

My fellow South Carolinians:

It is my pleasure this week to have as my guests two of South Carolina's finest young men, Jimmy Leventis and Tom Caskey, both of Columbia. They are here in Washington this week representing South Carolina as delegates to the American Legion's Annual session of Boys Nation. As outstanding leaders at South Carolina's Boys State, these young men were selected to represent our state at Boys Nation, which is set up to operate as a Senate or law-making body. Also in the studio with us today is the Honorable John May of Aiken, who is accompanying Jimmy and Tom on their trip. John is the newly-elected commander of the South Carolina Department of the American Legion.

What do you think of our delegates to Boys Nation, John?

Jimmy, how about telling our listeners just what our delegates to Boys Nation have been doing this past week? As public servants, you know, you must answer to the people for your actions.

Do you have anything to add, Tom?

Tom, how does it feel to be a Senator from South Carolina?

How about you, Jimmy?

In closing, I would like to thank you gentlemen for appearing with me today on my weekly report to the people of S.C. I know you young men have enjoyed serving as S. C.'s delegates to Boys Nation. It is certainly a great honor to serve the people of S.C. in any capacity.
