Clemson vs. Wake Forest
Clemson Memorial Stadium

6 Cover Story
Jeff Bryant is one of the leaders of Clemson’s number-one ranked defense. He is a veteran of over 40 consecutive games in Tigertown and hopes to play in five more victories. Jeff Rhodes profiles Clemson’s leader in sacks.

8 Dr. Byron Harder
One of the reasons for Clemson’s success this year has been a lack of injuries. Obviously Clemson’s medical staff has been doing an outstanding job and team physician Dr. Byron Harder is one of the major reasons. Cricket Yates discusses Harder’s contributions.

35 Picture from the Past
One of Clemson’s most exciting victories took place in the 1951 Orange Bowl when the Tigers stopped Miami of Florida, 15-14. Sterling Smith tackled Miami’s Frank Smith for a safety to give the Tigers the one-point win.

42 The Comeback Kid
Bill Smith has had to fight all kinds of adversity during his five-year career on the gridiron. Pender Murphy reviews Smith’s comebacks from two separate knee operations to become a starter.

46 Tiger Basketball
Bill Foster has one of the most versatile teams in the country this season and that should mean a fourth straight trip to post-season play. Tim Bourret examines the hoop fortunes for 1981-82.

62 Mother of the Year
Each year Tiger Brotherhood selects Clemson’s Mother-of-the-Year, an honor given to a lady who has given much to Clemson University. Cricket Yates cites the contributions of Ruth Mahony, who has made Clemson a major part of her life.

96 University Feature
Clemson’s Extension Service is at it again. They have developed a collection of home furnishings that are just the thing for football fans who spend time in front of the television or at the game. Harold Rogers takes a look at the innovation.

100 Best Game of Past
The Clemson-Wake Forest series has been doted with many strange games, but none had a more interesting conclusion than the 1966 contest. David McGrew recalls the unusual fourth-quarter occurrences.

Clemson football fans are going to get their money's worth this afternoon as they will not only be witnessing a football game, but also will be treated to a circus. Wake Forest's aerial circus that is, as Al Groh and his pass-happy team of Demon Deacons travel to Death Valley to challenge the Tigers' number-one ranked scoring defense.

In this day of college football, most teams establish the rushing game to set up the passing attack. Wake Forest uses the opposite approach by establishing the pass to set up the run. Because of countless injuries and a lack of size up front, Wake Forest Coach Al Groh decided his team is not going to overpower many teams this season. So, he continued the system similar to the one left by John Mackovic (now offensive coordinator of the Dallas Cowboys), which meant fling the ball on nearly every down. "We have had success with our pass defense, unlike last year," said Clemson Head Coach Danny Ford. "But we have never faced a team that throws the ball like Wake Forest. We will obviously have to get a big pass rush to contain them. We won't be able to let Gary Schofield set up, or he will give us a lot of problems."

When you look at Wake Forest's passing statistics in general and Gary Schofield's in particular, it is no wonder they have put the ball in the air more often than the San Diego Chargers. For the season, Schofield has averaged 38 attempts and 23 completions per game this season.

In the last two weeks, Schofield has really let the air out of it as he has hit 73 of 108 passes for 777 yards. Clemson as a team for the entire season has completed only 56 passes in 112 attempts. Schofield is a native of Paoli, Pennsylvania and is obviously continuing the tradition of great quarterbacks from that state. Dan Marino of Pittsburgh is a native of that state and is the number-one rated quarterback in America.

Last week Schofield became only the sixth passer in the history of the ACC to go over 2,000 yards in a single season and he is only 18 completions away from the 200-mark for the season. Only one other player in ACC history, Schofield's former teammate Jay Venuto, holds the ACC mark for completions in a season with 218.

Schofield came into the national limelight two weeks ago in the Wake Forest-Maryland game when he completed 43 of 62 for 504 yards and two touchdowns. As a team, Wake Forest completed 47 of 67 for 556 yards that day, and set an all-time NCAA mark for completions by a team in one game.

Wake Forest does not have one receiver that dominates their receiving statistics. In fact, five pass catchers have caught over 20 passes this season (Clemson has had only one player, Perry Tuttle, reach that height) and 15 different players have caught at least one pass. Phil Denfeld is the leading receiver with 32 receptions for 284 yards. Kenny Duckett, who has caught 16 TD passes in his career, second on the all-time ACC list, has spear ed 26 passes for 299 yards.

While Wake Forest has had some gaudy passing statistics this season, Clemson has been just as flashy when it comes to defense, especially pass defense. The Tigers lead the nation in scoring defense by allowing only 5.4 points per game, and a pass defense that has picked off 19 passes and allowed only 49 percent of its opponents' passes to be completed is a major reason.

The Tigers have given up only two touchdowns passing all season and the secondary has not been beaten on the bomb yet. The longest completed pass by a Tiger opponent all year has been 25 yards. Last year at this time, Clemson had given up 17.9 points per game and allowed its opponents to complete 57 percent of its passes.

Many Clemson defensive backs deserve credit for the improvement in the secondary this year. The leader has been Terry Kinard, a sure-fire All-ACC free safety who will get a lot of votes for All-America mention this year. The Sumter, SC native was tied for third in the nation in interceptions going into last week's game and led the entire ACC in thefts with five. Most importantly, he is second on the Tiger team in tackles with 60. Kinard is as valuable as any player on the defense because of his contributions as a pass defender and tackler. He is almost a hybrid performer in that he plays linebacker and defensive back, depending on the situation.

The roommates on the corners have also done an outstanding job in their senior seasons. Hollis Hall, who is in the top three in the ACC in interceptions with four, and the charismatic Anthony Rose, have been major reasons for Clemson's air-tight defense this year. They have a third of Clemson's interceptions and have had to battle receivers much more impressively physically. But the fiesty South Carolina natives have done the job. Clemson has not lost a game over the last two years when Hall and Rose have started at the corners.

Tim Childers has been the fourth member of the starting secondary most of the year, but he ran into injury problems during the week preceding the Duke game. He should be back in the starting lineup again today. Ken Brown, Billy Davis, Rod McSwain and Jeff Suttle have also played significant roles this season. Brown will be lost for an indefinite period as the Hartwell, GA, native was injured last week against N.C. State after making the first start of his defensive career.

Everyone of the defensive backs will tell you that they could not be on the trail of Clemson's season pass interception record (Tigers have 19 so far and record...
Clemson linebacker Jeff Davis had 19 tackles against N.C. State, one short of his season high against Tulane. Three of the tackles on the Pack were for losses totalling 11 yards. Davis is now one tackle short of reaching 400 in his career.

Clemson wide receiver Perry Tuttle is still 17 receptions and 159 yards away from reaching Jerry Butler, who had 139 receptions and 2,223 yards receiving in his career as a Tiger. Butler has one record out of Tuttle’s reach—35 consecutive games with at least one reception. Tuttle has 27 straight after the N.C. State game.

Clemson still leads the nation this week in defense against scoring. The Tigers gave up seven points against N.C. State, giving them a 5.4 point average on the season. Clemson has allowed only three touchdowns all season, two passing and one rushing. At this time last season Clemson had given up 11 touchdowns.

