On the Cover:

This year Clemson will honor its Centennial Team members on the cover of each program. This week we honor six Tiger greats who were natives of South Carolina. The Perry Brothers were dominant defensive linemen for the Tigers in the 1980s. In the ACC, they set the record for most sacks in a season and for most sacks in a career. They were inducted into the Clemson and South Carolina Halls of Fame. Buddy Gore was the first Clemson running back to go over 1000 yards in a season and the first Tiger to win ACC Player of the Year. Bennie Cunningham was Clemson’s first All-America running back. He went on to win two Super Bowls with the Steelers. Dents Hatcher was an All-America punter for Clemson in the 1980s and he went on to lead the NFL in net punting.

Priester Over 1000 Yards Again

Raymond Priester went over the 1,000-yard mark for the second time in his career when he gained 146 yards rushing against N.C. State last week. He is the first Clemson player in history to have a pair of 1,000-yard seasons in his career, obviously the first to do it in consecutive seasons. He went over the 1,000-yard mark for this year on a 35-yard run in the fourth quarter, his longest run of the season. Priester now has 1057 yards rushing this year after setting the Clemson single season mark last year when he gained 1322 in 12 games.

Priester, who has five 100-yard games this year and 10 for his career, needs just 193 yards rushing to become Clemson’s career rushing leader. Kenny Flowers had 2914 yards rushing for the Tigers between 1983-86. Priester now has 2722 career yards after consecutive 100-yard games. He had 122 yards rushing at Virginia in Clemson’s victory over the 15th ranked Cavaliers. Priester is also just one 100-yard game away from tying the Clemson career record of 11 set by Buddy Gore (1966-68) and Kenny Flowers (1986-86).

Thus, with 193 more yards this season, Priester will own the Clemson single game (263 vs. Duke in 1995), season (132 in 1995) and career rushing records.

Priester also showed his abilities as a receiver against N.C. State, gaining 30 yards on three receptions, for a total of 176 all-purpose running yards.

While Priester gets a lot of the credit for his rushing total, he is the first to credit his offensive line. “Reaching 1,000 yards again was as much a team goal. The offensive line took pride in it because they are just as much a part of the accomplishment as anyone, especially Jim Bundren and Glenn Rountree who have started every game in the offensive line over the last two years.”

Simmons Nearing 300 Tackles

Anthony Simmons recorded 11 tackles against N.C. State and now has had at least double figures in tackles in every game this year. He has been Clemson’s top tackler in eight of the 10 games. The N.C. State game was the 19th double figure game of his 22-game career. Simmons has 144 tackles, just six away from the total he had all of last season when he was named a third-team AP All-American. The 144 tackles already rank in seventh place on the single season tackle list and he needs just another double figure performance to make it into the top four. The single season record is 175 by Jeff Davis in 1981.

This week Simmons was named a second-team All-American by Football News. Simmons had 150 tackles to lead the Tigers last year and now has 294 tackles for his career, the same total all-time great Terry Kinard had in his four-year Clemson career as a free safety (1978-82). So, Simmons is already in the top 10 in Clemson history in total tackles and is more than halfway to Bubba Brown’s all-time total tackles record (515). He already has more tackles that former Clemson greats Levon Kirkland, Michael Dean Perry and William Perry.

Simmons is the first player in Clemson history to reach 250 tackles just 19 games into his career. Simmons averages 13.4 tackles per game for his career, ahead of the record pace of 11.2 tackles per game established by Clemson’s all-time tackle leader Bubba Brown. His 14.4 tackles per game this year is just behind the 14.58 figure by Jeff Davis in 1981.

Simmons had a career high four tackles for loss against Furman, including a pair of sacks. He now has 25 tackles for loss for his career in just 22 games. No Clemson linbacker in history has averaged a tackle for loss per game over his career.

