Clemson vs. Virginia Tech

Today's Features

5 Jesse Hatcher
Clemson's starting bandit end puts in some busy weekends once a month, as Sam Blackman explains.

7 Rusty Charpia
A big hitter all year round, Charpia played for two Top 20 Clemson teams last year. Dave Mullaney profiles the All-ACC shortstop who doubles as a reserve free safety.

49 Bowling with the Tigers
Clemson might have had its finest all-around bowl trip ever last year with the 35-10 win over Penn State. Here is an entertaining two weeks with the Tigers, described in pictures by Lance McKinney and Jim Moriarty.

54 Running Down the Hill
Today, Clemson will make its celebrated entrance to Death Valley for the 200th time. No team in the nation runs on the field like the Tigers.

57 Keith Jennings
Sometimes it takes three men to pull down Keith Jennings. Clemson's biggest wide receiver in history, Annabelle Vaughan tells us his running style is like watching a Tractor Pull.

65 Citrus Bowl Fever
The ACC and the Florida Citrus Bowl have made a landmark agreement for 1988-92, one that gives Clemson the best of both worlds.

81 Player Profile
The CFA has developed an interesting study on today's college football player.

85 University Feature
The backbone of any great university is its fundraising organization. Sandy Woodward takes a look at some Clemson major gift groups.

86 Howard's Team
Frank Howard has selected his all-time team, a squad that covers nearly 40 years of Clemson football.

87 Season Openers
Foster Senn examines some interesting first games in Clemson history.

116 Challenging a Legend
Clemson golfer Kevin Johnson lived a dream last May when he faced Jack Nicklaus on the golf links. Tim Bourret describes his real life fantasy.

120 The Last Word
Longtime Clemson SID Bob Bradley takes us back through the Virginia Tech-Clemson series.

On the Cover: Jesse Hatcher is the leading returning sack man in the ACC for 1988. The junior college transfer should be one of the top outside linebackers in America this year.

Williams Hopes To Become Clemson's Winningest Quarterback

By Tim Bourret

Best Defensive Secondary

The Sporting News has put some pressure on the Clemson secondary this year. The publication's preseason magazine has named Clemson's secondary as the best in the nation. With upperclassmen returning starters at all four positions, plus the addition of some excellent freshmen, it is easy to see why The Sporting News made this decision.

The group collectively has 11 varsity letters to its credit and in 1987 combined for 10 interceptions and 41 PBU. Donnell Woolford is a strong candidate for the Thorpe Award, but he receives help from James Lott, the leading punt returner in the nation among juniors in terms of return average. Gene Beasley has more career tackles than any other current Tiger and Richard Smith had the longest interception return in the ACC last season. From a group standpoint, Clemson has been the only team in the ACC to hold its opponents under a 50 percent completion figure each of the last two seasons, and the Tigers have led the league in fewest yards per attempt allowed each season.

Woolford Looks for PBU and Punt Return Records

Cornerback Donnell Woolford, who allowed just seven passes to be caught by players he was assigned to in man-to-man coverage last year, had 15 passes broken up in 1987 to lead the Clemson team. Woolford, who ranked second in the ACC in that category, tied the Clemson single season record of 15, held by Delton Hall (1985) and Ty Davis (1984). Woolford has 29 for his career just behind Hall (33, 1983-86) and Terry Kinard (30, 1978-82).

Woolford also ranked third in the nation last season in punt returns with a 15.0 yards per return figure. His 345 yards in punt returns for the season ranked as the third best in Clemson history. He trailed only Shad Bryant (487 in 1938) and Don Kelley (389 in 1970). His average of 15.0 yards per return was ninth in Clemson history for a single season. His 562 yards in punt returns for his career ranks fourth best in Clemson history, and he needs only seven yards to pass Willie Jordan for third place. Clemson's all-time leader in punt return yardage is Shad Bryant, who accumulated 779 yards from 1937-39.

Tiger-Hokie Series

While Clemson has dominated the series over the last 30 years, Clemson fans only have to recall the 1986 meeting between these two teams to get fired up for Virginia Tech. Clemson was stymied by Virginia Tech, 20-14, in a defensive struggle just two years ago. The Tigers rarely lose at home, and almost never in the home opener, but a Bill Dooley coached Virginia Tech team pulled it off on the way to a nine-win season in 1986.

Clemson leads the series 15-7-1, but Clemson did not lose between 1955 and 1985, a stretch that covered nine games. Virginia Tech broke the streak in 1986, but Clemson retaliated last year, 22-10, on a rain-soaked field in Blacksburg. The Tigers had career games from Michael Dean Perry (seven stops and an interception) and John Johnson (nine tackles) in last year's game.

Overall, Clemson is 7-1 against the Hokies over the last 10 years and 6-2 in Memorial Stadium since 1941. Clemson is only 7-5-1 in all games played at Clemson in the series that dates back to 1900. Every series has an oddity and the Clemson-Virginia Tech series is no exception.

In the last 10 seasons only two kickoffs have been returned for a touchdown against Clemson and both have been done by Virginia Tech. Larry Fallen went 100 yards against the Tigers in 1978 in Death Valley, and last year Jon Jeffries went 92 yards to the dismay of Danny Ford. Wayne Bolt better have the kickoff return defense prepared for Virginia Tech.

Williams Chasing Victory Record

Clemson quarterback Rodney Williams tied Homer Jordan as the winningest starting quarterback in Clemson history in his start in the victory over Penn State in the Citrus Bowl. Williams started nine of Clemson's 10 victories last year, moving him ahead of Mike Eppley and Steve Fuller, who had 21 apiece. Jordan had 22 wins in his career between 1979 and 1982.

Clemson is now 22-8-2 under Williams as the starting quarterback, a .710 winning percentage. The record for winning percentage is .796, set by Eppley, who was 21-5-1 in his career with the Tigers.

Clemson Offense Update

Clemson is slated to start a veteran offense against Virginia Tech. Nine starters are back from last year's offense that closed the season with a 499-yard effort against Penn State in the Citrus Bowl. Rodney Williams has completed over 55 percent of his passes in preseason scrimmages and receivers Keith Jennings and Gary Cooper have looked sharp.

The running back position is solid with the return of Terry Allen, Wesley McFadden, Joe Henderson and Tracy Johnson. However, Chris Lancaster has been forced to give up the game due to a neck injury. On paper one might think that losing a 2.7 yards per carry fullback is no big deal. Nothing could be farther from the truth.

"I can't think of a bigger injury loss since I have been at Clemson," said Danny Ford when learning that Lancaster would be out of his lineup. "Chris Lancaster is a leader of our team and he will continue to be a leader as a coach. He is the hardest working player I have ever had and we will miss his play on the field. No one enjoyed playing the game more than Chris Lancaster."

Lancaster was like having another lineman in the lineup, especially on short-yardage. It will be difficult for Clemson to continue its 95 percent success rate in short yardage with Lancaster out of the lineup. Senior linemen Jeff Bak, Ty Gran- ger, Frank Delulias, Pat Williams and Jeff Nunamacher will have to take up the slack.
McFadden Looks for Duplication

Clemson tailback Wesley McFadden would like more than to duplicate his 1987 performance against Virginia Tech when the two clubs line up today in Death Valley. McFadden ran for 226 yards on just 21 carries and scored two touchdowns in last year's 22-10 Clemson win. The yardage total was the third best effort in Clemson history and his 89-yard run in the fourth quarter iced the game for the Tigers. That jaunt down the sideline was the third longest run in Clemson history. Ironically, another Tiger named McFadden had one of the two that have been longer. Banks McFadden went 99 yards against Presbyterian in 1939 and Buck George went nine-tenths of the field for a score at Furman in 1951.

Defensive Update

As stated earlier, Clemson has one of the finest secondaries in the nation. Donnell Woolford has been injured much of the preseason, but he should be at full speed today. The linebacking corps has seen an improved Vince Taylor and Doug Brewster, while Ed McDaniel and Leon Kirkland are a pair of redshirt freshmen who are coming on strong.

Jesse Hatcher and John Johnson have also been around eight tackles in the preseason scrimmages, while Mark Drag and Raymond Chavous have been the leaders of the defensive front in fall drills. It will be quite a challenge for the front line to uphold the tradition of excellence in terms of rushing defense. Clemson was second in the nation in rushing defense last year and became the first Clemson team in the modern era of college football (since 1937) to hold the opposition under 1,000 yards rushing over the course of the season.

Virginia Tech Update

Head Coach Frank Beamer hopes he can bring the Hokies of Virginia Tech to the success level he achieved a few years back as the head coach at Murray State. His inaugural season at Tech produced a 2-9 ledger, but with the return of 11 starters from last year, plus three more who were frontline players in 1986, the outlook is bright for the 41-year-old mentor.

Heading the cast of returnees are defensive tackle Scott Hill, inside linebacker Randy Cockrell, junior flanker Myron Richardson and tailback Jon Jeffries. Hill led the Hokies in tackles last season with 177, more than double the total of any Clemson player last season. Cockrell was second on the club with 133. Jeffries was the top rusher as a freshman with 599 yards and he was among the top kickoff return men in the nation with a 25.5-yard average. The Tigers will attest to that as he sped 92 yards for a touchdown against Clemson on a kickoff return last season. Richardson caught 28 passes for 396 yards a year ago and is also an effective punt return man.

Will Furrer and Cam Young hold the keys to the season for the Hokies as they are the top candidates to replace 1987 senior quarterback Erik Chapman. Chapman was a record setter at Virginia Tech and led the Hokies to an upset of Clemson in 1986, 20-14. Furrer had shoulder surgery last spring, but he had good care in the off-season. His father used to be the team physician at Washington State.

Horacio Moronta is a player to watch for the Hokies. He sat out last year after picking up 32 tackles and four sacks in 1986 as a sophomore. The middle guard will come to Clemson around the 275-mark and will cause problems for Clemson's formidable offensive line.

Jesse Hatcher

Busy Weekends Once a Month

By Sam Blackman

Hatcher was not heavily recruited at Thomson High in Thomson, Ga., and it was by accident that he ended up at Taft Junior College in California.

"I was originally supposed to go to West Virginia State, but I was not too satisfied with that decision. My high school coach, Luther Walsh, then lined me up with Fresno State, but they were not happy with my size. Fresno State suggested that I go to Taft Junior College so I could increase my body weight, and just get stronger for Division I football. While arrangements were being made for me to attend junior college, I was in National Guard camp."

At Taft, Hatcher transferred from the National Guard to the Army Reserve and reported for service one weekend every month as a military policeman.

These characteristics carried over to football, as he policed the field at linebacker and earned all-state junior college honors at Taft. He was also named defensive MVP of the National Junior College All-Star game in 1986.

His stock went up among college recruiters, and Clemson was his choice of schools. Hatcher continues the tradition of great players becoming Tigers from Thomson, Ga., as James Farr and Steve Reese had outstanding careers at Clemson.

In his first year at Clemson (1987), Hatcher had a great year and was second on the Clemson team and tied for third among quarterback sack men in the ACC. He was also the fourth leading tackler on the team with 69 stops. Hatcher tied for third on the team in tackles for loss with eight and led the team in quarterback pressures with 17. He is the ACC's top returning quarterback sacker for 1988.

During one's time in the service a person learns discipline and gains insight about one's self. As a result of this training, discipline and a great attitude are some of his best characteristics. Being in the National Guard has also prepared him for the hard labor of football.

"Before I entered the National Guard, I thought I knew my physical conditioning limitations. But, during camp and on maneuvers, I was pushed way past that point. I get tired in football practice, but I know I have been through more. Football is hard for part of the day, but the exercises we go through in the National Guard are hard all day."

Hatcher, an administrative management major, has been an unexpected surprise to the coaching staff since his arrival in Tigertown. Tommy West, Clemson's outside linebacker coach, was happy he joined the Tiger corps. "Hatcher is an aggressive player who plays smart football. There is no question that he is a mature person academically and socially, as well as in football. He knows what it takes, where to be, and how to get there, all assets someone needs to be a great football player."

