Clemson vs. Wake Forest/Memorial Stadium

Bob Pauling
This Clemson two-sport star has the unusual ability to rank high in the record books of the Clemson football and baseball brochures by the end of this season. Tim Bourret looks at Paulling goals for this season and for the future.

Mother of the Year
Retta Crawford Hughes exemplifies the basic tenets upon which Tiger Brotherhood was founded, and she is Tiger Brotherhood's choice as the 1983 Mother-of-the-Year. Jill Mixon examines Mrs. Hughes' family and contributions to Clemson.

Sourwood
This week's University feature by Danny McNeill takes a look at sourwood honey, and how it is manufactured in this state. Clemson's Jimmy Howard, the Extension Service Bee Specialist, tells us about its interest in this state.

Busy Athletes
48
Since the days of Banks McFadden Clemson has been noted for its all-around athletes. Mike Eppley is the best known of the two-sport stars, but there are many others who are doing their all for more than just one sport in Tiger town. Jeff Rhodes interviewed many of the busy athletes about their lifestyles and schedules.

B.C. Inabinet
57
Clemson lost one of its finest graduates this past summer when B.C. Inabinet passed away at the Duke Medical Center in Durham. He was a fine athlete and loyal contributor to Clemson for many years. In 1979 he reflected on his greatest game as a Tiger and this is a reprint of his story.

Rod McSwain
There are many versatile players on the Clemson football team, but none is more well-equipped to play many positions than Rod McSwain. He is one of the few players in history to catch a pass, intercept a pass, block a punt and return a punt. Johnny Jones profiles Clemson's starting senior cornerback.

Billy Davis
What's it like to stand all alone in front of 80,000 people looking up in the air while 11 angry men charge at you and try to rearrange your face? Billy Davis still has a good looking face (that's what the coeds say), and Jill Mixon talked with him about his secrets to survival in punt returning.

1896 to Glory
Noted New York author Lou Sahadi has written a book on the history of Clemson football. Here is another excerpt from the popular book about the Tigers' most popular football personality, Frank Howard.

A Success Story
101
Clemson athletics have been on the rise for the last decade and its contributions to the University as a whole have been great. Here is an account of some of the things we have done and accomplished in recent years.
Prodigious Punters

By Tim Bouret

Different cities in the United States are well known for various aspects of life or products. Honolulu is known for its pineapples, Chicago for its board of trade, San Francisco for its cable cars, Buffalo for its snow and Hershey, Pa. for its chocolate. The city of Chera, S. C. has now become synonymous with punters.

Fans at today's Clemson-Wake Forest game will be treated to an outstanding punting exhibition, in addition to the other aspects of the game, because Wake Forest and Clemson have two of the top 11 punters in the nation in Harry Newsome and Dale Hatcher.

Harry Newsome is in his third season as the Demon Deacons' punter and he is one of the great stories in college football. The 6-0, 176-pounder is currently fifth in the nation in punting with a 45.6-yard average after leading the ACC in 1982. Newsome punted only twice in a high school game during his career because he was Hatcher's backup at Chera High under Burney Bourne. He was the first Wake Forest punter in 10 years to be selected to the all-league team and is pacing the conference again this year.

Hatcher is currently 11th in the country in punting, but can't even lead his own league because of Newsome's figures. He is right at 44.0 yards per boot this year and has eight punts inside the 20, including four last week against N. C. State. Hatcher was the ACC's top punter in 1981 when Clemson won the national championship and he finished 19th in the nation. This year he has been as high as sixth nationally in a weekly ranking.

This will be the third battle of the booters, but the advanced billing in previous seasons has not lived up to its publicity. Newsome won the battle by default in 1981 as Hatcher did not punt for Clemson as Wake Forest never forced a punt in Clemson's 82-24 victory in Death Valley. Newsome did have a fine 46.5 average in the game, however. Last year the two battled on foreign soil as the game was played in Tokyo, Japan. Hatcher and Newsome both punted as if they had gotten hold of some Saki before the game as Newsome averaged 28.0 yards a punt and Hatcher only 36.7.

The way both teams' offenses have been playing the two punters might not play a key role in today's game either. Wake Forest and Clemson both have scored in the thirties in recent weeks with balanced offenses.

Wake Forest is coming off a 38-31 win over Virginia last week after what might have been a more impressive 36-33 loss to Maryland. Gary Schofield is the leader of the offense as the senior quarterback is one of the most prolific passers in the nation. Coming into this season Schofield had averaged 21.6 completions per game and 235.8 yards per game in the air during his career, better figures than Doug Flutie (Boston College), Ben Bennett (Duke) and Wayne Peace (Florida) had for their respective careers to date.

Schofield hit 17-27 for 201 yards last week against Virginia and is capable of a 400-yard game. His top effort this year was against Maryland as he connected for 25-46 for 305 yards. He always keeps Wake Forest in the game, even if it takes him a while to get going. You are in for a wild finish with Wake Forest, just ask the Top 20 Terps. Wake Forest led Maryland 7-6 at the half and the game ended up 36-33. Schofield has over 6,000 yards in passing in his career.

The patrons of Death Valley today might be a little cheated as Michael Ramseur, Wake Forest's outstanding halfback, has played only sparingly in the last couple of weeks. He has had ankle problems this year and carried only five times last week. He was the ACC Rookie-of-the-Year last season when he was just 34 yards short of a 1,000-yard season and finished second among freshman rushers in the nation. This year he still leads Wake Forest in rushing with 425 yards.

Wake Forest has the usual stable of receivers as six receivers have double figures in receptions. Duane Owens is the top receiver with 34 receptions for 302 yards as he has been a wingback for much of this season. He has carried 13 times for 105 yards rushing. Senior flanker Tim Ryan is the second leading receiver with 24 catches for 346 yards. Clemson remembers Ryan as he caught an 85-yard TD pass from Schofield in Japan last season, the longest opponent scoring pass in Clemson history.

Defensively, the Wake Forest secondary is its best asset as the Deacons rank 21st in the nation in pass defense and possess one of the top pass thieves in the game. Ronnie Burgess is a junior defensive back from Sumter, S. C. who has five interceptions this season to rank ninth in the nation and second in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Clemson's accurate quarterback Mike Eppley will have to watch out for him, but Mike has been doing a good job of watching everyone in the opponent secondary this season. The junior signal caller is rapidly becoming one of the nation's finest quarterbacks, just look at the NCAA stats. Eppley is ranked ninth in the nation in passing efficiency this week after his career high game against N. C. State (17-26 for 249 yards and two scores).

In the last four games Eppley has completed 47 of 73 passes for 707 yards, a 644 completion mark. He has eight touchdown passes this season after getting only one a year ago and this might be the most important area of improvement for Eppley this season. Of course the most impressive statistic about Eppley is his record as the starting pitcher. Clem- son is 10-1-1 in games he has started at quarterback.

The Charlotte, N. C. native has gotten a lot of help recently and the result is a Clemson offense that is 10th in the nation in scoring, 12th in rushing and 22nd in total offense. James Farr is one of the finest guards in the nation, and is an All-America candidate at the position. He is a major reason Clemson has averaged 255 yards per game on the ground and one of the reasons Clemson quarterbacks have been sacked only 12 times all season. Kevin Mack, the senior fullback from Kims Mountain, N. C., has averaged 6.4 yards per carry this season, still the top figure for a fullback in the nation with at least 70 yards per game on the ground. Mack is the team's leading rusher this season with 532 yards and he is attempting to become the first fullback to lead Clemson in rushing since Marvin Sims paced the 1979 team.

Clemson's receiving corps is young, just look at the top where two freshmen lead the way. Ray Williams set a freshman record with 105 yards receiving in a game last week and he already has the freshman season mark for receptions and reception yards in a season. He had 75-yard touchdown last week that thrilled the crowd and broke the game open. Terrance Boulah is second with 11 catches for 172 yards and he will chase Williams all season for the freshman record ala Carlton and Ryan did with the major league strikeout.

The offense will try to move the ball to score enough points to keep two of the Tigers' streaks going today. Clemson has now won its last 16 games in ACC play dating back to a November 1980 loss to Maryland. At home the Clemson streak is an unbeaten mark of 18 games. Danny Ford's team has a 16-0-2 mark at home since a November 1980 loss to North Carolina.

Both teams have outstanding offenses and that has been the central theme of this article. Given these respective talents, that means the team with the better defense will win the game. "We've got to stop their passing game with a good rush and tight coverage," said Danny Ford this week. "Stopping Schofield is the key to the game. He has been exciting against every team this year, including Maryland recently. We can't let him move the ball on us."

