CLEMSON COLLEGE, S. C., FEBRUARY 1, 1908.

NO. 7

PROSPECTIVE BASEBALL

A GLIMPSE AT THE BASEBALL SEASON OUTLINED.

With the coming of the balmy spring days, Clemson enters upon a baseball season which every indication points out as a successful one.

With many of her old men back, who last year and in preceding years, proved their baseball ability, and with many new men and scrubs whose intention it is to do their best work in the hearty endeavor to "make team," Coach Shaughnessy, our last year football coach, will have very little trouble in hammering a bunch of nine men into shape to make a very creditable showing. It is true that we have a very hard and long schedule, but it is also true that we have men who can play ball and who can stand the strain. Coach Shaughnessy will arrive here about the first of February, and will get his men ready for the preliminaries, and also he will get the field changed from a gridiron into a diamond. Our coach, as we all know, will exert every ounce of energy in his work to produce a machine for Clemson that will be a credit to the college.

Last year, the team elected the fleet-footed "Tommy" Robertson as their captain, but owing to the four year rule, he is now disqualified.

This is a loss to the team, for "Tom" was always there with the goods. He was notified of this, last summer and was allowed to play professional ball.

We have, in his stead, "Bunny" Lee, the crack second baseman, as our captain. Bunny will undoubtedly make a fine captain, as he has the head, the experience, and the

BARRACKS NUMBER 3 COMPLETED

A HANDSOME MODERN BUILDING.

On April 9, 1906, the Trustees considered the advisability of erecting another barracks and appropriated $30,000 for that purpose.

Preliminary plans were submitted by Professors Lee and Riggs to the Executive Committee at its meeting in the fall. The plans were approved, the architects were directed to make an alternate design for the front, and upon completion of the drawings to advertise for bids. The bids were opened in December, the original plans were accepted with the substitution of cement for granite steps to the portico, and the contract was awarded to the Mallard Lumber and Construction Co., of Greenville, S. C., for $36,170.60, the Board increasing the appropriation to $42,000, the building to be completed by Aug. 15, 1907.

Barracks No. 3 is an ornamental four story brick and cement stone building of modern colonial style, approximately 45 by 190 feet and contains 108 living rooms. It is constructed of brick principally, all face brick being selected of a uniform dark red color, laid in dark red mortar with narrow cut joints.

The lower story is faced with granite-faced cement blocks laid in cement mortar and capped with a neat water table. The door and window lintels and window sills are of reinforced concrete faced to match the blocks. The quoins are also of cement with beveled corners. The roof is hipped, of low pitch and painted red. The cornice, architrave and down spouts are of galvanized iron, painted

FRANK SCOTT SHIVER.

Frank Scott Shiver passed away "in the hope of a blessed immortality," December 30, 1907, at 11:30 a. m., at John Hopkin's Hospital, Baltimore, Md.

For nearly two years he had bravely, patiently and silently struggled against the encroachments of a fatal malady. Eight years ago failing health forced him to spend four or five months in a northern hospital under treatment. While he never recovered his health, his condition was sufficiently improved to enable him to take up his work again, and, as will be seen in the list of bulletins written by him, to accomplish a very considerable amount of good work.

Frank Scott Shiver was born March 28, 1871, in Columbia S. C. He was an extremely delicate child, and very grave fears were entertained of his ever reaching maturity. He was left fatherless at the tender age of three years, and was deprived of a mother's loving care and counsel at the age of sixteen years. The early death of his parents possibly accentuated his natural reserve. Certain it is that Mr. Shiver was of a singularly quiet and reserved disposition and manner. Even his own wife was not aware of the constant suffering he was, for years, thus, unselfishly, daily enduring. He was prepared for college by Miss Ellen Janney of Columbia, who still maintains a private school there. He entered the South Carolina College in September 1886, and graduated in June, 1889, with the degree of Graduate of Pharmacy (Ph. G.). From 1889 to 1890 he was a post-graduate student at the same institution, in the Department of Agri-

We are glad to note that only a small number of our classmates failed to return after the first term's work. Among the ones who did not return are; W. W. Newman, of Chesterfield, and J. Wylie of Chester. Mr. Wylie will return this fall and take up work with the Junior class, as he completed the last two terms of Soph. last year.

