STATEMENT BY J. STROM THURMOND, GOVERNOR OF SOUTH CAROLINA, ANNOUNCING HIS PLANS AFTER EXPIRATION OF HIS TERM. DECEMBER 18, 1950.

In response to inquiries about his plans after expiration of his term, Governor Thurmond said today:

"Like so many other Americans, my future depends on developments in the present international crisis. I am an active member of the reserve corps of the Army and subject to call at any time. I am ready to serve in any capacity in which I can be used during this emergency. In the meantime, Mrs. Thurmond and I expect to return to Edgefield when my term expires and spend a few weeks with my mother and other members of my family, after which it is my plan to resume the practice of law and establish an office at Aiken."
