Baseball 1989
Outfielder Brian Kowitz, the ACC MVP, had a 37-game hitting streak during the 1990 season, the longest in the nation.

Junior righthanded hurler Tim Parker led the ACC in shutout games with three, the most by a Tiger pitcher since 1977.

Clemson advanced to the NCAA championship tournament for the fourth straight season, beating the University of Texas-Arlington between two losses to Creighton.
The Tiger’s hitters finished the season with a .304 team batting average, led by Kowitz’s .403 average and Joe DeBerry’s (15 HRs, 70 RBIs) and Eric Macrina’s (18 HRs, 69 RBIs) run-producing bats.

Clemson pitchers compiled a team ERA of 4.11, paced by Chet Kendall’s 0.78 earned run average.

The Tiger’s defense held opposing hitters to 320 runs in 66 games while Tiger batsmen scored 524 runs.

The Tigers started the season red-hot with a 19-2 record, then lost five of their next six games before sweeping the Gamecocks at home, 6-0, 6-5, 9-0.

Coach Bill Wilhelm joined the exclusive 1,000 victory club when the Tigers demolished Georgia Tech 17-10 in Atlanta. Wilhelm became only the sixth collegiate coach to win one thousand games.

Two of Clemson's biggest wins were against conference foes N. C. State (a 20-4 win in Clemson) and the Virginia Cavaliers (a 19-3 road win). Aaron Jersild, a sophomore righthanded pitcher, presided over both blowouts.

Brian Kowitz's 2nd team All-American designation rested on very impressive statistics: .403 batting average, 102 hits, 60 RBIs, .498 on-base percentage, 34-42 stolen base ration, and a sparkling .993 fielding percentage.

Clemson's longest winning streak constituted nine games (3/11-3/19), all won in the friendly confines of Tiger Field. Twice the Tigers lost four in a row, most notably toward the end of the season, where they lost two in the ACC tournament to start a four-game loss streak.

Clemson swept three games series against ACC foes Maryland, N.C. State, and Virginia, while being swept by the Tarheels. The Tigers took two of three from the Demon Deacons and Georgia Tech, while splitting a pair with the Blue Devil.

In keeping with a 16-year tradition, the opening of the Clemson Football Season was preceded by First Friday, an event which commemorates Clemson's first home game. Various events, which included a parade, a pep rally, and a concert, drew thousands of youngsters, college students, and adults to Clemson Friday afternoon.

The festivities began with a parade sponsored by the Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity and Central Spirit. Many sororities and fraternities worked diligently (and frantically) through the week to create floats for the parade. It was only fitting that Clemson's first female graduate, Margaret Snider Coker, served as Grand Marshal of the parade, whose theme was "Clemson Firsts." Also a first was the involvement of black sororities and fraternities in the parade. Other groups participating included the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, a truckload of people from family housing, and several of the colleges on campus.

Following the parade, everyone gathered at the amphitheater for a pep rally. Before the pep rally began, Pi Kappa Alpha chairman Mark Storker announced Kappa Delta sorority as the winner of the float competition and Julie Gibson as Miss First Friday. Contestants for Miss First Friday were nominated by participants in the parade, and the student body voted by donating money for the girl of their choice. Julie Gibson of Kappa Kappa Gamma raised over $2,000 for Helping Hands of Clemson. More money than was given by everyone last year. For her spectacular achievement, Gibson received a dozen roses, a plaque, and the honor of being crowned Miss First Friday.

The Rally Cats performed a dance to kick off the pep rally, which was sponsored by the Tiger cheerleaders, the Rally Cats, and the Tiger Band. Next, the cheerleaders stirred the crowd’s spirit and led them through chants and cheers for a Clemson victory on Saturday. After the pep rally, an outdoor concert sponsored by the Central Dance and Concert Committees was held at the amphitheater. The opening act was performed by the band 24-7Spyz. Selections by the Godfathers brought a close to a very exciting and successful First Friday.

Fullback Wesley McFadden's excellent season included 16 knockdown blocks against Florida State, being the leading rusher against Virginia Tech with 93 yards on 23 carries, and topping all receivers with 3 grabs for 34 yards against the Terapins.
Terry Allen Clemson's second all-time leading rusher discussing his specialty: 'I love to run the football and I would rather give it out than take it when it comes to getting hit. The ground doesn't move, that's why I try so hard to keep my balance. It's not that I have great balance, I'm just determined not to hit that hard ground. Failing on the ground hurts a lot more than hitting somebody.'
'We have been fundamentally sound before and there are a lot of football teams in the country that would like to be 5-2. But I don't know what you can do now and that disturbs me. I can't touch the mental part of football right now. That's beyond me. But I can tell you what we didn't do in this game. Georgia Tech just beat the fool out of us.' Coach Ford's comment following the Tiger's 30-14 Homecoming loss to Georgia Tech, the Yellowjackets first ACC win after 16 consecutive losses.

After having lost to N.C. State for the last three years, Clemson defeated Dick Sheridan's previously undefeated team 30-10, before a revenge-minded crowd in the Valley, thus preserving Coach Ford's record for no four-year ACC loss streak to one team, and increasing the orange pants record of the Tigers to 15-2.

Clemson's 44-10 homefield blowout of Wake Forest was accomplished by 54 first-half points coming on seven consecutive scoring possessions. Seventy-eight players contributed to this win, marked by the unusual occurrence of Clemson's passing yardage exceeding its rushing total.
Chris Gardocki’s spring game performance convinced fans and Coach Ford that the NCAA’s new ban on kicking tees was just a minor inconvenience. In that game Gardocki kicked a 52-yard field goal into the wind, hit another from 49 yards, and had a 58 yarder hit the crossbar and bounce back.

