TODAY’S GAME

by Tim Bourret

Two teams coming off incredibly similar 1985 seasons will wage war in Death Valley this afternoon. Both Clemson and Virginia Tech are anxious to establish themselves in a season that is supposed to be a landmark campaign for southern teams whose football tradition dates back to before the turn of the century.

There were so many similarities last year between the Tigers and the Gobblers that the contest between the two teams should have ended in a tie score, that would have really punctuated the comparison. A look back at the game tells us that the contest almost ended in a deadlock.

Clemson and Virginia Tech have had three straight white-knucklers and the Tigers have captured all three (in fact Clemson has won 34 straight over teams from the state of Virginia dating back to 1954). In 1985 a David Treadwell field goal at the horn gave Clemson a 20-17 verdict at Blacksburg, VA. It was quite a celebrated beginning for Treadwell, who had not played in a football game since he was 10 years old.

But, that was Clemson’s only win in the first four games, the exact same start Virginia Tech registered. Both teams ended the year with 6-5 regular season records. Both teams overcame anemic rushing performances early in the season, then moved into the nation’s leaders in rushing by the end of the season. Virginia Tech averaged 293 yards per game over the last six contests to finish 14th in the nation in rushing, while Clemson averaged 280 yards a game over the last six games to finish 13th in the nation in rushing.

Looking At A Mirror

Clemson and Virginia Tech follow similar coaching philosophies.

Tailbacks have been the dominant force in both teams’ running attacks recently and that should be the case in 1986. Last season Kenny Flowers and Stacy Driver combined for 2031 yards at the tailback slot, while Maurice Williams and Eddie Hunter joined forces for 1634 yards. Offensive lines are young on both sides of the ball also this year, a key for the respective rushing attacks. Clemson returns only John Phillips among the starters from last year’s line, while Virginia Tech does not have a returnee in the interior of the line.

In the passing game, both Virginia Tech and Clemson have talented pass catchers. Virginia Tech’s Donald Snell was the leading receiver last year with 31 receptions, including a Virginia Tech record 13 against Cincinnati. Clemson senior Terry Roush led Clemson in receiving last year with, you guessed it, 31 receptions. Both teams also have excellent tight ends. Clemson is led by Jim Riggs, the returning All-ACC player at that position, while Clemson is familiar with Gobbler tight end Steve Johnson, who snared a fourth-down pass for a touchdown that tied last year’s game at 17-17 in the final quarter.

Defensively the comparisons continue. Terence Mack is the leader of the Clemson team from the bandit, or defensive end position. He is an outstanding athlete who is a former quarterback. Mack, who adorns the cover of this program, had 102 tackles last season, and eight passes broken up.

The best all-around athlete on the Virginia Tech defense is Curtis Taliaferro, a 6-3 defensive end who runs the 40 in 4.65 (best among VPI linemen) and can vertical jump 39 inches, the best on the team. He had six tackles last year against Clemson and was a thigh in Clemson’s side all day.

Both teams have young secondaries, but, looking at the offensive tendencies of both teams, they probably will not be tested until a later game. Clemson should start three freshmen or sophomores in the defensive backfield, as James Lott, Donnell Woolford and Gene Beasley have all had excellent pre-seasons. Likewise, Virginia Tech will not start a senior in the secondary. Carter Wiley had five interceptions to lead the Gobblers last year and Billy Myers, a starting cornerback, is a fleet athlete who averages over eight yards per punt return.

The last three meetings between these two teams may have been won by the Tigers, but all three contests have been extremely close calls, possibly due to the fact that the teams feel they are playing against themselves.

Clemson has been familiar with the Virginia Tech situation, if for anything else because the current Tiger head coach and assistant head coach came to Tigertown from Blacksburg. Danny Ford was the offensive line coach at VPI between 1974 and 1976 before coming to Clemson, while Tom Harper was the defensive coordinator between 1978 and 1980 before helping to bring Clemson a national title in 1981.

David Treadwell won last year’s Tiger-Gobbler clash with a 36-yard field goal at the horn.
"We do have similar philosophies in that we like to run the football," said Ford. "Coach (Bill) Dooley has been successful at North Carolina and Virginia Tech with a tailback oriented offense and we have been able to pick up a lot of wins with that type of game. We both like to use power football and that is probably what people will see today."

"The team that holds on to the football will come out on top this year. Last year we were fortunate in that we fumbled the ball five times and still won. We won't be able to do that this year and in general we have to cut out turnovers to be successful this year. Turnover ratio has been the most important statistic when it comes to Clemson football since I have been here."

Although Danny has not totalled it up himself, we have. Since Danny Ford has been at Clemson the Tigers are 36-2-1 when making fewer turnovers than the opposition and 11-14 when the Tigers make more turnovers than their opponents.

Clemson drilled on that aspect all spring with more contact and the results have been positive so far this fall. In the August 27 scrimmage over 100 plays were run without a single turnover. "We have the veteran players in the backfield and two quarterbacks with a year of experience so we should cut down on the turnovers this year. If we can do that we will be a much improved football team and at least give ourselves a chance to be successful."

Both Clemson and Virginia Tech have been successful in recent years. Clemson has not had a losing season in 10 years, the longest streak of non-losing seasons in ACC history. Virginia Tech on the other hand has won more games in the last six years (45) than at any other six-year stretch in Virginia Tech history, and Virginia Tech has won six straight years without a losing season.

Both teams are looking to get this year off to an outstanding start. Although both teams will not get through the season unblemished, they would like to have something else in common at season's end: a major bowl bid and about 10 wins.

Although both Randy Anderson and Rodney Williams did not have record setting seasons in 1985, they both did a good job of avoiding interceptions. In fact both are among the top four in Clemson history in that category. Among all Clemson quarterbacks over the years with at least 100 attempts, Anderson ranks second and Williams fourth in interception avoidance. Anderson has an interception avoidance percentage of 3.78 (or only 3.78 percent of his passes have been intercepted in his career), while Williams has a 4.1 percentage figure. Billy Lott is the all-time leader in that category with only seven interceptions in 198 attempts, a 3.53 percent mark.

The Kenny Flowers countdown starts today. The Clemson senior has 2319 career rushing yards and needs just 253 to eclipse Buddy Gore's career mark of 2571. Gore played for the Tigers between 1966 and 1968 and had exactly 600 carries. Flowers has 2319 yards in 467 carries so far. Ray Yaquer is second at 2439 and Chuck McSwain is third with 2320. So, McSwain will dip to fourth on Flowers' first carry of the game in all probability.

Flowers also enters the season eighth in total career carries with his 467 figure, 133 behind Gore's record of 600.

Ray Williams and Terrance Roulhac also rank high in a couple of Clemson career categories. Of course Williams will miss the Virginia Tech game due to a hip problem that required summer surgery, but he is hoping to get back by sometime in October.

Williams enters the year tied for eighth in career receptions with 65 (Jerry Gaillard also has 66), and is ninth in total reception yardage with 1010. The senior from Fayetteville, NC is first in career kickoff returns with 66 (ironically the same total as his reception figure, but we can't possibly think of a statistical correlation that makes sense) and is first in total return yardage with 1350.

Roulhac is sixth in total receptions with 72, fifth in reception yardage with 1259 and third in touchdown receptions with 15. The native of Jacksonville, FL is also ninth in kickoff return yardage with 530 and has a 22.1 average, fourth best average in Clemson history.

Fan who recall Clemson's 1981 national championship squad will remember a versatile athlete who remains emblazoned in their minds for his amazing athletic talent. His name is Andy Headen, now playing with the New York Giants, an All-ACC team member during his senior year and seventh leading tackler on the championship squad. During his Clemson career, Headen played five different positions and wore two numbers. Of those numbers and three of those positions are familiar to a player created in the Headen mold. The 1986 version of Andy Roosevelt Headen is Tiger senior bandit end Terence Mack.

When Mack came to Clemson he wanted to continue wearing his big number 12, which he has worn throughout his prep career. One problem though, Headen already was making himself quite famous wearing the jersey as a senior starter and Mack knew the Tiger veteran was not about to relinquish the number. Terence had to settle for #11 during his redshirt season.

"I was talking to Andy after practice one day and he told me that if I wanted to wear The Bandit

Terence Mack Plays all over the field.

#12, I must do him a favor," said Mack. "I would have to give him my Georgia tickets if I wanted to have his jersey after he graduated. No tickets were exchanged and I still got to wear my #12. Good thing he was not in charge of the equipment room."

When Mack came to Clemson, as Headen did in 1982, he had intentions of being the Tiger quarterback. "My redshirt season was not a lot of fun. Mostly I stood around and when they needed a volunteer, I would always jump in at quarterback because I wanted some action."

Admittedly, Mack felt that he would not see much playing time because Homer Jordan was putting a cap on his fine career and Mike Eppley was waiting in the wings to take over the quarterbacking position.

"They were looking for someone to play bandit because Andy was leaving. They told me that they would try me and if I did not like it I could move back. I just wanted to play the game. The first couple of times I got killed. I was tired and ready to just quit. It took me a while to become accustomed to the position, but after a good Spring Game in 1983, I really began enjoying the bandit position."

What is a bandit? It is roughly comparable to being a standup defensive end. The only difference is that the bandit not only can rush the quarterback, he can drop in pass coverage or come up and stuff the run. The opposition has no idea what the bandit will be doing next.

The concept of the bandit is a very complicated idea which is a culmination of years of thought by assistant Head Coach Tom Harper. "We require that the bandit position possess size and speed so that he can drop back to control the tight ends, and Terence Mack more than adequately fills the bill," said Harper.

Mack fits the mold with his 4.75 speed in the 40, the best among defensive ends and a power clean lift with a 324 figure ranking him eighth on the team.

Before his arrival in Tigertown, Mack was named the State AAA Back-of-the-Year as a senior and participated in the 1982 Shrine Bowl. He also still holds school records at Winnsboro High for the most interceptions, most touchdown passes thrown, and best passing percentage.

During the South Carolina game in his freshman year he made probably one of the biggest plays of his life. He intercepted a pass during the closing moments of the game that halted a possible game-winning drive for the Gamecocks.

"The Carolina interception was the best of my career. The Carolina quarterback at the time was Alan Mitchell. Both of us were on the same Shrine Bowl team, and we have always kept in touch."

The Gamecocks were on our 20-yard line in the closing minutes of the game. Alan rolled out to my side and my only thoughts were catch the ball and keep them from the end zone. A receiver was coming across the middle and, when Alan threw the ball I jumped and caught it. At first, I thought I should just stay in the end zone. But no, I felt I could go for 103 yards. There was no one in front of me. But, by the time I made a decision, the pursuit had closed in and I only made it 17 yards."

In his '83 season, Mack recorded 39 tackles, 73 in the '84 and 102 this past season. His efforts last season placed him fourth on the team in tackles even though he missed a full game and half of two others. These numbers can only place stars in Coach Ford's eyes concerning the upcoming season.

"This squad has a lot more enthusiasm than any other that I have been associated with," says Mack. "Coach (Bill) Oliver has brought in all types of new defenses and I think our pass defense will be better. Finally everyone on our defense is utilizing all their talents. Now in practice, every time the offense comes to the line we are throwing a new look at them."

