Gaulden Adds Another Victory

After a game uphill fight, featured by the slugging of Brown, Webb and Jordan, and the steady work of the entire team, Clemson overcame the three run lead and made a garrison finish. Anderson started well for the home team but blew up in the second, being relieved by Gaulden. After this disastrous inning Gaulden settled down to his old steady gait and held the Wofford boys scoreless. Jordan, playing his first varsity game, touched His Grace Mr. Frey for three bases, sending in Webb and Cureton to tie the score, while "Skeet" Browne put on the finishing touches with a single that won the game. It may be added that the little catcher was death to the base stealers. On the other hand, the Tigers ran wild, "Tanny" Webb taking three, and Parker, Cureton, Tarrant and Iler adding one apiece.

First Inning
Whitmire takes three healthy swings. Osborne follows suit. DeShields gets a free pass but Browne throws him out at second. No hits. No runs.

Tarrant flied out to center. Parker singled to center and stole second. Webb gets an infield hit and advances Parker to third. Cureton hit a stinger to Carmichael and Parker is cut off at home. In the meantime, Cureton takes possession of second. Harris drives one through Osborne and Cureton and Webb "castle walk" in home.

Second Inning
Sims struck out. Moore lifts a single to right field. Carmichael slams out a double to center field. Moore romps home. Seagars singles to left. Cross singles to right. Carmichael scores. (Gaulden relieves Anderson.) Frey gets safe on an error. He goes to second and third on Iler's error. In the meantime Seagars and Cross score. Whitmire pops one over third and fearing a collision, no one catches it. Frey scores. Osborne fails to connect. Whitmire is thrown out to second. The disastrous inning comes to a close.

Third Inning
DeShields fans. Sims goes out.
Fourth Inning
Carmichael gets a single. Seagars pops out to Gaulden, who completes a double to Webb. Cross strikes out. One hit. No runs.

Fifth Inning
Frey grounds out to Cureton. Whitmire knocks an easy grounder to Gaulden. Osborne dittoes. No hits. No runs.

Sixth Inning
DeShields flies out to Cureton. Sims doubles to left. Moore sacrifices Sims to third. Skeet catches Sims asleep on third. One hit. No runs.

Seventh Inning

Parker out, Carmichael to Whitmire. Webb grounds out to Osborne. Cureton dittoes. No hits. No runs.

Eighth Inning

Ninth Inning
Sims singles to left. Moore sacrifices him to second. Carmichael flies out to Parker. Wiggins pops out to "cap". One hit. No runs.

THE TAMING OF THE SHREW
"The Taming of the Shrew" has always been the most popular of what may be called the robust comedies of Shakespeare. Its acting qualities are strong and vivid characterization and swift and positive action. Its robustness is fairly boisterous in places, and the plot is as vigorously simple as the action. It is the story of the elder daughter who stands in the way of the marriage prospects of the younger daughter. Katharina must get a husband before the fair Bianca can be married. Nobody is willing to marry Katharina, while Bianca is besieged with suitors. From the outset there is ample reason, from the modern point of view, for Katharina's shrewishness. Once Petruchio appears on the scene, it is a foregone conclusion that he will marry Katharina, and, what is more, he will tame the Shrew into the gentle wife. To the Elizabethan audience this was doubtless exquisite comedy. To break the spirit of a self-willed and spirited woman, even though she had a bitter tongue, and reduce her to the point where she dutifully says: "Such duty as the subject owes the prince"

Even such a woman oweth to her husband."

Was doubtless seemed to Shakespeare's audience a spectacle of rare sport. The appeal of the comedy to the modern actor lies in the strength of the characters themselves, and the wide range of acting required. It is not the amusement of the situation which appeals so much as the depiction of unusually defined individuals. And of course the modern actress has her great opportunity in making the part of the shrew sympathetic. Petruchio, on the other hand, is to the modern actor a problem in strength of mind rather than mere physical brutality. In justice to the Elizabethan age it must be remembered that a popular demand warranted the production of Fletcher's rejoinder to this play in "Woman's Prize, or The Tamer Tamed". Certainly the modern woman must feel that Petruchio needed to undergo some awakening to the rights of the woman's point of view.

It is an important part of the work of The Coburn Players to give the plays of Shakespeare with something of the spirit in which they were first written and produced. In the case of “The Taming of the Shrew”, however, the performance is one in which the modern point of view is not wholly lost sight of. Mr. Coburn’s Petruchio is a study in mental traits rather than an explosion of brute force, and Mrs. Coburn’s Katharina, while preserving the strength of the typical self-willed shrew, is full of suggestion of the deeper and more essential womanhood which lies behind the rough surface of the scold. That Katharina was not a common scold is the permanent truth in the play.

“The Taming of the Shrew” will be the first of the three plays which the Coburn Players are to present on the Clemson campus, May 4th and 5th. The other two are “The Merry Wives of Windsor,” which will be seen in the matinee on Tuesday afternoon of the 5th, and “Hamlet”, which will be presented on the night of the 5th.

List of students having no failures, no current work behind and less than twenty demerits for the second term which ended March 21, 1914.

CHARLESTON, S. C.
On each Friday night they journey down to Colonel’s for a war game. Sides are chosen and given certain troops at their disposal, positions are taken and a series of maneuvers gone through, using maps of past campaigns.

So far the war games have proved both interesting and instructive and these evenings are heartily enjoyed by all.

This week brings with it the State Oratorical contest which is to be held this year in Rock Hill. Clemson will be represented by Major Arnold Boyd, as a speaker, by the best baseball team in the South, and by our especially well drilled aggregation in the “picked” company—we could hardly wish for a better representation.

“Major” is going to the contest with the intention of making he best showing that a Clemson man has ever made and if hard work counts for anything, he should do so—Clemson has never been represented by a man who has given more time and thought to his speech than has this man.

The baseball team is going over with the hope of exactly reversing the results of the games that we played five years ago, when big “Carl” Cashman, was the pride of Due West. On that occasion, Erskine took both ends cans, was the pride of Due West. On.

For we like to print the news, and nothing more.

Mother’s Day will soon be here, and all over the country men will give special thought to Mother. It is a great pity that we do not have “Mother’s Day” in spirit at least, a great deal more often than we do. It won’t be anything like the same when we can no longer wear the white rose.

When you hear Clemson news, Step right in— We will greet you with a “howdy” And a grin; When you hear Clemson news, Step right in—

And ‘twill save our office shoes If you’ll think about the Tiger— send it in. If you’ll think about the Tiger— send it in.

SCHACHTE BLANKS CITADEL

On Thursday evening the Clemson Tigers shattered the Citadel Bull Dogs hopes for a State Championship. During the entire game, the little Charleston lad held the visitors at his mercy—not once did they threaten to score. "Skeet" Brown continued his wonderful swatting, adding two doubles to his record. Clemson, as it appears, had a monopoly on the base stealing, while the Citadel could not get by with any.

First Inning

Tarrant out, Pierce to Bolton. James draws a free pass. Weeks gets safe on Tarrant's error. Folger flies out to Harris. Pierce pops out to Schachte with any.

Tarrant singles thru short. Parker fouls out. Tarrant is caught in the double. Webb gets four bad ones, and steals second. Cureton grounds out to first. One hit. No runs.

Second Inning

Buse grounds out to Schachte. Jeter flies out to Harris. Bolton flies out to Parker. No hits. No runs.

Third Inning

Gibson misses three and is thrown out at first. Tarrant singles over second. James fans. Weeks flies out to Jordan. One hit. No runs.

Browne fans. Schachte grounds out to Weeks. Tarrant reaches first on Pierce's error. Parker flies out to Tarrant. No hits. No runs.

Fourth Inning

Folger safe on Cureton's error. Pierce forced Folger out at second. Buse grounds out to Iler. Jeter flies out to Iler. No hits. No runs.

Fifth Inning

Bolton misses three and is thrown out at first. Gibson singles to center. Tarrant forces Gibson out at second. Tarrant out stealing second. No hits. No runs.

Sixth Inning

James flies out to Tarrant. Weeks follows suit. Folger grounds out to Parker. No hits. No runs.

Seventh Inning

Pierce singles thru second. Buse forces Pierce out at second. Kinlaw, batting for Jeter, forces Buse out at second and reaches second on Webb's error. Schachte catches the pinch hitter dozing at second. One hit. No runs.

Parker flies out to center. Webb grounds out to second. Cureton flies out to left. No hits. No runs.

Eighth Inning

Harris fouls out to catcher. Iler grounds out to short. Jordan flies out to Tarrant. No hits. No runs.

Ninth Inning

WHAT OTHERS ARE DOING AND SAYING

Brooks of Mississippi fanned out 20 men out of 27 in a recent game with Alabama and gave up 2 hits. Pretty fair pitching, eh? We might have another fairly tight game some day if we could play Mississippi.

The Auburn students seem to want a special baseball coach. They do not wish to cast any reflections on Donahue, but they want some one who can give all his time to baseball.

Beginning with the session of 1914-1915 there will be compulsory Typhoid Inoculation for all students of the Virginia Military Institute.

"Mamma, may I go to the Tango Tea?" asked the maiden in manner prayerful. Yes, dear but though you can't be good, For the love of Mike, be careful.—Ex.

Shaw, from Florida, pitched the greater part of all three games against Auburn, winning his game on the third day and striking out the last three in the ninth to show that he was still there.

In the same series, Davis, for Auburn, struck out 16 men in one game, while Besour, for Auburn, struck out 13 in another.

If we grew bald in proportion as we grow wise, some of us would still be upholstered a foot thick on top.

Another phase of it—Be sure you are wrong, retain the best legal talent available, and then go ahead.

Some are restrained in institutions provided for that purpose. Others become left-handed pitchers.

You say that you want to do something great for this old world and mankind in general, well get busy. Nobody has modified a Maxim Silencer so that it will extinguish the melody of a snare yet.

ELECTION OF STAFF OF “TAPS”

At a recent meeting of the Junior Class, the following men were elected to the staff of “Taps”, ’15:

D. E. Swinehart—Editor-in-chief.
S. M. Richards—Business Manager.
P. L. McCall—Advertising Manager.

Editors
W. J. Hunter—Chief.

Art Staff

The getting out of an Annual is indeed a hard proposition. However, the class feels sure that with the above men at the head of the Annual, they will get out an excellent number. While the bulk of the work will fall on the shoulders of the staff, it is hoped that every man in the class will work for the success of “Taps”, ’15.

SOCIALS

Miss Duncan of Salem, Va., is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Shields.

Miss Louise Porcher returns to Charleston this week, after a visit to her sister, Miss Anne Porcher.

Miss Smith and Mrs. Dickson of Lexington, Va., are visitors on the campus.

Mrs. Davis of Baltimore, formerly Miss Susie Sloan, is the guest of her parents.

Those from Clemson who attended the Amphion ball in Anderson were Mrs. Robertson, Misses Nela Sloan, and Sara and Katherine Furman, and Messrs. Birch, Morrison, Keitt, Stender, Douthit and Lewis.

Mrs. Shields was the hostess Tuesday afternoon at a tea given in honor of Miss Duncan.

Mr. and Mrs. Rhodes entertained at cards on Tuesday evening. Their guests were Mr. and Mrs. Rosencrans, Mr. and Mrs. Rolfs, Mr. and Mrs. Coaman, Mr. and Mrs. Johnstone, and Mr. and Mrs. Barre.

Mrs. Rhodes again was the hostess at a card party on Wednesday afternoon. Those playing were Mesdames Shiver, Bradley, Shanklin, Bryan, Rudd, Doyle, Earle, Barre, Dargan, Routten and Riggs; and Misses Calhoun, Bradford, Martin and Sadler.

Mrs. Shiver made the highest score, and Miss Martin was consoled with the booby prize.

The Thursday club was entertained last week by Mrs. Shanklin.

The Auction club met on Saturday afternoon with the Misses Furman.

Mr. and Mrs. Mills entertained on Saturday evening at a beautiful reception, which occasion marked the fifteenth anniversary of their wedding.

With the host and hostess in the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. Pressley and Mrs. Legrande Guerry of Columbia, and Dr. Riggs. The guests were met at the door by Mrs. Riggs and Mrs. Doyle, and introduced by Mesdames McCall and Mrs. Shiver. Mrs. McHugh and Mrs. Check assisted in the dining room, where Mrs. Earle, Mrs. Shanklin and Mrs. Powers presided, assisted by Misses Nela and Janie Sloan, Margaret and Etta Sadler, Madden, Hutchinson, Calhoun, Hughes and Brackett.

The house was charmingly decorated, and the college orchestra played throughout the evening.

THE COBURN PLAYERS
The Coburn Players will open their spring and summer tour on April 22nd at Washington, D. C. where they will give three open air performances under the auspices of the Montessori Educational Association. Their tour will extend throughout the Southern, Western and Eastern states, covering a period of nineteen or twenty weeks. They will appear as usual for a week each at Chicago University and Columbia University, N. Y. City. The repertoire of The Coburn Players this season includes ten plays. These are "Hamlet", "Taming of the Shrew", "Merchant of Venice", "Merry Wives of Windsor" and "As You Like It", by William Shakespeare. "Electra" and "Iphigenia", by Euripides, and "Sanctuary", "The Canterbury Pilgrims" and "Jeanne d'Arc" by Percy MacKay. This company will present "The Taming of the Shrew", "The Merry Wives of Windsor", and "Hamlet", on our campus on the fourth and fifth of May.

O beefsteak, there upon my plate,
For thee I sigh, on thee I saw.
Why is it thy fiber will not part,
That I may fill my empty maw?
This world a paradise would be,
If friends would be as thee.

COLUMBIAN SOCIETY

The "Moot Trial" which was held on April 17, was carried out in fine style. Even in the minutest details it was as good as could have been wished for. The trial was attended by a large audience all of whom seemed to enjoy themselves immensely. Wit and humor prevailed throughout the trial.

The following took part:
Judge—Harrison, J. F.
Solicitor—Armstrong, G. M.
Clerk of Court—Legette, F. C.
Sheriff—Gandy, A. P.
Plaintiff—McBride, J. N.

Witnesses—Parker, H. L., Byrd, E. M. (Squire Nibble.)
Prisoner—Carson, J. L. (Zachariah Ephriam Brown.)
Charge—Stealing chickens.

The following were impaneled as Jurors:

The charging of the jury by the judge: a fine of fifty cents and thirty days imprisonment in the stockade, or to shine "Harry" Sloan's shoes for a period of sixty days. The prisoner decided to pay the fine and serve his time.

GEE CLUB

One of the most enjoyable trips ever taken by a Clemson Glee Club was that taken last Monday, April 13, when we went down to Anderson for an entertainment at Anderson College Auditorium that evening.

Automobiles were waiting at the depot when the train arrived, and immediately took us to the various homes over the city to which we had been assigned. And at no time have we found people more hospitable than those who cared for us on this trip.

At 8:30 P. M. we were greeted at the college auditorium by a large and appreciative audience.

The whole program was rendered without a blunder, and the entertainment was a very creditable one, both to the boys, and to the college which they represent. The audience was very much pleased; and many pronounced it the most enjoyable attraction that has visited Anderson during the season.

After the entertainment, a reception was given and was enjoyed to the fullest. This was perhaps the longest reception that had been given us on any of our trips; yet we could hardly collect our wits before the bell began to ring. Everyone knew what this meant; so the spacious halls were soon vacated, and we, with reluctant step, were soon on our way homeward.

THE JUNIORS' SOLILOQUY

To dance or not to dance,—that is the question:
Whether 'tis nobler in the mind to obey
The rules laid down by the faculty,
Or to take arms against the stern dictators,
And by ignoring, anger them? To dance,—to trot,—
Till two; and by a Prom to say we end
The quibbling and the yards of scarlet tape
The profs delight in,—'tis a consummation
Devoutly to be wish'd. To dance,— to waltz,—
To eat! Perchance to rag! ay, there's the rub;
For 'bout the modern dance what howls will rise
When we scuffled off on a moonlight rag,
Must give us pause. But there's the splendor
Which makes the Promenade a dance of note;

For who would go thru school and not regard
The Prom as greatest of the fetes, the night divine,
When one may bring his lady fair, and when
One waltzes to music of the spheres, in rapt delight,
Enchanted so by queens in silken gowns
That all seems more like fairyland
Than things mundane? Oh, who would say
That dancing is a sin or dissipation
But that the dread of some sad aftermath,
(That feared investigation from whose strong chains
No junior can get free) puzzles the will
And makes us rather take things as the fates decree
Than have a Prom "more gorgeous than the last."
Thus rules doth make weak cowards of us all;
And thus our present plans of splendor
Are sicklied o'er with fears of prompt rejection
By those wiseacres with the iron gray hair.
With this regard their judgments make us yield
And lose the will to dance.