Final Game for Clemson Seniors

Today will be the final home game for Clemson’s 13 seniors. This year’s class is composed of Andre Carter (FB, Camden, SC); Tony DeSue (OLB, Virginia Beach, VA); Kelton Dunnican (FB, Sumter, SC); Andy Ford (FB, Sumter, SC); Peter Ford (FB, Sumter, SC); Dexter Mc Cleon (CB, Meridian, MS); Brad Pope (SS, Alpharetta, GA); Chris Robbins (QB, Harrisville, SC); Hamid Salim (C, Seneca, SC); Emory Smith (FB, Pensacola, FL); Jamie Trumble (C, Ormond Beach, FL); Brett Williams (DT, Albany, GA); Joe Woods (WR, Union, SC).

This group of seniors has done an outstanding job of leadership. “This group of seniors held things together after we got off to a slow start,” said Tommy West. “This team has shown character by coming back strong and qualifying for a bowl. Few people thought we could do that earlier in the season.”

Seven of the 13 seniors are starters and all the others have provided big plays as reserves this season. Eleven of the seniors are scholarship athletes and two are walk-ons. Special mention is deserved for four-year walk-ons Hamid Salim, a reserve center who played in the victory over Maryland this year, and Chris Robbins, who has done an outstanding job as the holder this year and has appeared in three games as a wide receiver.

This senior class has been a part of three bowl teams, three top 25 teams, 29 victories overall, and a 21-11 ACC record. The last two years Clemson has finished 6-2 in the ACC, finishing third and at least a tie for second, respectively. This year’s league finish is the best since Clemson won the ACC in 1991. In fact, if a certain team in Florida had not joined the league a few years back, Clemson would have tied for the ACC title each of the last two years.

Clemson Ranked Again

Clemson's five game winning streak has brought the Tigers back into the national rankings. The Tigers are 22nd in AP and 24th in USA. Today in this week's polls, the Tigers are 25th. Clemson has been ranked since the preseason polls when Clemson was 25th in AP and 23rd in USA. Today, Clemson lost the opener against North Carolina and dropped out.

Clemson was ranked 23rd in the final regular season poll at the end of last year, when it won its last five regular season games, including a 38-17 triumph over South Carolina. Clemson has now been ranked in at least one regular season poll 11 straight years. The 1985 season was the last time Clemson was not ranked in any poll.

The Tigers are looking for a sixth straight win. That would be Clemson's longest winning streak since 1984, when it won six straight games in 1991. The Clemson record for consecutive wins is 15 between 1947-49.

Clemson-South Carolina Series

Clemson holds the all-time lead in the series with South Carolina, 55-34-4. With the fervor of the fans in this series, one would think it would be tough to gain a road win, but that has not been the case of late. Each of the last five seasons the road team has won this contest. That includes last year when Clemson won at South Carolina. This is the first time the road team has won five years in a row since 1934-40 when the Tigers won seven in a row in Columbia.

Both Clemson Coach Tommy West and South Carolina coach Brad Scott are in their third game as a head coach in this series. Each has won one game. Scott won at Clemson in 1994, 33-7. West is certainly no stranger to the series. He served as a Clemson assistant between 1982-89 and a South Carolina assistant between 1991-92. He is 7-4-1 in the series, 5-2-1 as a Clemson assistant coach, 1-1 as Clemson head coach, and 1-1 as a South Carolina assistant coach.

The Tigers have won the last four and seven of the last eight games against South Carolina in Columbia. The Tigers hold an 11-6-1 advantage in games played at Clemson over the years. South Carolina has won each of the last two at Clemson, but won just once (1984) in games played at Clemson between 1971-91. Clemson has a 44-28-3 advantage in the series, including 25-16-2 in contests at Williams Brice Stadium. The first meeting was held in 1896. Clemson's first year of football, and the Gamecocks came away with a 12-6 victory.