The new defenses should help prepare Mack for the pro game.

"I feel I have a shot at the pros and I am just trying to concentrate as much as I can on and off the field. Besides improving on my strength and quickness, I want to be more of a team leader." Mack received the Leadership Award for his efforts in spring practice of 1986.

Mack's career certainly has not been handed to him on a silver platter. He has had to work extremely hard to get where he is today. "You need to do what you have to do and that is work hard and be a leader at all times. It is the same motto I use for school."

It is this same drive, determination and leadership that has helped Andy Headen get off to a fine start in pro football. He has been the trailblazer for Terence Mack and right now it appears the trail leads to the NFL.

The Official Hot Dogs of CLEMSON TIGERS
by Sam Blackman

Chuck Baldwin is truly a throwback to the old days. He doesn't want to sit on the bench and watch the others play baseball. "I don't want to be like Wally Pipp," explains Baldwin.

On June 2, 1925, Wally Pipp, a 10-year veteran with the New York Yankees, was not able to play one day because of a headache and a young player named Lou Gehrig was called on to take his place. From that afternoon on Gehrig played in 2,129 consecutive games over 15 years, in Pipp's old position, first base.

Clemson's Chuck Baldwin is also a player who plays with injuries and pain. The 1986 ACC MVP has an insurmountable love for the game of baseball and an immeasurable amount of dedication. These values have kept him off the bench and on the centerstage as a baseball star. These are some of the characteristics that helped earn him the IPTAY Athlete-of-the-Year award for 1985-86.

"The IPTAY Board of Directors, which decides the award, considers this to be a highlight of the year," says Allison Dalton, executive secretary of IPTAY. "It gives them an opportunity to express their appreciation to an athlete who has been truly representative of what we feel a student-athlete should be. The Clemson head coaches nominate the athletes and the board of directors of IPTAY decides by a consensus vote which athlete is most representative of an outstanding student-athlete. Although athletic ability is important, the board gives consideration to character, attitude, scholastic achievement, and all-around character."

"I was surprised when I found out that I had won," said Baldwin. "I was playing in a summer league game and I just got back to the room, when my Mom called and told me. I said there is no way . . . they have gotten the wrong guy." But they got the right guy. Baldwin is an unselfish, team-oriented person who represents the words student-athlete well.

Head Baseball Coach Bill Wilhelm is very happy Baldwin was honored. "He is a very unselfish youngster. He has done everything we have asked him to do. Last year he played out of position at first base, but he recognized his playing there would help the club. We use him there to take less out of his arm so he can come out of the pen and do some relief pitching, and he did a great job there also," stated Wilhelm. "He is willing to do anything. He is a tough young man who will play hurt and with pain."

Baldwin had an extraordinary last spring for the Tigers. Besides his selection to the All-ACC team, the Whiteville, NC native was named second-team All-American. "Being named ACC Player-of-the-Year was hard to believe. I worked hard, and everything went well."

Baldwin had some great numbers in the score book last season. He broke three ACC and Clemson school records for a season with most at bats (289), most hits (107), and most doubles (23). Baldwin also registered a .370 batting average and had 16 home runs which was tied for first among team members. The rising senior also saw some action from the mound for the first time. Overall, he appeared in 19 games allowing 27 hits and striking out 21 batters. He posted a 3-3 record in the relief role and gained five saves.

With such an outstanding season it was no wonder Baldwin was selected in the 13th round by the Milwaukee Brewers in the recent baseball draft. But Baldwin turned down a lucrative contract and opted to stay another year at Clemson. "It really wasn't that hard. I wanted a chance to play, but the money was not there for me to come out ahead financially in the long run and I wanted to go ahead and finish my education."

Baldwin also gets a great deal of support from his family and perhaps that is a reason for his success. "My family has always been involved in sports. My brother Jerry played baseball at Appalachian State and I followed him around when we were younger. My family has been real supportive of me. My father takes a lot of vacation time in the spring so they can see me play as much as possible."

During his first three years at Clemson, Baldwin has been a successful player, but has had some adversity. In 1984, his freshman year, he had a .356 batting average as an infielder even though he had a bad case of shin splints. "I had my shins taped up every game and I just tried to ignore the pain," says Baldwin.

"That summer I played in a league in Virginia. Once, when I was at bat I hit a double and my hand hurt so bad it felt as if someone had slammed it with a hammer. I had it X-rayed and nothing appeared to be wrong, but I played two more games and later on I found out that it was broken."

During Baldwin's sophomore campaign his batting average dipped down to a .252 figure, which was a sad performance by Baldwin's high standards. "I played shortstop and had a bad year hitting and fielding. I got very down mentally." But it did not keep him down long.

Last spring, Baldwin was moved to first base and began a career as a relief pitcher. Still, Baldwin was hampered by an injury. This time pain in a knee was the problem, but it was not enough to keep him out of action. "I had a nagging pain in my knee. We didn't know what it was at first, but later we found out that it was just something that needed rest. It bothered me all season, but I love the game of baseball and I do not want to sit out."

Vince Lombardi, former Green Bay Packers Coach once said, "No one is ever hurt. Hurt is in the mind." Chuck Baldwin has lived up to this statement and is still successful. His work ethic, athletic success and perspective on education are major reasons he is the 1986 IPTAY Athlete-of-the-Year.

Clemson President
MAX LENNON

Max Lennon, former vice president for agricultural administration at Ohio State University, became President of Clemson University on October 14, 1985. The University board of trustees announced the unanimous decision at a board meeting at Clemson on that day.

Dr. Lennon is a native of Columbus County, NC and earned his bachelor's degree in animal science from N. C. State in 1962. He also earned a doctorate in animal science from the same institution in 1970.

He had been at Ohio State for two years where he had also served as executive dean for agriculture, home economics and natural resources. Lennon was also on the Ohio State Faculty Senate and was co-chairman of the Governor's commission on agriculture.

Previously, he had served as dean of the College of Agriculture and director of the Agricultural Experiment Station at the University of Missouri and as associate dean and director of research in the College of Agricultural Sciences at Texas Tech University.

Lennon, who also served as an assistant professor at Texas Tech and an associate and full professor at Texas Tech and Missouri, spent two years with the international agri-business firm Central Soya of Illinois. He also has participated in many national and international conferences concerning new technologies in agriculture.

The 45-year-old Lennon was chosen from about 200 candidates for the presidency at Clemson. "You have the unwavering support of the entire Board of Trustees to carry out your duties as President of this university," said Louis Batson, chairman of the board of trustees. "We will stick to our role as maker of policy and we want you to carry out our policies without any interference from us."

Lennon commented on his philosophies and goals for Clemson in his opening press conference. "I am extremely delighted to be chosen as the leader of this great institution. We're at an extremely important time in our lives, not because of circumstances but because of where we are in history. We need land grant institutions in a way that is almost unique . . . so we can continue to be competitive in a world market.

"We at Clemson University must make our own priorities to lead us into the 21st century. We must begin by making ourselves visible in the state, then we must focus on the global perspective of the university and what we can accomplish in that arena."

Batson declared that the long selection process had discovered a man who knows what he wants. "Max Lennon is a good planner, a deep thinker, and a man ready for the challenge. He is restless without being impatient."

Lennon said the early part of his administration will consist of familiarizing himself more closely with Clemson's programs. "It would be presumptuous of me to come in here with a set of priorities," he said. "In the academic community you build on the strengths of the institution, and my first business will be learning about those strengths. I'll be calling for help from the students, faculty, administrators, alumni and the rest of the Clemson family to make sure our priorities are in order."

Lennon began his teaching career at N. C. State in 1966 when he served as a graduate assistant professor. In 1970 he moved to Lubbock, TX, where he served as an assistant professor of animal science at Texas Tech University. He remained at the Texas institution as an assistant dean and associate dean in the College of Agriculture until 1980. On the first day of this decade he became the chairperson in the department of animal husbandry at the University of Missouri. He served as Dean of the College of Agriculture at Missouri until 1983, when he moved to Ohio State as vice president for Agricultural Administration.

Lennon is married to Ruth Carter Lennon and they have two children, Daniel (23) and Robin (21).

STEVENS
A total sports program. That’s the goal of the Clemson University Athletic Department, and under the leadership of Athletic Director Bobby Robinson, Clemson is headed solidly in that direction.

The road to the athletic director’s position has been a steady, successful progression through athletic and administrative opportunities for Robinson. He was born in Columbia and attended A. C. Flora High School. During his high school career, he was a point guard for the basketball team and a third baseman in baseball. He also played golf competitively, and was a scratch golfer at one time. Robinson did not play any high school sports as a senior because of a heat stroke suffered in the summer of 1963. He graduated from A. C. Flora in 1964 and then enrolled in Furman University.

Robinson graduated from Furman with a B.S. degree in business and political science in 1968. He was president of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity chapter at Furman. After he was graduated from Furman, Robinson worked in his family’s laundry and dry-cleaning business for two years.

Robinson came to Clemson in 1970, not in athletics, but in the housing office. After three years, he moved across campus to serve as an administrative assistant in the athletic department. “I started at Clemson in the housing office, but I came to Clemson with the intention of working in athletics,” said Robinson. “No opening existed at the time, so I had to wait until there was one.”

After serving the athletic department in various capacities, he became business manager in 1975. Two years later he was named assistant athletic director and in 1980 he became associate AD. He held that title four years, but his area of responsibility was primarily football and basketball.

While serving his administrative duties, Robinson found time to coach the Clemson golf team between 1975 and 1983. During his time as the head coach, Clemson won its only ACC title in golf and three times the Tigers participated in the NCAA tournament. In 1983, his final season as the head coach, he guided Clemson to a number-five national finish. Clarence Rose was one of three All-Americans to play for the Tigers during his tenure and is now a successful member of the pro tour.

Thus, it’s easy to see why Bobby Robinson is most qualified for the position of athletic director at Clemson University — he has done it all. He has been an administrator at all levels, he has worked in other areas in the University, he has been a head coach, and he has handled the budgetary aspects needed to run a $12 million program.

Bobby Robinson’s philosophy of athletics is very simple. “We want to be the very best — in competition, in academics, in facilities. We have made the commitment to provide our coaches and athletes the tools necessary to compete on the conference and national level.”

In competition, Robinson led the Tigers to one of their best years ever. Football and men’s basketball were involved in postseason play and no less than 10 teams participated in NCAA post-season competition. Seven of these teams were ranked in the top 20 in the country. In the Knoxville Journal’s All-Sports Poll Clemson ranked 18th in women’s sports and 22nd in men’s sports. Clemson’s first top 25 rating in both areas in the same year.

In academics, Clemson student-athletes had an outstanding year. Over 90 athletes had 3.0 or better grades point ratios either semester, with the football team having five players named to the Academic All-Conference Team, the most in the ACC.

In the area of facilities, Robinson continues his philosophy. Recent renovations have included the Strength Training Center, one of the finest in the country; Tiger Field, home of the Clemson Tiger baseball team; and the West End Zone locker room complex in Memorial Stadium. New facilities now underway include a new activities room in Death Valley, an indoor tennis facility, and a new permanent soccer stadium on Riggs Field. In addition to all of this, a continuing maintenance program for all facilities and practice areas has been established.