‘Clemson played a perfect game,’ said shell-shocked USC Head Coach Sparky Woods after seeing his team annihilated by the Tigers, 45-0. ‘I think the turning point was when we kickoff. It started then, and we got beat throughout the game.’
Quarterback Chris Morocco's efficiency rating of 144 for the season makes his mark the fourth best in Clemson history, with his 59.2% completion percentage being the second best ever for a Clemson quarterback in a single season. With just two interceptions in 125 attempts, Morocco has Clemson's best ever interception percentage.
Gary Cooper is the best all-around athlete I have coached since I have been at Clemson. He can make it in the NFL because he has all the tools and ability.” -Wide Receiver Coach Woody McCorvey.

Walk-ons made a big contribution to Clemson’s success, as typified by Mitch Belton’s two blocked punts and Rob Bodine’s eight tackles and one sack in Clemson’s 31-7 victory over Maryland.

Riding the Rollercoaster

Clemson soccer aficionados, whose appetite for winning soccer has been whetted by an outstanding Tiger record of 145-35-12 in the 80’s, had winning expectations for the last season of the decade. After all, while it was only one season removed from the national championship of 1987, that did not mean that the loyal patrons of Riggs Field did not continue to hunger for Clemson domination. That hunger allowed them to dismiss Clemson’s aberrant 1988 record of 10-7-2 and fifth place ACC finish. Even Coach I. M. Ibrahim expected some success in 1989, noting, “The positive thing that can come out of losing seven games by one goal last year is that it might set the tone for a successful season this year.”

Clemson’s 1989 soccer fortunes road on the legs of eight returning starters, led by All-ACC selections Andres Alos and Pearse Tomney, as well as other standouts, James Grimes, Joey...
Fernberg (1988 team MVP; Thomas Pappas, David Wagoner and Edo Boonstoppel). These players were joined by 13 other letter winners from the previous season as well as famed newcomers such as Andy Pujiats, Joe Fawcett, and Symen de Willigen. Given the talent returning, along with a schedule calling for seven of the first 10 games to be played before a Riggs stadium crowd, it was no wonder that both the team and its fans expected a significant improvement on the 1988 team’s record.

Clemson’s first stiff contest came in the second game of the season, as the visiting Gamecocks, ranked third nationally, met the 18th ranked Tigers. South Carolina scored two goals within a span of two minutes midway through the second half, and built a seemingly insurmountable 3-1 lead. However, Clemson came back repeatedly in the final 10 minutes of play, with Pujiats scoring on a header to make the final score 3-2 in favor of Coach Mark Berson’s Gamecocks.

The Tigers opened their ACC season with a visit to the Tarheels in Chapel Hill, North Carolina. At that time the 18th ranked Clemson team was joined by five other ACC teams in the top 20, with four of them ranked ahead of the Tigers. Pearse Tormey gave Clemson a 1-0 halftime lead, but Clemson, for the 12th straight time, lost a game by one goal as UNC's Marc Buffington scored two second half goals.

Sunday, September 17th saw the Tigers lose their third Sunday match in a row, but more importantly, their second straight ACC match, as Wake Forest kicked them off the field at home in a 2-0 win. This game consisted of differing halves of play with the halftime break showing Clemson with only two shots on goal, while the Demon Tig'ers scored both three goals in the first half. After a fiery halftime pep talk from Coach Ibrahim, the Tiger booters came out and added 10 more shots on goal and seven corner kicks, but couldn't penetrate the Wake goal.

Clemson's third ACC encounter saw the Tigers ride to Raleigh on a 3-game win streak, including a 7-0 shutout of Jacksonville, accomplished through Kevin England's record-tying three assists and Joey Feinberg's two goals. Other wins against Furman and Georgia State gave the Tigers renewed confidence to challenge the 18th ranked Wolfpack. On a rain-slickened field, the Tigers and the Wolfpack battled to a 0-0 tie, stemming the Tigers 0-2 ACC loss streak, and setting them up for the host role at the Umbro Invitational the following weekend.

The Tigers entered the October 6-8th Umbro Invitational with a 7-3-1 record, and a recent 7-0 Riggs Field demolition of Presbyterian College, which included a hat trick scoring game by Pearse Tormey. The P.C. game was also goalkeeper Kevin Taylor's fourth shutout, placing the senior goalie second in the conference in goals allowed and save percentage (.857). The tournament pitted the Tigers against Yale while 5th ranked Portland took on No.
Clemson, who beat the Elis 2-1, moved into the championship game against the Mustangs of SMU. In that game played before a very vocal Tiger crowd, Pearse Tormey sent the fans into delirium with a game-winning penalty kick (his second goal) with 1:26 left in the game. The Tiger’s second 2-1 win of the tourny was facilitated by an 11-10 man advantage in the second half, resulting from the red card ejection of a Mustang player. Clemson outshot SMU 11-2 in the second half, tying the game on a goal by Tormey, assisted by Boonstoppel.

The 10th ranked Duke Blue Devils, one of the ACC’s rising soccer powers in the late Eighties, came to Tigertown on October 15th to try and curb the surging Tiger squad, fresh off the Umbro victory and a victory over the College of Charleston. Again, junior striker Pearse Tormey led the attack, scoring once and assisting with goals by Najjar and Feinberg as the No. 12 Tigers upped their record to 11-3-1. Coach Ibrahim felt that this win proved the Tiger’s prowess despite their early losses, saying, “You can’t judge a team by the fact that they lost three early season games....I think you have to judge the progress.” According to Ibrahim, the youthfulness of the team required some time for the squad to mature, and as of their defeat of Duke, “things are clicking.”

Just as the Duke football team ambushed the Clemson team away from the friendly confines of Death Valley, so did the Maryland Terrapin booters demoralize the Tiger team with a 1-0 victory in College Park. The B.S.A.A. Terrapin booters stunned the Clemson team 1:5-0. In the first half, the Terrapin strikers were able to frustrate Tiger strikers as Maryland goalie Carmine Isacco recorded his seventh shutout of the season. The game, which dropped Clemson out of the B.S.A.A national poll, also dimmed their NCAA playoff chances, and propelled the Terrapins toward a match with the nationally top-ranked Virginia Cavaliers in Charlottesville.