There's plenty of energy for everyone in SCE&G's service area. But there's not enough that folks can afford to waste it. So keep your thermostats down in cold weather, up in hot. And remember to turn off lights and appliances when you're through using them. Because we could save lots of energy if we got everybody clicking.

SCE&G
By Jeff Rhodes

Every day for the past six million years or so, the sun has appeared over the horizon in the morning. Almost consistently, Clemson defensive tackle Jeff Bryant has appeared over the heads of opposing offensive linemen on game days.

Bryant's consecutive game streak now stands at 42 and only he and linebacker Jeff Davis have played in every game since 1978. Bryant has started 15 of the last 18 contests, missing the beginning of those three because of injury.

"I've always worked hard," said the 6-5, 260-pound Bryant. "I think that has been the key to me playing in every game.

"Every year I've gotten stronger working in the weight room with Coach (George) Dostal, and that's a big reason for my durability," Bryant continued. "I do work on my legs more, though. My arms are so long that I can only lift about 425 pounds. (ONLY 425?) I think I have more natural strength in my arms, and that's another reason I work so much with my legs. I also work on my legs by running and playing basketball.

Bryant's work in the weight room has paid big dividends on the playing field as well. His tackle total has risen from 31 as a freshman to his current total of 57 including a team high of 14 tackles for loss and four sacks.

"The defensive line is playing better this year than we ever have," Bryant said. "We are playing with a lot of poise and intensity and we just try to get better each week. We just go out and try to be as aggressive as possible and keep the other team from scoring on us. If they can't score, they can't win.

"I felt the defense came together as a unit against Georgia," said Bryant, who majors in industrial education at Clemson. "Our loss to Georgia in 1980 played a major factor in our downfall the rest of the season. Beating them this year let us know where we are. The win really built confidence for us."

Bryant had his best day ever as a Tiger grade-wise in the Georgia win. Bryant was in on 80 plays, and he received a coaches' mark of 129 percent for his efforts. Against Duke two weeks ago, he graded out at 101 percent and was named Atlantic Coast Conference defensive Player-of-the-Week.

Bryant's best game tackle-wise, though, came last week in the win over NC State. He had 12 tackles including four for losses.

However, Bryant encountered some hardship after the performance as he missed starting three games with an ankle injury and a right ring-finger injury that had to be operated on in the off-season. He played in those three games, though, and he bounced back to start the last three contests at defensive end.

Bryant and the rest of the team rebounded against South Carolina in the season's finale and he obviously feels it was the key to this year's success. "The South Carolina game started this season for us. That win gave us momentum coming into the year.

"We looked at the way some teams manhandled us last year," Bryant said. "We use that as a motivating point. The players are more motivated this year and we are coming off to a great start. There is more leadership within the team this year. We have more people wanting to do better and we have more winners who want to be champions."

Right now, one name or title Bryant is interested in his Tigers receiving is ACC Champion. "Our immediate goal is to win the Atlantic Coast Conference," stated Bryant with confidence. "We are not worried about rankings, bowl bids or even the national championship. Sure, we want all those things, but if we win the ACC title and go undefeated the other things will take care of themselves."

If the Tigers can win the ACC or some even greater titles, Bryant will certainly receive much of the credit and therefore gain strong consideration for a pro career by the NFL scouts. "Pro football is in the back of my mind—it is in the back of every college football player's mind. I'd like to get a chance to play, but if I can't I can always fall back on my degree. I've received a good education from Clemson and I've matured quite a bit over the last four years."

In fact, Bryant is almost anxious to come to a Clemson game as a fan after his career is over, something he has not done since he was recruited. "I'll be a big tailgater some day," Bryant said with a smile. "I love the atmosphere here and I would like to stay a part of it. I've never seen Tigerama and I know I'm missing something."

While Jeff Bryant would like to enjoy the other side of college football, the color and pageantry, as they say at ABC, he might have a long wait. If he continues his improvement in the last third of this season, a long pro career might be waiting in the wings. He might not get to see Tigerama until the 1990's.
Over the past few years, Piedmont Airlines has gained a lot of new ground.

Today, our routes cover 15 of the country's 25 largest metropolitan areas.

But it's not just where we can fly you, but how, that has helped to put Piedmont in a league all by itself.

For example, if you're going for a long gainer, our Bypass Strategy helps you avoid the hassles of connections in big, busy airports.

If you're making a short run, Piedmont can give you nonstops or directs to places other airlines fly over.

We can even help you tackle the cost of flying with a variety of discount fares that take off up to 50%.

Behind The Scenes

By Cricket Yates

One of the reasons for Clemson's success on the gridiron this year has been the health of its athletes. Through the first six games of the season only three starters (Jerry Gaillard, Bill Smith and Tim Childers) had missed action in a combined total of only five games. Team physician Dr. Byron Harder is one of the major reasons for this healthy team and thus one of the predominant factors in the Tigers' perfect record.

Junior tailback Cliff Austin, who has spent much time with Harder over the last four years because of countless knee difficulties, praises him for his availability. "He is always available to anybody, anytime," said Austin, who had to sit out 1979 with an injury but is now Clemson's leading rusher. "I feel I can talk with him about anything, not just medical problems. He is more than a doctor, he's a true friend." No matter who I talked to, the response was the same. Injured defensive tackle James Robinson liked the fact that, "He's always smiling and giving you confidence in your ability to come back."

Senior defensive end Bill Smith, who has had two knee operations during his five years at Clemson, said, "Doc Harder does not jump to conclusions or try to rush things. He is patient in his diagnosis and I respect him for that. He won't try to push you back into the lineup if you are not ready. The players trust his judgment."

Head Student Trainer Vann Yates is "Harder's adopted son," according to team members. According to the Greensboro, NC native, "He is the same kind of person off the field as he is on the field. He is really a father figure to a lot of the players and that is important because when you are away at college you need someone you can confide in."

"He treats all his patients the same way no matter what the sport or whether they are an athlete or not," said Sandy Smith, director of nurses at Redfern Health Center where Harder also serves as a doctor in residence.

Clemson University in general and the Tiger athletic program in particular have played an important part in Harder's life. In fact, the 1964 Clemson graduate even met his wife on a blind date (to the famous 1967 Clemson-N.C. State game) that was set up by former Tiger quarterback Jimmy Bell. During his career at Clemson he was a columnist for the Tiger, a student senator and a member of the College Bowl team. He then attended the University of South Carolina Medical School and graduated in 1967. Harder then came to Clemson.

The attraction to Clemson University and sports medicine has kept Harder in Tigertown and it probably will keep him here for a while, as he feels he has an opportunity to work with some great people. But, he acknowledges, they are first patients.

"I take care of the athletes' medical needs first," said the native of Sumter, S.C. "It has been an enjoyable experience getting to know all of them because I see what a hard-working group they are. The athletes at Clemson are dedicated and I respect them for it."

Although he has never witnessed what people term as a "miracle comeback," he has worked with quite a few athletes who just refused to give in. "Wayne Croft (a Tiger basketball player a few years back) played in eight games with a broken foot one year and refused to quit or tell anyone about it. And most recently, Jim Stuckey (now with the San Francisco 49ers) played in five games his senior year with a broken ankle and never told anyone. They both refused to give in to the pain. We worked no miracles, they just had a lot of intestinal fortitude. We can treat a player for injuries, but they have to want to get better also. And, I am happy to say that most of the Clemson athletes have that drive."

Harder could have a private practice that would be less demanding on his time and much more lucrative. Baseball Coach Bill Wilhelm still ribs Harder whenever he sees him. "Byron," Wilhelm will say, "Why aren't you out driving a Mercedes, playing golf and making all the big money like the rest of the doctors?"

And refreshingly, "Doc" will reply, "Because I'm very happy just the way things are."

Dr. Byron Harder has been sitting on the bench for Clemson teams and solving their injury problems for 10 years.

Danny Ford

Danny Ford is the youngest third-year coach in Division I of the NCAA, but the 33-year-old Gadsden, Alabama native has been associated with more winning teams and programs than many coaches come in contact with in a lifetime. Including his years as a player at Alabama under Bear Bryant, Ford has been associated with college football for the last 14 years. Thirteen of those clubs have had winning records and 10 have gone to bowl games. Additionally, the 14 teams have had a record of 111-47-3, a .700 winning percentage.

Ford has brought this winning attitude to Clemson University. Now in his third full season as head coach, Ford has led the Tigers to a 15-9 record and a pair of bowl games since taking over on December 10, 1978. That was a fine day in Clemson athletics because the University announced Charley Pell had relinquished the head coaching duties of the 1978 Gator Bowl to Ford. Nearly 40 years after hiring 31-year-old Frank Howard, Clemson had hired another gifted 31-year-old to lead the Tiger forces on the gridiron.

Ford conquered all kinds of adversity in leading the Tigers to a nationally televised 17-15 triumph over the perennial power Ohio State in the Gator Bowl in his very first game as head coach. Few mentors in NCAA history have made such a celebrated and successful beginning.

But Ford did not rest on his laurels after that landmark win over the Buckeyes. In the last two years the Tigers have won 14 games, (including wins over nationally ranked teams from Georgia, Notre Dame and South Carolina) gone to a bowl game, nearly upset the National Champion and set countless Clemson records.

With this list of accomplishments it is little wonder that the Student Affairs Committee of the Clemson Board of Trustees only considered one name as Pell’s successor. Danny Ford not only had the backing of Pell, but also from the members of the Clemson football team. He was then Assistant Head Coach and offensive line coach of the Tigers.

After two meetings between Ford and the committee on the morning of December 5, 1978, it was the unanimous opinion of the committee that Ford should be named Clemson’s 21st head coach.

Ford began his association with college football in 1967 when he started for Bear Bryant at Alabama as Ken Stabler’s sophomore tight end. He played three years for Bryant, (including three wins against the Tigers) and was an All-Southeastern Conference choice, All-SEC academic selection and team captain during his senior season.

After receiving his B.S. degree in industrial arts in 1970, Ford remained at Alabama as a graduate assistant for the 1970 and 1971 seasons. Upon earning a master’s degree in special education in 1971, he was made a full-time assistant under Bryant for the 1972 and 1973 seasons. The Tide went to four more post-season games while Ford was on Bryant’s staff.

Clemson’s current head man then accepted a position as an assistant coach on Jimmy Sharpe’s staff at Virginia Tech. He remained in Blacksburg for three seasons (1974 to 1976), before he was beckoned to Clemson by Charley Pell, who had just been named the Tiger’s head coach. Pell and Ford had served together on the VPI staff for two seasons.

And only 23 games later, Ford became head coach of the Tigers at age 31, the youngest Division I head coach in the country. This season his Clemson team has 17 starters returning, including all 11 off an exciting offense. Based on his past track record, Clemson football should continue to reach previously unattainable heights.

But our sportiest Honda also sports the kind of features that make it a thrill to drive.

THE POWER-OPERATED MOONROOF: FOR OPENERS. IT'S STANDARD.

At the push of a button, the tinted-glass moonroof slides back. At the same time, an automatic deflector helps keep the wind out.
When you're behind the wheel, you'll be pleased at what you see in front of it. This year, the instrument panel houses a separate tachometer and speedometer, a quartz digital clock, a maintenance reminder and an electronic warning system.

Of course, the Prelude is just as much of a pleasure to sit in. Its luxurious interior features comfortable bucket seats and adjustable headrests.

SOME SIMPLE ENGINEERING FACTS.

Our sportiest car has front-wheel drive, four-wheel independent suspension, rack and pinion steering and a responsive 1751ec CVCC* engine. The fact is, the Honda Prelude is designed to give you years of good performance.

POWER STEERING COMES AUTOMATICALLY WITH THE AUTOMATIC TRANSMISSION.
The 5-speed stick shift is standard. But with the optional automatic 3-speed, you also get variable-assist power steering.

And after you've weighed all your options, we hope you drive off in the Honda Prelude.

We make it simple.

The 1980-81 academic year marked the fifth consecutive season that Clemson's all-around sports program had been ranked in the top 25 in the nation. Twice during that half a decade Clemson's sports program has been rated in the top five in the country in the Knoxville Journal's All-Sports Poll. Without a doubt, the work of Athletic Director Bill McLellan and his dedicated corps of coaches and administrators is the major reason for this consistent appearance in the national limelight.

McLellan is the man most responsible. He has endured countless hours to improve every phase of the athletic program in Tigertown. Under his direction Clemson has built one of the finest all-around athletic facilities in the nation. During his tenure the Tigers have christened the Frank Johnstone Jervey Athletic Center, possible the most modern and complete complex under one roof, increased the permanent seating capacity of Clemson Memorial Stadium from 43,451 to 53,306, opened a beautiful swimming facility, which will be the site of the ACC meet this year, constructed a nine-lane all-weather track, and built a new soccer facility.

While he has erected an athletic powerhouse on the varsity level, McLellan has also developed a solid intramural program for the student body which attracts thousands of participants every year. That's why Bill McLellan is recognized as a total athletic director.

Only the third man to own the title in the last 50 years, McLellan assumed his present position February 4, 1971 and since that date has directed Clemson to its greatest decade of athletic prominence. In the last five years Clemson had more All-Americans than in any other five-year period in Clemson history.

An examination of McLellan's experience in athletics explains why Clemson has been so successful under his direction. A native of Hamer, SC, the 49-year-old McLellan was a two-time football letterman for the Tigers and a member of Clemson's 1952 Gator Bowl team. He received his B.S. degree from Clemson in 1954 and his M.S. two years later.

After joining the athletic staff in 1958 he spent more than a decade with the Tigers as an Assistant Football Coach, Assistant Business Manager, Assistant Athletic Director, and Associate Athletic Director, before his appointment to his current position.

But McLellan will be the first man to say that many knowledgeable people are needed to run an efficient and successful athletic department. Assistant Athletic Director Bobby Robinson is the catalyst of McLellan's group of responsible aides.

Assistant to the Athletic Director Earle Ambrose; Joe Turner, Executive Director of Clemson's very successful IPTAY Club, and Sports Promotion Director Allison Dalton are major reasons Clemson's athletic administration is among the best in the country.

ORDER OF THE
SILVER TIGER

Clemson University Alumni Association
Order of the Silver Tiger
Robert C. Edwards '33
Charter Member
1978
The tiger, a long-time symbol of strength and aggressiveness for Clemson University, now assumes another prestigious role. The Order of the Silver Tiger is a new giving level recognizing alumni, parents, friends, faculty and staff who have given a minimum of $500 annually to the Clemson University Annual Fund.

Gifts to Clemson University enable deserving students to receive scholarships, add volumes to the Robert Muldrow Cooper Library, bring professors of distinction from other colleges and universities to campus for varying periods to share their expertise, and finance alumni professorships awarded to outstanding faculty members. These are just a few of the ways your gifts will be used to help secure Clemson University's future.

Your gift not only benefits the University, but also entitles you to become a charter member of the Order of the Silver Tiger, a new recognition program for your giving level.

As a Silver Tiger you will be recognized in the Clemson Honor Roll; honored at a special reception during the year and receive this distinctive Silver Tiger desk piece sculptured by Detter Hefner.

Through the Order of the Silver Tiger we can say "Thanks" for all you do for Clemson University.

Clemson’s IPTAY Club

By Lt. William Kelly Durham

Number One. There’s magic in those two words. Every team battles for the privilege to be called number one, to be recognized as the best. The road to the top is long and rocky and of those teams that become number one, few remain so very long.

But, one Clemson team is defying the odds as it celebrates its third consecutive year as number one in the nation. IPTAY, Clemson’s athletic scholarship fund-raising organization, experienced in fiscal year 1981 the most successful year of any collegiate athletic scholarship fund-raising group in history.

IPTAY enjoyed its 17th consecutive record-setting year in 1981, with total money raised cresting the three million dollar mark. Twenty-thousand members strong, IPTAY is accustomed to success, having raised almost 18 million dollars for Clemson in the last forty-seven years. What’s the key to IPTAY’s phenomenal success?

“Without a doubt, Clemson people have made IPTAY the best,” says Joseph J. Turner, Jr., IPTAY’s Executive Secretary. “Our IPTAY representatives are people from across the state and the Southeast who love Clemson University and who want to help Clemson in any way. These folks spend a lot of their time arranging meetings and visiting other Clemson supporters. They’re the ones who keep IPTAY head and shoulders above the rest.”

IPTAY officers like President John Timmerman, Vice President Bill Reaves and Secretary-Treasurer Lawrence Starkey, Jr., provide sound leadership for the organization.

“IPTAY’s officers and board of directors provide the guidance and judgment necessary to administer a successful program. When you take 20 successful businessmen and put them in your boardroom, chances are good ideas will develop,” says Turner.

Good ideas were the basis for IPTAY’s creation forty-seven years ago. Dr. Rupert Fike and eight other Clemson men met in Fike’s Atlanta home in August, 1934 and founded the I-Pay-Ten-A-Year Club. Originally, IPTAY was a secret society, complete with mystic words and ritualistic ceremonies. Membership was by invitation only.

All that’s changed now, but one thing that hasn’t changed is IPTAY’s purpose: to provide athletic scholarships for Clemson’s student-athletes. In the 1980-81 academic year, IPTAY provided more than one million dollars in scholarships for 405 athletes in 19 varsity sports.

IPTAY’s tremendous success has made it possible for the organization to aid the athletic department and the university in many ways. In 1978, IPTAY provided funds for new uniforms for the Tiger Band. The band has received $130,000 from IPTAY in the last two years to supplement its travel budget. This year, the Tiger Band will attend all of Clemson’s football games, home and away.

IPTAY has assisted the athletic department in financing capital improvements also. More than $150,000 has been allocated by IPTAY to construct permanent seats at the Tigers’ tennis courts and baseball field. IPTAY also donated $22,000 to light the new soccer stadium on Riggs Field.

More than $300,000 was provided by IPTAY for improvements to Memorial Stadium last year. New stadium graphics, a modern sound system and two new scoreboards help make Death Valley one of the finest stadiums in the Southeast.

The needs of students are also recognized by IPTAY. The organization makes academic tutoring available to all student-athletes at no charge. IPTAY also has contributed a $125,000 seed grant to begin planning for a Fine Arts Center to be used by all members of the university community. Forty thousand dollars has been contributed by IPTAY for partial funding of a master transportation plan for the University.

“Our commitment is to Clemson and Clemson students,” says Turner. “IPTAY is doing several things to make Clemson athletics stronger and to benefit the university as a whole.”

With 20,000 Clemson people dedicated to these twin goals, IPTAY can’t help but stay number one.

Bill Smith

By Pender Murphy

Clemson opponents must think Bill Smith is bionic. It seems he has been at Clemson forever, and eternally fighting off injuries to return to action. Coming off knee injuries is possibly the most difficult thing for a football player to do, but the senior defensive end from Duncan, SC, has come back from two knee operations and countless other minor ailments, to play three different positions for the Tigers over the last five seasons.

In 1981, Smith has fought off another knee injury to move into the starting lineup. As it is, he is not 100 percent because he is playing the year with torn cartilage in his leg. "Torn cartilage does not affect me during a game, many players perform with that injury," said Smith. "They'll fix it after the season, so it's not as bad as the torn ligament problems I had. It does get pretty sore and stiff after the game, but I can control it with ice and a whirlpool."

Because of the injury, Smith has shared time with Joe Glenn, which gives Clemson even more depth at defensive end. "I can't go a full game at 100 percent, but I probably wouldn't anyway because Joe is playing so well. He's done a good job, and overall, the situation is great. We both help each other out with techniques if we notice something from the sideline. We are behind each other all the way."

Smith began his career at Clemson in 1977 and lettered on that Gator Bowl team with his fine work with the special teams. He began 1978 at defensive end and had two interceptions after the first three games. Then, injuries hurt the offensive line and the versatile athlete moved to the offensive front. He returned to defense near the end of the season for Charley Pell's 11-1 team and played very well in the Gator Bowl win over Ohio State at defensive end.

Smith continued the merry-go-round in 1979 when he was moved to tight end. But, that was the season the injury problems began. Prior to the season he was felled with a knee injury and missed the entire 1979 campaign. It took him until the second game of 1980 before he was ruled fit for play again and he performed in 10 of the 11 contests. In the off-season he suffered an injury to the other knee that required his second trip to the hospital for surgery. He finally got back into the lineup for the Georgia game. "I guess I have had an injury-plagued career," said Smith. "It has slowed me some, but I think I have been pretty steady this year. I'm just glad to be a part of this defense and this team."

While Smith is obviously a battler, he also puts the general welfare of the team ahead of personal goals. And that carries over to his position changes over the years. That means playing quarterback or running back, he'll do it. "I enjoy playing different positions, it is not easy to learn all the techniques, but by now I have confidence that I can do a good job wherever they put me. I had to move to offense at mid-season and 1978 and learn everything in a couple of days. I was not a star, but I did what was asked of me."

Having played both offense and defense during his career, people wonder what Smith's favorite position is. "I played quarterback at Byrnes High School on a AAA State Championship team. I liked playing quarterback because everyone likes to play that position and run the show. But I also like defense and am happy where I am right now. I would certainly rather hit than be hit."