From a university perspective, Robinson envisions the athletic department as being one of 49 departments on campus, equal to English, accounting, admissions, and the others. “We believe the athletic department is a viable, important part of the mission of Clemson University,” says Robinson, “as athletic competition provides a common bond for students, faculty, staff, and friends.”

Under Robinson the athletic department has continued support of the university. Band uniforms and travel, the educational enhancement fund, and the athletic-academic endowment fund (coordinated with the Athletic Council) are some of the areas that have been developed.

Robinson has confidence in his staff, his coaches, his athletes, and the facilities at Clemson University. “We have a solid base to work from, but if we are not moving forward, we are losing ground. We will work within university guidelines and expand our horizons. We want to be as good as we can be as a vital part of the university and the State of South Carolina.”

Bobby Robinson guided Clemson to a top 25 finish in both men’s and women’s sports last year.

Clemson University: THE SECOND CENTURY

Clemson Looks to the Future

Clemson University approaches its 100th birthday in 1989 with an aggressive plan to begin its second century of service to the state, region and country.

"Clemson University: The Second Century" names five major areas for emphasis. Its aim is to forge a partnership for economic progress among the university, the state and the private sector. It will be used as a road map to seek external support and focus the University's research and public service efforts.

The five areas are:

• AGRICULTURE — By applying the most sophisticated of tomorrow's technologies, Clemson will be able to help the agriculture industry become more efficient and profitable. Programs include such areas as biotechnology, food and nutrition, pest control, packaging, environmental science, and water and resource management.

• EMERGING TECHNOLOGIES — Advanced manufacturing systems and new materials — such as the fiber-reinforced composites — are revolutionizing industry. Clemson will contribute to the next generation of manufacturing productivity and materials through research in areas such as computer communications, robotics, semiconductor reliability and the chemical synthesis of totally new materials.

• MARKETING/MANAGEMENT — Marketing, particularly international marketing, is key to South Carolina, where more than 15 percent of total manufacturing output, and one-fourth of farm production, is exported. Clemson will emphasize marketing, as well as produce a new breed of manager — one who speaks the language of technology as fluently as the language of commerce.

• QUALITY OF LIFE — The human and natural resources that make life worth living — and sustain economic growth — must be cherished, nurtured and protected. At Clemson, programs emphasize the humanities; public school education; professional development and continuing education; community and regional planning; and the travel and tourism industry.

• TEXTILES — The U.S. textile industry is the world's most productive, and it has spent $2 billion on modernization in the last year alone to remain competitive. The state's textile industry will benefit from all of the above programs in technology, management, marketing and human resources, as well as from additional emphasis on textiles and fibers research.

From top left: Shrink wrapping peaches individually to prolong shelf life is one innovative food packaging technique under study; getting robots to perform more complicated tasks is the object of Clemson's research in advanced manufacturing technologies, marketing research is vital to South Carolina, which exports more than 15 percent of total manufacturing and 25 percent of farm production; public school educational programs help prepare the next generation for its challenges; a joint project between the State Water Resources Commission and the Strom Thurmond Institute is an example of cooperative efforts between Clemson, industry and the state; research on composites and textiles at Clemson ranges from new materials for aircraft to fibers for bulletproof clothing.

Danny Ford

Clemson head coach Danny Ford is not an opera buff, he's not even close. And, it is likely that Wolfgang Mozart never saw a college football game. But, these two giants in their fields have something in common — success at a very early stage of their careers.

Mozart became famous for his ability to compose symphonies by the time he was five years old. Danny Ford was not coaching college football teams at age five, he was barely holding a football. But, a look at past national champions indicates that the current Clemson mentor is the youngest coach in the history of the college game to win the Associated Press National Championship. It puts him ahead of all the heavyweights of the game in the modern era (since 1938) of college football.

Ford took Clemson to the national title in 1981 at the age of 33 and now is the winningest coach in the history of the Atlantic Coast Conference on a percentage basis. Additionally, Ford is already seventh in total wins among ACC coaches. Not bad for someone who is still two years away from his 40th birthday.

And, the success has come against top competition. Ford has already gained more wins over AP top 20 teams and top 10 teams than any other Clemson coach in history and is the only coach in ACC history (eight years experience) to have a winning record against top 20 teams (top 20 when playing against Clemson).

Clemson fans are certainly happy Ford entered the profession because he has brought a solid program to among the finest in the nation. Now in his eighth full season at Clemson, his record of 58-21-2 (.728) is the seventh best winning percentage in college football among active coaches.

Between 1981 and 1984 Clemson had a 37-6-2 ledger, the fourth best winning percentage in America. The class of '84 was the third winningest in ACC history in terms of winning percentage, and no ACC class in the 33-year history of the league ever won more games in a four-year period.

Ford has been a part of three ACC championship teams and one National Championship team at Clemson. In 1978 he was offensive coordinator for the 11-1 team that won the Gator Bowl over Ohio State. 17-15. The Gadsden, AL native was more than just the offensive coordinator in that game however, as he had become the head coach of the Tigers on December 10 after Charley Pell had already left to go to Florida. The 30-year-old Ford made quite a celebrated beginning to his head coaching career with that victory over the Woody Hayes-coached Buckeyes. The nationally televised Clemson victory helped put the Tigers on the national football map and it began Clemson's climb to among the elite of college football.

A review of Ford's football past should help us understand why he has been so successful as a head coach. Another in a long line of former Bear Bryant players that have gone on to greatness in coaching, Ford played for the Bear between 1967 and 1969. He was Kenny Stabler's sophomore tight end as a starter in 1967, played that position in 1968 and moved to offensive tackle in 1969. Ford started all three years, was all-conference in 1969 and played on three teams that went to bowl games. In 1969 he was also a member of the All-SEC academic team, and served as the captain of the Alabama team.

After Pat Dye's coaching, Ford remained at Alabama as a graduate assistant for the 1970 and 1971 seasons. He had already earned his B.S. degree in industrial arts and earned his master's degree in special education in 1971. Ford became a full-time aide for Bryant in 1972 and 1973. The Tide went to four bowl games while Ford was an assistant coach.

Clemson's current head man then accepted a position as an assistant coach under Jimmy Sharpe at Virginia Tech. He remained in Blacksburg for three seasons (1974-76) before coming to Clemson as offensive line coach in 1977. And, just 23 games later he was named head coach of the Tigers at the age of 30, the youngest active Division I coach in the country.

Nearly 40 years after hiring 31-year-old Alabama graduate Frank Howard, Clemson had hired 30-year-old Alabama graduate Danny Ford.

Now 38 years old, Danny Ford is running out of mountains to climb. He has been associated with 19 college football teams as a player or coach through the years and 18 have had winning regular season records and 12 have gone to bowl games. Additionally, those clubs have had a combined record of 154-59-5, a .729 winning percentage.
Assistant Coaches

Jack Crowe joined the Clemson staff on February 24, 1966, as the quarterback coach. He comes to Clemson from Auburn, where he served as offensive coordinator and coached Heisman Trophy winner Bo Jackson. He has also served in the offensive coordinator position at Wyoming and North Carolina, and both an assistant and head coach at Livingston University. Crowe received his undergraduate degree from Alabama-Birmingham in 1970, and completed his master's degree in education from Livingston in 1973. The Fairfield, AL, native will recruit in the Georgia, Virginia, and Alabama areas this year.

Woody McCorvey is in his fourth year of coaching Clemson players that catch the ball. He coached tight ends his first three years and two seasons he coached the All-ACC tight end. He is in his first season as a wide receiver coach. He recruits in North Carolina and Florida. McCorvey came to Clemson from Alabama A&M where he was defensive coordinator for four years. The 1972 Alabama State graduate lettered four years in football at the school before earning his physical education degree. He then received a master's degree in health, leisure, and sports from the University of West Florida in 1977.

Chuck Reedy has coached Clemson's running backs for the last eight years. He also has a heavy recruiting schedule covering South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, and the New York-Long Island areas. The St. Augustine, FL, native earned two letters in football from Appalachian State where he was a 1971 graduate in health and physical education. He came to Clemson from Kentucky on July 5, 1978. Reedy is the main reason Clemson has signed the top player in Jacksonville five years in a row. He has coached three backs who have gone on to the NFL, including Kevin Mack, last year's AFC offensive rookie-of-the-year.

Bill D'Andrea is the newest addition to the Clemson coaching staff as he returned to Clemson on June 23, 1986, from Southern Mississippi. Prior to that he was an assistant coach at East Carolina, the University of Virginia, Massanctiten Military Academy, Catawba College, and most recently, assistant at Middle Tennessee State. He is from North Carolina and earned his bachelor's degree from Central State in 1979 and completed his master's degree in 1984. He will assist in coaching the Clemson offensive line and will recruit for the Tigers in North Carolina, Pennsylvania, and northern New Jersey.

Larry Van Der Heyden has coached Clemson's offensive line for the past seven years. In addition, he recruits in South Carolina, North Carolina, and western Pennsylvania. Van Der Heyden joined the Tiger coaching staff in January 1979, coming from the University of South Carolina where he was offensive coordinator for three years. He also served stints at Iowa State, Drake, Indiana State, East Carolina, and Virginia. He earned his B.A. and master's degree at Iowa State and lettered three years in football and baseball. He is a member of the All-time Iowa State football team.

Tommy West is in his fifth season coaching the Clemson defensive and bandit ends. He recruits for the Tigers in Florida and Georgia. Prior to coming to Clemson, West coached at Appalachian State until July, 1982. The Gainesville, GA, native earned his B.S. degree in health education from the University of Tennessee in 1975 after lettering three years in football and baseball. A fine all-around athlete, West was drafted out of high school by baseball's Chicago Cubs.

Tom Harper became Clemson's assistant head coach in February 1981. Having served as defensive coordinator at North Carolina and Iowa State, his most recent stint in that same position was at Virginia Tech. He was also Wake Forest's football coach in 1972. Harper graduated from the University of Kentucky with his bachelor's degree in 1955 and received his master's degree from there in 1958. He is responsible for recruiting in South Carolina and New York. Six of the Clemson players he has coached have played pro football, including three who were NFL starters last year (William Perry, Dan Benish, and Jeff Bryant).

Bill Oliver is in his first season at Clemson as the defensive secondary coach. He will also recruit for the Tigers in Florida, Alabama, and Georgia. A native of Livingston, AL, he began his collegiate coaching career as defensive secondary coach at Auburn, and five years later was hired by the late Paul "Bear" Bryant to fill the same position at Alabama. His most recent stint, however, was with the Memphis Showboats of the United States Football League where he served as senior defensive coordinator and secondary coach. Oliver was a member of the 1961 undefeated National Championship Alabama team and he received his bachelor's degree in 1962.

1981 National Coach-of-the-Year
Clemson Coaches

Post-season activity highlighted the 1985-86 sports year at Clemson University, as 15 of the 18 athletic teams were involved in post-season championships. Ten of Clemson’s teams finished in the top 30 in the nation last year, seven in the top 20, and four individuals finished runner-up in national championships. The women’s program ranked 18th in the country while the men were 22nd, according to The Knoxville Journal’s collegiate all-sports poll.

