When Congressman James E Clyburn accepted his role as majority whip for the 110th Congress in November 2006, he became the first South Carolinian and the second African American to ascend to the third-ranking position in the U.S. House of Representatives. On that historic occasion, he shared a story with his colleagues that revealed much about his childhood and how that environment shaped the man he has become.

He remembered stopping by his mother's beauty shop one day after school in his hometown of Sumter and being told by a customer that he should never speak his hopes to enter government and politics. The woman did not mean to scoff at his goals; rather, she feared the consequences he would face for expressing his political aspirations aloud in the segregated South.

But young James held fast to his dreams. His humble beginnings as the eldest son of a minister and a beautician secured his belief in the values of faith, family and public service. He played an active role in challenging the social and political environments of the time, leading his NAACP youth chapter at the age of 12, participating in marches and demonstrations, and serving as the star witness in a 1960 Orangeburg civil disobedience case.

After graduating from S.C. State College in 1961, Clyburn and his wife, Emily, began their life together in Charleston, he as a history teacher and she as a public school librarian. Clyburn later held positions that strengthened his ties to his community — he was an employment counselor, a director of youth and community development programs, and director of a migrant and seasonal farm workers program.

In 1970 Clyburn began pursuing his political goals by campaigning for the S.C. House of Representatives. He lost the election, but Governor John West asked Clyburn to join his administration, making him the first African American adviser to a South Carolina governor since post-Reconstruction. He was later appointed as S.C. Human Affairs commissioner, a position he held for 18 years. His work during this time earned him the reputation of being a fair and firm politician.

In 1992 he resigned his Human Affairs position to devote time to pursuing a seat in the U.S. Congress. He won the election and was sworn in as a member of the U.S. House of Representatives in January 1993, where no black South Carolinian had served since 1897.

Congressman Clyburn has moved steadily upward on Capitol Hill, chairing the Congressional Black Caucus and earning a coveted seat on the Appropriations Committee. In 2002 he was elected to serve as vice chair of the House Democratic Caucus and four years later was unanimously elevated to chair.

Throughout his career, Clyburn has faithfully supported South Carolina's colleges and the land-grant tradition. The Clyburns have established an archives and history endowment at their alma mater, where campus facilities are named in their honor, and 16 other colleges and universities have awarded Congressman Clyburn honorary degrees.

Clemson University holds Congressman Clyburn's remarkable life of service to his country and to the people of South Carolina in the highest regard. In recognition of his eminent achievements and contributions to social justice, it is a great privilege to present the honorary degree, Doctorate of Humanities, to Congressman James E Clyburn.
The academic procession is composed of the faculty, staff, officers, trustees and most honored guests of the University. Faculty enter by college and each college is preceded by its marshal, a senior faculty member, with the college baton, described under University Regalia. The college banners are placed on the stage. Each banner is a combination of colors that declare the disciplines taught in that college. These colors, which were established by the American Council on Education, are listed below.

Collegiate faculty follow their marshal in order of academic rank wearing academic costumes of medieval origin. Those who have received their degrees from institutions outside the United States wear costumes specified by the awarding institutions. Academic costumes of faculty whose degrees are from institutions in the United States are specified by a uniform code maintained by the American Council on Education. Caps are black and are usually mortar boards with tassels. Doctors of philosophy wear gold tassels usually of metallic thread; other degrees wear black or discipline colors.

The bachelor’s gown is simple and black with long, pointed sleeves. Masters’ gowns, also black, are longer than bachelors’ gowns. Older gowns have sleeves that terminate at the elbow, while those since 1960 have sleeves extended to the wrist. Doctors’ gowns are full, with bell-like sleeves. The front is marked by velvet panels and the sleeves are marked by three velvety bars. While most gowns are black with black velvet, one variation is to replace black velvet with velvets in the discipline color. A second variation is a colored gown usually of the university’s colors.

All hoods specify the level of degree, the type of discipline studied and the awarding institution. First, degree level is signified by the size of the hood with bachelors’ the smallest, masters’ larger and doctors’ quite large and of a different shape. Clemson does not award hoods to bachelors. The width of the velvet trim also conveys the degree. Secondly, the degree is indicated by the color of the trim edging the hood to form the throat over the gown. The most frequently seen is dark blue, which designates the Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) degree. Finally, the color of the hood’s lining specifies the awarding institution. The colors are displayed in combinations that are drawn from heraldry. Notice that the Clemson University hood is lined with purple through which is an orange chevron (a "V"). Although many combinations are duplicated by dozens of institutions, Clemson is presently the only institution with that registered combination.

The officers, trustees and honored guests wear academic, ecclesiastical or military regalia as set forth by their professions. The president of Clemson University wears a purple gown with four velvety bars piped in gold and the university seal embroidered on the panels. Each trustee wears a similar gown with three velvety bars piped in gold for doctorates and an embroidered palmetto tree on each sleeve for those who do not hold doctorates. Hoods are either from Clemson or from the awarding school. They are preceded by the university marshal. Clad in a gown of office in gold and purple, the marshal wears no hood and bears the university mace. At the ceremony’s close, the faculty do not exit as a part of the recessional but are dismissed, along with students and guests, when the marshal leaves the coliseum.