Once a month Hatcher must go beyond maximum effort. During the season, Hatcher has weekend National Guard duty and sometimes has to leave right after a game to join his outfit. "Usually National Guard exercises take place on Saturday and Sunday, so after a game once a month, I pack up my bags and go join my unit," said Hatcher. "I try to catch up on what I missed on the weekend exercise once I get there." Hatcher reports to Thomson, Ga. for his weekend duty once a month and is in strenuous exercise again just hours after chasing enemy running backs all day.

It is a full day, but after moving from National Guard camp to Clemson football camp within one day in August, Jesse Hatcher is in good physical condition. Clemson fans are certainly happy they have Jesse Hatcher on the front of their defensive lines every Saturday.

The Official Hot Dogs of CLEMSON TIGERS
Rusty Charpia
Making Big Hits Year 'Round

By Dave Mullaney

New Year's Day 1988 was one that Clemson fans will not soon forget.
For one Tiger the memories of that day are especially fond.
It wasn't just that Clemson defeated the defending National Champion Nittany Lions of Penn State, 35-10, to capture the Citrus Bowl crown. But to this Tiger, a walk-on nonetheless, it was a rare moment in the spotlight.

For Rusty Charpia it was the fulfillment of a dream to play in a New Year's Day bowl in front of a national television audience, especially when that audience witnesses you make one of the biggest hits of your career.

Charpia, a 5-foot-10 senior free safety, leveled a Penn State defender and provided the key block as James Lott returned a Penn State punt 30 yards on the final play of the third quarter.

"It just so happened I zeroed in on him, he happened to turn his shoulders just square for me and he never saw me," Charpia said. "I hit him and he went back, and I went over the top of him. I kind of dazed him a little bit. It kind of dazed me a little, too.

"I think it got everybody fired up."
It most certainly did.
Five plays later the Tigers scored, widening the margin to 28-10, and the romp was on.

Just as he did on New Year's Day, Charpia has made a habit of making big hits all year round.

Take, for instance, Clemson's 3-2 victory over Fordham in the first game of the 1988 NCAA baseball playoffs. Charpia, doubling as the shortstop for the baseball Tigers, doubled home the game-winning run in the 19th inning to end the longest NCAA tournament game in history.

But Charpia hasn't always played the part of the hero.

After a high school career which saw Charpia star for Midland Valley High School in both football and baseball, he was overlooked by most schools. He spent his freshman year at Spartanburg Methodist College, where he played baseball only.

The next year Charpia came to Clemson, after earning the attention of Tiger Head Baseball Coach Bill Wilhelm.

Charpia hit .241 after starting the 1986 season at shortstop. But the following season, Charpia gave way to Bill Spiers, a 1987 first-round pick by the Milwaukee Brewers. Charpia was asked to sit out the season and redshirt by Wilhelm.

"I wasn't too much for the idea because I just don't like sitting around," Charpia said. "I decided if I can't play in any games during the fall or the spring, why not just go out on the football field?"

"I think I realized just how much I really did miss playing football. You could probably ask a lot of the guys on the team, how much I just love being out there. I think those two years being away from football really showed me how much I love the game."

Charpia's zest for the game was certainly apparent to the Tiger coaching staff, as he quickly earned a spot on the Tigers' highly regarded special teams two years ago.

After earning the award for the most improved defensive back during the spring of 1987, Charpia appeared in every contest and started two games last season.

Not too bad for a kid who dreamed, as a youngster, of someday playing for his father at Newberry College.

Oh yeah, he's a coaches' son. You know, one of those kids that the game comes to instinctively.

He played for his father his last two years of high school.

"I can remember standing beside my father when he was coaching ever since I was old enough to walk. I can remember sitting in on their meetings and listening to them talk, watching what they were doing on offense and defense. That's given me a big advantage."

A former quarterback as a prepster, Charpia's perseverance is impressive. After working his way into the lineup, in what many experts consider one of the best defensive backfields in the nation, Charpia returned to the diamond this past spring to earn All-ACC honors, while hitting .310.

"There's a lot more things I'd sure like to do. I got a pretty good baseball season, but not as good as I'd like to have had. I'm hoping I'll even do better next year. Football is my biggest challenge. I've gotten a little more playing time each year. This year I would even like to do more."

And if history is any indication, Charpia will deliver many a big hit this year for the Tigers, whether on the football field or the baseball diamond.
Last year, ARA served thousands of meals to people away from home. College students, hospital staffs, industrial personnel. Why, right here in Clemson, ARA serves over 15,000 breakfasts, lunches and dinners to students, parents and faculty daily.

But you may not know our full story. ARA chooses only the freshest and most wholesome ingredients. Bright, crisp vegetables. Ripe, firm fruits. The choicest meats and dairy products. Ingredients that are chopped, steamed, broiled, baked and blended into luscious menus. For banquets or birthdays. Cocktail parties or tailgate feasts. In your home or in one of our private dining rooms in the Clemson House. No matter what your special occasion, ARA can fill the bill of fare.

So the next time your calendar is marked with a red letter day... call ARA for that special service.

We'll cater to your every need.

It's hard to find a bigger booster of South Carolina's schools than Chem-Nuclear. We know there's nothing more vital to our state than giving every child a sound education.

But we're more than cheerleaders. We make a major financial contribution to our schools. Through a special tax on low-level radioactive waste disposal—paid by no other company—we send 6 million dollars a year to public education. That's enough for the salaries of about 245 teachers. We pay 12 million dollars in other state taxes and fees that support State Government, and a special business tax that we pay in Barnwell County is a major part of the school budget there. The taxes paid by Chem-Nuclear's employees on our 11 million dollar payroll also help finance schools.

No one likes taxes. But we look at our contribution to education as an investment that will pay off in skilled workers, informed citizens, and a better South Carolina.

In fact, that investment is so important to us that we do more than send a check—we get involved. Disabled students have landscaping classes on the grounds of our Barnwell facility. We transport deaf students to camp. Equipment given by Chem-Nuclear upgrades science labs at several schools. We sponsor high school economics classes through Junior Achievement. And we make substantial donations to programs for the arts.

The teachers and students of our state are a great team. The school spirit shown by Chem-Nuclear and other South Carolina companies helps make them winners.

This year may be remembered not only as the year Clemson University began its second century, but also as the time when the impact of the Max Lennon era became readily apparent.

When he came to Clemson more than three years ago, Dr. Lennon brought with him some definite ideas about what was needed in order for Clemson to reach its potential: more emphasis on research and the graduate program (the university's greatest potential for growth and immediate economic impact); increased private support for academics; more effort in frontier areas of research to aid South Carolina's traditional industries; a more global perspective in both academic programs and research; and a significant state investment in higher education.

Those were the ideas; now for the reality:

- more than a 60 percent increase in research funding in a single year
- the most successful private fund-raising year ever, with more than a 40 percent increase over last year's record-breaking total
- a landmark experiment in the field of biotechnology, plus research that is breaking new ground in advanced apparel manufacturing, composites, robotics and many other areas
- the addition of international academic programs and research partnerships involving Clemson with institutions in Japan, France, Germany, Italy, Egypt, China, Israel and Great Britain, among others
- a $5-million higher education initiative called the Cutting Edge

But the Lennon agenda is far from completed. The Clemson president sees more challenges, more opportunities, ahead. At a recent address to the faculty, he said, "We must continue to look for new ways to fulfill Clemson's land-grant mission: aggressively recruiting students into areas that are exclusive to Clemson—agriculture, forestry and textiles—and that have more job opportunities than graduates, increasing minority representation in the faculty and administration as well as the student body, and making Clemson more accessible.

"As a land-grant college, we have an obligation in rural development and to help eliminate the pockets of poverty and illiteracy that remain in this state. Education is the answer, and we have an obligation to make education accessible to all people."

Lennon sees Clemson as still in the process of maturing into a major, comprehensive university with a regional and national reputation in its primary mission areas—science and technology. He has worked hard to bring together the necessary support system by involving not only faculty and staff but also legislators, business leaders and alumni in determining Clemson's future. And the future looks pretty bright.

"Clemson is a very exciting place to be right now," he says.

Max Lennon came to Clemson from Ohio State University, where he had been executive dean for agriculture, home economics and natural resources. Lennon was also on the Ohio State Faculty Senate and was co-chairman of the Governor's commission on agriculture.

Previously, he had served as dean of the College of Agriculture, and as director of the Agricultural Experiment Station at the University of Missouri, and as associate dean and director of research in the College of Agricultural Sciences at Texas Tech University.

Lennon is a native of Columbus County, N.C., and earned his bachelor's degree (1962) and doctorate from N.C. State University. He began his teaching career at N.C. State.

The Clemson president has been active in a number of civic and professional groups, ranging from his local PTA and the South Carolina Research Authority to the National Dropout Prevention Fund and the International Development Institute.

Last fall, Lennon was named to the board of trustees of the Farm Foundation, a national organization devoted to improving research and education to benefit rural areas. He will serve a four-year term as the university representative on the board, which also includes farmers, legislators and executives of leading agricultural industries.

Lennon was appointed earlier this year to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Policy Advisory Committee for Science and Education Research Grants Program by Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Lyng, and was a keynote speaker at the AgBiotech 88 international conference in Washington.

Lennon is married to Ruth Carter Lennon and they have two children, Daniel Ray (26) and Robin (23).
Take Time Out To See Clemson

When you come to Clemson for an exciting weekend of football, sometimes it's easy to take the Clemson area and all the things to do here for granted. But when you stop and think about it, there's plenty to see and do in Clemson the whole year round.

Rich history, a wonderful climate, beautiful Lake Hartwell and the scenic Blue Ridge Mountains provide the perfect backdrop for sightseeing, eating out, seeing a show, shopping, and an endless variety of outdoor activities.

You'll be comfortable during your stay. Accommodations in the area range from cozy nineteenth-century bed and breakfast inn to a variety of modern hotels. And area restaurants feature everything from upcountry cookin' to fine cosmopolitan cuisine.

So make plans to really see Clemson, during football season—or any other time of year. No matter what the season, we guarantee you'll want to come again.

On March 9, 1985, Clemson University named Bobby Robinson as the ninth athletic director in the school’s 96-year history. And since that time, success and prosperity are the words that best describe Robinson’s program.

Robinson has had significant successes as a result of his great commitment to being the best in three areas—competition, academics, and facilities. The past three years’ results provide evidence of the program’s placement among the best in competition, and also prove significant strides are being made in the other two areas.

The 1987 version of the football program will long be remembered for its 10-2 record and the 35-10 Florida Citrus Bowl victory over Penn State. The Tigers finished 10th in the final AP poll, the seventh Top 20 ranking in the past 11 years.

Both major revenue sports, football and men’s basketball, were involved in postseason play. In fact, out of 18 sports offered at Clemson, 15 were involved in some sort of postseason play.

The Men’s basketball program participated in the NIT, as Cliff Ellis guided the Tigers to their fourth consecutive postseason appearance—the first time in the history of ACC basketball that a team has entered postseason play in the first four years under a new coach. The Lady Tiger basketball team made the NCAA tournament field under first-year coach Jim Davis and had an ACC record 13-game improvement over the previous year.

The surprise story of 1987-88 was the Clemson Tiger soccer team. Seeded 23rd out of 24 teams in the NCAA tournament, the Tigers swept through the field to earn the right to play host to the Final Four. Over 8,300 Tiger fans watched as Clemson defeated San Diego State 2-1 for its second national championship in four years.

Clemson’s baseball team won an ACC record tying 54 games and finished 15th in the final poll, while the Clemson golf team was 17th and won the ACC title for the second straight year.

Clemson’s men’s tennis team was 10th ranked and won its ninth ACC title in 10 years, while the outdoor track team was tied for 15th, its highest NCAA finish ever.

All four teams received bids to the NCAA and finished in the top 20, making Clemson and Texas the only two schools with this honor.