The Tiger teams captured four Atlantic Coast Conference titles, including an 11th ACC soccer crown, the first ever men’s swimming title, a sixth men’s tennis title, and fifth straight women’s tennis championship.

Taking national team honors for Clemson was the defending NCAA Champion soccer team, which spent most of the year ranked number-one, but had to settle for a final national ranking of fourth after losing in the round of 16 in its 13th NCAA tournament.

The men’s and women’s tennis teams reached new heights as both clubs were among the favorites to win their respective NCAA titles. Chuck Kriese’s Tigers spent most of the year ranked in the top three, including a school-record high of No. 2 in February, but claimed a final ranking of fifth, which marked the eighth consecutive season in the top 15. Coach Andy Johnston’s Lady Tigers reached a high of fourth in the country on three different occasions and ended up eighth in the final poll.

Clemson’s swimming program established a solid national reputation this season as the women finished ranked seventh in the country, best ever finish for any Clemson swim team. The men’s team captured the school’s first ever ACC title and wound up 35th overall at NCAAs.

Wrestling and golf maintained their strong standing among the traditional NCAA leaders. The wrestlers finished 19th in the NCAA dual meet poll and they wound up 20th at NCAAs, as Clemson had representatives at the NCAA tournament for the sixth straight year.

Coach Larry Penley guided the golfers to a fifth straight NCAA appearance, sixth overall, and a finish of 21st in the championship. Sophomore Brad Clark captured the long driving contest at the NCAA golf tournament and also led after the first day of the tournament as he shot a 68 to share the lead with eventual NCAA champ Scott Verplank of Oklahoma State and Wake Forest’s Tim Straub.

The Tiger football and basketball programs were in the national spotlight once again, as the gridironers made a 12th post-season bowl appearance in the Independence Bowl and the roundballers reached the quarterfinals of the National Invitation Tournament. Coach Danny Ford’s football squad had five players selected to the All-ACC Academic team, the most ever, and more than any school in the ACC.

Clemson had six ACC MVPs last year, one less than the school record of seven. Gary Conner became the 11th Clemson soccer player to be so honored. Pam Hayden capped the women’s swimming MVP, while Chuck Wade won his second straight ACC Diving MVP. Wrestler Joey McKenna was an ACC MVP recipient as he won his 150-pound division and rookie Ingelise Driehuis was the fifth Lady Tiger tennis player to be named MVP. Chuck Baldwin was chosen the league’s baseball MVP, marking the third time Clemson has had back-to-back winners since 1973.

Four coaches were chosen ACC Coach-of-the-Year in their respective sports. For the second straight year Bob Boettner and Andy Johnston were accorded the honors. Boettner was selected co-coach for the women and won it outright in the men’s division, while Johnston collected his third league coaching award. Soccer mentor I. M. Ibrahim won his third and Chuck Kriese picked up his second ACC award and third Southern Tennis Association Coach of the Year honor.

"IPTAY. It Works For Clemson."
The theme of IPTAY’s 53rd campaign is aptly put. Since 1934, success in serving Clemson has been the key in making IPTAY one of the nation’s premier athletic scholarship fund-raising organizations.

Founded by Dr. Rupert Fike and other friends of Clemson, IPTAY was created in Atlanta, Georgia as a secret organization to support athletic programs. From the early days when memberships were often paid up in eggs and fresh vegetables, IPTAY (I-Pay-Thirty-A-Year) has annually been one of the top organizations of its kind in the country. Today, over 20,000 active members support IPTAY annually.

IPTAY’s first and foremost goal is to annually insure the financing of a quality education for nearly 400 student-athletes, trainers, and managers. Countless numbers of success stories begin with the receipt of an IPTAY scholarship, and through the generous support of IPTAY members, Clemson University has been able to award the maximum number of scholarships allowed by the NCAA in Clemson’s 18 men’s and women’s varsity sports. For the over 3,000 students who have been awarded IPTAY scholarships, and for those who are still to come, without a doubt IPTAY works for them.

Because of IPTAY’s commitment to excellence both in the classroom and on the playing field, the ability to expand programs has enabled IPTAY to directly benefit the entire university family. In the fall of 1984, the IPTAY Athletic Academic Endowment Scholarship Fund was created to award financial support to students whose performance in the classroom warranted distinction.

The concept that supports the endowment is based on money donated by matching gift companies, as well as monies generated by television appearances and scholarship awards in such contests. What results from this endowment is one of the largest unrestricted scholarships in the history of Clemson. Perhaps the most exciting feature of the fund is its potential. As the years go on, the growth of the program will only be equalled by IPTAY’s desire to work for Clemson.

Other contributions made possible to Clemson University through IPTAY include several capital improvement projects which have helped to give the university the best facilities in the nation.

Some of the current projects that are sponsored by IPTAY include an indoor tennis facility, as well as permanent soccer stadium. The indoor facility features four indoor courts, as well as permanent seating, and will be available for faculty, students, and staff when not in use by the varsity tennis teams. The soccer stadium will provide a home for the 1984 National Champions, who will once again be defending their ACC championship. Improved lighting as well as 6,000 permanent seats and a new scoreboard will give the Tiger Soccer program the facility it deserves.

Other improvements that IPTAY has established for the university as a whole include a $150,000 enhancement grant for education to be used as the university desires, improved lighting for Riggs Field, and the development of East Bank Recreation Area for student usage.

The Tiger Band will be sporting brand new uniforms as it takes the field this fall. The uniforms, as well as all expenses for band travel, are sponsored by IPTAY. This commitment, of well over $200,000, allows the Tiger Band to strut its stuff in style, both home and away.

Although the success of IPTAY’s programs and the financial management of its Board of Directors have enabled IPTAY to assist in other concerns of the university, the primary concern of IPTAY is in educating young people and in servicing the needs of its membership.

IPTAY sponsors one of the most progressive tutorial programs in the country, and at any time, any athlete is able to supplement his education through the use of tutors, or the impressive study hall program. A highly-trained academic advising staff helps the student-athletes to prepare for a future, and to shape their tomorrows by studying today. Through these efforts, almost a fourth of Clemson’s student-athletes were on the honor roll in the spring semester of 1986.

Working for IPTAY members is one of the major goals of the IPTAY Board and the internal staff. Each IPTAY member receives personal service to their account, and is constantly kept abreast of the programs of Clemson through the IPTAY office. Every member receives thirty-five issues of the Orange and White each year. As the official publication of IPTAY, the Orange and White is exclusively distributed to IPTAY members, and features indepth coverage of Clemson athletics.

IPTAY is a part of Clemson in many ways. Through its various programs and contributions, the 20,000 members of IPTAY spread their support of Clemson throughout the entire university family. There is no doubt that this year’s theme echoes loudly through the red hills of upstate South Carolina, because IPTAY truly works for Clemson.

Emergency Services

The Clemson University Athletic Department provides the following for your safety and emergency medical needs:

1. Advanced cardiac life-support stations in four locations. (North stands, Upper North deck, South stands, Upper South deck.) These units are staffed with skill-care nurses, physicians, cardiologists, internists, paramedics, and EMTs.

2. Mobile units of EMTs and paramedics are strategically located throughout the entire stadium.

3. Ambulances with life-support equipment are available in North stand and South Stand areas and have prearranged routes for evacuation to local hospitals.

Learn to recognize these personnel and facilities.

WHAT TO DO IF EMERGENCIES ARISE

Please step back and give the organized stadium EMS personnel room to work. Well-intentioned attempts to help by untrained persons interfere with the efficiency of the EMS system. If you have basic or advanced training in specific life-support methods, make your qualifications known and offer your help. Untrained personnel can be frequently more harmful than helpful.

MEDICAL ADVICE FOR FANS

If you have a pre-existing medical or health problem, please check with your personal physician and obtain his advice before attending games. Many emergencies occurring at the stadium do so because of prior existing conditions. Use common sense in dressing, eating, drinking and physical exertion. Be certain that you have identification on you as to the diagnosis and what medications you are currently taking.

Be aware of warning signs of heart attacks: chest pain, chest tightness, shortness of breath, sweating, palpitations, fainting, nausea and vomiting.

Recognize that our most common serious medical problem at football games are heart attacks and allergic reactions to insect stings. Be aware that insect stings will continue to always be very frequent at outdoor sporting events and should always be treated with immediate ice until advice can be obtained. If you have ever had a reaction to bee or other insect sting, check with your personal physician as to whether you should carry a kit.

The stadium emergency phone number is (803) 656-2999.

631 S. Main St. Greenville, S.C.
L ast spring over 70 athletes in various sports earned a 3.0 GPA or better and every sport at Clemson boasted a cumulative GPA of at least 2.0. The average grade was near 2.4 for the year and 73 student-athletes qualified for the Atlantic Coast Conference's Academic Honor Roll.

Additionally, Clemson had five student-athletes on the Atlantic Coast Conference Academic All-Star team for 1985, more than any other school in the league. Lance Masters, Bruce Bacon, current second-team linebacker Scott Enzor, starting punter Andy Newell and starting offensive guard John Watson, were all chosen to the team. Newell and Watson were also chosen for the Toyota Leadership Awards given by CBS Sports and Toyota.

These fine statistics are due in part to the athletic department's commitment to academics through its academic counseling program. The athletic department spent over $200,000 last year in tutoring expenses, as Athletic Director Bobby Robinson places as much emphasis on winning off the field as on the field.

The "coach" of the academic team is Joe White. The academic staff puts in even more hours than the football staff as tutorial sessions can go on long after practice has ended.

White is the academic advisor for all athletes at Clemson University, and is in charge of coordinating the progress of Clemson's athletes through their college career. He works within the academic structure of the university with the deans of each school. His involvement begins as recruits of all 17 sports visit Clemson. At that time White, or his assistant, Ian Davidson, begin the counseling process that hopefully ends in graduation.

"When the recruit makes his official visit, we explain our program, especially the tutoring and study-hall concept," says White. "If the prospective student-athlete knows what academic program he wants to pursue, we usually have a faculty member counsel him on his choice. If the recruit doesn't know what he wants to concentrate in, we give him a general idea of the overall academic program with the help of some of our faculty."

Supervised by Dr. B. J. Skelton and the Office of Student Affairs, the program goes much further than the athlete's initial visit. Study hall is required for incoming freshmen and all students with less than a 2.0 grade point average. "We have 70 tutors and four full-time counselors on hand for two hours five nights a week," Davidson says. "If the student's difficulties can't be solved in regular study hall, we arrange for additional tutorial assistance. We might have the largest academic counseling staff in the country."

These academicians aid in scheduling, counseling, tutoring and the establishment of study hall hours. Over 30 rooms in Daniel Hall on the Clemson campus are utilized by the tutors for individual attention. The attention is available to all athletes, not just the ones under an academic border, and everyone takes advantage of the individual attention.