A common misconception of the average fan concerns the reckless abandon of the average football player. But, Smith says that is not the case. "Our offense and defense is very sophisticated and we have to be alert and thinking at all times. Coach Harper has put in many different defenses this year that have helped a lot. But, you have to be aware of your contains, or it won't work. I'm not the quickest or strongest defensive end around, so I rely on anticipation and technique."

The Tiger defense has been awesome this season, leading the country in scoring defense for five weeks and Smith attributes this to, "each defensive member taking care of his responsibilities and not worrying about the other player. Coach Ford has also turned the seniors loose and let us carry the load in the team motivation department. He is giving us more responsibility and the team has become more unified."

With determined veteran players there is no limit to Clemson's possible accomplishments this year. And, given continued good health, you can bet Bill Smith will provide the Tigers with many key plays from whatever position he's playing.
Are you ready for the 21st century? Clemson University can honestly answer, "Absolutely!"

Almost 12,000 students and scientists alike are already working on tools for living in the changing, demanding world of the 1980s and '90s. Tools for communicating, for living with decreased fossil fuels, for making industry and agriculture more productive.

Clemson is deeply involved in what is probably the nation's most critical problem — the lack of a dependable, renewable source of energy. In 1981, faculty and student research projects will explore creating synthetic fuels from farm and forestry products, perfecting the solar energy cell, developing economical conservation methods for the state's textile plants and building a moderately-priced home heated with a completely passive solar system.

Today's students realize computers will soon be as much a part of life as television. They're learning to build the sophisticated circuits and design the complex programs that will be required for home use.

Through the Cooperative Extension Service and S.C. Agricultural Experiment Station, Clemson is helping today's and training tomorrow's food producers.

Agents in 46 counties give the public access to experts in every area of agri-business, home economics and consumer affairs. Experiment Station researchers are working to find better fruits and vegetables through genetic engineering, ways to save precious fuel, soil and water and answers to difficult questions about obesity, hypertension, food additives or air and water pollution.

President Bill Atchley puts it this way: "The challenges of the 1980s will not be met unless universities give young people not only an education, but the training to think, to ask and to try." Clemson's 76 undergraduate and 54 graduate programs are doing just that.

Versatile Tigers Look to Return to NCAA Tourney
By Tim Bourret

If you had to pick a personality to describe the Clemson basketball team for 1981-82, the name George Plimpton might come to mind. The writer is not usually used to typifying the character of an ACC basketball team, but the talented Plimpton does have one asset that should be the watchword of the Clemson basketball team this year — versatility.

Plimpton became famous as a writer with Sports Illustrated by tackling various assignments ranging from pitching in the major league baseball all-star game to conducting a symphony. In a similar way, the Tiger basketball team is composed of players who are capable of playing many different positions and helping the Tigers to victories with a variety of assets.

"Versatility should be the major asset of this team," said Bill Foster, who welcomes back eight lettermen from last year's 20-11 squad. "We will be able to use many different combinations this year because we have the depth and versatility. We should not be adversely affected by injuries and foul trouble as much as some other teams could be this year and that is a good feeling.

We have players like Horace Wyatt and Clarke Bynum who can play three positions if they have to, and nearly everyone can play two slots in our point-wing-post offense."

Clemson returns eight of its top nine players from last year's NIT squad and most observers figure the Tigers can finish near the top of the ACC race. "We lost our top rebounder and scorer in Larry Nance (first round pick of Phoenix Suns), but we do have some talented players returning," said Foster, who is beginning his seventh year in Tigertown. "Larry was the glue that held us together last year, so someone is going to have to come to the forefront. But, I feel we have some outstanding young men to meet this challenge. The league race will be rough as usual, but I think we have the potential to finish anywhere from first to fourth in the league.

"We certainly have more experience at this time than we did a year ago. We have eight players returning who played over 13 minutes a game so it should not take long for the team chemistry to develop."

Foster also feels he has a good combination of seniors and rookies. If you look at the successful college teams in recent years, the cohesiveness between the veterans and the rookies has been a key. "We have to get good seasons on the court and good leadership off the court from our seniors this year," said Foster. "We need to have consistent seasons from Chris Dodds, Bill Ross and Horace Wyatt as we are to finish in the first division of the ACC.

"If the veterans play well, I think the rookies will catch the fever. We have three freshmen that will play in our top 10 or 11 this season. They will all get their chance early in the season and I think all three (Milan Belich, David Shaffer and Joe Ward) can contribute. They are all competitors and will give the veterans a run for their money. This will benefit the entire team because healthy competition for starting slots increases the level of proficiency."

Backcourt

Clemson has everyone returning in the backcourt, the first time since Foster has been at Clemson that he has had that luxury. Both starters and two other top reserves who averaged at least 13 minutes per contest return from last season.

Chris Dodds is the senior leader of the backcourt, as he is already a veteran of 87 college games. The Davidson transfer, who was Southern Conference Rookie-of-the-Year in 1977-78, is the leading returning scorer for the 1981-82 Tigers with an 11.5 figure. The 6-1 point guard dealt out 187 assists last season, a Clemson single season record and the 16th best figure in the nation.

Vincent Hamilton is the other returning starter at guard for Foster's team. The Rutherford, NC native was the surprise of the ACC a year ago when he averaged 8.8 points per game and pulled down 4.6 rebounds per game. Hamilton had more rebounds than any other guard in the ACC last year and had the most caroms by a Clemson backcourt player in the last 14 seasons. The 6-4 wing was the only player on the team that had a higher scoring average in league games than he did in non-league games. Hamilton continued his fine all-around play in Brazil last summer when he averaged 13.5 points per game on Clemson's eight-game tour in South America. Hamilton also played in the National Sports Festival in Syracuse last July.

Marc Campbell was the only player among the top nine on last year's squad who did not start at one time or another, but he certainly made a solid contribution in his rookie year. Campbell played the point guard slot last season and finished second on the club in assists with 83 while racking up 13.2 minutes per game. The fiesty guard was the only member of the Clemson team who shot better from the field and from the line in ACC games than he did in non-league games.

Tigermania in Littlejohn Coliseum starts November 27.
Senior Marvin Key, freshman Milan Belich and sophomore Mike Eppley are three more players who could help Clemson at either guard slot this season. Key played in nine games last year and has been a solid contributor for four years. Belich is a freshman from Solon, OH who averaged 29.1 points per game last year. He was the top scorer in upper Ohio last year and is the first recruit from the state of Ohio to come to Clemson since Bill Foster has been in Tigertown. Eppley is a two-sport player at Clemson, a rarity in this era of athletics. He joined the Clemson basketball team this past October 15 after working with the Clemson football team for the first five weeks of the season as a reserve quarterback. The Charlotte native will red-shirt in the grid sport this year.

Three players are listed as wings on the Clemson roster, which means they are as versatile as the aforementioned Plimpson. Clarke Bynum is the most experienced of the trio, as he saw action in 30 contests last year, 12 as a starter at either guard or forward. The gifted all-around player could also play point guard if he had to, which means he is a triple threat of sorts.

