The Old Stone Church

The history of the Scotch-Irish Presbyterians who settled in the hill country of South Carolina, is, in a large measure, the early history of that section of the State. The year of Braddock's defeat at Fort DeQuese—near Pittsburg, 1755—was likewise the year of a memorable treaty made with the Cherokee Indians by James Glenn, governor of South Carolina. Danger in the northern colonies, and safety in the Carolinas prompted many of these Presbyterians to move southward. Wherever they settled, they built a house of worship. Many of these old churches antedate the Revolution. The Old Stone church, however, was not organized until about 1789, very soon after the adoption of the Constitution, early in Washington's first administration.

Robert Anderson and Andrew Pickens, American officers during the struggle for independence, were two of the first elders. The first building was of logs, put up in 1790, a mile or two from the site of the present church. Tradition tells us it was burned, catching from a forest fire. Soon afterwards, in 1797, the building now used was erected, the lot, nearer the centre of the congregation, having been deeded by John Miller, commonly known as "Printer John," who left England on account of having been one of the publishers of the "Junius Letters," and who founded "The Pendleton Messenger," using the old press Gen. Green had used in his campaigns for printing his orders. The first load of stone used in building the church was hauled to the place by a Mr. Robertson, "a zealous man." Miller and Robertson were buried in the graveyard near the church. Gen. Pickens gave the pulpit and the seats. John Rusk, who had

Alumniana

Below, is published a list of the '10 alumni. This list is very incomplete in that the present occupation of the great majority of the class has not yet been ascertained. It is hoped that anyone knowing the occupation of these men will give such information to Prof. H. W. Barre, Clemson College, S. C., secretary of the association. Prof. Barre is anxious to have his card catalogue of graduates complete, and will appreciate any aid given him in this work. In the following list, the home address is given, where the other is not known:

INFORMAL DANCE.

Saturday evening, January 14th, the members of the Cotillion Club enjoyed a delightful informal dance at the Agricultural Hall. Several visitors from Greenville, Seneca and elsewhere were present. Two old members, Messrs. W. G. Perry, and O. B. Brodie, who are now in college, were gladly welcomed. The music for the occasion was furnished by the Clemson College orchestra.

Among those present were: Miss Neila Sloan, with Mr. Joseph Jenkins; Miss Sadie McPhail, with Mr. P. H. Jeter; Miss Nadie Westervelt, with Mr. W. G. Perry; Miss Perry, with Mr. O. B. Brodie; Miss Hamilton, with Mr. B. R. Bacon; Miss Helen Brackett, with Mr. J. Y. Scruggs; Miss Lula Doyle, with Mr. M. P. Sanders; Miss Lucile Sloan, with Mr. W. R. Connolly; Miss Lieze Striling, with Mr. B. F. Owens; Miss Lila Striling, with Mr. Lazarre; Miss Jessie Brown, with Mr. O. P. McCord; Miss Richardson, with Mr. A. B. Evans; Miss Cora Garner, with Mr. J. E. M. Mitchell; Miss Porcher, with Mr. J. C. Fitzsimmons.

Chaperones: Mrs. Winslow Sloan, Prof. and Mrs. Riggs, Mr. and Mrs. Westervelt, Prof. and Mrs. D. N. Brackett.

LOCALS.

E. C. Martin, of Class '10, paid us a short visit last week. Acting President Riggs spoke to the Carolina boys last Tuesday.

Harris, of Class '08, was on the campus last week. "Mary" Johnson paid us a short visit last week.

George Fleming has just left the hospital, where he has been residing since the holidays.

Martin Epps and George Fleming have just returned from a pleasant visit to Greenville. The monotony of drill has been broken by the introduction of target practice.

Prof. Allison is making efforts to organize a rifle club. There is a new Rat here from Kentucky. Everybody is invited to see him. Hall sixteen.

Senior Gillmer (to new Rat): "Say, Rat, have you been turned yet?"

Rat: "Yes."

Sr. G.: "Who turned you?"

Rat: "I don't know. What do you take me for, an owl?"

Ask Tupper which car he went into to find his lady.

EDITORIAL.

This is our second historical issue—a brief history and cut of the Old Stone Church being given. You will do well to keep a copy of this issue, as this old church of Revolutionary times is not far distant from the land of our school days.

Class football is showing up well. With such a goodly number of all underclassmen out, Coach Dobson should be able to get some of the green material in shape for next year's regular season. As usual, there is a great diversity of opinion as to what class will eventually win the trophy cup. Here's hoping that all will do well.