While South Carolina has six wins in Death Valley since the first time the two teams met here, 1960, the Gamecocks have never beaten a bowl-bound Clemson team in this stadium. South Carolina beat a 7-3 Clemson team in 1984, but the Tigers could not go to a bowl game that year. Other than that, South Carolina has never won in Death Valley against a Clemson team with a winning record. Clemson is 14-4-2 against South Carolina in seasons in which it goes to a bowl game.

South Carolina Update

The Gamecocks enter this game with a 5-5 record overall including 3-3 at home and 2-2 on the road. The total points scored for and against South Carolina are nearly even. South Carolina has been outscored 211-207 for the season. Over the last five games South Carolina has won three games and lost to a top 10 Tennessee team and number-one ranked Florida. Last Saturday they scored 25 points against the Gators, the second highest total scored on Florida all season.

South Carolina has averaged 346.7 yards per game, 165 rushing and 181 passing. The offense is led by quarterback Anthony Wright, who has completed 124-219 for 1730 yards and eight scores. Corey Bridges has been his top receiver with 28 catches for 399 yards.

The second leading receiver and leading rusher has been senior Duce Staley. The gifted running back needs just 17 yards to reach 1000 yards for the season. He has been stuck on that number for the last two games because he has not participated due to injury. Troy Hambrick is the top returner at the game.

South Carolina has been much improved defensively. They allowed over 35 points per game last year, including 36 to Clemson, but have allowed just 21 per game this year. Shane Burnham calls the signals for the Gamecocks at linebacker and has had many outstanding games this season. Terry Cousin leads the team in pass deflections from the secondary, while Arturo Freeman is the top tackler. Henry Taylor is the top player on the defensive line while Ben Washington is an all-SEC candidate at strong safety. He tallied 10 tackles against Tennessee.

Hardee's
Pensacola, Florida. What do most people think about when they hear of Pensacola? Some think of palm trees, sparkling white sandy beaches, or the rich glistening aquamarine Gulf of Mexico. Some others think of the numerous Navy or Air Force installations that surround the city. Still others think of football. Yes, football.

Sure there are other players you may have heard of from the Pensacola area, such as Derrick Brooks, Amp Lee, or that other guy, Emmitt Smith. But, the one who has helped establish the Clemson running game and success over the past four years, is Emory Smith.

When Emory came to Clemson out of Escambia High School, he did so under much speculation. There were questions about his brother, about how he would compare to his brother, about how he thought his brother would do that year. You see, when Emory came here, he did so in the shadow of his brother, but now that he is finishing up his college career, the only shadow Emory sees is his own.

After fielding the onslaught of questions about his brother, and red-shirting his freshman year, Emory finally was able to do one of the things he came here to do, to play football. And play football he has. It is actually possible to write a couple of pages on his accomplishments the last four years.

"He ran for 712 yards last year, the third highest total in a single season for a fullback in Tiger history, and that was not including his 1950. His 15 touchdown performance ties him for second place for most touchdowns in one season.

"Finished the 1995 season ranked 20th in the nation in scoring with 90 points. Last year against Wake Forest, Smith ran for four touchdowns, the most by any Tiger since 1950.

"In fact, he has scored more touchdowns in his career (25) than all but five other Clemson players in history. "His career rushing total of 1,494 stands sixth best in Clemson history among Tiger fullbacks.

"As you can see, Emory has been very successful in the Clemson offense, and purple. But before he came to Tigertown, he says he learned a lot from his family, both on and off the football field. "Growing up I learned to share a lot," says Emory. "Because I had so many brothers, I learned to consider others and not to be a selfish person." And selfish he isn't; sharp after touchdown with his Clemson teammates.

One of five children, Emory thanks his parents, Mary and Emmitt Smith, his older sister Marsha, older brother Eric, younger brother Emil, and of course Emmitt, who is five years older. "He (Emmitt) contributed a lot to my involvement in football and my desire to develop," says Emory. "Watching him be successful in football and everything that he does, I thought to myself, I want to do the same thing.