Bill Foster's first Orange and White scrimmage was this morning in Littlejohn Coliseum at 10:30 A.M. The second public scrimmage of the year will be November 12 at 10:30 AM in Littlejohn Coliseum, the morning of the Maryland game. Vinnie Hamilton is back and three newcomers will add excitement to the Clemson attack so stop by Littlejohn before the Maryland game on your next visit to Tigertown.

Dale Hatcher is 11th in the nation in punting.

Each year the Clemson athletic department spends a great deal of money on equipment. The bats, balls, pads, footballs, blocking sleds and other needs constitute a high percentage of the budgetary expense and it is difficult to sight a time when the expense is well worth the cash outlay.

In 1970 the athletic department bought a unique goal post, one that was half as wide as the normal one used in a game. The expense was not that great and certainly is minuscule when compared to the rate of return it has brought to Clemson placekicker Bob Paulling.

"The one factor I can sight as helping me improve my kicking is that half goal post on the practice fields behind Jervey," said Paulling recently. "When I started kicking at that little goal post it made me concentrate on my accuracy and that has been the secret to my success recently. It has made me concentrate on my rhythm and accuracy and that is as much a reason for my conversion streak as anything."

And what a streak it is! Heading into the Wake Forest game Paulling had connected on 59 consecutive extra points and he should improve on it today. In fact, Paulling has now hit 95-96 for his career, just four shy of Obed Ariri's career record for career conversions after touchdowns. With five extra points today he can become the first kicker in the history of the ACC to kick 100 career extra points. He is still behind Maryland's Jess Atkinson in the consecutive conversion race. The Terp kicker has 71 straight conversions and that is the ACC record, but Paulling will be on the chase if Atkinson misses one.

Paulling has also been just about as accurate when it comes to field goals. The native of Orangeburg has connected on 26-33 field goals in his career, the best field goal percentage in Clemson history and his 10-13 mark on field goals of 40 yards or more is the best accuracy mark from that distance among all active players in the NCAA.

"Consistency in practice is the key to being a good kicker," said Paulling. "I don't worry about streaks or records so they don't get on my mind to cause me to miss. A lot of kickers have certain superstitions, but I don't get hung up on any. Practice makes perfect and that is the only thing I do."

"I get out there about a half hour before regular practice and kick from all different distances and angles I can find. I don't have any regimentation. I just go where I feel comfortable with the other kickers."

Paulling would be the first to state that the other specialists are more than significant contributors. The snapper and holder should really get equal billing on placekicking records in his mind. "A lot of the credit for the kicking streak should go to Scott Williams (snapper) and Anthony Parete (the holder). We have been working together the entire streak and they are as much a part of it as I am. If you don't have the timing down you aren't going to be successful. We have worked together so long it is like clockwork and we are so confident of each other's abilities."

"Donald Igwebuike should get some credit too, because he is always pressuring to take my job away from me. Competition in any sport or in anything in life is good and it forces you to do your best."

Doing his best is something Paulling does in many facets of life. While most Tiger gridders just worry about playing football and school work, Paulling is also a star on the Clemson baseball team, a husband, and a double EE major (electrical engineering, one of the hardest majors you can have).

His success level is almost as great as his 97 percent mark on extra points. Paulling led the Tigers in hitting with a .407 average last season, as he was almost a unanimous selection for the all-conference team. He set four single game records along the way. He also has a solid grade point in the classroom and is on schedule to graduate this May.

"Without realizing it I have settled into an organized pattern, you really have to when you are playing two sports, are married and studying double EE. I go to class in the day, am involved with football until dark, spend time with my wife around dinner, then hit the books till about 12:00 and go to bed about 1:00 AM. It is a long day but you get used to it."

Paulling evidently will be drafted in two sports this spring as he is a pro prospect in baseball as well (he has one year of eligibility left with Bill Wilhelm's team) and will have to make a decision. But as Bob said, "I'll make that decision when the time comes. I think I'll just wait and see which situation is best for me and my family."

No matter which sport gives him the best offer, it will be a wise investment for the club that gets him.

As a wife, mother, grandmother, educator, and avid Tiger supporter, Retta Crawford Hughes exemplifies the basic tenets upon which Tiger Brotherhood was founded — service, humanity, and integrity. And, for her dedication in these areas Tiger Brotherhood has selected her as their 1983 Mother-of-the-Year.

This year’s selection is a native of Winnsboro, SC, but is a graduate of Brenau College in Gainesville, GA. While a student at Brenau, she was a member of the HGH Honor Society and Delta Delta Delta sorority.

Upon graduation from Brenau she married Forest E. Hughes, Jr., who attended Clemson and is a member of Tiger Brotherhood. The Hughes’ family grew over the years to include one son and three daughters, one of whom went to Clemson.

Ernie Hughes is a 1972 graduate of Clemson. While he majored in history he participated in intercollegiate football, playing his first two years and assisting as a coach of the freshman team his final two years. The younger Hughes is presently employed as a sales manager for Winnsboro Motor Sales, Inc., the family business. He and his wife Susan have one son and a daughter.

Louise Hughes Sanders, the eldest daughter, elected to attend Winthrop College, but is a graduate of the University of South Carolina. She and her husband currently live in Saluda, SC, and have two sons.

Heron Hughes White is the Hughes’ middle daughter and she attended her mother’s alma mater, Brenau. She also has chosen to remain in her birthplace, Winnsboro, and is also employed in the family business. She is the mother of one son and one daughter.

Retta Crawford Hughes

Finally there is Susan Hughes Dobe, a graduate of Brenau. She resides in Chester and has one son.

But, these are not the only children Mrs. Hughes has raised. While her own children were young, she took into her home and brought up Edward M. Crawford, her first cousin, after the death of the child’s parents. As a matter of fact she became the child’s legal guardian and instilled the same Clemson spirit in him as she did with her own children. Crawford is a 1963 graduate of Clemson.

Because of Mrs. Hughes love of children and the desire to enrich their lives, she became involved in the teaching profession. She has been dedicated to education in the state of South Carolina for the past 27 years. She is currently a teacher at Fairfield Junior High School, specializing in eighth grade mathematics. During her years of teaching, she has unselfishly given her time as an activity advisor for student groups ranging from the Math Club to the cheerleading squad.

Mrs. Hughes does not restrict her unselfishness to her junior high school students. She and her husband are interested in maintaining the high academic standing Clemson has established. For the past 25 years the Hughes have contributed to the Loyalty Fund. But, their interest stretches beyond academics encompassing the entire athletic program. Mr. and Mrs. Hughes are active members of IPTAY, Mr. Hughes himself has served as president in 1975-76. It doesn’t matter where the Tigers play, the Hughes will follow. They have trailed the Tigers from the NCAA Basketball Regional Finals in Tucson, AR, to Tokyo, Japan for the Mirage Bowl. And, the Hughes always take part in the traditional Tiger tailgate parties that go on each Saturday before and after Tiger ball games.

Mrs. Retta Hughes is dedicated to Clemson University. Dave Jenkin, executive assistant for Tiger Brotherhood expressed why he felt she was the perfect choice for Tiger Brotherhood’s Mother-of-the-Year by saying, “Mrs. Hughes not only possesses that earnest and unique Clemson spirit, but she proudly shares it among the people who associate with her.”

What is Tiger Brotherhood?

Today, the Brotherhood is a local, selective, honorary fraternity. It still embraces the same basic tenets as established by its founders, led by Professor John Logan Marshall, in 1929. Enamored with ritual, the Tiger Brotherhood promotes high standards of social and ethical conduct, while recognizing in its members an earnest devotion to Clemson, coupled with the integrity of character commensurate with the atypical Clemson Gentleman.

Tiger Brotherhood embodies an unequaled cross-sectional representation of the Clemson community. Students, faculty and staff all work within the bonds of brotherhood to champion a closer relationship. One for all and all for one, with Clemson its many traditions and undying spirit as our central focus, today provides viable, flexible and continuing forum for ideas and unending service to Clemson.
YOU DON'T GET TO THE TOP BY JUST PLAYING GAMES.

It takes hard work and a lot of practice. And it takes a commitment to being the best. The kind of commitment Clemson students, faculty and alumni have also brought to their positions on the Stevens team throughout the years.

Students filling jobs in nearby plants. Faculty providing continuing education and valuable research. And alumni in management roles.