"When I played football at Clemson, academics were important," says Jeff Davis, now a starter with the Tampa Bay Bucs. "I was able to keep things in perspective, and with the help of the tutors, I was able to come back and get my degree. There were no excuses if you were willing to work. It is a good program and although I had to come back after a couple of seasons, I got my degree and I am glad I did."

In general, tutors are graduate students or local teachers who are tutoring in a field they are pursuing as a career for a postgraduate degree. They aid a student in course work or in the basics of good study habits. The student-athlete is provided with the best academic help available to assist him in realizing his full potential as a student.

"We feel that it's important to help students be the best they can possibly be," commented White. "We try to make them aware of the need to earn their degree, and its importance to them in later life. Only two percent of college athletes play professional sports, and they eventually retire, and leave the sport. We want to prepare our youngsters for fulfilling lives off, as well as on the field."

Academic Excellence

Clemson had more representatives than any other school on the 1985 Academic All-Conference Team.

David Treadwell was one of 73 athletes on the Academic Honor Roll last spring.

Academic All-Americans

Clemson's three-time national track champion Tina Krebs won yet another honor last spring, this time for her outstanding accomplishments in the classroom. The senior was chosen to the GTE/College Sports Information Directors of America second-team Academic All-American at-large squad.

Krebs, a native of Holbaek, Denmark, compiled a 3.54 cumulative GPA in architecture last year. She also was selected to the ACC Honor Roll for outstanding academic achievement for the fourth year in a row. She is the first Clemson female athlete to achieve this academic honor four times.

Besides being a four-time Atlantic Coast Conference Champion in the 800 meters, Krebs is an eight-time All-American, twice in cross country, and three times each in indoor and outdoor track. She won her first national championship in 1983 by taking the 1000-yard indoor title. In 1985 she won the 1500-meter indoor crown and in the 1986 indoor season she claimed the one-mile title.

Krebs, the most highly decorated women's track athlete in Clemson's history, also won the Women's ACC Scholastic Award for 1985-86, and won the 1986 Frank Howard Award, symbolic for the athlete bringing the most honor to Clemson University.

Lady Tiger volleyball player Denise Murphy was the first female athlete at Clemson to be selected to the GTE/College Sports Information Directors of America Academic All-America Volleyball team, having been chosen second-team Academic All-American for 1985.

To qualify for selection to the Academic All-America team, an athlete must be a starter or key reserve and maintain a grade point ratio of 3.200 on a 4.00 scale throughout her career.

The senior All-ACC performer is a zoology major and carries a 3.90 grade point ratio into her senior year. Her future plans include medical school. She has been named to the ACC Honor Roll for outstanding academic achievement all three years she's been at Clemson.

A three-year starter, Murphy holds three Clemson career records, for most attempts, most kills, and most defensive saves. Last fall she became Clemson's first junior volleyball performer to receive first-team all-conference honors since 1981.
Where good people go for good food™
Every August, fresh, eager faces appear on the Clemson practice fields, usually in the form of incoming freshmen recruits. This year is no different. The Tigers once again have a strong freshmen class. However, this season brings with it four additional eager faces to the field. Head Coach Danny Ford has hired four new assistant coaches for the 1986 season.

On the offensive side, Coach Jack Crowe will be in charge of the quarterbacks, replacing former offensive coordinator Nelson Stokley in that capacity, who became head coach at SW Louisiana. Coach Wayne Bolt will be responsible for the tight ends and in addition, he will double as the supervisor and director of the athletic dorm. Offensive line coach Bill D’Andrea will assist Coach Larry Van Der Heyden, specifically with the offensive tackles.

On the defensive side, Coach Bill Oliver brings with him 22 years of experience ranging from head coaching positions in the high school and college level to defensive coordinator at the professional level. He will specifically supervise the defensive backs this year.

All bring a level of maturity and knowledge of the game that will pump fresh blood into the Clemson staff.

Although Jack Crowe has held the title of offensive coordinator for the past seven years at North Alabama (1979-80), Wyoming (1981), and at Auburn (1982-85), he will not be designated as the offensive coordinator for the Tigers. But this does not bother Crowe. In fact, he may prefer that it remain as is.

“I am much more program-oriented now than I have been in the past when my attentions were focused in that area alone. I have had all those responsibilities before and your title or role with your peers is not what is important — the essence of coaching is the relationship with the kids you are responsible for.”

Crowe then decided he had put so much effort into coaching the last four years that there was no way he could give it up. By the time he was 26 years old, (1977) he had secured his first head coaching position at Livingston College. From there, after realizing he needed to learn more before he could be an effective head coach, he accepted the offensive coordinator position at North Alabama. He then moved to Wyoming and Auburn to further his knowledge.

Whereas Crowe was undecided as to whether he should pursue a coaching career, Coach Wayne Bolt was never in doubt as to whether he could make it as a coach after his first year as a graduate assistant.

“After playing four years at East Carolina, and remaining there as a graduate assistant the next year, I knew that I belonged in football,” said Bolt. “I really began to enjoy being with the kids, seeing them develop into young men . . . that is what it is all about, helping these youngsters become better men. I knew I wanted to teach youngsters all I knew about football and help them apply that to their lives after they leave football . . . Seeing these young players mature — that is probably what I enjoy most about my responsibility as dorm director.”

Bolt says that there are so many different roles in his position. Whether it be arranging for the players’ needs, having room furnishings fixed, or supervising the players and seeing that they make their curfew, one common fact remains — Bolt does it for the interaction with the players and the responsibility he feels towards them.

“If it weren’t for the players, I probably would not be in coaching. They know that I am going (continued on page 111)

“Touchdown, Clemson!” These familiar and exciting words will sound the same over the radio air waves this fall, but there is a difference in the “behind-the-scenes” aspects of Clemson athletic broadcasts. This football season marks the beginning of the Clemson Broadcast Group’s transmission of Tiger radio broadcasts and TV coaches’ shows, as Clemson attempts to enhance its reputation on a broader scale nationwide.

Since Athletic Director Bobby Robinson announced that the CBG (Clemson Broadcast Group) had obtained the exclusive rights to market Tiger radio networks and TV shows, the CBG has been working hard to increase exposure of Clemson nationally.

The CBG is composed of a trio of owners, headed by CBS basketball analyst Billy Packer. Jim Dusel, an independent television director, and Mike Burg, executive producer of Jefferson-Pilot Teleproductions are the other two investors. Each one brings a specialty to the CBG that will provide Clemson with better production and distribution of its radio and television products.

“Our goal is to streamline the media efforts for Clemson and to give the maximum exposure possible,” said Jim Dusel, who serves as President of the CBG. “By expanding markets, more and more people will be aware of Clemson.”

Mark Packer, who serves as the General Manager for CBG, echoes Dusel’s thoughts, “The CBG is a partnership that will expand the radio networks and the Football and Basketball Highlights Shows, which will be shown on a national basis. We’re establishing a three-year program in which Clemson will receive the most exposure.”

Major expansion has already been established as CBG has increased exposure to remote Tiger fans by placing the TV shows in many new markets nationwide. While CBG will handle the marketing of Clemson Athletics, WSPA-TV in Spartanburg will serve as the flagship TV station for the Coaches’ Shows. WFBC Radio in Greenville will continue to be the flagship station for both football and basketball networks. The change in the format of the TV Coaches’ Shows will be the area Tiger fans will realize the most changes.

For the first time, there will be two shows during football season; both being produced by WSPA. Stan Olenik, TV-7 Sports Director for 12 years, will serve as host. A new show — Clemson Football Illustrated — is a magazine-format show which will air each Friday night prior to football games. “There are very few universities, if any, that have two different football television shows,” says Packer. “We have established, along with the Athletic Department and WSPA, the Clemson Football Illustrated Show, which will probably start a trend nationwide as schools promote themselves with their own show. We feel we are establishing Clemson as a national trendsetter.”

Clemson Football Illustrated shows a broader look at Clemson. Indepth features concerning campus lifestyle and other aspects of college life will be examined. One special feature of each show will be a Frank Howard segment in which the noted legend looks back on some of his memorable contests. Assisting Olenik with many features will be Jane Robelot, a 1982 Clemson graduate and noon news co-anchor at WSPA.

The second football show will be Clemson Football ’86, which will incorporate game footage, indepth interviews with players, coaches and others who are vital to the Clemson football program.

During the basketball season, there will be only one television show — Clemson Basketball ’87. This show will follow much the same format set for the Football Highlights Show. Olenik will also host this show that will give Tiger fans a closer look at the basketball team.

CBG

Clemson’s new marketing arm could pass the Tigers to the forefront of college broadcasting.

Tigers,” begins his 19th season with Clemson. During his tenure, he has described 198 Clemson football games and 509 basketball games.

Joining Phillips in the booth for football games will be Tim Bourret, Associate Sports Information Director, and Mike Eppeley, former star quarterback. Bourret is beginning his fifth season of supplying Tiger fans with analysis and unique statistical information.

Eppeley is in his first season with the broadcast team. The native of Charlotte recently received his MBA degree from the Clemson/Furman program, and his duties will include providing strategical analysis of the game.

Phillips and Bourret will handle the Tiger basketball broadcasts again this season. This will be the seventh season they have broadcast Tiger roundball together.

As the CBG begins a new era of bringing Tiger broadcasts and TV shows to fans, look for even more innovative ideas in the future. “If the first year is any indication of how things are going to be, we are extremely pleased with the response from Clemson, stations and sponsors,” said Packer. “We are looking forward to increasing the football and basketball networks along the I-85 corridor next year. With changes in the Coaches’ Shows and the addition of the Clemson Football Illustrated, we are making a step in the right direction in bringing the excitement and uniqueness of this university to many people.”
The Life Reach helicopter is a familiar sight in South Carolina's skies. Its mission is to remove the obstacles—time and distance—that can prevent critically ill or injured patients from reaching the care they need to live.

With Life Reach, physicians in communities across the state can send these patients to the medical referral center best able to handle their specific problems.

The helicopter is fully equipped for intensive care, and staffed with a team of critical care specialists. So besides providing fast transportation, we can maintain the necessary level of care and life support for our patients.

Providence has expanded the services offered by the Life Reach helicopter to all who need immediate, continuous intensive care during transport—cardiovascular, head injury, internal hemorrhage, burn, and other patients. We can handle transfers from hospitals, accident scenes, or clinics to Providence or any hospital within a 150 mile range.

There are South Carolinians alive today because the helicopter got them to the help they needed. Life Reach is saving lives—by saving time.

No longer the defending national champions, the 1986 Clemson soccer team will be concentrating its efforts on retaining its 1985 ACC championship and regaining its 1984 NCAA championship status. The Tigers should be contenders for that title, and even a usually down-playing Coach I.M. Ibrahim is looking to the 1986 season, the 20th year of Clemson Tiger soccer, with "cautious enthusiasm."

Clemson's major forte in 1986 will be its experience and its bench depth. Of the 18 players who were called upon at any given time to start in 1985, 10 are back, including the Atlantic Coast Conference's top-scoring trio Gary Conner, Bruce Murray and Eric Eichmann.

Although experience should weigh heavily in Clemson's favor, Ibrahim is a little wary of it all the same. The veteran coach said, "If we aren't careful, we could also. Joining the Tigers will be Joe Hummell and John O'Brien from St. Louis, as well as John Hummell, a transfer from Central Florida.

