Lee's Birthday Celebration.

On Tuesday evening, Jan. 19, at 8 o'clock, in the Memorial Hall, the John C. Calhoun chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy celebrated the birth-day of Gen. Robert E. Lee. The program was well arranged, and the exercises were interesting throughout.

The stage was very appropriately decorated with the national and confederate colors. On the right wing of the stage was a soldier's tent and a camp fire. Just in front of it, were several boys imitating camp life. On the left wing, was a beautiful home scene, where several ladies were knitting, sewing, and spinning.

Appropriate music for the occasion was furnished by the Cadet band.

Immediately before the exercises opened, a choir of ladies sang "Tenting on the old Camp Grounds."

The Rev. Mr. Hubbard opened the exercises with an appropriate and impressive prayer. Then Prof. Furman, in an eloquent tribute to Gen. Lee, introduced the speaker of the evening, Miss Grace Lumpkin, of Columbia, who then most charmingly delivered her address on the life and character of Gen. Lee. She touched every sphere of his life, showing his Christian life, his knightly and chivalrous disposition as well as his skill on the battle field. Miss Lumpkin's tribute to him was so great that many of us came away determined to mold our lives after that great and good man. She also paid a noble and lasting tribute to all the old confedehate soldiers, and the cause for which they fought and lost. Miss Lumpkin was frequently applauded during her speech, and received quite an ovation at the conclusion.

The choir now favored us with "The Bonnie Blue Flag," and Mr. McDavid blew Taps, which concluded the exercises.

We are indeed glad that the Daughters of the Confederacy had their celebration in our midst. We, also, are proud of the fact that we are sons and grandsons of these noble and patriotic men. Such an address as was delivered by Miss Lumpkin is a reminder of the greatness and nobleness of our unrivaled chief.

Class Football Games.

As was decided by the Class football committee, a double header between the Juniors and Preps; and Sophs and Fresh was played on Saturday, Jan. 23.

The Junior won over the Preps by a score of 41 to 0. For the Juniors, Gantt, Byrd, Scott and Thornhill played star ball; while for the Preps, Holiday and Harris played best. Preps, you were out played, but never you mind that, just play right on. You are all Clemson men, and Clemson men never say die. May each and every one of you make a black "C" before you graduate.

The Juniors and Preps played their first half of 20 minutes, and then the Sophs and Fresh took the field for their tussle. This game proved more exciting than that between the Juniors and Preps. The Sophs won by a score of 6 to 0; and the touch-down, by a Soph falling on the ball behind the goal line after a short kick.

For the Sophs, Epps, Sandifer, and Schroder were the stars, and Tupper, Crawford, and Shell played star ball for the Fresh.

Reed Miller at Clemson.

On the evening of the 16th of Jan., Mr. Reed Miller, who is ranked by musical experts as one of the six best singers in America, gave a most interesting program in College Chapel. A majority of the boys, and most of the people on the “hill,” turned out to hear this noted singer. On account of the unexpected sickness of Miss Lilly Strickland, his accompanist, Mr. Miller was assisted by Mrs. W. M. Riggs, who served well in that capacity. Mrs. Riggs showed that she had considerable training in the musical world.

The golden tones were re-echoed in chapel that night by the clear and far-reaching voice of Reed Miller. Not only is his voice of extraordinary natural quality—pure, mellow, strong and capable of exquisite modulation—but he is an excellent musician, knowing what he sings in the minutest detail.

Realizing that Mr. Miller is an old Clemson student, we are all deeply interested in him, and hope to see him, in the not distant future, standing at the top of the ladder of the musical world. Being a close friend of Prof. Riggs’s, we hope he will use his influence to bring Mr. Miller back to Clemson at an early date.

The Junior-Senior Dance.

Friday evening, Jan. 29, the Junior-Senior Dancing Club gave in the College dancing hall their midwinter dance. Notwithstanding the somewhat inclement weather, the dance was well attended and very much enjoyed. Refreshments were served in an adjoining hall. The music was furnished by the Clemson College Orchestra.

The following were those present: Miss Calhoun of Clemson with cadet S. O. Pegues; Miss Barrow of Clemson with cadet R. E. Adams; Miss Boyd of Wellhall with cadet J. C. Reid; Miss Stribling of Pendleton with cadet L. P. Byars; Miss Alice Stribling of Pendleton with cadet G. W. Dominick; Miss Sloan of Clemson with cadet Reams; Miss Saddler of Clemson with cadet W. A. Barnett; Miss Annie McPhail of Pendleton with cadet O. M. Clark; Miss Sallie McPhail of Pendleton with cadet E. C. Martin; Miss Middleton of Charleston with cadet C. F. Middleton; Miss Robinson of Charleston with Prof. Henry; Miss Rast of Clemson with cadet Floyd; Miss Sanders of Greenwood with cadet H. L. Rivers; Miss Alston of Greenwood with cadet R. P. Henderson; Miss Neal of Atlanta with Mr. I. S. Allen.