With this issue of the "Tiger," there is created an alumni department. It is the purpose of the staff to publish weekly a list of the old graduates of the college, by classes, beginning with the class least removed from us and continuing until we have completed the list of the alumni. The first list is especially incomplete, and we hope that should anyone know what any member of last year's class is doing, he will inform either Prof. Barre or the editor of the "Tiger."

Owing to the fact that there is a great deal of material to be published in this issue, the editor-in-chief reluctantly lays aside his exhortatory pen for the week, with hopes that he may be able to occupy a greater space in the later issues of our publication.

Husband: "Well, goodbye, darling, I will write often."
Wife: "Yes do, dear, if it is only a check."—Ex.

Barrington (to rat): "Go get me some asbestos (astorette) cigars."

"Well, Sam, I'll tell you how it is. You see, I married a widow, and this widow had a daughter. Then my father, being a widower, married our daughter, so you see my father is my own son-in-law."
"Yes, I see."
"Then again, my step-daughter is my step-mother, isn't she? Well, then, her mother is my grandmother, isn't she? I am married to her, am I not? So that makes me my own grandfather, doesn't it?"

The Seniors at the University of Georgia use canes to distinguish themselves from the lower classmen.

At Princeton, there is to be erected a massive silver grey tower 150 feet high and 40 feet square, at a cost of $100,000 as a memorial to former President Cleveland.

It has been figured out that the students of the University of Michigan used 132,210 cigars, 33,180 boxes of cigarettes, 52,000 boxes of smoking tobacco, 33,000 packages of cigarette papers and 6,850 cubes of chewing tobacco last year.

And He Was Bred in Old Kentucky.
I bought a horse, a gallant nag,
In old Kentucky sired;
I also bought a runabout,
Red-wheeled and rubber-tired;
I purchased next a motor car
And made the gravel fly;
And then I got an aeroplane,
To travel through the sky.

Now, when the aeroplane comes down
With broken wing or wheel,
My chauffeur loads the crippled kite
Upon the swift mobile;
And when the auto, too, declines
To take the homeward track,
My trusty steed comes trotting up,
And tows us safely back!

Soph. Rowell (looking at gang plow): "Say, boys, let's x this plow; it's broke."

A small boys opinion: What's a kiss but a noise and a wet spot?

Big Rat Roberts (seeing Cambrian Glee Club enter upon the stage): "Look, boys, they have on bibs."

Reasons.—Professor: "Why did you come to college, anyway? You are not studying."

Willie Rahrah: "Well, mother says it is to fit me for the presidency; Uncle Bill, to sow my wild oats; Sis, to get a chum for her to marry; and Pa, to bankrupt the whole family."—Puck.

A few nights since, when a few dishes of oatmeal were placed before us for supper, a Rat spread some of the nutritious food over his grits. After several minutes of energetic stirring, the young man turned to his elbow companion, with an expression of disappointment upon his features, and exclaimed, "This blamed gravy won't melt."
The second term is always considered to be one of the dullest. However, there is always a “silver lining” to the darkest cloud. We are glad it is the shortest term of the session. Sport is not wanting entirely in this dull period. The gymnasium is open every evening. Some of our men are availing themselves of this means of keeping in training for the spring athletic season.

Although our class did not attempt to put out a class football team, much interest is displayed by our members in the other class teams. “Bill” Hanckel is coaching the Sophomore team; Paul Bissell the Freshman team; and Ralph Walker the Prep team. Every afternoon, many Seniors are found on the side line, watching the scrimmages. Every member should, if possible, go out, thereby encouraging the under classmen to work hard and get ready for next fall’s “varsity” squad. Although we shall be away, we shall be glad to know that dear old Clemson is holding up her record in athletics, as well as in every other field of activity.

On Friday, January 13th, the entire class assembled in the rear of No. 2 barracks, where they engaged in gallery practice. This is a pleasure as well as a profit. No doubt, most of the members are very glad the military department authorities decided to institute this practice.

We understand that Mr. B. P. Folk is an expert “note taker.” He has taken notes so long that he is very proud of this practice. He, it is reported, even took notes at the class meeting the other day.

At last, the ring measures have been taken and the order placed for the class rings. We do not see why these rings should not be secured earlier.

On Wednesday evening, January 11th, the following named members went to Greenville to see the “Merry Widow” opera: Gilmore, Mickle, Gettys, Sitton, Fant, McCord, G. L.; Boone, Haynesworth, McCord, O. P., Davis, E. L., Garrett, Arthur, Keith, Beatty, D. C., Beatty, H. C., Summer and Wolfe.

