goals. This year was no exception. We offered to the student interested in government an opportunity to learn of the political process while personally engaging in campaigns, panel discussions, and fellowship with other students. Clemson Young Republicans redoubled their efforts in order to be organized for the 1972 elections.

Several dynamic speakers were brought to campus this year, and the club grew closer to the state and national Republican Party. Speakers, newsletters, projects, meetings, conventions, and, of course, parties highlighted our year. Many students looking for a constructive, progressive political organization found a home with the Clemson University Young Republicans.

JOHN RIVERS, President
fellowship of christian athletes

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes is a national organization which gives athletes with Christian ideals the chance to have fellowship with each other and gives them a chance to witness to those around them. The organization was created by a young coach who thought that athletes would present an excellent means through which to promote Christianity since athletes are well admired.

The Clemson chapter meets monthly and current topics are discussed with respect to Christianity and the Christian approach to everyday problems in an effort to bring Christianity and everyday living together.

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes offers the Christian athlete the opportunity to share his life in Christ with other people by speaking at different schools, churches, and social organizations.

Iota Lambda Sigma is an Industrial Education honor fraternity. Receiving its charter on June 30, 1930, the Gamma Chapter was the third member of the national organization. It promotes Industrial Education in the following ways: recognition of professional training; recognition of high scholarship; and creating and maintaining a close fraternal bond between its present and past members.

Membership is open to juniors and seniors in the Industrial Education Department who have achieved at least a 3.0 G.P.R. in their academic field. Pledges have a three week initiation period, followed by a banquet in the honor of the newly instated members.

Iota Lambda Sigma works toward promoting Industrial Education at Clemson University through a visitation program to various high schools in the state.

BARRY RUSSELL, President
Since 1969 when the Clemson University Girls' Service Sorority was initiated on campus, the group has served the students, school and community of Clemson. The service projects consist of giving tours of the Clemson campus to prospective students and visitors, visiting patients in the infirmary, tutoring the children at the Haven of Rest Children's Home in Anderson, operating a babysitting service for faculty members, and selling coffee and doughnuts while students are working on the homecoming displays. Each semester the pledge class begins a "new" service project for the sisters to work on together. Throughout the semester the sisters are often called upon by various organizations and persons around campus to aid in service projects.

Clemson's 770th U. S. Air Force Detachment strives to select, instruct, and train future officers for the Air Force. With a limited size in both their General Military Corps and Professional Officers Corps, the Air Force has been able to assemble a highly selective membership. Excellence in academics and extra-curricular activities are emphasized. Air Force ROTC boasts of two Command Leadership School programs to prepare sophomore GMC cadets to be officers and junior POC cadets for summer camp. Classroom instruction, briefings, drills, and field trips to various Air Force bases make up the academic program. The Air Force strives to make officers out of men and men out of officers. Bowman Field welcomes Clemson's 770th Detachment to an hour of enrichment while increasing the cadet's physical and mental capacities.

JOHN LOMBARDI, wing commander
Arnold Air Society is an honorary, professional, and service organization made up of advanced Air Force ROTC Cadets. The Society's members participate in both service and social projects with Arnold Air Society's co-ed affiliate, Angel Flight.

Of the Society's many service projects, the most outstanding include the annual blood drive, the orphan boys' football weekend, the corsage sales for home football games, and the washing of the Major Rudolph Anderson, Jr. Memorial in Greenville.

Arnold Air Society's social projects included a ski party, a hayride, construction of a Homecoming display, and the Dining-Out, a formal military banquet with a major Air Force speaker.

The goal of Arnold Air Society is to promote better relations between the members of Arnold Air Society and the other students while trying to promote an ever improving image of Air Force ROTC and the Air Force itself.

army rotc

The Army R. O. T. C. Program offers many interested Clemson University students the opportunity to receive the military training they will need to become future officers in the modern and fast changing army of tomorrow. Through classroom study that includes lessons of contemporary international situations as well as those of basic military skills and one hour of weekly drill, the Army R.O.T.C. student is taught to face the problems that he may encounter in future service and to accept the basic leadership qualities and self-discipline that are required of every concerned citizen in today's society.