The success of these teams gave Clemson the honor of a number-eight ranking in men’s sports and number-28 in women’s sports in the Knoxville Journal’s All-Sports poll. Ten Clemson teams were ranked in the final top 20.

In academics, Clemson student-athletes had another outstanding year. Ninety-seven young men and women had 3.0 or better grade point averages each semester, with seven earning a perfect 4.0 GPA. The football team had two players named to the academic All-ACC team, and four students were named to various Academic All-America teams. Over 30 former Tiger student-athletes received college degrees in the past 12 months.

The commitment to success in academics is further confirmed by the decision to build an academic learning center for student-athletes. Comprising over 16,000 square feet, the center will feature classrooms, learning labs, and an auditorium, as well as office space for the athletic advising staff, which now has three full-time staff members.

In the area of facilities, Robinson has a record of success and accomplishments second to none. Capital improvements include the indoor tennis facility and the soccer stadium, with the learning center and completion of the baseball stadium scheduled for 1989. Major renovations recently completed include the golf practice area, cross country trail, stadium locker rooms, wrestling practice room, and football coaches meeting rooms. A complete maintenance and irrigation system has also been implemented for all practice fields.

Renoations under way include the new IPTAY/ticket complex at Gate 9 at the football stadium, a nine-lane all-weather track, Jervey Center offices and gymnasium, as well as the coliseum dressing rooms. Without a doubt, Clemson athletic facilities are among the finest in the country.

Administratively, Robinson has instituted policies and procedures that benefit all constituents. Among the changes are the drug testing program, the Student Athlete Assistance Program (SAAP), a staff Policies and Procedures Manual, computerization of the department, the pro agents seminar, as well as the athletic academic scholarship endowment.

From a university perspective, Robinson envisions the athletic department as being one of 49 campus departments, serving a viable role to the mission of Clemson University. "Athletic competition provides a common bond for students, faculty, staff, and friends," according to Robinson.

Under the direction of Robinson, the athletic department continues to support the university. Over $900,000 have been contributed to the athletic academic scholarship fund; and band travel equipment and uniforms are funded by athletic dollars. An educational enhancement fund has been coordinated through the efforts of the athletic department and the Athletic Council.

With Robinson’s qualifications, it is easy to see why the Clemson athletic program enjoys continued success—he has done it all. He has been an administrator at all levels, he has worked in other areas of the university, he has been a head coach, and he has handled the budgetary aspects needed to run a $12 million program.

Robinson has confidence in his staff, his coaches, his athletes, and the facilities at Clemson University. "We have a solid base to work from, but if we are not moving forward, we are losing ground. We will work within university guidelines and expand our horizons. We want to be as good as we can as a vital part of the university and the state of South Carolina."

Robinson was graduated from Furman with a B.S. degree in business and political science in 1968. He was the president of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity chapter at Furman.

Robinson came to Clemson in 1970, not in athletics, but in the housing office. After three years, he moved across campus to serve as an administrative assistant in the athletic department.

After serving the athletic department in various capacities, he became business manager in 1975. Two years later he was named assistant athletic director, and in 1980, he became associate AD. He held that title for four years, and his area of responsibility moved to primarily football and basketball.

While serving his administrative duties, Robinson found time to coach the Clemson golf team between 1975 and 1983. During his time as the head coach, Clemson won its first ACC title in golf and three times the Tigers participated in the NCAA tournament. In 1983, his final season as the head coach, he guided Clemson to a number-five finish. Robinson is now a member of the NCAA golf committee and is a member of the CFA Board of Directors.

Head Coach Danny Ford

Danny Ford has spent many years following in the footsteps of legends. As a player and young coach, he worked under the tutelage of the legendary Bear Bryant. Later at Clemson, he stepped into the position once held by "The Legend" himself, Frank Howard.

Last season, Ford led his team to one of the winningest records in Clemson history. He also took his team to the Citrus Bowl where he challenged another legend, Joe Paterno. It was his sixth bowl trip in only nine years as a head coach and his fourth bowl victory in those six trips. All nine years as head coach, his teams have had winning regular season records. With a mark like that, Danny Ford also could soon win the right to be called a legend.

Ford’s legacy of success did not begin when he became a head coach, it has followed through his entire affiliation with the game of football. Overall, he has been involved with 20 winning regular seasons in his 21 years of football, and his teams have won over 74 percent of the time.

His success as a head coach is not only evident in his win-loss record, but also in the relationships he has with his players, past and present. He is admired and respected by his players and they enjoy playing for him. This respect is well deserved when you take a look at the list of accomplishments over the past nine seasons:

1. Sixth winningest active coach in America.
2. Only coach in ACC history with over a 70 percent winning percentage; he is currently at .743.
3. Has coached Clemson in six bowl games.
4. Clemson has won four ACC titles during his tenure (81, 82, 86, 87).
5. Has coached five teams that have finished in the final AP Top 20.
6. Has coached 56 All-ACC players, 23 All-Americans and 38 of his former players have been NFL draftees.

This list would be impressive with anyone’s name on it, but considering the fact that Ford just turned 40 on April 2, it is phenomenal. Ford’s most significant accomplishment, winning the 1981 National Championship, was attained when he was only 33-years-old. Clemson’s rising legend is the youngest coach in the history of the college game to win the Associated Press National Championship.

Ford has recently reached another milestone, he is now the winningest coach in the history of the Atlantic Coast Conference on a percentage basis. He is already seventh in total wins among ACC coaches. These wins have not been easy ones. Instead, they have come against fierce competition. Ford has already gained more wins over AP top 20 teams and top 10 teams than any other coach in Clemson history.

Ford has established a new era in football at Clemson University, creating one of the most solid programs in the nation. Now in his 10th full season with the Tigers, his record of 76-25-4 (.743) is the sixth best winning percentage in college football among active coaches. Additionally, Clemson also has the sixth best winning percentage in the nation over the last 10 years. Clemson is the only team in the nation to win a bowl game, a conference championship and finish in the top 20 of the AP poll each of the last two years.

After examining Ford’s football past, it is difficult to imagine him as anything but successful. Another in a long line of former Bear Bryant players that have gone on to greatness in coaching, Ford played for the Bear between 1967 and 1969.

He was Kenny Stabler’s tight end in 1967 when he started as a sophomore. He played tight end again in 1968 and moved to offensive tackle in 1969. Ford started all three years, was all-conference in 1969 and played on three teams that went to bowl games. In 1969 he was also a member of the All-SEC academic team, and served as captain of the Alabama squad. Ford also played freshman basketball at Alabama.

After Pat Dye’s coaxing, Ford remained at Alabama as a graduate assistant for the 1970 and 1971 season. After earning a B.S. degree in Industrial Arts, he received a master’s degree in Special Education in 1971. In 1972 and 1973, Ford was a full-time assistant for the Bear. During these four years, the Crimson Tide went to four bowl games with Ford as an assistant.

Ford left Alabama for Virginia Tech where he was an assistant under Jimmy Sharpe for three seasons (1974-76). In 1977, Clemson came calling and Ford joined the coaching staff as an offensive line coach. Only 23 games later, at the age of 30, Ford was named the Tigers’ head coach, making him the youngest active Division I coach in the country.

In The Long Run

Knowing you’re the best you can be. Knowing the effort, sweat and determination pays off with personal satisfaction and good health. Though it’s a never-ending challenge, the reward – feeling good and feeling good about yourself – makes it all worthwhile.

At Blue Cross and Blue Shield of South Carolina and the Companion Group of Companies, we’re constantly striving to be the best we can be. Working hard to deliver top-quality health insurance and related services like life insurance, property and casualty insurance, health maintenance organization coverage, financial management and more.

Our strength is obvious in a number of ways – financial stability, corporate citizenship in the community, dependability, state of the art operations and a myriad of products and services. But our true strength can only be measured in the satisfaction you feel, knowing Blue Cross and Companion are the best we can be for you … in the long run.
Emergency Services

The Clemson University Athletic Department provides the following for your safety and emergency medical needs:

1. Advanced cardiac life-support stations in four locations. (North stands, Upper North deck, South stands, Upper South deck). These units are staffed with skill-care nurses, physicians, cardiologists, internists, paramedics, and EMTs.

2. Mobile units of EMTs and paramedics are strategically located throughout the entire stadium.

3. Ambulances with life-support equipment are available in North stand and South stand areas and have prearranged routes for evacuation to local hospitals.

Learn to recognize these personnel and facilities.

WHAT TO DO IF EMERGENCIES ARISE

Please step back and give the organized stadium EMS personnel room to work. Well-intentioned attempts to help by untrained persons interfere with the efficiency of the EMS system. If you have basic or advanced training in specific life-support methods, make your qualifications known and offer your help. Untrained personnel can be frequently more harmful than helpful.

MEDICAL ADVICE FOR FANS

If you have a pre-existing medical or health problem, please check with your personal physician and obtain his advice before attending games. Many emergencies occurring at the stadium do so because of prior existing conditions. Use common sense in dressing, eating, drinking and physical exertion. Be certain that you have identification on you as to the diagnosis and what medications you are currently taking.

Be aware of warning signs of heart attacks: chest pain, chest tightness, shortness of breath, sweating, palpitations, fainting, nausea and vomiting.

Recognize that our most common serious medical problems at football games are heart attacks and allergic reactions to insect stings. Be aware that insect stings will always be very frequent at outdoor sporting events and should always be treated with immediate ice until advice can be obtained. If you have ever had a reaction to a bee or other insect sting, check with your personal physician as to whether you should carry a kit.

The stadium emergency phone number is (803) 656-2999.

The 1987-88 Tiger athletes continued the winning ways of previous Clemson teams. From a soccer national championship in the fall to NCAA appearances by four teams last spring (men's tennis, baseball, track and golf), Clemson was successful throughout the year.

The Tigers claimed five ACC championships during the past academic year. The football team went on to a 35-10 victory over Penn State in the Citrus Bowl. Clemson's women's swimmers finished the season with a perfect 9-0 record and repeated as the fifth ranked team in the nation. Also winning the conference was the men's tennis team, which competed in the NCAA tournament. In addition to these ACC tournament champs, Clemson's baseball squad ended the regular season on top of the conference standings.

ACC Coach-of-the-Year honors went to Bill Cason (men's cross country), Bob Boettner (women's swimming), and Bill Wilhelm (baseball). Five of last year's conference MVP's and four Academic All-Americans came from Clemson. Tiger teams produced 22 All-America athletes, as Clemson finished the year with 10 different sports ranked among the nation's top 20.

As millions of loyal fans file through stadium turnstiles from Atlanta to College Park this fall, many millions more will be following the television cameras of Jefferson-Pilot Teleproductions, the most intense sports rivalries in the East unfold — ACC Football.

We're proud to begin our fifth consecutive season of bringing you a full schedule of gridiron drama that has made Atlantic Coast Conference football a regional tradition.

We're part of the Jefferson-Pilot family of companies. And whether it's protecting families with life insurance or entertaining them on radio and television, our commitment to quality, in business and in life, remains the same.

So, as the passion and the pageantry of one of America's most exciting sports spectacles unfold across some of the country's most beautiful campuses, all of us at Jefferson-Pilot Teleproductions wish each ACC member the very best of luck. And we invite everyone to enjoy the action with us.

The first thing to check when buying a new house is the yard.

If there's an SCE&G Good Cents sign in the yard, then you know the house is going to be both energy efficient and comfortable to live in. In fact, a Good Cents home even qualifies for a lower electric rate. Before you buy, look for the Good Cents sign outside, you'll be a lot happier with what you find inside.

Clemson prepared for the Citrus Bowl with a pit stop in Daytona Beach. The battle plan was drawn in workouts at a baseball stadium a few miles from the ocean.

Mark Inge, Pat McKenny and Dean Harman meet a penguin at Sea World, one of the many theme parks the Tigers visited in Orlando.

Disney World rides were very popular with the Tigers, while Michael Dean Perry and Davi Treadwell (at left) led the Tigers in one of many parades throughout game week.
While Danny Ford (at left) put in many hours of preparation for the Penn State game, he also took some time to play tourist. Backfielders Terry Allen, Tracy Johnson and Joe Henderson met with former All-Pro Lynn Swann (above) at the stadium during ABC's preparation for the game.

