Minority Report - Examinations Committee

I do not agree with the majority of the Committee as to two recommendations: (1) Holding part of the entrance examinations at the County seats; (2) Excluding boys from any class because their home is near a school that runs six months.

Reasons: These county seat examinations will not, in my judgment, be as satisfactory tests of applicants' qualifications as examinations at the College - such as we have been holding since July 1893.

(2) To hold entrance examinations at all County seats - and also at the College - will give more weight to the Committee on examinations to exclude boys from any class on account of residence is class Legislation. A boy should be admitted, or excluded, because of his qualifications - or lack of qualifications - his individual merit or demerit - and not on account of the location of the residence of his parents or guardian.

REPORT OF EXAMINATION COMMITTEE

not work a hardship upon Feb. 7th, 1905. Applying late will not lessen any one's chances of entering the college. The text of the rule is

The Committee recommends the following:--to stand examinations at the county seats which they might. The Faculty respectfully request the Board of Trustees to pass the following regulations:--

1. -- Examinations for entrance into the Freshman class shall be held at the various county seats at the same time that the examinations for scholarships are held. The arrangements for these examinations shall be made by the proper authorities of the college in each county seat. This rule modified by the admission of students to the college who have passed entrance examinations at the county seats.

3. -- No student shall be admitted into the Preparatory class who has not completed the course of study in English, Mathematics, History, and Geography in the school to which he has access at home; provided, however, that this rule shall not apply in the case of schools that are not open at least six months in the year.

4. -- Entrance examinations shall be held at the college during the two days preceding the opening of the session in September. The five days preceding the opening of college shall be continued to be set apart for the make-up work of deficient students.

In asking the Board to adopt these rules the Faculty would point out, with regard to the first rule (1) That it is desirable to hold examinations at the county seats because this would avoid putting a student to the expense of coming to Clemson without knowing whether he can enter the college classes. (2) That entrance examinations are now held annually at the county seats by the South Carolina College, the Citadel, Charleston College, and Winthrop and by Clemson for scholarship students. (3) That the expense of holding such examinations can in some measure be met by the money saved in the reduction of the number who will have to be boarded at the expense of the college during the five day period before the opening.

With regard to the second rule, that since it is already the custom — and must necessarily be so — to accept students in the order of the date of their application, the enforcement of this rule will not work a hardship upon any student applying late as will not lessen any one's chances of entering the college. The intent of the rule is merely to forcibly remind the applicants to stand the examinations at the county seats which they might carelessly neglect to do.

With regard to the third rule, that it is intended to work with the other two rules in making room at the college for those who are capable of entering the college classes, by excluding from the Preparatory class boys from the cities and towns who come unprepared for college work but have good preparatory schools at home. This rule would not prevent students from entering the college classes at any time they are prepared to do so, whether or not they have completed the work of the school to which they have access. The Preparatory class would then be open only to those for whom it should be maintained, i.e. boys who have not good schools at home. This rule would meet the criticism that the college has received from the school men of the state and from members of the legislature that it is running in competition with the graded schools.

Amended report of Examination Committee
Feb. 16, 1905

The Committee recommends the following: That the Faculty respectfully request the Board of Trustees to pass the following regulations:

1. Examinations for entrance into the Freshman class shall be held at the various county seats on the day set for the examinations for scholarships. The examination questions shall be prepared and the papers shall be graded by the proper authorities of the college.

2. In admitting students to the college, preference shall be given to those who have passed entrance examinations at the county seats.

3. No student living in a city or in a town of more than 300 inhabitants, shall be admitted into the preparatory class unless he has completed the courses of study in English, Mathematics, History and Geography in the school at his home; provided, however, that this rule shall not apply to any applicant who is over eighteen years of age.

4. Entrance examinations for new students shall be held at the college during the two days preceding the opening of the session in September. The five days preceding the opening of college shall continue to be set apart for the make-up work of deficient students.

In asking the Board to adopt these rules, the Faculty would point out with regard to the first rule (1) That it would afford a means of enforcing a regulation already made by the Board of Trustees which reads: "Boys prepared to enter college classes will have preference over those who can only enter the Preparatory class." It has heretofore been impossible to enforce this excellent rule. Second that it is desirable to hold examinations at the county seats because this would avoid putting a student to the expense of coming to Clemson without knowing whether or not he could enter the Freshman class. Third, That entrance examinations are now held annually at the county seats by the South Carolina College, the Citadel, Charleston College, and Winthrop and by Clemson for scholarship students. Fourth, That the expense of holding such examinations can, in some measure, be met by the money saved in the reduction of the number who will have to be boarded.
at the expense of the college during the five day period before the opening.

With regard to the third rule, that it is intended to work with the other two rules in making room at the college for those who are capable of entering the college classes (Freshman or higher), by excluding from the Preparatory class young boys from the cities and towns who come unprepared for college work but have good preparatory schools at home. This rule would not prevent students from entering the Freshman class at any time they are prepared to do so, whether or not they have completed the work of the school to which they have access; and would reserve places in the Preparatory class for those boys for whom it was intended, that is, who have not good school facilities at home. This rule would meet the criticism that the college has received from the school men of the state and from members of the legislature that it is running in competition with the graded schools.

Statistics recently obtained show that about 66% of the students now in the Preparatory class came from the town and city schools of the state.

Members of examination Committee.
The report of the college for the past year shows a steady increase in the number of students enrolled. The college has also expanded its facilities, with the construction of new buildings and the renovation of existing ones. The financial situation of the college remains sound, with a steady increase in tuition fees. The college administration is committed to providing a quality education to all students, and it is working towards improving the living conditions of the students.
