WILSON PASSES THROUGH CALHOUN

Shortly after dinner Monday it was rumored around barracks that President Wilson was making his return trip from Mississippi, and that he was to pass through Calhoun on the first section of 37, which passes at 4:20. Immediately the cry started up, “Let’s go see him;” and from that moment the movement grew until it culminated in about 800 of the student body and several members of the faculty collecting at Calhoun to meet his train.

After a short wait the smoke of old 37 was seen in the distance as she wound her way down the hills from Seneca, and rumbling across the Seneca River slowly came up the incline. We knew from its slowing up on the grade that he must be on the observation platform, and sure enough as it drew alongside there stood President and Mrs. Wilson. We would have liked at least a short speech, but it was hardly reasonable to expect the train to stop when it might have been necessary for it to have backed down to the Seneca River to get a start sufficient to make the grade.

So it was only a glance that we got of the first lady and gentleman of the land—but we all felt fully repaid for our trip over to Calhoun in having seen the first democratic president since Cleveland and the man whose diplomacy is daily making the United States more highly respected by the nations of the world.

CLEMSON FIVE DOWNS FURMAN

In a fiercely contested game, the Tigers defeated Furman by a small margin of 27 to 20.

The Tigers went into the game handicapped by the loss of Captain Erwin and Ward, who were ruled out the afternoon before by the Athletic Council. It was only through the determined pluck and fight on the part of the patched up five that the Tigers managed to come out victoriously. The Furman five put up a game fight, several times nearly overcoming our small lead.

The work of “Kenny” Caughman at forward was great, he scoring all of the Tigers points except five. John Logan, although having practiced only one afternoon, put up a grand game. Glover, the other forward, played a steady consistent game. Lewis and Hoffmeyer at guards played spectacular ball. The passing of these men was superb. Lewis was as quick as lightning, and many times intercepted high and wide passes. Hoffmeyer is a new man and his fine showing was appreciated by all who witnessed the game.

Captain Chapel of Furman played a star game for his crew. Burts proved a shark at shooting foul goals, getting

S. I. A. A. MEETS AT JACKSONVILLE

The most interesting feature of the recent meeting of the S. I. A. A. at Jacksonville, Fla., was the election of Dr. W. M. Riggs as President of the Association. Dr. Wm. L. Dudley, for so many years President of the S. I. A. A., was made President Emeritus. As successor to President Riggs as Vice President of the first district, the Association elected Capt. Jno. W. Moore of the Citadel. Professor Riggs’ long connection with athletics in the South, his knowledge of the subjects, and the confidence which the various Colleges of the Association have in his judgment made him an ideal man for this position.

The meeting in Jacksonville was well attended. All of the larger schools of the Association had delegates present. The University of Texas on the west, the Citadel on the east, the State University of Kentucky on the north, and Tulane on the south were represented. The only schools not having delegates were Wofford College and the College of Charleston.

After the election of officers, the greatest interest of the meeting centered in the action of the Executive Committee in regard to appeals for the reinstatement of debarred or suspended players. Clemson was fortunate in having three men restored to eligibility. Reaves and DuRant were made eligible to play football and Banks was also restored to eligibility. The petitions of Carson and Ward to play a fifth year in college athletics was refused. Great interest centered about the requests of the authorities at Tech to restore Prease to eligibility. This was refused by the Executive Committee by unanimous vote.

The most interesting part of the meeting proper consisted in passing upon proposed amendments to the constitution. The following amendments were made. I have tried to list these in order of importance.

1. No student of a college of more than four hundred male collegiate students in the preceding regular college year shall be permitted to participate in inter-collegiate foot ball contests until he has been in attendance one collegiate year. This amendment will make affairs like the Prease case impossible in the large colleges and universities. No p.c.mising Prep. school foot ball player can enter college and play during his first year. It will also give the best men a chance to play their fourth year as graduate students. This will be at a time when they will be ripest in experience and can be of most service to their respective colleges.

2. It was resolved that in the relay race no points shall be counted, and, in lieu thereof, a trophy cup shall be presented to the winning team.

3. No petitions for re-instatement of ineligible players shall be submitted to the Executive Committee to be passed upon between annual meetings. Only cases in which there is a question of fact or interpretation shall be considered by the Committee between annual meetings.

Under this amendment a petition such as that presented by Reaves and DuRant to the Executive Committee last fall would be entirely out of order. It was clearly unconstitutional to consider the matter under the old constitution, but this amendment states very clearly that such cases can be passed upon only at the annual meeting.

4. The officers of the Association hereafter are to be selected in this way. The Committee shall report to the convention a ticket containing two candidates for each office to be voted upon for each office, and also the names of to two communities to be voted upon as a place for holding the next annual convention.

5. In the future no scholarship can be given under any plan or for any amount unless it has been approved by the Executive Committee of the Association.

6. An athlete becomes a professional if, after entering a college, he has played upon a foot ball team in company with professionals. Also this amendment was passed: "The presumption of professionalism shall lie against any student proven to have offered his athletic services for money or other valuable consideration."

7. Hereafter a student of a college must register in person within thirty days after the opening of the college session.

Clemson was ably represented at this meeting by Dr. Riggs and Dr. Calhoun, both of whom have done much for athletics at Clemson and throughout the South. The election of Dr. Riggs to the presidency of the S. I. A. A. brings much honor to Clemson, and every Clemson man feels that under his guidance the Association will become more than ever a credit to the South and to the country's athletics.

It is with great regret that we lose Capt. Erwin, Ward, and Lewis. These men were stars in their departments, and their places will be hard to fill.

The line-up was as follows:

Clemson.

Logan 1, Lewis and Walker 2.

Furman.

Caughman 1, Thornton 2.

Referees—Erwin and Perry.

Goals from field: Caughman 11, Logan 1, Glover 1.

Clemson now has an enrollment of 733—besides the short course men. We don't mean the above in the same way as did that writer who said, "There are 40,000 people in Mexico, the rest are Mexicans."

According to Bismarck, there is one word which expresses the best rule of life: "Work!" Without work life is empty. Everyone appreciates the truth of this saying and we might add, that work breeds "Love." There would be no dearth of love for our college here, fellows, if every man picked out at least one branch of our college activities and labored with the purpose in view of helping make it better and greater, and that's what each man should do. If one can't be an athlete, he may be a speaker, a writer—a worker. If we were all workers we wouldn't become so easily dissatisfied but would feel much like the man who wrote:

"This world that we are livin' in
Is mighty hard to beat
You get a thorn with every rose
But ain't the roses sweet."

There is a vast difference between working and wishing too, remember, many a man has failed because he had a wish bone where his back bone should have been.

How many of us are keeping scrap-books? I don't mean newspaper clippings about what we have done in different athletic lines, though we will appreciate those, years from now when they recall our college life and its pleasures so vividly, but those in which we have pasted the quotations that we have heard from distinguished speakers, preachers and professors. If we have been keeping these latter, we need not worry about having to make extemporaneous speeches, because a glance into our scrap book will show many terse sayings, which will offer food for a half hour's discourse. Keep a scrap book—you'll never regret having done so.

The entire college feels badly over Ward's and Erwin's being ruled out—but there was no alternative for the Athletic Council; the rules are laid down in black and white.

The men who played in the game against Furman Saturday are to be complimented on the game that they put up. Some of the fellows had practiced but one day—it was fight that counted—every man played with the fury of desperation.

Class foot-ball is coming on at a great rate and the spirit is fine—every man should be on hand at the games—if you can't play you can yell for your classmates.

Although the number of college weeklies received by The Tiger in exchange is limited, it is our wish that those who have relatives at schools, that we exchange with, and to whom they are of especial interest may get all the good possible from them. For this reason we have arranged with the Y. M. C. A. to have our exchanges placed in the Y. M. C. A. store where anyone is welcome to drop in and read them. Up to date very few have come in as some of the college and universities did not get out an issue the first week after the holidays. We expect, however, to have a good number on hand there soon.

LIVERY STABLE BURNS

At about 12:25 Friday morning the ringing of the bell and the blast of the power-house whistle awakened the cadets to the fact that something of a very unusual nature was taking place. A glance out the window settled the question that was in every one's mind, for the whole sky seemed lighted up by a great fire. Some of those who roomed farthest from the main building thought that it or the Textile building was surely on fire, but as soon as they got out of barracks it was found to be the livery stables of Clinkscales and Crowther.

When the very first cadets arrived on the scene the fire seemed to be at its height, and it was impossible to save anything. A line of hose was run from the Textile building and by turning the water on the surrounding buildings the fire was kept from spreading. Owing to the combustible nature of the building and the foodstuffs which were stored there the flames fairly ate up the barn and within half hour from the first alarm the barn was nothing but a smoking mass of ruins.

The building was practically new, taking the place of a stable burned on the same spot two years ago. The loss to the owners, however, was not in the building, but in the carriages, automobile and horses which were destroyed. The true seriousness of the fire could not be realized Friday night owing to the rapidity and thoroughness with which the flames worked. But next morning the charred bodies of the horses lying huddled in the corners where they had run for safety were found.

THE FOOT BALL SCHEDULE FOR 1914.

The football schedule for 1914 has been completed. In many respects, it is one of the best and most representative that Clemson has ever had. The game with Tennessee gives a line on the Tennessee and Kentucky elevens, while the game with V. M. I. connects us up with the teams in Virginia, North Carolina and the District of Columbia.

The one great objection to the schedule is that it does not provide for a single game on the home grounds. It was impossible to get a home game. It is Auburn’s turn this year to play at home, and the same is true of Davidson. Georgia will not play away from Athens, nor will Tennessee, although with the latter we have a contract covering a return game in 1915.

The Citadel game has been changed at the suggestion of Coach Williams to the Saturday after the Carolina game. This could have been played at Clemson if the cadets had been at home.

The Tech. and Carolina games must of course be played in Atlanta and Columbia respectively, as these two games are depended upon to finance the season.

The following is the schedule:

October 3rd—Davidson at Davidson.
October 10th—University of Tennessee, at Knoxville.
October 17th—Auburn, at Auburn.
October 29th—Carolina, at Columbia.
October 31st—The Citadel, at Charleston.
November 7th—University of Georgia, at Athens.
November 14th—Virginia Military Institute at Richmond.
November 26th—Georgia Tech. at Atlanta.

V. M. I. was closed with for November 14 after it was found impossible to get the University of North Carolina, Sewanee, or the University of Alabama for that date.

It is possible, although not likely, that a home game can be secured for Semptember 26th.

In 1915 we will be due three home games, and by swapping one off for a 1916 game and looking for another reciprocal contract, a schedule can be arranged in a few years so as to give at least two games on the home grounds every season. But for 1914, the cadets will have to depend on seeing the Carolina game in Columbia and the Tech. game in Atlanta.

OUR ANNUAL

The work and plans for the Annual are progressing. The photographer has all the pictures and the prints of the different clubs will be forwarded to the engravers as early as possible. A batch of prints has already been sent to the engravers. These cuts will be made up at once and the proofs sent to the management of the Annual. As soon as these proofs are “O. K.” the cuts will be shipped to the printers.

The Bureau of Engraving of Minneapolis is doing the engraving work, and the Observer Printing House of Charlotte is to print the book. The management can congratulate themselves upon having such reputable firms attending to these important features of the work. The material for the book will be in the hands of the printers by the middle of March and the books will be on sale by the 20th of May—price, $2.50 per volume—Get one!

The Annual will be the best book of its kind got out by the College for the past several years—it is a true and accurate record of the College and of college life in general. It is to be bound in cow hide and printed on the best Dill and Collins paper. While the Annual is a record, it also contains much wit and humor. Our Scotch editor, Mr. McDonald, has a splendid supply of wit and he is “turning loose in Taps ‘14.”

The management have furnished a financial statement to the “Tiger.” In view of the fact that there are quite a few clubs, individuals, etc., who have not yet paid their assessments, we urge them to do so at once as the engraver’s bill will be due in a short while. The statement is as follows:

THE GREAT VOLUNTEER CONVENTION

The World's Student Volunteer Convention which was held in Kansas City, Mo., recently, was the greatest convention in the history of the Volunteer movement. There were over five thousand delegates in attendance at each session; and nearly four thousand of this number were the representatives of the leading educational institutions of the United States and Canada. Besides the American and English delegations to the Convention, there were several hundred foreign subjects who are attending institutions in this country.

Among the principal speakers of the Convention were John R. Mott; Robert E. Speer; Dr. Mackenzie, of the Canadian Methodist Church; Dr. Horton, of London; Sherwood Eddy, of New York; Dr. Zwemer, from Africa; and Hon. William J. Bryan. Each of these men had a message of vital importance for the delegates; and the address of each speaker was heard with keenest interest by every one.

Two Special Pullman cars were operated to accommodate the delegates from the South Carolina colleges, and nearly every college in the State was represented. The delegates from Clemson were Cadets Ward, C. W.; McCall, P. L.; McDonald, F. H.; and Secretary Robt. L. Sweeney.

It is hoped that a large measure of the inspiration which has come to our delegates may be communicated to the College community; and that it will result in a large interest in the Missionary activities of the College.

HEARD IN THE CLASSROOM

Prof. C.—“Here is a good example of petrified wood.”
Cadet Parker—“I threw a piece like that into a river and it floated.”
Prof. C.—“What caused it to float Mr. Parker?”
Parker—“I think that it looked so much like wood that it fooled the river.”

Senior chemists—Professor didn’t you take a leave of absence the year before you started taking us?
Prof. M.—“Yes, and when I get rid of you I am going to take another.”

Cadet J. H. S. Wells on reporting back to college.
Prof. D.—“Mr. Wells, I thought you had fallen into the well and drawn the J. H. S. in after you.”

Prof. Shields—“So Your Y. M. C. A. secretary has an auto, hope he has better luck than some others.”
Cadet Dantzler—“He has already run into a ditch with a lady.”

“Spoon” Witherspoon—“Some excuse for that, although he should have kept both hands on the steering wheel.”

Here is another that was not intended for us to hear, but it goes down among “Cat” Randies many other (smart) (?) sayings:
“A ham sandwich is generally made of ham, but a corn plaster is not always made of corn.” There’s food for thought here.

WHAT OTHERS ARE DOING AND SAYING

The University of Texas is planning a new gymnasium which will cost $150,000.

The University of Florida has secured Dr. Ralph Barton Perry of Harvard University to deliver the baccalaureate address at the commencement exercises of 1914.

The Juniors at the University of Kansas will erect, as their memorial, a clock which will be placed in one of the museum towers.

Vermont boasts of a student council. It is a body of students to whom all cases of discipline are referred by the faculty. This council has placed a ban on the tango and other rag dances.

Vanderbilt plays Michigan at Ann Arbor according to their 1914 schedule.

Sewanee also has out her schedule. She is to play Alabama, Georgia, Auburn, Tennessee and Virginia, and has still a couple of unfilled dates.

LYCEUM NOTES

The concert given by Skovgaard and his company last Friday night was largely attended and greatly enjoyed. The program was varied, and the execution of each number was artistic. The great Danish violinist was the star. His story of the violin was interesting and instructive. He has a Stradivarius made in 1712, which he values at $13,000.