Keith Jennings, Raymond Chavous, Tracy Johnson and Jeff Bak met with Minnie and Mickey during the day at Disney World.

One of the most rewarding events of the Citrus Bowl Trip took place at the stadium two days before the game when players from both Penn State and Clemson entertained, and were entertained, by special children. Here Chineedu Ohan gives a younger a quick ride.
Rodney Williams completes his first pass of the week, to a child in the audience at a pregame luncheon.

Legends past and present met at a pregame luncheon. Joe Paterno has won over 80 percent of his games in 22 years at Penn State, while Clemson's Frank Howard is still the winningest coach in ACC history.

"Boy, wouldn't Joe Paterno be surprised if we passed 19 times in the first half."

Running Down The Hill
This Afternoon Clemson Will Make its Celebrated Entrance For the 200th Time

College football’s most celebrated entrance began simply enough. In 1942, when Clemson Memorial Stadium was first built, the easiest way to get to the stadium from the locker room in adjacent Fike Fieldhouse was by running down the slope at the East end of the Stadium.

But, it sent a charge through the Clemson players on that September 19, 1942 afternoon as Clemson earned a 20-point win.

When the school built locker rooms in the stadium a few years later Coach Frank Howard had an idea that running down the hill should continue. So, he hired a bus company to take his boys to the hill just prior to kickoff.

About 10 minutes before each game at Clemson the players leave the Clemson locker room and board two buses. The frenzied players travel by bus around the outside of the stadium to the top of the hill in the East endzone. There, they gather and touch Howard’s Rock, which is supposed to give Clemson players magical powers, according to legend. As the band plays Tiger Rag and the cannon fires, the Clemson legions race down the hill to the thrills of the Tiger faithful.

It is truly a stirring moment no college football fan should miss.

Today, Clemson will run down the hill for the 200th time. Players past and present find it one of the most invigorating moments of their career. “If you are not ready for a game before you get to the rock, you certainly are by the time you get to the sideline,” said former Tiger All-American Jeff Davis.

“It’s one of the unique things about football at Clemson,” said Perry Tuttle, now a star in the CFL. “It used to give us a touchdown advantage before we kicked off.”

Keith Jennings
Continuing A Family Tradition

By Annabelle Vaughan

Ever been to a tractor pull? You've seen that truck hooked up to a huge piece of machinery on ESPN on Tuesday nights. The object of this "sport" is to determine how far the smaller truck can pull the tractor. The trucks are bigger and more powerful than the average truck you see riding down the highway, but they are nowhere near the size of the tractors they pull.

The Clemson Tigers held their own version of a tractor pull down in Orlando, FL last January when wide receiver Keith Jennings had seven catches for 110 yards. It was the most reception yardage for a Tiger in a bowl game in Clemson history, but the tractor pull began after Jennings caught the ball. With four or five blue jerseys hanging onto him, he would shift gears and grind out a few extra yards, oblivious to the weight he was pulling.

Like the trucks in a tractor pull, Jennings is bigger and more powerful than the average collegiate wide receiver. At 6'-4, 235-pounds, he is the biggest wide receiver ever to play at Clemson. When he breaks the huddle and heads to his wide-out position, heads turn and people wonder what someone that large is doing playing that position. When he catches the ball, they know why.

"Most people want a receiver to be 5'11" or 6'0" and to weigh no more than 205 pounds," said wide receiver coach Woody McCorvey. "But Keith fits in perfectly with the way we play football at Clemson. His size becomes one of his best assets."

Jennings comes from a background filled with football. He was born and raised in Summerville, SC, a town that loves football and follows its high school team diligently. His older brother Stanford, now with the Cincinnati Bengals, was already established as an excellent player. Since Stanford was a running back, it was only a matter of course that Keith become a running back also.

"I was always bigger and faster than everybody else," Jennings said. "My coaches always said I had exceptionally good hands. When I started playing on the JV team at Summerville High School, there were a bunch of guys playing running back and most of them were better than I so my coach moved me to wide receiver. It was like 'BAM,' and I knew that was where I was supposed to be."

It was definitely where he was supposed to be. He started for four years and was all-state, All-Low Country, all-region, All-South, and All-American. As a senior he caught 42 passes for 801 yards and scored nine touchdowns. During his junior campaign, he had 43 receptions for 959 yards, eight touchdowns and a 22.3 average. He was a member of three 4A Division I state title teams.

At Clemson, the stats have not been quite as impressive, but Jennings has. His only touchdown came in 1985 against Minnesota in the Independence Bowl and he caught only seven passes that season. In 1986, he upped his reception total to 10 and was third among wide receivers in receptions. Last season he more than tripled his output from the year before with 31 grabs. He gained 475 yards during the 1987 campaign for a 15.3 average.

His 110 yards against Penn State were a career high and more than any receiver for Clemson in a single game last season. It was also the most receptions by a Clemson player since 1981 when Perry Tuttle had 10 against Maryland.

"I finally got my chance," said Jennings. "I feel that if they can get the ball to me, I can do something with it. A lot of defensive backs are intimidated by my size. I am not the fastest person in the world so I have used my size to my advantage. The coaches stuck with me at wide receiver and I'm trying to make them see that they did the right thing."

"He may not leave the defensive backs, but it is going to take three or four of them to bring him down," said McCorvey. "He has adequate speed. But his size is what helps him gain that extra three or four yards after he catches the ball."

Jennings has also used his size to resemble another type of vehicle: a bulldozer. Jennings had 48 knockdown blocks last season, including 21 over the last three games. Danny Ford called his nine knockdowns against North Carolina "the best wide receiver blocking performance he had seen in a running back."

"There is no doubt the best blocking receiver I have ever coached," said McCorvey. "I realized that if I wanted to play at Clemson, I would have to be a good blocker," said Jennings. "Now I feel that nine knockdowns are better than seven catches. Against Maryland I had only two receptions, but I had nine knockdowns so I was happy. I am basically an aggressive person, so I enjoy that part of the game."

For the 1988 season, Jennings has high expectations. "I want our team to win the championship of the South," he said. "For myself, I don't want to set any receiving records, but I would like to set a record for knockdowns. I want to make a block that will make the crowd say 'Oooh.'"

That's probably not your average wide receiver's typical goal, but then, Keith Jennings is not your typical wide receiver. This season, when the Jennings Tractor Pull begins its final year, you can bet you'll see why.

The ACC and Citrus Bowl Reach A Landmark Agreement

By Skeeter Francis

The Florida Citrus Sports Association (FCSA) and the Atlantic Coast Conference (ACC) have come together to pioneer a four-year relationship between the bowl and conference that stresses flexibility for both organizations. The arrangement could be a "pacesetter" in future agreements between bowls and conference affiliates.

The Florida Citrus Bowl is committed to the ACC champion for the 1988 and 1990 seasons. In the 1989 and 1991 seasons the Florida Citrus Bowl has the option of inviting the ACC champion. Both the bowl and the conference have a "National Championship Exclusion" option in the agreement.

Don Dizney, Chairman of the Board of the Florida Citrus Sports Association, chaired a sub-committee of the Sports Association's Executive Committee in negotiating this arrangement. Bob Moore and Jack Prevost also served on this sub-committee.

"We are excited with the affiliation with the ACC," said Dizney. "It could set standards for other bowls in similar situations. We have been the pioneer in creative sponsorship and advertising sales and this agreement is just as innovative. The opportunity for the ACC and the Florida Citrus Bowl to always be in a position to play for the national championship is very exciting for everyone."

John Swofford, Athletic Director at the University of North Carolina, chaired the ACC negotiating committee with Bobby Robinson of Clemson and Jim Copeland of the University of Virginia. Gene Corrigan, Commissioner of the ACC, and Chuck Rohe, Executive Director of the FSCA were ad hoc members of the committee.

Robinson was pleased with the agreement. "We are delighted with the ACC's tie-in with the Citrus Bowl. This is a positive move because it guarantees New Year's Day exposure, national television, a great environment for our players and fans, and it still leaves us the chance to pursue the national championship.

"We had a great trip to Orlando last year, the people of Orlando and the members of the committee did a terrific job. It was a great experience because it is a bowl trip that is enjoyable for anyone, regardless of age." Corrigan remarked, "I'm extremely happy with the arrangement because our institutions are 100 percent behind it." He went on to say, "Orlando is the best city in the United States to hold a bowl game. We had a great time there last year when Clemson played in the Florida Citrus Bowl, they are very organized and they treated our teams and families extremely well.

"We are pleased with the national television contract (ABC), we are aware that they are in the process of stadium expansion and the bowl pay-off is good," Corrigan added.

Rohe said, "The Florida Citrus Bowl is delighted to be associated with a great conference like the ACC. We have had an ACC team in our game five of the last 10 years, but very rarely their conference champion. Now we have the opportunity to have their champion. At the same time the arrangement has enough flexibility to allow us to continue our relationship with the Southeastern Conference schools and southern independents like Florida State, Miami and South Carolina. The flexibility is good for the entire bowl structure as it allows for a national championship opportunity on an annual basis."

Following is an outline of the agreement:

1. The agreement is four (4) years in length.
2. The Florida Citrus Sports Association (FCSA) is obligated to invite the Atlantic Coast Conference (ACC) champion in the 1988 and 1990 seasons for their subsequent bowl games.
3. In the alternate years of 1989 and 1991 the FCSA has the option of selecting an ACC team with such option to be exercised by the second Tuesday in November.

4. The following exclusions may be exercised in reference to a National Championship Game:
   A. If the FCSA has the opportunity to secure the No. 1 team in the country (in the UPI Poll) for its bowl game it may exercise the "National Championship Exclusion" option allowing it to pass on the ACC champion in the 1988 and 1990 seasons. However, the FCSA must commit to the ACC champion in the following season and the option must be exercised by the second Tuesday in November.
   B. If the ACC champion in any year of the agreement has the opportunity to play the No. 1 ranked team (UPI Poll) when the ACC team is ranked No. 2, 3 or 4 in the UPI Poll and the No. 1 team is from the Southwest, Southeastern or Big Eight Conferences and the game is the Cotton, Sugar or Orange Bowls, the ACC has the option to invoke the "National Champion Exclusion" and pass on an invitation to the Florida Citrus Bowl. Such a "National Champion Exclusion" option must be exercised by the second Tuesday in November. If this "National Championship Exclusion" option is invoked, the FCSA has the option to invite the ACC champion for the next two years.

Under these provisions the ACC champion is committed to the Florida Citrus Bowl if it is the No. 1 team in the country and the bowl playoff is competitive with other New Year's Day Bowls.

5. The ACC will guarantee 12,500 ticket sales in the existing Florida Citrus Bowl-Orlando Stadium (capacity 53,000), and will guarantee 15,000 ticket sales in the expanded and renovated Florida Citrus Bowl-Orlando Stadium (capacity 72,000).

6. The ACC agrees to make a full effort to involve its schools regularly in other Florida Citrus Sports Holiday events, including men's basketball.

7. The ACC agrees to an extensive conference awareness program in the Central Florida area, including annual appearances by head football coaches of each ACC school before local alumni groups, boosters and media in the Central Florida area.

Richard McCullough hopes to help Clemson to a fourth straight bowl game and a third straight ACC title.
The Clemson University campus is one of genuine beauty and history, a rich, colorful mix of old and new wide vistas, narrow paths and classic structures. The campus radiates from the historic John C. Calhoun mansion to beautiful Lake Hartwell on the west, and to the colorful botanical gardens on the east. Between are the revered landmarks!

Capturing the Spirit
Artist Barrie Van Osdell, best known for paintings that embrace the historical spirit of architectural subjects, has captured all the beauty and charm of Clemson’s most remembered campus scenes. These exquisite paintings featuring Clemson’s four most historic homes and buildings, are being reproduced in the finest bone china collectors plates.

