Action Items

New Program – Doctorate in Education – Provost Jones presented information regarding the proposed new program. It is designed to provide certified K-12 practitioners with the opportunity to pursue an applied doctoral degree. The proposed Ed. D. will add 42 credit hours (24 core curriculum courses and a minimum of 18 dissertation hours, which includes a summer on-campus residency program) above the Ed. S. requirements. The Ed. D. focuses on the practice of education, with an emphasis on addressing issues as well as seeking improvements in the field of education. Courses will be delivered in a hybrid model, with a mix of online courses, on-campus, and off-campus courses. This program is supported by a consortium with the Citadel, Coastal Carolina University, and Winthrop University. The use of this consortium will increase opportunities for graduates of these comprehensive universities to further their education while enabling them to continue to remain in classrooms and district leadership offices in South Carolina.

New Program – PhD and MS in Resilient Infrastructure and Environmental Systems Engineering and Science – Provost Jones presented information regarding the proposed new program. It will train students to use data science in conjunction with advanced modeling and simulation techniques to identify and mitigate the vulnerabilities of complex, critical, and interdependent infrastructure systems. The programs will be administered by the Graduate School and will leverage faculty expertise across the entire university, encourage increased interdisciplinary collaboration and research, and enhance Clemson’s opportunities to establish strategic partnerships with both industry and U.S. national laboratories. The startup cost for these degrees is underwritten by a $3 million National Science Foundation Research Traineeship (NRT) award, one of the most prestigious federal awards available.
Program Modification – Master of Education in Literacy from hybrid to online format – Provost Jones presented information regarding this program modification. Most students in this program are full-time working professionals for whom hybrid education can be difficult to manage. This is evidenced by a downward trend in enrollment over the last few years. Modification to an online format will increase enrollment and revenue by making the program more convenient and increasing its geographic reach. Graduates of this program receive an increase in K-12 teacher pay with this master’s degree.

Program Termination – Baccalaureate Certificate Program American Sign Language – Health Care Practitioners – Provost Jones presented information regarding this program termination. Shifts in advanced streaming technology and federal requirements (Americans with Disabilities Act) have reduced the need for health care providers to provide qualified ASL-interpreters. There are currently no students enrolled in this program.

Trustee Wilkerson moved to approve the requests. The motion was approved unanimously.

Information Item

Faculty Representative to the Board of Trustees Report – Thompson Mefford provided an update.

Finance and Facilities Committee Report – Bill Smith

Trustee Smith reviewed information items heard by the Committee.

Action Item

Duke Energy Resolution – Trustee Smith presented the resolution for approval:

   Whereas the Duke Energy Combined Heat and Power Project is vital for the energy needs of Clemson University and the surrounding community;

   Whereas the facility is an important next step in the university’s plan to reduce lower greenhouse gas emissions, and is consistent with the university’s ongoing efforts to become carbon neutral by 2030;

   Whereas the initial site we selected for leasing to Duke Energy, while being optimal for the University, caused concerns for our neighbors in the area as it was immediately adjacent to and partially visible from their homes; and

   Whereas while other locations are less optimal for the University, it is important that we consider those location concerns of our neighbors.
Therefore, it is the sense of the Board that the University Administration should review the site selection for the Duke Energy Combined Heat and Power facility and select a new site on University property that is on the West side of Highway 76 and that the selection of a new site occur expeditiously so that the project completion date is not delayed.

Trustee Smith moved to approve the resolution. The motion was approved unanimously.
