This season we have four rather significant title changes. But with that short introduction, I’ll let Mike Markwith refresh us all with his statement of how:

It’s great to be back in the world of serials after a two and one-half year hiatus!

Mike may be found at:

And, after six incredible years as the electronic resources & serials cataloging librarian at the University of Pennsylvania Libraries, Shana McDanold accepted a new position elsewhere.

Effective Oct. 1, 2012, I will be head of the metadata services unit at Georgetown University. I am looking forward to the challenges in my new position, and am grateful for the experience and support I received at Penn that has allowed me to take on this new and exciting opportunity at Georgetown.

A bit earlier in the year, Jacquie Samples became head, Electronic Resources and Serials Cataloging Section at Duke University in July 2012. Jacquie’s title changed due to the combining of two units in the department.

And, Sarah W. Sutton, Ph.D. changed positions in August.

I joined the faculty of the School of Library and Information Management at Emporia State University and may be found at:
