Item 8. Educational Policy Committee Report.
Statement: Mr. McCraw, Chair of the Educational Policy Committee, stated that the committee had met and wished to present recommendations on the following action items.

Action: New Degree Programs, Program Modification, and Centers and Institutes:

New Degree Programs: Mr. McCraw explained that the Educational Policy Committee recommended a proposed new degree program for a Masters of Education in Early Childhood Education (with an emphasis in math, science and technology) (Attachment B). He explained that the new program requires approval by the Commission on Higher Education, the University has adequate facilities, and it requires no new funding. Provost Helms noted that with the emphasis in math, science and technology, this degree program would not be duplicative.

Program Modification: Mr. McCraw explained that the Committee recommended modification of the degree program for the Masters of Education in Administration and Supervision (Attachment C). He noted that modification requires approval by the Commission on Higher Education, uses existing facilities and requires no new funding. Provost Helms noted that we already teach this degree but would like to modify the program to move 50% of the program off-campus. This course is requested by contract with school districts and is in high-demand because of the aging principal population.

Centers and Institutes: Mr. McCraw explained that the Committee recommended the creation of the Center for Improvement of Construction Management and Processes (Attachment D). He noted that the center would require a facility but no new funding. He also noted that only internal approval is required. Provost Helms explained that Clemson’s Construction Science Management program is in the Top 5 and this center will allow interaction with the construction industry through laboratory work and simulations by case study. Chairman Hendrix noted that this was a good example of the administration reallocating funds from programs with declining interest to those with growing interest so that no new funds are required.

Mr. McCraw explained that the Committee also recommended the creation of the Clemson Renaissance Center, with an emphasis area in leadership and entrepreneurship (Attachment E.). He noted that this required internal approval only. He also noted that, while new funds were required, these will come from private sources such as grant funding and program revenues.

After discussion, Mr. McCraw moved to approve the recommended new degree program, program modification and new centers. The motion was seconded by Mr. McKissick and passed unanimously.

Information Item. Faculty Senate Report. Connie Lee, outgoing President of the Faculty Senate, presented her report (Attachment F) and introduced incoming President, Beth Kunkel. Mr. McCraw thanked Dr. Lee for her good work and welcomed Dr. Kunkel.

Mr. Smith reported that the Committee recommended that the construction contract for the HVAC Renovations to Poole Agricultural Center, Phase 2, be awarded to Waldrop Heating & Air Conditioning, Inc. of Spartanburg, S.C., pending the expiration of the protest period (Attachment G). He moved to approve the award. Mr. Lynch seconded the motion, and it passed unanimously.

President Barker gave a budget update and noted the encouraging work by the Senate Finance Committee. He stressed the direct link between state support and tuition and noted that, if the process went as expected, the Board could expect a lower tuition increase than in recent years. Finally, President Barker closed with his latest installment of Life in the President’s home. He shared that the first time he heard of Clemson was from P.J. Burns, the father of his childhood best friend in Kingsport, TN. P.J. Burns passed away two weeks earlier, and President Barker was able to present a sword, that had been presented to him by Dean Cox, to Mr. Burns’ grandson.