W. H. Phillips has resumed his work with the class. It will be remembered that Mr. Phillips was called home shortly before Christmas on account of the death of his father. Our class extends its deepest sympathy to Mr. Phillip, Mr. Albergotti and Mr. Barnett. Mr. Phillips and Mr. Albergotti both lost their fathers last term, and Mr. Barnett lost his mother. We feel proud of the determination these young men have in getting an education, as all of them are back at college doing successful work.

The Sophomore Tennis Club was organized a short while before Christmas with the following members: Higgins, V. B., Pres.; Crum, W. C., Vice Pres.; Thornhill, E. J. Sec. and Treas.; Marian, T. L., Smart, A. R., Harvin, W. S., Jenkins, J. E., Walker, W. S., Friday, W. A., Sondley, C. M., Garner, G. D., Poe, B. F., Hill J. L., Wyndham, L. T., Reaves, H. L., Jeter, F. H., Beaty, D. C., Keith, J. B., Marshall, W. J., Crawford, B. L., Roddey, M. M., Walters, O. L., Summers, L. W., Sittou, E. N., Bowen, R. E., La Roche, L. L., Miller, S. L., McCord, O. P., Sumner, E. L.

We have quite a number of fast and heavy men out for class football, and Prof. Lewis is giving them excellent coaching. With this aggregation, there is no reason why we shouldn't successfully contend against the best of the other class teams. Boys, when our games come off, let's all be there to help the team; if we can't help them with our feet and hands, we can help them with our voices.

Senior Class

Although the primary object of class foot-ball is to develop material for the next year's Varsity, the Seniors feel that, having won the class championship for two years, it would be unsportsmanlike not to give the under-class men an opportunity of winning from them, so they have put out a team, and one which expects to win the championship again.

At a recent meeting of the class Mr. F. P. Caughman was elected Business Manager of THE TIGER. At the same time Mr. E. P. Crouch was elected to fill a vacancy in the Literary department of the Annual staff.

Mr. L. E. May was elected Class Historian.

The second formal dance of the year was given by the Senior Dancing Club in the gymnasium, Friday evening, January 17th. Every one reports a most enjoyable time.

Messrs. W. J. Ewing and F. W. Smith failed to return to college after the holidays.

Messrs. Caughman and Richardson held a house party all last week—serving confinements.

A very strange and peculiar condition in barracks now is the scarcity of mice and rats. Before Christmas they were very numerous, but for the past few days none are to be found. It might be appropriate to mention that the Senior's have received their pictures, which were taken for the ANNUAL.

Messrs. D. L. Tindal, F. L. Martin, B. H. Covington, G. Warren, F. J. Crider and S. J. Ezell will participate in the celebration exercises of The Columbia Literary Society, which will be held in the Memorial Hall, February 1st.

At a recent class meeting, Miss Alice Stribling, of Pendleton, was elected Sponsor of the Senior Class.

The first of the series of football games between the classes came off on Bowman Field on the 18th, between the Preps. and the Freshmen, and resulted in a tie. Our team outplayed their heavier opponents in the first half and in the first part of the second, but in the latter part of the second the Preps. did us almost as they pleased. Our staying powers seemed to have left us entirely. In the first half, by steady line plunges, we succeeded in carrying the ball down the field, and when the whistle blew for the end of the first half, the ball was in the possession of the Freshmen on the Preps' fifteen yard line. The Preps seemed to hold together in the second half, while the Freshmen went to pieces. This can be partly accounted for in the loss of one of our best men, right tackle Harris, who got his knee sprained, and had to be taken out of the game. The Preps, by hard line plunges, got the ball on our fifteen yard line and gradually kept getting closer and closer to our goal line until when the whistle blew for the end of the game, they had succeeded in getting the ball on our five yard line.

Coaches Coles and McFadden are doing all in their power to make the Freshmen winners this year and if we do not win the championship it will not be their fault.

Lokey, Connelly, Gilmer and Harris played decidedly the best ball for the Freshmen. Harris' line plunges were something marvelous, and had he not been injured, there would probably have been another side the story.

Mr. C. E. Stokes visited Greenville on business last week.

Mr. H. O. Kaigler spent two or three days of last week in Seneca.