Emory wanted to be like his brother, which included teasing him, only now he teased that he was going to go out and break his records. "I wanted to do the same thing, but also I wanted to make my own name," says Emory. "I was ready to be known as Emory Smith."

Make his own name he has, after turning down Florida, Auburn, and Mississippi State, (thankfully) he chose Clemson. Along with making his own name, Emory says the advantages of the new academic enrichment center, Vicky Haile, helped him make his decision.

You might say he is a touchdown machine, but he had been long before coming to Clemson. Back when Emory was playing little league football in Pensacola, he also was a scoring machine. Playing for the Mid-Atlantic League Belleview Packers, Emory describes his most memorable sporting moment as a youth. "Because I had 12-8 in the championship game against the Cantonment Cowboys, there were eight seconds left, we had the ball on our own 40-yard line, and the coach called timeout," remembers Emory. "Coach Barnett told us that this was our last chance, he told us that I'm proud of you guys, that if you don't win I'm still proud of you guys."

The coach called a sweep right. Emory was the tailback. The quarterback pitched the ball to Emory as the seconds ticked away, and he galloped all the way, 60 yards, for the winning touchdown. "That moment still stands out in mind," exclaims Emory with a big smile. "Normally a coach would pass the ball in that situation, throw a harmless, he called a sweep right, and I broke it for a touchdown."

Then came high school in Pensacola, where Emory rushed for 1,001 yards and 13 touchdowns his senior year. He was also a force to be reckoned with on the defensive side of the ball, averaging 10 tackles per game. "I was leading in the state's Defensive Player of the Year, and a first-team all-state selection at the linebacker position."

In his first year at Clemson as a red-shirt freshman, Emory quickly gained valuable experience in practice and was the big man of the Tigers third-leading rusher in 1993 spring workouts. That spring performance was followed up by a stellar rookie year, in which he started eight games, the last three of which were his best.

Against Virginia, he had 113 yards on 18 carries and a season-high seven knockdown blocks. The next week he led all runners with 84 yards on 15 carries, helping to down South Carolina. He set his best performance for last, as he rushed eight times for 45 yards and a touchdown against Kentucky in the Peach Bowl. He also grabbed a screen pass from Patrick Sapp and rumbled 57 yards to help set the winning touchdown. He was named the offensive MVP for the 1993 Peach Bowl for his efforts, and paved the way for his brother, who was also MVP in the same building one month later in the Super Bowl.

The time to shine came in 1995, as Emory started nine of the 12 games and rushed for the hand-off and rumbled 54 yards to the Gamecock seven-yard line. The last 15 yards, Smith carried a USC defender on his back.

"What really motivated me on that run was when I looked back and saw that we were going to make the goal line. The defender was on my back, but I didn't know it, and as I got closer and closer to the goal line, my eyes got wider and wider."

Despite several injuries in his senior year, Emory has started all 10 games of the 1996 season. He has carried the ball 65 times for 250 yards and has five touchdowns. He had his most productive game against N.C. State, as he rushed 8 times for 56 yards. In January he will play his final college game in the Hula Bowl.

You may think things will settle down for Emory after today's game. Well actually, they get busier for him and his family. After finals, he's going to travel to Tallahassee to watch his brother Eric graduate from Florida State. Then the Smith family will be in Clemson, as Emory will walk across the stage and receive his degree in marketing. Plus factor in Christmas, a possible bowl bid, and the NFL playoffs, and the Smith family will earn their share of travel time.

"My family loves to travel," says Emory. "If they're not going to my game they're going to Emmitt's game. I think they live for football season to come around."

After things calm down for Emory, he plans on returning to Clemson, enrolling in the spring for postgraduate work and continuing his workouts. His hopes are high that a combine invitation will come his way and he hopes he gets the chance to work out for the pro scouts. If things do not work out with professional football, "If that does not go well for me, I don't get drafted or get an offer, I plan to either go back home and help my brother's brother, or go out on the field for Texas A&M to play."

