CLEMSON — A ROCK SOLID TRADITION IN ITS 100TH SEASON

Today’s Features

5 Warren Forney
Warren Forney is the most decorated all-around student-athlete on the Clemson campus. This Clemson graduate student not only finds time to be a mainstay on the Clemson defensive line, but he has been cited for his work in the community.

7 Louis Solomon
Clemson’s, 1994 offensive MVP earned his degree in special education this past August. The Tiger quarterback is headed for a career in coaching and teaching. Anyone who knows Louis Solomon would be happy to have him coach or teach their child.

43 Mother of the Year
Mrs. Juanita Garrison, the mother of six Clemson graduates, is the 1995 Clemson Mother of the Year as chosen by Tiger Brotherhood.

54 Tigers in the NFL
Clemson has 21 players, including eight linebackers, on NFL rosters. The list includes nine Tigers who played on the 1990 defense that ranked number-one in the nation. Turn to page 54 for an update on the careers of Tigers in the pros.

65 Marvin Cross
Marvin Cross was one of Clemson’s two consensus All-ACC players entering the 1995 season. But, a knee injury in the preseason training camp has put his final year of eligibility in limbo. But, the Clemson graduate student is facing the challenge and hopes to return to the field this year.

68 Andye McCorday
Andye McCorday is living proof that patience pays. This graduate student who is a three-time member of the ACC Academic honor roll has been a reliable special teams player for three years, but now is a starter and one of Clemson’s top defenders.

77 Clemson Swimming
Clemson had a winning season in both the men’s and women’s swimming competition last year, the first time the program could make that claim in five years. What will second-year head coach Bruce Marchionda do for an encore?

80 Managers & Trainers
A lot goes into the preparation for the athletes who compete on the gridiron every week. Clemson’s group of managers and trainers put in countless hours to make everything ready for kickoff on Saturday.

113 Clemson Golf
Clemson is the only college golf program in the nation that has won three straight NCAA Regional championships. Larry Penley’s Tigers have everyone back from last year’s team, including All-American Richard Coughlan.

119 Academic Excellence
Clemson had its best ever semester in the classroom last Spring as the 18-sports had a combined GPA of 2.55. The staff at Vickery Hall continues to have a positive impact on the classroom performance of all Clemson athletes.

120 The Last Word
Obed Ariri was one of the most popular Clemson football players of the last 25 years. He certainly enhanced his image as a fan favorite when he calmly booted the winning field goal against Virginia in 1980.

1995 CLEMSON FOOTBALL
TODAY'S GAME

by Tim Bourret

Virginia has never won at Death Valley

Clemson holds a commanding 31-2-1 lead in the series with Virginia, but the series stands at 2-2-1 in the decade of the 1990s. The Cavaliers gained their first victory in the series in 1990, by a 20-7 score in Charlottesville. Clemson had won 29 straight games in the series dating back to 1955. Ironically, Clemson's first win in the series in 1955 was also by a 20-7 score. The game 40 years ago was the first meeting in the history of the series even though both teams were charter members of Southern Conference (1921) and the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association before that.

Clemson has a 17-0-1 record against Virginia in Death Valley over the years. The only tie took place in 1991, a 20-20 score at Death Valley and that is obviously the closest the Cavs have come to winning at Clemson.

Clemson has beaten a top 20 Virginia team two of the last three seasons and will be looking to make it three out of four on Saturday as the Cavs are ranked 11th in the nation. In 1992 Clemson won at #10 Virginia, 29-28, and in 1993 the Tigers defeated the #18 Cavs, 23-16. The Cavs are 5-0 entering the 1992 contest and 7-2 entering the 1993 game. Virginia won last year 9-6 in the 1,000th football game in ACC history.

The victory in 1992 was a landmark triumph for Clemson, as the Cavs overcame a 26-0 deficit to win, 29-28. A 32-yard field goal with 52 seconds left by Nelson Welch gave Clemson the victory. Louis Solomon, then a freshman, came off the bench to quarterback the Cavs to 29 points over the last 32 minutes of the game. He rushed for 116 yards in 16 attempts and scored a touchdown. It is the greatest comeback in Clemson history in terms of overcoming a deficit at any juncture of a game.

In 1993, Dexter McCleon, making his first appearance at quarterback, rushed for 127 yards in 12 attempts and scored one touchdown to lead the Tigers to the 23-14 win. McCleon's rushing total was the second highest ever for a Clemson quarterback at the time. Current N.C. State coach Mike O'Cain had 140 against N.C. State in 1976. Solomon had 159 against Wake Forest in 1994 and that is the record.

Clemson vs. Ranked Teams

Clemson will attempt to extend its streak of nine consecutive seasons of defeating at least one ranked team when the Tigers meet a top 20 AP Virginia team. Clemson has defeated at least one top 20 team every year since 1986, the second longest streak in the nation. Only Miami (FL), who has beaten at least one top 20 team every year over the last 12 seasons, has a longer streak.

Florida State, who was Clemson's last opponent in Death Valley, has a streak of eight consecutive years with a top 20 win to rank third. Colorado, Illinois, Michigan and Arizona all have had at least one top 20 win seven years in a row, while Washington, Alabama, Tennessee and Texas A&M all have a six-year streak.

Clemson defeated a 19th ranked (12th by USA Today) North Carolina team in Chapel Hill last year for its top 20 win of 1994. The 1985 season was the last year Clemson did not beat a top 20 team. That is the only season in the last 22 that Clemson has not faced a top 20 team.

Once again this week, Clemson faces a ranked opponent in the form of the Virginia Cavaliers. Virginia has won its last three games since a heart-breaking 18-17 loss at Michigan in the season opener. The Cavs have beaten William & Mary, N.C. State and Georgia Tech since the nationally televised game at Ann Arbor. Virginia is ranked in the top 15 in the country and obviously George Welsh's team certainly deserves the ranking off their early season success. They dominated Michigan for three quarters, and a win at N.C. State in the third game of the season, no easy task as Clemson will find out next week.

Tiki Barber is the top rusher with an average of 112 yards per game. Also has seven touchdowns to lead all Virginia scorers. Mike Groh, the son of former Wake Forest

1995 CLEMSON FOOTBALL
The defense at Virginia has been much improved in recent years. James Farrior is the top tackler with 41 stops. Jamie Sharper, the top returning defensive player, had 30 stops in the first three games, but did not play against Georgia Tech and might miss the Clemson game. Skeet Jones has 30 stops in four games. The Virginia defense has 22 tackles for loss in the four games thus far for four.

Clemson Offensive Improvement
Clemson is off to its best scoring start in 11 years, its second best scoring start in 45 years. The Tigers have registered 110 points through three games and only the 1984 team, which scored 118 points in the first three games, is better through 1980. Last year, Clemson had just 45 points in the first three games combined, while the 1993 team had 40 and the 1992 club scored just 60 over the first three contests. The 1950 Tiger team had 55 in the opener against Presbyterian, 34 in a win over Missouri, then 27 in a victory over N.C. State. Thus, it was a 9-0-1 record.

This is the first time since 1950 that Clemson has had at least 400 yards total offense in each of the first three games of the season. That year Clemson had 558 in the opener against Presbyterian, 525 against Missouri and 405 against N.C. State. The 1950 team did not have a 400-yard game in their fourth contest, so the 1995 Tigers can become the first team in Clemson history to have four consecutive 400-yard total offense games to open the season.

Through three games Clemson has scored 14 touchdowns, nine rushing, four passing and one by return. The Tigers actually had more yards of total offense against Florida State than against Western Carolina (422 to 428). Clemson had just 17 touchdowns all of last year, 12 rushing, four passing and one by return.

Clemson has made significant improvement in every area over last year and in comparison with recent seasons.

Priester a Workhorse vs. Demon Deacons
Raymond Priester was quite a workhorse for the Tiger offense in the 29-14 victory at Wake Forest. The sophomore had 27 carries for 154 yards in the inclement weather at Winston-Salem. That was the first time a Clemson tailback had gained that many yards since Derrick Witherspoon had 172 yards in 19 carries against Maryland in 1993.

Priester accomplished the 154 yards with remarkable consistency. He had just one run over 10 yards all night and that was a 14-yarder. The native of Allendale, SC had 19 rushes for at least five yards in the game. It was the second straight game that Priester rushed over the 100-yard mark. He had 111 yards against Florida State, and is now the first Tiger since 1992 to have consecutive 100-yard rushing games. Louis Solomon, in 1992 vs. Virginia and Duke, is the last to do it. Priester is now 35th in the nation in rushing with 108 yards per game.

Greene Sets Three Career Highs
Nealon Greene completed 18-25 for 239 yards and no interceptions at Wake Forest. He also rushed for 35 yards and thus had 274 yards of total offense. Greene established career highs in completions, passing yards and total offense. His passing yardage was only one more than a Tiger record. Patrick Sapp threw for 273 yards against Maryland in 1992. It was just the third game of at least 230 yards passing by a Clemson quarterback in the decade of the 1990s.

Winston-Salem. That was the first time a Clemson tailback had gained that many yards since Derrick Witherspoon had 172 yards in 19 carries against Maryland in 1993.

Greene Sets Three Career Highs
Nealon Greene completed 18-25 for 239 yards and no interceptions at Wake Forest. He also rushed for 35 yards and thus had 274 yards of total offense. Greene established career highs in completions, passing yards and total offense. His passing yardage was only one more than a Tiger record. Patrick Sapp threw for 273 yards against Maryland in 1992. It was just the third game of at least 230 yards passing by a Clemson quarterback in the decade of the 1990s.

His 274 yards total offense were also the most by a Tiger since Patrick Sapp had 278 yards against Maryland in 1992. His completion total was the most by a Clemson player since Sapp had 25 completions at Maryland in 1992. Greene's completion total was the second highest in Clemson history in a Tiger victory. Homer Jordan had 20 completions in a victory over Maryland in 1981.

Evans Comeback Player
Senior safety Leomont Evans has returned to his 1993 form. The native of Abbeville, SC had nine tackles at Wake Forest, more than he had all of last year and just one short of his career high for a single game. Evans missed much of last year with a headache problem that allowed him to play in just five games and 163 total plays. He made just eight tackles all year.

In 1993, the healthy Evans made 70 total tackles, including 50 first hits. He started every game that year and ranked seventh on the team in tackles. Twice that year, at North Carolina, and in the Peach Bowl against Kentucky, Evans had 10 tackles. He has just one career interception, and it was against Virginia in 1992.

This year Evans has 19 total tackles to rank third on the team. He had his first career tackle for loss at Wake Forest.
Whether you win or lose, sports teach you to come back with a better effort the next time. And that's one of the greatest victories you can achieve.

Sports also teach you teamwork, dedication and determination — values you can apply to every aspect of your life.

NationsBank truly believes in this spirit of sportsmanship. We are proud to help this spirit grow through our support of sporting events at every level of competition. And we are proud to sponsor the Clemson Tigers.

After all, sportsmanship has the power to make winners of us all. And we know of no greater victory than that.
At 6-3, 275 pounds, Warren Forney isn’t exactly someone who can walk into a room without drawing attention to himself. And that’s just the way he likes it, at least from an outsiders point of view. The graduate student, who earned his undergraduate degree in 3 1/2 years, has been in graduate school since December of ’94 — has played football for a major university — has been active in the Clemson Speaker’s Bureau — gave the invocation at Clemson’s May of 1994 Commencement Ceremonies — is in his fifth year as a reliable member of a nationally ranked defense — the list of accomplishments goes on.

When he came to Clemson expectations for Warren Forney were appreciably different from what they are today. Warren Forney has been the exception to every rule since the day he walked on to Clemson’s campus.

“When I came here, I had been through something that I didn’t understand. I was a non-qualifier on the SAT and a lot of people had written me off. That was tough. I really tried to work and I was successful,” said Forney. “I made a lot of gains, but the gains weren’t enough. I had just laid the groundwork. I didn’t want to be a statistic.”

And that philosophy (“idle minds are the playgrounds for the devil,” states Forney) is what has carried him through graduate school as a student in Human Resource and Development. Forney has been a leader in Vickery Hall’s Speakers Bureau, and has been significantly involved in educating student-athletes. He is concerned about the student body at Clemson as a whole, and is very involved in campus life.

Forney has used his status as a football player in a positive way on campus, educating and influencing, and it has been recognized by the student body and by faculty members and administrators alike. In April of 1994, Forney was awarded the Algeron Sydney Sullivan Award, honoring the “possession of such characteristics of heart, mind, and conduct as evidence a spirit of love and helpfulness to other men and women.” All Clemson students are eligible for this award, not just athletes. That says a lot about the man in Warren Forney.

And the man in Warren Forney takes his education seriously. In order to receive his graduate degree, Forney must complete a special project of his choice, relating to human resource and development. It just fits into place that he would want to help out people in the same situation he was in during 1991.

“I want to give three training sessions. One of them will give the student-athlete NCAA guidelines. I’m going to interview Steve Nelson (Assoc. AD/Compliance), Billy D’Andrea (Asst. AD/Vickery Hall) and his staff, some faculty members, and some counselors that the university provides for us, and see, from an educational standpoint, what the athletes need to know as far as degree progress and that sort of thing,” states Forney.

“Then, I want to put together a questionnaire for all sports and do that for the educational side, the NCAA guidelines and one for the services. All of that, I’ll incorporate into a training session and then have a big training session for student-athletes and tie all of those things together.”

With this type of attitude it is easy to see why Warren Forney is a team player and one of the leaders of this year’s Clemson team. He is certainly no slouch as a player, although his career stats would be much higher if he had not been beset by a knee injury in 1993. Forney has tallied over 120 tackles and has had seven sacks since he first saw action as a freshman in 1991. He is one of just two active Tigers who played during the 1991 ACC Championship season. In 1992 he ranked third on the team in tackles with 83 and started every game. But, in 1993 he suffered a knee injury that allowed him to play just two games, and he has been trying to make a comeback ever since. He also has had an elbow injury that has curbed his production.

Forney played at defensive end his first four years and is now learning a new position at middle guard. So the perspective has changed slightly for him. “Life is okay. The new position is different for me. I’m making an adjustment, I think that I’m improving more and more. At times, it may not seem like I’m improving, but the mental aspect basically is where everything begins and ends,” states Forney on his new position at middle guard. “I think physically I’m doing everything I can.”

One of his closest friends is Mike Barber, one of the three senior linebackers from last year to move onto the NFL this year. Football, in the minds of the players, is a place where lifelong friends are made, where no one except your teammates can understand what you’re going through. But it is a career of transition. No one can stop the turnover of players; graduation, injury, academics, there’s always a change. And as a player, you adjust.

“I’ve faced those changes a few times,” said Forney. “Levon Katland and Ed McDonald graduated after my first year, and then we had Wayne Simmons and Ashley Sheppard. When those guys left it was up to Tim Jones, Mike Barber, Wardell Rouse, and Darnell Stephens. So I faced it (significant change) three different times. I miss those guys because they’re great players, but it has brought about a challenge and it is good to have these challenges. Each time the adjustment seems smoother and that is something you have to deal with in life.”

Friendships are very important to Forney. And his friendships with players and peers are dominant in his life. He lives with teammate Louis Soloman and has lived with him for the past three years. During Mike Barber’s tenure with the Tigers, he was a part of the household of Louis and Warren as well. The three became good friends and enjoyed life with one another, but what was built from the friendship, time spent on the field, and from football, has been something that can’t be seen.

“Football has taught me to share. Mike Barber and I are still close and we talk about once a week. We went to Fork Union Prep together, we’ve done everything together. From high school all the way until now, we’ve been together. We played against one another in the Shrine Bowl. We went through so much together, my family and his family. We’ve developed a great bond,” says Forney.