Junior Class

The fact that all the Juniors, with the exception of one or two, returned to college after the holidays signifies that last term examinations were not so cruel as to make anyone lose hopes of being a happy Senior after another five months' hard work. Five months seems quite a long time to be waiting for such "big things", however, as there are numerous things to be done in this time, it is certain that time should not weigh very heavily on anyone. The most prominent thing, of course, is to "get set and to go low and hard" until final examinations are overcome and the goal is won.

The most immediate and most important thing in the minds of the Juniors, at present, is to come out champions in the series of class foot-ball games which have already begun. This is an honor that the class has never had the opportunity of enjoying; and from the way that the boys are turning out and working on the field, it is an honor over which they are getting very restless. That spirit, of course, will be what will count when the clash comes. Prof. J. W. Gantt and Mr. J. N. McLaurin have charge of the training of the team, and T. B. Reeves the management.

The Junior Electrical Science Club has scheduled a series of lectures to be given by the men of science from the faculty. These lectures will no doubt be very interesting and helpful to the members of the club. The other members of the class who may be interested in the subjects discussed are cordially invited to attend these lectures.

The class is very sorry to lose Messrs. R. T. Gaston and J. L. Boyd, both of whom have been honorably discharged since the holidays. These men were both hard workers, and were thought well of throughout the class. Mr. Gaston will long be remembered at Clemson as one of the best foot-ball players the college has ever turned out, having played on the team three years, and having been picked as All Southern tackle two years out of the three.

Mr. J. C. Pridemore has just returned from a short visit to his home.

Peg Shuler: "If a man sprains his ankle it is PSYCHOLOGICALLY affected."

SOCIETIES

The Columbian

Refreshed and invigorated by a pleasant Christmas vacation, the members of the Columbian have taken up the work of another term with renewed energy. This was very plainly manifested in the meeting of Friday evening. Every man on duty showed that he had given his subject careful study, which added greatly to the spirit of the occasion. O. A. Hydrick and S. O. Kelley delivered unusually good declamations, while N. E. Byrd did himself credit in a splendidly delivered oration.

The debate was made very interesting by a lively discussion as to whether or not the United States should establish a parcel post system. Both sides of the question were ably discussed, but the judges decided that the negative had the better of the argument.

The thirteenth anniversary celebration of the Columbian will be held in the Memorial Hall on the evening of the 1st of February at 8 o'clock. Those who are to represent the Society in this contest are as follows: Declaimers—D. L. Tindal and B. H. Covington; orators—F. J. Crider and G. Warren; debaters—F. L. Martin and S. J. Ezell.

The whole student body, members of the faculty, and all the people on the "Hill" are cordially invited to be present.

The Palmetto

On last Friday night, in the Palmetto Hall, was held the declaimers' preliminary for the purpose of selecting two declaimers to speak in the contest at the annual celebration of the Palmetto Literary Society. Six men entered the contest. As the exercises progressed, the interest of the audience waxed warmer, and the result was by no means certain. The subjects were well chosen, and each man seemed to have a thorough knowledge of the manner in which his speech should be presented to make it effective. A vote was finally taken and the result was that Messrs. W. H. Morgan and H. W. Cromer were winners.

The program for the night was as follows:

W. H. Morgan—"Webster's Reply to Haines."

H. W. Cromer—"The Plain Man in Plain Clothes."

D. C. Beaty—"Regulus before the Carthaginian Senate."

W. A. Friday—"Valley Forge."

T. Hamilton—"Emmett's Vindication."

H. C. Twiggs—"The Centennial Oration."

The Calhoun

Owing to the state of unquietness, there has not been much Society work done yet. All the old members have returned and are ready to take up the work where it was left off.

At our last meeting, the regular exercises were very creditable. The essayist was absent, but the other men performed their duties well.

The contestants for the medals given annually by the Society were elected. These contests always prove of great benefit to the men. By going into them, each man has a chance to speak publicly, and thus cause him to be more at ease afterwards. Mr. W. H. Maynard, of Greenwood, and Mr. Geo. Keitt, of Clemson, were elected as debaters. Mr. T. C. Heyward, of Beaufort, and Mr. J. C. Littlejohn, of Union, were elected orators. The declaimers will be chosen later from several volunteers.

Lyceum Grand Concert Co. Excellent Entertainment.