The Junior class is now united for once. Ever since the election held last June, there has been two factions in the class, each working against the other and neither working for the interest of the class. So, to get these factions united, a meeting of the class was held a few days ago, and a new election of officers was held. The officers, as elected at the meeting, are as follows: President, J. F. Ezell; Vice-President, A. P. Fant; Secretary and Treasurer, G. W. Byars; Poet, C. B. Faris; Historian, G. J. Henry.

At the same meeting, the following members of the “Taps” staff of 1912 were elected: Editor-in-Chief, C. B. Faris; Bus. Mgr., H. T. Prosser; Asst. Bus. Mgrs. J. R. Crawford and B. F. Owens; Adv. Mgrs., A. P. Fant; Chief of Literary Staff, J. M. Workman. These are all the best men in the class for their positions; and, with such a staff, the “Taps” of 1912 should be one of the best ever put out by any class at Clemson.

Preparations for the “Hop” in June are already being made. Mr. O. B. Brodie has been elected as manager of the “Hop,” with Mr. J. W. Blackwell as his assistant.

Messrs. Woodward and Bates, as coaches, are working hard to get the Junior football team in training for the coming games. Only a few men are out as yet, but these are heavy men, and men who can win the cup.

Mr. W. H. Hayes is now in the hospital, having dislocated his shoulder in a practice game of foot-ball. His many friends in the class hope soon to see him out and well again.

Mr. H. A. Freeman made a visit to Greenville on last Saturday.

Mr. D. T. Hardin is in Columbus, Ohio, where he is standing an entrance examination to West Point. He was appointed as first alternate, as the result of an examination taken in this State some time ago.

Invitations are out for the Junior dance, to be held on the night of Jan. 27.

During the past week, the number of Sophomores on the football field has been greatly increased. Great interest is being shown by the men, and, as we have such fine material from which to pick a team, it looks as if we might win the cup. Our men may be seen on the field every afternoon working hard under the direction of Coaches Hanckel, Tupper and Coles. The following are trying for a place on the team: Hill, J. R.; Pearson, J. F.; Smith, G. W.; Fitzsimmons, J. C.; Carpenter, P. M.; Jones, B. M.; Alexander, R. A.; Banks, W. D.; Barre, G. D.; Barrington, A. H.; Davis,

The exercises for January 13th were rather short, on account of unavoidable absences. Guns were being re-issued to part of the corps, and for this reason some of our best society men were kept away.

Mr. S. W. Rabb delivered an excellent declamation. If every man would prepare himself when on duty as Mr. Rabb did, there would be a marked change in the society work.

Mr. J. T. Crawford was appointed by the chair to help represent the negative in the debate. The question, Resolved, “That the present Socialistic movement in the United States is not detrimental to the public good,” proved to be a subject of much interest. The main arguments for the affirmative were public control of railroads and telephone lines, and government control of all lands. The negative pointed out the difficulties of the proposed change of control of these great enterprises; and also claimed that socialism was dangerous to the public good. That the question was closely contested was shown by the fact that the judges decided in favor of the affirmative, while the house decided in favor of the negative. The affirmative was represented by Messrs. Josey and Hearsey. The negative by Messrs. Thornton and Crawford.

Mr. H. S. McGee responded as first extemporaneous speaker. Mr. T. F. Davis, the second extemporaneous speaker, brought a subject before us that is worthy of the consideration of every college man, that is, the destruction of college property.

We were glad to have Rev. Mr. McCaul with us. He gave us a short talk, telling of his old college days, and more especially of his literary society experiences. We hope that he will come again.

The second meeting of the new year far exceeded the first, in good work. All the members are urged to come out now, and join our ranks; for, at present, there is nothing requiring so much time, while the remaining five months will repay them in society work.

Mr. D. L. Cannon delivered an oration which would be a credit to any literary man. He urged each one of us to grasp the twentieth century stimulus, and never lag; but push onward until we had made America and our nation the beacon light of the world.

The debate was, as usual, a lively topic. Messrs. Wiggins, Smith, and Kaufman stoutly maintained that the negro should not be educated; while Messrs. Altman, Youmans, and Hayden argued that the only way to keep from impeding our progress is to better the condition of the negro. In irregular debate, Messrs. McCravy and Petrie brought into play some strong and impressive points. The judges and the house decided that the negative won.

A great deal of enthusiasm was shown at the last meeting. The preliminary contest, for the purpose of selecting two declaimers for the annual celebration, was held. Messrs. Henderson, W. N., and Hadden, T. C., were selected from the twelve who entered the contest. These, like the other four men, Messrs. Jeter, Dukes, Workman, and Prosser, are strong men, and we feel they will do credit to themselves and to the society at this celebration. We were fortunate in having as judges at this preliminary contest Professors Keitt, Martin and Burgess.

