Harry Ashmore is a veteran newspaperman and author who, in 1958, won a Pulitzer Prize for editorial writing during the Little Rock school desegregation crisis. His newspaper was cited for distinguished service while he was executive editor of the Arkansas Gazette.

Mr. Ashmore was born and raised in Greenville where he was delivering newspapers by the time he was twelve. He worked hard on his paper route and at other jobs as long as he was in school. He saved his earnings and, with these and some help from his older brother, he was able to go to college.

He entered Clemson in the fall of 1933 and continued to pursue his love of the written word. He wrote a column, “The Talk of the Town,” for The Tiger, was associate editor of the paper during his junior year and served as editor as a senior. Under Mr. Ashmore’s leadership the paper won several awards.

Mr. Ashmore received his bachelor’s degree at Clemson in 1937 and went to work as a reporter and political writer with the Greenville News and Piedmont. In 1941, he went to Harvard University as a Nieman Fellow, but his year of study was interrupted by Pearl Harbor, and he entered the Army in February 1942.

Following the war, Ashmore became editor of the Charlotte (N. C.) News in 1947 and executive editor of the Arkansas Gazette in Little Rock in 1948. There, the Ford Foundation-backed Fund for the Republic tapped him to head a year-long study of Southern schools, both black and white.

He documented the changes that would be required when the Supreme Court finally ruled, as it inevitably did, that segregated schools were inherently unequal and unfair to black children. That study resulted in Ashmore’s landmark book, The Negro and the Schools, published just days before the Brown vs. Board of Education decision in 1954.

He was still at the paper three years later when President Eisenhower was forced to call out the Army to enforce a federal court order desegregating Central High School. The episode became a national turning point in the Civil Rights movement. Ashmore’s reasoned editorials and the news coverage he directed earned his paper the 1958 Pulitzer Prize.

Ashmore is the author of Epitaph for Dixie (1957) and Hearts and Minds: The Anatomy of Racism from Roosevelt to Reagan (1982). He was Editor-in-Chief of the Encyclopedia Britannica from 1960-63. He also served as president of the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions and as a board member of the American Civil Liberties Union.

In 1967 the Clemson Alumni Association awarded its highest honor to him, the Distinguished Service Award. He was named Clemson University’s “Centennial Alumnus” in 1987 by the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges, which was celebrating its 100th anniversary.

It is a special privilege to honor this son of Clemson who has greatly distinguished himself in the profession of journalism and through his outspoken advocacy of the American ideal of equality and justice for all.
HONORARY DEGREE
DOCTOR OF LAWS

United States Army Lieutenant General Colin L. Powell is President Reagan's chief adviser on matters of national security.

This recent appointment as Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs makes General Powell the first black to hold the nation's highest national security job and one of the highest-ranking black officials in the Reagan Administration. He has been called "one of the brightest lights in the Army" by a former commander.

General Powell, formerly Deputy Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs, is not new to the corridors of power in Washington. Early in his Army career, as a major, he was named a White House Fellow, a prestigious position of Government middle management.

In that 1972 internship post, he worked for Caspar W. Weinberger (former Secretary of Defense) when he headed the Office of Management and Budget, as well as for Frank C. Carlucci, who was Mr. Weinberger's deputy and now serves as Secretary of Defense.

The popular leader was born in New York City and raised in the South Bronx section of New York. He was graduated from the City College of New York in 1958 and was commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the Regular Army through the ROTC program at the college.

After completing Infantry Officer's Basic Training and Airborne and Ranger schools, General Powell was assigned to Germany, serving as a platoon leader and rifle company commander. He returned to the United States in 1960 to serve as a rifle company commander at Fort Devens, Massachusetts.

During the Vietnam War General Powell served two tours, once as an adviser to a South Vietnamese infantry battalion in 1962-63 and as an infantry battalion executive officer and the Assistant Chief of Staff, G3 of the 23rd Infantry Division, in 1968-69.