For years we've worked together to create quality fabrics. Having Clemson on our side has helped keep us at the top, too.

The names Bear Bryant, Amos Alonzo Stagg, Pop Warner, Woody Hayes and Jess Neely all have two things in common. If you are up on your football trivia you know that the five aforementioned men are the top five men in career coaching victories in the college ranks.

This well-known quintet also has another statistic in common. All five had worse records on a percentage basis against major college competition after four seasons than present Clemson Head Coach Danny Ford. We aren’t saying Ford is a shoo-in for the Hall of Fame or 300 victories, but the fact does give testimony to the Clemson mentor’s level of accomplishment in his first four full seasons as a head coach.

In his four seasons Ford has led Clemson to a 36-10-1 record, two ACC titles and most importantly the institution’s first National Championship in any sport. That is a winning percentage of .766, a better winning percentage at a four-year mark than current nationally renowned coaches Vince Dooley, Bo Schenbecher, Tom Osborne, Bobby Bowden, Fred Akers, Lon Holtz and Terry Donahue had at the four-year mark in their careers.

In 1982 Ford led Clemson to a 9-1-1 record and his Tigers are now 21-1-1 over the last two seasons. No school in America can claim a better mark. After the 1981 season he was deservedly named National Coach-of-the-Year by an assortment of media and organizations.

He was named National Coach-of-the-Year by United Press International, the American Football Coaches’ Association, the Football Writers of America, and the Washington Touchdown Club, in addition to many other local football clubs.

The now 35-year-old Gadsden, Alabama native has been associated with more winning teams and programs than most coaches come in contact with in a lifetime. Including his years as a player at Alabama under Bear Bryant, Ford has been associated with college football for the last 16 years. Fifteen of those clubs have had winning records and 11 have gone to bowl games. Additionally, the 15 teams have had a record of 133-48-4, a 730 winning percentage.

Ford took over December 10, 1978. That was a fine day in Clemson athletics because the University announced that Charley Pell had relinquished the head coaching duties of the 1978 Gator Bowl to Ford. Nearly 40 years after hiring 31-year-old Frank Howard, Clemson had hired a gifted 30-year-old to lead the Tiger forces on the gridiron.

Ford conquered all kinds of adversity in leading the Tigers to a nationally televised 17-15 triumph over perennial powerhouse Ohio State in the Gator Bowl in his very first game as head coach. Few mentors in NCAA history have made such a celebrated and successful beginning.

With this list of accomplishments, it is little wonder that the Student Affairs Committee of the Clemson Board of Trustees only considered one name as Charley Pell’s successor. Danny Ford not only had the backing of Pell, but also from the members of the Clemson football team. He was then assistant head coach and offensive line coach for the Tigers. After two meetings between Ford and the committee on the morning of December 5, 1978, it was the unanimous opinion of the committee that Ford should be named Clemson’s 21st head coach.

Ford began his association with college football in 1967 when he started for Bear Bryant at Alabama as Ken Stabler’s sophomore tight end. He played three years for Bryant, (including three wins against Clemson) and was an All-Southeastern Conference choice, All-SEC academic selection and team captain during his senior season.

After receiving his B.S. degree in industrial arts in 1970, Ford remained at Alabama as a graduate assistant for the 1970 and 1971 seasons. Upon earning a master’s degree in special education in 1971, he was made a full-time assistant under Bryant for the 1972 and 1973 seasons. The Tide went to four more post-season games while Ford was on Bryant’s staff.

Clemson’s current head man then accepted a position as an assistant coach on Jimmy Sharpe’s staff at Virginia Tech. He remained in Blacksburg for three seasons (1974 to 1976), before he was beckoned to Clemson by Charley Pell, who had just been named the Tigers’ head coach. Pell and Ford had served together on the VIP staff for two seasons.

And only 23 games later, Ford became head coach of the Tigers at age 30, the youngest Division 1 head coach in the country.

And three years later he became the youngest coach to lead a team to a national championship.

Interstates 20, 26, 85, and 95 aren’t exactly Broadway, but this fall they’ll carry a show to the people of South Carolina as high-spirited and fun-filled as any chorus line the Big Apple has to offer.

Understand, now, there won’t be any 12-piece bands, and the cast will perform in places like high school cafeterias and National Guard armories — the kind of places that sort of make you feel at home and that make you proud of your community and state.

And that’s just fine. In fact it’s perfect. Because the name of this show is “We’re Proud to Say,” and its plot is straightforward and simple: to celebrate Clemson University, its students, its programs, and its contributions to the quality of life in the Palmetto State.

Clemson has a lot to be proud of, such as:

• the best freshmen SAT scores of any public college or university in South Carolina . . .
• outstanding faculty who have this year received Fulbright awards and been elected to such national offices as President of the National Wildlife Federation . . .
• a record year for private support of Clemson programs, both athletic and academic. Through such donations the numbers of named professorships and full-ticket academic scholarships have expanded to attract and keep the best minds on campus on both sides of the classroom desk.

Featured entertainers at this fall’s Clemson nights around the state will be the 4:30 Thursday Singers, a group of energetic Clemson students acclaimed for their vocal talents. There’ll be audio-visual presentations as well and brief — and we’re serious about that — comments from representatives of the various areas that make up the University community.

"The emphasis will be on fun for the whole family," says Clemson night chairman Jeff McNeill of the Alumni Relations Office. "The evening will include an informal, inexpensive meal, and we’re going to keep everything casual and entertaining.

"All we want to do is to show off some of the smart and talented Clemson students that we’re so proud of, and to tell folks about some of the great things going on at Clemson University."

THE 3 KEYS TO SUCCESS:

Satisfied Clients, Satisfied Clients and Satisfied Clients.

Developing a reputation for excellence is not an easy task. Maintaining that reputation can be just as difficult. At Parker Construction our reputation for excellence has been developed by remembering two key words: client satisfaction. From the moment we become involved with a project to the date of completion, we’re dedicated to delivering what’s promised, when promised. This kind of dedication has not come by accident. Since our beginning we’ve taken that extra step to not just satisfy our client’s needs, but to perform beyond their expectations. Through the application of modern building technology we’ve discovered better methods of construction, saving precious time on all projects. Exacting communication and attention to detail has enabled us to complete projects within budget and without compromise. From historic restoration to new construction, Parker is building — building a reputation for excellence and a long list of satisfied clients.
Athletic Director Bill McLellan

Statistics are not for losers when it comes to athletics. Batting averages, scoring averages and passing percentages are used to gauge an athlete’s performance, and won-loss records document the abilities of coaches. If there is one statistic or rating system for athletic directors it must be the Knoxville Journal’s National All-Sports Poll. It rates the all-around success of a program based on national standings in various sports.

If that poll is the statistical barometer for athletic directors, then Bill McLellan is one of the finest in his field. Under his leadership Clemson has finished in the top five in the nation in the prestigious poll four of the last five years, including a number-five ranking during the 1982-83 academic year. Additionally, Clemson has ranked in the top 36 in the nation every year since 1975-76.

“I believe in the total athletic program at Clemson,” said McLellan, who is only the third man to own the title of athletic director at Clemson over the last 48 years. “Every sport is important in this department and we want to have a nationally ranked program in every sport. It is a daily challenge, but a rewarding one.”

Highly regarded by his peers, McLellan is also held in respect by Clemson alumni and constituents. In the summer of 1982 he was named as a Distinguished Alumnus of Clemson University, one of the highest honors a Clemson alumna can obtain.

The native of Hamer, SC, was elevated to his present position on February 4, 1971, but he has served Clemson in almost every capacity.

McLellan was a Tiger gridder in the early fifties, earning a letter in 1953 and 1954. He was also a member of the 1952 Gator Bowl team. He earned a BS degree in agronomy in 1954 and a master’s in agricultural economics in 1956.

McLellan joined the athletic staff May 1, 1958 from Clemson’s Department of Agricultural Economics and Seed Certification where he had spent one year as assistant agronomist and two years as assistant economist.

Although carrying the title of assistant business manager, McLellan was credited with handling the majority of the department’s athletic business and opera-

During his 13 years as the top man, Clemson has improved its won-loss record by leaps and bounds in nearly every sport, but the growth and improvement in facilities has also improved at a meteoric rate. Clemson has the finest all-around athletic facilities in the South for its 17 intercollegiate sports and McLellan has been the architect of the improvement.

Just look at Clemson’s Memorial Stadium. In the last six years alone the seating capacity has increased by over 70 percent with the addition of two upper decks.

The list of improvements for other sports is lengthy, but significant. During his tenure, 20 new tennis courts have been built, new lighting has been installed on a new soccer field, the baseball field has been made into a stadium, additional seating and further improvements have been made to Littlejohn Coliseum, a new swimming pool was built as an addition to a renovated Fike Fieldhouse, a modern, all-weather track was installed, five new football practice fields were added and a golf putting green and driving range were built.

McLellan has also worked tirelessly on further improvements for the University community. The athletic department has made a number of grants to academic programs. Some of the purchases include mini-computers in the College of Education, salary supplements in the math and English departments in addition to the College of Education, support travel for the Tiger Band, and a yearly contribution to the Clemson Sports Symposium, one of the finest of its kind in the nation. Additionally, matching gifts have been made from IPTAY to the special University fund.

The 51-year-old McLellan is also highly regarded for his expertise in television contracts. He has been a chairman of the ACC television committee and has been a chief negotiator in various television contracts. He is the major reason Clemson will have most of its football games seen on nationwide cable systems this season.

Putting something back into the University has a personal dimension for McLellan. “As one of seven children, that athletic scholarship made a lot of things possible for me, and I appreciate the opportunity to pay Clemson back. It’s not an ego trip for me, but it is personal satisfaction which no one can ever take away.”

In Times Like These, How Do You Keep Businesses Going, Farms Growing, Wheels Turning, Kids Learning, Teams Competing, And Ends Meeting?

It takes work. And careful planning. But you can do the things you need to do. Make it a good life for yourself and the people you love. Make it an even better, brighter future. And you don't have to do it alone.

We'll help. With all the banking services you need. Whether you're just starting out with your first job, first home, first baby. Or you're already established and looking for ways to make the most of what you've accomplished.

But there's more to it than just providing the services you need now. There's the promise that we'll grow with you. Refining services to help you cope with change. Developing new ones to help you get ahead.

So you can come to C&S. And stay with C&S. Like thousands of folks all across South Carolina. They're still building, growing, and achieving, despite the up and down, 'round and 'round times we live in.

But that doesn't come as a surprise. After all, every one of them is a Financial Wizard.

The Golden Anniversary of IPTAY

By Len Gough

On July 1, 1983, IPTAY began its 50th year of service to Clemson University. From a modest beginning as a secret organization, IPTAY has grown into one of the largest athletic scholarship fundraising groups in America.

It was during the summer of 1934 that Dr. Rupert H. Fike, a physician from Atlanta, GA, had the idea to begin a secret organization, a "fraternity" of sorts, that would raise funds for athletic scholarships for Clemson. On August 20, he recruited eight other gentlemen to meet with him at his home in Atlanta.

Meeting with Dr. Fike were: George Suggs, Gene Cox, E. C. Hutches, Bill Dukes, J. R. Pennell, George Klugh, Milton Berry, and Jack Mitchell. Together these men drafted the constitution, created the ritual, and developed the codes and symbols that only initiated IPTAY members knew.

Parts of the ritual included a pocket piece with symbols, a secret handshake and unusual greetings. The different titles included IPTAY, which stood for Industry, Perseverance, Temperance, Assistance, Youthfulness or I Pay Ten A Year.

But IPTAY has not succeeded because of secret symbols and initiations. It was only a secret organization for four years. From its beginning with 162 charter members, IPTAY continued to grow until, in 1954, Dr. Fike realized a need for reorganization. A complete revamping of the club took place, and it was decided to have a Board of Directors composed of nine people. Three of these would be appointed by the Chairman of the Athletic Council, with the remaining six being elected to represent the six congressional districts.

In 1950, Gene Willimon had been hired as Executive Secretary and would be joined by three officers, a President, a Vice President and a Secretary-Treasurer, that would be elected from and by the Board of Directors.

The first IPTAY Board of Directors was comprised of Calhoun Lemon, Vic Chapman, R. C. Edwards, Paul Quattlebaum, W. G. DesChamps, Harper Gault, Edgar Rosamond, and J. O. Freeman. The main objective of the directors was to create more interest in IPTAY and Clemson University. In 1958, IPTAY representatives were appointed for the first time. This group now numbers over 500 strong and donates untold volunteer hours promoting Clemson.

As the years passed, the numbers continued to grow. There were 5,200 members in 1954 which became 10,000 in 1959 and now number over 19,000 for the 1983 year. In 1936, Jess Neely said that the sky would be the limit if IPTAY could raise only $10,000. Thanks to the leadership of people like Gene Willimon, George Bennett, and Joe Turner, IPTAY crossed $1 million in 1977, $2 million in 1979, $3 million in 1981, $4 million in 1982, and $5 million for the 1983 fiscal year. With this type of support, it is no wonder that IPTAY has had 20 consecutive record breaking years.

But what is IPTAY? By constitutional definition, IPTAY is a non-profit, tax-exempt organization with the primary goal of providing scholarships for student athletes at Clemson University; it is self-supporting. But IPTAY is much more than numbers. IPTAY is 19,000 people who believe that Clemson deserves only the best, and, these people are willing to work unselfishly to make and keep Clemson number one. Athletic Director Bill McLellan believes, "Without a doubt, the unprecedented period of growth in Clemson Athletics would not have been possible without the support of IPTAY."

We are completing the first fifty years of a long journey. But where will IPTAY be fifty years down the road? "The key to Clemson's success has been and will continue to be people," according to Joe Turner, Executive Secretary of IPTAY. "If we have unlocked some unique qualities on Saturdays at Death Valley or in Littlejohn, it is because of the love and sincerity of the people who support the Tigers. It is this commitment that has taken Clemson through the first 50 years and will certainly keep Clemson "Number One" through the next fifty years."

Assistant Coaches

Don Denning is in his third season with the Clemson staff after joining the Tigers on July 1, 1981. The secondary coach has previously served stints at Western Carolina, Memphis State and Delta State. He is a 1960 graduate of Presbyterian College. He has served as an assistant coach, head coach and assistant athletic director throughout his athletic career.

Lawson Holland is the only current member of the staff who also played his college football at Clemson. The likeable receiver coach was a reserve quarterback for the Tigers between 1970 and 1973. Now in his fifth season at Clemson, Holland, who works with the receivers, earned his B.A. in secondary education.

Woody McCorvey is the newest member of the Clemson coaching staff, as he climbed aboard just this past July. Clemson's new tight ends coach had been the offensive coordinator at Alabama A&M University the last four seasons. The native of Grove Hill, AL was a four-year letterman at Alabama State as a quarterback. He earned his degree in physical education.

Larry Van Der Heyden is a transplanted midwesterner who is now in his fifth season on the Clemson staff. He has coached some fine offensive linemen in recent years and is one of the major reasons the Tiger ground game has been so successful. The native of Moline, IL played both football and baseball for three seasons at Iowa State.

Tom Harper came to Clemson from Virginia Tech where he had served as defensive coordinator. The native of Piqua, OH, is now in his third season in that capacity at Clemson. Like Don Denning, Harper has also served as a head coach in his career, as he was the top man at Wake Forest in 1972. Harper serves as assistant head coach at Clemson.

Chuck Reedy is one of the reasons Clemson's ground attack has been so outstanding the last few years, as he has served as the running backs coach. Now in his sixth season, Reedy joined the Clemson staff from Kentucky in July of 1975. The 1971 Appalachian State graduate earned two letters on the gridiron during his playing days.

Tommy West is in his second season on the Clemson coaching staff. Last year he worked with the defensive ends and had the pleasure of coaching players like Andy Headen, Joe Glenn and Edgar Pickett. West was a fine player himself, lettering in the mid-seventies for the Volunteers of Tennessee.

Les Herrin has been the director of Clemson's fine linebacking crew the last two seasons. He came to the Tigers from Appalachian State where he had served as the defensive coordinator. The 1971 Western Carolina graduate captained the Catamount team in 1970 and also was named most valuable player of the defense that same season.

Nelson Stokley played collegiately at a fine southern institution and he now coaches in the college ranks in the same area of the country. The starting quarterback for the LSU Tigers between 1965 and 1967, Stokley is now the offensive coordinator for the Clemson Tigers. He is now in his fourth season at Clemson after serving as an assistant at his alma mater and at Virginia Tech.