Bynum finished strong last season by averaging 11.3 points per game over the last six outings. He continued his fine play in Brazil when he led the Tigers in scoring with a 20-point average and nearly a 60 percent field goal percentage.

Joe Ward is a highly regarded freshman who should contribute immediately at either the second guard or small forward. The 6-5 leaper from Griffin, Georgia was chosen to Parade and Street & Smith All-America squads last year and averaged 25 points per game. He also used his 40-inch vertical jump to pull down over 10 rebounds per outing. Classmate David Shaffer is a third rookie on the 1981-82 team who should make his presence known this year. The Durham, NC native was the MVP of the State AAA tournament last year, and was the MVP of the North Carolina prep all-star game. Shaffer is the son of former North Carolina All-American Lee Shaffer.

The Frontcourt

Five more players will fight for the starting jobs in the frontcourt this season. Fred Gilliam and Bill Ross were starters at small forward and center in 1980-81, respectively, but they will have to battle Horace Wyatt, Raymond Jones, Murray Jarman and the wing players if they expect to hold the frontline spots this year.

Gilliam was the number three scorer on the club last season with a 9.3 average, but he had an inconsistent season overall. An off-season weight program has given the Pelzer, SC, native more muscle. He could return to the strong forward slot he excelled at as a freshman when he was Clemson's sixth man.

over the last third of the season, including the Tigers' NCAA tournament drive.

Ross was the starting center for 20 of Clemson's 31 games a year ago. He contributed 5.8 points and 3.9 rebounds per game, but that figure should rise in 1982. The Lake Placid, FL, resident has also worked hard on the weights this summer and now tips the scales at a bulked-up 240 pounds. Foster will need his muscle underneath this winter.

Horace Wyatt moved to center this summer for the trip to Brazil and the results were impressive. Now in his third position in four years at Clemson, Wyatt scored 15 points per outing from the pivot slot in South America and connected on 60 percent of his shots. He also paced the team in rebounds with 9.0 per game and ran the break exceptionally well. At 6-10, 200 pounds, Wyatt will rely on quickness underneath to out finesse his opponents this year. The Hartsville, SC native started 18 games in 1980-81 and averaged 8.4 points per outing. The ebullient senior has started 58 games in his career and is one of the top defensive players in the ACC.

The Clemson coaches were sorry to see the 1980-81 season end for Raymond Jones because the rising sophomore from Union, SC, was just coming into his own in the season's twilight. Jones shot 58.5 percent from the field in the last 12 games of the season and pulled down nine rebounds in the NIT game with Temple to lead the club. A defensive demon, Jones was second on the team in blocked shots last year and always guarded the opponent's top frontcourt player when he was in the game.

Jarman is one of the best leapers in the ACC. The 6-6 forward from Florida gained a berth on the team as a walkon last year and made the traveling squad. The all-around athlete, who also is a member of the Clemson track team, got into eight games last season.

In summary, Foster looks for improvement from the Tigers this year if the team can increase its proficiency in some areas. "We need to improve defensively over last year if we are to become a first division club this year. We were an improved rebounding team a year ago and we need to improve again. We don't have a Ralph Sampson or Buck Williams in the middle to get 10 rebounds every night, so we will have to have everyone contribute. But, if we get this solid output off the boards from a lot of people and play good team defense, we will have a fine season."

"I'm not that worried about scoring. We have the firepower to play with anyone so we will run the floor a lot this year. We have the numbers to stay with anyone in a running game so I want to get back to a more fast-paced style this year. If we can put these ingredients together, we can have an exciting, successful year and advance to our fourth straight postseason tournament."

If you've been waiting for projection TV to deliver picture quality worthy of its size, then RCA's Projection Color TV Model PFR100 is for you. With a peak brightness seven times greater than a movie theater screen, plus a comb filter for sharpness and clarity, you get a great movie-like image — even in a well lighted room. And with the bright picture comes a wide viewing angle. So with RCA's Projection Color TV in your home, just about any seat will be one of the best seats in the house.

• 50" diagonal picture
• 3-lens precision optics
• Full-function infrared remote control
• 4-speaker, 2-channel sound
• Electronic tuning
• Compact, one-piece design
• Locking ball casters

Then, as the super-charged fans watch the Tigers take to the gridiron, Jim Phillips (kneeling) and Scott Shannon (right end) take to the air to bring all the action to fans throughout the Carolinas, Georgia, and beyond.

"A great place to be."

Escape to where you long to be.
Here’s the kind of engineering designed to take you miles away from the middle of the road. The 1982 Cavalier Hatchback. A brand-new car that owes its creation to innovation. Not imitation.

Escape with the goods.
Reclining front seats, power brakes, side and rear window defoggers and a remote hatch release (quite a remote feature on ordinary hatchbacks) combine with 38 other standard features to make the '82 Cavalier the most complete new car we’ve ever introduced.

On the technical side, innovations in front-wheel drive, aerodynamic design and operating efficiency help add up to 43 Est. Highway/ 23 EPA Est. MPG.* And engine buffs will be interested to know Cavalier’s standard 1.8 Liter, 4-cylinder engine actually delivers more horsepower per liter than some highly regarded V8s.

Plan your escape now.
Your Chevy dealer can help put your escape plan in motion, starting with a test drive. Get inside. Drive it around the block. Then all that’s left to do is to decide whether you want to buy or lease a new 1982 Cavalier. Whichever you choose, one thing’s for sure:
You won’t have any trouble at all adjusting to your new freedom.

*Use estimated MPG for comparisons. Your mileage may differ depending on speed, distance, weather. Actual highway mileage lower. Chevrolets are equipped with GM-built engines produced by various divisions. See your dealer for details.

Ruth Mahony

By Cricket Yates

To be Tiger Brotherhood's Mother of the Year is quite an honor considering Clemson has over 35,000 graduates, which means there are over 35,000 mothers eligible for the title. But, some mothers just seem to breed more Tigers than others, as is the case with this year's Mother-of-the-Year, Ruth D. Mahony.

Mrs. Mahony was nominated for the honor by Jack T. Day, a 1956 Clemson graduate, who based his nomination on the fact that Mrs. Mahony has two sons and two daughter-in-laws that have graduated from Clemson. Combine this with the fact that she currently has a son who is a senior at Tigertown and there you have it. Her blood definitely runs orange.

Her oldest son, Robert, played baseball for Clemson for three years and was an outstanding pitcher for the Tiger team that went to the College World Series in Omaha, Nebraska, in 1976. He received his B.S. in December of 1976 in Building Construction and married the former Robin Lawimore, who graduated from Clemson with a degree in Elementary Education. They have one daughter and live in Columbia, SC.

Her second son, Glenn, graduated with honors from Clemson in May of 1979 with a degree in Math and Computer Science. He married the former Martha Smith who graduated at the same time with an Agricultural Economics degree. They now live in Spartanburg, SC.

Her youngest son, David, is a senior at Clemson majoring in Mechanical Engineering. He has maintained a 4.0 (on a four-point scale) during his freshman, sophomore, and junior years and has been the recipient of several academic honors.