DAWN JONES, commander
counterguerrillas

The Clemson Counterguerrilla Platoon is one of the best known and most talked about military organizations on the Clemson campus. Most students agree that they are a genuinely dedicated group of young men.

Bringing their broad areas of training into perspective, the overall purpose of the CG Platoon is to train cadets to become leaders, men not only very capable in their work, but also confident in themselves. After one year in the CG’s, each man feels that he is a true "combat veteran."

Depending on your view, the CG’s may be nuts, or they may be just Gung-Ho; but, they have chosen what they want out of the program, and they do their jobs well. That, after all, is what it’s all about.

WESLEY COOLER, commander
scabbard and blade

Clemson's Company K-7 of the National Society of Scabbard and Blade is the most highly regarded military organization on campus. Its membership is held to a maximum of thirty outstanding Army and Air Force cadets annually. Within the framework of Company K-7 are found military leaders from all phases of military life—Arnold Air Society, CG’s, PR’s, as well as the battalion and wing staffs.

The major objective of Scabbard and Blade is to promote a better understanding of the military organizations and ROTC programs.

Through example Scabbard and Blade conveys the epitome of college military ideals. It annually ushers in the president's box at football games. The initiation and informal induction of new members in the final stanza in Company K-7's annual activities.

RICK FILLIYAW, commander
Fourth Regimental Headquarters serves as a coordinator for sixteen Pershing Rifle units located in the five-state area of the Carolinas, Georgia, Tennessee, and Alabama. A Fall and Spring Assembly at which elected representatives of the companies convene to discuss business, changes in the Constitution of the National Society of Pershing Rifles, and any other relevant problems is held by the Fourth Regimental Headquarters.

Supervision, administration, mediation, coordination, and inspection of activities and personnel within the Regiments are the main responsibilities of the Regiment. Organizing the grading and rating of unit competition toward the coveted Douglas Trophy presented at the Regimental Drill Meet is also a duty of the Regiment.

The main purpose of the National Society of Pershing Rifles, is to promote standards of excellence among ROTC cadets.

WILLIAM BROWN, commander
pr company c-4

Fraternity and drill characterize Company C-4 PR. The members of Clemson’s precision drill team represent our University throughout the Eastern United States from national competition in Washington, D. C. to regional competition in Augusta, Georgia.

Not only is Pershing Rifleman a member of a drill team, but he is also a brother in a national wide fraternity—the National Society of Pershing Rifles. This brotherhood between members of Company C-4 increases through drill competition and social affairs. As new members pledge Company C-4 they become a part of this fraternity and perpetuate the pride and precision of Clemson’s drill team—Company C-4 Pershing Rifles.

RUSSELL BRIDGES, commander
pr pledges

The first day of drill is the start of a new experience that can become a way of life for a PR. The pledges start the first semester with a period of training in basic rifle manual. They are eventually inspected, and on the basis of attitude and progress, a select few were chosen to march in the drill platoon.

Those that were not chosen were not forgotten. They were given the task of representing Clemson University in competition for basic 22-5 manual. They have become as much a part of drill competition as the advanced platoon, experiencing the same tension and the same desire to win.

A new pledge system was organized recently. Included in this system are sacrifices that lead to the development of dedication and discipline necessary to a PR.

Pledges no longer drill toward an unforeseeable goal. No more thoughts of the Company enjoying itself on trips while the pledge stays on campus. The pledge is as much a part of that trip as a company member, sharing entertainment as well as sharing the pride of victory.
Caper Fourth Regimental Headquarters

The Caper Fourth Regimental Headquarters, coed affiliate organization of the National Society of Pershing Rifles, was organized at Clemson in 1970. The Headquarters is under the command of C-PR Colonel Julie Screws and is staffed by seven Capers. It is the coordinating headquarters for the eleven Caper affiliate units in the six-state area of South Carolina, North Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Florida, and Tennessee, plus Puerto Rico.