Warren Forney is an exceptional man. Ideally, he will never stop learning and will always strive for the best in life. He has had important influences in his life, his brothers, his family, his friends and his teammates. He knows what he wants and what he wants to stay away from. And this is only the beginning. “I’m only laying the groundwork right now,” states Forney. “There’s a lot more that I want to do.”

Hardee's
Louis Solomon is a leader in many a Clemson victory, most of which have come in pressure situations. The most memorable took place in 1992, his freshman year, when the Tigers, playing at 10th-ranked Virginia, came back from a 28-0 deficit to upset the Cavs, 29-28. Solomon, came off the bench, and orchestrated Clemson's most spectacular comeback in its 100-year history.

Solomon led the offensive explosion of 29 points in the last 32 minutes with 16 rushes for 116 yards and one touchdown. He also completed five passes for 88 yards. He still remembers that game as being one of his best moments on the field as a Clemson Tiger.

"I had the opportunity to come in when we were down 28 points and then we came back to win. The feeling after the game in the locker room was unbelievable. To see how all the players came together and everyone was so happy was just a great moment. We felt confident that we could come back and we did. I think that was the greatest feeling I've ever had in sports."

Throughout his four-year career at Clemson, Solomon has been a leader of the offense. The Tigers were 3-0 in games he played in 1992, and he became the first quarterback in Clemson history to have consecutive 100-yard rushing games. He earned his first career starting job against Duke, where he led the offense with 104 yards rushing on 16 carries. In 1993 he again came off the bench to lead Clemson to 16 points in Clemson's 16-13 win over Georgia Tech, a key win that vaulted Clemson into a bowl game.

Last season Solomon was voted the team's MVP on offense. Twice he took the starting quarterback reins and engineered victories that ended losing skids. His most impressive game came against Wake Forest, where he rushed for a career high 159 yards on 17 carries and one touchdown. That rushing total was a Clemson record by a quarterback, a record previously held by current N.C. State head coach Mike O'Cain (140 yards).

Heading into his final year of eligibility, Solomon has focused his sights on making it into the post season. He views it as a forgone conclusion. "This year, more so than last year, we are looking forward to playing in the post season. We expect to be there this year, because we are a more mature and experienced football team. For myself, I want to contribute to the team anyway possible, even if that means playing at wide receiver or at quarterback."

Clemson has always had a policy of having game captains. But, it is not a coincidence that Solomon has been chosen as a captain for every game this season. "Louis Solomon is everything you want in a team player and a student-athlete," said Head Coach Tommy West. "We moved him to wide receiver in the fall to see what the freshmen could do at quarterback. Then we moved him back to quarterback the week of the first game. He never complained, he just wants to help Clemson win."

Those are certainly the accomplishments and words that describe a team leader. But, Solomon is just as successful off the field.

In the classroom, Solomon has taken his assignments in stride and kept his focus on the future. His understanding that academics are one of the most important parts of the college experience, illustrates his emphasis on building a solid base for the future. "My college career has been kind of hectic at times. Being in an education major, I have to go out to the high schools and student teach and then turn around and come back to Clemson for football practice. I enjoyed it though, because I was doing something I liked."

On May 2, 1995, Solomon was named a recipient of an Arthur Ashe Jr. Sports Scholars Award. Solomon was one of 450 men and women representing 24 intercollegiate sports recognized in Black Issues in Higher Education Magazine. The award is given to those who have achieved with distinction in respect to athletic endeavors and the classroom.

Solomon reached one of his goals last August, when he graduated with a degree in Special Education. "School was difficult at times, but I never questioned myself, I knew I was capable of doing the work. I was very happy that I accomplished a major goal in my life, getting my college degree. I think I set a trend for my brothers and sister." During the 1994-95 academic year, he made the Dean's List both semesters and had a 3.80 GPA. He was also a member of the 1994-95 ACC Academic Honor Roll, which honors student-athletes who have a cumulative 3.00 GPA for both fall and spring semesters.

Vickery Hall proved to be a helpful tool for Solomon during his collegiate career. "I think Vickery Hall is an excellent center. It gives the student-athlete the opportunity to work on computers, to work with tutors. One year I was having trouble with sociology and I got a tutor to help me out with the class. The help changed my grade from a D to a B. If a student-athlete utilizes the resources they have, then the facility can be a big help."

Solomon is now enrolled in the Clemson graduate school working towards his degree in Guidance and Counseling. His goal is to become a high school teacher and coach football. "I like to help people out, and that's why I got into teaching. Special Education kids are the ones that need the help the most. I work with emotionally handicapped kids and a lot of their problems aren't just academic, a lot are social problems, behavior problems. They need someone to talk to, someone to guide them."

The fact that Solomon is a football player, and being in the spotlight on Saturdays has been a source of strength for him when helping his students. "Being a football player was an advantage for me with the kids. They see me as a football player first and they gave me that respect right off the bat. They were curious to find out the things that we did. I kind of used that to settle them down if they ever got out of hand."

In the community, Solomon's leadership has been shared with children. Using his Special Education degree, and his role model status, Solomon has spoken to groups of underprivileged kids in the surrounding communities. His dedication to helping out children who are handicapped or have special needs, is a testament to his work habits.

"Over the summer, I worked with a group of kids on campus. I talked to them about my situation, being a student-athlete. I tried to relate my experiences to what these kids were going through and tried to show them how to deal with the ups and downs of school and life. It feels good to help out someone, especially the younger kids, because they are at the age when their beliefs and personalities are being formed."

It's good to know that a leader like Louis Solomon will be helping to educate our new leaders for years to come.

The name fits.
The Clemson family has a new leader. President Constantine "Deno" Curris became the school’s 13th president on May 22, 1995. "More than any other university with which I have been familiar, there is a deep affection for this university and for its heritage," says Dr. Curris.

That affection was an important quality that led me into the process when I was asked to be a candidate. "I have become a believer in 'learning by osmosis,' gaining a sense of place by becoming a part."

"I am most eager to absorb the Clemson atmosphere by strolling the grounds, walking through offices, visiting classrooms."

One of Dr. Curris' hobbies is gardening, growing traditional vegetables, and he has spent his career helping universities grow and prosper as well.

Before arriving at the Clemson University campus, he was president of the University of Northern Iowa for 11 years. During his tenure, Northern Iowa was the only university in Iowa to experience enrollment growth. And, with one exception, the school’s state appropriation also increased every year. The U.S. News and World Report cited UNI in 1993 as one of the best educational values among public universities. Its campus has also been ranked as the safest in the nation.

Curris assumed the Presidency of Northern Iowa in August, 1983. He became only the seventh chief executive in the school’s history. At Northern Iowa, he led the school in raising admission standards and implementing a more rigorous comprehensive general education program. He expanded Northern Iowa's reputation as an institution for teacher education, gaining national recognition for programs in business, fine arts, humanities, natural sciences, and social and behavioral sciences.

He oversaw the development of international exchange programs and cutting-edge technological efforts such as centers for waste reduction, plastics technology, small business development, applied research in metal casting, and recycling and reuse technology transfer. Curris was also the driving force behind a $25 million private fund raising drive to build a performing arts center and fund endowed chairs and professorships.

Curris also directed the completion of extensive campus improvements and building renovations.

Dr. Curris' philosophy, supported by hard work, accounts for much of his success, the belief in constant improvement-gradual sometimes, but consistent.

"The real work of a university is building quality in incremental steps," he said. "Building the quality of the experience for students, both in education and career opportunities."

Prior to assuming the Northern Iowa presidency, Curris served 10 years as president of Murray State in Kentucky. The university's 130,000 square-foot student center is named the Curris Center in his honor.

Curris received a bachelor's degree, magna cum laude in political science from Kentucky in 1962; a master's degree in political science and public administration from Illinois in 1965, and his doctorate in higher education from Kentucky in 1967.

He currently serves as chairman-elect and director of the American Association of State Colleges and Universities and is involved in a number of other professional and civic organizations.

Curris was born November 13, 1940, in Lexington, KY. He is married to Jo Hern Curris, a tax attorney. They are the parents of a son, Robert Page, and a daughter, Elena.

"What has really struck us at Clemson, is the immense loyalty that we have sensed among the Clemson family. The affection and pride that people have for the University permeates every conversation."

Tommy West was named head coach of the Clemson Tigers on November 29, 1993. Less than a month later he already had a bowl victory on his ledger, a 14-13 triumph in the Peach Bowl, Clemson's sixth bowl victory in the last eight years.

In his first full season, West guided the Tigers to a 5-6 record, and it was a season that showed week-by-week improvement. The '94 club, which featured the youngest Clemson offensive unit in 50 years, finished with a number-one ranking in turnover margin, a landmark ranking in Clemson football history. The Tigers were ranked as high as 21st in the USA Today poll, and finished the season with three wins in its last four outings, including a decisive conquest of #12 North Carolina in Chapel Hill.

West's defense ranked 14th in the nation against the run and 17th in scoring defense. The aggressive unit forced 29 turnovers and was one of the most reliable in the nation inside the redzone.

West also recruited one of the most impressive and productive freshman classes in Clemson history. Eighteen freshmen lettered in 1994, most for a Clemson rookie class since the 1940s. At times, the Tigers started seven freshmen on offense, including five first-year freshmen at the "skill positions." Last winter, he and his staff recruited a top 20 class according to most recruiting services.

West was a mainstay of a Clemson coaching staff that led the Tigers to a 69-20-4 record and six Associated Press Top 20 finishes between 1982-89.

During West's first tour of duty with the Tigers as an outside linebacker coach, Clemson played in five bowl games (winning four) and claimed four ACC Championships, including three in a row from 1986-88.

Clemson had a 44-10-1 record against ACC competition during his era on the Tiger staff, an 81 percent winning mark. Additionally, five of those Clemson teams ranked in the top 15 in the nation in rushing defense and scoring defense, and three ranked in the top 12 in the nation in total defense.

Clemson's 1989 defense ranked fifth in the nation in total defense, rushing defense and scoring defense and West's outside linebackers had a lot to do with that success. His top four outside linebackers that year all played in the NFL in 1994.

Levon Kirkland (Pittsburgh Steelers), Wayne Simmons (Green Bay Packers) and John Johnson (Cincinnati Bengals) were starters in 1994 in the NFL, and Ashley Sheppard (Minnesota Vikings) was a top reserve. Simmons was a first-round draft pick, Kirkland and Johnson second-round selections and Sheppard was a fourth-round choice.

In addition to the four players listed above, Andy Headen (New York Giants) and Terence Mack (St. Louis Cardinals) are former Tigers West helped guide to an NFL career.

West began his coaching career as a graduate assistant at Tennessee (his alma mater) in 1977. He coached one year of high school football at White County High in Sparta, TN in 1978, then became an assistant at Mississippi in 1979. For the landmark wins in school history, a 33-31 win over #1 ranked Marshall. He concluded the regular season with a 45-42 victory over Furman. Ironically, his first regular season game as Clemson coach was a victory over Furman.

With his debut in the Peach Bowl, West became the sixth coach in NCAA history to make his debut with a program in a bowl game. However, he was just the second coach in history to make his debut in a bowl game without previously coaching his new team as an assistant coach earlier in the season.

West earned three letters in his four-year career at Tennessee (1972-75). The Vols played in three bowl games and were ranked in a final Top 20 in three seasons.

He was the co-captain of Tennessee's 1975 football team and played in the Blue-Gray All-Star game that same year.

He began his college career as a running back, but saw most of his playing time as a tight end. He caught 37 passes for 575 yards in his career with the Vols, including 16 passes for 233 yards as a senior. As a junior he caught an 81-yd. pass from Condredge Holloway, still the longest non-scoring play in Tennessee history. He earned a bachelor's degree from Tennessee in 1976 and was drafted by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers that same year.

West played two years (1974-75) of baseball at Tennessee and had a career batting average of .305. He hit .367 in 1975 and was named All-SEC Eastern Division. Rick Honeycutt, now with the Oakland A's, was West's teammate on that 1975 Tennessee team that finished 32-16.

West was a multi-sport standout in high school. He was an outfielder in baseball, a guard in basketball and a running back in football. In 1972 he was named a High School All-American in football and was a fifth-round draft choice in baseball by the Chicago Cubs. Willie Randolph, who went on to an All-Star career with the New York Yankees, was one of 77 future Major League players drafted after West in the regular phase of the June 1972 draft. He played his prep football at Gainesville High in Gainesville, GA for Coach Bobby Gruhn. He was an all-state back as a junior and was also named to the All-Southern team.

Born Thomas Cleveland West on July 31, 1954, he is married to the former Lindsay Watkins of Forest City, NC. The couple has one son, Turner.
Les Herrin
Assistant Head Coach/Tackles and Tight Ends

The Clemson football program has seen a lot success during Les Herrin's tenure as an assistant coach. In 1981, Herrin arrived at Clemson as a linebacker coach, and the Tigers won the National Championship that season. In his first tour of duty with the Tigers (1981-84) Clemson had a 37-6-2 record.

After a brief stint away from Clemson at East Carolina (1985-87) and North Carolina (1988), Herrin returned to the Tiger program in 1989 as defensive line coach. In 1989 Clemson ranked fifth in the nation in scoring, rushing, and total defense. The team followed that performance with a number-one ranking in total defense in 1990, as well as second in scoring and rushing defense.

Herrin has coached several players who have had successful NFL careers. He coached 1991 ACC MVP Jeff Davis, who went on to be captain of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers and enters the Clemson Ring of Honor this year. He also tutored 1989 All-Pro Johnny Rembert (New England Patriots), who was a linebacker under Herrin's watchful eye in 1981 and 1982. Chester McGlockton, a Pro Bowl defensive lineman with the Los Angeles Raiders last year, and Pittsburgh Steelers 1994 rookie Brentson Buckner, also benefitted from Herrin's teaching.

Miles Aldridge
Co-Defensive Coordinator/Outside Linebackers

Now in his second stint at Clemson, Miles Aldridge has been affiliated with five Clemson defenses that have ranked in the top 20 in the nation in scoring and rushing defense. He first came to Clemson in 1988 as an inside linebacker coach. From 1986 thru 1989 the Tigers were ranked in the top 20 in all defensive categories, including a number-one ranking in 1988. His second tour of duty at Clemson began last year and the Tigers ranked 17th in the nation in scoring defense and 14th in rushing defense.

Clemson won three consecutive ACC titles during Aldridge’s first stay at Clemson. 1986-87 and 1988 and was ranked in the top 10 in three categories in 1980. In those years at Clemson the Tigers have won five bowl games, including victories over Penn State and Oklahoma in consecutive Citrus Bowl games in the late 1980s.

Aldridge has coached several players who have gone on to have successful pro careers. Three linebackers have gone on to the NFL, Andre Townsend (Mississippi), and Ed McDaniels. McDaniels is currently a starter for the Minnesota Vikings.

The 1971 graduate of Gardner-Webb will coach the outside linebackers this year and serve as co-defensive coordinator.

Ellis Johnson
Co-Defensive Coordinator/Defensive Line

Ellis Johnson is in his first season as a co-defensive coordinator, his first season as defensive line coach, but his second year on the Clemson staff. As outside linebacker coach last year he was a significant reason why Clemson ranked in the top 20 in the nation in scoring defense and held three ACC teams, including Florida State, to their season low in terms of scoring.

Johnson is in just his second year at Clemson, but is no stranger to the area. He attended The Citadel, but he grew up a Clemson fan. He has coached in the state at The Citadel as a graduate assistant, at Gaffney High as an assistant coach and at Spartanburg High as an assistant coach and head coach. His most successful stint in coaching so far took place in Alabama. In 1992 Johnson served an assistant coach at Alabama. The Crimson Tide established a 2-9-1 overall season and 3-4-1 in the SEC. A third-round pick, Ellis Johnson was 27th overall.