The former Ruth Suerig married Captain Wilbur J. Mahony in December of 1953. Captain Mahony is currently the Commander of the Charleston Naval Shipyard, which is the largest single industrial employer in the state of South Carolina. In addition, it employs over 100 Clemson graduates in all positions.

The couple met in Denver, Colorado where Mrs. Mahony is originally from. She is a "preacher's daughter" as she puts it and met Captain Mahony at her father's church. She has an older brother, Ken Suerig, who lives in San Diego and works for the San Diego Union. After all these years, she is still a member of the church choir.

Mrs. Mahony is very active in community and church affairs in the Charleston area. She is the advisor for the Shipyard Officers' Wives Club and assists in the direct planning of activities for the wives of some 65 officers and men assigned to the Charleston Naval Shipyard. Mrs. Mahony is also involved in the "Wife Line" program which provides counsel and guidance to the wives of Navy personnel in the Charleston area. Additionally, she is involved in the Navy Officers' Wives Association and the Navy League.

"I am thrilled to be chosen Clemson's Mother-of-the-Year," said Mahony. "Clemson University has always meant so much to me and it has played such a major part in my family's lives."

Bill Newell, Tiger Brotherhood President said the choice for Mother-of-the-Year is based on the nominee's loyalty and contributions to Clemson. With that criteria, no true Clemson supporter could argue with Mrs. Mahony's selection.

Mother-Of-The-Year
If you think you could pick your beer with your eyes closed, here’s your chance.

Up for some real sport? Probably only one in three beer drinkers can pass this test.

Still game? Then grab a Schlitz and two other premium beers. (Make sure one is your favorite.)

Close your eyes, and have a friend pour each beer into separate cups. Now taste each one and tell your friend which premium beer is yours.

If you picked Schlitz instead of your regular, don’t be surprised. A lot of beer drinkers do.

A few years ago a master brewer named Frank Sellinger came to Schlitz. He came to be president and to make the smoothest beer yet. One taste will tell you, this is it!

THE HIGHEST ENERGY BILL OWNERS OF THIS 1,804 SQ. FT. HOME PAID ALL LAST YEAR WAS $33.61 IN JANUARY THANKS TO A SUNPAL WATERHEATING FIREPLACE.

Developed by a Mechanical Engineering graduate of Clemson University, the patented SunPal Waterheating Fireplace can be installed in several ways to save money on energy, in spite of rising costs. Teamed with solar heat in the home above, it held power cost, in a month with 21 rainy days, to less than $34, including lights, appliances and hot water. But you don’t have to go solar to enjoy the beauty, comfort and savings of a SunPal Fireplace. It can be used with other central heating systems in many present homes, in a room added to your home, or with water lines installed in new slab construction.

Use the coupon below to get more information. Not only on the way SunPal worked in the home shown here, but the way it can work for you.

Please send more information about SUNPAL.

If you're in the textile industry, Chemsize can help your business. An integral part of the manufacturing process in the textile industry is chemicals and Chemsize manufactures and supplies this important ingredient. And all this is based on another key word: PERFORMANCE. Performance is what counts and Chemsize products perform. Because of our success in helping textile plants solve problems, Chemsize has become one of the fastest growing specialty chemical companies in the Southeast. In addition to supplying chemicals to manufacturers, Chemsize makes products to the customer's specifications. So, if you're in the textile industry, remember these two words: Chemsize and performance.

ANOTHER COMPLETED POINSETT PROJECT.

In Poinsett Construction's seven years in business we have erected over 400 commercial and industrial buildings for clients in the Carolinas, Georgia and Tennessee.

When this structure, the Greenwood Motor Line headquarters in Greenwood, S.C., was completed in 1980 it represented our fifth construction assignment for the same client.

Another example of Poinsett's steady growth is seen in our work in the pre-engineered building field. Last year we were named the nation's No. 1 builder of Pasco pre-engineered structures.

Whether your needs be commercial, industrial, or pre-engineered, and whether they call for a new facility, or for addition or renovation to an existing building, Poinsett Construction Co., Inc. can bring them in to your complete satisfaction.

This furniture may be a football fan special

By Harold Rogers
Clemson News Services

A simple collection of make-it-yourself den or living room furniture designed by a Clemson University Extension Service home furnishing specialist may be just the thing for the football fan who spends a lot of time in front of television — as well as going to the games.

It's easily made from a few pieces of custom cut foam rubber with slip covers and pillows. A complementary screen can be added for attraction and flexibility.

With a good buy on your covering materials, you could make the entire collection for as little as $100.

Mary Ellen Blackburn designed the pieces as "The Comforture Collection" and had a display set built. Its keynote is versatility. Economy is a plus.

"With our mobile society, young adults living in apartments, or others who don't want to invest a lot of money in furniture, these pieces work out very nicely in many kinds of settings," Blackburn says.

The chair and ottoman can offer inexpensive, yet contemporary seating for a living area. Any type of durable fabric such as corduroy, duck or denim can be used to cover the foam bases "allowing you to create the mood for the room."

The pieces can also be used in duplicate to provide modular seating which can be rearranged to fit the room and activities. The ottoman is firm enough to serve as an extra table if needed.

Polyurethene foam is recommended for the pieces.

The screen is made of chipboard, covered in either blending or contrasting colors. It can be a center of interest in the living area, "or is especially good for a room with an open space where you need to define the area.

"Everything about this collection says adaptability," notes Blackburn, "but perhaps the best feature of all is that the size is completely flexible. You can determine your space needs and have the foam cut to the size you need. Your furniture can fit wherever it's needed — anywhere from a nook to a great room."

Plans and specifications are given in an Extension publication "Furniture for Today's Consumer: The Comforture Collection." It's available from Clemson Extension offices in county seats throughout the state.

MAKE-IT YOURSELF — It's just about right for lounging around and watching football on a fall weekend — and with help from the Clemson Extension Service you can make this furniture yourself.

By Cricket Yates

This is Parent's Day at Clemson when the University honors all parents of Clemson students, especially those of the graduating senior football players. During today's pregame festivities, the parents of Clemson's 26 seniors will be introduced.

The pregame activities also will be highlighted by the dotting of the "i" by a very special guest, South Carolina's Senior Senator, Strom Thurmond. The 1919 Clemson graduate is third in line for the Presidency and is without a doubt Clemson's most distinguished alumnus.

Clemson fans will be treated by two bands at halftime today as Wake Forest's fine unit will make the trip from Winston-Salem, NC. Under the direction of Davidson Burgess and drum major Jackson Comer, the Deacon band will play three outstanding pieces, plus their fight song. Music will include "Pictures at an Exhibit," "On Broadway," and "Somewhere Over the Rainbow." Feature twirler Anita Izzi will perform to the delight of Tiger fans during the renditions. Wake Forest will then exit to their fight song.

Dr. Bruce Cook's Tiger Band will enter to Jerome Kerns' "Old Man River" from the popular musical, Showboat. This segment was arranged for the marching band by Jim Ott, and it features trumpet players Johnnie Turner of Greenville, SC, and Scott Sommerfeld of Oak Ridge, TN.