The stags were Cadets Hume, Coles, Reeves, Green, Teague, Sanders, D. D. Folk, J. T. Folk, McMillian, Wilson, Spratt, Keitt, Frindmore, Wolfe, Harris, Jeter, Stephenson, LaRoche, Allen, Boykin, Robinson, Townsend, Crum, Kirby, Becker, Sims, Baxley, Sumner, White, Easterling, Green, Baker, Clinkscales, Brit, Hill.

The chaperones were: Messrs. Lee, Bryan, Barrow, Riggs, Clinkscales.

The Hutton Bailey Show.

The Hutton Bailey Stock company came to Clemson Friday evening and left Saturday night. During their stay here they gave three plays which were far above our highest expectations. Friday evening they presented to us in four acts "The Newspaper Girl," which was interesting beyond description.

The matinee Saturday afternoon, was "The Gambler's Sweetheart," which was played with no mean ability.

Saturday evening was presented the pathetic and touching play, entitled, "Lena Rivers."

In all of these plays the characters were so well suited, and the actors and actresses did their part with such rare ability, that it is hard to say which play was the best, or which actor or actress deserves the most credit for the grand success of the plays.

Mention should be made of little six-year-old Bernice Bailey, the manager's little daughter. She came upon the stage in every play, and did herself credit in many of the specialties. She acted so naturally and with such calmness that there was no one in the hall that did not admire her. The plays with the specialties were so well arranged and so ably carried out, that one minute the audience would be almost convulsed with laughter, and the next on the verge of tears. Every play had a well laid plot, which was interesting as well as beneficial. They were morally and mentally elevating.

The attendance from the corps was fairly good.; but the citizens of the hill seemed somewhat reluctant about coming out; especially Saturday evening—though, perhaps, they are excusable as the weather was somewhat inclement. There were some, however, who came every evening; and they as well as the others have the heartiest thanks of the Annual staff for the help they rendered by their patronage.

It is hoped that the Hutton Bailey Company will come and show for us again.

A Wonderful Discovery.

For many years Col. Robt. E. Nickles, formerly of Due West, S. C., now of Clemson College, where he has resided for the last thirteen years, has been making careful, practical studies of some very important subjects relating very closely to the welfare of every Clemson cadet. Many theories have been advanced upon these subjects, but all, more or less, have been disproved. We are indebted to Col. Nickles for the experiments he has so ably carried out (mostly in person, and thoroughly practical.)

The results of this Clemson veteran's experiments are about as follows:

"Receipts for Love."

Six ounces of admiration; six ounces of respect; Ten ounces of double extract of devotion. Boil over a very gentle fire of passion, skim with the spoon of purity; pour into bottles of constancy, seal with a kiss, and take three times per day.

Ingredients may be bought from Col. Nickles, as he keeps a good supply in case of need.

"Receipt for Kisses."

To one piece of dark piazza, add a little moonlight, take for granted two people. Press in strong ones, small little hands, sift lightly two ounces of attraction, one ounce of romance, add a large measure of jollity; stir in a pleasing scuffle, one or two whispers, and dissolve half a dozen glances in a well of silence, dust in a small quantity of hesitation, one ounce of resistance, two of yieliding; place the kisses on a blushing cheek or two lips, flavor with a slight scream, and set aside to cool. You will succeed in any climate if directions are carefully followed.

Col. Nickles says that in his many years of practical experiences he has only found one case when it did not work admirably. Then the material in hands was very old.

Clemson Cadet Deserves Carnegie Medal.

A few evenings since, while testing a gasoline tank, Prof. Earle and his electrical sections had a very narrow escape. For some reason the tank burst, and fragments were scattered in every direction. A large piece broke through a double wall just opposite where Fred Smith was working on the other side. Jimmie McMillian, fleet-footed and with heroic intentions, ran around the wall, passing through two rooms and two doors, and pulled Fred out of the way of the flying missile. Undoubtedly, had it not been for the heroic deed of Jimmie McMillian, Fred would have been much hurt. Jimmie was taking great risk of being consumed by friction from passing through the air so rapidly. It is the common opinion that he should have a Carnegie medal for bravery.

EDITORIAL

Job was evidently not even an Editor of a College publication.