The Tigers’s regular season dreams ended in a 4-2 overtime loss to the number one team in the conference and country, as the home-town Cavaliers defeated a Clemson team that came back from a 2-0 deficit to tie the game in regulation on goals by Torney and de Willigen. Clemson’s loss was precipitated not only by Wake Forest's Demon Deacons, the Tiger's first round tournament foe, were too demonic in the ends for the young Tiger team, sending Clemson home without NCAA hopes for the second straight year. Wake, which earlier beat Clemson 2-0, bumped off the Tigers 3-2 on the way to eventually winning the tournament over the Blue Devils. Thus, the 1989 Tiger team became the third straight Clemson team to lose in the first round of the conference tournament, leaving Clemson fans unfulfilled after a year that reached a zenith with the Duke victory. Ibrahim echoed the thoughts of others, stating, "We have one of the best teams in the ACC but we've had a terrible season."

While many schools would be delighted with a 13-6-1 overall season record, Clemson players, coaches and fans alike knew that Clemson's ACC soccer domination of most of the Eighties had come to an end. Simply put, the rest of the conference caught up with Clemson's level of success.

Clemson's individual accomplishments included Pearse
Coach Ibrahim increased his career win total to 316, making him the winningest coach in ACC history, and the fifth winningest in NCAA history.

While the 1989 season ended on a low note for Clemson soccer, the 1990 season will not be without promise of continued soccer glory. All-American Pearse Tormey returns, as do promising second-year players like Andy Pujats, Chris Martinez, and Jon Payne. Add to that seasoned players such as Kevin England, Thomas Najjar, Richard Richmond, James Grimes and Joey Feinberg, and you've got the makings of a successful season. With a schedule that opens with five straight games in front of a supportive Riggs Field crowd, and home encounters against ACC powerhouses N. C. State and Virginia, Clemson soccer fans will be hard pressed not to find a reason to hope for the victorious dawning of a new Tiger decade in 1990.

"I was shocked and it's an absolutely wonderful feeling to have won," said Miss Carolyn Worrell after being crowned Homecoming Queen during the Tigerama festivities.

Miss Worrell, who was sponsored by Alpha Chi Omega sorority, is a sophomore majoring in elementary education.

"It (being Miss Homecoming) didn't hit me until after halftime when I was sitting in the President's Box with President Max Lennon and Senator Strom Thurmond. I realized then that I represented the University," she said.

First runner-up in the pageant was Tonya Renee Thompson, sponsored by Delta Delta Delta sorority.

The second runner-up was Audra Wallace who was sponsored by Kappa Alpha Psi sorority.

Miss Tonya Leigh Helms was crowned Miss Clemson University 1990 April 11 in Tillman Auditorium. The pageant, sponsored by Mortar Board senior honor society, attracted a crowd of over 400 spectators.

Miss Helms, a junior psychology major from Concord, North Carolina received a $750 scholarship for winning the pageant.

'I'm so stunned...it's wonderful because it's Clemson,' she said.

A field of 13 young ladies participated in the competition for the title. The pageants five judges based their decision of combined performances on personal interview, talent and evening wear.

Other winners included Shanon Marie Fogle, first runner-up, Susan Michelle Wagner, second runner-up and Annette McClary, third runner-up.

Miss Fogle was the winner of the grand talent competition while Miss Wagner took the interview portion.

Miss Helms performed a ventriloquist act with her dummy Samantha. The two of them sang the challenging song 'Auctioneer' to the delight of the crowd.

The Clemson defense held West Virginia to only 237 yards total offense during the Mazda Gator Bowl. Levon Kirkland was named the MVP of the Gator Bowl, and Stacy Fields won the Mazda Gator Bowl Academic Award.
A win in the Gator Bowl meant that the Tigers had won two bowl games in the 1989 calendar year and had won 87 games in the 1980s.

The victory over West Virginia also honored the team as the first Clemson team to win four straight bowl appearances.

Clemson's record in Florida Bowl games under Danny Ford became 6-0 once the Tigers beat WV in the Gator Bowl.
"I am not sure how we will defense against him. I know he is faster than our linemen and I hope he is not faster than our outside linebackers and defensive backs. If he is we are in trouble." — Danny Ford on Harris before the game.

Heisman Trophy winner and WV quarterback Major Harris was sacked 4 times by the Tigers.
TOUR!!
It officially started on April 6, 1988, with the raising of the Centennial flag, and when it ended, on November 27, 1989, Clemson’s multidimensional Centennial celebration had suitably recognized Clemson’s first century of existence, while providing glimpses of what Clemson’s Second Century might hold for the future. Clemson’s nineteen-month celebration of its historical heritage was in keeping with the Centennial theme, “Tradition and Vision,” a theme which allowed numerous departments and individuals to heavily contribute to the programs of the Centennial observance.

The Centennial started with the raising of the Centennial flag, a flag designed specifically to symbolize Clemson’s historical heritage in South Carolina higher education. This event, attended by South Carolina’s most distinguished political luminaries, was followed by a Founder's Day prayer service honoring Clemson’s founder, Thomas Green Clemson. The remainder of the Spring, 1988 semester saw such offerings as a Centennial Concert by the Greenville Symphony Orchestra and the Centennial meeting of the Board of Trustees on the Calhoun Mansion grounds.
Centennial...
Celebration

The fall of 1988 saw the observance move from its “University and the Arts” spring focus to its “The University and the Sciences” fall emphasis. A variety of symposia, lectures and programs addressed Clemson’s role in the advancement of the sciences. Student programs such as First Friday and Tigerama also encouraged use of the Centennial theme. The Harvey Gantt Scholarship program was given its biggest boost with a gala dinner on September 2, 1988.