Rick Whitt is in his fourth season working in the Clemson secondary. A 1976 graduate of Catawba, he also has had some experience with the Bandit ends, one of the most important positions on the Clemson defense. Whitt started for three seasons at strong safety for Catawba before starting his coaching career at Central Davidson High School in Lexington, NC. He is this year's volunteer coach.
At Piedmont, we've been winning new fans at a record-setting pace. This past year alone, for example, we counted over 8.5 million. A million more than the year before.

So, why are so many fans flocking to our gates?
We think it's because we offer an alternative. An aerial game plan that gives the air traveler a lot of options.

For instance, nonstops and directs where the other airlines offer only connections.

Or fast, easy connections through airports that are smaller and less congested.

In short, it's a strategy that has helped us gain ground almost everywhere we've gone.

Which has helped make us, since 1978, the fastest-growing major airline in America.

Twenty points awarded for first place, 19 for second place, 18 for third place, etc.

For the fourth time in the last five years the Clemson all-around sports program has been ranked in the top five in the nation. The survey, conducted by the Knoxville Journal, takes into account national rankings in selected sports. Women's sports are not included in this poll, which has been in existence since 1971.

This poll is a good index of the rise of Clemson athletics over the years. The Tigers were first ranked in the survey in 1975-76 with a number-20 finish. In the 1978-79 Clemson climbed to fourth, and in 1979-80 gained a number-three ranking, the school's highest ever. Two years ago Clemson was fourth and last year the Tigers picked up the number-five rating.

This past year Clemson scored in five of the 10 sports involved in the survey. The Clemson cross country, football and soccer teams all finished eighth in the country, while the men's tennis team was ninth. Bobby Robinson's golfers were fifth to record the highest team ranking in a men's sport.

The women also did well as the women's cross country team finished fifth, the women's indoor track team was 10th and the women's tennis team was rated seventh in the final polls.

Music By Dr. Hugh McGarity
Many people think the light, thin sourwood honey made in the hills of the Southeast is the best honey in the world. Among them are a lot of South Carolina beekeepers who concentrate their apiculture efforts on the short summer period when sourwood nectar flows.

Since it’s easier to move bees during the cool of the night, hive-laden pickups and homemade trailers often go unnoticed as they shuttle thousands of colonies back and forth from Charleston, Greenwood, Florence and Conway in June and August.

“No matter what the hour, when a load of bees pulls into a service station, chances are the driver will have to pump his or her own gas, even if it’s a full-service station,” says Jimmy Howard, Clemson University Extension Service bee specialist.

Good sourwood honey is almost clear with a slight yellowish color, and has a distinct flavor honey lovers claim is unforgettable. Unlike other honeys, pure sourwood will not turn to sugar.

It sells for $5-$8 per quart, twice the price of other honeys. Although this has been a good year for sourwood and most roadside stands still have plenty, some years it’s scarce at any price, says Howard.

Sourwood honey is made from the blooms of sourwood trees, slow-growing hardwoods commonly called lilly of the valley trees. Prolific in the foothills and mountains from mid-South Carolina and upper Georgia through West Virginia, they are often grown as ornamentals.

Sourwoods seem to produce more nectar in the mountains. The honey flow starts in mid to late June and runs into the early days of August.

Weather usually hurts sourwood honey yield. If it’s a little too wet, bees won’t work the blooms. When it’s hot and dry, nectar often dries in the blossoms before bees can collect it, Howard says.

Beekeepers who carry hives to the mountains for sourwood must time the move carefully. If transported too early, the bees may collect toxic nectar from mountain laurel which blooms just before sourwood. It’s not fatal to humans, but it can cause nausea, Howard says.

Sourwood honey collection is tough on bee colonies. With no pollen coming into the hive, the queen stops laying and bee numbers drop, resulting in a weakened colony in the fall.

Pure sourwood honey is extremely rare. A good sourwood honey contains about 90 percent sourwood nectar mixed with nectar from plants such as sumac, prickly ash and lespedeza.

Just because a honey jar bears a sourwood label doesn’t guarantee the buyer is getting the real thing. Howard says light, citrus honey from Florida is often mislabeled sourwood by honey sellers seeking top dollar.

“There are countless stories about ‘courthouse honey,’ honey from Florida, Georgia or the lower part of South Carolina that magically becomes pure, mysterious, expensive sourwood honey as it passes the courthouse in Walhalla,” says Howard.

The signs usually appear at roadside stands in the mountains shortly before the annual autumn color show — “sourwood honey for sale.”

The Clemson Tigers
From 1896 to Glory
Lou Sahadi

- What it was like to play under coach John Heisman (1900-1903) — how he changed the entire game when his teams took the field
- The previously untold stories of the most glorious victories of the Clemson Tigers, and the ten greatest teams in Clemson history
- The first major work about Clemson football, Clemson fans, and their stadium, "Death Valley"

The Clemson Tigers is the story of one of the greatest collegiate football teams in history. The Tigers played their first game in 1896, and since then they have won more Atlantic Coast Conference games (105-58-4) than any other school. It was at Clemson that coach John Heisman (for whom the trophy is named) first earned the sobriquet of "genius." Then came other legendary coaches, such as Frank Howard, and seasons like that of the unbeaten (12-0) 1981 team, which clinched the national championship with a dramatic Orange Bowl victory over Nebraska. This is a story about how football traditions and rivalries are created, about the fanaticism of diehard Clemson fans and the joys of football through the American Southeast.

Author Lou Sahadi is a well known New York sports writer and the author of Winning Edge, Steelers, and Broncos!

The New Ironmen

By Jeff Rhodes

What Clemson record was set in 1939 and has not been tied or broken since? The nation's most versatile athlete that year was Banks McFadden and that title was very appropriate for the current Clemson intramurals director, as he was named to the All-America teams in both football and basketball.

"It is always difficult to play two sports in college," said McFadden, whose 66 years of age matches his former football number. "It is even harder to excel at two sports. It was hard in our day and it is probably even harder now."

It seems as though McFadden's unique first-team double will never be duplicated as the Age of Specialization came into sports a good many years ago, and athletes are now sticking to one sport almost exclusively. There were a few notable exceptions, however, as Roger Collins was an All-American in track and was on the All-Atlantic Coast Conference team in soccer in both 1969 and 1970, while Stan Rome lettered in football and basketball during the 1975 season. But now, the largest group of double-sport athletes since McFadden's era are playing on Clemson's various fields and courts.

Why has there been a sudden explosion in the number of athletes playing more than one sport? The answer is due to the better players that have been recruited as Clemson's fame and prowess on the playing fields have spread. As Clemson's teams get better, the better players could be recruited, and as Clemson was able to recruit more of the 'blue-chip' athletes, the teams were getting better and better.

The Clemson two-sport athletes are a varied group, ranging from short to tall, and muscular to skinny, but they all have some common bonds. Some of the members of this elite group answered questions about their year-round sports life.

Q: Is it hard to juggle the demands of practice, playing, and keeping up with schoolwork?

"It is not as bad as most people think," said Mike Eppley, the only player at an NCAA Division I school to play both football and basketball last year. "I think the key to being successful is to budget your time. You realize you have to go to practice and you have to study, so you just have to make sure your priorities are in order."

Brian Raber, a backup tight end and a letterman in wrestling added, "You just have to make a schedule as to when you can study."

"It is not hard in football season," noted Billy Davis, veteran punt returner and utility man on the baseball field. "During the fall, you pretty much practice at the same time every day and you work study time around practice. During baseball, though, it is very hard, because you are on the field most of the afternoon and then when you go on road trips, you can get behind. You just have to study as much as you can wherever and whenever you can."

Q: What about the different physical demands that are placed on you? Is it hard to go from one sport to the other?

Shelton Boyer, a red-shirt wide receiver on the football team and the TAC Junior National Champion in the high jump said, "It's to your advantage to be in the best shape you can be for any sport, but I like to get to the weight of about 191 pounds during football and I try to work with the weights so I can keep my strength, because those guys on the football field do not play — they are out to hit you. During track season, though, I like to keep around 180 so I can keep my speed up and not be as muscle-bound."

"You can be in great football shape and then go out for wrestling and be way behind," Raber noted. "Then when you go from wrestling to football, it is the same thing all over again. You need upper body strength and endurance in wrestling while football is mainly in the legs and you get to rest between series."

Jody Sease, a shot putter and a backup lineman on the football team said, "For me there is no real difference in the training from one to the other. You need to have a lot of upper body strength and you have to work with your legs."