Judging from the promising material developing so admirably on the class teams, the Clemson football team for 1909 will demand quite a consideration.

What have you done to give you an unconditioned privilege to "knock" the efforts of your class or college mates? When you have fulfilled certain conditions, you may talk.

Baseball dope is beginning to wake up, for its season is near at hand. The team from Clemson, this season, has some new men who, from all indications have in them the making of good baseball players.

Remember, fellows, that things that look hard, unreasonable and unjust to us now will appear quite different when we shall have seen them through the eyes of more mature and experienced men. We can now see them only from the side concerning our momentary pleasures, and what, in appearance, concerns us at present; but do not forget that there is another side to it far more important and far-reaching than that revealed to our short sight. We may some times be inclined to think that the authorities are hard upon us, and do not fully realize what we have to do; but remember they have all been right along there. When we have become men, we shall look back and bless the day that we were made to do the right thing in the right way.

The athletic council informs us that arrangements have been made for a Clemson-Carolina game to be pulled off next season; and from all indications the game will be played on Thursday of Fair week. Nothing of that character could have pleased us more, and from the commendation, nothing could have been hailed with more genuine pleasure by the entire college body. This game will be of untold benefit to both institutions in many respects. It will draw the two student bodies together—will be an admirable advertisement for both institutions, and for the fair; and will be one of the rich sports in the financial field. There is no reason whatever why they should not play; for the ill-feeling that once existed between the two schools has long since passed into oblivion, and nothing but the best feeling of friendship and brotherhood now remains, which fact was well demonstrated last fair week. This game promises to be one of the best of the season.

Our hats come off to the good U. D. C. of Clemson College for the most interesting and elevating celebration they gave in the college chapel on the 19th, in honor of our great chieftain. The kind ladies are ever pointing us to higher, nobler, and better examples of genuine manhood. With crowns of honor and respect for the brave old soldiers who, laughing at danger and experiencing hardships, faced without a tremor the flaming cannon and death-dealing musketry, we should like to say right here: Don't you think that often, in our efforts to do honor to those old veterans we forget the important part the noble ladies bore in the hardships of the war? They had to bear the privations, hardships and torturing suspense, without the excitement of the war. They had to stay at home and fight an enemy that was worse than the "blue coats"—hunger. When everything was in a discouraging state of devastation, they, concealing their bleeding hearts and smiling smiles of encouragement, took the battle-scared old warriors by the hand and lead them from their lowly state of devastation to the prospering position they occupy today. Do not understand us to mean that we honor the old veterans too much. No, no! A thousand times no! If we should build a monument with its heighth proportionate to the honor they deserve, and we should build it so high that it would be crowned with the stars of heaven, we should be just beginning to lay the bed-rock. But we do not show enough honor for the courage and fortitude of our noble ladies.

With true regards for our English course, and with a full realization that it is as worthy of recognition as in any school of this kind, we realize that there is a lack of a course in elocution here; that such is the advantage of a literary school. But do we take advantage of the presented opportunities to learn something about how to conduct ourselves before an audience? Do you not think that if we really wanted to learn something about elocution, we could find ways that would help us considerably. We have, during the year, the pleasant opportunity of listening to the lectures and speeches of men who are well up in their profession. If we should watch how they make gestures, how they stress important points, how they stand upon the stage, and how they handle themselves in general, we should get many suggestions that would be of much advantage to us. If we really get interested in the subject, we shall work with renewed interest and determination, and become able to see and enjoy the beauty and truth of the best literature as we otherwise could not. It will make us read, thereby cultivating a taste and a desire for the best literature. Then, if we should all belong to a literary society, where we could practice the things we have learned, we should help to largely eliminate the disadvantages of not having a course in elocution.

Senior Class.

At a recent meeting of the Senior Class, Miss Cema Sitton of Pendleton, was elected as sponsor for the 1909 Annual.

Several Seniors were very pleasantly entertained at the home of Capt. J. C. Minus on last Sunday evening.

The cadet captains of the six companies made a short visit to Easley for the purpose of attending the funeral services of the late Hon. R. E. Bowen, who was one of the life members on the board of trustees.

At a short meeting of the Senior privates, Miss Haner was elected as their sponsor.

At a recent meeting of the Senior Dancing Club, it was decided to combine with the Juniors for the remainder of the year. By doing this, each club will enjoy a greater number of dances and at much lower cost.

On January 22nd Mr. George W. Keitt attended a meeting of the officers of the State Oratorical Association, which met at Newberry College.

Mr. A. L. Harris spent the "week end" at his home near Spartanburg. Wonder why so many boys came to Harris's room the following Monday? Nothing doing, tho'!

