

(83-16)

STATEMENT BY SENATOR STROM THURMOND (D-SC) FOR ROY HUFFINE, AMERICAN AIR LINES, LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA, AT REQUEST OF SENATOR BARRY GOLDWATER (R-ARIZ) FEBRUARY 24, 1959.

HUMAN RELATIONS

There is no value in life more important than a knowledge of human relations. Christ gave us the Golden Rule to use in human relations, but without an insight into the minds of our fellow humans, it is sometimes impossible to "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." To know people and how they think and feel is to find the smooth flight through life. Man may be in God's image and the most noble creation of God, but Man is also the most complex of God's creations. A pursuit of learning all one can about the human species is both admirable and desirable. Most of us are engaged in this to some degree, if in an unconscious way, and it would be well if a more conscious effort were made by all of us in the field of human relations.

-END-