In 1993 Johnson left Alabama to coach at Ole Miss, where he led the Rebels to a 2-10 finish in SEC play.

1995 CLEMSON FOOTBALL
Clyde Christensen
Co-Offensive Coordinator/Quarterbacks

An All-American quarterback in junior college, Clyde Christensen came to Clemson after two years at Maryland. He knows the ACC well as he also played for the University of North Carolina in 1977 and 1978.

At Maryland he coached quarterbacks John Kaleo and Scott Milosevic. Kaleo ranked second in the nation in total offense as a senior, while Milosevic ranked fourth nationally in that category in 1993. Last year the Clemson team ranked first in the nation in turnover margin and committed just 12 turnovers all season. Christensen's offense at Maryland was explosive, as the Terps ranked fourth in the country in 1992 with an average of 466 yards per game, and 16th in 1993 when they averaged 440 yards per game. The Terps also ranked second in the country in passing offense in 1992 and third in passing offense in 1993.

While Christensen is in just his second year as a coach at Clemson, he has known Clemson head coach Tommy West for over 15 years. The two were graduate assistant coaches together at Mississippi in 1979. He is only 37-years-old, but already has college experience at Mississippi, East Tennessee State, and West Virginia. Christensen was a part of two successful teams at North Carolina, as the Tar Heels played in the 1977 Liberty Bowl and the 1978 Peach Bowl during his career.

Rick Stockstill
Co-Offensive Coordinator/Wide Receivers

Rick Stockstill has been around successful programs and record setting offenses his entire coaching career. In his first year as quarterback coach at Clemson (1989), the Tigers set a school record for completion percentage (60%). The Tigers led the Atlantic Coast Conference in total offense for the 1991 season, and Clemson gained the second most yards in school history in the process.

Stockstill also tutored productive offenses at Central Florida and Bethune-Cookman in his early years as a football coach. As a player, he was the starting quarterback for Florida State. He guided the Seminoles to a pair of Orange Bowl appearances, a pair of top 10 rankings, and was the team captain in 1981.

It is no surprise that Stockstill has moved up the coaching ladder so swiftly because he is the product of an athletic family. His father has been head coach at Fernandina Beach High School in Florida for many years. His brother, Jeff, was a starting wide receiver for the Tigers in 1982, a reserve on the National Championship team of 1981.

Stockstill is in his seventh year with the Clemson program and the Tigers have been to bowl games in four of the six previous seasons. He joins Les Herrin and Whitley Jordan as the only assistant coaches in Clemson history to serve under three different head coaches.

Richard Bisaccia
Running Backs/Special Teams/Recruiting Coordinator

Richard Bisaccia is a stickler for detail and one of the details he works on in practice with his players every day is holding on to the football. He taught this aspect better than any assistant coach in the country last year because the Tigers lost just two fumbles, fewest in the nation and an all-time Clemson record.

Bisaccia, a Yonkers, NY native, learned how to hold onto the football as a four-year starter and team captain at Yankton College. He was a free agent with the Philadelphia Stars of the USFL after his college career.

While the 1983 Spring season saw the end of his playing career, the 1983 fall was the beginning of his coaching career. He was named the offensive coordinator at Wayne State in Nebraska his first year out of college and he has been in college coaching ever since.

Unlike many Division I full-time assistant coaches, Bisaccia has not made a lot of moves. He spent five seasons at Wayne State, then six seasons at South Carolina. He has experience coaching on defense and offense, but will concentrate on the running backs position at Clemson.

In addition to Bisaccia's changes on the gridiron the last year, he had a family addition. In August of 1994 his wife Jeanne gave birth to their first son, Richard Oakley, and fourth child.
Charlie Harbison
Defensive Backs
First-year Clemson coach Charlie Harbison has more experience at the professional level than any other current Tiger mentor. Harbison was a starter at strong safety with the New Orleans and Boston Breakers of the USFL in 1983-84 and also signed a free agent contract with the Buffalo Bills in 1982, 1985 and 1986.

Harbison also coached on the pro level with the Raleigh-Durham Skyhawks of the World League of American Football, with the Charlotte Barons of the MLFS and with the Charlotte Rage of the Arena Football League. He has coached wide receivers, linebackers and defensive backs in his career, but has by far his most experience as a secondary coach.

He will be Clemson’s defensive backs coach in 1995, his second consecutive year as a Division I secondary coach.

In 1994 he coached the secondary at UTEP. This season he will have the opportunity to enhance the careers of a veteran secondary led by preseason All-American Brian Dawkins.

In addition to his Division I experience, Harbison also has had significant success at the NAIA level. His Gardner Webb team of 1992 had a 12-2 record and played in the NAIA Championship game.

Reggie Herring
Inside Linebackers
Reggie Herring is another example of an outstanding former player who has gone on to become an outstanding coach. A teammate of Rick Stockstill at Florida State, Herring left his own mark with the Seminoles program as a player.

Herring was captain of the 1980 Orange Bowl team and earned AP All-America honors in 1980. The Seminoles played in the Orange Bowl and ranked in the top 10 in the nation his junior and senior seasons, and he was recently inducted into the Florida State Hall of Fame. He was a three-year starter at Florida State and the Seminoles played in three bowls during his four year career. Florida State also had three double-figure victory seasons during his career.

Like many of Clemson’s assistant coaches in 1995, Herring has a diverse experience. He has been a part of successful programs at Oklahoma State, Auburn, TCU and now Clemson. He was defensive coordinator at TCU prior to coming to Clemson.

Herring has not made plans over the Christmas holidays for quite some time. He has been a part of college football as a player and coach since 1977. In those 18 seasons he has been to 13 bowl games, 10 as a coach and three as a player.

John Latina
Centers and Guards
John Latina has been an offensive coach for a Division I program every year since 1979. He had quite a task last year in that he coached Clemson’s entire offensive line. This year he will handle the centers and guards, a change that should allow him to spend more time with fewer players.

Latina showed his expertise as a teacher last year as Clemson’s youngest offensive line in 20 years improved over the course of the season, leading to victories in three of the last four games.

The Virginia Tech graduate, who once played against Clemson as an offensive guard (1978), has worked at Virginia Tech, Pittsburgh, Temple and Kansas State. During his career he has worked with Dan Marino, who led the Panthers to a 9-3 ledger and the Cotton Bowl in 1982. Paul Palmer, one of the top rushers in NCAA history with Temple, was also a member of Latina’s offense in the 1980s.

He has already coached in a bowl game with four different schools, Virginia Tech, Pittsburgh, Kansas State and Clemson. Over the five years he was with the program, Kansas State’s team in general and offense in particular, showed as much improvement as any in the country. In Latina’s second season at Kansas State as offensive line coach and running game coordinator, the Wildcats set a school record for total offense with 4,231 yards. Kansas State advanced to a bowl game in 1992, just the second bowl appearance in school history.

We handle claims around the clock.

Stuff happens. And not always between 9 and 5. Just call your Allstate Agent when it does. The Good Hands People are standing by to answer claim calls 24 hours a day, seven days a week. If your insurance can't promise this, that's a good reason to switch. Because Allstate is ready and waiting to make things right anytime of day or night. You're in good hands.

Clemson Sports Notes For 1994-95

*Clemson was one of just four schools in the nation to have its football, men's basketball and baseball teams rank in the top 25 of the USA Today polls at one time or another during the season. Clemson was ranked as high as 22nd in football, 18th in men's basketball and number-one in baseball. Five programs ended the year ranked in the top 20 in the nation.

"Five Clemson athletic teams were chosen for NCAA Tournaments, including three Spring Sports. The Baseball team was chosen for the tenth straight year, while the men's tennis team was chosen for the 14th time during Chuck Kriese's 20 years. The golf team advanced to the NCAA national tournament for the 14th consecutive year. The women's soccer and volleyball teams were also chosen for NCAA play.

Duane Ross won Clemson's only National Championship, winning the Outdoor NCAA 110 hurdles. Bob Pollock coached the men's outdoor and indoor track teams to Top 15 finishes.

Academic Achievements

*Clemson had two first-team Academic All-Americans, one in baseball and one in football. Ed Glenn was a first-team CFA All-America football player. He graduated with a 3.9 GPA in Biology and will attend Vanderbilt Med School. Junior third baseman Paul Galloway became Clemson's first first-team Academic All-American in baseball in 1995. He was also first-team All-East Regional and All-ACC Tournament for his play on the field. He has had six consecutive 4.0 semesters.

*Clemson athletes won three of the most prestigious awards granted by the Atlantic Coast Conference. Javelin thrower Jodie Phillips won the Marie James Award, which is given to a female athlete for outstanding achievement in academics and athletics. Glenn won the Weaver Award for outstanding achievement in academics and athletics, and also won the Jim Tatum Award as the top student-athlete football player in the ACC.

*The women's tennis team posted a 3.64 team GPA in the Spring semester, the highest team GPA for a semester in Clemson history. Six of the eight members of the team made the dean's list, including four with a perfect 4.0.

*All Clemson student-athletes combined for a 2.55 GPA in the Spring semester, the highest one-semester GPA in eight years. A record 20 student-athletes were on the President's List (4.0 GPA), and a record 53 were on the Dean's List for the Spring semester of 1994-95.

Coaching Accomplishments

*Women's soccer coach Tracey Leone was named Southeast Regional Coach of the Year. She led the Lady Tigers to a number-13 final ranking in the ISAA poll and 15th in the final Soccer America poll.

*Baseball Coach Jack Leggett was named ACC Coach of the Year for the second straight year. He became just the third coach in ACC history to win coach of the year honors in his first two years in the league. All three coaches who have done this are from Clemson. The others are current Clemson men's track coach Bob Pollock and former Clemson football coach Charlie Pell.

*Jolene Hoover was named ACC Volleyball Coach of the Year as she took the Lady Tigers to the NCAA Tournament for the second straight year.

*Chuck Kriese became the ACC's all-time winningest men's tennis coach with a 7-0 win over Virginia Tech on February 4. He now has 439 career victories in his 20 years as head coach.

*Larry Penley set a Clemson record for taking a team to 12 straight NCAA Tournaments and won his third straight NCAA Regional championship.

Hosts of this year’s most exciting conference action.

For a winning conference, trade show, banquet or meeting, make the handoff to Palmetto Expo Center. We’re set to tackle special events of any size or scope. Our starting lineup includes 420,000 square feet of meeting and exhibit space, an outdoor courtyard, and banquet seating and service for up to 2,500 people. To set your game plan in motion, we field special teams for catering, light and sound, and event staging. For conference action, Palmetto Expo Center is an odds-on favorite.

Textile Hall Corporation is the proud donor of the Textile Bowl Trophy, presented each year to the winner of the Clemson-North Carolina State game in honor of the textile graduates of these two fine universities.

Mrs. Juanita Garrison might be the most unusual selection as Tiger Brotherhood's Mother-of-the-Year. She is certainly qualified with six children having earned degrees from Clemson, probably a Mother-of-the-Year record. She is also the first graduate of a longtime Clemson rival to receive the award. She is a 1953 graduate of the University of Georgia.

"Although I don't qualify to sing the alma mater, Clemson has been an integral part of our family and our lives for 40 years. I wear orange!"

Juanita's Clemson graduates began with Gaye (now Gaye Garrison Sprague) in 1978. She also earned a master's in 1980. Tom Garrison III is a 1980 Clemson graduate, while Bart graduated in 1982. He was tragically killed in a farming accident in 1990 and the Clemson Foundation Office established a memorial scholarship in his name. Lee Garrison Smith graduated in 1984, then Catherine and Elizabeth earned degrees last year.

"She is a wonderful mother," said Gaye Garrison Sprague, the oldest daughter. "Because home is close to Clemson we brought over 100 friends to stay at Denver Downs the past 20 years. She always made everyone feel at home. She fed fraternity brothers, and helped make costumes for sorority skits. Mom treats everyone the same and has a great attitude about life."

Mrs. Garrison has been more than just a mother to six Clemson graduates and husband to T. Ed Garrison, a 1942 Clemson graduate and a member of the South Carolina House and Senate for 30 years. She currently writes a garden column for the Anderson Independent and has authored a book, The Piedmont Garden. Her resume also includes teaching experience at the elementary level, Pendleton High and Anderson College, where she taught a course in journalism. Garrison earned her college degree in journalism.

She also has been a PTA President, Cub Scout and Girl Scout leader, a member of the advisory board for the Clemson Botanical Gardens and a Sunday School Teacher at Welcome Baptist Church for 40 years.

Living in this community for so long, Clemson has certainly become a special place for the Garrison family. "Clemson means many things to me," said Juanita.

"Clemson is academics. When our children received their degree from Clemson, I was confident they were prepared for successful careers and life's challenges. We have enjoyed the cultural programs and especially the visiting speakers. Many years ago I participated in the adult continuing education series.

"Clemson is also a special place for me because of the extension service. Because we are a farm family, the Extension Service has been an important part of our family business. Our children were active in 4-H, producing three state winners, one national winner and a state representative. Our Master Farm Homemakers organization depends on Clemson for assistance.

"Clemson is where we go for help. As a home gardener and garden columnist, I frequently call upon the horticulture faculty for help. A most important part of Clemson for me has been to know many faculty members who taught our children. They are very special people and we have enjoyed having them in our home. Many of the friendships go back 20 years."

Those friendships and the University as a whole have certainly contributed to the quality of life in this area. "Clemson is our community. When we have guests we take them to see the University, the beautiful buildings, the stadium, the Calhoun Mansion, the President's Home. The Clemson campus is the way a college campus should be. We usually end the tour with a trip to the Trial Gardens and the ice cream sales counter."

Tiger Brotherhood has had a tradition of honoring outstanding recipients of the Clemson Mother-of-the-Year Award. Even though the group selected a graduate from one of Clemson's oldest rivals, the organization couldn't have chosen a more worthy candidate.

Juanita Garrison has had six children graduate from Clemson University.

1995 CLEMSON FOOTBALL
The legend of Death Valley continues in 1995 as 16 football games will be played on its surface. Clemson will play its normal six regular season contests, while the Carolina Panthers will play in the facility 10 times, two preseason contests and eight regular season games.

What does the NFL’s presence mean in 1995? If the stadium is good enough for the Carolina Panthers, it must be quite a facility. In fact, minimal changes have been made to make it ready for the Panthers and the National Football League.

This outstanding stadium that has kept pace with the changing world of college football has seen the Tigers run up a 53-year record of 184-67-7, including a 26-5-1 ledger over the last five seasons. Clemson had a 16-game unbeaten streak at home between 1990-92 and has a career winning ratio of 73.0 percent.

The stadium has definitely been good to the Tigers who call it home, but the stadium was constructed against the advice of at least one Clemson coach. Just before head coach Jess Neely left for Rice University after the 1939 season, he gave Clemson a message. “Don’t ever let them talk you into building a big stadium,” he said. “Put about 10,000 seats behind the Y.M.C.A. That’s all you’ll ever need.”

Instead of following Coach Neely’s advice, however, Clemson officials decided to build the new stadium in a valley on the western part of campus. The place would take some clearing—there were many trees, but luckily there were no hedges.

The crews went to work: clearing, cutting, pouring, and forming. Finally, on September 19, 1942, Clemson Memorial Stadium opened with the Tiger Football team thrashing Presbyterian College, 32-13. Those 20,000 seats installed for Opening Day would soon grow; and grow and grow.