On the evening of January the fourth, the Grand Lyceum Company appeared at Clemson. The Company consisted of one violinist, one pianist, one baritone and a contralto, all of whom were at the top as to their mastery of their respective parts. The first number, a baritone and contralto duet, with piano and violin accompaniment, was rendered in excellent style and with a force that held the large audience spellbound. This was followed immediately by "Earl King" a very pathetic song, sung in three voices by the sweet contralto, while the piano accompaniment produced the fourth sound, that of a galloping horse. This is one of the best vocal treats that has ever been heard at Clemson. The effect of "Earl King" upon the audience was such that the beautiful singer was encored back to the stage twice, each time showing more and more of her real worth by her excellent expression, splendid voice and control. The third number of the program was a violin and piano duet in which both players proved themselves to be among the best in American. After a hearty applause and a short but good encore, the audience was spellbound by the strong, clear, and musical voice of the baritone, who sang a solo accompanied by the piano. This was followed by a splendid piano solo and an encore in which the pianist proved her real worth.

After five minutes intermission, "Thou" was ably rendered by the popular contralto, with violin and piano accompaniment; and as an encore, "A young Lady from Siam" was especially good. Then came a violin solo, in which fine touch was conspicuously exhibited. A baritone solo with piano accompaniment and the same in a short, snappy and pleasing encore, "Three for Jack." The performance was closed by a baritone and contralto duet with piano and violin accompaniment. This was not only well rendered, but was very appropriate as a closing song. The performance, as a whole, was really good, well attended by students and people of the campus, and very satisfactory to the Lyceum Committee. It is our hope that the Committee will arrange to have them with us again next year.

METHODIST CHURCH TO BE BUILT AT CLEMSON!

The Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South at its last session sent Rev. John H. Graves here to take charge of the interests of the Methodists at this place; the boys and those who belong to this church among the Faculty.

Since coming to the College, Mr. Graves has organized his forces and they are now preparing to build a church edifice. They propose to build a plain but neat building, Colonial in style, with an auditorium seating not fewer than four hundred. There will be a basement, which will be used for Sunday School and social meetings of the church. They recognize the fact that the church of today must not only meet the demands for emotional development; but if men and boys are to be reached, we must appeal to the domestic and social life as well. They are going to fit up a kitchen, dining-room and parlor in the basement. This institutional idea will appeal to the boy; and more, it will give to the boys who attend Clemson an opportunity of studying this method of church work, and inspire them to go out and establish such churches where their lot in life may place them. This church will mean much to the boys here. Mr. Graves will spend the larger part of this year going over the state securing funds for the church building.

SENIOR DANCE.

On Friday evening, January seventeenth, the second formal dance of the year was given by the Senior Dancing Club. While it was a formal dance, there was a delightful tone to the affair that made it most enjoyable. The music was superb, being rendered by Comstock's Orchestra, of Greenville. A PARODY.

Nothing to eat for dinner,
 Nothing to eat you say?
 Let's take a trip on memory's ship,
 Back to old Christmas day.
 There are pies, there are cakes,
 there are puddings,
 Turkey and cranberry sauce,
 With all these good things,
 And others not named,
 I'd rather be there than here.
 Home days, home days,
 Dear old days of pleasure,
 Eating, and playing, and going to sleep,
 Working but little, with plenty to eat,
 That was not like this life I live.
 Starving to death on uncooked
 food,
 When I leave the mess hall, I'm hungry, boys,
 I'm as hungry, as I was before.

UNTIRING devotion to duty, self-sacrifice and unquestionable ability characterized the life of Prof. F. S. Shiver. In his death Clemson lost a man that no institution could afford to lose. Above health and personal welfare he placed duty. For many years the victim of a distressing disease he performed his work faithfully and well, showing no outward sign of the effort that it cost him. In his class-room he was always patient and painstaking, taking a personal interest in every student who came under his supervision. Prof. Shiver, in the capacity of State Analyst, did much work of value to the people of South Carolina. Despite his ill health and arduous duties, he found time to write a number of bulletins pertaining to chemical subjects. These bulletins are considered as standard works on the subjects of which they treat.

THE TIGER

Thus, within a few weeks, two of Clemson's brainiest men, young men both of them, have passed to the Great Beyond, leaving behind them the ploughs in the unfinished furrows.