Acquire “Tillman Hall” Now
The first plate featuring Tillman Hall is available now. Clemson heritage plates featuring the John C. Calhoun Mansion, Sikes Hall and the Hanover House will be offered each quarter.

Same Number Guarantee
As an owner of “Tillman Hall” collectors plate, you are guaranteed the right — but are never obligated — to acquire the three subsequent editions. And, if you do acquire additional plates we guarantee that each of the plates you order will be inscribed with your own personal number.

A Treasured Heirloom
We are confident the Clemson heritage plate collection will provide warm remembrances for you and your family in the years to come, and will become treasured heirlooms in your home.

Made of Finest Bone China
Clemson heritage fine bone china collectors plates are manufactured by one of the nation’s oldest and most respected china makers, the Pickard China Company, Inc., founded 1894, and measure a full 10" in diameter. They are bordered with a richly decorated band of 24 Karat gold. Each issue of fifteen hundred (1500) will be signed and numbered by the artist and will be accompanied by a same numbered certificate of authenticity.

30 Day Money Back Guarantee
The Clemson heritage plate collection’s 100% buy-back guarantee assures that you may return the plate for full refund — if returned in perfect condition within 30 days after receipt.

Tiger Program Among The Nation's Best

By Tim Bourret

Tigers Stand Alone

Clemson has finished in the Top 20 of the final AP poll, won a bowl game and a conference championship each of the last two seasons, the only team in America that can make that claim. Clemson was 17th in the final 1986 poll and 12th last season to go with a Gator Bowl win in 1986 over Stanford and a Citrus Bowl victory over Penn State in 1987. Clemson has two straight ACC titles.

In fact, only three teams that have finished in the Top 20 in both 1986 and 1987 have won bowl games each of the last two seasons, Clemson, Arizona State and UCLA. Nine different teams have finished in the final Top 20 each of the last two years.

Top Programs Over The Last 10 Years

Clemson's football record over the past 10 years ranks as the sixth best in the country at 86 wins, 26 losses, and four ties for a winning percentage of .759. Going into 1987, the Clemson program was number-eight in the nation for the 10-season period from 1977 to 1986, but down years in 1987 dropped Alabama, Ohio State, and Michigan from their positions on the list. Also, Clemson traded an 8-3-1 record in 1977 for a 10-2 mark in 1987 to boost its status.

Rk Team Record Pct.
1. Nebraska 101-20-0 .835
2. Penn State 95-21-1 .816
3. Oklahoma 96-21-2 .815

9. Ohio State 88-30-2 .7417
10. Florida State 86-29-3 .7415

Tigers Among National Leaders

Over the last 10 seasons Clemson has ranked among the top programs in the nation. An examination of rankings and records certainly backs up this statement. Clemson has been ranked in the final Top 20 of the AP poll seven times in the last 11 years. Brigham Young, Florida State and Miami (FL) have also been ranked in the Top 20 seven times during this period, the ninth highest total among Division I schools. Here is a listing of Top 20 finishes between 1977 and 1987:

Clemson Among Top Rushing Teams

According to a survey by the NCAA, Clemson has had the eighth best rushing offense in the nation over the last five years. The Tigers have averaged 240.89 yards per game during this time. Clemson has a 38-14-3 record for the five-year period. Nebraska is first and Oklahoma second, followed by two service academies, Air Force and Army.

Rushing Offense Yds. Per Game
1. Nebraska, 49-7-0 354.05
2. Oklahoma, 48-7-1 330.84
3. Air Force, 42-15-0 317.81
4. Army, 28-26-1 275.11
5. Georgia, 39-14-2 251.36
6. Auburn, 44-11-1 248.43
7. Tulsa, 30-25-0 241.47
8. Clemson, 38-14-3 240.89

Woolford Third Among Punt Returners

Clemson cornerback Donnell Woolford was third in the nation in punt returns last season and is third among returning players for 1988. Woolford averaged 15.52 yards per return last season when he became Clemson's first ACC punt return champion in 10 years. He tied a Clemson record for punt return TDs in a season with two.

It is also interesting to note that Clemson has the best punt return combo in the nation in terms of career punt return average. No other team in the nation has two punt returners with a career average over 11.0 yards a return. Both Donnell Woolford and James Lott rank in the top five in the nation in terms of average punt return (min. 30 attempts).

Lott also has a higher average punt return than any 1988 underclassmen. Here is a list of NCAA career punt return leaders:

Clemson 35, Penn State 10

Everything went the Tigers way in sunny Florida as Clemson soundly defeated Joe Paterno's Penn State team, 35-10. Rodney Williams was selected the Citrus Bowl's Most Valuable Player as he led the Tigers in a brilliant air attack that took the Nittany Lions by complete surprise, and complemented it with a solid ground game.

The win was Danny Ford's fourth bowl victory in only nine seasons as Clemson's head coach. It also marked Rodney Williams' second bowl victory in his three-year playing career at Clemson and the second consecutive year that he was named the MVP of a postseason bowl. In 1986, Williams won the honor as the Tigers defeated Stanford in the Gator Bowl.

Williams, who was also named the Offensive Player-of-the-Game, completed 15 of 24 passes for 214 yards. His primary target was wide receiver Keith Jennings who hauled in seven passes for 110 yards, his best career performance. Gary Cooper also had four receptions for 56 yards against Penn State.

The Tigers rushed for 285 yards against Penn State. Terry Allen was the leading rusher with 105 yards and one touchdown. Fullback Tracy Johnson ran for 88 yards and three touchdowns. Joe Henderson added 54 yards and another touchdown.

Defensively, Clemson was led by cornerback James Lott's eight tackles. Safety Richard Smith also had seven tackles and one pass broken up. Strong safety Gene Beasley and linebacker Doug Brewster both had six tackles. Linebacker Dorian Mariable was selected the Citrus Bowl's Defensive Player-of-the-Game with his five tackles, including one for a loss. He also intercepted a pass in the endzone and returned it 46 yards in the third quarter, the longest interception return by a Tiger in bowl competition.

Items of Interest

- Clemson’s 499 yards in total offense were the most in any bowl game by any team in 1988.
- Clemson set Tiger team bowl game records for first downs (25), total offense (499), yards per play (6.4), yards rushing (285), yards per rush (5.28), yards passing (214) and interception return yards.
- Rodney Williams became the first Clemson player to be chosen MVP of two different bowl games. He was also MVP of the 1986 Gator Bowl.
- Tracy Johnson became the first Tiger to score three touchdowns in a bowl game.
- Clemson is now 4-0 under Danny Ford in Florida Bowl Games.
- The 19 pass attempts in the first half by Rodney Williams were the most by a Clemson team in the first half since Danny Ford has been the head coach. Williams was 12-19 in the first half against Penn State, the best first half performance by a Tiger since Homer Jordan was 15-18 against Maryland in the opening half in 1981.

Williams was a bowl game MVP for the second straight year.
Tiger fans went wild when Dorian Mariable had a key interception and when Tracy Johnson scored his third touchdown.
Sneak Attack
Perry’s and Phillips’s Final Gift to Danny Ford

Michael Dean Perry and John Phillips gave Danny Ford a going away present at the conclusion of the gratifying 35-10 win over Penn State. In true New York Giants style, Perry and Phillips snuck up on Ford in the closing minutes with a surprise water bucket dousing that would have made Harry Carson proud. It was a joyous ending to a rewarding and fun two weeks in Florida.

Clemson Memorial Stadium

Just before Jess Neely left for Rice University, he gave Clemson a message. "Don't ever let them talk you into building a big stadium," he said. "Put about 10,000 seats behind the Y.M.C.A. That's all you'll ever need."

Instead of following Coach Neely's advice, however, Clemson officials decided to build the new stadium in a valley on the western part of campus. The place would take some clearing—there were many trees, but luckily there were no hedges.

The crews went to work: clearing, cutting, pouring, and forming. Finally, on September 19, 1942, Clemson Memorial Stadium opened with the Tiger football team thrashing Presbyterian College, 32-13. Those 20,000 seats installed for Opening Day would soon grow; and grow and grow.

When the original part of the stadium was built in the early 40's, much of the work was done by scholarship athletes, including many football players. The first staking out of the stadium was done by two members of the football team, A.N. Cameron and Hugh Webb. Webb returned to Clemson years later to be an architecture professor, and Cameron moved on to be a civil engineer in Louisiana.

The building of the stadium did not proceed without a few problems. One day during the clearing of the land, one young football player proudly announced he was not allergic to poison oak. He then commenced to attack the poison oak with a swing blade, throwing the plants to and fro. The next day, however, the boy was swollen twice his size and had to be put in the hospital.

There are many other stories about the building of the stadium including one stating that Frank Howard put a chew of tobacco in each corner of the stadium as the concrete was being poured. The story claims the tobacco is still there.

Howard says that the seeding of the grass caused a few problems. "About 40 people and I laid the sod on the field," he says. "After three weeks, on July 15, we had only gotten halfway through. I told them that it had taken us three weeks to get that far, and I would give them three more weeks' pay for however long it took. I also told them we would have 50 gallons of ice cream when we got through.

"After that it took them three days to do the rest of the field. Then we sat down in the middle of the field and ate up that whole 50 gallons."

Howard says that on the day of the first game in the stadium, "the gates were hung at 1:00 and we played at 2:00." But that would be all of the construction for a while. Then in 1958, 18,000 sideline seats were added and in 1960, a total of 5,658 West end zone seats were added in response to increasing attendance. With the large end zone "Green Grass" section, this expansion increased capacity to about 53,000.

Later, upper decks were added to each side of the stadium as crowds swelled—the first one in 1978 and the second in 1983. This increased capacity to approximately 80,000 which makes it one of the 10 largest on-campus stadiums in the country.

The effect spiraling inflation has had in this century can be dramatically seen in the differences in stadium construction. The original part of the stadium was built at a cost of $125,000 or $6.25 a seat. The newest upper deck was finished in 1983 at a cost of $13.5 million, or $866 a seat.

Through the years Memorial Stadium has become known as "Death Valley." It was tagged this by the late Presbyterian coach, Lonnie McMillan. After bringing his P.C. teams to Clemson for years and getting whipped, Mc-

Millan said the place was like Death Valley. A few years later, the name stuck.

On November 16, 1974 the playing surface was named Frank Howard Field for the legendary coach because of his long service and dedication to the University.

Athletic Director Bobby Robinson says that Memorial Stadium has many features which make it a top facility. "One thing that makes it so good is the number of sideline seats," he says. "We don't think there is a bad seat in the house.

"We also have outstanding dressing rooms, press facilities, and ample parking nearby. A unique feature of the stadium is the number of private boxes."

Rick Brewer, an official in the University athletic ticket office says that despite the stadium's large size, there are still season ticket problems. "When the second upper deck was built, we thought it would take care of everything," he said. "To our dismay, it hasn't. We've filled the upper decks and have moved season ticket holders into the end zone, which are not permanent seats."

Despite the apparent ticket crunch, Robinson says there are no immediate plans to further expand the stadium. "Before we expand we'll have to show over an extended length of time—like five to seven years—that we can sell out what we have now," he said. "We don't want supply to greatly exceed demand. Even though it's hard to get tickets now, we still get people in our stadium. The ticket means more if it's harder to get."

But, if Memorial Stadium is expanded again and capacity is pushed closer to 100,000, there will be room for the construction over the west stands, enclosing that end like a horseshoe. Luckily, the stadium wasn't built behind the Y.

Profile of A College Football Player

By Susan Hiller
College Football Association

What is the most common major among college football players today? Where do a majority of the players come from? Do many of today’s players have a desire to play professionally when they graduate?

In an effort to answer these and other questions and learn more about today’s college football players, the College Football Association conducted a survey of its member institutions.

Forty-one universities responded and 2,973 replies were received from the football players.

Who Responded
A look at the respondents by position shows that 21 percent were offensive linemen, 16 percent offensive backs, 14 percent defensive linemen, 16 percent linebackers, 15 percent defensive backs and four percent kickers or punters. Of these respondents, 59 percent were white and 41 percent non-white.