When the original part of the stadium was built in the early 40’s, much of the work was done by scholarship athletes, including many football players. The first staking out of the stadium was done by two members of the football team, A.N. Cameron and Hugh Webb. Webb returned to Clemson years later to be an architecture professor, and Cameron went on to become a civil engineer in Louisiana.

The building of the stadium did not proceed without a few problems. One day during the clearing of the land, one young football player proudly announced that he was not allergic to poison oak. He then commenced to attack the poison oak with a swing blade, throwing the plants to and fro. The next day, however, the boy was swollen twice his size and had to be put in the hospital.

There are many other stories about the stadium including one stating that Frank Howard put a chew of tobacco in each corner of the stadium as the concrete poured.

Howard says that the seeding of the grass caused a few problems. “About 40 people and I laid sod on the field,” he says. “After three weeks, on July 15, we had only gotten halfway through.

“I told them that it had taken us three weeks to get that far, and I would give them three more week’s pay for however long it took. I also told them we would have 50 gallons of ice cream when we got through. After that it took them three days to do the rest of the field. Then we sat down in the middle of the field and ate up that whole 50 gallons.”

Howard says that on the first day of the first game in the stadium, “the gates were hung at 1:00 pm and we played at 2:00 pm.” But that would be all of the construction for a while. Then in 1958, 18,000 sideline seats were added and, in 1960, a total of 5,658 West end zone seats were added in response to increasing attendance. With the large end zone, “Green Grass” section, this expansion increased capacity to about 53,000.

Later, upper decks were added to each side of the stadium as crowds swelled—the first one in 1978 and the second in 1983. This increased capacity to over 81,473 which makes it one of the 10 largest on-campus stadiums in the country.

The effect spiraling inflation has had in this century can be dramatically seen in the differences in stadium construction. The original part of the stadium was built at a cost of $125,000 or at $6.25 a seat. The newest upper deck was finished in 1983 at a cost of $13.5 million, or $866 a seat.

Through the years, Memorial Stadium has become known as “Death Valley.” It was tagged this by the late Presbyterian coach, Lonnie McMillan. After bringing his P.C. Teams to Clemson for years and getting whipped, McMillan said the place was like Death Valley. A few years later the name stuck.

Clemson has ranked in the Top 15 in the nation in attendance for 13 straight years.

Clemson University’s commitment to provide its student-athletes with the very best of facilities is evident in many ways. From the soaring upper decks of Memorial Stadium, to the state-of-the-art strength training facility, young men and women from all 18 of Clemson’s varsity sports have the very best in facilities for training and competition. Vickery Hall is no exception, as the $3 million structure is as impressive aesthetically as any of the other facilities. But the importance of Vickery Hall to the Clemson University Athletic Department is not found in the structure itself, but in the many programs that the building houses.

Vickery Hall opened in the spring of 1991 and is the first facility in the nation originally constructed for the purposes of meeting the comprehensive needs of student-athletes. The two-story, 27,000-square-foot building is open throughout the day and into the evening to accommodate the extended schedules of student-athletes, and consolidates a variety of academic services for their use.

The Vickery Hall facility and staff ranks among the best in the nation and joined Boston College as the only two programs of its kind to become certified in 1995.

The philosophy behind Vickery Hall is to provide the Clemson student-athlete with a program that will meet his or her needs academically, in personal growth and development, and with career assistance. Vickery Hall is tangible evidence that, at Clemson, the athletic department has made a commitment to make the student-athlete’s total experience a rewarding one, even after he or she enters the professional world.

“Vickery Hall is one of the most important facilities the Clemson University Athletic Department has ever built or will ever build. It makes a philosophical statement about the institutional commitment - giving our student-athletes the same opportunity to achieve their full potential academically that we give them athletically. We’re very serious about that,” said Athletic Director Bobby Robinson.

Vickery Hall is located in the mainstream of east campus, behind Jordan Hall at the top of Bryan Mall. The main entrance to the building is a 1,570-square foot reception/office area, comprised of five advisers’ offices, two graduate student offices, and a conference room. Also located on the bottom floor is the office of Bill D’Andrea, the director of Clemson’s student-athlete enrichment program.

Vickery Hall operates under the guidelines and policies of the university and the center’s staff adheres strictly to the rules and ethical conduct standards of the university. In addition to the director, the staff also consists of six full-time advisers, two graduate assistants, and 50 tutors.

The building also boasts a 175-seat auditorium to be used for classes, team meetings, review sessions, and seminars. The various speakers and lecturers who come to work with Clemson student-athletes as part of the student-enrichment program also use this facility.

Another area of the main floor, the computer resources area, consists of a general computer tutoring room and a computer science tutoring room. The computer room contains 30 personal computers for hands-on computer tutoring, word processing and other general uses.

The 13,000-square-foot study and tutoring area on the second floor comprises the majority of the center. This area contains 28 tutorial rooms, including a large 65-seat study room and nine 20-seat study rooms, which are designed as classrooms with freestanding desks. There are 10 classrooms located on the first floor.

The facility has paid dividends. In the spring semester of 1995, Clemson student-athletes recorded a 2.55 GPA, highest on record. Eighty-three student-athletes made the ACC Academic Honor Roll in 1994-95, an all-time record. Records were also eclipsed in terms of dean’s list athletes. It is also a reason a record four Tiger football players are graduate students in 1995.

Student-Athlete Career Assistance Program

The Student-Athlete Career Assistance Program is one of the most important programs provided by the staff of Vickery Hall. The philosophy of this program is to provide student-athletes with job searching skills and strategies, internships, practicum experience as well as summer employment. These programs are designed to address specific career opportunities through a program that uses each year to gain information on the student-athlete.

By using the resources available to the University, Alumni Center and the Athletic Department, former Tiger gridder James Earle is working to establish a network of businesses, companies, and executives who will help assist with The Summer Employment Assistance Program. The program’s main goal is to provide the student-athlete with a job experience and a work history, which he or she can apply to his or her academic discipline.

The Long Term Career Assistance Program, also coordinated by Earle, will be coordinated from the academic colleges, the Placement Center, and through the Athletic Department contacts. This program is designed to better prepare the student-athlete for full-time employment and will focus on resume writing and interview techniques so that each student-athlete will be competitive and aggressive when dealing with companies who visit the Clemson campus.

Personal Growth Program

Another aspect of Clemson University’s commitment to help student-athletes reach their potential in all areas of their life - academically, athletically, and socially, is the personal growth program. This program is one of the many purposes of Vickery Hall. This particular area of student development is designed to enhance and support the lives of student-athletes during their enrollment in college as well as in their life experiences after graduation.

Ginity Porter, the Development Coordinator, and Vickery Hall staff realize that student-athletes have more obligations than a regular college student. The personal growth program seeks to eliminate some of the stresses of adjustment to the higher level of academics and athletics. It is the groups special task to assist the student-athlete by creating a finely tuned balance of all areas to ensure success in obtaining a Clemson University degree, by supporting successful athletic practice and competition, enhancing personal growth, and helping with the transition to life after college.
Death Valley. The name speaks for itself. If you want to play in this house, you better have the reputation to back it up. TORO’s 640 Series Sprinkler has been the number one choice for athletic sports fields for more than a decade. That’s a reputation built on MVP performances. If you want that kind of durability, match TORO quality products with certified contractors like Environmental Landscaping...a winning team that can handle the toughest conditions.

Tigers in the NFL

Terry Allen...Washington Redskins
First running back in NFL history to return to the league after suffering a torn ACL in each knee...in his first year with the Washington Redskins after five seasons with the Minnesota Vikings...had a successful debut with the Redskins as he rushed for 130 yards on 26 carries, the top total in the NFL in the first week of the season...ranked in the top five in the league in rushing this week...coming into the season his career rushing average of 4.4 yards per carry was fifth best among active players...had remarkable 1992 season when he rushed for 1201 yards, a Viking single season record...only the third player in Vikings history and the first since 1981 to break the 1,000-yard mark...tied the Vikings record for rushing touchdowns in a season with 13, he was third in the NFL in that category...had 15 total touchdowns to rank second in the NFL to Emmitt Smith in 1992...that is ironic because Allen's presence at Clemson in 1987 was a major factor in Smith going to Florida instead of Clemson out of high school.

Mike Barber...Seattle Seahawks
Signed free agent contract with the Seahawks this year and made the team, one of three former Tigers to make the NFL as a free agent this year...leading tackler for Seattle in the first two preseason games, it was a major reason he made the club...playing special teams so far with the Seahawks...one of three 1994 Clemson linebackers to make an NFL roster...finished second on the Seahawks in tackles with 103 in 1993...he had two sacks for 10 yard losses...finished his career with a total of 203 tackles...played in 44 games over his career...earned a 3.0 grade point average for the fall semester of 1994.

Brentson Buckner...Pittsburgh Steelers
Second-round pick of the Pittsburgh Steelers in 1994, he was the 50th pick of the entire draft, the exact same draft position of former Clemson All-Americans and All-Pro defensive back Michael Dean Perry in 1988 draft...played in 13 games and started five last season...made 18 tackles, two sacks, and 6 QB pressures...recovered a forced fumble by Greg Lloyd at Cincinnati to help preserve a 14-7 third round win over the Bengals...in 1993 he played in six games, three of them starts for the Rams...registered season-high five solo tackles versus Cleveland...first-team All-ACC for the Tigers in 1990, he was the leader of the secondary on Clemson's #1 ranked total defense that year.

Chris Gardocki...Indianapolis Colts
Entering his first season with Colts...had a 37.8-yard average last year with the Bears as a punter...he also handled the kickoff duties for the Bears...had a successful onside kick against Detroit which led to a touchdown...had 80 punts in 1993, forced 38 fair catches, best in the NFL...allowed only 22 of his 80 punts to be returned for only 115 yards, the fewest punt return yards allowed by a punter in the NFL that year...had just two touchbacks in 1993, fewest in the NFL...had nine touchbacks on kickoffs in 1993, and also had a career best 28 punts inside the 20 a year ago...completed a pass out of punt formation for the Bears in 1993...a third-round pick out of Clemson and the 78th selection overall.

Jerome Henderson...Philadelphia Eagles
A veteran of 47 NFL games with the New England Patriots and the Buffalo Bills, he is now with his third team...has spent most of his pro career as a special teams player and a reserve defensive back...saw limited action in 13 games for Buffalo in 1993 and recorded two tackles...played on special teams in the 1994 Super Bowl for the Buffalo Bills, ironically that was the only playoff game he played in that year for the Bills...started the 1993 season with the New England Patriots...played in all 32 games for the Patriots in 1991 and 1992...he started nine games in 1992...had 60 tackles, 11 passes defensed and three interceptions for the Patriots in 1992...also led the Pats in punt returns in 1991 when he had 201 yards on 27 returns, just an interception away from Warren Moon against Houston in his first NFL start in 1991...has five total interceptions and 20 passes defensed in his three-year career.

Keith Jennings...Chicago Bears
Starting tight end for the Chicago Bears in 1992, 1993 and this season...coming into this season, 19 of his 62 career receptions had come against the Green Bay Packers...had his best year in 1992 when he had 23 receptions for 264 yards...had a career high three touchdown receptions last year when he played in 12 games, one of his memorable play last year was a nine-yard touchdown reception in a playoff game at Minnesota...has started 29 games in his career entering this year...began his career in 1989 as a tight end for the Dallas Cowboys...played the 1990 season with the Montreal Machine of the WLAF.

John Johnson...New Orleans Saints
In his first year with the New Orleans Saints...had a sack and four tackles in Week II and appears to be a strong member of the New Orleans linebacker corps for this year...in 1994 he played in the first five games for Cincinnati where he registered four tackles on defense and three on special teams...started for the 49ers in 1993, and he was a prime reason 49ers advanced to the NFC Championship game...played in two NFC Championship games during his three years with the 49ers...one of three linebackers from Clemson's #1 ranked defense to start in the NFL last year...Clemson had four straight 10-2 seasons during his career, he was a team leader from that senior class that set a school record for victories.

Tracy Johnson...Seattle Seahawks
Special teams captain of the Seattle Seahawks for the 1993 and 1994 season...a 10th-round NFL draft choice (by Houston), who is now in his seventh NFL season...scored his first Seahawks touchdown in 1993 against Kansas City on a two-yard pass from Rick Mirer...played in all 16 games last year and had played in 96 straight games over his six years...heading into this season, he has never missed a pro game...has 10 career starts at fullback, including five in 1991 for the Atlanta Falcons...had 47 career carries for 182 yards and three scores and has 17 career receptions for 129 yards and two touchdowns...entering 1995...had 71 career special teams tackles entering 1995, he led the Seahawks in special teams tackles in 1992.

Levon Kirkland...Pittsburgh Steelers
Second-leading tackler for the Pittsburgh Steelers in 1994 with 100...has played in every game so far in his career in college and the pros...shared the team lead with 10 tackles against the San Francisco 49ers in his first start as a professional...led the team in tackles with 10 versus San Diego in the AFC Championship game last year...scored first career touchdown on a 16-yard fumble return against San Diego for the game's only touchdown last year...made game saving tackle at goal line on last play of a 17-14 win over New England in 1993...ranked second on the Steelers in tackles each of the last two seasons.

Kirkland is one of eight former Clemson linebackers in the NFL.

Ed McDaniel...Minnesota Vikings

Finished second on the squad with 171 tackles in 1994...had 21 total tackles for the 1993 season, then had 21 in the opening game of 1994 against Chicago...he also charged two fumbles and caused fumble that led to Minnesota's only touchdown of the opening day game...that total tied for the second highest figure for a single game in Minnesota Vikings history...he led the team in tackles for loss (13), forced fumbles (3) and led the Vikings' linebackers in sacks (2.5) in 1993...McDaniel, who earned his degree from Clemson last year, was to be the starting weakside linebacker for Minnesota in 1993, but suffered a torn tendon in his right shoulder in the opening game of the season against the Raiders.

Chester McGlockton...Los Angeles Raiders

In 1994, voted to the Pro Bowl for the first time in his young NFL career...led Raiders in sacks with 9.5 for 63.5 yards in losses...forced three fumbles and recovered one...had one of the best all-around games in the NFL by a lineman last year when he registered eight tackles, tw o sacks, three forced fumbles, one fumble recovery and had three pass deflections...had 106 tackles in 1992 and 1993 combined, the Raiders were 1-7 when McGlockton was out of the lineup due to injury and 17-9 when he was able to play...had 13 tackles and two sacks against Cincinnati in 1994, most tackles in a game for a Raider linemen in three years...started all 16 games in 1993, then broke a leg in Raiders victory over Denver in the AFC wild-card playoff game...first-round pick of the Raiders in 1992 draft.

Michael Dean Perry...Denver Broncos

Five-time NFL Pro Bowl player and three-time All-Pro performer...began his first season with the Denver Broncos after signing as a free agent...spent first seven years in the league playing for the Browns...fourth on Browns' all-time sack list with 51.5 entering this season...registered 69 stops, four sacks, and three PBUs in 1994...his best year was 1990 when he led all NFL linemen in sacks with 11.5 and had 105 tackles...had 10 career fumbles and seven fumble recoveries in his career...second-round pick of the Browns in 1988, he made the 1988 All-Rookie team...chosen to the 1992 Sporting News All-NFL team and named the 1989 UPI AFC Defensive Player-of-the-Year...offensive linemen blocking Perry were charged with holding penalties 16 times in 1989...only the second athlete anywhere in the country to have a McDonald's hamburger named after him, the MDP was served in Cleveland McDonald's Restaurants in 1991...Michael Jordan is the only other athlete to be so honored by McDonald's.

