FRANK HOWARD, Head Coach, Clemson

THE BOSS!

Eighteen years ago, Frank Howard stepped from a first string guard position on Alabama's Rose Bowl team into the line coach position with the Clemson College Tigers and 9 years later (1940), he moved up to the top coaching spot at Tigertown.

A sound fundamentalist, in his four years as a player under Coach Wallace Wade and nine years as an assistant coach under Jess Neely, Howard carefully examined football's latest offensive innovation, the T-formation, and decided to stick by the single wing attack — with Howard modifications.

Born at Barlow Bend, Alabama, on March 25, 1909, Howard's eight-year record as head coach at Clemson has netted him 36 games won, 34 games lost, and tied 3. The teams have scored 1339 points, and have given up to their opponents 1052. These figures were effective at the beginning of the 1948 season.

IPTAY — the life-blood of Clemson Athletics

Prior to IPTAY (I Pay Ten A Year), piece-meal contributions from alumni and alumni groups toward the support of Tiger athletics was a haphazard affair at best. In 1932, IPTAY was born and has grown from 161 members in 1933 to approximately 2600 this year.

On January 1, 1947, Walter Tilley, Jr., class of 1930, joined the athletic staff as Assistant Athletic Director, to handle IPTAY and the business matters for the Athletic Association. In a program of reorganization, IPTAY has shown a steady, increasing growth, until today the Tigers can offer a large number of scholarships to worthy athletes. For in IPTAY lies the financial support toward the goal of having outstanding players.

There’s More Than Money - -
By RED CANUP, Sports Editor, Anderson Independent

What is the easiest kind of football game to cover?
A scoreless tie, I thought, until Clemson and P. C. played their 0-0 game in 1931.
The story read: “P. C. held Clemson to a scoreless tie . . . .” It was my first college football game and I allowed as how no mistakes could be made since neither side hit the touchdown jackpot.

But a P. C. alumnus challenged the story, claiming that “Clemson held P. C.”

And that has been the spirit of P. C. men throughout this series which has become a traditional lid-lifter of collegiate football in South Carolina.

In the 29 games these two colleges have played since 1916, P. C. has won only three and has managed to break even in four others. Clemson won the other 22, some by the skin of the Tigers’ teeth and some by several touchdowns.

As far back as last winter, while snow was on the ground, the P. C. football players were speaking openly of beating Clemson today. That’s because the Clinton Calvinists have better than average team this season. Only thing, Clemson is a bit stouter than in recent years, too. At least, that’s what the picture is on paper, and that’s why so many thousands of fans are here tonight — to see for themselves.

This game serves as a measuring stick for both elevens. If P. C. manages to make a strong showing against the Tigers, then Presbyterian followers turn their attentions to the Little Four championship. And if the Tigers roll to a large score in this one it gets Clemson Cadets, grads and Iptays, dreaming of greater things to come.

Inasmuch as this has been a one-sided series in Clemson’s favor, a number of questions have been asked by alumni of both schools.

Why does P. C. play Clemson every year when it seldom has a chance of winning?
Why does Clemson continue to schedule a team which is not in its football league?
Would not the Presbyterians be better off playing in their own class and not have this licking hanging over their heads almost every year?

These and other questions were put to Athletic Director Walter Johnson of P. C. and Head Coach and Athletic Director Frank Howard of Clemson for publication in this program so that the cash customers may know the facts.

Coach Johnson explained that “We are not playing Clemson for the gate, but because of the friendly relations between the two colleges, and this game has always been a good one.”

He continued: “In 1915 P. C. played the Clemson freshman team and won 14-7. In 1916 we got on the Clemson varsity schedule. Since then it has been a very interesting series of games. There have been two years — 1928 and 1929 — that we have not played the Clemson varsity. Other than those there have been no breaks in the series.”

About playing a team more in their class, Coach Johnson explained that “P. C. could open with a smaller school and a team we could beat, but we love to play Clemson for the sportsmanship of the game and they are always a hard team to beat. Also, we admire Clemson as one of the outstanding colleges of the South.”

As for Coach Howard, Clemson was playing P. C. when he came here, and the relations have been so pleasant that he continues to book the Blue Stockings. This is Frank’s 18th year at Clemson and he points out that “This year will be the 18th time that a football team with which I was connected has competed against P. C.”