“The University and the Economic World” was the Spring, 1989 spotlight for the Centennial celebration. Again, a variety of program developed this subtheme throughout the spring semester. Two major Centennial events occurred at this time. On April 1st, the Tillman Hall cornerstone and enclosed time capsule were removed and replaced from Tillman Hall. This event was but one of several activities which happened during Cornerstone Weekend. On April 22nd, the long awaited dedication of the Strom Thurmond Institute took place, presided over by Vice President Dan Quayle.
The Centennial came to a close with the fall semester of 1989, whose focus was "The University and the Social-Political World." The premier speaker was conservative columnist, William F. Buckley. The Centennial officially ended with the Acceptance Day ceremony on November 27th, celebrating South Carolina's acceptance of Thomas Clemson's bequest for the establishment of an agricultural and mechanical college. Although this event officially concluded the Centennial celebration, the heritage of the Centennial lives on in such tangible things as the Centennial flag and coat-of-arms, both officially adopted for permanent University use, as well as in the hearts of Clemson alumni, supporters and fans of this great institution.
Student falls to her death

On December 8, 1989, Shannon Ashley Gill fell 27 feet to her death while attempting to climb out a window at the Alpha Tau Omega house.

Pickens County Coroner has ruled the death accidental. An autopsy revealed that Gill had a blood alcohol level of 0.17. Gill, a junior in secondary education, was 20 at the time of the accident.

According to Joy Smith, director of Student Development, the ATO fraternity has been charged with violating the University alcohol policies. Initial reports indicated that alcohol had been served at a fraternity party that evening. The party was registered as a non-alcoholic party.

In February, the ATO national headquarters and the University placed a one-year suspension on the Clemson chapter. Still under investigation, were two bars thought to have been visited by Gill the night of the accident.

Measles Revacination Required for All Students and Staff

An epidemic of measles was sweeping college campuses across the nation. The Bureau of Health Services recommended that all student and employees receive revaccination unless positive proof of revaccination could be provided. On Thursday Feb. 8, 1990, Clemson started its own measles revaccination campaign. Over 11,000 Clemson students received the measles vaccinations.

The revaccination campaign included clinics, a press conference, and an information seminar. The Office of Student Development spearheaded the effort to get the word out. Student Government helped coordinate volunteers to staff the clinics. Clinics were held in the Palmetto Ballroom and Littlejohn Coliseum. At the end of the first week, over 11,883 students had been revaccinated and the clinics were closed. Redfern Health Center remained open as the only vaccination site.

Only XXX cases of measles were reported by Redfern. None of the measles cases developed into a life threatening situation.

New Social Policy To Curb Alcohol

After the alcohol-related death of Shannon Gill, a need for a new alcohol policy was deemed a number one priority. A panel of seven students and seven administrators was convened to iron out this policy. President Max Lennon charged the committee, “to create an environment where young people as freshmen can mature and become responsible adults.”

In an open forum sponsored by the Student Development staff, much of the concern was brought forward as to how the policy would affect their access to alcohol at parties. Student Development and Student Senate drafted an alcohol policy to submit to the University’s Alcohol and Drug Awareness Committee.

In early February, the committee presented its final version of the alcohol policy. Major points in the new policy included: no keg beer at parties, availability of facilities, and the use party managers.
According to some, all the trees on campus are in danger, the “University” has gone mad. The university is cutting down all the trees.

What may have been senseless tree cutting is now an organized plan. Facilities, Maintenance, and Operations has hired an arborist. Robert C. Shaw, a 1979 Clemson graduate is now overseeing the care of our trees.

According to Mike Faires, Assistant Vice President for Facilities, the trees slated for cutting will be marked with a ribbon and all concerned will have an opportunity to respond. All tree cutting and pruning will be done under the supervision of the arborist.
New Student ID Cards

A new multi-use ID card system will begin second summer session 1990. The new card will be used as an ID, meal card, for library check-out, and to enter Fike Recreation Center.

Additionally, the Declining Balance Account will be expanded to include purchases at the University Bookstore, Laundry, and the Union.

A new feature of this ID card will be the inclusion of the student’s birth date.

Emergency lights installed in dorms

On Monday evening, January 14, 1990 a transformer blew up and the lights went out in several buildings. Suddenly, everyone discovered that Johnstone Hall and several academic buildings did not have emergency lights.

Toward the end of the spring semester the Housing Office had installed emergency lights in stairwells of Johnstone Hall.

A second power outage on March 31, 1990 gave students a chance to see how well the lights would work.

Installation of emergency lights on the halls began at the close of the semester. The expected cost of the project is $60,000.

When Johnstone Hall is torn down the lights will be removed for reuse.

Strom Thurmond Institute Still Has Leaks

Shortly after it’s dedication, the Strom Thurmond Institute was discovered to have leaks. Ground water was running across the buried roof and leaching out of the brick walls.

Some remedial action was taken to reduce the leaching action and to prevent possible leaks to the interior of the building.

Currently the leachate is producing stalagmite-like growths on the face of the building. Though not noticeable from afar, the stains are unsightly to a visitor to the building.

At the time of printing, the University is still in discussions with the architectural and engineering firm who designed the building. The future of the stalagmites is still unknown.

Steam Pipes Upgraded

Facilities, Maintenance, and Operations replaced the steam system along Fernow Street.

The replacement of the pipes also involved removing the old asbestos insulation. The new pipes were replaced and a non-asbestos insulation was installed. The newer insulation would do a better job reducing thermal loses through the pipe.

While they were digging, several vaults were placed, to allow for expanding electrical and communications needs.

TAPS Delayed

The 1989 and 1990 issues of TAPS were not delivered on time.

The conversion to desktop publishing for the Centennial edition slowed the progress on the 624 page book. Additional problems with the staff and publisher Taylor Publishing Company, contributed to further delays.

The 1989 Centennial Edition was finally delivered by the publisher on December 14, 1990.

There for an emergency

28 emergency call boxes were placed in remote areas around campus. According to Public Safety Capt. Dan Wardlaw, “We wanted to make something available to someone stranded. They have been used!”

