The faculty was called to order by the president at 8 a.m., with Messrs. Chisholm, Craighead, McKee, Vanier, Wells, Butler, Stage, Loggins, Hardin, Fuller, Redgrave, Clinton, Morrison, and Brackett present.

At the request of the president, Mr. Redgrave stated that the object of the meeting was to consider the advisability of suspending the college on account of a widespread epidemic of measles. The doctor stated that at least a third of the corps have not had measles, that the capacity of the hospital is limited, which would necessitate using the barracks, and that the barracks are needed for other use.