The Hutton Bailey Stock Company, which gave three performances for the benefit of the '09 Annual at the end of last week, has been very highly spoken of in every respect. Not only did everyone who attended spend a very pleasant evening, but he also aided the management of the Annual, who think that every little bit helps. Often the Annual management secures good entertainments as the above. It is up to the boys to come out and help out the Annual.

Junior Class.

The Junior and Senior Dancing Clubs have been combined into the Junior-Senior Club. This Club will have its first dance on Friday night, January 29th. Quite a large number of ladies have been invited, and an enjoyable time is anticipated by all.

Mr. D. C. Britt has returned to college and is now a member of the Junior Class. As he is one of our best and most popular football players, he was welcomed back by the whole corps, as well as by the Class.

Class football is getting to be lively these days. We have a good team, notwithstanding the fact that two of our best players, Messrs. R. P. Henderson and C. F. Middleton, had to stop on account of each getting a sprained knee in a scrimmage. Our coaches, White and Robbs, instead of Fetzer, as reported in last issue of the Tiger, have given the team some good instruction. The first game will be played Saturday between Junior and Prep. We predict a severe defeat for the Preps.

Messrs. J. C. Reid and E. L. Sumner went to Greenville last week. They probably went on a business trip.

Mr. E. C. Martin spent from Friday afternoon till Sunday with friends and parents near Central, South Carolina.

Mr. W. S. Walker did not return to college after Christmas. We regret very much to have him leave, but hope for him much success in the future.

Sophomore Class.

On the night of January twenty-second, the Sophomore Dancing School gave a little dance. Although the dance was only allowed to continue for a few hours, the time was very pleasantly spent by those present. They all seemed to enjoy themselves, and to hate to stop so early.

Those present were: Chaperones—Prof. and Mrs. Bryan, Prof. and Mrs. Barrow, Mrs. Lee.

Members—H. W. Anderson with Miss Rast; W. F. Hodge with Miss Barrow; W. M. Haynesworth with Miss Hodge; J. E. Jenkins with Miss Stribbling; W. E. Stokes with Miss Carouthers; L. S. David with Miss Sloan; R. H. Walker with Miss Calhoun.

Keep the good work going boys, we are coming and will soon get there.

January 25, a Class meeting was held in the old "A" Company mess hall. The purpose of the meeting was to urge more of us to go out for the Class football team. Although we have a pretty good team, there is plenty of room for improvement; and, if more of us would go out we should be able to put out the winning team. We played the Freshman team on Saturday, the twenty-third of January, and beat them six to zero. This team was supposed to be the best one, but we showed them, and if the men will go out and try maybe we will be able to show the rest of the teams likewise.

During the meeting, they also urged us to pay up the money needed to get the football coach for next season, and arrangements were made for putting the Class picture in the Annual.

Freshman Class.

The football squad has been working, and under the efficient training of Coach Fetzer, we should be able to put out a winning team.

Saturday’s game between the Soph-Fresh teams will be our hardest battle.

All the fellows who did not go out for the team should help them as much as possible by rooting at the games for it, for it heartens the men up to know that the class is behind them.

We have had our picture taken for the Annual and although not more than half the class were present, they made a very creditable showing.

Those of us who were in the “Pendleton Guards” had our pictures taken last Saturday, and it was a grand success. We were dressed in blue shirts, kakki trousers, and campaign hats.

We have “struck a snag” in the new geometry which many of us have never studied, but under the care and instruction of Mr. Mills, we will soon “tread the flowery paths of knowledge.”

The Calhoun.

Under the presidency of our second term president, the Society work has increased in spirit. Our president has a personality that is pleasing to the members and they feel that he is ever ready to encourage them in their work.

One of the greatest treats that the Society has been given lately, was a talk given us by Dr. S. O. Mauldin, of Greenville, at our last meeting. Dr. Mauldin is a graduate of Clemson and a former president of the Calhoun Society, therefore, it was with especial interest that we listened to his talk. He spoke of the many benefits that he had derived while at Clemson—laying emphasis on the valuable training got from earnest work in the Society. He pointed the many advantages that lay before us and warned us not to let them slip, because they would never come to us again. He told us of the Clemson man out of college, how his pluck and energy gave him place of honor and trust; being a result of applying himself while he had the chance.

We were very glad to welcome Dr. Mauldin, we appreciated his remarks very much, and hope that he will be able to meet with us again soon.

Mr. G. A. Burton was elected a member at our last meeting.

The following men have volunteered to compete to select a man to represent the society in the Suter Society counted for a representative to the State Oratorical Contest in Greenwood: G. W. Keitt, T. B. Reeves and J. D. Graham.