Q: How did you get involved with two sports? "I have been playing baseball since I was four-years-old," said Jamie Swanner, who is the starting goalie on the soccer team, who set the Clemson and ACC record for shutouts in a season last year with 14. "I am from St. Louis, which is a hotbed of youth soccer, so I decided to try soccer too. My coach was on the 1965 Yugoslavian World Cup team, and he put me in goal because I was pretty big for my age and I was agile, and I have been there ever since."

Boyer and Sease both recalled that they were pushed into their second sport. "My coach in eighth grade said if I played football, I would have to throw the shot," Sease said. "I liked it so I decided to stay with it." Boyer, who jumped 6-10 on his first vault after coming from spring football practice, and later cleared 7-4, added, "My coach wanted me to high jump, but I didn't agree with him. He must have seen something, because the higher I jumped, the more fun it became, so I stuck with it."

"I went to the football games as a freshman, even though for me, it was like looking at Australian Rules Football now," said Donald Igwebuike, who was the only athlete to ever be on a top-10 rated football and soccer team during the same season. "Football looked interesting to me, and after Obed Ariki talked to me about playing, I went out for the team. I couldn't keep up the pace with two sports and school, though. So, I stuck with football."

Q: This is the toughie. Which sport do you like better?

Eppley: "I think, deep down, I prefer basketball because you are playing both ends of the game. You have to play offense and you have to play on the defensive end of the floor, too. In football, you do your part on offense. and then you have to watch the defense — you don’t have any control over half the game.”

Boyer: “I think I have the ability to do both, so I like whichever one I am playing at that time. You can make money in both — just ask Willie Gault or Renaldo Nehemiah.”

Steve Griffin, redshirted tailback and sprinter: “I like football better because it is a team sport where you have to do your part for the team. Sprinting is more of a challenge, though, because it is just you against the other guy.”

Swanner: “I love both together. I want to go to the sport that will finance me and enhance me in later life. I’ll take a chance at either pro baseball or soccer. I just don’t want to go out and work yet. I would like to do something I want to do, because people have to work for most of their lives, and I don’t want to go to work until I have to.

Raber: “That’s why I play two sports, I just can’t decide which one I like better.”

Q. Do you ever feel like you need some time off?

The majority of answers to this question was no, because lack of activity for most of the athletes is worse than doing something.

“I think about sitting around and doing nothing sometimes,” said Davis. “If I sit around for more than three or four days, I start to get antsy. I have always been like that since I learned how to walk. I have to be playing something.”

“I am a very hyper person and I have to be doing something all the time,” noted Swanner. “I have played sports all my life, but if I couldn’t play sports I would play the piano. I just can’t sit still.”

“I don’t need a vacation,” said Raber. “Playing sports is like a vacation. It is not a bad situation doing something you like to do.”

However, Mike Eppley, who goes from football to basketball to spring football, was the lone disserter. “I really look forward to relaxing and being a regular student. It takes so much to keep going for so long, that I enjoy resting in the summer.”

“I really must tip my hat to those athletes who have the desire and the ability to be competitive in two sports,” concluded McFadden. “It really takes something special.”

Oh, by the way, McFadden also was quite a trackman. Does anyone want to try and tie his record?

The Cadillac touch. It’s everywhere. You can feel it when you put Cadillac’s road-hugging Touring Suspension to the test. You can see it ... inside and out. From leather-faced front buckets with lumbar support to a hand-buffed exterior finish. It’s attention to detail, too. Like push-button air. And aluminum alloy wheels. You’ve got to drive this car...and experience the Cadillac touch. Cimarron ’84.

BEST OF ALL...IT’S A CADILLAC.
Let’s Get It Together...Buckle Up.
I’ll never forget the 1954 game against Wake Forest. It was Clemson’s second year running the “T” formation and the second year in the new Atlantic Coast Conference, was my junior year and Clemson was building a new football machine. We broke even with five wins and five losses, but we knew we were on our way to football glory with the new “T” formation.

It started with the Wake Forest game in 1954. The game was supposed to be played at Wake Forest, but for some reason it was moved to Charlotte’s Shrine Bowl Stadium. It was a standing-room-only crowd and it was a “must win” game for Clemson.

The Wake Forest game was a "Battle Royal" and a spectator’s delight. Wake Forest had a wide open offense and featured a quarterback named Nick Consoles who excelled in running and passing. In the line they had a great All-American tackle named Bob Bartholomew. Prior to the opening kickoff, Coach Howard told me that if I could "whip" Bartholomew, we would beat Wake Forest. I knew that I was in for a long afternoon, but I told him I would "whip" Bob Bartholomew.

Wake Forest jumped to an early lead and went into the locker rooms at halftime with a 14-7 lead. A determined, “fired-up,” Clemson team came out of the locker room from halftime and the second half was all Clemson.

We took the second half kickoff and drove 98 yards for the tying score with Buck George taking the ball into the end zone.

The "Battle Royal" continued with Clemson going ahead 21-14 with a Jim Coleman touchdown on a 35 yard pass from Don King.

Clemson came right back and scored. I was able to get by Bartholomew and blocked the extra point attempt and Clemson led 21-20.

I’ll never forget the Wake Forest kickoff to Clemson. All linemen were taught by Coach Howard to fall on the football on kickoffs. As you might guess, the kickoff came right to me and instead of falling on the ball, I tucked it under my arm and headed upfield. I gained 13 yards with the kickoff and the entire Wake Forest team jumped on me — so many that I could not fall down. They held me up.

In the huddle, Don King, our quarterback, said, “Nab, why didn’t you fall on the ball? You could have fumbled.” I said, “Don, fall on it, hell, one more block and I would have gone all the way!” The laughter was instantaneous — the tension was broken. Don called time out and when play resumed, we drove to the winning touchdown. It was all over and Clemson went on to win 32-20.

I played over 50 minutes that day without substitution and won the battle with Bob Bartholomew.

The names that day that brought Clemson victory were Buck George, Jim Coleman, and Joel Wells, who were super running out of the backfield; Kenny Moore for an 81 yard touchdown punt return; Neuf Ankuta who averaged seven yards per carry; Don King for his passing and Charlie Bussey who directed the first three touchdowns. In the line, Earle Greene, Willie Smith, John Grdijan, Dick Marazza, and our athletic director, Bill McLellan all were outstanding. It was a great victory for Clemson and we evened the season at three wins and three losses.

I met Bob Bartholomew again my senior year in 1955 and Clemson was again victorious. After graduation, Bob Bartholomew and I were teammates and roommates at the College North-South All-Star game in Miami and we faced each other one last time in professional football in Canada.

Today Bob is the chief fund raiser at Wake Forest and continues to be a credit to his alma mater in every way.

When Coach Howard took me out of the game with 50 seconds left, he gave me a "hug" and a kiss on the cheek with a mouth full of "Penn’s Thin" chewing tobacco.

Something happened that day in Shrine Bowl Stadium. It was our first and only ACC victory of 1954, but it was the beginning of the five greatest years in Clemson football history — 1955 through 1959. Clemson won 28 games, lost 13, and tied two, including the Orange Bowl — 1956, the Sugar Bowl — 1958; and the Blue Bonnet Bowl — 1959. Most important in that five-year period, we beat the Gamecocks four out of five times and in three Clemson victories we held South Carolina scoreless.

We're proud of our newest Most Valuable Performer—the new Corvette. The sporting analysts of the automotive world, the enthusiast magazines, are pretty impressed with it, too. Car and Driver magazine called it, “The most advanced production car on the planet.”

That makes us feel pretty good at Chevrolet. Because a lot of deep thinking and hard work went into creating the new Corvette.

The dedication that went into Corvette is the same dedication demonstrated by the athletes of the National Collegiate Athletic Association. And since we know what hard work is all about, we established the Chevrolet Scholarship Program back in 1971. This awards the Most Valuable Players in NCAA football and basketball games with a donation to their respective school’s general scholarship fund.

To date, over 1,800 scholarships, totaling over 1.9 million dollars, have been donated to assist men and women in furthering their educations.

At Chevrolet, we strive for excellence. That’s why we support the goals of the NCAA and that’s why we offer cars like our Most Valuable Performer—the new Corvette.

playing with brother, Chuck, three years for the Tigers. More often than not he has been known as Chuck McSwain's younger brother. But, McSwain has taken it all in stride during his career at Clemson and is making a name for himself. "It hasn't bothered me," said McSwain. "I have always been known as Chuck's younger brother, even through high school. It has grown on me."

Last year the two-sport star has switched to wide receiver to take advantage of his tremendous speed. When asked about playing both cornerback and wide receiver during his career, McSwain replied, "I wanted to play the position that would best help the team. When you get right down to it, though I enjoy playing cornerback, because I have played the position since I was in the sixth grade.