In conjunction with the Fourth Regimental Headquarters of the Pershing Rifles, the organization sponsors two annual assemblies and an annual drill meet. In addition to its primary coordination role, Caper Headquarters strives to improve campus and community relations and to foster a spirit of service to both school and community.

Membership is opened to all interested and hard working female students. Meetings are once a week on Tuesdays at 6 p.m.

SARA THOMPSON, commander
"The Vietnamese lack the ability to conduct a war by themselves or govern themselves."
Richard M. Nixon (1964)

"The principal objective of United States policy in Southeast Asia is simply to maintain the integrity and independence of the non-Communist nations in that area."
Robert S. McNamara (1964)

"We have met the enemy and they are us."
Pogo

"For most Americans this is an easy war, for they fight and men suffer and men die, as they always do in war. Prosperity rises, abundance increases, the nation flourishes."
Lyndon B. Johnson (1965)

"I, 2, 3, 4, we don't want your *ing war."
Peace chant

"I think our mission in Vietnam is very clear. We are there at the request of the South Vietnamese government to provide training."
Robert S. McNamara (1962)

"The United States got into the guerrilla war in South Vietnam by mistake because Yo-Yo (Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara) went there and told these boys to start shooting when we were only supposed to be instructing."
Barry Goldwater (1964)

"The fault lies in great part with an administration that fails to inform the people fully and frankly about the objectives and progress of the war."
Melvin R. Laird (1966)

"And it's one, two, three, what are we fighting for. Don't ask me I don't give a damn, next stop is Vietnam. And it's five, six, seven, open up the pearly gates. There ain't no time to wonder why, whoopee we're all gonna die."
Country Joe MacDonald

"We have met the enemy and they have been smashed."
Tom Paxton ("Talkin' Vietnam Pot Luck Blues")

"We have to keep in mind our major goal, which is to bring the American involvement to an end in such a way that will leave South Vietnam in a position to defend itself from a Communist takeover."
Richard M. Nixon (1971)

"We're not getting the truth about Laos, we're not getting the truth about Vietnam or the economy—we can't even get the percentage of fat in hot dogs."
Congressman Paul McCloskey (1971)

"Enrollment in the ROTC program is now down to the point where only those interested are participating."
Major E. L. Fairbrother, Clemson ROTC Instructor

"The Marines still want to win wars."
Dr. Max Rafferty

"Who wants to hoof it through the jungles when, with training, you can be flying the latest in air craft."
Clemson Cadet Colonel John Lombardi

"The Vietnam war means never having to say you're sorry."

Stevens meets the exciting challenge of change

"By working around obstacles, by unsentimentally jet-tisoning outmoded traditions, the company (Stevens) has shown the textile industry how to survive and prosper."

Fortune Magazine

J.P. Stevens, America's oldest diversified textile company is a "young" company... in thought, action and outlook. It's a place for young, new ideas and their authors. And a place where leadership to meet the expanding challenges in textiles is sought and welcomed.

Stevens is a place where people make the difference—the capable, uncommon people. Are you one? Then contact your Placement Director for information on the career opportunities Stevens has for you.

SYSTEM OF PHOTOGRAPHY

SEE what makes the Nikon F the most versatile of all 35's, the key to the most complete and comprehensive photographic system ever created.
SEE the many interchangeable Nikkor lenses, including the unusual Fisheye Nikkor, PC Nikkor, Micro-Nikkor, Zoom Nikkors, and others.
SEE the interchangeable finders including the new Photomic Sn "self-compensating" thru-the-lens meter system.
SEE the many exciting accessories that fit the Nikon F for scientific, industrial, and other technical applications.
On a 1500-acre land site between Norris and Central, American Enka Company is developing a new center for the production of man-made yarns and fibers. Production in the nylon plant, left, was begun in 1971 and operation is expected to begin late in 1972 in the polyester filament yarn plant at right in photo. We look forward to a long and close association with Clemson University, its staff and students.