The Clemson mentor gave the real reason for the continuation of this series when he said “In all of these games, I do not recall a single unsportsmanlike incident on the part of players of either team. The P. C. players always play to win, but play the game by the rules of football. This is the way it should be done, but unfortunately I can’t say the same thing for every team we play against.”

The official watch for timing this game is LONGINES — the world’s most honored watch.

Football is the oldest of modern sports, with records showing that the ancient Greeks used a "kicked ball" in their game of "harpaston." It became so popular in medieval England that Edward II forbade it on the grounds that it "caused too much noise and excitement."

The first "football suits" were worn by Navy in 1879, according to Walter Camp, famous football authority. They were sleeveless jackets of canvas laced in front and drawn tight to fit the body. Such suits offered little handhold for tackling, and it is recorded that one team actually greased their suits to foil tacklers. The suits proved so slippery that the opposing team protested, and "greased suits" were banned.

The most famous intercollegiate football "jinx" was the one which plagued Rutgers each time they played Princeton. Rutgers won the first game, in 1869, but had to wait for sixty-nine years, until 1938, to win again! The victory was timely, as Rutgers was dedicating its new stadium. The team came through with a 20 to 18 win.

The longest run in football was made by Wyllis Terry of Yale in 1884: 115 yards! The field at that time was 110 yards long, and Terry was five yards behind his own goal when he received the ball. Since, runs of over 100 yards have been reported, but none equals Terry's sprint.

The longest forward pass ever thrown in a Rose Bowl game won for 'Bama over Washington in 1926. Writers have argued whether it was 65 yards, 59 yards or 50 yards. Can you name the man who caught it, now a movie star?

Do you know...

Everybody knows...

Football Has Its Humor, Too
By JAMES BANBURY, Sports Publicity Director, Presbyterian College

From backstage, behind-the-scenes, comes the most amusing incidents of all that the audience never sees.

The same goes for football, and the Presbyterian college Blue Stockings are no exception.

Coach Lonnie McMillian of the Hose is usually a silent man who diagnoses his team in between chews on a well-worn cigar, but he can lighten up a day's work with unexpected bursts of humor that endear him to the team.

Coach Mac was discussing "strategy" before one of the openers, and casually remarked, "The heck of it is, men, we can get set for a five-man line on defense, but it won't do much good. It always seems that five of their men are as big as seven of ours."

Then too, there was the incident that passed last season when the Stockings were milling in a particularly tough game, and a starting guard came out of the battle visibly worn. A minute later the line coach spotted some weakness in the Hose line and hollered, "Where's Blank", (the man who had just come off the field). The player huddled under a towel he had on his head, and hollered down the bench, "He's in there, coach; he's in there."

During the war when Presbyterian turned out a team that could find few opponents in their class to play, it is rumored that the following incident took place. The score for the Clemson Tigers had long passed all respectability, and the Stockings were worn from watching Clemson backs rush over the goal line, while their own offense couldn't gain a yard.

It was Presbyterian's ball, and the left half grimly set sail around his right end. Somehow, in running, the ball slipped, and the loose ball bounded out in front, near the Blue Hose fullback.

"Pick up the ball", screamed the halfback.

The fullback glanced at the onrushing herd, and came up with this stopper. "Pick it up yourself, I didn't drop it!"

One of the best of stories comes from a recent meeting of these two teams, in the steaming heat of the afternoon. The games have been traditionally hot, and this game was one of the hottest.

A Clemson tackle, whom Coach Howard probably would have run off had he known, and a Presbyterian tackle, had gotten in cahoots and began using the "buddy" system near the end of the game.

Teammates reported later that the two would feebly bump into each other, and crash to the ground. They would be lying on the turf, and the Clemson man would squint into the sun and say to his friendly enemy, "It sho' is hot, ain't it?"

The aerial view above is of Excelsior Mills at Clemson — and within four miles of here, is the newest and latest plant, the Gerrish Milliken Mill. These mills represent only a small part of more than fifty million dollars which has been invested in new machinery during the last seven years by mills associated with Deering, Milliken & Co., Inc.

We take this opportunity to express our appreciation to the Clemson graduates who have played such an important part in making the operation of this equipment successful.