Major Field of Study
While many of today’s football players may not choose to work on Wall Street, more than one-third (33.9 percent) selected business administration as their principal field of study. The next most popular major was social sciences (14 percent) with physical education (nine percent), communications (eight percent), natural sciences (six percent), arts and humanities (six percent), engineering (five and a half percent), criminal justice (three and a half percent) and education (three percent) following, respectively. Just 9.5 percent had not yet selected a major.

Place of Upbringing
Small communities with populations less than 100,000 are responsible for 56 percent of players surveyed. Just 14 percent were from large cities (100,000 to 500,000), while 11 percent grew up in suburbs adjacent to a large city. Another 10 percent came from a suburb adjoining a megalopolis (over 500,000) and nine percent were raised in a megalopolis (over 500,000).

Further analysis of the players from areas of 100,000 or less indicates that 24 percent were from small cities with populations up to 50,000. Seventeen percent were reared in a medium size city of 50,000 to 100,000, and 15 percent called a rural area home or were raised on a farm.

Marital Status
I do, I do! And 116 (four percent) of the 2,973 players responding did—that is make a trip to the altar before graduating college. Thirty (one percent) were married with children, which means that one of every four (25 percent) married players is a father.

Who Receives Athletic Aid
An overall look at what kind of athletic aid the football players receive reveals that 83 percent are on full aid, while two percent receive partial aid. Less than one-half percent are on a tuition waiver and 14 percent receive no aid at all.

According to the survey it appears that offensive linemen are an integral part of the football team and their importance is recognized through financial aid offered by the coaches. Eighty-nine percent of offensive linemen receive full aid, which is more than any other position. Defensive linemen are next with 87 percent receiving full aid. By position, players receiving the least amount of aid are kickers and punters (60 percent).

Multi-Sport Athletes
The Bo Jackson style player is not popular on the collegiate level. That is—athletes who play more than one sport.

We asked respondents of the CFA survey if they were currently participating in a variety of sport other than football. An overwhelming proportion, 95.4 percent, indicated that they concentrated solely on football. The remaining 4.6 percent are multi-sport athletes and a majority of them run track.

Desire to Play Professionally
So you want to be famous? If given the opportunity, 69 percent of the players indicated a desire to play professional football after college. This suggests that professional sports is enticing to the undergraduate, regardless of his capabilities.

According to the NFL Player’s Association few have what it takes to make the pros. Approximately two of every three (66 percent) players drafted will actually make an NFL roster. The maximum number of players drafted each year is 336, meaning that approximately 225 obtain roster status. Another 900 that are not drafted will sign with an NFL team, but only 135 of them will make rosters. The NFL Player’s Association estimates that just 355 athletes from all collegiate levels of play (225 plus 130) will make NFL rosters from a universe believed to be about 5,000 each year. That means that just seven percent make NFL rosters and a large proportion will never see any playing time.

Bowls Vs. National Championship
It’s a debate everyone has an opinion on, even the players. Asked if they preferred the current system of bowl games or would rather participate in a playoff format to determine a national champion, the players opted for the existing bowl plan.

It is interesting to note that players on teams that won 60 percent or more of their games indicated a stronger preference for a playoff system than the players on teams that won with less frequency.

Eighty-nine percent of offensive linemen receive full aid, more than any other position.

Substantial Support Every Year Puts These Folks in Clemson's 'Major League'

By Jack A. McKenzie
Alumni/Development Editor

Among the fans enjoying today's game is a special group of Clemson supporters who have distinguished themselves by their loyalty and generosity to Clemson University. They are members of the University's three major gift clubs: the Presidents Club, the Clemson Fellows, and The Founders.

Membership in this trio of prestigious organizations is accorded donors who make substantial gifts each year to the University through the annual Clemson Loyalty Fund, a program of the Clemson University Foundation. The Presidents Club honors donors who give $1,000-$4,999 annually. To date, 535 donors are in that club.

Thirty-five donors hold membership in the Clemson Fellows. Each member of the Fellows contributes $5,000-$9,999 annually. A donor who gives $10,000 or more in a year becomes a member of The Founders, of whom there are 81.

In appreciation for their annual support, members of the major gift clubs receive numerous benefits. For example, a hospitality suite here in the stadium is available for their use before and during each game.

Events are held throughout the year exclusively for members of each group, and a gala black-tie dinner is held each year for all major gift club members. The 1988 dinner was held just one week ago, on Aug. 27, at the Omni Hotel at Charleston Place. Preliminary events included a dinner cruise in Charleston Harbor on the evening of the 26th.

Highlights of the black-tie dinner were an address by James L. Fisher, president emeritus of the Council for Advancement and Support of Education, and the premiere showing of "Something in These Hills—Celebrating One Hundred Years of the Unique Clemson Spirit," a film prepared especially for the University's Centennial celebration.

Club members may receive a variety of University publications not available to the general public and are featured prominently in year-end reports of private giving. Corporate matching gift programs may help qualify donors for club membership, which may include spouses.

As great as the benefits to club members are, the benefits that Clemson students and faculty receive from the support of major donors are far greater. A case in point is the gift, announced Aug. 12, from the family of Chester County resident James Roy Carter Jr., a 1940 Clemson graduate.

The Carters, led by sons Bill (Clemson Class of '65) and Jim (Clemson Class of '70), have made an initial gift of $40,000 to establish a scholarship endowment named for James Roy Carter Jr. and have committed to build the fund to at least $100,000, the minimum required to establish a Presidential Scholarship—a full, four-year scholarship worth at least $6,000 annually.

"We felt the scholarship would be an especially appropriate form of recognition for our father, who graduated with highest academic honors in agricultural sciences," says Jim Carter. "He was instilled with the importance of a college education at an early age and earned all of the expenses required for his degree.

"Throughout his life he has encouraged young people to pursue a quality education as a foundation for their career and personal development.

"We hope the Carter Scholarship will help enable Clemson to meet its commitment to maintaining a diverse and talented student body as it focuses on its second century of service to South Carolina."

With their gift, the Carters became members of The Founders and joined the ranks of donors whose contributions each year further Clemson's march to excellence in a major way.

The major gift club program is coordinated by the Clemson Development Office. For more information call 803-2121.

Season Openers

By Foster Senn

Season opening games have been extremely successful for Clemson with the Tigers winning 73 percent since first seeing it up in 1896. Moreover, the Tigers have won 80 percent of season openers played at Clemson.

Openers have always provided thrilling moments for Tiger fans. Opening games have included the contest considered by many to be Clemson's most exciting ever, Clemson's most lopsided game ever, and the Tigers' strangest game ending in history. A glimpse of a few past openers indicates football fans should be in for exciting moments today.

1966—After tying for the ACC championship in 1965, Clemson entered the 1966 season with high hopes of capturing another conference crown. Facing Virginia, which had never beaten Clemson in nine tries, Tiger fans looked for the season to begin with an easy start. Few expected to see what many still call Clemson's most exciting comeback ever.

The Tigers demonstrated quickly it would be a high-scoring affair. Clemson scored after only five plays and quickly ran up a 18-7 lead. Many Tiger fans settled back to talk about politics, and summer beach trips. However, Virginia quarterback Bob Davis didn't really care about Richard Nixon or life at Myrtle Beach, and he was determined to end Clemson's domination of the Cavaliers. He rallied the Cavs to four straight touchdowns and sent Virginia to a 35-18 lead with only 16 minutes remaining.

The prospect was a bitter double negative for Clemson: a loss in the season opener and a loss to Virginia. The Tigers, however, were not through and staged "one of the best comebacks I've ever seen," according to Clemson coach Frank Howard. Jimmy "The Needle" Addison threw an 11-yard touchdown pass to Wayne Bell, then Jacky Jackson ran for another score, to put Clemson within 35-33. With less than four minutes to go, Addison passed to Jackson for a 75-yard touchdown play to give the Tigers a 40-35 lead. Clemson stopped the final UVA bid on the 10-yard line to ensure the victory.

1901—While the 1966 opener was one of Clemson's most exciting games ever, the season opener in 1901 was the Tiger's most lopsided win ever. Clemson routed Guilford 122-0 at Bowman Field. John Heisman's Tigers averaged 30 yards per play and scored a touchdown every minute and 25 seconds in the victory. Legend says that every Clemson player scored in the contest.

1959—Some season openers have "November" drama. This opener ironically was billed as the game for the ACC championship. Twentieth-ranked Clemson defeated 12th-ranked North Carolina 20-12 at Chapel Hill and the Tigers went on to capture the conference crown. The win sent Clemson on to a 9-2 season, and a 23-7 Bluebonnet Bowl win over TCU.

1985—The strangest ending to a Clemson game occurred in this season opener. Virginia Tech and the Tigers were tied 17-17 late in the game at Blacksburg. Randy Anderson had led the Tigers with 220 yards passing on 17 completions. With the score tied and only seconds to play, Tiger kicker David Treadwell, a walk-on, missed a 41-yard field goal attempt. However, VPI was penalized for roughing the kicker. Given a second chance, Treadwell hit a 36-yard field goal with no time remaining to give Clemson the victory. The boot cleared the goalpost by one yard and Treadwell, who had not played in an organized football game in seven years, was a hero.

This even turned into a popular series—"Treadwell, In the Clutch"—for which there were many sequels. Treadwell went on to win or tie five games with field goals within the last 40 seconds. He was named All-American in 1987.

1986—The season opener this year also featured the Tigers and the Hokies. VPI upset the Tigers 20-14, using the TD recovery of a blocked punt as the catalyst to victory. VPI quarterback Erik Chapman led the Hokies with 242 yards passing, and Kenny Flowers gained 90 yards rushing to lead the Tigers. The game was played at Death Valley and regionally televised.

1987—Last year's season opener was a mismatch with the Tigers whipping Western Carolina, 43-0. Joe Henderson led the way with 80 yards rushing, and Terry Allen gained 73 yards. The Tiger defense held the Catamounts to only 10 yards rushing.

Environmental Landscaping is proud to be a part of the winning team at Clemson.

Environmental Landscaping has installed Toro Automatic Irrigation Systems and provided our professional turf services for all areas of Clemson University Athletics.

"Excellence in Athletic Turf"
Toro...your source for automatic irrigation and sprinkler systems.
For the second consecutive year the Clemson athletic program can boast of 10 teams that finished the year ranked among the nation's Top 20.

This success comes at a time when spiralling costs make running a comprehensive athletic program increasingly difficult.

Clemson has met the challenge. But not without the help of IPTAY, one of the nation's premier athletic scholarship fundraising organizations.

IPTAY, which stands for "I Pay Thirty A Year," finances the education of nearly 400 student-athletes, trainers and managers each year. Due to the support provided by the organization, now in its 54th year, Clemson is one of the few schools in the nation that is able to award the maximum number of scholarships allowed by the NCAA for its 18 men's and women's varsity sports.

IPTAY recently received national acclaim as it was featured in SPORTS INC., a weekly publication devoted to the business of sports. And, at the first convention of the Athletic Fundraisers of America, held in June in Atlanta, IPTAY was one of the featured topics of discussion.

The organization is supported by over 20,000 dues-paying members who have enabled IPTAY to enjoy its 24th consecutive increase in annual donations. The tremendous growth of IPTAY has also made it the first athletic organization in the country to top the two, three, four and five million dollar marks in annual donations. The organization expects to approach $6 million in donations this fiscal year.

The success of IPTAY has enabled the organization to modify its purpose beyond the financing of scholarships to include the fiscal foundation for athletic facilities.

In recent years IPTAY has provided the funding for the addition of the upper deck on the north side of Memorial Stadium, an indoor tennis facility and the addition of a soccer facility, which proved to be an especially timely move. The new soccer field enabled Clemson to play host to the 1987 NCAA men's soccer Final Four, where the Tigers proceeded to capture the national title.

IPTAY will now turn its attention to the enlargement of Tiger Field, home of the ACC regular-season champion Clemson baseball team. An addition will provide permanent seating for 3,000, will house indoor batting cages, locker rooms and extended press facilities.