Although the majority of Clemson scoring comes from the frontline, the Tigers also depend on the midfield for added points. Coach Ibrahim considers the midfield the most vital area on his team. He said before the 1985 season that Clemson's success would depend on whether or not the midfield came together as a unit.

Dick Landgren, Jamey Rootes, and All-ACC midfielder Bruce Murray, the 1984 national Rookie-of-the-Year, are the returnees. Landgren, who had eight goals and eight assists in 1985, was selected second-team All-ACC in 1985.

This group will be joined by a deep corps of incoming recruits, including transfer Keith Parkinson, someone Ibrahim expects to be able to play right away because he will need little adjustment to the Clemson style. Parkinson will be joined in the midfield by Dave Fortner, Bill's brother, and John Meek of St. Louis; Dave Veghte of Clearwater, Florida; and Alfie Zarlengo of Boulder, Colorado.

Clemson's major scoring punch in recent seasons has come from the strikers and that shouldn't change this year. Leading the way will be 1985 ACC Player-of-the-Year Gary Conner and All-ACC Eric Eichmann. Both were All-Americans according to various services last year. Conner led Clemson and the ACC in both goals scored (21) and total scoring (48) in 1985, while Eichmann blazed the trail for both in assists (19). Conner has led the Tigers in those areas since 1984 and now ranks fourth in Clemson career scoring and goal-scoring, while Eichmann heads the Tigers' career assist list (36) and also holds the Clemson single season assist record (19). "Both Conner and Eichmann can strike from any number of areas and both are skilled passers," says Ibrahim.

Bruce Murray could also be called up from the midfield if needed. It was the position he held as a freshman. Murray was an All-American last year as a sophomore and is already third in career assists at Clemson. Thus Clemson has three returning All-Americans, the only team in the nation who can make that claim.

Clemson has the experience and depth it needs to challenge for conference and national honors in 1986. Overall, Tiger success should hinge on how rapidly incoming recruits and transfers mature and whether or not the team manages to remain healthy. If the cards fall favorably, 1986 could be one of Clemson's best seasons.

IT'S A JUNGLE OUT THERE.

Phillips Fibers Marvess® olefin is your guide to superior contract carpet.

It's a jungle out there, with thousands of pairs of feet walking, running and stomping on your carpet. Countless spills and constant cleaning. Sunlight and humidity.

Graphic contract carpet made with tough Marvess olefin BCF yarn outlasts the competition for a lot of good reasons.

You can now have beautifully luxurious, soft, strong Marvess olefin carpet for about the same price as standard grades of contract carpet. So you get a lot more value for your money. And Marvess olefin comes in 50 solid shades—styling colors developed especially for the commercial market.

Further, performance of a carpet is judged almost exclusively by its appearance retention. The following characteristics are what make Marvess olefin a better buy:

Marvess olefin carpet is highly stain-resistant and easily cleaned. And the color is more stable due to the use of selected pigments rather than dyes. These less permanent dyes are used to color nylon, polyester or acrylic carpet yarn.

Marvess olefin carpet has a high abrasion resistance and is chemically resistant as well. It is also performance rated over a 5-year period for no more than 10% pile weight loss.

Graphics carpet featuring Marvess yarn retains its appearance after heavy traffic over a longer period of time and resists static buildup, too. Additionally, it passes the Department of Commerce's Standard DOC F-1-70 "pill test" for flammability.

No other contract carpet will give you the durability, lasting color retention and wide choice of brilliant colors.

For your next contract carpet application, specify Phillips Fibers Marvess olefin. For a free informational brochure, call (803) 242-6600.

Lee Iacocca may not be interested in running for president, but a sizeable chunk of the Clemson University freshman class is interested in him.

The Chrysler executive topped the list of potential candidates when freshmen were asked who they'd pick to be the next president of the United States. Of the 698 students surveyed, 236 (34 percent) picked Iacocca.

Thirty-five percent of the students listed no choice, and the rest scattered their picks among 47 other answers ranging from Vice President George Bush, with eight percent, to "my dad," who got three responses.

Freshman Profile

Clemson's freshman class has an interesting personality.

Iacocca also leads the list of public figures the students indicated they most admire. Fourteen percent named him, 12 percent named comedian Bill Cosby, and 5 percent named President Reagan.

The 116 other answers include everybody from CBS anchorman Dan Rather to singer Bruce Springsteen to the sassy cartoon cat Garfield, who garnered five votes.

The unscientific survey was conducted during summer orientation sessions for students entering Clemson this fall. About 2,200 new freshmen enrolled for the semester that began Aug. 19.

Nearly three-fourths of the students surveyed (72 percent) indicated they think the ideal age for marriage is between 21 and 25. Another 21 percent chose the 26-35 age bracket as the best time for wedding vows.

More than half the students (54 percent) consider television their major source for news and information on current events, according to the survey. Twenty-eight percent rely on radio, 10 percent on newspapers, and 5 percent on news magazines.

Here are other results from the survey:

— MUSICAL TASTE: Fifty-one percent of the students listed some form of rock 'n' roll as their favorite kind of music. "Pop/Top 40" came in second with 31 percent. Among the other selections: country music (31 responses), soul (21), classical (18), jazz (11), and reggae (11).

— RELIGION: Forty-eight percent indicated they go to church "every now and then." Twenty-eight percent marked "regularly," 4 percent checked "never," and 20 percent didn't respond.

— CAREER PLANS: Forty-six percent plan now to "get a job" after graduating, 19 percent want to go to graduate school, 15 percent plan to enter law, medical or other professional school, and three percent plan to go into the military.

— FITNESS: Asked how often they exercise, 40 percent checked "regularly," 20 percent marked "rarely," 19 percent marked "every day," two percent marked "never," and 20 percent didn't respond.

The largest percentage (32) chose to attend Clemson because of the influence/opinion of relatives, friends, teachers or others. The campus and its atmosphere attracted 11 percent and the location nine percent. Other reasons given include "Great architecture school" (19 responses) and "Dad paid for it" (three responses).

Amercia became totally enamored with former Clemson player William Perry last year. But, to Clemson fans, he has been a legendary figure in this state for many years. This two-page feature is a summary of anecdotes, facts, stories and statistics about Clemson's only three-time All-American.

Clemson's William Perry has become an international celebrity.

The most often quoted story about William Perry concerns his infamous lunch visit to McDonald's with Perry Tuttle in 1981. Over time, the magic of the media and inflation, writers have said he spent $55 at the fast-food chain in Clemson in one sitting. Although I was not there when the bill was paid, I was in the SID office when Tuttle related the story to a writer. According to Tuttle, he offered to treat William one afternoon and the total bill for the two of them was $22, a sizeable total that would be normal for an establishment that includes “atmosphere” in the tariff.

Now, let’s be serious, Chicago media, $55 for one person at one meal? Not even “The Fridge” could put down that many quarter-pounders... but hotdogs, that’s another story.

The spring of Perry’s sophomore year the Clemson training staff decided it would monitor every morsel “The Fridge” consumed over a period of time in an effort to get him down to a svelt 305. In the middle of spring practice he had worked himself down to 314 and the staff was feeling pretty good.

Then came “Hotdog and Apple Pie Day” at a Clemson baseball game in late March. Any fan with a ticket stub could turn it in for a free hotdog and apple pie. Perry was not a regular fan at Clemson baseball games, but the promotion seemed to catch his eye. The friendly according to his agent, Jim Steiner of St. Louis. This year he cut a commercial for a meatpacking firm in London when the Bears were in England to play the Cowboys. The commercial ends with Perry stating, “You better shop at this company for all your meats, or I’ll eat the entire British Isles.”

Yes, William Perry can dunk a basketball, and seemingly regardless of his weight. When he came to Clemson as a freshman he enjoyed posting up low in pickup games in Fike Fieldhouse. But those were the days when he weighed only 295. Prior to his senior year he reported about 350. (“Why come to camp in shape, that’s what camp is for, to get in shape,” he once said). A photographer from a national magazine was sent up to take pictures of the Fridge dunking a few. A day before the photographer appeared Perry assured me he could still do it, even though I had seen on the chart outside the weightroom he was still over 330. Sure enough he lived up to his word, and dunked... until the photographer could shoot no more.

William Perry’s weight has always been a much discussed subject. In Clemson press guides he was listed at 285 as a freshman, 310 as a sophomore, 320 as a junior and 305 as a senior. The spring before his senior year (during the pro scout season) Perry got down to 310 and assured me he would be 305 for the start of the season. He was on a strict diet and was down to 305 by the end of spring practice.

But, a summer of home-cooking in Aiken ended that, as the “chicken population in the state took a nose-dive,” as Mike Ditka would say. Perry played most of his senior year at 337 pounds after reporting at 360. He has weighed as much as 390 according to published reports.

As far as his younger days are concerned, Perry was 13 pounds at birth, 220 pounds by the seventh grade, 235 in the eighth grade, 265 as a junior in high school and 290 as a senior in high school.

While one might think Perry would get sick now and then, or pull a muscle on occasion, he missed only one day of practice and never missed a game at Clemson. The same held true for his high school career, and last year with the Bears. He played in 45 straight games for Clemson and has not missed a game for any reason in the last nine years.

Clemson trainer Fred Hoover says he missed only one practice due to a knee strain in his sophomore year. He went to the workout in a yellow jersey, but when that is the only day of practice he missed in 4 years at Clemson. Perry’s mother also reports that he went four straight years in grade school with a perfect attendance record.

Perry had great stats in his Clemson career. He is the ACC’s all-time leader in career tackles for loss and sacks, is the only down lineman to lead Clemson in tackles for a season... we could go on and on.

But, Perry’s ability to make the big play is probably the primary reason for his notoriety. There are many memorable plays; a sack in the fourth quarter at North Carolina in the National

---

Fridge Fever

Perry turned into all-purpose player in Chicago in 1985.
It took 30 hours to sell out the poster.

Championship season, a close-lining tackle of Georgia’s David McCloskey in 1983, and the sequence against North Carolina in 1984 when he stopped Ethan Horton for losses two plays in a row, then forced an interception on the third down — they all stand out.

However, my favorite William Perry play took place in a victory over Wake Forest in 1984. In the second quarter Wake Forest was forced to punt and in an attempt to catch Clemson off guard, the Deacons lined up in a hurry. Perry was not on the punt return team, but he could, not get off the field fast enough so he lined up to block the punt, the only time in his career he was on the punt return team.

Perry overpowered the opposing center and ran into the upback so hard he shoved him into orbit and right into the Wake Forest punter, Harry Newsome. Newsome punted the ball off his upback’s back and Clemson recovered 36 yards from the original line of scrimmage. It is the only time in history a Clemson player has blocked a punt with an opposing player.

William Perry grew so quickly his senior year that his thighs increased from 31 inches to 33. By the end of the season his coach had to take two pairs of football pants to a seamstress who sewed them together to create a pair of pants Perry could fit in.