The officers for the third quarter were elected after the contest. They are as follows: J. A. Goodwin, President; W. C. Garrett, Vice President; J. M. Workman, Secretary; O. O. Dukes, Literary Critic; H. C. Jennings, Censor; J. N. Stribling, Prosecuting Critic; Boggs, J. K., Turbeville, A. C., Johnson, F. S., Ward, A. H., Reporting Critics; and Hadden, T. C., Sergeant-at-Arms. The marshals who were elected to serve at the annual celebration are as follows: Williams, T. D., Chief; and Faris, C. B., Stokes, W. E., and Kangeter, J. H.

The Y. M. C. A. held its regular religious meeting Sunday evening, January 15. At this meeting Dr. Calhoun delivered an illustrated address on his travels in Europe. In his address, Dr. Calhoun outlined his travels in detail—beginning at New York, where he set sail, and thence to Ireland and Norway. He first told of his experiences in crossing the ocean, and then took up the places of interest that he visited while in Ireland. He said he visited Blarney Castle, which is the most noted castle of Ireland, and many other places of historical interest. He then took up his travels in Norway, explaining and showing the beautiful natural scenery, the way the Norwegians built their roads, did their farming and merchandising, and the way they dressed and held their different ceremonies. We were certainly glad to have Dr. Calhoun to address us on this occasion; and can truthfully say that his address was enjoyed by all who attended.

The Y. M. C. A. is trying to secure a goodly number of South Carolina's most noted speakers to make addresses at the Sunday evening meetings for the remainder of the session. The names of those already secured are as follows: Mr. N. G. Ballinger, who will speak January 29; Hon. C. C. Featherstone, who will speak February 5; and Rev. Edward S. Reeves, who will speak Feb. 12.

Rat Wannamaker called at Graveyard's room some time ago and asked for a chimney for his electric light.

Rat Smith wishes that he had some "campaign" to drink.

been a soldier in the Revolution, was the builder. A son of his became a senator of the United States from Texas, serving from 1846 to 1856, dying in the latter year.

From his place in the Senate, on the occasion of Calhoun’s death, the Texan paid grateful tribute to the great Carolinian’s interest in and kindness to him, when a boy, with “prospects anything but encouraging.”

About sixty years ago, the wood work of the church was destroyed by fire, again catching from the burning woods.

Years before this, in 1828, “by the force of circumstances and natural consent, preaching was gradually transferred to the village of Pendleton.”

Since Clemson College’s opening (1893) a substantial stone wall has been built around the cemetery, the building repaired, preaching services have been resumed; a Sunday school has been opened; and “The Old Stone Church and Cemetery Association” has been organized to preserve the history of the building and to provide for the “perpetual care of the Old Stone church cemetery.”

Dr. R. N. Brackett, of the Clemson Faculty, has edited and published a memorial volume of two hundred pages. The old stone church, Oconee county, South Carolina—a book well worth its price not only to all who are interested in the old church and its “God’s Acre” near by, but to all who believe that “a people who forget the noble deeds of their remote ancestors will achieve nothing worthy to be remembered with pride by remote descendants.”

THE MODERN TEN COMMANDMENTS.
1—Thou shalt love thy sweetheart with all thy heart, and all thy might, thou shalt not wear other girls rings or adore their pictures.
2—Thou shalt not take another girl home when it rains, for I, thy girl, am a jealous girl.
3—Remember the dates that thou hast with me; for all other days thou shalt labor and do all thy work, but on these days, thou shalt squander thy earnings and take me out.
4—Thou shalt truthfully tell me the state of thy finances, lest in the end my father be called to carry double.
5—Honor my father and mother wherefore they may be easily influenced.
6—Thou shalt not steal kisses from other girls.
7—Thou shalt give all other girls the marble heart.
8—Thou shalt not object to a chaperone.
9—Thou shalt not covet my father’s house or his goods, or anything that is my father’s except me.
10—Thou shalt not fear my father’s feet, he has the gout; nor the burning of gas; as we have candles.—Exchange.

Prof. Nourse (on examination): “What is the economy or lack of economy in raising a calf by the hand?”
Bonehead Sr.: “The calf belongs to the class of animals that have no hands; therefore he would have to be raised by the tail.”

Prof. Napier: “Mr. Wolfe, name the plants grown for stimulants.”
Senior W.: “Corn and rye are the principal ones.”