Returning from Vietnam, he earned an MBA at George Washington University, served as a White House Fellow, held commands in Korea, Fort Campbell, Kentucky, Fort Carson, Colorado, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, Germany, and served in Washington as Senior Military Assistant to the Deputy Secretary of Defense and later as Senior Military Assistant to Secretary of Defense Weinberger.

General Powell has earned a reputation as an outstanding individual who has served his country with great distinction for the past twenty-five years. Colleagues know him as an excellent leader and a person of unquestioned loyalty and integrity. He is a highly decorated officer who has brought confidence and stability to the National Security Council and staff at the White House.

Clemson University is pleased to honor General Powell for his many achievements and for what his career and contributions have meant to the defense of our cherished American ideals of freedom and liberty.
The President's Award

DAVID L. MILLING

Creativity, innovation, and generous loyalty and service to Clemson University are distinguishing traits of 1953 Clemson graduate David L. Milling, president and co-founder of International Envelope Company of Aston, Pennsylvania. In the fifteen years since he and a colleague hit upon the idea of using Tyvek (a light, tough, polyethylene material) to make shipping envelopes, the company started by the two engineers has gained clients, facilities, partners and markets around the world. With equal enthusiasm and enterprise, Dave Milling serves Clemson. He is a member of the Alumni National Council, the Clemson University Foundation Board of Directors, The Founders major gift club, and the Advisory Board of the College of Commerce and Industry. In June of 1987, with a gift in excess of $100,000, he established an endowment to provide engineering scholarships in honor of his father, 1927 Clemson graduate James A. "Shine" Milling. Clemson University is honored to count David L. Milling among its volunteer leaders and most distinguished alumni.

JOHN T. MUNDY

1928 Clemson graduate John T. Mundy of Mount Pleasant, South Carolina, has established a tradition of consistent and significant support for his alma mater. Since 1978, he has created five trusts, each worth approximately $50,000, to support academic programs at Clemson. Three of the trusts are for graduate fellowships in the Department of Electrical and Computer Engineering. One will provide scholarships for undergraduate students in electrical engineering, Mr. Mundy's major at Clemson. The fifth trust will support the Evelyn Marguerite Wilson Mundy Professorship, named for his late wife, in the College of Nursing. Mr. Mundy, a retired executive of South Carolina Electric and Gas Company, is a member of The Founders major gift club of Clemson University, which takes great pride in recognizing him as an outstanding alumnus of this institution and a great friend of higher education.

The University Regalia

The University mace is the symbolic representation of the whole of Clemson University and must be present at any convocation where the University, through its delegated members, is acting officially. At any official convocation such as commencement, the University Marshal, carrying the mace, precedes the President into the assembly. The mace rests before the President's chair or speaker's stand throughout the ceremony, and its removal from the assembly at the close of a convocation is symbolic of the official withdrawal of the University and, thus, the close of the proceedings.

The decorative design of Clemson's mace is derived from the ceremonial maces carried by heads of state and church in the Middle Ages. Its basic club-like shape, however, is much more ancient, probably going back to man's pre-history. It is made of walnut wood and silver, with the seal of the University in gold and the University colors represented by insets of cornelian (orange) and amethyst (purple). Amethyst is also the state stone of South Carolina.

The Presidential chain and seal is symbolic of the authority vested in the office of president by the governing body of the University. Only the University President may wear it, and while wearing it he speaks for the whole body of the institution. Clemson's chain and seal are made of silver and gold, and cornelian and amethyst.

The batons of the college marshals also descend from medieval "staffs of office" which were carried by the senior members of departments of state or church. They display the seal of the University and the symbolic color of the discipline to which the college belongs. Clemson's batons are made of walnut wood and silver with the various disciplines inset with enamel.