Wardell Rouse...Tampa Bay Buccaneers

Was the only Clemson player drafted in the 1995 NFL draft...he was selected in the sixth round...saw action in the first two games for Tampa Bay as an outside linebacker...one of the team's top tacklers in the preseason games...Clemson's fifth leading tackler last season with 69...second on the team in QB pressures with 18...had two caused fumbles last season...second-team All-ACC last season and third-team All-ACC in 1993...played in the Blue-Gray game, but suffered an injury.

Ashley Sheppard...Jacksonville Jaguars

In his first year with Jacksonville...had three tackles in week II against Cincinnati...claimed on waivers from Minnesota Vikings...played in 17 games in his rookie season for Vikings...made 17 special team tackles and 1.5 sacks in his career entering this year...in 1994 he saw action in seven games on special teams...in playoff game versus Chicago he made two tackles...had his first career sack against the NFL's leading passers for Jacksonville...Steve Young of the San Francisco 49ers...ranked among Clemson's top 10 players in sacks and tackles for loss...fourth round pick of the Vikings in 1993.

Wayne Simmons...Green Bay Packers

Has been hindered by injury his first two seasons, but he is a solid starter for the Packers this year...first-round draft choice of the Packers, he had made many NFL All-Rookie teams in 1993...quite an accomplishment because he suffered two injuries during his rookie season...played in 14 games and started eight contests...also started both playoff games for the Packers...finished 10th on the team with 39 tackles...had his best game of 1993 against Detroit in the playoffs when he had seven tackles...first-team All-Rookie according to Pro Football Weekly, the Pro Football Writers Associate and Football Digest...had his first career NFL interception against John Elway and Denver...slated to continue as a starting outside linebacker in 1994 for the Packers...had game deciding fumble recovery against Chicago in the second Monday Night Football game of the year.

Darnell Stephens...Tampa Bay Buccaneers

Made the Tampa Bay Buccaneers as a free agent signee...will be a prime player on special teams for the Buccaneers this year...led ACC linebackers in sacks with 8 in 1994...tied for the team lead in tackles for loss with 13...ironically he tied with current Buccaneer teammate Wardell Rouse...second on the team in first hit tackles with 57...finished third last year with 82...led the team in QB pressures with 22...had one recovered fumble and one caused fumble...selected as an honorable mention All-ACC in 1994...participated in East-West Shrine Bowl Game.

James Trapp...Los Angeles Raiders

This past summer Trapp won the NFL's Fastest Man competition...scored a touchdown off a lateral from Chester McGlockton in the preseason...played in all 16 games in 1994 and started two at corner back...one of three DBs to record a sack last season for the Raiders...recorded 29 tackles and five pass deflections in 1994...played in 14 games in his rookie year, 1993 and had two starts...had his first career interception against Cleveland when he made his first career start in the Raiders secondary...had 13 tackles from scrimmage and seven special teams stops in 1993...a third-round pick in 1993 when was the 72nd player taken overall...two-sport star at Clemson who was an All-American in track...also the ACC MVP in Outdoor Track in 1990 and 1992...member of the United States Olympic Track team that competed in Barcelona.

Curtis Whitley...Carolina Panthers

Starting center for the Carolina Panthers in their inaugural season...each of his three previous seasons in the NFL Whitley has served as the long snapper in addition to his center and special teams duties for the AFC Champion Chargers...second Clemson center to play in a Super Bowl, Jeff Bostic is the other...in San Diego Whitley provided the Panthers with the best center in the league and developed a reputation as an interior offensive lineman with potential...played in just three games in his rookie season, 1993...fourth-round selection of the Chargers in 1992, he was the 117th player chosen.

Derrick Witherspoon...Philadelphia Eagles

Signed a free agent deal with the Eagles in the spring of this year...reserve running back and special teams player for the Eagles...played in one game last season with the CFL's Shreveport Pirates after being released by the New England Patriots...as a rookie free agent last year, saw action in three preseason games...as a senior at Clemson he led the team in rushing with 519 yards and three TDs on 111 attempts, including a career-high 172 yard effort vs. Maryland.

Donnell Woolford...Chicago Bears

Second-team All-NFC by UPI and a member of the All-Madden Team in 1994...started all 16 games for the Bears for the third consecutive season last year...going into this season he is the Bears active leader for interceptions with 22, which ties for ninth in club history...had his 23rd career interception against the Packers in the second Monday Night Football Game this year...chosen for the Pro Bowl for the first time in 1993...led team in pass defenses for the second consecutive season with 21...had a career-high six passes defensed against Dallas in 1992...had two interceptions vs. Detroit in 1992...had seven interceptions for the year to lead the Bears team in 1992...had 121 passes defensed in his first six years in the NFL and has 463 career tackles...has started all 16 games played in for the Bears, 71 entering this season.
INSPIRATION FOR YOUR NEXT EVENT

Successful meetings and events need grand inspiration, and the Clyde Madren Continuing Education and Conference Center at Clemson University is truly inspiring. Set along the shores of scenic Lake Hartwell and surrounded by an 18-hole championship golf course, the Madren Center is a meeting place that promises to take you out of the ordinary. With 17,000 square feet of meeting and function space, the center provides the space and versatility to give your educational symposium, association workshop, corporate seminar or special event just what it needs. And, if nourishing the body as well as the mind is on the agenda, Seasons restaurant and Joe’s Place lounge offer something for every taste.

1995 CLEMSON FOOTBALL
HE’S NEVER TAKEN AN EXTRA POINT FOR GRANTED.

If the game is close, maybe you’ll slide to the edge of your seat as the kicker sets up for the extra point. Maybe.

But perhaps you don’t realize just how important every point is to someone like Matthew.

Matthew knows everything there is to know about child abuse. He’s seen it and he’s felt it. He is an expert at hiding in the closet, under the bed and beneath the house. But for the first time in his life, Matthew is learning what it’s like to be loved.

For every point Clemson scores this season, First Union will donate $25 to Helping Hands of Clemson, a non-profit organization of professionals and volunteers dedicated to helping and caring for a lot of children just like Matthew.

So, this year when you’re cheering for the Tigers, cheer a little louder for Matthew. Everyone at First Union will be.

If you’d like to do more than stand on the sidelines, please contact Helping Hands of Clemson at 1-803-654-6154.
Some may think the season looks bleak for Marvin Cross. However, that is not the attitude this determined, graduate student defensive end takes. During summer camp, Cross suffered an injury to a knee. While he has missed the first three games and may miss more, he is hard at work in daily rehabilitation and is on the mend.

"This injury is just a bump in the road—a minor set back. I am determined to get back and help this team. I am just going to take it one day at a time. That is the only way to approach it. I am moving step by step."

Many of the team members hold Cross in high regard and feel if anyone can return from a knee injury it is Marvin Cross. Jeff Sauve, a senior kicker, holds, "Marvin is a dedicated athlete. He knows what it takes to win and he makes other people work hard just by his example. To some of us, he is like a big brother, especially to the younger guys."

Junior cornerback, Dexter McCleod remarks, "Marvin is a leader and he guides people in the right direction—at all times. He is an impact player and everyone feels confident with him. We hope he comes back soon, because we miss and need his presence."

You could see this respect from his teammates on the day he was injured. Cross injured his knee in an August practice. "Everyone stopped," said Head Coach Tommy West. "You could see the concern from everyone on that practice field. You could see the concern and the respect his teammates have for him later that day when he came to the training room on crutches."

When Cross made his way through the corridor in the basement of the Jervey Athletic Center you would have thought a heavyweight champion had entered an arena for a fight. Cross had quite an entourage of teammates following him to see how he was doing. "You could see the respect the players have for him that day in the training room," continued West. "Marvin has been a hard worker his entire career. He is not blessed with outstanding size for his position, but he has made up for it with perseverance and intelligence. He has been a big loss to our defense."

And for this respect and concern, Cross is appreciative. Raymond White, who is playing Cross’s old position, has been a big help. "Raymond is ‘good people’ and he has been great about helping me get to treatment and to practice. He is doing a great job this year."

Cross has spent much time in rehab and at practice everyday, trying to give advice to the linemen who are spelling him while he tries to get back to a healthy state. He looks forward to returning later in the season and plans to make a major contribution to the Tiger defense. Defensive line coach Ellis Johnson states, "Marvin is a vital link in our defense. He can start on the base run front, and sub for the pass rush. He is the only starter that can do that. The players respect him as a tremendous leader. He’s a fine young man and we can’t wait to get him back on the field."

Cross was an intricate part of Clemson’s 1994 defense that ranked 14th in the nation in rushing defense and 17th in scoring defense. Despite his relatively small size for a defensive lineman (6-4 and 250 pounds), Cross led Clemson’s linemen in tackles with 64. He was a second-team all-conference selection. Early in the season he had a career high 11 tackles against Virginia, a key reason Clemson held the Cavs to a season low nine points. He was ranked as the 18th best defensive end in the nation by the 1995 Sporting News preseason magazine.

Cross did not start in 1993, but had at least one tackle in every game and had 25 stops for the season. He has played in 20 games in his career and has 93 total tackles, including 11 stops behind the line of scrimmage.

It seems long ago that Cross, a native of Durham, NC, chose Clemson over North Carolina, Wake Forest, and North Carolina State. "Clemson presented me with the opportunity academically and athletically.” Clemson had the best football program among the schools he was considering, especially when it came to linebackers, his position as a prep player.

While athletics is an integral part of his career at Clemson, he was taught at an early age that school is always a major priority. That is why he already has a degree in financial management and is pursuing a teaching certificate this year as a graduate student.

“I always wanted to play sports when I was young, but my mother always stressed academics. So it was something I learned early in life. My mother was a strict disciplinarian. She had to raise two boys, my brother Bryant and me. She instilled good morals that will carry us through life. Plus, she had a way about her that we didn’t even have the desire to be bad.”

In eighth grade, Marvin was allowed to play baseball. At Hillside High School in Durham, he finally began to play football. By his sophomore year, he experienced success as his team advanced to the playoffs as Cross teamed with a tight end named Rodney Rogers (now a star in the NBA after an All-American basketball career at Wake Forest). Cross played offensive tackle.

During Cross’s junior year, he played both defensive and offensive tackle. He made all-conference at defensive tackle. His senior year, he played offensive tackle and inside linebacker, and was selected for the Shrine Bowl, in 1990. All four years in high school, he also was a part of the track program and in 1990 he was second in the state in the discus and third in the shot.

Looking back over his entire career Cross states, "I’ve always been fortunate in that I have been around coaches and people who have given me good advice. One person I credit with good advice today is my fiancée." Titania Pickett, who also graduated last May, is Cross’s fiancée.

So, while Marvin’s senior season has been littered with unexpected crossings, his overall outlook on life is far from bleak. With one degree in hand and another on the way his future is very bright.

Marvin has had a cross to bear in his final season at Clemson.

There's a lot to know about

Clemson University
ANDY McCROREY
by Jessica Reo

Competition is innate to football players. Many of them can't live without the thought of competition, that's why they began to play football in the first place. It was a field where they could compete with one another in a level circumstance, a place where the best will succeed. For many, it is an escape from both the classroom and the daily rigors of life. But for Andy McCrorey, a graduate student on the Clemson football team, competition doesn't only take place out on the field. It takes place in the classroom as well.

With the possibility of becoming the only Clemson football player in history to be a four-time Academic All-ACC member, competition in the classroom is a daily happening. The competition is mainly within himself, striving for the best in terms of his own grades, but there is a competition with others, to do better, that is always present.

So, why then, did he take part in football, especially if grades and schooling were so important to him. Many kids have trouble handling one situation; let alone two that take up major amounts of time, especially at the high school and collegiate level.

"I was an easy pick coming out of high school, because everyone knew they didn't have to worry about my SAT scores or my grades," said McCrorey. "I had athletic ability, but they knew I'd go to class. I was sixth in my high school class. Coming out of high school I definitely wanted to continue to play football, but I was never one to think that I would go to college and play and then go pro. I never really thought of playing pro football. I just wanted to use football as a means of getting a degree. It has worked out that way for me. And that's basically all I ask from football, to help me further my education."

That is evidenced by the fact that he already has a degree in Sociology. But he hasn't left it at that. The starting inside linebacker is currently working on his graduate degree in Applied Sociology. "I'm proud that I'm in grad school and that I can look in game programs and see my name listed as GR and have everyone refer to me as a graduate student. As far as practice and playing, I don't think it's any different. I have less class stress than I had before in undergraduate classes. I don't have to take as big a load and I have a lot more free time."

A lot of that free time was gained by working toward his degree with the help of Vickery Hall, which, he feels, has been a tremendous asset to his collegiate educational experience. "If you're here and your school's paid for and you're on a scholarship, I just felt like, personally, I would be crazy not to take advantage of an opportunity to get a year of graduate school."

"If you take advantage of Vickery Hall then you will be successful at this university. You have everything you need right there at your hands. When are you going to have tutors, teachers, and counselors at your fingertips? It is a great opportunity."

But life doesn't stop with a degree. The Rock Hill, SC native knows what he wants in life, and is working hard to get there. His aspirations for a career are anything but typical. "I really would like to get into federal law enforcement. I toss and turn on whether I would like to go to law school. I would like to get a joint judicial degree and master's degree. There are a lot of schools that do that."

"I don't want to practice law, I just want that kind of background because it would help me get into federal law enforcement. I would really like to be a U.S. Marshall or in the FBI, or something of that nature. I'm going to take the LSAT (Law Scholastic Aptitude Test) this summer and then take it from there." He'd like ing staff have been supportive as well. "Knowing the faculty in the sociology department and having a positive experience with them is what set me forth to get an Applied Sociology masters degree. I had a lot of encouragement from the faculty. There's just so many faculty that have been good to me, Jim Hawtin, my statistical research methods teacher, Merv White, my faculty advisor, and Pat Smith, who always has been a positive motivator to a lot of the football players."

That has a lot to do with why he picked Clemson, because of the faculty and because it was close to home. Considering his ties to his brothers Edwin and Keonan, and his entire family, McCrorey wanted to be within driving distance. "I don't want to say my parents put pressure on me to come to Clemson, but their eyes lit up when they came on the visit with me. I wanted to stay close to my mom anyway. I don't like to be far from her. My mom has definitely kept me on track."

Because of all of the support and help from the Clemson community and what he has been a part of as a Clemson football player, McCrorey wants to continue to be a part of the university. "I've been a part of the tradition and it will keep going on. I'm going to be in the stands watching next year and I want to be an IPTAY member. I want to be involved in all of that. I definitely want to give back to Clemson. I'm just glad to be a part of the tradition here and I'm definitely going to be around to see it go on, to encourage the freshmen and to teach them how to carry it on. That's how it was passed on to me by the older players and that's what I want to do," says McCrorey.

"Andy McCrorey is everything you look for in a student-athlete," said Head Coach Tommy West. "He is one athlete I don't have to be concerned about as far as knowing his assignments and being ready to play. What he lacks in size he makes up for in intelligence and preparation. Andy is someone who knows Clemson, appreciates Clemson and will be a part of Clemson for a long time."

Tradition has become a part of life because of what Clemson has bestowed on McCrorey since the day he walked onto campus. "I can't really explain what it's like to rub the rock and run down the hill and know that you're going to play or know that people are going to be watching you. I can't really explain what it feels like. You look around and you see all these people and you just go numb. It's the greatest feeling in the world."

Support is an expectation for McCrorey, from his peers, from his family, and from Clemson. Expectations keep Andy and the McCrorey family are high and Clemson has lived up to those expectations in more ways than one.

Traditions are something that don't happen overnight, they evolve over a number of years. One tradition at Clemson that is going strong and heading into its 61st year is IPTAY. The IPTAY Scholarship Foundation, is known throughout the country for its faithful and generous contributions by its supporters. A recent USA Today article called IPTAY the best-known organization of its kind in the nation. The article noted that at a time when college athletic costs are rising IPTAY continues to lead the way in supporting athletic scholarships at Clemson. IPTAY plays a major role in ensuring that all 18 of the varsity sports at Clemson are given the maximum amount of scholarships allowed by the NCAA.