As Emory says, "The doors are pretty much open for me right now, it is just a matter of me stepping into the house. Hopefully the house for today will be the South Carolina end zone. As Emory finishes up his career here at Clemson and prepares for the future, he says, "the bridge is pretty much built, I just have to cross it." And as he crosses that bridge into the world, we wish him the best. He's come a long way from the beaches of Pensacola, FL.

Dr. Deno Curris

Midway through his first year as president of Clemson University, Constantine W. "Deno" Curris addressed a faculty meeting by saying that he truly felt like a freshman at times—"excited to be here, but sometimes not sure exactly where I am." But by year's end, Curris had earned the ultimate compliment when an alumus said, "When I talk to him about Clemson, I feel like I'm the newcomer."

Curris hit the ground running when he became Clemson's 13th president on May 22, 1995. Among his early accomplishments were fine-tuning the academic reorganization of 1994 by adding a fifth college, establishing benchmark institutions to give students, parents and the public a way to measure Clemson, and setting out to fill key appointments.

Other high priorities included acquainting himself with the history and culture of Clemson, advocating Clemson's legislative goals in Columbia, and meeting members of the "Clemson Family" throughout the state and nation.

He also assumed a national leadership role of his own, being named to the Kellogg Commission on the Future of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges, and becoming Chairman of the Board of Directors of the American Association of State Colleges and Universities.

Before coming to Clemson, Curris served as president of the University of Northern Iowa for 11 years and as president of Murray State University in Kentucky for 10 years before that. His presidencies at both universities were periods of growth and advancement, and he sees Clemson as another institution well-positioned to move ahead.

"Clemson has effected significant organizational and program changes to position the university and its students for the 21st century. Our task in the years ahead is to use this foundation to build Clemson into a strong university with national stature and visibility," he said.

To help build Clemson's reputation and stature, Curris outlined three goals for the coming year.

First, in order to improve the educational program, Curris established a committee to define what makes the Clemson experience unique.

"I believe this definition is a necessary first step in building Clemson's reputation for the quality of our education programs and the capabilities of our graduates.

Second, he has established a goal of $50 million annually in competitively awarded federal research funding—which would be roughly a 30 percent increase.

The third major goal is recruiting the university's future—the brightest young faculty, the most promising professional staff, the best undergraduate and graduate students.

Meeting challenging goals is a Curris trademark. At Murray State, he oversaw extensive campus renovations and improvements, including a student center which was later named for him. At UNI, he led the school in raising admissions standards and implementing a more rigorous comprehensive general education program. UNI gained national recognition in many programs during the period and was cited in 1993 as one of the best educational values among public universities by U.S. News & World Report.

Curris received a bachelor's degree, magna cum laude, in political science from the University of Kentucky, a master's in political science and public administration from the University of Illinois, and his doctorate in higher education from the University of Kentucky.

When his schedule permits, Curris enjoys gardening, fishing and reading. He is married to Jo Hern Curris, a tax attorney and author.

Tommy West entered his second year at the helm of the Clemson program with success on his mind, and that is what he achieved. He guided the 1995 Tigers to an 8-4 record, its best ACC ranking in four years, and a selection to a January 1 Bowl game.

For the second straight year, the Tigers showed marked improvement as the season progressed and the young team won its last five games of the regular season, four by at least 17 points. The run of success at the end of the season had the Tigers in the top 25 of every poll. West's Tigers were picked fifth in the ACC pre-season poll, but thanks to the third best offense in Clemson history and a defense that ranked 10th in the nation in scoring, Clemson finished third in the ACC standings with a 6-2 record, its best league finish since the Tigers won the ACC title in 1991.