No one, probably not even William (but we bet the IRS does), knows for sure how much money he made last year, but according to published reports, he has a four-year contract with the Bears for 1.4 million dollars, and that includes weight-loss incentives. But, with his endorsements he should make about six million dollars during his fiscal year (when you make that much money you can have your own fiscal year). That would rank him, by himself, as the 14th most lucrative franchise in the NFL. In other words he will make more money by himself than half the teams in the NFL.

The William Perry Growth Poster was probably the most interesting and certainly the largest project the Clemson SID office has undertaken. The idea actually came from Jeff Pratt, a printer for Sports Graphics in Chicago, in the spring of 1984. How ironic that Perry would end up with the Bears.

Perry had printed full length posters for athletes before and they were used as give-aways at pro sporting events, but never had one been used to promote an athlete.

The athletic department ordered 4,000 posters, 2,000 to send out to media and high schools in Clemson’s recruiting area, and 2,000 to sell to the general public. The project cost a little over 10,000 dollars and at a sales price of $5 each the project could pay for itself.

We thought we honestly could sell 2,000 of them over the course of the season. They were ready by October 20, 1984 for Homecoming game with Duke, the 50th anniversary “to the day” of the first great promotional picture in sports history, the shooting of the Four Horsemen on horseback on a Notre Dame practice field.

The interest in the poster was mind-boggling. The athletic department sold all 2,000 posters in 30 hours and had the money needed to pay for the project before a bill had arrived.

Perry did not win the Outland or Lombardi Trophies, although he was a finalist for both. But he certainly gained much notoriety as his legend continued to grow. It’s still growing.

Perry’s nickname, “The Refrigerator,” all started on an elevator in Mauldin Hall on the Clemson campus in September of 1981. The elevator was crowded as it landed on the second floor. Ray Brown, an ebullient defensive tackle, wanted to get on, but faced with Perry in the front of the elevator he could not see any room for his 6-3, 250-pound frame.

Brown said, “William, you take up almost the entire elevator. I’m going to call you G.E. from now on because you are as big as a refrigerator.” Later in the week Brown related the story to Clemson SID office student assistant Jeff Rhodes, who in turn mentioned it to Clemson SID Bob Bradely. Bradley first used the story in an October 1 release prior to the Kentucky game and he referred to him as William "G.E." Perry.

The rest is history!

Nuclear energy is part of our way of life.

Fortunately, so is Chem-Nuclear.

Nuclear energy is important to us in South Carolina—it is used to generate more than half of the electricity we use. So, when you turn on the lights, or the television, there’s a good chance the electricity you’re using comes from a nuclear generating plant.

Nuclear energy and technology are also vitally important in medical research and the treatment of many diseases. Industries, too, use nuclear materials in productive, socially useful applications.

But like almost every other aspect of modern life, both the production of electricity and the other uses of nuclear technology create waste. Most materials that come into contact with radioactive substances become contaminated and must be properly handled. Even slightly contaminated articles like tools and rags have to be disposed of with care.

That’s where Chem-Nuclear comes in. We’ve developed much of the technology used in the management of low level radioactive waste—from processing, packaging, and transportation to permanent disposal. And we provide all those services to utilities, hospitals, universities and industries in every area of South Carolina.

These Chem-Nuclear services all have one goal—protecting public health and safety and preserving our environment. Everything we do is carried out with the highest degree of safety-consciousness and attention to detail—no corners are cut.

Modern life produces waste. Whether it’s your family’s garbage that can be hauled to a sanitary landfill, or the low level radioactive waste produced when you turn on a light, it must be managed properly if the quality of our environment is to be maintained.

All of us play a part in the generation of low level radioactive waste. Fortunately, Chem-Nuclear can handle it.

The race-winning Corvette of Rippie/Anderson Motorsports. Tires: Goodyear Eagle VR S “Gatorback” street radials.

The fact that both of these Corvettes are on Goodyear Eagle street radials is no coincidence.

Every Corvette made since 1984 comes with just one make of tire: the Goodyear Eagle VR "Gatorback" street radial.

Which is no coincidence.

Because the Eagle VR "Gatorback" was developed specifically for the Corvette's tremendous cornering, handling and speed capabilities.

Considering the performance of the Eagle VR "Gatorback", it's not surprising that successful SCCA Showroom Stock Endurance racing teams like Rippie/Anderson also choose an Eagle street radial.*

The Eagle VR S "Gatorback", a version of the Eagle VR "Gatorback" made for ultimate grip rather than ultimate treadlife.

The success of both the Eagle VR and VR S "Gatorbacks" has a common source:

Goodyear's ability to engineer better high-performance radials. For virtually every performance car.

So it's really no coincidence that the Eagle VR is to be found on every Corvette made.

Or that the Eagle VR S is the favorite tire of people who race Corvettes in the SCCA Showroom Stock Endurance Series.

In fact, when you think of how the Eagles perform, it's no coincidence at all.

* Tires shaved to racing depth. Before you race on Goodyear street radials, write the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, P.O. Box 9125, Akron, Ohio 44305 for preparation recommendations and procedures.

YOU EITHER HAVE GOODYEAR EAGLES, OR YOU NEED THEM.

Eager Assistants

to give my best for them every day of the week and they also know that I expect them to give their best for me. I see that they conduct themselves in a proper manner; that reflects the type of program that others see as a winner.

"Some days I will be a father to them, giving them whatever advice I can give them; some days I will be a mother to them, consoling and supporting them when they need a boost. If they need for me to just sit there and listen, while they air some thoughts out, the players know I will be there for them. That is what our coaching staff is here for; to help the players be the best they can be."

Bolt coached under Auburn’s Pat Dye for the past 11 years, and has enjoyed great success both as a player and as a coach. Bolt was a four-year starter at offensive guard for East Carolina and after his senior season was named third-team All-American in 1977 by the Associated Press. His level of play showed steady improvement from the time he was named Freshman-of-the-Year by the conference in 1974 until he was selected as All-Southern Independent in 1977 in addition to being named All-American.

Bolt continued his winning ways as an assistant, particularly at Auburn where they achieved an overall record of 38-11 and garnered one SEC championship in 1983 and nearly a national championship that same year. Bolt has proven he is a winner.

"Coach Ford is a successful coach. His assistants are successful people. Exposure to them can only help me maintain a positive approach and give me new ideas on how to win a national championship. That is one of the main reasons I came here. Each year Clemson works for a national championship. That is one of my goals — to be part of national championship. And Clemson can win another one!"

Coach Bill D’Andrea also sees this as part of his reason for joining Clemson’s staff. Having been at Clemson previously as a volunteer coach between 1982-84, D’Andrea has seen this winning attitude first hand and knows what kind of personnel it takes to instill this attitude in the players.

"I enjoy working with successful people and you cannot find many programs that have been as successful as Clemson has under Danny Ford," said the native of Pittsburgh. "He has some of the top coaches in the nation. They have shown they can get the best from the players and that usually means winning ball games. Hopefully, I can give something back to Clemson football in return for what I have learned already."

D’Andrea, just as Coach Crowe had done, quickly rose in the ranks of the profession after receiving his master’s degree at East Carolina in 1975. Upon graduation, he accepted a position as an assistant coach at the University of Virginia. However, D’Andrea found himself at Clemson for a two-year stint until he accepted a position as the offensive line coach at Southern Mississippi in 1984-85.

D’Andrea, along with Coach Van Der Heyden, probably have the most difficult task of all the assistants — they must rebuild the offensive line for the fourth consecutive year. The key to the offense’s success could depend on whether the line can stay healthy, whether or not he can find enough depth, and whether or not leadership emerges from the younger linemen.

"Coach Ford, ideally would like us to be two-deep at each position on the line. Because of injuries, graduation, and other factors, we are only able to run one substitute on each side of the line. We hope some of the less experienced players really come through for us. Right now, what we need is some kids to show some real leadership."

"John Philips has really come into his own since the middle of last season. I consider him our true leader on our line. We need more kids to work as hard as he does in the weight room and on the practice field."

Defensive back Coach Bill Oliver may have an even more difficult task than D’Andrea. Although he inherits a secondary that has experience, it does not have the experience necessary for the system which he has implemented.

"This year the defensive backs will be responsible for more reads, whereas, last year they were not responsible for any reads at all. This year we want them more active than in the past. . . we want them more involved in the unit as a whole.

"They are doing many new things they have not done in the past. Right now, we are trying to fine-tune the skills which they have acquired since practice began. We would like the entire defensive unit to come together and gel as one. Without the defensive line and linebackers, we are nothing; and without us, they are nothing. In time I believe we will blend into a good defensive TEAM."

Bill Oliver is one of the finest secondary coaches in the nation.

No doubt Oliver will have the secondary ready. Coach Ford has the utmost confidence in Oliver, calling him "one of the best at his position (secondary coach) anywhere."

"He knows the game of football and he has proven every place he has been that he can transcribe his thoughts to his players. We feel very fortunate to have a man of Bill’s caliber and enthusiasm on our staff."

"Bill has coached at all levels and at a lot of places," continued Ford. "He could have continued in the pros, but he wanted to settle down in this area and we are fortunate to have him. He brings us knowledge he has learned from the USFL and can apply it to our situation."

Bill Oliver knows what it takes to be a winner; just look at the teams he has been around. As a player he was a starter on Alabama’s 1961 National Championship team. He has also coached on many successful teams at Alabama and was a part of three National Championship teams Bear Bryant put on the field in the 1970s. He was also a part of many successful teams at Auburn.

Each coach brings with him a special knowledge to the Tiger staff that comes from a combined total of 35 years of coaching experience at the major college level or above. But each also has a unique approach to the game of football itself, to the development of players on and off the field, and to the method of re-establishing a winning atmosphere at Clemson University. With the optimism and winning attitude each coach reflects, it is only a matter of time before the Clemson Tigers once again rise to the top in the collegiate ranks.

Band Feature

by David Webb

Tiger Band will march to an old-fashioned circle drill when it plays "Another Opening, Another Show" and continues with "That’s Another Entertainment" and "Everything’s Coming Up Roses," the song made famous by Ethel Merman and the Tournament of Roses Parade in Pasadena, California. An old-fashioned diamond drill will go along with the previous drill when Tiger Band plays "76 Trombones." The show concludes with "Don’t Let The Parade Pass Me By", "Ease On Down The Road", and "On A Clear Day", before Tiger Band leaves the old-fashioned stuff behind and does some 80’s style dancing to "One", the famous hit from A Chorus Line.

A company front formation will end the medley with the song "Somewhere" from West Side Story. Still, no Clemson halftime show would be complete unless it ended with Tiger Band’s salute to Tiger fans in Death Valley and beyond with "The Song That Shakes The Southland," TIGER RAG!

The 1986 theme for Tiger Band is "A New Era," referring to the new uniforms Clemson obtained since last season. The uniforms were selected by a special committee, and the selection process was quite complicated.

A committee with representatives from IPTAY, CUTBA (Clemson University Tiger Band Association), Tiger Band, the Textiles Department, and the Purchasing Department first met last autumn to gain some ideas for the fifth official uniform of Tiger Band. Having garnered some ideas, the committee solicited some watercolor drawings from the top five uniform companies in the nation.