Palmetto Society.

The last meeting of the society was perhaps one of the most interesting of the season. Never before have the men on duty shown more that they had prepared for the occasion than in this one. The program was a complete one and did the participants honor. It was made up almost entirely of new men, and showed clearly what new men could do. Mr. Ridgel's declamation on "The Dying Scene of Stonewall Jackson," was one that attracted attention. It was well rendered and was appreciated by all.

After the exercises, the officers for the third term were elected and were as follows: W. F. Odum, Literary Critic; S. E. Evans, Secretary; Messrs. Covington, Clingscales and Green, Reporting Critics; Mr. J. A. Goodwin, Censor; Mr. C. R. Gilliam, Prosecuting Critic, and Mr. J. M. Workman, Serg't-at-Arms.

We were glad to have with us Mr. Watkins, of the Columbian Society. He made us a talk, which was appreciated by all.

Y. M. C. A.

At last the Secretary's room has been well furnished. The Secretary deserves credit for the work he did himself, but we feel sure he will feel repaid.

The tennis courts also are nearing completion. President Mell has seen that the work will be carried out so that we soon ought to have four excellent courts. As these are the only courts here, and the men who intend going to the Annual tournament are already using the present ones, there is no doubt but that the new courts will be as much used as the old ones.

Mr. Arthur Speer, an old Clemson graduate, addressed the association recently, on the topic of "The Evils of College Life," especially relating to Clemson boys. Mr. Speer is well known by nearly all Clemson students and a large audience heard him.

Just at present there is not so much interest being taken in basketball owing to class football. As soon as football is over the basketball teams will be organized. This is no game for girls, as so many imagine, but requires as much physical strength as other forms of athletics. Indeed, our football players say that it is more tiring than football.

A large paddle has been donated to the Y. M. C. A. At first it was not known what to do with it, but it has now been decided to let "Monster" Fleming administer it to absentees from Bible study classes.

Mr. Graves talked at our last Sunday evening meeting. His topic was one of the most interesting we have had this year, and the speaker's ability is well known by the students.

The prayer meeting attendance recently, has not been encouraging. Surely more of the students can give from six-thirty until seven-thirty on Wednesday night. You will not regret the time. Let's try to have more than fifteen out next meeting. Before Christmas the number often reached sixty or more.

CADET EXCHANGE.
Cadet J. C. Caldwell informs us that predestination is the thief of time.

"Mr. Jones, how do you form the plural of a proper noun?" Rat Jones: "Add Mr. or Mrs."

Senior Brandon informs us that Mr. Wheeler, the stenographer, had returned.

Class football is now providing every one with entertainment.

Coach Fetzer spent a few days in Due West, recently, attending to business.

Mr. Van Cott, representing the Alexander Taylor Co., was here last week with a full line of baseball goods.

Capt. and Mrs. J. C. Minus entertained a few Seniors at their home one night last week.

Mr. A. L. Harris spent a few days at his home recently.

The celebrated tenor soloist, Reed Miller, who is an old Clemson man, gave a recital in Chapel a few days ago, which was enjoyed to the fullest by all who attended.

What came near being a serious accident happened in the Mechanical Laboratory last week. Prof. Earle was filling a gasoline tank with compressed air, when the head of the tank blew out with such force that it went through a double wall.

Mr. J. E. Brown, a former member of the Sophomore class, has gone to the A. and M. College of North Carolina, where he will continue his studies.

Mr. Haply, one of Spaulding’s representatives, was here a short time ago with a complete line of athletic goods.

The Sophomores started out with a very pleasant little informal dance, last Friday evening, in the gymnasium.

The Junior and Senior dancing clubs have combined and are going to have three dances instead of each having two. The first one, which came off Friday night, was quite a success.

Mr. J. R. Reynolds, of Roanoke, Va., has been secured to coach our baseball team for the coming season.

The Chronicle.

Notwithstanding the fact that our popular Editor-in-Chief of the "Chronicle" is also Editor-in-Chief of the "Taps," and consequently has his hands full just now, the Chronicle is in no way below its standard.

The arrangement of the material in each issue is superb, and each part is well and proportionately filled. One thing we have noticed is that contributions of the material are largely from a few individuals. Is there an excuse why any man should not write? None in the least. If the "Chronicle" can maintain its present creditable standard with a dozen contributors, what would be its possibilities with five hundred contributors, yea, with one hundred. Then, fellows, if you want to do justice to your chosen Editor-in-Chief, help him to get out the "Chronicle," and it will stand without a peer in the South.