The Tiger Band has also benefited from IPTAY's success. New uniforms were provided for the band in 1986. IPTAY also handled the band's travel expenses, providing a commitment of over $200,000.

Since the Tiger athletic program receives no university or state funding, the story of IPTAY is especially impressive. So impressive, in fact, that for six consecutive years allocations from student fees have been returned to the university by the athletic department.

While IPTAY has primarily been concerned with athletic fundraising, the organization's commitment to Clemson University extends beyond the playing field. The IPTAY Athletic Academic Endowment Scholarship Fund, created during the fall of 1984 to award students whose performance in the classroom warranted distinction, is currently the second-largest academic scholarship endowment at Clemson. The fund is presently nearing the $1 million mark. IPTAY also provides one of the most progressive tutorial programs in the country, where student-athletes are given the opportunity to call on the services of a highly-trained academic advising staff.

The tremendous success of IPTAY can be attributed, in large part, to its organization which, affords the group a great deal of "grassroot" support. Each of South Carolina's counties has an IPTAY chairman, while every county is allotted one representative for every 36 members.

Every member is kept abreast of Clemson athletics through the ORANGE AND WHITE. As the official publication of IPTAY, the ORANGE AND WHITE is exclusively distributed to IPTAY members.

With the continued assistance provided by IPTAY, Clemson University will continue to enjoy national prominence athletically and academically.

Centennial Celebration

This past April 6 was a great day for Clemson. It marked the beginning of the university’s second century of teaching, research and public service. As the official beginning of Clemson’s Centennial celebration, county Extension offices along with local alumni and Clemson Clubs across the state hosted local ceremonies to unfurl the new Clemson flag and fly it for the first time. Meanwhile, a main-campus ceremony featured university leaders, Congressman Butler Derrick and Senators Strom Thurmond and Ernest Hollings. Noting that the day also marked the 100th anniversary of the death of Thomas Green Clemson, President Max Lennon said, “We do not honor his death; rather we celebrate the tremendous gift to the citizens of South Carolina made possible by his will.” Thus began the 20-month celebration that will honor the founder and the founding of our university.

Clemson’s establishment didn’t happen overnight. It took almost two years for the state to accept the gift of land and money provided by Mr. Clemson’s will for “a college for all the people.” It seems only fair that we spend the same amount of time celebrating—and reflecting upon—the many contributions Clemson has made to South Carolina.

Just as Clemson is made up of a diverse group of alumni, students, staff and faculty, so the Centennial celebration reflects our different interests. The focus of the first phase last spring was “The University and the Arts,” with a burst of cultural events capped by a lecture by opera star Beverly Sills.

This fall the focus will be “The University and the Sciences,” with environmentalist John McKetta delivering the central lecture. “The University and the Economy” next spring will feature a visit by Nobel Prize-winning economist George Stigler, and the final focus, “The University and the Wider World,” will bring William F. Buckley to the campus to speak.

It may seem that all we’re doing to celebrate is listening to speeches. Wrong! Each college has planned individual activities, and the town of Clemson even got involved and held a “Happy Birthday, Clemson” picnic on Bowman Field in June. More festivities are planned throughout the Centennial period.

In fact, consider this your invitation to our big public birthday party the weekend of April 1, 1989. “Cornerstone Weekend” will feature a campus-wide exhibition and open house, a parade, fireworks, tours, the continuous showing of a new Clemson film, performances, the annual Spring Game, and the replacing of the Tillman Hall cornerstone, filled with new mementos for the second century.

The Centennial is more than just a party. It’s even more than just an intellectual exercise. It’s an opportunity for all the Clemson family to celebrate together our origin, our progress so far, and the promise the future holds. If only Mr. Clemson could see what he started!
TOM HARPER is entering his eighth season as assistant head coach for the Tigers. The former Wake Forest head coach also guides the Tiger defensive line. Harper came to Clemson from Virginia Tech, where he served as defensive coordinator and defensive line coach. A native of Piqua, Ohio, Harper also served as the defensive coordinator at Iowa State (1974-75) and North Carolina (1976-77). He earned his bachelor's degree from the University of Kentucky in 1955 and, in 1958, he received a master's degree in education administration from the same institution. Harper lettered in three sports for the Wildcats and earned three letters as a tackle. His recruiting responsibilities include New York and South Carolina. Since coming to Clemson, he has overseen a defense that has had 19 players drafted by the NFL. Harper has had a hand in coaching six ACC championship teams, four at Clemson.

WAYNE BOLT is in his third year with Clemson as he joined the Tiger staff on March 10, 1986. His responsibilities include coaching the tight ends and kickoff return teams. He is also the football dorm director and does not recruit off campus. Bolt's first season as a Tiger coach saw him coach an All-ACC tight end (Jim Riggs), while his kickoff return team led the nation in average return, just the second team statistical championship in Clemson history. Bolt earned all-conference and All-America honors during his playing career as an offensive guard for East Carolina (1974-77). He began his coaching career as a graduate assistant for the Pirates. He then spent a year at Wyoming before moving on to Auburn in 1981.

JACK CROWE joined the Clemson staff on February 24, 1986, as the Tiger quarterback coach. He came to Clemson from Auburn, where he served as offensive coordinator under Pat Dye and coached Heisman Trophy winner Bo Jackson. He has also been offensive coordinator at Wyoming and North Alabama, and was both an assistant and head coach at Livingston University. Crowe received his undergraduate degree in chemistry from Alabama-Birmingham in 1970, and completed his master's degree in education from Livingston in 1973. The Fairfield, AL, native is responsible for recruiting Georgia, Virginia, Washington, DC, and Alabama.

BILL D'ANDREA rejoined the Clemson staff on June 23, 1986 after spending two seasons at Southern Mississippi. Prior to that he was a graduate assistant coach at East Carolina, a full-time assistant at the University of Virginia, Massanutten Military Academy and Catawba College. He also spent two years (1983-84) at Clemson as a graduate assistant. D'Andrea received his bachelor's degree from Indiana State in 1973, and completed his master's degree in 1975. He lacks only a few semester hours from receiving a second master's degree. He coaches the offensive tackles and recruits North Carolina, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

WOODY McCORVEY is in his sixth year on the Tiger coaching staff, where he coaches the wide receivers. For three years he coached the Tigers' tight ends, and for two of those seasons he coached the All-ACC tight end. This is his third season coaching the wide receivers. His recruiting responsibilities include eastern North Carolina, Alabama, Mississippi and Florida. McCorvey came to Clemson from Alabama A&M where he was offensive coordinator for four years. The 1972 Alabama State graduate lettered four years in football at the school before earning his physical education degree. He received a master's degree in health, leisure, and sports from the University of West Florida in 1977.

BILL OLIVER is in his third season as the defensive secondary coach. He also recruits for the Tigers in Florida, Alabama and Georgia. A native of Livingston, AL, he began his collegiate coaching career as defensive secondary coach at Auburn, and five years later was hired by the late Paul "Bear" Bryant to fill the same position at Alabama. His most recent stint prior to coming to Clemson, however, was with the Memphis Showboats of the United States Football League, where he served as senior defensive coordinator and secondary coach. Oliver was a member of the 1961 undefeated National Championship Alabama team, and he received his bachelor's degree in 1962. In the two years he has been at Clemson, the Tigers have led the ACC in completion percentage defense and fewest yards per attempt allowed.

CHUCK REEDY is in his 11th season as the Tigers' running back coach. His recruiting territory includes South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, New England and New York. The St. Augustine, FL native earned two letters in football from Appalachian State, where he was a 1971 graduate in health and physical education. He came to Clemson from Kentucky on July 5, 1978. No less than 12 former Clemson running backs who have been coached by Reedy have been drafted or signed free agent contracts. Six players he has coached have either played in the NFL or were selected in the first two rounds of the NFL draft. Seven of the top 10 single season individual rushing performances have taken place under Reedy, and seven of his former players were in the NFL last year.

LARRY VAN DER HEYDEN joined the Clemson staff on January 5, 1979. A native of Brazil, Iowa, Van Der Heyden coaches the offensive line and recruits upper South Carolina, North Carolina and western Pennsylvania. He came to Clemson after coaching stints at Memphis State, Virginia, East Carolina, Indiana State, Drake and Iowa State. He was a three-time letterwinner in football and baseball at both Moline (IL) High and at Iowa State. He earned two degrees from Iowa State, a bachelor's in physical education in 1962, and a master's in education in 1968. A member of the Big-Eight all-conference football team in 1961, he was selected to the all-time Iowa State team by former players and coaches.

TOMMY WEST is in his seventh season coaching the Clemson defensive and bandit ends. His recruiting territory includes Florida and Georgia, and he also follows junior college athletes across the country. Prior to his arrival at Clemson, West coached at Appalachian State until July of 1982. A native of Gainesville, GA, West earned his bachelor's degree in health education from the University of Tennessee in 1975 after lettering three years in football and baseball. A fine all-around athlete, West was a second-round draft pick out of high school by the Chicago Cubs.

#20 Willie Underwood set two Clemson records in one game vs. South Carolina in 1980. The senior playing in his final home game returned two interceptions for 101 yards and had 17 tackles. He was chosen Sports Illustrated Player of the Week.
Kevin Johnson has not had many practical jokes played on him in his life, but he certainly felt he was about to be victimized when he reviewed messages on his parent’s answer machine one afternoon last May. The message on the machine was from Clemson Golf Coach Larry Penley, who was telling Johnson to pack his bags for North Carolina and an exhibition with Jack Nicklaus.

“I thought Larry was playing some kind of joke on me,” said Johnson, the 1988 ACC Champion and a first-team All-American. “That is something you dream about, but never expect to realize. When I called him back I asked him why he was playing a joke on me.”

But, the call was no joke, it was the opportunity of a lifetime; a match with the greatest golfer of all-time on a course he designed. It would be comparable to going one-on-one with Larry Bird, playing tennis with Ivan Lendl or skating a line shift with Wayne Gretsky.

Come to think of it, for Kevin Johnson, it would be even better than that.

“I was one of millions of kids who grew up idolizing Jack Nicklaus. I had watched him play on television, winning the Master’s, the U.S. Open, the British Open, and now I would be playing with him! It was just too hard to believe.”

The match was devised by Nicklaus and the administration of the outstanding Nicklaus-designed Elk River Country Club in Banner Elk, NC. Each year Nicklaus holds an exhibition for the members, and a match teaming Nicklaus and North Carolina Basketball Coach Dean Smith (a solid golfer in his own right) against two top ACC players was the result for 1988.

Johnson was selected along with Barry Fabian of Wake Forest, the number-14 finisher in the 1988 NCAA tournament.
Johnson was ACC Champion, second-team All-American and the defending U.S. Publinx Champion.

To even things up a bit, Coach Smith was given one stroke on five holes, but after the first hole of the match it appeared this would be an unfair advantage. Smith, the winningest basketball coach in ACC history, birdied the first hole to give the Nicklaus/Smith team a one-shot lead.

Johnson birdied the fourth and seventh holes and was one-under after seven. His drive on number-eight went into the water and he bogied the hole. The match came down to the ninth and final hole. The colleagues had a one-hole lead with one to play so the elder statesmen/legends had to win the last hole just to tie.

The round came down to a 12-foot putt by Johnson for birdie and a six-footer by Nicklaus, for birdie, on the par-five hole. As Johnson surveyed the shot at victory, Nicklaus playfully looked over his shoulder in an attempt to "help" him line up the putt. Johnson's shot at the game-winner was two inches short. Nicklaus then sank his putt to tie the match.

A chipoff was held to decide the match, but Johnson and Nicklaus hit their chips to precisely the same distance from the flag and the match was ruled a draw. The Elk River Country Club still donated a $500 scholarship to Clemson, Wake Forest and North Carolina in the names of the players and Dean Smith to their respective schools.

After the match the players and the media moved to Nicklaus' lavish condominium on the seventh fairway. In the relaxed atmosphere "The Golden Bear" talked about the match, his opponents and college golf in general.