With pictures in hand, the committee then made some modifications and design changes and decided on one particular design before soliciting a sample uniform from each of the uniform companies. From the samples, more design modifications were made with specifications for further refinements.

Later, in February, representatives from each of the companies came to Clemson to make a presentation to the committee. Final specifications were made, and four of the companies made written bids.

Another sample uniform was requested of the companies in line with the final specs, and the committee put them to the "blind evaluations" test. The labels were covered, and the uniforms were checked for workmanship, design, wearability, quality, etc. The preferred uniform was unveiled and the order was given to the Freuhauf Uniform Company of Wichita, Kansas — incidentally, the same firm that made the uniforms worn from 1978-1985.

The order was placed towards the end of April and received in early June. It was a long, but satisfying task for committee members.

The project received funding from IPTAY. Associate Band Director Richard Goodstein said, "We’d like to thank IPTAY for their generosity that made our dream a reality." Band Director Bruce Cook added, "The procedure was long and, at times, tiresome. But it was worth it — our uniforms are really beautiful."

The 1986 Tiger Band staff includes Jim McKenrick and Billy Baker, serving as Tiger Band drum majors, while James Grubb will serve as band commander. Cheryl Crenshaw will once again be Flag Coordinator, and Marcella Frese has joined the staff as Percussion Teaching Assistant. Furthermore, the veteran "Voice That Shakes The Southland," Nick Peck, will serve as band announcer.

New Era

Tiger Band unveils new attire this afternoon.

Today is IPTAY Day and the guests of honor who will be dotting the I in Tigers during pregame ceremonies are Calhoun Lemon and Harper Gault. Lemon, a native of Barnwell, SC, was president of IPTAY in 1957 and 1958, while Gault, of Rock Hill, SC, served in the same position between 1961 and 1962.

Tiger Band continues the pregame show by offering its rendition of "You’re A Grand Ole Flag" and "America the Beautiful," directed by Dr. Richard E. Goodstein and accompanied by the Clemson University Chorus. "The Star-Spangled Banner" will be played next, directed by Dr. Bruce Cook, while an ensemble from Pershing Rifles Company C-4 presents the colors. Mr. Mark Jessie, new director of the Clemson University Chorus, will lead both choral and instrumental ensembles as they perform the Clemson University Alma Mater.

The invocation will be offered by Mr. David "Tig" Gray, South Carolina State Director of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. Finally, that drought-crushing "reign" will pour with pregame’s conclusion, as the Fightin’ Tigers make their celebrated run down the hill.

The 243-member Tiger Band will offer a flashy halftime show that includes a nine-minute non-stop medley of Broadway show tunes that was arranged by Tony Fox of Hollywood from an original composition by Tommy Newsome of the Tonight Show Orchestra. The presentation will open with "There’s No Business Like Show Business" from the musical of the same title.

Tigers In the Crowd
— Kassie Kessinger

Rick Aronberg
Fairport, NY
Aronberg, 18, is a talented second-year Clemson athlete who was named Clemson MVP in his sport of swimming as a rookie. He highlighted the Tigers' ACC championship year by capturing two league titles, the 500 and 1650 freestyle, and collecting honorable mention All-America plaudits at the NCAA meet. His 55 points scored in the ACC meet paced the Tiger squad as he also took fourth in the 400 individual medley. Last season he finished first in 15 of his 18 starts in dual meet action and enters this season with three school records under his belt (500, 1000 and 1650 freestyle events). Aronberg returns for his sophomore campaign this year following an outstanding summer of swimming, which included a pair of 10th place showings in the 800 and 1500 freestyle events at the U.S. Senior Nationals. Last summer he won four gold medals in the 12th World Maccabiah Games in Tel Aviv, Israel. Aronberg's major is business administration.

Cindy Tucci
Miami, FL
Tucci, 20, is one of the most experienced and talented setters for Coach Linda White's much improved volleyball team. Heading into her junior year, Tucci already ranks second on Clemson's all-time assist chart and has the third most all-time defensive saves. She also holds both the freshman and sophomore marks for most assists. Last season she led the Lady Tiger netters in committing the fewest reception errors with only one, and she served as co-captain, quite an honor in just her second varsity season. The former four-sport letterwinner is one of the strongest and hardest working players on the team. Tucci is pursuing a degree in administrative management.

Cathy Hofer
Aurora, IL
Hofer, 19, is back for her second season with the five-time defending ACC Champion Lady Tiger tennis team. Playing number-one singles a year ago, Hofer earned All-America honors as a freshman and became the second Lady Tiger ever chosen to the U.S. Junior Federation Cup team. She posted a first-year mark of 36-7 in singles and went 22-5 in doubles en route to her selection as the Lady Tigers' MVP. Hofer was selected to the All-ACC team in '86 and already has one league title under her belt, as she joined Pam Menne to win the ACC's number-three doubles crown. Last January, Hofer competed at two events on the USTA Women's Pro Circuit. At the event in Chicago she reached her first pro final before succumbing to Czechoslovakia's Jane Novotna. The following week, in Key Biscayne, FL, she reached the quarterfinals. Her successes on the pro tour earned her a WTA world ranking of No. 239 on the May 26 computer. Hofer is an administrative management major.

Paul Rutenis
St. Louis, MO
Rutenis, 20, is back for his third season with the defending ACC champion soccer team. While starting all 23 contests he played in a year ago, Rutenis led the Tiger backfield in scoring goals (6) and had three assists for a total of 15 points, second best among the Tiger backfield corps. His outstanding overall play, especially as a header, earned him second-team All-ACC honors in 1985. And, in the '85 Clemson-UMBRO Invitational he was chosen defensive MVP and all-tournament. The former prep All-American became a starter for the Tiger booters in mid-season of his freshman year and turned in solid defensive performances against UCLA and Indiana in the 1984 Final Four. He is majoring in administrative management at Clemson.

Randy Mazey
Seward, PA
Mazey, 20, is one of two first-team All-ACC performers back for Coach Bill Wilhelm's baseball squad. Mazey, who surprised everyone with his brilliant play last season, played in 52 games and finished with a batting average of .363 (20th overall in the ACC). His fielding percentage was a fine .971, having committed four errors in 121 chances. He also worked from the mound, picking up a pair of wins to go along with his perfect 4-0 mark from 1985 to give him a career mark of 6-0. Coach Wilhelm inserted Mazey into centerfield in the 27th game (Illinois) when he was batting .125 and the Tigers stood 14-11. Mazey promptly went on a tear, and hit safely in 19 of the next 21 games, raising his average to over .430. The Tigers won 17 of those games to improve their mark to 31-15. He had 21 extra-base hits for the season, pounded out 11 doubles, five triples and five home runs to go with 31 RBIs. Mazey is majoring in computer science.

Ute Jamrozy
West Fehmarn, West Germany
Jamrozy, 22, is hoping to duplicate the outstanding success she enjoyed last season as a rookie when she capped MVP honors in cross country and captured the 10,000 meter outdoor ACC Championship. Her fourth-place finish in the 10,000 meters at the NCAA outdoor championship earned her All-America honors. Jamrozy paced the Lady Tiger harrier club in '85 with five finishes no lower than fourth, including a third-place showing at the ACC meet, as well as at the NCAA District III Championship. Her classroom plaudits were equally impressive as she posted a perfect 4.00 grade point ratio her first semester at Clemson. She completed her first year at Clemson with a 3.26 GPR in parks, recreation, and tourism management, and was selected to the 1985-86 ACC Honor Roll.
The Last Word
— by Bob Bradley

In 17 days (October 1st), we will close out our 31st year as Clemson sports information director. That first month of October, 1955, was spent with Brent Bredlin showing us the “do’s and don’ts’’ of the office. Come the first of November of that year Brent joined the Hunt Oil Company in Dallas and was sent to Pakistan to look for some black gold.

Whether or not he found any oil isn’t recorded, but he did start a string of outstanding tennis players in Clemson’s direction that brought the Tigers respect on the court.

The first Saturday in November, 1955, found the Tigers in Roanoke playing Virginia Tech. Since this was my first official game as SID, I didn’t ask why we weren’t playing in Blacksburg or any other revealing questions. I was mostly watching and listening.

And the watching wasn’t too bad.

The Tigers were on their way to a 21-16 victory and a 7-3 season and would go to bowls three of the following four years.

The Gobblers scored on the last play of the first half for a 7-7 deadlock. Clemson’s score came on a 23-yard run by Don King, and a 51-yard run by Joe Pagliei gave the Tigers the lead in the third quarter.

VPI scored again and missed the extra point, but then recovered a Tiger fumble and Barry Frazee kicked a 26-yard field goal with 4:55 showing and the Hokies had a 16-14 advantage.

On the first play after Charlie Bussey returned the kickoff to the Clemson 40, Bussey threw a screen pass to Joel Wells who put on an exhibition of how broken field running should be performed . . . going 60 yards to score. The clock showed 4:06 left.

Some say there were two clips on Wells’ run, but if there were, they were never called. Clemson ended up winning the game 21-16 and Frank Howard had beaten Frank Moseley, his former roommate at Alabama.

Howard retired from coaching before current Virginia Tech coach Bill Dooley came on the scene. But the two faced each other three times while Dooley was still at North Carolina.

Howard’s pet name for Dooley is “Little Brother’’ because he is the younger brother of Georgia coach Vince Dooley. Bill and Frank used to fish for trout when they would end up together at Hugh Morton’s Grandfather Mountain at the annual sportswriter outing each spring.

Another incident involving Howard and a Virginia Tech game happened at Clemson when Lou Bello was the referee. Most people remember Bello for his basketball officiating antics, especially when a charging call was a shooting foul. But Bello called football, basketball and baseball games.

The Tigers and Gobblers were involved in a one-touchdown separation and late in the game, Bello came over to the sideline and asked Howard what to do with the ball when game was over.

Howard growled: “Bello, if they win, give it to them. If we win, give it to us. And if it’s a tie . . .’’ Howard told him in no uncertain terms what he could do with the ball.

Bello turned to walk back on the field, and about five yards inbounds, turned around and said, “Coach, can I let the air out first?’’

One of the best typographical errors we’ve ever seen came out of a Clemson-Virginia Tech game.

In Charlie Pell’s first year (1977), the Tigers went to Blacksburg and came away with a 31-13 win, played in one of the all-time gully-washers.

The late George Cunningham in the Atlanta Journal-Constitution wrote: “Perhaps in recognition of the bitter feelings that exist between Pell and VPI coach Jimmy Sharpe, the Clemson team presented its head coach with the game ball. Pell and Sharpe were Alabama teammates, and the trouble started right here (Blacksburg) when Pell was Sharpe’s assistant.

“Some say the situation was aggravated when Pell took highly (and instead of coming out as regarded as it was meant to be, it came out) retarded assistant coach Danny Ford away from here.’’

Each Sunday night during football season the wives used to bring supper down to Jersey and all of the coaches would take time out around 6:00 p.m. from their film grading. We took Cunningham’s article around and read it to the assembled group . . . everybody hearing it for the first time.

Ford wanted to know if he could sue. We told him he’d have to prove the story wronged him and was defamatory first. He didn’t pursue the case any farther.