The second number features Clemson's outstanding flag lines and twirlers. "New York Fantasy" will be the music played by trumpeter Kevin Bismack of Anderson, SC. The flag bearers are coordinated by Joy Gahagan of Newberry, SC, and Beth Ehnot of Oaks, PA. They are the co-captains of this year's group.

The closing drill is Neil Diamond's "Hello Again." It is arranged by Jay Bocook. Following this fine piece, the Clemson Mother-of-the-Year, Ruth Mahoney, will be presented. The honor is given by Tiger Brotherhood and is coordinated by Bill Newell. The band will then exit to Tiger Ray, signifying the second half of another exciting Clemson football game is near.

"It's Never Over"

By David McGrew

The Clemson offense trotted off the field dejectedly after an interception at the seven-yard line had stopped a last second drive designed to break a 21-21 tie with Wake Forest. Many Clemson fans headed for the exits or clicked off their radios. It appeared that the 1966 football squad's hopes for a second straight ACC title had slipped away. All Wake had to do was run one play and the game would be over.

"If Clemson had played well," recalls quarterback Jimmy Addison, "we would have killed Wake Forest. In the first half, we got a bit overconfident because we seemed like we could score at will and move the ball without any problem."

Without a doubt, no one thought at halftime that Clemson would be deadlocked with the Deacons in the waning moments of the game. The first half had seen the Tigers click through the Wake Forest defense with the cool efficiency that marks a championship team.

The Tigers took the opening kickoff and marched 69 yards in six plays for a 7-0 lead. Buddy Gore accounted for 58 of those yards as Clemson's All-American offensive linemen Wayne Mass and Harry Olszewski opened gaping holes for Gore to rip off two 12-yard gains and a 28-yard burst around left end. Charlie Hook scored on a five-yard plunge for the touchdown.

Wake Forest showed its only offensive spark of the first half on their first possession. The Deacons marched 52 yards to tie the game. A 47-yard kickoff return set the home team up with excellent field position and it only took them six plays to score.

"Clemson always seemed to have trouble with Wake Forest," recalled Frank Howard shaking his head. "I always looked at playing Wake as one for the win column, but they always gave us a tough run. The way the 1966 game started out on the first two drives, it looked like it was going to be a typical game between the two schools. We always seemed to get into games that were great for the fans."

However, the rest of the first half, Clemson appeared to put to rest any thoughts of a close game.

With incredible ease, the Tigers took Wake's kickoff and marched 80 yards to score. Jimmy Addison passed to Phil Rogers, Jay Cooper, and Wayne Bell for 54 yards including a 33-yard strike to Rogers and a 5-yard TD pass to Bell.

However, after that, the Tiger offense went dormant as it appeared content to control the ball with the lead. For the rest of the half Coach Howard's defense completely shut down Wake's offense. With less than 40-seconds left in the half, Clemson took over on its own 20-yard line, and there was a flurry of activity on the sidelines.

"Whitney Jordan, our coach in the press box, had noticed that their secondary was not getting to their proper positions when they rotated into their pass coverage," said Edgar McGee, an end on the 1966 squad. "One of the cornerbacks was cheating over to compensate and leaving a hole in the coverage. So Whitney made up a pass play designed to get me behind the defender in the secondary. We were going to save that play because we knew it would work. But, the coaches called for us to use the play right there at the end of the half."

"I didn't want to use the play until the second half," remembers Addison. "I thought we were wasting it since we were 80-yards away from a score."

One big consideration was the fact that the intended receiver, Edgar McGee, was not the fastest man on the Clemson team by any stretch of the imagination. "Edgar was a good blocker, a team leader, and one of the finest boys I ever coached," said Coach Howard, "but he was definitely not very fast. He was kind of like molasses in winter, it still tastes good, but it doesn't flow very well."

Addison, who is the third leading passer in Clemson history, faded back and hit McGee downfield. Using a timely block by the referee who collided with the Wake Forest defender, McGee headed for the end zone.

"It seemed like it took Edgar the last 40 seconds of the half to make it to the end zone," chuckled Addison. "Phil Rogers was running zigzag behind him looking for someone to block while Edgar was running as fast as he could in a straight line toward the goal."

"I was lumbering down field as fast as I could," laughed McGee, "and Rogers was running circles around me looking for any Wake defenders. I was really looking forward to watching the play in the film session on Sunday, but it turned out to be kind of embarrassing. Everybody was making jokes about my speed, and I ended up sinking down in my seat trying to hide."

After that spectacular play to end the half, the Tigers went into hibernation in the second half nursing a 21-7 lead while Wake Forest caught fire. Heading into the last series of the game, Clemson had gained only 24 yards in total offense in the second half.

Meanwhile, Wake Forest scored two touchdowns on successive drives in the fourth quarter to knot the score at 21-21. "We played well in the first half," said Buddy Gore who gained 105 yards in the contest. But, we really played poorly in the second half. The defense really carried us in the second half. We couldn't get anything going and they were on the field an awful lot. Coach Howard was not a happy man."

But, the last Wake Forest TD brought life back to the sullen Clemson offense. The Tigers took over on their own 24-yard line and with the passing of Addison moved down field as time was running out. Twelve plays later, Addison & Company were faced with third-and-three on the Wake Forest 17-yard line. However, Addison's pass attempt intended for Jimmy Abrams was picked off at the seven yard line with only 30 seconds left in the game.

"I remember thinking that they would run out the clock for a tie," said Addison. "We were definitely the favorites and a tie would have been a big moral victory for them."

However, to everyone's surprise, the Wake Forest quarterback rolled out into the endzone attempting to pass. Unfortunately for the Deacons, he rolled right into the waiting arms of Wilson Childers who nailed him for a safety on what proved to be the last play from scrimmage in the game.

"Their quarterback never had a chance," said Addison. "Wilson was sitting there just waiting for him. We had scored with only 25 seconds left and won.

"We were very relieved that we won that game," said McGee. "Coach Howard didn't let us forget about that experience the rest of the season as we went on to capture the ACC championship for the second straight year. We knew we were never out of a game until the final gun after a wild finish like that."

Yeargin is proud to have been selected as the general contractor to construct a 122,000 square foot office building for J. E. Sirrine Company. We take P-R-I-D-E in this being the third project we have built for Sirrine. Sirrine is ranked ninth in the Engineering News Record’s top 500 design firms and first in Building Design And Construction’s ranking of industrial design firms.

The greatest compliment to any contractor is to be invited back and awarded additional work. Especially for a client like Sirrine, who works daily with contractors on a national and international basis.

But for Yeargin, building jobs for repeat clients has become a way of life.
- 11 projects for General Electric Company
- 11 for Union Carbide Corporation
- 10 for Carolina Power & Light Company
- 8 for Allied Chemical Corporation
- 8 for Collins & Aikman Corporation
- 8 for R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company
- 6 for American Enka Company

The list could go on . . .

Whether your facility is industrial, commercial, or institutional or your manpower requirement is one, hundreds, or thousands, think Yeargin for all your construction needs.

We provide comprehensive general contractor services in civil, mechanical, HVAC, electrical and contract maintenance . . . all with our own forces.

We have the resources, the technical back-up and the commitment to quality to do your job well . . . on schedule and within budget!