Calhoun Honors College: The graduates so designated in the printed graduation program have completed an enriched program of study through the Calhoun Honors College. To earn this distinction, students must maintain an overall grade-point ratio of 3.40 or higher and complete the requirements of General Honors and/or Departmental Honors. Students who have earned Departmental Honors appear in the line of march wearing the Calhoun Honors College Medallion on an orange and purple ribbon. This medallion is made possible by an endowment established by Mrs. Katherine Inabinet Vickery of Columbia, South Carolina, to honor the memory of her husband and Clemson graduate, the late B C Inabinet.

Students wearing the white stoles over their gowns are graduating with a 3.00 or better grade-point average. Those who are members of university recognized honorary societies may have the names of those societies embroidered on one side of the stole with the university seal embroidered on the other side.

THE UNIVERSITY REGALIA

The university mace is the symbolic representation of the whole of Clemson University and must be present at any convocation where the University, through its delegated members, is acting officially. At any official convocation such as commencement, the university marshal, carrying the mace, precedes the president into the assembly. The mace rests before the president's chair or speaker's stand throughout the ceremony, and its removal from the assembly at the close of a convocation is symbolic of the official withdrawal of the University and, thus, the close of the proceedings.

The decorative design of Clemson's mace is derived from the ceremonial maces carried by heads of the state and church in the Middle Ages. Its basic club-like shape, however, is much more ancient, probably going back to man's prehistory. It is made of walnut wood and silver, with Clemson's seal in gold and the university colors represented by insets of carnelian (orange) and amethyst (purple). Amethyst is also the state stone of South Carolina.

The presidential chain and seal is symbolic of the authority vested in the office of president by the governing body of the University. Only the university president may wear it, and while wearing it, he speaks for the whole body of the institution. Clemson's chain and seal are made of silver and gold, and cornelian and amethyst.

The batons of the college marshals also descend from medieval "staffs of office," which were carried by the senior members of departments of state or church. They display the university seal and the symbolic color of the discipline to which the college belongs. Clemson's batons are made of walnut wood and silver with the various disciplines inset with enamel.

The Clemson University regalia were designed and executed by Mr. Robert Ebendorf. Mr. Ebendorf is twice winner of the Tiffany Award and one of the most acclaimed goldsmiths of our era. The enamel plaques for the batons were executed by the late Professor Marshall C Bell, and the lapidary work was executed by the late Mr. C C Wilson of Clemson University.

HISTORICAL STATEMENT

Clemson University is named for Thomas Green Clemson (1807-1888), who left the bulk of his estate to the state of South Carolina for the founding of the institution.

Thomas Clemson was born in Philadelphia in 1807 and educated at the Royal School of Mines in Paris (1828-1832). His early profession was that of a mining engineer; however, circumstances diverted his interests into politics and the life of a southern planter, and he soon became an enthusiastic advocate of scientific agriculture. He had a career as a diplomat (chargé d'affaires to Belgium, 1844-1852) and served as the first superintendent of agricultural affairs in Washington (1860). As a scientist he published numerous articles in the fields of mining, chemistry and agriculture. His varied activities included his assistance in the founding of the Maryland Agricultural College, his support of the Morrill Act, his leadership in South Carolina after the Civil War, and his part in founding Clemson University.

Thomas Clemson was the son-in-law of John C Calhoun, a South Carolina political figure of national importance during the first half of the nineteenth century. Mr. Calhoun's home, Fort Hill, is preserved on the Clemson campus as a national shrine.

The academic program at Clemson College began in 1893 with an enrollment of 446. The first "college prospectus" announced only two four-year curricula, supplemented by two two-year preparatory courses. Today the University has six major academic units. These are the College of Agriculture, Forestry and Life Sciences; the College of Architecture, Arts and Humanities; the College of Business and Behavioral Science; the College of Engineering and Science; the College of Health, Education and Human Development; and the Graduate School.

Clemson University is accredited by the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools to award the bachelor's, master's, education specialist, and doctoral degrees. Clemson Alma Mater

Farmer and McGarity/arr. Freeman

Where the Blue Ridge yawns its greatness,
   Where the Tigers play;

Here the sons of dear old Clemson
   Reign supreme alway.

Chorus

Dear old Clemson, we will triumph
   And with all our might,

That the Tiger's roar may echo
   O'er the mountain height.

We will dream of greater conquests,
   For our past is grand,

And her sons have fought and conquered
   Every foreign land.

Where the mountains smile in grandeur
   O'er the hill and dale.

Here the Tiger lair is nestling
   Swept by storm and gale.

We are brothers strong in manhood,
   For we work and strive;

And our alma mater reigneth
   Ever in our lives.