The 1995 campaign was one in which Clemson excelled in every area. The Tigers ranked fourth in the country in rushing, yet also led the ACC in yards per pass attempt. Defensively, Clemson rated in the top 20 in the nation in rushing defense, passing efficiency defense and turnover margin. In terms of special teams, Clemson was the only school in the nation to have an individual ranked in the top 25 in punting, placekicking, punt returns and kickoff returns.

In his first full season, West guided the Tigers to a 5-6 record, and it was a season that showed week-by-week improvement. The '94 club, which featured the youngest Clemson offensive unit in 50 years, finished with a number-one ranking in turnover margin, a landmark ranking in Clemson football history. The team lost just two fumbles, fewest in NCAA history over the course of a season. The Tigers were ranked as high as 21st in the USA Today poll, and finished the season with three wins in their last four outings, including a decisive conquest of #12 North Carolina in Chapel Hill.

West took over the head coaching position on November 29, 1993. Less than a month later he already had a bowl victory on his ledger, a 14-13 triumph over Kentucky in the Peach Bowl, Clemson’s sixth bowl win in an eight-year period. With his debut in the Peach Bowl, West became the sixth coach in NCAA history to make his debut with a program in a bowl game. However, he was just the second coach in history to make his debut in a bowl game without previously coaching his new team as an assistant coach earlier in the season.

West was a mainstay of a Clemson coaching staff that led the Tigers to a 69-20-4 record and six Associated Press Top 20 finishes between 1982-89. During West's first tour of duty with the Tigers as an outside linebacker coach, Clemson played in five bowl games (winning four) and claimed four ACC Championships, including three in a row from 1986-88.

Clemson had a 44-10-1 record against ACC competition during his era on the Tiger staff, an 81 percent winning mark. Additionally, five of those Clemson teams ranked in the top 15 in the nation in rushing defense and scoring defense, and three ranked in the top 12 in the nation in total defense.

Clemson's 1989 defense ranked fifth in the nation in total defense, rushing defense and scoring defense and West's outside linebackers had a lot to do with that success. His top four outside linebackers that year all played in the NFL in 1995.

Levon Kirkland (Pittsburgh Steelers), Wayne Simmons (Green Bay Packers) and John Johnson (Cincinnati Bengals) were starters in 1994 in the NFL, and Ashley Sheppard (Minnesota Vikings) was a top reserve. Simmons was a first-round draft pick, Kirkland and Johnson second-round selections and Sheppard was a fourth-round choice. In addition to the four players listed above, Andy Headen (New York Giants) and Terence Mack (St. Louis Cardinals) are former Tigers West helped guide to an NFL career.

West began his coaching career as a graduate assistant at Tennessee (his alma mater) in 1977. He coached the first year of high school football at White County High in Sparta, TN in 1978, then became an assistant at Mississippi in 1979. For the 1980 and 1981 seasons he served as an assistant coach at Appalachian State.

After his career at Clemson (1982-89), West became the running backs coach at Tennessee. During that 1990 season Tennessee won the Southeastern Conference and captured the Sugar Bowl with a win over Virginia. The Volunteers scored a school record 442 points that year and averaged over 410 yards a game in total offense, 205.7 rushing and 205.4 passing. He served as Co-Defensive Coordinator at South Carolina in 1991 and 1992.

In 1993 West took over a UT-Chattanooga team that had won just two games in 1992. He doubled that total in 1993 and guided the Mocs to one of the landmark wins in school history, a 33-31 win over #1 ranked Marshall. He concluded the regular season with a 45-42 victory over Furman. Ironically, his first regular season game as Clemson coach was a victory over Furman.

West earned three letters in his four-year career at Tennessee (1972-75). The Vols played in three bowl games and were ranked in a final Top 20 in three seasons. He was the co-captain of Tennessee's 1976 football team and played in the Blue-Gray All-Star game that same year. He began his college career as a running back, but saw most of his playing time as a tight end. He caught 37 passes for 575 yards in his career with the Vols, including 16 passes for 233 yards as a senior. As a junior he caught an 81-yard pass from Condredge Holloway, still the longest non-scoring play in Tennessee history. He earned a bachelor's degree from Tennessee in 1976 and was drafted by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers that same year.