Another distinction of the handyman is that he is the fastest player on the squad, he runs a 4.35-40-yard dash. In addition, during his sophomore season McSwain anchored the ACC Champion 4 x 100 meter relay team. "I guess I was blessed with the talent," said the North Carolinian. "I began running track my freshman year, but I never could work on it much. It was my sophomore year in high school before I seriously developed an interest in the sport. Actually, I expected to go to college for my track skills rather than for my football skills."

McSwain believes that he has benefitted from playing both sports while at Clemson. "Track helps me with my speed and quickness. In the secondary, you rely on speed and quickness."

On playing both offense and defense the senior replied, "Mental toughness is the biggest difference between the two positions. There is a big difference between getting hit and doing the hitting. When I played wide receiver I was able to read defensive coverages because of my cornerback experience. Now that I am back on defense I know how wide receivers run their routes. For instance, when receivers run a curl they take off really hard and hook up. I feel that I have an edge because of my experience at receiver."

This experience and knowledge of the game is one reason McSwain might be one of the surprises of the NFL draft next spring. Defensive backfield coach Don Dennings thinks he could go very high in the draft. "Rod has improved quite a bit this fall and has really changed his attitude toward the position and the game. He is working much harder and will continue to improve."

We get a lot of pro scouts in here and they have been impressed with him. Anyone who has played a couple of positions and has McSwain's speed is going to be a good selection in the pros. Some scouts think he could go in the first or second round."

McSwain has been a solid starter since the third game of the season at the right cornerback. Now that he has finally found a home, he can continue to work towards a now realistic goal — a home in the NFL.

The Clemson University Athletic Department provides the following for your safety and emergency medical needs:

1. Advanced cardiac life-support stations in four locations. (North stands. Upper North deck, South stands. Upper South deck.) These units are staffed with skill-care nurses, physicians, cardiologists, internists, paramedics, and EMTs.
2. Mobile units of EMTs and paramedics are strategically located throughout the entire stadium.
3. Ambulances with life-support equipment are available in North stand and South stand areas and have prearranged routes for evacuation to local hospitals.

Learn to recognize these personnel and facilities. Announcements will inform you of special hazards — heat, bees, etc.

WHAT TO DO IF EMERGENCIES ARISE

Please step back and give the organized stadium EMS personnel room to work. Well-intentioned attempts to help by untrained persons interferes with the efficiency of the EMS system. If you have basic or advanced training in specific life-support methods, make your qualifications known and offer your help. Untrained personnel can be frequently more harmful than helpful.

MEDICAL ADVICE FOR FANS

If you have a pre-existing medical or health problem, please check with your personal physician and obtain his advice before attending games. Many emergencies occurring at the stadium do so because of pre-existing conditions. Use common sense in dressing, eating, drinking and in physical exertion. Be certain if you have any pre-existing medical conditions that you have identification on you as to the diagnosis and what medications you are currently taking.

Be aware of early warning signs of heart attacks: chest pain, chest tightness, shortness of breath, sweating, palpitations, nausea and vomiting.

Recognize that our most common serious medical problem at football games is heart attacks and allergic reactions to insect stings. Be aware that insect stings will continue to always be very frequent at outdoor sporting events and should always be treated with immediate ice until advice can be obtained. If you have ever had a reaction to bee or other insect sting, check with your personal physician as to whether you should carry a kit.

Imagine standing in the middle of Death Valley, with 80,000 screaming fans on both sides of you, all alone watching a 16-inch pigskin coming towards you end-over-end. And, on top of all that there are 11 crazed, hungry behemoths ready to pounce upon you the moment you field the punt. If you can put yourself in the shoes of this man then you know what it is like to be Billy Davis, the Tigers' veteran punt returner.

The handsome 6-4, 195, senior has become the Tigers' all-time leader in career punt returns with 80, and feels there are two secrets in being a successful punt returner. "If I had to sum it up in two words they would be concentration and instinct," explained Davis. "Concentration is a key in any endeavor that you attempt, but especially in punt returning. When I go out on the field I center all my thoughts around catching the ball first before anything else. After that, then I can focus on reading the blocks, and there is not anything that I appreciate more, than the lineman coming down field and setting up." Davis obviously has concentrated well in his career, as out of 80 returns and another 90 fair catches he has fumbled the ball away to the opponent only once.

In the 1982 Orange Bowl, when the Tigers clinched the national title, the linemen certainly laid the blocks well as Davis made a spectacular 47-yard punt return, the longest of his career, which led to a Clemson field goal and kept the momentum in the Tigers' corner.

"Billy Davis does not have the greatest punt return average in Clemson history, but what he does better than anyone else is catch the ball on the run," said Danny Ford. "He saves us so much field position by making daring catches in traffic. If you added in those yards he probably would lead the nation in punt returns."

But, Davis does not only restrict his talents to the art of punt returning. He is also one of the Tiger free safeties. The native of Alexandria, VA, received his first starting nod at that spot three weeks ago against the Virginia Cavaliers. "It meant a lot to me that I started the Virginia game since I am from that state, but it really doesn't matter who starts. I knew this spring when I decided to play baseball and missed the entire spring football practice that I would be decreasing my chances of starting." And, it ended up that Ronald Watson moved into the starting role left vacant by the departed All-American Terry Kinard. "But, I still get a lot of playing time," offered Davis.

For three years Davis patiently served as the backup for Kinard and gained experience each year. Davis said, "A quality player like Terry Kinard only comes around once in a great while, and I feel that I was fortunate to have been his teammate. He was the best defensive football player in the country last season and of course if you were his coach then you wanted him out on the field as much as possible. I just tried to give everything I had when I was in the game."

Davis certainly has made significant contributions from the free safety spot in the past. As a matter of fact, he probably has more interceptions per play than any other player in Tiger history. In the 1982 contest against Maryland in College Park, Davis made a crucial interception on his only play of the game (on the Terrapins final offensive play) to end the Terps hope for a come-from-behind victory. He also has two thefts from Georgia Bulldog quarterbacks during his career. It was his sophomore season that Davis snared his first one. "I had just gone into the game to give Kinard a breather, when quarterback Belue dropped back and threw a pass. If I didn't know better, I would have sworn that he had thrown it to me," recalled Davis.

Maybe Billy Davis just has a knack for being in the right place at the right time. With his combination of punt returning artistry and a sixth sense for timely interceptions, he is sure to have a significant positive impact on this year's team, whether he is starting or not.

Billy Davis is Clemson's career leader in punt returns.

In 1963, Clemson opened its season against the University of Oklahoma at Norman, Oklahoma. It was an ambitious opener. The year before, Clemson had finished with a 6-4 record, which hardly qualified the Tigers to meet a strong, national power like Oklahoma. Howard couldn’t let the occasion pass without expressing his thoughts. He wrote an open letter to The Norman Transcript practically pleading his case:

"I have been making football schedules out for Clemson since 1940. For the first 18 years we opened each season with Presbyterian College, a small school about 75 miles from us. During that time, it was usually a question of how to hold the score down. They only beat us one time (13 to 12 in 1943) and most of the time the score was in the 50s on up. One year we won 76-0, another time 68-7 and there were several times we scored 50 points or better.

"In 1957 we defeated Presbyterian 66-0 and the following weekend we went up to play Coach Jim Tatum’s team at North Carolina. Our boys hadn’t felt much hitting the week before and those Tar Heels really bounced us around to the tune of 26-0. I decided right then and there that in the era of big time football, the day was gone for the easy opener. The following year we opened against Virginia and had to come from behind twice to win 20-15.

"The next weekend we played Tatum again and three times we had to come back to win 26-21. That was also my 100th coaching victory and my first one over Tatum. He had beaten me four times while at Maryland and once at North Carolina. I never got to play Jim again because of his untimely death just prior to the 1959 season.

"Since that ’57 season when we had an easy opener and then nearly got run out of Chapel Hill the next weekend, I’ve changed my scheduling tactics. Since then we’ve opened with teams like Virginia, North Carolina, Florida, Wake Forest, and Georgia Tech. And this year there’s no doubt that I bit off the biggest chew so far when I scheduled Oklahoma.

"We’ve been wanting to play Oklahoma for a long time but Bud Wilkinson stays so busy all the time recruiting those good Texas and Oklahoma boys and going around rubbing the President’s back that it’s kinda hard to catch him at home.

