1-16-1949

Benjamin Franklin Day

Strom Thurmond

Follow this and additional works at: https://tigerprints.clemson.edu/strom

Materials in this collection may be protected by copyright law (Title 17, U.S. code). Use of these materials beyond the exceptions provided for in the Fair Use and Educational Use clauses of the U.S. Copyright Law may violate federal law.

For additional rights information, please contact Kirstin O'Keefe (kokeefe [at] clemson [dot] edu)

For additional information about the collections, please contact the Special Collections and Archives by phone at 864.656.3031 or via email at cuscl [at] clemson [dot] edu

Recommended Citation
Thurmond, Strom, "Benjamin Franklin Day" (1949). Strom Thurmond Collection, Mss100. 743.
https://tigerprints.clemson.edu/strom/743

For additional information about the collection, please contact the Special Collections and Archives by phone at 864.656.3031 or via email at cuscl [at] clemson [dot] edu

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Manuscript Collections at TigerPrints. It has been accepted for inclusion in Strom Thurmond Collection, Mss100 by an authorized administrator of TigerPrints. For more information, please contact kokeefe@clemson.edu.
WHEREAS, the life of Benjamin Franklin, journalist, scientist, statesman and diplomat, exemplifies in full measure the American Way of Life; and
WHEREAS, no one of his generation did more towards conferring upon the American Colonies the priceless ingredients of independence and a popular government; and
WHEREAS, though probably the most inventive genius of his age, and thus indirectly the founder of many fortunes, he never asked a patent for any of his inventions or discoveries; and
WHEREAS, the most impressive characteristic of his life was his constant study and singleness of purpose to promote the welfare of human society;
NOW, THEREFORE, I, J. Strom Thurmond, Governor of the State of South Carolina, do hereby proclaim January 17, 1949, as Benjamin Franklin Day in fitting tribute to his memory and urge all citizens to review his accomplishments in relationship to the beneficial effect his genius had upon the progress of the world.

Given under my hand and seal this 16th day of January, in the year of our Lord, nineteen hundred and forty nine.

J. Strom Thurmond, Governor