CURRENT TOPICS in the MEDIA: OPPOSING VIEWPOINTS

endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. — That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed. — That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, in governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shown that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces a design that it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness.

Do you hear the presidential debate topics discussed everywhere you go?

Are you unsure of where you stand on foreign policy, equality, climate change, media bias, or another debated topic?

Do you want to join in the conversation, but feel unprepared?

Opposing viewpoints on the topics listed above and more are available here — check them out to learn more about the important issues of our day!

Display Description

The first book display of 2017, titled Current Topics in the Media: Opposing Viewpoints, highlights many of the subjects that have recently been discussed on television, across the web and social media, and in day-to-day conversation.

Differing opinions on topics such as foreign policy, equality, and climate change are included on the display, as are books which focus on media bias.

The display will be up until the end of the month and all items can be checked out at the Information Services Desk.