IPTAY completed another record breaking year in 1994-95 when it went over the $6 million mark for the second straight year. The total number of members reached 19,000. The Tiger Club Fund was introduced in 1993, giving Clemson fans from birth to age 22 a chance to become involved in Tiger athletics. That club is now approaching the 2,000 mark in terms of members.

Thanks to this support, Clemson enjoyed another banner year in 1994-95. Nine Clemson teams, including five spring sports, advanced to NCAA play. Clemson was one of four schools in the nation to have its football, basketball, and baseball teams ranked in the top 25 of the USA Today poll at one time or another. Clemson had four ACC Rookie-of-the-Year selections and 22 All-Americans.

IPTAY is recognized as one of the oldest, largest and most successful athletic fundraising organizations in America. IPTAY was the first athletic fundraising organization in the country to top the two, three, four, and five-million dollar marks in annual donations.

In 1934, Dr. Rupert Fike founded IPTAY with a very simple purpose in mind: IPTAY provides funds for athletic scholarships. Since 1934 IPTAY has certainly met Fike's goal, providing scholarships for over 5,000 student-athletes, trainers, and managers. IPTAY currently provides the funds for tutorial programs staffed by trained academic advisors, assisted by graduate and undergraduate students. This support is intended to ensure that all student-athletes are given the opportunity to earn their degree while participating in athletics. IPTAY donors have also played an intricate role in the "Campaign for Clemson", a long range fund-raising project of the University. The University's original goal of $62 million dollars was surpassed with the next goal of $78 million also being surpassed in the campaign that ended on June 30, 1992. IPTAY provided three million dollars with ongoing opportunities for donors to be part of the Vickery Hall Academic Learning Center.

Vickery Hall, located on East Campus, is a 27,000 square foot facility that houses the tutoring and advising programs for student-athletes. The building contains various-sized study and tutoring rooms used for individual study as well as small group instruction.

This building is a major reason Clemson student-athletes had a record 2.55 GPA in the Spring Semester of 1995. Additionally, 83 student-athletes made the ACC Academic Honor Roll, the highest figure in Clemson history. A record number of students also made the Dean's List and the President's List.

The generous support of loyal donors to IPTAY has allowed the organization to go beyond the funding of athletic scholarships by providing the financial basis for many of the unparalleled athletic facilities at Clemson.

Since 1978, IPTAY has provided the funding for $34 million of capital improvements in the area of athletics. These improvements include the expansion of the football stadium, the renovated baseball facility (Tiger Field), the outdoor track with new stadium facilities, the indoor tennis facility, the soccer stadium, the weight room, the new golf practice area, a new cross country course, the McFadden Building, and the IPTAY/Ticket office facility.

The facilities are among the best in the country, at least that must be the opinion of the NCAA. Over the last two years Clemson has hosted NCAA events in four different sports, including three in 1994-95.

IPTAY is also proud to provide the funding for Tiger Band. Each year IPTAY establishes financial support for travel, uniforms and equipment for this integral part of the Clemson athletic program.

While IPTAY is primarily concerned with athletic fundraising, the mission of Clemson University has not been overlooked. The IPTAY Academic Scholarship Fund was created to help meet the need for more academic scholarships for non-athletes who are highly qualified academically. This scholarship endowment is funded by certain company gifts that are made as a result of employee contributions to IPTAY. In addition, the athletic department has made generous contributions to the endowment from athletic revenues.

The IPTAY Academic Fund is presently the largest scholarship endowment of its kind at Clemson providing $2.3 million in funds, currently benefiting more than 60 students. IPTAY's support extends to all of the student body.

The tremendous support of IPTAY is due, in large part, to the organizational makeup that allows donors to be as close to IPTAY as they are to their local IPTAY leadership. Each of South Carolina's 46 counties has an IPTAY County chairman, and every county is allotted an IPTAY representative for every 35 donors.

One important way IPTAY keeps in touch with its membership is the annual Clemson Club meeting held in April and May of each year. These meetings, which feature different coaches and administrators are just one of the ways of making the local IPTAY members feel close to Clemson.

Clemson University will continue to be recognized and respected on the national level athletically and academically with the full support of IPTAY. IPTAY will continue to be successful because a loyal commitment to Clemson University is a way of life in the hearts of Clemson alumni and friends.

One of the factors in Dr. Denco Curris' decision to come to Clemson was the consistent love of the school expressed by Clemson graduates and IPTAY members.

Clemson Swimming

by Jamie Hill

For the 1995-96 Clemson swimming and diving teams, there is no middle ground. The coaching staff will look to a diverse group of seniors and freshmen to direct the Tigers towards an ACC Championship.

The men return nine seniors who have, at one time or another, placed in the top-16 at the conference finals. After a rather large recruiting class in 1994-95, the Tigers bring in four solid student-athletes, including William York, who will attend Clemson on a Presidential Scholarship. As a whole, the men's team has made steady improvements under second-year head coach Bruce Marchionda, as the 1995 team recorded its first winning season since 1990.

For the women, the opposite is true. Marchionda signed 14 student-athletes in the off season, which might lead some to view the 1995-96 season as a rebuilding year. Not true. The Lady Tigers gained strength from this class in the middle distance freestyle, butterfly, and diving, which will only improve their standing in the conference. The Lady Tigers turned their 1994-95 season around with a 7-5 record, which marked the first winning season since 1990.

Women

Freestyle- The Tigers return two sprinters with ACC experience. Senior Kathleen Wilcox leads the sprint contingent, having already posted times in Clemson's career top-five list. Junior Jennifer Daugherty brings solid times and experience to the 50 and 100 freestyles as well as swimming on the 200 and 400 freestyle relay teams. Coach Marchionda likes the possibilities for the sprinters. "With the return of Kathleen and Jennifer, we also are adding a lot of speed with three freshmen, Kathy Lowery, Wendy Henson, and Jennifer Zappa. With this nucleus of five sprinters, our group should be very strong and challenge at the ACC Championships." The Tigers will call on Mary K. Dahms and Sarah Borowski to move forward from the 1000 and 1650 freestyle and compete for spots in the 500 freestyle. Borowski placed fourth in the 1650 freestyle with a NCAA provisional cut (15:31.68) at the conference championships.

Backstroke- After a frustrating 1994-95 season dealing with a broken wrist, Tiffany Jones returns to lead the Tigers in the backstroke events. A season removed from two ACC individual titles, Jones has the second-best time in Clemson history in the 200 backstroke. Jones will be joined by Katarzyna Gawronska, who placed ninth in the 200 backstroke at the ACC Championships, and sophomore Stephanie Ferrence and freshman Jennifer Mooney.

Butterfly- Contrary to recent seasons, the butterfly events look to be a strong point for the Lady Tigers this season. With the addition of Marta Wlodkowska, who took fourth-place in the 200 butterfly at the 1995 ACC Championships, the butterfly core promises to be very solid. Wlodkowska will be joined by a group of fliers that we signed in the off season who have the potential to place in the conference finals. So one of our weakest events will make a turn around and become one of our strongest categories.

Breaststroke- The breaststroke event will be thin in terms of swimmers, but not in speed. The Lady Tigers return Sheila Humberstone, who notched two top-12 finishes in the 100 and 200 breaststroke at the 1995 ACC Championships, Junior Kristen Kunkle will compete for spots on the 200 and 400 medley relay teams, along with freshman Abby Cooper. "I'm looking for these three swimmers to really hold their own in the breaststroke events. We don't have much depth at the 100 and 200 breaststroke, but I'm confident these girls can compete in the ACC.'

Individual Medley- The IM events will be stacked with solid swimmers competing for a limited number of spots. Ms. Versatility, Marta Wlodkowska returns to lead the IMers. Her 400 IM rank 12th and her 200 IM ranked 35th on the IM chart. Wlodkowska is joined by juniors Tiffany Jones and Sarah Borowski, sophomore Sheila Humberstone, and freshmen Lisa Bartlett, Wendy Henson, and Stacy Finner.

Diving- Senior Megan Oakley returns to improve on her NCAA Zone Championships performance. Oakley, a top-six finisher in the one and three-meter boards at the 1995 ACC Championships, leads the deep diving crew. In recent years, the diving contingent has been shallow and lacked national experience, but with the group of freshmen coming in, the future looks bright.

Men

Freestyle- Landon Harris, normally a breaststroker, is the Tigers fastest returnee in the 50 freestyle, and will be expected to lead the sprinters. "Landon is going to have to come down from the breaststroke events and help out in the 50 and 100 freestyle.’ Last season senior Jorge Anaya posted the second-fastest time in Clemson history in the 500 freestyle (4:26.33) and fifth-best in the 200 freestyle (1:38.67), and will be used frequently in most of the middle distance events. Seniors Bryan Parker, Chris Randazzo and Tim Stormsten are joined by newcomers Matt Maurer and William York to shape the distance freestyle.

Backstroke- Senior Dan Aron returns to lead a backstroking group that lacks depth but has proven to be a solid area for the Tigers. He will be joined by sophomore P.J. Olson, who had an impressive ACC Championship with an eighth-place finish in the 100 backstroke. Freshman William York will be asked to step in and solidify the backstroke group, which will allow Bryan Parker and Tim Stormsten to concentrate on their distance freestyle events. "I'm really excited about the strength of our backstrokers this season. I believe we have the potential to place several swimmers in the top-16 at the ACC Championships."

Butterfly- Once again, the butterfly events look to be the strongest area on the men's team. "The butterfly will be our strongest and deepest event this season, with the return of seniors Jorge Anaya, Greg Monn, and sophomores John Dunham and Scott Ayer. Anaya, the leader of the group, won a Bronze medal for Mexico in the 800 freestyle relay at the 1995 Pan Am Games."

Breaststroke- Marchionda is excited about the depth and talent returning for the breaststroke events. "Our top 100 and 200 breaststroke Landon Harris, along with 200 breaststroke school record holder T.J. Fry and Chris Anderson, make up probably our next strongest event behind the butterfly. Fry, who will focus on the breaststroke and IMs, is probably the most versatile athlete on the team, because he can swim the middle and distance freestyle events along with the breaststroke and IMs.

Individual Medley- The individual medley events might have lost a little depth this season, but not speed and experience. T.J. Fry, the top returnee in the 200 and 400 individual medley, placed third in the 200 IM and fifth in the 400 IM at the ACC Championships last season, and looks to break the 200 IM school record this season. Sophomore Scott Ayer returns after having two sixth-place finishes at the conference championships as a freshman. Marchionda is very pleased with Ayer's performance to date. "Ayer had an outstanding season in the 200 IM last year and is primed to better his performance at the ACC.'

Diving- The Tigers’ return All-ACC performer Brian Haecker, who won the three-meter board at the 1995 ACC Championships. Haecker picked up where he left off at the Junior College level, by winning the three-meter championship, and looks to be one of the top divers in the conference heading into the 1995-96 season. Senior Mike Silvertooth has provided consistent performances throughout his career.

Jorge Anaya and Tiffany Jones hope to continue Clemson’s climb in swimming. The Tigers program posted its best all-around year in five seasons in 1994-95.

1995 CLEMSON FOOTBALL
A day in the life of Clemson football managers and trainers involves more hours than most people's average work day. The dedication exhibited by this group should not go unrecognized. Clemson University managers and trainers must balance a full-time course load and numerous hours in behind-the-scenes preparation for practices and game days for the Clemson Tiger football team.

As today's meeting between the Tigers and the Cavaliers kicks off, we, as Tiger fans, pay tribute to the devotion this group of students shows to Clemson University and the athletic department. One cannot possibly imagine how the Tiger football team could practice and play on Saturday afternoons without the assistance of these managers and trainers.

A significant amount of credit must be given to the supervisors of these managers and trainers. Outstanding leadership and support given by Equipment Supervisor David McClain, Associate Equipment Supervisor Brian Taylor, Head Athletic Trainer Fred Hoover, and Assistant Trainers Donna Bullock, Danny Poole, and Reno Wilson warrants tremendous gratitude from Clemson University Athletic Department, Clemson athletes, and Tiger fans.

Both trainers and managers report in the early afternoon on practice days to set up the practice fields with team equipment and medical kits. Practice responsibilities for managers range from guarding the gate, to blowing the horn in the tower, to working with designated positions. All drills performed whether it be ball, bag, or passing drills are set up by a manager.

The Tiger football team uses a phenomenal amount of equipment during practices—not to mention game days. At least 60 footballs are used during one daily practice! Needless to say, every piece must be in the correct place. There is no room for error—everything must go like clockwork to ensure a productive practice. These students know what a coach or player needs before they ask.

"The work of our student managers and trainers is very important," said Head Coach Tommy West. "With all the time constraints on our players and the limitations we have as far as practice time, it is very important that everything run on time. Our student managers and trainers do a great job in keeping everything flowing so we can keep on schedule. They put in a lot of hours and we appreciate that."

At the conclusion of practice, managers return all equipment to Jervey to be cleaned and packed again for the next day's practice. Managers then assist McClain and Taylor with the mountain of practice laundry. Over 400 bags of laundry will be washed after each practice! That averages to approximately 15 loads of 135 pounds of laundry a day. The thought must make most moms a little dizzy.

Trainers' practice responsibilities include setting up the training room for taping the night before. Another aspect of being a trainer involves early mornings. For one week intervals, one trainer runs the treatment shuttle. At 6:30 AM, a student trainer drives a shuttle over to the dorm areas and picks up athletes who require treatment. They bring these athletes to the training room in Jervey for treatment and then drive them back to the dorms. During the early afternoon, trainers tape athletes for practice and prepare fluids. This involves preparing water bottles, cups, and the automated fluid machine.

The trainer's primary task entails making sure each athlete drinks an adequate amount of fluids to prevent cramps and other injuries. This is especially critical during the preseason when August temperatures are consistently in the triple digits.

This is a high pressure job. If an athlete suffers from cramps and cannot participate, the course of the game could be changed even if it's only for one play. If an injury occurs to a player during a practice and requires an x-ray, then a trainer transports the player to receive medical attention. After the players leave the practice fields, trainers pack up medical equipment and set up the training room for the next day.

If there are any new injuries, treatments are given in the training room at Jervey Athletic Center by the trainers. Any treatments given must be recorded in the player's individual file along with any doctor's reports. The trainers must make sure each file is continually updated.

Assistant Athletic Trainer Danny Poole praises the student trainers for the job they do. "These students have a great deal of responsibility on their hands, and they handle it well. Many people don't realize the significant number of hours these students work. They also have school on top of everything they do here.*

When it comes to game days, Clemson is unique when compared to other schools. Preparation for all home games is like preparing for a road trip due to the location of Memorial Stadium in relation to the training and equipment rooms at Jervey Athletic Center. Every piece of equipment needed must be packed at Jervey and transported to Memorial Stadium on Thursdays or Fridays.

This includes football pumps, whistles, footballs, helmet hardware, shoulder pads, pants pads, uniforms, medical supplies, and any other item worn or needed by the Tigers. The managers and trainers load all of this equipment onto the Orange Express moving truck and drive over to the stadium. A long-distance truck must be used for road trips to other schools. Practically the entire equipment and training room must fit into one truck!

For road games, the long-distance truck must be packed for the trip with all equipment. The caravan leaves on Thursday nights after practice if the game site is of significant distance. Two trainers, two managers, and their supervisors leave with the fully packed truck to the game site. The following morning, both trainers and managers set up the field for that day's practice. The training room and locker rooms must also be prepared not only for Friday practice but for the game as well.