"Kevin Johnson is a good, strong young golfer who should do well in the game in the future," said Nicklaus. "He really hits the ball well. It was the first time I have seen him play, but he is outstanding. I had seen Barry Fabian play before (Fabian is from Ohio) and he also has a strong future in the game."

Johnson was pleased with the way he played and the overall experience was something he will remember for a long time. "I didn't sleep too well last night and I must say I was nervous before we teed off, but once we got on the course, and I hit a couple of shots, I settled down. My first iron from the fairway went over the green. I think I would have hit anything over the green because I was so pumped up.

"Jack made it easy for us because he was so friendly and easy going. We had fun out there today."

Penley, who served as Johnson's caddie for the day, said it was a great day for Clemson golf. "This was an experience that had to help Kevin. It was a large crowd and he played well under a pressure situation. Even though it was just an exhibition, there was pressure out there just to be playing with Jack Nicklaus. It was one of the most rewarding days of my coaching career and it was especially gratifying to see Kevin play so well."

Smith, who plays to about an eight handicap, was in an unusual situation this day. "Playing with these excellent golfers reminded me of the time our basketball team played Rochester, a division III team. Before that game their players were getting our players' autographs. I was very impressed with both the college golfers. Kevin Johnson drives the ball very well. I have played with John Inman before (pro golfer from North Carolina) and Kevin hits the ball farther than John."

Nicklaus concluded the press conference and the day with his thoughts on the college game. In general Nicklaus feels the tournament structure of the game is not properly preparing college golfers for the pro tour.

"I would like to see college golf go to more of a dual-match format. We are creating conservative golfers by our tournament formats. They are not aggressive golfers today and that has hurt us in international play. I would like to see more match play with everyone playing for points toward a team victory."

"This is no knock on Kevin Johnson, but I think if he had played more medal matches he would not have left that last putt short on number-nine. That was a perfect example of what I mean."

For Johnson, he did not have much time to savor the experience. The next morning he was on a plane back to his hometown in Boston and was to tee it up in a tournament in Plymouth, MA that day.

As he met his competitors in Plymouth the usual conversation of the previous day's round came up. Johnson thought about recreating his dream of the day before for the New Englanders. But he refrained, they would not have believed it anyway.

Tiger Band

By Dave Mullaney

Today, as the Clemson University football team enters its 93rd season, the Tiger Band will pay tribute to the University’s Centennial celebration with a show that features the music of the legendary composer Irving Berlin.

This is IPTAY Day and prior to the game, the organization’s officers and board of directors will be introduced. Those being introduced are Jim Patterson, President; Eddie Dalton, Vice President; Edgar McGee, Secretary Treasurer; Buddy Putman, Bill Alexander, Lynn Campbell, Billy Fort and Thurmon McLamb, all members of IPTAY’s board of directors. Members of the student advisory board, Rich Varalla (president), Tom Merritt (vice president), and Lisa Willimon (secretary treasurer), also will be introduced.

The Tiger Band will open its pregame show by playing “Sock it to ‘em,” followed by “The Song That Shakes The Southland,” TIGER RAG! The band will then form script “Tigers” as Marshall Walker and his wife Beth dot the i in honor of IPTAY’s day. Walker is a 1941 graduate of Clemson and served as president of IPTAY (1967-68).

The pregame show continues as the Tiger Band plays “You’re a Grande Ole Flag,” and “America the Beautiful,” directed by Dr. Richard E. Goodstein and accompanied by the Clemson University Choir.

The invocation then will be offered by Campus Minister David Sinclair of the Clemson Presbyterian Church.

Directed by Dr. Bruce Cook, the Tiger Band will next play “The Star-Spangled Banner” with the ROTC presenting the colors. Then, the chorus and band will lead the Tiger faithful in the Alma Mater, directed by Dr. Mark Jessie.

Opening the halftime festivities will be “The Marching Virginians” from Virginia Tech. Directed by James Sochnski and David McKee, their last appearance in Death Valley was in 1984. Led by Drum Majors Tim Silk and Robert Craig, “The Marching Virginians” will perform a classical medley, followed by a dance feature to the music of “Da Butt,” and then an Olympic closer.

Then the Tiger Band will take to the field for its halftime show and a tribute to Clemson University in its Centennial celebration, featuring the music of Irving Berlin, who was born 100 years ago on May 11, 1888.

From the 1946 broadway show, “Annie Get Your Gun,” the Tiger Band will open its show with “There’s No Business Like Show Business.” “Alexander’s Ragtime Band” is next followed by “God Bless America,” which was popularized in 1938 by Kate Smith. Originally, however, it was written for a World War I show, “Yip, Yip, Yaphank,” performed in 1918.

And, of course, no halftime would be complete unless it concluded with Tiger Band’s salute to Tiger fans throughout the world with TIGER RAG.

Today’s halftime twirler will be sophomore Shannon Fogle from Asheville, NC. Freshmen Holly Deal (Spartanburg), Andrea Harrisberger (Pelzer) and Vickie Casseen (Middleton, MD) are the other Tiger twirlers.

Tiger Band, “The Band That Shakes The Southland,” is the official marching band of Clemson University. Widely known for its precision marching, dynamic sound and famous Clemson spirit, the band performs at all Clemson football games, at home and away. Every year it plays before hundreds of thousands of fans, and has appeared at professional football games, televised broadcasts and numerous bowl games including the Orange, Peach, Gator, Independence and Florida Citrus Bowls. The Flag Corps and Tiger Twirlers are integral parts of Tiger Band.

The Tiger Band is directed by Dr. Bruce F. Cook and his associate director, Richard E. Goodstein. Nick Peck will once again serve as announcer.

The rest of the Tiger Band staff includes drum majors Billy Baker and Deana Taylor, Commander Davie Shull, Vice Commander Eva Nance, Sergeant Major Penni Black, Supply Officer Kris Nocht, Supply Sergeants John Adams, Allen Nauright, David Jillson and Guy Meador, Librarian Chandra Davis, Assistant Librarians Billy Stein and John Ballentine, Percussion Captains Steve Hall and Joel Winchip, Flag Captains Laura Davis and Ginger Anderson, Personnel Officer Brian Guy and Paul Keisler as historian.

Cheryl Crenshaw coordinates the Flag Corps, while Richard Nichols, Pat Seitz and Elizabeth Team are with the Department of Performing Arts.

Although the Tigers have only lost once to the Gobblers since 1955, there have been a few horse shoes shod on the Clemson feet.

Like the 1955 game played in Roanoke, when Charlie Bussey threw a screen pass to Joel Wells for a 60-yard score with 4:06 left in the game and a 21-16 Tiger win.

Or, a year later at Clemson, when the Tigers trailed 7-0 at halftime, and 7-6 at the end of three quarters. The late Lowndes Shingler scored from four yards out with 4:08 to play to give Clemson its final 13-7 margin. But even after that, Coleman Glaze stopped a Gobbler drive with an interception and the Tigers ended up on the Hokie 15 at game’s end.

Again, Clemson trailed at halftime (10-7) in 1984 at Death Valley, but Ray Williams scored on a 17-yard reverse in the third quarter and Donald Igwebuike booted a 44-yard field goal in the fourth. The Tigers went on for a 17-10 win before over 77,000.

Back in Hokie territory in 1985, Clemson came close not to winning again, but once again hoarded all of the rabbit’s feet, four-leaf clovers and horse shoes in Montgomery County. The pigginess paid off, but might not have if the last load of good luck charms had failed to show up.

Clemson entered the final quarter trailing, this time 10-3.

But a 17-point fourth quarter more than made up the deficit, only because an unknown walk-on, who would become a consensus All-American two years later, was given a second chance.

Ford had gone to Blacksburg with three kickers, not having made up his mind which one he would use should the opportunity arise.

With 42 seconds left in the first half, and down 7-0, Ford pointed to David Treadwell.

Treadwell?

This guy hadn’t kicked a football in competition since he was 10-years-old. Some skeptics probably thought Ford didn’t have both oars in the water. But the line of scrimmage was the 14, which was almost a gimme, and Treadwell made the 31-yarder.

Things got almost too tight for a mustard seed in the last seconds of the game when Treadwell was again called on to kick a field goal from 41 yards.

He missed!! There was no time showing on the clock. But alas, there was an official’s flag on the ground next to the prone Treadwell. He’d get another chance because of a roughing the kicker call. This time, his 36-yard kick barely hopped over the cross bar and Clemson was a 20-17 winner.

Unknown walk-on to instant stardom.

Before his career ended, Treadwell would win or tie five other games for Clemson in the waning moments.

Those four games give a good indication of how spine-tinging some of the Clemson-Virginia Tech games have been. But the 1980 contest here in “The Valley” was probably won because the so-called “Dooley Rule” backfired.

Earlier, while head football coach at North Carolina, Billy Dooley was the chief instigator in establishing the NCAA rule where a team could be penalized, or lose a timeout, if the crowd noise was so loud that the visiting team could not hear the quarterback’s signals at the line of scrimmage.

In the `80 game, the Tigers, for a change, had entered the fourth quarter leading, 13-7. But early in the period, following a Clemson punt, quarterback Steve Casey took the Hokies on a long drive.

A 46-yard pass to Donald Snell opened the drive. Johnnie Edmonds and Casey moved for a first down at the Clemson five where Casey immediately passed to Edmonds for a four-yard gain.

And then the fun began!! Or was it?

On second down, Casey kept for no gain. On third down, Casey kept for no gain. With a fourth and one (foot), Casey began looking to referee Bob Carpenter for help because of crowd noise interference—or so Casey said—but several times Dooley was frantically waving from the sidelines for Casey to back off from under center. Casey obliged.

Eleven times Casey turned to Carpenter after completing that four-yard pass to Edmonds, and each time Carpenter agreed the noise level was too high for play to continue.

On the 12th time Casey brought his team up to the line, he looked to Carpenter, but the referee signaled play. And this proved fatal to the Hokies.

Left tackle Wally Browne, possibly thinking play would be stopped again, relaxed his stance and dropped to one knee. Seeing this happen, Clemson’s line made contact and Virginia Tech was penalized five yards for illegal procedure. They had to settle for a field goal by Dennis Laury of 23 yards, narrowing the score to 13-10.

Those three plays on the goal line took over 17 minutes of clock time, which would probably be a NCAA record if one in that category was kept. Not before or since has a quarterback asked for relief that many times against the Tigers.

That little goal line experience just riled up the Hokies. Casey led his team back to Clemson territory, but Eddie Geathers intercepted at the five with 20 seconds left in the game to halt the final Virginia Tech drive.

It’s hard to determine how many games have been won because of crowd noise at various schools. Certainly Clemson doesn’t have a lock on crowd noise, but the Tigers have been known to make the home quarterback come off the ball on road games.

Some opponents say it’s a disadvantage to play in Memorial Stadium. This comment has always been heard in post game press conferences. But it has never been uttered in the bank deposit line after getting their check from Clemson.
We want South Carolina homeowners to know what they're in for.

Service. It starts with an expert evaluation of your insurance needs. And continues with fast, fair results if you ever need to make a claim. It's solid protection at sensible rates. It's what Allstate has stood for since we opened our first booth in Sears over a half century ago.

And now, we're in nearby neighborhood offices all across South Carolina. By being right next door, we can provide you with even better service than before.

So come on in and compare your homeowners coverage to ours. You'll be surprised how so much service can cost so little.
TEAMWORK

That's the key to reaching any goal. Finding the right combination of talent, expertise, experience and innovation, then following through until the job is done.

When United Carolina Bank decided to expand its superior Customer service style of banking in upstate South Carolina, all UCB needed was a Greenville area office.

To develop its new office, United Carolina Bank recruited Yeargin Enterprises, Inc., one of South Carolina's fastest growing General Contractors/Construction Managers.

The result! – The United Carolina Bank Building, a gleaming granite— and —glass office building staffed with friendly banking professionals located on Greenville's prestigious Pelham Road.