"We finally got him over here in Greenville several years ago to speak at the Touchdown Jamboree and while he was in town a couple of days speaking and packing up all that loot they gave him, I had a chance to buttonhole him and agree on a date. That was four years ago and, of course, neither of us knew what kind of team we were going to have in 1963. But it just seems my luck that we are going to catch Oklahoma when they are coming back to a national power.

"Everybody kept asking me a couple of years ago ‘Why can’t we have a team like Oklahoma and Notre Dame?’ And in 1961, we did. All three of us were 5-3.

"But Coach Charlie Waller, my offensive coach, and I came out to watch the Oklahoma spring game this past season and Bud and I have also agreed to trade last year’s films as a scouting aid for our opening game at Norman September 21st.

"I noticed Bud is already saying that he’ll probably have his best team this season since coming to Oklahoma. And I’ll have to agree with him, but I kinda hate for my team to be the one to get the acid test.

"My boys are nothing but po’ little country fellas trying to get a college education and playing a little football on the side. When the Oklahoma Branch of the Society of Cruelty to Animals sees that little scrawny bunch of mine step off that plane, they might have the game called off.

"Or it might be that I’ll have to do my team like I did when we went out to play TCU in the Bluebonnet Bowl of 1959. We had heard so much about Abe Martin’s fine team that my boys really had the jitters. I had to blindfold them all and lead ‘em into the stadium.

"Bud must help on the track recruiting also and then picks the fastest ones for his football team. I’ve never seen such a fast bunch of boys as he has. Just so those Oklahoma backs wouldn’t look so fast I went down to Daytona this year to watch the Firecracker 400. I don’t believe Bud has any quite as fast as Fireball went that day, but maybe they don’t use Pure gas. Even though it will be September and probably hot as blue blazes, believe I might have my boys wear an extra sweat shirt out there at Norman. If those Okies run as fast as they have in the past, I’m afraid some of my boys might catch pneumonia.

"Seriously though, we are really looking forward to playing Oklahoma. Bud and I have been good friends down through the years and we consult with each other a lot during the season exchanging ideas. I hope he doesn’t beat me too bad though because I’d hate to be in a bad humor when we sit down across the table from each other after the game counting out the split in the gate.”

Clemson's athletic program has established itself as a top NCAA competitor in all phases of athletics in the past decade. During the last five years in particular the Tigers, both men and women, have become a dominant power, not only in the Atlantic Coast Conference, but regionally and nationally.

This success in intercollegiate activities is matched by excellence at the intramural level. That program, which serves all students at the University, has grown at a meteoric rate, and the facilities that house its programs, as well as the intercollegiate activities, are considered some of the finest in the country.

While athletic departments at a great number of other colleges and universities in the country must call upon finances that might otherwise be used for academic programs, Clemson University's athletic administration has built a solid, self-sustaining complex that provides for yearly budget operations as well as capital expenditures which are continually needed to maintain a competitive edge.

This kind of excellence did not come by accident, fortune or fate. It was realized by careful planning, prudent development and the application of sound business practices to an organization that grew from a $1.2 million operation in 1972 to a $8.5 million fiscally responsible "corporation" today.

It is important to note at this point, that while those figures might imply the department is "wealthy," with surplus cash, that is not the case. Once the operation budgets are paid, excess revenues are immediately plowed back into the total program to assure that a level of excellence is maintained, and needed expansion and modernization is carried out in an orderly fashion.

The Clemson Athletic Department has developed and now maintains and landscapes from its own funds some 165 acres of land and facilities that are a part of the total athletic complex at Clemson. No state or University funds are used. In recent years allocations from student fees have been limited.

In the personnel area, two new positions were added in sports information, assistant directors of athletics for promotions and media relations and non-revenue sports are on staff and an assistant executive secretary for IPTAY has been hired. Over the 1972-1983 period the athletic staff has increased from 36 to 56.

Clemson is extremely proud of the accomplishments of the athletic department over the period of 1972 to 1983. During Bill McLellan's tenure as athletic director, there are many projects that have been undertaken and completed.

- built and installed lighting on a new soccer field — $50,000
- 20 new tennis courts, 18 lighted, have been built as a part of the Hoke Sloan Tennis Center and new stands have been built at the site — $115,000
- built baseball facility, added permanent stands and press box facilities, provided 5,000 aluminum portable bleacher seats for baseball or other athletic events — $386,000
- developed East beach, paved entrance road to area, dredged 1.2 miles of old Seneca River bottoms that winds through practice fields behind Jervey
- installed artificial surface golf putting green — $11,000
- built five new practice fields, three of which are lighted, at a cost of $50,000; addition a soccer practice field and a golf driving range; constructed a new 9-lane all weather track (recently re-surfaced — $70,000) and built new storage areas for equipment
- additional seating acquired for Littlejohn Coliseum on floor surface; added two new suspended basketball goals ($60,000) at Littlejohn, and installed a new $180,000 scoreboard
- lights have been installed on the band practice field in front of Fike Recreation Center and on the intramural fields across from Fike
- Fike Field House was renovated and now houses all administrative offices for the intramural program, as well as offices for the publications and graphics department of the division of information services and offices for the University's internal auditors
- a new swimming pool was built in the addition to Fike
- The old football practice fields have been fully lighted for intramural activities

It is important to emphasize again that these accomplishments have come as a result of a successful athletic program, and sound management of the income it produces. This success influences the economic climate of this region and our state. The fact that Clemson athletics is self-sustaining makes its contribution to this University ever more positive both today and for the future.

As a result of its success, the athletic department has made a number of grants to academic programs and helped the other University needs

- $116,000 for mini-computers in the College of Education
- salary supplements in math and English — $48,650
- $113,000 for the Education College in 1981 and 1982
- Communication Center equipment/supplies — $4,200 a year for the past four years
- traffic study — $50,000
- a shuttle bus — $31,000
- bought four 15-passenger vans — $48,000
- bought an additional airplane in 1981 for $213,000; spent $86,000 for a hangar at the airport and developed 1,300 feet of landing stripe
- pay for reading instruction program
- Holly Farms player-of-the-week scholarship funds have amounted to over $20,000
- $5,000 each year 1980 through 1982 was allocated for the black awareness program
- $8,500 per year was directed to the Sports Symposium, 1980, 1981 and 1982
- matching gifts from IPTAY totaling $209,000 has been given to the special University fund
- employee salary payments for physicians ($63,000), gymnastics ($5,000), University pilots (one-third of total salary), assistant band director ($54,000 over last three years), computer center ($16,000 annually)
- travel and other support for the Tiger Band 1980 — $50,000, 1981 — $80,000, 1982 — $165,000 and 1983 — $180,000.

Today is Parents’ Day in Tigertown, as all Clemson students past and present salute their parents. Parents’ Day gives the students an opportunity to express their gratitude toward the individuals who have sacrificed and worked hard to get their children where they are today. So if you are a student, go up and give your parents a big hug and say, “Thanks, Mom and Dad. I love you.”

The Tiger Band enters Frank Howard Field to “Sock It To Em”, and “Tiger Rag” as it prepares to kick off another exciting day of Tiger football in Death Valley. The pregame festivities include the presentation of the colors by the Army ROTC as the Clemson University Chorus joins the Tiger Band in “America the Beautiful”, “The Star-Spangled Banner”, and the alma mater.

Then a very special guest will dot the “i” during the pregame activities. The 1983 Tiger Brotherhood, Mother-of-the-Year, Mrs. Forest E. Hughes, will be honored. The former Retta Crawford is a graduate of Brenau College in Gainesville, GA. The Hughes, residents of Winnsboro, SC, have four children and are the proud grandparents of seven. The eldest son, Ernie Hughes, is a 1972 graduate of Clemson and he and his wife, Susan, reside in Winnsboro and have two children.

Today’s halftime show is a tribute to the musical group Chicago. Tiger Band will open with a medley of two tunes, “Make Me Smile” and “25 Or 6 To 4”, arranged by Corky Fabrizio. The program continues with Tiger Band’s concert feature, “I Just Want To Be Free”, arranged by Wayne Downey and Will Rapp. Then you might want to snuggle just a little closer to your date for Tiger Band’s ballad feature because it’s their number-one smash hit from the summer of 1982, “Hard To Say I’m Sorry”, arranged by James Soehnke.

The Tiger Band will exit the field to a reprise of the song that shakes the Southland—“Tiger Rag” and prepares for another exciting half of action against the Demon Deacons of Wake Forest.
