Problem of Supplying Bugler Discussed

By FRANK PERNA

The problem of bugling has always been a problem in the military. It has always been a matter of concern in the military, where it is used as a signal for various activities, including warning soldiers of danger or calling them to attention. The problem of bugling has been discussed in various military manuals and books on military history, and there have been many attempts to solve it.

The problem of bugling is that it is difficult to recruit and train qualified buglers. Buglers need to have a strong voice and good physical condition, as well as a good understanding of the bugle's music and the military's use of it. The problem of bugling is also that it is difficult to maintain a sufficient number of qualified buglers over time.

The problem of bugling is also that it is difficult to find qualified buglers who are willing to serve in the military. Bugling is not a glamorous or well-paid job, and it is often difficult for military recruits to see the value of learning to bugle.

Family Relations Expert Looks To Caring For His Own Family

By Prof. Freeman, director of the Family Economics Department, University of Arizona, who made several trips of inspection of Clemson a few weeks ago, the fact that in most of the cases where the family relations are good, there is a group corporation, whether it be of the graduate or the local society sort, is definitely established. The present trip shows that the efforts of the family relations are working to the best advantage of the corporation. LaCrosse Sticks Arrive; Game May Develop Into Major Sport

The arrival of LaCrosse Sticks at Clemson last week has made possible the beginning of a new sport on the campus. LaCrosse is a cross between Field Hockey and Lacrosse and is considered by many as the best game on the field outside of football.

LaCrosse has a limited list of rules and, as a result, is not as time consuming as other games. It is played on a regulation football field and with a field hockey ball. The game is played with a lacrosse stick.

Moore, Navy Lacrosse Coach, advises in the field house. As a result of his efforts, LaCrosse has become popular on the campus.

Moore said that LaCrosse has been gaining a firm foothold. At first it was difficult to get it started but the game is catching on.

Moore stated that LaCrosse is easy to learn and is enjoyed by most players. It is a game that can be played by both men and women.

The LaCrosse team is made up of a nucleus of players who were on the hockey team last year. These players were the ones who introduced LaCrosse to the team.

The team is still in the beginning stages of its development but is expected to become a major sport in the near future.

When the Library search failed

...the telephone succeeded!

FIVE sophomores at a New England university had been assigned to report on the residential districts of a southern city, its principal products and the location of its plantations. Hour after hour they thumbed through book after book in the Library—so to no avail. Then one afternoon they had a happy idea—they only telephone the boy's Mayday. They did—and in a few minutes had all the information they needed.

No matter what the question—in sales, in business—you'll find the telephone is often the quickest, most economical way to get the answer.