For both home and away games, managers have assignments. During pre-game warm-ups, each manager has a particular place to be stationed according to the position on the field. Each coach with a headset has a manager assigned to him to assist with cords. There are so many responsibilities it would be impossible to list them all, but a few include assisting the visiting team, working with officials, and repairing equipment.

Trainers are primarily responsible for giving fluids to athletes during the game. They also make sure that the athletes keep cool by providing cold towels for them. If any on-field injuries occur, trainers must be prepared to bring the necessary equipment onto the field when signaled by supervising athletic trainers.

Saturday mornings before home games are somewhat different for the trainers because the team stays in a hotel on Friday nights. At 7:00 AM Saturday, Poole and six trainers travel to Anderson to tape athletes for the game. At the appointed time, they board the buses with the team and return to Death Valley for the game.

After games, the managers and trainers retrieve all equipment off of the field and out of the locker and training rooms and pack the Orange Express. The move is then made back to Jervey Athletic Center where the entire weekly routine begins again in preparation for next week's game.

Head Equipment Supervisor David McClain says that all the managers take great pride in their job. "Every single thing we do the Clemson fans see. You don't really think about it. Whether it is the uniforms or the way the helmets are decorated, everyone will see it. Everything must be perfect, or they will notice."

One could never capture on paper just how much work this group does for Clemson athletes and coaches. So much has to be done behind-the-scenes that no one ever knows about. Today we honor the managers and trainers for all their hard work.

Gameday with the Managers and Trainers
7:00 AM—Six student trainers report to Holiday Inn in Anderson
8:30 AM—Student managers report to equipment room at Jervey. Trainers wake up players at Holiday Inn in Anderson.
9:00 AM—Other trainers report to training room in stadium and gather up final supplies, including X-Ray machine and plenty of oranges. Managers leave for stadium.
9:15 AM—Trainers at Holiday Inn help tape non-injured players.
9:30 AM—Managers set up Clemson sidelines and put player jerseys over the shoulder pads. Trainers set up training room in the stadium.
10:00 AM—Managers help opponent managers set up visiting sideline. Trainers make sure visiting locker room and officials have everything they need.
10:15 AM—Managers make final check of lockers in stadium.
11:15 AM—Team arrives at stadium. Managers make sure officials have everything they need.
11:30 AM—Managers distribute Gatorade and other fluids to team. Also specialty taping (injured players) is done. Managers work with players to make sure all is right with their uniforms.
1:00 PM—Kickoff. Managers available for equipment alterations. Trainers hydrate players.
4:00 PM—End of Game. Managers and trainers both pack up their equipment and clean locker room. Trainers help with postgame injuries.
5:30 PM—Trainers bring everything from stadium back to Jervey Training Room. Managers put player equipment back into lockers at Jervey and bring uniforms to washing machines in Jervey.
6:00 PM—Managers and trainers go home after a long, but fulfilling day.

Why some teams have a stronger bench than others.
The McFadden Building

The Clemson Athletic Department continued its commitment to provide its student-athletes with the best facilities when it recently completed the Banks McFadden Building at the Jervey Athletic Center. The dedication of this 20,000-square-foot facility last April was the cornerstone of the Jervey Athletic Center renovation project that will be completed in 1996. It is designed to give all Clemson gridders the most modern and comfortable facilities in the nation.

The McFadden Building houses all the coaching offices and meeting rooms for Clemson’s football team. The facility has meeting rooms for all nine position areas, so players are no longer forced to view film and discuss key strategy in a coach’s cramped office. Each meeting room is equipped with “state of the art” video equipment.

There is also an auditorium that will hold as many as 180 people and is used for team meetings and press conferences. Additionally, there are private rooms for interviews with the media, a lounge, and even a pro scout facility that allows NFL representatives to view film of current Tigers in air-conditioned comfort.

The facility will also house a trophy and memorabilia area at its entrance. Much of the area will be devoted to Banks McFadden, the former Clemson All-American and coach who perhaps had as much an impact on Clemson athletic history as anyone.

The construction of the McFadden building is one of the final stages of the overall renovation of the Jervey Athletic Center. Last summer the Tiger football team came back to a new and expanded locker room with fresh paint, new carpeting, new lockers and more space. The training room was also expanded and a player lounge area, complete with video games and televisions, was constructed. By next year the weight room below the Jervey Athletic Center will be increased in size to an incredible 14,000 square feet from its already impressive 11,000 square feet.

“The completion of the McFadden building gives us outstanding facilities in every area,” said Head Coach Tommy West. “We now have a stadium that is second to none as far as its appearance, tradition and ability to accommodate large crowds in a pleasant and unique setting. We have a new, modern and spacious locker room, team area and training facilities. And, the meeting and office areas are comfortable places to learn and work.”
What we mean by putting South Carolina first.

We founded Carolina First because, well, because we felt we had to. • South Carolina's community banks were being bought up and run to serve absentee owners. • Being South Carolinians, we didn't care to do without a strong bank dedicated to our state's well-being. Being bankers, we created this bank. • If we understand South Carolina's needs, it's because they're the needs of our own friends and neighbors. We invest in South Carolina businesses because it's good business for all concerned. After all, when our home communities grow and prosper, we grow and prosper. And because we treat our customers as the individuals they are, their good feelings spark our own. • We'd treat any customer from anywhere this way. But by design – and in conscious contrast to the multi-state megabanks – our customers are South Carolinians. So are we. Is it any wonder we put South Carolina first?

The ACC has had five bowl teams in each of the past two seasons and at least four bowl teams six years in a row.

The ACC was the only conference to have five teams ranked in both the final AP and USA Today polls in 1994.

The league had five teams with eight or more wins. Six teams, including Clemson, were ranked in the top 25 of both polls at one time or another in 1994.

Five ACC Players, including Clemson’s Ed Glenn, were named first-team Academic All-American, while five players were named first-team All-American.

The ACC is the only conference to have all of its members play in at least one bowl game over the last six years.

Nine times in the last 15 years an ACC member school has won the CFA Academic Achievement Award.

Over the last 14 years the ACC and the Big Eight have captured more college football national championships than any other conference. Clemson won the title in 1981, Georgia Tech in 1990 and Florida State in 1993.

The nine ACC schools that will take to the field this fall have produced 304 first or second-team gridiron All-Americans and 47 first-team Academic All-Americans. ACC teams have had 1,280 players selected in the annual NFL draft, including 81 first-round selections.

Clemson and Florida State are two of just six teams nationally who have won at least 75 percent of their games in seven of the last nine years. Clemson and Florida State are two of just four teams to win at least six bowl games since 1986.

For the fourth consecutive year the ACC drew more than 2.2 million fans. Over 51 home dates, ACC schools attracted 2,262,017 fans. ACC teams played to 88 percent of their stadium capacities. Clemson ranked 13th in the nation in average attendance, its 13th straight year in the top 15 in the nation in attendance.

If success in postseason play is a barometer of excellence, the ACC is among the best leagues in the nation. The nine ACC teams have a combined 73-62-5 record in bowl games over the years, a .540 winning percentage. That is second only to the Pac-10’s .550 success rate. Three ACC teams are among the top eight in NCAA history in terms of bowl winning percentage.

Four ACC teams are guaranteed appearing in postseason bowls this year. Five ACC teams received bowl bids in 1993 and 1994. The ACC Champion will be part of the Bowl Alliance, the #2 team will go to the Gator Bowl, the #3 team to the Peach Bowl and the #4 team to the Carquest Bowl.

ACC Football teams made 26 appearances on National Television in 1994.

The ACC won three national championships in 1994-95 and has now won 21 national championships in the last five years.

Four schools ranked in the top 25 of the Sears Cup for all-around excellence in athletics.

Eight ACC teams, including the Clemson baseball team, earned a number-one ranking during the course of the 1994-95 academic year.

The ACC Academic Honor Roll record was broken for the ninth straight year as 1,171 student-athletes achieved at least a 3.0 for the year in the classroom.

EMERGENCY SERVICES

The Clemson University Athletic Department provides the following for your safety and emergency medical needs:

1. Advanced cardiac life-support stations in four locations (North stands, upper North deck, South stands, Upper South deck). These units are staffed with skill-care nurses, physicians, cardiologists, internists, paramedics, and EMTs.
2. Mobile units of EMTs and paramedics are strategically located throughout the entire stadium.
3. Ambulances with life-support equipment are available in North stand and South stand areas and have prearranged routes for evacuation to local hospitals. Learn to recognize these personnel and facilities.

WHAT TO DO IF EMERGENCIES ARISE:
Please step back and give the organized EMS personnel room to work. Well-intentioned attempts to help by untrained persons interfere with the efficiency of the EMS system. If you have basic or advanced training in specific life-support methods, make your qualifications known and offer your help. Untrained personnel can frequently be more harmful than helpful.

Most emergencies occurring at the stadium result from pre-existing medical conditions. Bring your medical identification card or wear medical identification jewelry. Moderation is the key with dress, food, beverage intake, and physical exertion. The two most frequent medical problems at football games are allergic reactions to insect stings and heart attacks.

INSECT STINGS:
Common at outdoor events. Treat immediately with ice and seek medical advice. If allergic, carry a kit from your physician with you.

HOW TO RECOGNIZE A HEART ATTACK:
The symptoms of a heart attack vary, but the usual warning signs are:
1. Uncomfortable pressure, fullness, squeezing or pain in the center of your chest lasting for two minutes or more.
2. Pain spreading to the shoulders, neck, jaw, arms, or back.
3. Dizziness, fainting, sweating, nausea, and/or shortness of breath.

EXPECT A DENIAL
Frequently heart attack victims deny they are having a heart attack. The event is frightening or they don’t want the embarrassment of a false alarm. Therefore, they delay getting help by ignoring their symptoms or rationalizing, “It’s just indigestion.”

Find out what’s really wrong. Prompt response can dramatically increase chances of survival and recovery.

New therapies have been developed that can minimize heart damage and save lives if treatment begins within the first few hours of symptom onset. “Time is muscle.” Get help or get to a hospital immediately.

THE STADIUM EMERGENCY PHONE NUMBER IS (803) 656-2999.
Too much of a good thing is not always a good thing, but Clemson Golf Coach Larry Penley hopes that having too much will help his Clemson golf team win tournaments this season.

"We are going to probably have eight different guys play. It is going to be a challenge to keep everybody happy. It is going to be incredible competition for the top-five spots," said Penley.

Clemson has won only two tournaments in the last two seasons, but in PGA terms both wins would be considered majors. Clemson has won the NCAA East Regional title for three consecutive seasons and is the first school to win three straight regionals. It is the golfing equivalent of going to the NCAA basketball Final Four three consecutive seasons.

The five starters who won the 1995 East Regional are all returning, in fact the Tigers only lost one player to graduation from last season. "We are basically the same team we were last year. There are going to be a lot of players playing this fall. I don't see anyone around it. We are in this for the long haul, we are in it for the 15 tournament season. I have to get young guys some experience. I have to get them in the ball game, I have to let them know they will at least get a chance. If they take advantage of that opportunity to get into the top-five, it will be their spot to keep or give up."

Penley will look to two players to be his leaders throughout the 1995-96 campaign, fifth-year senior Mike Byce and junior Richard Coughlan. Both players were instrumental in Clemson's drive to a third straight regional title last season. Byce, a native of Spartanburg, SC, opened the tournament with a 67 and led the entire field after one round. Coughlan had a solid tournament with scores of 70, 72, and 71. Both players ended the tournament in a tie for second place at +3.

"Byce is leading by seniority and he will be one of my exempt players in the fall. We need his leadership and consistency in the lineup. He is a very consistent player, and I like that when we have as many young players as we have," Penley said of Byce.

"He is a very stable force for us and there again he leads by example. I think the younger players look up to him."

Coughlan hails from Offally, Ireland where he competed during the summer. He won the Waterford Open Invitational in Ireland this past summer along with several other semifinal and quarterfinal finishes in match play events. "He had an incredibly solid summer. He is a very special player, he continues to impress me and he continues to get better. One of these days we are going to see him bust loose and win a lot of college tournaments."

Last season for the Tigers, Coughlan was Clemson's leading player in the first six tournaments and was the top Tiger in three out of the remaining seven tournaments he participated in. He led the team in stroke average (72.66), rounds in the 60s (5), rounds under par (12), and Top-10 finishes (5). His 72.66 season stroke average was the fifth best in Clemson history.

"As a leader Richard does a good job with the younger players. Obviously they respect him. That is where leadership starts. His work habits are good. He does a good job of concentrating and playing. He works hard when we are practicing, and that shows leadership."

Another player who Penley will be looking to take his team to some championships this season will be Charles Warren. The sophomore, out of Columbia, SC, played extremely well in his freshman season. Warren finished second in the second stroke average on the team (74.18). That average was the eighth best by a freshman in Clemson history. He was the Tigers' top player at the Furman Intercollegiate, where he finished fifth overall. He had three Top-10 finishes in a productive rookie season.

Warren competed in some regional tournaments last summer and fared extremely well, including a win at the Carolina Amateur. "I thought his win at the Carolina Amateur was a pretty significant breakthrough for him. His golf game has come a long way in two years. He is just getting better and I think he is just realizing how good he can be. He needs to continue to do things mentally that are going to ensure that he continues to improve. He's got a terrific game. He played well in the South Carolina State Amateur, finishing third, and had a top-15 finish in the Southern Amateur."

Clemson also has some other players returning who will be competing for the top-five spots this season. Included in that list is senior Tommy Biershank along with Paul Dickens, Elliot Gealy, and Sean Thornton who were all tabbed as Freshmen to Watch by GolfWeek Magazine going into last season. Chad Starliper, who was a regular in the lineup, last season also returns.

"Tommy Biershank has been doing a good job in the qualifying. Paul Dickens and Sean Thornton have also shown improvement. It is going to be interesting. Last year we went through five different lineups before the ACC Tournament. That is the problem with having nine or 10 very competitive players, the lineup will fluctuate. I think by the conference championship or the second week in April hopefully everything will come out in the wash and I will have settled on the top five. That will be the top-five we will go to battle with in the post season."

In addition to the excitement of the new season Clemson will have some added excitement beginning in October with the opening of the Walker Course. The course, which has been under construction for two years, is named after Colonel John Emmett Walker, Sr. (Clemson '26), who's son Dr. John Emmett Walker, Jr. donated $1,000,000 to the course. The Mandren Center, which houses Clemson University Conference Services is already open.

"I've been real close to the construction of the Walker Course. I go over there everyday. These cool nights have been a blessing, the greens have really started to come around. I'm not saying they will be perfect putting surfaces by October 1, but there will be grass on them. The rest of the golf course is going to be in good shape, I think the members will be impressed with the fairways. The tee areas are really good. I'm excited that we are opening it, I'm ticked to death because I think it will be a great boost to our program as well as to Clemson University," Penley stated.

The 1995-96 season looks to be an exciting one for Clemson golf. Everything from returning all but one player, to opening a new golf course, to defending the NCAA East Regional title for the fourth consecutive time will make this golf season one to watch.

This weekend reunites many Clemson students with their parents for the first time in a few weeks. Without a doubt, some students are in desperate need of a little TLC from mom and dad. A reassuring hug is needed just so the students will know that someone cares.

College life takes its toll on most students in the fall. Getting back into the swing of things proves to be tough after a fun-filled, relaxing summer. Books and studies are the last things anyone wants to think about, especially when the Cavaliers meet the Tigers in Death Valley.

Many parents return to Death Valley as alumni and now are honored to watch the second and often third generation of Tigers attend Clemson University. Pride can be seen on the faces as they watch their children create memories that will last a lifetime.