THE establishment of denominational churches here will fill a long felt want. The present chapel religious system is far from being satisfactory. Although there may be no prejudice against any particular denomination, it does not seem right for men to be forced to attend services conducted by ministers of denominations other than their own. If churches of the different Protestant denominations are established here, as seems probable now, students should be given the privilege of attending the church of their choice, and the system of common services should be abolished.

THE Christmas issue of "The Clemson College Chronicle" was a credit to any institution. We saw a number of Christmas magazines from other colleges, but in our opinion, the "Chronicle" eclipsed them all, both in general get-up and in the quality of matter.

"TAPS."

At a meeting of the Annual staff several days ago, the name "Taps" was unanimously adopted for the '08 Annual; and later, at a Senior class meeting, the class endorsed the action of the staff. This name is peculiarly appropriate as it suggests the end of college life, and is particularly applicable at a military institution. The name will be submitted to the other classes with the recommendation that it be adopted permanently for future annuals.

"Taps" for 1908 will undoubtedly be one of the best annuals ever issued at Clemson. The management and literary staff have spent a great deal of time and labor on it, and it will be safe to assert that an Annual worthy of the great institution that it represents will be the result. The editors have striven to make it a publication strictly representative of the student body and faculty, and any one who buys one will never regret the money spent.

An Excellent Entertainment.

GIVEN BY WHITNEY BROS QUARTET.

The Whitney Brothers Quartet, was one of the best attractions on this season's lyceum course on the evening of January eighteenth.

The program consisted of quartet and solo singing and comic reading. All of the vocal selections were good, the tenor solos being leading cards. The quartet showed exceptional vocal talent in the rendition of several very difficult selections. Most of the songs were musical classics, with none of the cheap ragtime common with popular priced entertainments. The selected readings were very amusing, and were read in a way that showed the reader to be an impersonator of no mean ability. The audience was very appreciative, and gave excellent attention throughout the entertainment.

gave several interesting, instructive and well-attended lectures during the college week of prayer.

Rev. Andrews, of Sewanee University, has accepted the call as rector of the Episcopal church here. It will be remembered that this field was left open by the acceptance by Rev. Finlay of a call from Trinity church in Columbia, S. C.

Among the recent visitors of Clemson are, Misses McNeil and Bryan, of Greenville, Miss Willie Cherry, of Seneca, and Miss Alice Stribling, of Pendleton, all of whom attended the Senior dance on the evening of Friday, January 17th.

A new president(ess) has arrived in the home of Professor D. W. Daniel. This young lady, who arrived several days ago on the "Stork Express", has been constantly giving oratorical entertainments for the benefit of her gladdened parents. The story of "Mikchic" has at last got a successor.

Mr. J. H. Graves, a recent graduate of Vanderbilt University, who is now a minister of M. E. Church, is on the campus looking after the interest of his denomination here. He will soon leave us to go over the State and collect money to build a church here.

On January 10th and 11th, the Nelson Moving Picture Company gave three excellent performances here. The program consisted of moving pictures, instrumental and vocal music. The cadet band played during the intermissions. The shows were given for the benefit of the '08 ANNUAL, and a fair sum was realized.

Mr. A. Bramlett, a graduate of the South Carolina Military Academy, who held for several years the position of Commandant of Welch Neck High School has been secured by the Board of Trustees to fill the position of Assistant Professor of Mathematics. The college is to be congratulated upon securing this well known and efficient educator to hold down this very important position.

Among our recent amusements was the Grand Concert Company, who appeared at Clemson on January 4th, under the auspices of the Lyceum Committee. This show was successful in every particular, and was well attended by the students and people of the campus. On January 18th, the famous Whitney Brother Quartette gave a performance at Clemson. They come up to their flattering reputation in every detail, and several members of the audience were heard to express a desire that this quartette may be engaged for a number on next year's Lyceum course.

HARRISS-PARKINSON CO.

On Friday and Saturday evenings and Saturday afternoon, Feb. 28 and 29, the Harris-Parkinson Co., under the able management of Mr. Robt. H. Harris, will give three performances in the chapel for the benefit of the 1908 Annual.