Construction Begins on Athletic Learning Center

In February 1990, construction began on the academic learning center for student athletes. The new learning center was located in the triangle between Mauldin Hall, Nursing Building, and Jordan Hall.

The $2.5 million structure will include an auditorium, tutoring rooms, and office space for the athletic advising staff. The building will be dedicated entirely to the athletic-academic advising program.

Currently, five evenings a week, more than 25 rooms in Daniel Hall are used for the program. Some concern was raised about building a building for athletes only. Athletic Director Bobby Robinson made it clear that was not the case, the building would be available to other groups.

Shuttle-buses added to fleet

In a move to improve the commuter parking situation, shuttle busses were provided. According to John Pace, Director of Parking and Vehicle Registration, “We felt there was a need. We were forcing students to park further and further away.

Student government had a successful night shuttle service. It was an easy thing to expansion that to include daytime service. For the fall of 1989, the motorpool added seven 16-passenger buses. By the end of the year, over 350 thousand passengers had ridden the shuttles.

A consultant will be hired next year to make a study for possible expansions to the service.
The bumper stickers which appeared around Clemson immediately after January 18, 1990, told it all for a large number of Tiger football supporters. Those stickers, which read, "Thanks, Danny 96-29-4", summed up numerous fans' belief that Clemson's highly successful football coach of the decade had been railroaded to resign by the University's administration. They didn't want to hear any justification for the resignation of a coach that had led Clemson to a National Championship in 1981, five ACC titles, seven Top Twenty finishes, and the fourth best winning percentage of all active Division I coaches.

To other Clemson supporters and observers, the true story behind Ford's stunning departure was the perception that Ford's style clashed greatly with the image that Clemson's administration wished to associate with Clemson athletics. With Clemson's Athletic Director, Bobby Robinson, and Ford stating the reason for the parting as "honest differences of opinion on certain basic aspects of the football program," others were left to interpret what those issues were that led to Coach Ford's unexpected... resignation. What was stated by both parties, although doubted by many, was that the NCAA's investigation of the Tiger football program was not a factor in accepting Ford's resignation.

While the full story has not been, and undoubtedly will not be told, terms of Ford's resignation settlement were released. Those terms provided Ford with a cash payment of $190,000 a year for three years, with possible extension of that payment for two more years, depending on Coach Ford's acceptance of another coaching position. Clemson also agreed to allow Ford and his family to remain in his University-provided home until May 31, 1990, and paid the remaining mortgage balance on his farm. Other benefits included six season tickets during the payment period, ownership to his University-provided van, and health insurance for his family through December 31, 1990. The total settlement package could exceed $1,000,000.

The size of the settlement, coupled with Clemson's insistence that the resignation was not coupled with the NCAA investigation, led many to question the generosity of the settlement, including several state legislators. Clemson officials promised that future contracts would not contain the kind of rollover and buy-out provisions included in Ford's contract.
CAA investigating again...

Students, angry football supporters and the football players rallied to Ford's support during the first week after the resignation announcement.
The area media gave the story significant coverage, with ev-everyone attempting to get the inside scoop regarding the reasons for Ford's seemingly forced departure.

Bobby Robinson received pub-lar support from President Max
Lennon and Board of Trustees Chairman Louis Batson. To many fans who had endured the NCAA probation imposed during the Ford tenure of the mid-Eighties, the current NCAA investigation was proof that Coach Ford did not exert enough control of the non-playing actions surrounding his program. While this support simply broadened some Ford backers' anger, others saw this as strong support for Robinson's belief that a change in leadership was needed for the Clemson football program.

While the Ford era officially ended on January 18, 1990, the Ford story didn’t start to diminish until his successor, Arkansas coach Ken Hatfield, was named the new Clemson head football coach on January 21, just 3 days later. Hatfield, who’s winning percentage and accomplishments at Arkansas are strikingly similar to those of Ford, came into a tense situation, and started phasing out the "Danny Ford Resignation Story" and making his own stamp on Tiger football by turning jeers to cheers with a group of disaffected Ford fans, and successfully introducing himself to the football team and the rest of the Clemson family. For those Clemson fans who want to see Hatfield and the Tigers succeed on and off the gridiron, they know that the "Hatfield Success Story" doesn’t start until September, 1, 1990, Clemson’s first game with Coach Hatfield leading the charge down the hill into Death Valley.

Ricky Jones's reaction to comments by Maryland players in the newspapers—They think we're a bunch of scrubs. We're going to contend for the that ACC title.

'They scare me,' said Duke coach Mike Krzyzewski after Clemson's win over Duke.
'They haven't been given the media respect, but they are there.'

Ellis's comments on Clemson's victory over Duke: 'I thought we played inspired and I think we played with a lot of confidence.'

'You can't have much more fun than that.'—Derrick Forest on the victory over Duke.

Ellis on the loss to USC—'We don't deserve to win. We had 100 opportunities to win.'

'Duo of Doom'—Dale Davis and Elden Campbell, both measuring six feet, eleven inches tall, have combined to average 32.6 points, 19.4 rebounds, and 4.7 blocked shots per game.
Our job is to keep kicking tradition in the butt." Coach Cliff Ellis's response to a question about Clemson's history in post-season record of 7-23 in ACC Tournaments.

This was the first team since 1980 to win a first round game in the ACC Tournament.

"My concern is our team has not handled the success that well."
— Coach Ellis after Clemson's loss to USC late in the season.

His classes are, in one of his students words, "FUNNY, SEXUAL OR DISGUSTING." That's right. He teaches Biology 103 & 104 which he says can be associated with each of the three categories mentioned above.

He's recognizable by his bushy red beard and the ever present sun glasses perched on his head. He says he only takes off his sun glasses for two things. You figure it out what the two things are.