Today Tiger Band highlights this reunion. As always, Tiger Band leads all Tiger faithful in celebrating 100 years of Clemson football. Pregame festivities begin with one of John Phillip Sousa’s most renowned marches, "Washington Post." The Clemson University Pershing Rifles Company C4 presents the colors on the field. Everyone then stands and joins Tiger Band to honor America in singing "God Bless America."

After the invocation, the crowd remains standing for the Pledge of Allegiance and the singing of the National Anthem conducted by Clemson University Director of Bands, Dr. Richard Goodstein. Tiger Band then invites all to sing the Clemson University Alma Mater.

Tiger Band marches to form the traditional script "Tigers" across Frank Howard Field. Everyone directs attention to the 25-yard line where Juanita Garrison, Tiger Brotherhood’s 1995 Mother of the Year, will dot the "I."

Garrison is married to T. Ed Garrison, a 1942 Clemson graduate, who served for 30 years in the South Carolina House and Senate. The proud mother of six Clemson graduates enjoys tailgating with her children and their friends on Clemson game days. Garrison has written a gardening book, The Piedmont Garden and currently writes a garden column for the Anderson Independent.

Tiger Band then strikes up "Sock It To 'Em Tiger Rag" while marching to the 25-yard end of Memorial Stadium to form the tunnel for the Tigers to run through. Fans are moments from witnessing what has been described as "the most exciting 25 seconds in college football from a color and pageantry standpoint." For the second straight home game, it will be captured by a regional television audience.

At the appointed time, the cannon fires and the Tigers invade Death Valley to meet the Cavaliers of Virginia. As Coach Tommy West leads the team down the legendary hill, no player or coach will forget to rub Howard’s Rock in hopes of gaining mystical powers.

During today’s halftime show, Tiger Band presents a musical salute to Elton John. Featured in the show will be several Elton John classics, including "Can You Feel the Love Tonight," "Made in England," "Saturday Night’s Alright," "Your Song," "Daniel," and "Don’t Let the Sun Go Down on Me." Musical selections for today’s show were arranged for Tiger Band by Steve Paffman.

This afternoon drum majors Lawanda Curry, Tracy Dean, and Susan Lark are honored for their dedication to Tiger Band. The drum majors act as field conductors during performances and field assistants to the director during rehearsals. Responsibilities include taking attendance, correcting individual errors and style problems, and assisting with the efficient teaching of drills to the band. They are really like assistant coaches for the band staff.

Curry is in her third year as a Drum Major and her fifth year as a Tiger Band member. She is a native of Hartwell, GA and a graduate of Hart County High School. Curry is a senior majoring in Parks, Recreation, Tourism Management.

A native of Loganville, GA, Dean has been a Tiger Band member for three years, two as a drum major. The graduate of South Gwinnett High School is a junior majoring in Biological Sciences/Pre-Medicine.

Lark begins her first year as Drum Major and her second as a member of Tiger Band. Lark graduated from nearby Pendleton High School in Pendleton, SC. Lark is in her sophomore year in the Nursing program.

Tiger Band extends heartfelt thanks to these members for their extra time they commit. Outstanding leadership skills are exhibited by these Clemson students. Without their guidance, performances and practices would be much more difficult.

Tiger Band staff includes Dr. Mark Hosler, Tiger Band Director, Dr. Rick Goodstein, Director of Bands, Cheryl Hosler, Flag Line Instructor, and Hazel Cartee, Twirler Instructor.

On this special weekend, we offer sincere thanks to the parents of Clemson students for the sacrifices made to enable their children to attend Clemson University. Without their dedication and support, many students would not have the privilege to attend such a fine institution. As we honor Clemson parents, let us thank Tiger Band for continuing the tradition of excellence Clemson University is known for throughout the nation. Without these dedicated band members to perform "Tiger Rag," Clemson spirit would not be quite the same.

Clemson University Alma Mater
Where the Blue Ridge yawns its greatness
Where the Tigers play
Here the sons of dear old Clemson,
Reign supreme alway.

Chorus
Dear old Clemson, we will triumph
And with all our might
That the Tigers’ roar may echo
O’er the mountain height.

Clemson had just 13 free agents make an NFL team between 1936 and 1994, then had three free agents make the league in 1995. Mike Barber, Darnell Stephens and Derrick Witherspoon all made NFL franchises in 1995 after not being drafted by an NFL team. Barber and Stephens both finished their Clemson career in 1994 and Witherspoon finished in 1993.

The most famous free agent to make the league from Clemson is Jeff Bostic, who played 14 years with the Washington Redskins and won three Super Bowl rings. Bostic and David Treadwell both went on to play in the Pro Bowl after signing as free agents. It is interesting to note that five of the 16 Tigers who have gone from free agent to the NFL have done so when signed by the Philadelphia Eagles, including Witherspoon this year.

Here is a list of Clemson players who have made it to the NFL via the free agent route.

Super Bowl Rings
A total of 14 former Clemson players have picked up 21 Super Bowl Championship rings over the years. Jeff Bostic leads the way with three Super Bowl Championship rings. He was the most recent winner, after the 1991 season. Terrence Flaggler, Dwight Clark, Bennie Cunningham, Jim Stuckey, and Charlie Waters are the former Tigers with two Super Bowl championship rings. Seven of the last 10 years Clemson has had at least one representative on the Super Bowl Championship team. Clemson has had at least one representative play in the Super Bowl 10 of the last 11 years, including last year when current Carolina Panther Curtis Whitley, was a center for the San Diego Chargers.

Mathis Inducted into Hall of Fame
And, speaking of Clemson players who have won Super Bowl rings, Bill Mathis, the first Clemson Tiger to do it, was inducted into the Georgia Hall of Fame last summer. Mathis was a member of the 1969 New York Jets team that upset the Baltimore Colts in Super Bowl III. Mathis was one of 11 inductees, and the list included former New York Met and current Cincinnati Reds coach Ray Knight.

Mathis was a star for the Tigers between 1957-59, when the Tigers had three consecutive top 20 seasons and two bowl appearances. He led the Tigers in just about every offensive category at one time or another over his career, then went on to an 11-year pro career. “Bill Mathis was one of those rare players who got better every time he put that uniform on,” said Frank Howard. “And, that includes his pro career. They don’t make them any finer.”

Former Tiger QB Ohio School Chief
Former Clemson quarterback John Goff has been named the superintendent of public instruction for the state of Ohio. The board of trustees for the board of education elected Goff unanimously.

Goff, now 57, had been the assistant superintendent since 1989 and prior to that he was head of the Kettering, OH school district in Dayton for eight years. “John Goff is a talented leader who knows the Ohio Education system inside and out,” said Virginia Purdy, president of the board.

Goff played in 14 games for Clemson as a backup quarterback between 1957-60. He completed just four passes in those games.

1995 CLEMSON FOOTBALL
ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE

by Tim Bourret

Clemson student-athletes combined for a 2.55 overall GPA for the Spring semester of the 1994-95 academic year, the highest combined GPA on record, according to the University’s Office of Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs. There were a record 20 student-athletes on the President’s List (perfect 4.0 GPA), and a record 53 on the Dean’s List (3.5 GPA or better).

Every Clemson athletic team achieved at least a 2.0 for the second semester and every team has a cumulative GPA of at least a 2.25. It was the second straight semester that all the teams had posted at least a 2.0 GPA, the first time on record that every squad had gone an entire academic year above the 2.0 GPA. A total of 114 student-athletes, plus 17 managers and seven trainers earned a 3.0 or better for the second semester.

“This report shows that we are headed in the right direction,” said David Senn, Chairman of the Clemson Athletic Council. “We are seeing continued progress and have seen it for many semesters. That is what you look for, progress and consistency. The coaching staffs have showed encouragement and support towards academic excellence. Obviously, the work at Vickery Hall has contributed to these statistics.

“The performance of the women’s tennis team particularly stood out. Their performance was certainly commendable. It was also good to see every team over a 2.0 for both semesters. We are beginning to see regularity in a number of areas.”

The women’s tennis team had a record setting performance in the classroom as Andy Johnston’s team had a 3.64 team GPA, highest in Clemson history regardless of sport. Four members of the team, Selina Dunworth, Shannon King, Emma Peetz and Melissa Odom, had a perfect 4.0, and two others, Devrin Carr and Karolina Jutkiewicz, were on the Dean’s List.

Also among the 4.0 students was Clemson starting third baseman Paul Galloway. The first-team All-ACC Tournament and All-East Regional selection had his sixth consecutive 4.0 in mechanical engineering and became Clemson’s first first-team Academic All-American in baseball. Clemson football tight end Ed Glenn was also a first-team Academic All-American this past year.

The Clemson men’s soccer team was top’s among Clemson’s male sports with a 2.87 GPA. That is the highest team GPA on record for a Clemson soccer team and the team also had 12 honor roll students, a semester high. The Women’s swimming team, which also had a 2.87 team GPA, also had a team record 12 student-athletes earn a 3.0 or better.

The Clemson football and men’s basketball teams continued to show improvement. The Tiger gridders had 15 honor roll students to tie the women’s track team for department honors. Tommy West’s team had seven players on the Dean’s List, including 1994 offensive MVP Louis Solomon, who had a perfect 4.0.

Solomon graduated in August and is one of four graduate students on the Clemson football team this fall. Andye McCrorey and Warren Forney both made the Dean’s List for the Spring semester and are already graduates. Marvin Cross, a second-team All-ACC selection last year, also is a graduate student.

The football team posted a 2.27 overall GPA, its third highest semester GPA in the last eight years, and an improvement over the 2.24 for the Fall semester. Clemson’s starting offensive line contributed to the figure as starters Ed Glenn, Will Young, Glenn Routree and Trevor Putnam, were all members of the academic honor roll.

Young was one of 15 Tiger football players on the Clemson academic honor roll last spring.
As most Death Valley residents know, the first 29 times Clemson and Virginia met in football, the Tigers came away a winner. But in the last five games, the two Atlantic Coast Conference rivals are at a standoff (2-2-1).

Former Clemson coach Frank Howard used to call Virginia "white meat" because he always considered the Cavaliers a sure win. No coach in his right mind would even utter those words today, let alone broadcast it around like Howard used to do. But, it was a different time back then.

In 1965 when Clemson went to Charlottesville to play, the Tigers went out for their usual Friday afternoon limbering up exercises. As he was walking out to join his team on the Scott Stadium turf, one of those "ole FFVs" as Howard used to refer to the Virginia fans, was up in the stands to watch the brief workout.

As Howard walked out, the fan, complete with Scottish cap and scarf and crooked-steam pipe, yelled down: "Howard we're going to get you tomorrow." Howard glanced up and not missing a step, returned the banter by saying: "That's what your grandaddy used to say, too."

The next day Virginia led at halftime, 7-0, and the teams were tied at 14-all at the end of the third period. But Clemson scored a fourth quarter touchdown and prevailed, 20-14. It led Howard to remark, "that white meat might be getting a little darker (tougher)." Howard won his final two games against the Cavaliers for a lifetime 11-0 mark with them.

But even during that 29-game winning streak against Virginia, things haven't always been easy for the Tigers. Twelve times (and three ties) Clemson trailed at halftime and at the end of the third quarter, and on eight occasions (and one tie), the Tigers had a deficit. Probably the most memorable of these was in 1966 when Clemson entered the final 15 minutes on the short end of a 35-26 score, but ended up winning, 40-35.

In 1973, Red Parker's first season as head coach, the Tigers had eked by The Citadel, Parker's old team, by two points in the opening game, and then lost consecutive games to Georgia, Georgia Tech and Texas A&M. Up to that time, Clemson had 14 straight victories over Virginia and the Cavaliers were coming to 'The Valley' next looking to end the streak.

Clemson trailed 20-18 at halftime. In the first two possessions by each team in the third period, both punted once and both missed field goals. Bill Maxwell of the Cavs sailed a punt 54 yards to Tom Marsik, who fumbled and Mike Laciak, whom the Tigers had lost in a recruiting battle with Virginia, fumbled on the ball for a touchdown. Suddenly Clemson was down nine points with 17 minutes to play.

But good fortunes turned the Tigers' way early in the fourth quarter. A Mitch Tyner punt ended the third period, and on the second play of the final stanza Kent Merritt fumbled and Frank Wise recovered at the Virginia 28. On the sixth play after the recovery Smiley Sanders went up the middle to score and Clemson now trailed by two, 27-25.

Virginia was three and out on its next two possessions. Clemson regained the ball at its own 42. On the second play of the possession, Ken Pengitore found Jim Lanzendoen for a 16-yard pass completion and Sanders took a pitch and swept right end for 13 yards. The Pengitore-to-Lanzendoen combination worked again, this time for a 29-yard touchdown with 6:44 to play.

Jimmy Ness intercepted a Scott Gardner pass, but Ken Callicutt fumbled the ball back to Virginia four plays later. The Cavaliers drove to the Clemson 17 before giving the ball up on downs and the Tigers ran the clock out for a 32-27 win.

The largest deficit Clemson ever faced entering the final period and still come out a winner was 14 points in 1980 at Charlottesville. Quentin Walker scored from five yards out on the fourth play of a 21-yard drive following an interception to give the Cavs a 24-10 lead with 1:39 left in the third period. Andy Headden brought the next kickoff back to the 12.

Arii felt no pressure prior to his game winning field goal at Virginia in 1980.

Three runs by Homer Jordan and Jeff McCall netted a first down before Jordan and Jerry Gaillard connected on a 51-yard pass play on the third quarter to last down, and this carried the Tigers to the Virginia 26. On the first play of the final period, Brendon Crite tight-roped down the left sidelines on a 26-yard scoring streak. The Tigers had gone 88 yards and just 45 seconds went off the clock.

This touchdown was followed by a series of seven punts. That sounds boring, but the last Virginia punt provided the key play of the game. Virginia was at its own 30 with Ford Mays deep for his seventh kick of the game. The Tigers put on a kamikaze rush of 10 players. Willie Underwood blocked the punt and Bill Smith scooped up the ball at the 11 and ran it in for a score. Obed Arii's extra point knotted the count. Virginia brought the next kickoff back to the 18, but was able to make only one first down before Steve Durham sacked quarterback Todd Kirtley for a 12-yard loss.

Clemson didn't fare much better after another Mays punt. Six plays netted only 18 yards and the Tigers called their last time out to set up Arii for a 52-yard field goal attempt. As Clemson lined up, Virginia asked for a time out... to let Obed think about the pending boot, which if successful, would be the Tigers' 20th straight win over the Cavaliers. Arii seemed to be enjoying the situation and was actually talking with the Virginia players during the timeout. Snap...down...kick...good...Clemson leads 27-24... six seconds remain.

But now, the Tigers were flagged 15 yards for excessive celebrating. Seems like we have heard of this before. Arii kicked off from the 25, but it went out of bounds. Arii then did it again, so he had to make a third attempt from the 15. David Hall returned to the 30 with just three seconds left. On the first play, Kirtley was intercepted, but Clemson was penalized 15 yards for a personal foul. Finally, with no time left on the clock, Kirtley's long pass fell incomplete and the Tigers had the greatest fourth quarter comeback victory in school history.

When the fourth quarter of that 1980 game had started, half of the Wahoo crowd was dancing in the aisles and the other half had gone out for more refreshments. But just wasn't Clemson's time to lose to Virginia for the first time. When quizzed about the pressure on the winning field goal, Arii said he didn't feel any pressure when Virginia called the timeout to "ice him." "That was not pressure. I call pressure when you're playing soccer for your country (Nigeria) with over 100,000 in the stands." Arii was a star on Nigeria's national team prior to coming to Clemson.

That experience certainly came in handy that afternoon in Charlottesville.