Mr. Harris, as leading man, is too well known in the South to need any praising, having played in all the Southern cities for the past three seasons, and is pronounced by the theatre-going public at large to be one of the best actors ever seen in the South with a popular priced show. Being a native of Georgia, his charming Southern personality can be seen in many of the Southern plays he presents. He is ably assisted by a troupe, all of whom are stars; and a good show is not only assured, but is guaranteed.

Among the several attractions given here last season, his company was pronounced by all to be by far the best.

Owing to its being the first appearance and not knowing what was needed in the line of scenery, his stage settings last year were not the best, but knowing what is needed this year, he has assured the manager that he will put on an attraction that will eclipse any of his former shows.

The first performance will be one in which we are all interested, as it deals with college life at one of our large universities; and the manager has no hesitancy in saying that it will be one of the richest things ever seen at Clemson.

Y. M. C. A.

The Y. M. C. A. has been especially fortunate in securing Dr. Forrest, who holds the chair of Biblical History and Literature at the University of Virginia, to deliver a series of Bible lectures here beginning with Feb. 4. Clemson College has no Bible chair or lecture endowment such as most of the large Colleges and Universities throughout the country have, and the Y. M. C. A. has been working for the last three years to secure some good attractive speakers to deliver a series of Bible lectures. Such men have been hard to find, and when found, were unable to be secured. Dr. Forrest is considered one of the best Biblical scholars and lecturers in the country, and the privilege of hearing his series of lectures will be one that no Clemson cadet can afford to let pass by unheeded.

The Clemson College Y. M. C. A. has perhaps the best Bible study department to be found in any of the large Colleges or Universities in America, leading in percentage of enrollment and in efficient work. It has a good Mission study department, and all the other departments compare favorably with most of the College associations in the country. But there is one thing in which we are sadly lacking, and that is the spirit of missionary giving. In this particular we are behind nearly all the other institutions in the country. We gave thirty dollars to missions last year, while there are institutions in our own state with one-third the number of students we have that gave over three hundred dollars. There must be some reason why the Clemson boys do not give more to missions and we think that it is because they do not know enough about missions, have not been educated to the importance of giving, and, therefore, have not formed the habit of missionary giving. Let us wake up along this line.

On our return from the Christmas holidays, we were saddened to learn that our general secretary, Mr. Legate, had been called to his home in Arkansas during the holidays on account of the death of his mother. He has the sympathy of every Clemson cadet in his bereavement.

Rev. B. R. Turnipseed of Columbia, a Clemson alumnus of the class of '96, held a series of evangelistic services in the chapel last week under the auspices of the Y.

M. C. A., and much good was accomplished by his able and instructive sermons.

Dr. A. L. Philipps of Richmond Va., one of the most noted preachers in the Southern Presbyterian church, will speak to the Y. M. C. A. on the third Sunday in February.

brown. On the front center of the building is a large portico of colonial design, entering on the second floor by a flight of cement steps with buttresses of cement blocks.

This portico has four columns of the Roman Ionic order of architecture with a large gable above. The ceiling is of metal of simple design. Immediately over the front door and supported by two columns is a small balcony. A similar balcony is placed at the east end. The floor of the portico is of reinforced concrete, of flat spans with an arch under end. Entrance to the first floor is had under this porch.

The interior of this building follows the same general scheme as the old barracks, having a center hall with rooms on each side. Each room is 12 by 15 feet and accommodates two students. It has a double window and is ventilated by means of a register placed near the floor and connected with a flue in the brick wall. These flues empty into the attic and the vitilated air is carried out through five Dixie ventilators on the roof. This system, in conjunction with the transom and window, keeps the air in the rooms pure and fresh at all times. The architects endeavored to use such construction in the rooms as would prevent vermin from getting inside the partitions. The wooden trim around the window was dispensed with and bull nose brick were used, giving the plaster a rounded corner finishing against the window frame. A thin narrow apron and baseboard permitted of tight joints, thereby preventing a hiding place for vermin. The building is plastered throughout with Charlotte wood fibre patent plaster, the hall having Keenes cement below the chair rail. This cement and the hall woodwork is painted maroon. The room woodwork is painted gray, and it was intended to tint the walls below the picture moulding a delicate green, but this was abandoned for the present. At the intersection of the halls on the first and second floors ornamental plaster ceilings were put in with a four light chandelier in the center.