As a member of the "Biology Program" he teaches introductory biology classes for no majors. Most of his time is spent thinking up and creating new teaching methods for students that may not really care about BIO. "There's a challenge in teaching a student who really doesn't want to know it," he says.

"I like to teach and I enjoy trying to make biology more interesting," he says. Because he doesn't teach any upper level biology classes he has the time to develop new programs such as slide shows or other presentations such as bringing in one of his 20 snakes he keeps at home and in his office.

"I don't like buying a snake," he says, but he will go out and catch one or more black rat, king or corn snakes. Revis-Wagner likes to take his pets to area schools to show them off to kids of all ages. He says it "shows off Clemson University" and it "shows off science."

In addition to teaching, Revis-Wagner also advises all of the pre-med majors from before they are freshman to the time they graduate. This occupies about 1/4 of his time, he says.

After receiving his undergraduate degree from Emory University in 1964 he went on to the University of Georgia for his Masters and Doctorate work. During that time he spent time at the Savanna River Plant and two years in Poland to eventually get his Ph.D. in terrestrial ecology on the study of owls.

How do you replace a coaching legend (Danny Ford), who in turn, replaced The Legend (Frank Howard) in the minds and hearts of Clemson football fans? If your Athletic Director Bobby Robinson, you go out and hire yourself another coaching legend, even if that means looking to the Southwest Conference to find your legend. Such was the action that Robinson took by hiring Ken Hatfield, former head coach at the University of Arkansas and previously the United States Air Force Academy. Hatfield, only the third Clemson head coach to be hired outside of the incumbent assistant coach ranks since 1940, came to Clemson with credentials that rival his predecessor and also place him among the NCAA Division I elite. Just as Danny Ford could have been given the title of ACC Coach of the Eighties,” Ken Hatfield was, in fact, named the “Southwest Conference Coach of the Decade” for leading his Arkansas teams to back-to-back league championships in 1988 and 1989, as well as to six consecutive bowl trips during his six seasons, including major bowls in three of the last four years. Coach Hatfield’s overall winning percentage of .629 (82-48-2) includes lifting the Air Force Academy program from a 3-8 record in 1979 to a 10-2 record in 1983 and two consecutive bowl appearances. Hatfield, who’s football pedigree includes All-American status (2nd team AP) as a starting cornerback for the national Champion Razorbacks of 1964, and national punt return titles in 1963 and 1964, was also named National Coach-of-the-Year in 1983 while at the Air Force Academy.

There seems to be no evidence to suggest that Ken Hatfield can’t carry his record of success into the annals of Clemson Tiger football coaching. His coaching displays an ability to direct a winning program within a demanding academic environment (Air Force), while adhering to NCAA mandates for a “clean” program within a highly competitive context (Arkansas). Among the questions that remain regarding Hatfield are the reasons why he left his alma mater at a time of success, and why he chose to step into a volatile coaching situation at Clemson. As to the former issue, evidence surfaced after his hiring to suggest that Arkansas fans
Despite NCAA investigation and Athletic Director Frank Broyles, himself a Razorback coaching legend, didn't cotton to Hatfield's conservative, yet successful ground attack offense. Hatfield noted that such an attack was not always appreciated by the fans who "wanted the glitter." His preference for a rushing-controlled offense fits with Clemson's chosen method for moving the ball during the Ford years.

One other reason suggested for Hatfield's relocation to Clemson concerns financial incentives. Hatfield, who was hired by Robinson without a contract, was apparently undercompensated at Arkansas when compared with other coaches, some of whom didn't have his success.

On June 26, 1990 Coach Hatfield signed a new contract with the University with a base salary of $108,500.00 per year. In addition to the base, merit raises are available depending on his regular and post-season performance; two cars will be provided, 10 tickets to each home and away games as well as 20 tickets to any post season game.

Other sources of income Coach Hatfield can optimize include compensation for television and radio shows, coaching clinics, speeches, appearances and written materials, commercial endorsements and shoe apparel contracts.

Despite Clemson University's plan to not include extensive buy-out agreements in future coaching contracts, Coach Hatfield has been guaranteed a sum of $600,000.00 if his contract is terminated with more than three years remaining in the term without 'just cause.' His regular salary will be paid to him if there is less than three years remaining.

'Just cause' is defined in his contract as 'deliberate violations of duties and responsibilities,' any conduct that is criminal, serious, or intentional violation of any rule or regulation imposed by the NCAA, ACC, or any other conference which the University may become affiliated with in the future. Richard M. Baldwin II, TAPS editor and National Guardsman, tells the story of Hurricane Hugo as he experienced it.

I knew there was a tremendous storm approaching, but it wasn’t expected to hit the Upstate. Charleston was being evacuated and it appeared that Hugo preparations were in order. I had just returned to the TAPS office after working at the Chemistry computer lab; the call came. It was the evening of September 21, 1989.

Sergeant First Class Sam Hecko, from the National Guard, called, asking me to report to the armory in Clemson. How soon could I be there? I collected study materials, rushed home, packed, called the folks, and arrived at the armory about an hour after receiving the call. The Adjudent General had requested my battalion send two radio teams to state headquarters for unspecified assignments.

We left the armory around midnight, and headed down I-26 toward Columbia. By the time we arrived at the Guard headquarters building it was evident that Hurricane Hugo had trashed Columbia. At 3:00am the winds from the tail of the storm were still strong enough to cause one to have to lean forward to move.
We left Columbia about 0530 hours with our first orders: to provide communications for an element of the 122nd Engineers. We were to drive down I-26 towards Charleston until we found an engineer unit already on the highway. We caught up with our the first engineers at a rest stop above Orangeburg. We contacted headquarters and let them know the status of the unit we had found. Then, we were ordered to the Summerville Armory.

Interstate 26 along the entire route toward the coast was a mess. The engineers, who had been called out at daybreak, were just getting out to clear the roads. What was amazing was the volume of traffic flowing toward Charleston. Why so many were heading back to a city without water, electricity, gasoline or the amenities of life was beyond me. We were even being passed by cars; on a road littered with debris.