More people play Dunlop than any other ball in the world.

Getting to be number one in the world wasn't easy. Staying there is even harder. We do it by consistently building better golf balls.

Like our Maxfli. It's one of the big reasons we're number one. So we do what it takes and spend what it takes to be sure every Maxfli we make looks, sounds, feels, flies and rolls exactly like every other Maxfli we make. And does it all better than any other ball around.

Quality is the word. You'll find it in everything we name "Maxfli." Balls, clubs, bags. Sold only by golf professionals.

No, we won’t tell you again how the Electric Cooperatives of South Carolina brought the electricity to the rural areas of our state... how they brought light to the farms and countryside replacing the oil lamp. But we’ll be glad to fill you in on how the Co-ops are STANDING TALL today, not only by supplying low-cost, efficient electric power, but... by developing the rural areas of South Carolina, her people and resources... working hard to insure that all South Carolinians get adequate housing, clean water, better education, recreational facilities, benefits from industrial growth, and occupational opportunities. That’s now.

Duralite, because it's lighter. Less wear and tear on your looms. Lighter because the dents are not soldered but held in place by a high strength thermoplastic material. Which makes dent breakage ancient history.

Even though Duralite has the same overall dimensions as a soldered reed, each dent has a longer usable free height to give greater flexibility. Which means less yarn breakage and abrasion. Better weaving from your looms. Duralite. It's what you'd expect from a company where innovation is a way of doing business.

We once made history back in 1897 when we introduced a flat steel heddle for use in the weaving of raw silk. They say history never repeats itself but Duralite says differently. Wait and see.

On second thought, why wait. Call your Stehedco man today for a look at the reed of tomorrow.

We just took the wraps off an amazing new reed. DURALITE!

yesterday
it's not hard to remember.
things just rolled on as they have, and have, and have.
homecoming came and went, people partied, soldiers marched, students studied, and more people looked like freaks.
looks aren't everything, the looks of clemson changed, but the student body, the real heart of the university, seemed to enjoy bathing in womb-like inactivity.
try to remember, think of some really big event you would like to see pictured in these pages.
look at last year's pictures, look at this year's pictures, new faces, same events.
maybe some year clemson will change. maybe next year. certainly not the year of '71-'72.
Progress never comes when you look for it. Unless you’re an architect or an engineer, talking about progress or looking at it on paper just never makes it happen. Like Christmas mornings, little kids, April 15, overdue library books, and New York City muggers, progress sneaks up on you when you’re not looking and beats you over the head.

So why think about it?
One of the nicest feelings in the world is getting into bed at night and seeing the hour hand of my clock form an acute angle with the alarm setting. Going to college will change all that. I’m not looking forward to it, but someday the future will hit me over the head and I’ll have to get up early again. That’s progress.

So why think about it?
Of course my idea of progress may be different from yours. The less important you are in the university, the smaller your thinking about progress. President Edwards will probably never be in the position to step in one of those history-making, foot-chilling puddles in front of the library, but I for one would consider it progress if somebody would fix the sidewalk.

As long as I’ve been here I’ve never seen a mirror in the men’s room on the ninth level of the student center. How many people in charge of new buildings, maintenance, and parking lots have ever used the ninth level men’s room?

So what can we do to help the future?
Well in the past two years, students have gotten rid of Friday night dances in favor of Rod Stewart, and WSFB has finally [thank God] begun playing decent music around the clock, and students changed that too.

There are still a lot of nice secretaries in Student Affairs, and I think one of the ladies who works at the canteen recognizes my face; so there’s some progress to be made in little things, too. Maybe that’s where progress really lies—in the little things.

Not too many of us are university presidents, and not too many of us will know about new buildings and new curriculum programs until they hit us over the head, but there’s a lot to be said for making friends with a nurse over at Redfern. That may not be progress in itself, but that’s the best we can do. Maybe then a new building will sneak up on us. Or maybe one day we’ll wake up and find we don’t have to take math anymore. Clemson may make it after all. Peace.