The building is heated by steam and lighted by electricity, and is to have a system of waterworks for fire protection. Steps at both ends of the halls and at the center of the fourth floor permit of quick and easy exit, especially in case of fire. A steel bridge connects this building with barracks No. 2.

Connected to the barracks by steel bridges is a three story building containing the bath and toilet rooms. It is approximately 18 by 30 feet in plan and of same general design as the barracks. Besides the usual toilet fixtures, each floor contains three shower baths with a dressing room for each. It is ventilated by flues in the walls connected by galvanized iron flues to a ventilator on the roof. The floors are of reinforced concrete and the sidelower walls plastered with Portland cement, enameled, the remainder of the walls and ceilings being of wood fibre plaster, sand finished.

Woodwork is eliminated as far as possible, the windows having the same treatment as those in the barracks. The cost of the building with fixtures is $6000, making the total cost of these buildings complete about $49,000. Barracks No. 3 is not situated so as to be seen to advantage. The Trustees' house is unfortunately located, and the beauty of the campus would be enhanced by its removal. If this should be done and the surrounding ground graded off several feet, a beautiful park would be opened up, showing off to most excellent advantage the Calhoun Mansion and Barracks No. 3. No doubt at some future date, an appropriation will be made for adding a large portico to the front of barracks No. 2, and otherwise altering this building so as to make it conform more closely to barracks No. 3 in exterior appearance.

cultural and Analytical Chemistry. When the fertilizer inspection and the state analytical work, and the chemical work of the South Carolina Agricultural Experiment Station were transferred from Columbia to Clemson College, Mr. Shiver, who had been connected with the Fertilizer Department, came to Clemson as assistant Chemist in that department July, 1891. With the advent of the first Senior class in 1896 Mr. Shiver was made Instructor in Agricultural Analysis and has since that time done the bulk of all the strictly Experiment Station work, both original and co-operative, of the Department of Chemistry, having given up entirely fertilizer inspection analysis. In 1902 he was elected Assistant Professor of Agricultural Analysis. As an analyst he was careful, painstaking and accurate; as a teacher, conscientious, faithful and efficient.

Mr. Shiver was married October 17, 1893, to Rebecca Pickens Calhoun at Clemson College. Of this union five children were born: Robert Calhoun, Henry Edwin, Frank Scott, Noble Calhoun and John Calhoun. The third son, Frank Scott, died at the age of two and a half years. Mr. Shiver leaves a widow and four sons, and a sister, Mrs. W. E. Gonzales of Columbia to mourn his loss. Among his papers was found a letter written, with the apparent realization of his fatal illness, to his two older sons, in which he urged them to live pure, upright, manly lives as he had always tried to do himself. At an early age Mr. Shiver joined the First Presbyterian Church of Columbia. He was one of the founders of Fort Hill Presbyterian Church at Clemson College, and served as Deacon from its organization in 1895 till made an Elder in 1897. He was a consistent church member, and for several years, until prevented by ill-health, an active church worker, having served some time as Superintendent of the Fort Hill Presbyterian Church Sunday School.

For the second time during this College year, and in the course of only three months, have we been called upon to mourn the loss of two young men, the one 41, the other only 36 years of age. But though their span of life was brief, their years of service for Clemson College of each of them had been many. Mr. Shiver had served as Assistant Chemist of the S. C. Agricultural Experiment Station for more than sixteen years, and as a member of the Faculty of Clemson Agricultural College for twelve years. By his death the College has lost a useful and faithful member of her Faculty, and the Department of Chemistry has been deprived of one of its most capable workers.

The funeral was conducted at the residence of his sister, Mrs. W. E. Gonzales, Columbia S. C., by Rev. S. M. Smith, D. D., who had received Mr. Shiver into membership in the First Presbyterian church. All that was mortal of Frank Scott Shiver was laid to rest in the family lot in Elmwood Cemetery, Columbia, just as the sun was setting, December 31, 1907. Rev. W. H. Mills, his pastor, performed the rites at the grave, while, with bared heads and sad hearts, troops of friends, among whom were Dr. R. N. Brackett and Mr. B. F. Robertson representing the Clemson Faculty and Department of Chemistry, consigned his body to its last resting-place and covered his grave with flowers.