We arrived at the Summerville Armory about midmorning and checked in with the commanding officer. Tony, my teammate and I had no sooner located the placement for our long doublet antenna when we got new orders. We were to accompany this group of engineers to the Haygood Armory in Charleston.

It took us two hours to make the thirty-some-odd mile journey to the Haygood Armory across from the Citadel football stadium. The traffic into Charleston had gotten worse. The destruction in Charleston was dramatic. A couple of our vehicles were too tall to pass under a fallen tree. We had no chain saw. Luckily a local resident came to the rescue (see right).

We ended up being assigned to signal officer, Lt. Schrader, who had to be among the most unhappy of individuals in Charleston. His unhappiness stemmed from the fact that he was supposed to get married the next day (Saturday), instead he was directing communications activity in the middle of our "swamp" in Charleston. His personal sacrifice is an example of those made by many others during this time.

Tony and I sat in the "swamp" for seven days sending and receiving relief work communications. Tony had the foresight to bring along a personal tent, which provided dry, wind-proof shelter among all the standing water (blue tent on opposite page). Many units were able to take advantage of the stadium for shelter. The "bombed out" armory served as our dining hall. The cooks did a great job considering the conditions, which included leaky roofs (which caused the grits to be runny). Between sleep, meals and long shifts on the radio, I was fortunate enough to take a few photos and really see the effects of Hugo "up close and personal."

On the seventh day, my battalion relieved our two radio teams and I got to return to Clemson. I really hated to leave the other commo people we were living with; they would not get relieved until it was over. When I got home I found out that my grandmother was still without electricity in Charlotte and that my uncle had survived the storm in Columbia. I was glad I could help the relief effort in some way.
Susan Clark, a Summerville native was at home when Hurricane Hugo hit the Low Country. She tells how she and her friends made it through the ordeal.

Wednesday, September 20, 1989 at about nine o'clock in the evening I received a call from my mother. All week we had been discussing my going home and the threat of Hurricane Hugo. We came to the conclusion that if I was going home I'd better go on Thursday because Hugo was due to arrive on Friday. Thursday afternoon after my last class my roommate, Monica, and I headed for Summerville, about 15 miles north of Charleston, little did we know what we were in for.

On the way home, we were surprised to see the traffic leaving Charleston. It was bumper to bumper all the way to Columbia. The farther I drove down the road the more nervous I got. Would anyone be at home? Was everybody evacuating? Monica told me she had heard that all the barrier islands, all people in trailers, and flood zones had to evacuate. My father is a policeman so I figured that my parents did not have to leave. We got back into our cars and drove the last forty minutes in awe of the traffic. Just as we pulled off Interstate 26, it was announced over the radio that the east-bound lanes into Charleston were to be opened for westward traveling traffic.
By this time it was about six o'clock in the evening, Thursday. As the winds increased, the cable and then the power went out. My father arrived home and started telling us how chaotic Charleston and the evacuation was. He insisted on moving the couches in the den into a square and surrounding them with mattresses from the bedrooms. We sat there for what seemed like days listening to wind and debris flying around outside. Several family members, my boyfriend, and I sat in the den of my house. We could see the back wall of my house swaying in the wind. My mother was crying, believing that the house was going to cave in.

When the eye of the storm arrived, the calmness it brought was almost as frightening as the storm. There was no wind, rain or movement of any sort. We went outside and took a brief look at the damage. It was amazing to think that a few miles in every direction, Hugo surrounded us. Within ten minutes, the back wall of the storm approached, the winds picked up and we all scampered inside. The back wall lasted about forty minutes and then it was all over for us, at about three in the morning, although it rained for hours after.

The next morning, at daybreak, we all wandered outside to see what Hugo wrought. Our six foot privacy fence was gone, along with two pompous grass trees, and a oak tree. The oak tree split and part of it fell on our house, and the back wall of our house had shifted. As we explored the neighborhood we were amazed at the damage. Power lines were down, cars and houses were crushed and the streets were filled with up to about three feet of water.
There was no water or electricity, but we had telephones. We tried to call my other sister who lived in Charleston but failed to get through for some time. When we finally got her, we found out that the roof, siding, and ceilings in her house had been destroyed. We were glad to hear they were all right. However, they had to stay in their house because vandals were looting the damaged houses. My father said he probably arrested forty people a day for looting.

The next few days that followed were difficult. We had to get water from the street and the neighbor's pool to flush our toilet. My mom had filled every pot and piece of tupperware with drinking water and bought nine gallons so we had plenty of water to do for the weekend. We had to take sponge baths and cook on the outside grill. We spent the daylight hours cleaning up the yard and helping others, as they helped us. It was great to see how my neighbors pulled together. The man across the street, who had only moved in a few months before, brought his mobile home to his house. It had a generator on top and he plugged his freezer into it. He was generous enough to give each house on the four corners around him a shelf in his freezer to keep food in. The father of the lady across the street brought her some ice and he shared it with all of the neighbors, and I shared matches with others who did not have any.

An elderly friend of ours was trapped in his home by trees, so on Sunday morning, when some of the roads were cleared, my boyfriend, Todd, and I went to the store and got some food and took it to him. Some of the stores were operating on generator power and sold their food at discounted prices. Generators and ice were the hottest selling items around. Five hundred dollar generators were selling for one thousand dollars and more. Dollar bags of ice sold for three to four dollars and more.

I only remained in Summerville for the weekend, long enough to get a good dose of the looting, price gouging, and night curfews. My house regained water Sunday evening, and power two weeks later. I was glad to get back to Clemson Sunday evening and take a shower in hot water.

To some Hurricane Hugo is a vague memory, and to others a horrible nightmare. Those who were not directly affected by Hugo, will hopefully never know what this kind of destruction feels like. The place that some once called home no longer looks or feels the same. Hugo took more than just material possessions, it also instilled a fear in some that will never be forgotten.

