In observance of National Radio Week, May 5 to 11, I am happy to extend greetings to WSPA, the oldest radio station in the State, and to all the other fine radio stations of South Carolina.

The 3500 stations of the nation render a fine service to the people, providing religious programs, news, education, music, sports and entertainment. In times of disaster, radio provides a wonderful means of communication in the stricken areas.

My congratulations to WSPA and to the others who are rendering such fine public service.

This is Strom Thurmond in Washington.