The University regalia were designed and executed by Mr. Robert Ebendorf. Mr. Ebendorf is twice winner of the Tiffany Award and one of the most acclaimed goldsmiths of our era. The enamel plaques for the batons were executed by the late Professor Marshall C. Bell, and the lapidary work was executed by the late Mr. C. C. Wilson of Clemson University.
Coat of Arms

Designed by Clemson University graphic artist, Connie Floyd, the coat of arms represents the historic three-fold mission of this institution: teaching, research and service.

Pictured on the cover, the coat of arms is divided into three parts. The bottom contains a series of open books representing the concept of teaching as the basis of the land-grant university. The white of the books and the purple of the background designate the teaching mission of the University as it is achieved through undergraduate and graduate instruction.

The upper portion of the shield contains two sets of calipers and wheat sheaves illustrating the measurement system for research, as well as Clemson’s tradition in agriculture and Extension. The three symbols — the books, calipers and wheat sheaves — also represent the humanities, technology and science.

The entire shield is joined by a small orange center shield bearing a white tiger mask symbolizing the abiding spirit of Clemson.

The crest is a gold palmetto tree, which emphasizes Thomas Green Clemson’s desire that Clemson become “the people’s university” for South Carolinians. It rises from a band of purple, orange, white and gold. The outer pair of colors, purple and gold, are the official colors of the University; the inner pair, orange and white, are Clemson’s student colors.

Historical Statement

Clemson University is named for Thomas Green Clemson (1807-1888), who left the bulk of his estate to the State of South Carolina for the founding of the institution.

Thomas Clemson was born in Philadelphia in 1807 and educated at the Royal School of Mines in Paris (1828-1832). His early profession was that of a mining engineer; but circumstances diverted his interests into politics and the life of a southern planter, and he soon became an enthusiastic advocate of scientific agriculture. He had a career as a diplomat (charge d'affairs to Belgium, 1844-1852) and served as the first Superintendent of Agricultural Affairs in Washington (1860). As a scientist he published numerous articles in the fields of mining, chemistry, and agriculture. His varied activities included his assistance in the founding of the Maryland Agricultural College, his support of the Morrill Act, his leadership in South Carolina after the Civil War, and his part in founding Clemson University.

Thomas Clemson was the son-in-law of South Carolina's John C. Calhoun, a political figure of national importance during the first half of the nineteenth century. Mr. Calhoun's home, Fort Hill, is preserved on the Clemson Campus as a national shrine.

The academic program at Clemson College began in 1893 with an enrollment of 446. The first "college prospectus" announced only two four-year curricula, supplemented by two two-year preparatory courses. Today the University has ten major academic units. These are the College of Agricultural Sciences, the College of Architecture, the College of Commerce and Industry, the College of Education, the College of Engineering, the College of Forest and Recreation Resources, the College of Liberal Arts, the College of Nursing, the College of Sciences, and the Graduate School.

The institution is an accredited member of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools; various curricula are accredited by the National Architectural Accrediting Board, National League for Nursing, Society of American Foresters, American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business, Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology, and National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education.

Clemson is a land-grant institution. As such, it is engaged not only in its primary academic program, but does extensive research at the main campus and at five agricultural experiment stations located in the State. The University is also heavily committed to a varied program of public service, including the work of agricultural extension which has professional personnel located in each of the State's counties.
CLEMSON ALMA MATER
A. C. Corcoran, '19

Where the Blue Ridge yawns its greatness,
Where the Tigers play;
Here the sons of dear old Clemson
Reign supreme alway.

Chorus
Dear old Clemson, we will triumph
And with all our might,
That the Tiger's roar may echo
O'er the mountain height.

We will dream of great conquests,
For our past is grand,
And her sons have fought and conquered
Every foreign land.

Where the mountains smile in grandeur
O'er the hill and dale.
Here the Tiger lair is nestling
Swept by storm and gale.

We are brothers strong in manhood,
For we work and strive;
And our alma mater reigneth
Ever in our lives.
