Special Meeting Academic Faculty
Apr. 5, 1915

Meeting was called to order by the Chairman, who stated that the purpose of the meeting was to continue consideration of the report of Committee on Summer School.

Prof. Bryan offered as a substitute motion: "That it is the opinion of this faculty, after consideration of the report of Prof. Martin's committee that a Summer School such as suggested therein is not advisable." Prof. Bradley suggested to amend Prof. Bryan's motion by adding the words: but that a school for entering students might be advisable.

The time for the meeting of the General Faculty having arrived, on motion the Academic Faculty adjourned.

Approved, Oct. 26, 1919.
That it is the sense of your Committee that the inauguration of a Summer School for deficient College students is not advisable for the summer of 1915. That the inauguration of a Summer School for certain deficient students in the Freshman Class for the summer of 1916 is advisable. That it would be well to extend the privileges of this Summer School to those new students who stand the entrance examination at the County seat, and fail on either Mathematics or English or both, and who in the judgment of the Entrance Requirements Committee would be able to make up their deficiencies by four weeks of study. That students who do not avail themselves of the opportunity of standing the entrance examination at the County seat be not admitted to the Freshman Class conditioned on Mathematics or English. That the said summer school open four weeks before the opening of College and close on Saturday preceding the regular opening Wednesday. Monday and Tuesday preceding the opening Wednesday to be devoted to final examinations. That the object of this summer school be to better prepare those who are permitted to enter the Freshman Class, and those who are now given the opportunity to remove conditions by the present rules for re-examinations or by the Re-examination Committee. That the deficient students required to attend this summer school, in order to prepare to remove conditions, be determined by the Re-examination Committee, and the Entrance Requirements Committee.

That all Freshman "make up" examinations be held at the time the final examinations for the summer school are held.

That the rules for promotion be changed so that a student with work to make up shall not be promoted to the Sophomore Class except in the case of a student who, in the judgment of the Re-examination Committee will be able to carry his back work successfully in addition to the regular work of the Sophomore Class and in the case of a new student.
That a new student be admitted to the Sophomore Class upon the condition that he be credited with a sufficient number of hours in the Sophomore Class to make it possible for him to regularly schedule his work in the Freshman Class.

That the Teachers who are to have charge of this summer school receive extra compensation for their services. That the fees charged students attending this Summer School be sufficient to make said Summer School self-sustaining.

That provision should be made for handling all work of the Freshman Class, and Mathematics and English for applicants for the Freshman Class.

That all students who have work to make up and who in the judgment of the Re-examination Committee or Entrance Requirements Committee should have the assistance of summer instruction in order to prepare to remove conditions, be required to attend this or some accredited summer school.

We estimate that there would be not less than one hundred and not more than one hundred and fifty who would be required to attend this summer school, and that it would require the services of one man, teaching three hours a day, to handle each of the subjects.

We recommend that $10.00 over and above maintenance be collected from each student attending this summer school for the full time.

That each Instructor receive $25.00 per week for his services.

That the salary of the teaching force be paid out of the Fund paid in by students, over and above maintenance, if this be sufficient, otherwise, to be paid by the College. We believe, however, that the College would be more likely to gain than to lose by this arrangement.
We can see no objection to the summer school if run as suggested by the above recommendations. We do not think it wise to extend the opportunities of the summer school to Sophomores for the first year.

We recommend that there be no Summer School in 1915 because we believe that in order to accomplish the desired end, the attendance of those who have many failures should be compulsory. That we could not consistently make such attendance compulsory this year (except in the case of the few who are debarred under the rules, and in this case of applicants for the Freshman Class) as 2/3 of the work of the College year has been completed, and students who already have examination failures to remove are now given by the rules of the Faculty an opportunity to remove said conditions simply by examination at the beginning of the next College year.

We recommend the inauguration of a Summer School for 1916 as we believe that anything which tends to better prepare those who are admitted to the higher classes is advisable.

We believe the work of the Sophomore year the most difficult of the College course and that only in exceptional cases should those who are permitted to enter this Class be called upon to do more than carry the regular work of this Class. Hence, our recommendation that only in exceptional cases should a student with work to make up be promoted to the Sophomore Class.

We do not recommend a summer school for the higher classes because we believe that if those who are admitted to the lower classes are better prepared the number of failures in the higher classes will be greatly reduced. Then, too, the greater number of subjects in the higher classes, the smaller number of men in each of the higher classes and consequently the smaller number of failures in each subject would make the handling of these classes much more difficult in that it would greatly increase the teaching force and consequently the cost of the summer school.

We recommend that the Teachers who are to teach during the Summer School receive extra compensation for their services because in every other summer school, with which we are familiar, the teaching is not considered a part of the regular College work. The Teachers are paid for their services independent of their salary for the regular College work. We realize that the contract which this College has with its Instructors would technically permit this College to call upon the men to do this work without additional compensation, but we believe that, as no summer school was contemplated when these contracts were made, it would be unjust to enforce the letter of the contract. The men who would naturally be expected to do this work had no way of judging the future but by the past so it is perfectly natural and they are within their rights in assuming that they would never be called upon to do such work.

Then, too, it may sometimes be desirable to employ teachers from other Colleges to handle the work of the Summer School.

We believe that the school should be self-sustaining and that those who receive its benefits should pay for them. The state appropriates a certain amount of money each year in order to give every student an equal opportunity to receive an education. Nine months of each year the doors of the College are thrown open and every man has the same opportunity. If this proposed summer school is run under the same condition as the regular College work then those who have failed (most of whom as the result of not taking advantage of their opportunities) would be given by the state more than those who have diligently applied themselves and made the best of their opportunities. Then, too we believe that if the method of "make up" is made too easy it will tend to increase rather than reduce the number of failures.