TAKE YOUR FAMILY ON A POWER TRIP.

For your family's next outing, take them on a real power trip. Take them to Duke Power's World of Energy at Keowee-Toxaway.

They'll be glued to the exhibits and computer games that explain how energy, from windmills to nuclear fission, is generated. They'll watch with fascination as nuclear operators train on a replica of the Oconee Nuclear Station control room. And all of you will enjoy the beautiful surroundings, complete with picnic grounds. Plus, it's free.

Hours are from 9-5 Monday through Saturday; noon-5 on Sunday (September through May) and noon-6 (June through August). Large groups should make advance reservations for our special presentations.

For more information, call or write World of Energy, P.O. Box 1687, Clemson, South Carolina 29633, 803/885-4600.

Like the game of football, the success of any team depends greatly on its unsung heroes, the many people who pull together as one to get the job done.

At SCE&G, the name of our game is customer service. And our success depends on this same kind of teamwork.

Our team has a lot of unsung heroes. They're our linemen, gasmen, meter readers, engineers, and power plant operators. They're also the inspectors, computer experts, accountants and customer service representatives who work to serve you. In fact, they're everyone you depend on to be knowledgeable and safety conscious, to respond quickly and to give you the kind of quality service you've come to expect from the people at SCE&G.

It's been fun, it's been real, I'm outta here, goodbye!

This is one the last things I have to do to complete this book. After this, I am retiring and becoming a student. The last couple of years have been rather entertaining. For the most part I have enjoyed my work on TAPS. It has been very educational. I am pleased to leave the office in a better state than when I got here. I am watching the 1991 staff grow they are the new beginning for TAPS. I think they have already forgotten what 3Cs and 3Rs are used for. Buying these computers was the biggest mistake I ever made. Ha! The critics were wrong Ask my biggest sell, Jennifer Hyder. You can't get her to do designs anywhere else.

From My Perspective
Richard M. Baldwin II, Editor-in-Chief

IT'S A MATTER OF CENSORSHIP. In the last year censorship has made the headlines in across the United States. The subject hit home to the Clemson community when William Buckley and Roger Milliken came down on The Chronicle. The Chronicle ran a poem that was ...

Well, judge for yourself. But, as an editor I fully support the Chronicle staff; they deemed that it had value. Then, published it.

The Clemson University student media have had it pretty lucky in the last few years: the present administration does not advocate prior censorship.

"...let's get drunk and go screw ...." Jimmy Buffett

"...fuck, fuck, count this, fuck, fuck, ...

Tony, 2 Live Crew

The other day a friend had some of his CDs laying around the office: a wide range of music. Including 2 Live Crew, NWA, Jimmy Buffett, Boston...

With all the controversy over 2 Live Crew, I decided I wanted to see what it was all about. In the privacy of my earphones: I listened to a several CDs. I listened to both of the 2 Live Crew albums and the NWA album, though not to every minute of them. 2 Live Crew has a message! Sure it has a lot of raw language, but it has a message. One of the albums (I'm not sure which one) did not have a message that I could discern.

Later that day I decided to kick back and listen to some Buffett. Jimmy Buffett is accepted as "OK" music. I was surprised to hear the lyrics, "let's get drunk and go screw". They jumped out at me.

"Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech or the press." United States Constitution Tell me who is writing lyrics that have value! In the quotes: 2 Live Crew is expressing their anger over the restriction of their first amendment rights. Jimmy Buffett is suggesting that we should have bombed out of our head and have meaningless sex with someone. Why do you want your children to listen to?

A PERCEPTION OF COLOR. I think it is time to accuse the University of discrimination. Horrors! Can't be Where? As a graduate student, I have been studying with a broad selection of students from around the world. The number of Americans (by citizenship) in graduate school seems to be about 50%. I have gotten to meet a lot of interesting people, learning about their cultures. I am curious about how other people live.

"It's a black thing, you wouldn't understand" – a quote from the t-shirt of a Clemson co-ed.

I am offended! Don't give me that line. If I substituted white for black in that quote, you would label me a racist. My ears are open, what is this black thing I will not understand? You are not even trying. You are just putting on an attitude.

I was so upset that I do not remember the group name that was on the front of the shirt. But, it seems that it was an University organization.

When I moved here in junior high, my first friend was black. Excuse me, African-American. By the way, I'm not white, I'm Polish-American. The true worth of my friends is not in the color of their skin. Or, the country they were born in.

That young lady has an attitude! She does not want to learn about my heritage. I would bet I know more of hers, than she knows of mine. (Hint - don't read U.S. history, that is common to both of us.)

Here at Clemson we have a minority council. A couple years ago, I thought to myself, we need to do something about understanding each other's race and ethnic origin. If that is going to happen, they need some input from the "white" students. I go volunteer. Wrong! I am not "black" and I am not in the minority race. My mistake. Well, what about my friends who are Asian, Indian, or Arabic? None of these minority races are represented.

"To help promote unity among the racial minority and racial majority students so as to preserve the Clemson family spirit"

Clemson University Student Handbook

The University can help us reach understanding. But not by just make soothing sounds. What has the Minority Council done to promote unity? It is not just me, I have heard complaints from several minority students. Hey folks, this is not new news.

There used to be this thing in the spring where the University would invite minority high school seniors up to Camp Hope for a Saturday of information about Clemson. TAPS was invited one time. We were supposed to go and tell these prospective students about getting involved in the media. Hey, that was a cool idea. I asked about it the spring of 1988. You know, trying to invite myself. It would give me an extra opportunity to address these students, maybe recruit a few to work on the 1989 TAPS. To this day I still have not heard back. It is really my fault, I did not try hard enough.

And! Don't go trying to hammer TAPS or the student media. You will find that the student media have a better representation of all students than any other University group (except maybe athletics). And, that includes male versus female representation.

Go Harvey! Beat Helms!