West played two years (1974-75) of baseball at Tennessee and had a career batting average of .305. He hit .367 in 1975 and was named All-SEC Eastern Division. Rick Honeycutt, now with the Oakland A's, was West's teammate on that 1975 Tennessee team that finished 32-16.

West was a multi-sport standout in high school. He was an outfielder in baseball, a guard in basketball and a running back in football. In 1972 he was named a High School All-American in football and was a third-round draft choice in baseball by the Chicago Cubs. Willie Randolph, who went on to an All-Star career with the New York Yankees, was one of 77 future Major League players drafted after West in the regular phase of the June 1972 draft. He played his prep football at Gainesville High in Gainesville, GA for Coach Bobby Gruhn. He was an all-state back as a junior and was also named to the All-Southern team.

Born Thomas Cleveland West on July 31, 1954, he is married to the former Lindsay Watkins of Forest City, NC. The couple has one son, Turner, 7.
Assistant Coaches

Les Herrin
Assistant Head Coach/Defensive Line

The Clemson football program has seen a lot of success during Les Herrin’s tenure as an assistant coach. In 1981, Herrin arrived at Clemson as a linebacker coach, and the Tigers won the National Championship that season. In his first tour of duty with the Tigers (1981-84) Clemson had a 37-6-2 record during that span. Herrin is the dean of Clemson coaches and is now in his 12th season in Tiger town. After a brief stint away from Clemson at East Carolina (1985-87) and North Carolina (1988), Herrin returned to the Tiger program in 1989 as defensive line coach. In 1988 Clemson ranked fifth in the nation in scoring, rushing, and total defense. The team followed that performance with another numerator of the Tigers in total defense, 1990, as well as second in scoring and rushing defense.

Herrin has coached several players who have had successful NFL careers. Herrin coached 1981 ACC MVP Jeff Davis, who went on to become the captain of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers and entered the Clemson Ring of Honor last year. He also tutored 1982 All-Pro Johnny Rainbott (New England Patriots), who was a linebacker under Herrin’s watchful eye in 1981 and 1982. Chester McC Grill, a tackle (1981-87) and North Carolina, was one of two Tiger assistant coaches on this year’s staff, including McGlockton, who was a defensive back at Central High in Rutherfordton, NC (1972-74); assistant at Lexington Senior High in Lexington, NC (1975-76); athletic director and head coach at Central Davidson High School in Lexington, NC (1975-79); College - Defensive coordinator at Appalachian State (1980-81); linebacker coach at Clemson (1981-84); linebacker coach at East Carolina (1985-87); outside linebacker coach at the University of North Carolina (1988); defensive line coach at Clemson (1989-94); assistant head coach/tackles and tight ends coach (1995); assistant head coach/defensive line (1996).

Education: Waycross High School in Waycross, GA (1965); B.A. degree in Education from Western Carolina (1971); Master’s degree in Health and Physical Education from Western Carolina. The following was his coaching experience:

College Team Experience: Lettered four years in football at Western Carolina.

Personal: Born February 18, 1948. He and his wife Shirley have a son, Deke (20), a member of the football team at Western Carolina.

Darrell Moody
Offensive Coordinator/Quarterbacks

Darrell Moody is in his rookie season at Clemson, but he is no rookie when it comes to the ACC. The N.C. State grad arrived in Tiger town from North Carolina, ironically, his first opponent as a Clemson coach. Moody handled the offensive chores for the Tar Heels between 1988-95, and he helped them to bowl in each of his last four seasons. His ’95 offense joined Florida State’s as the only ACC school to average over 240 yards passing and 150 yards rushing per game. He has also coached greats in Ted Brown and Billy Ray Vickers at N.C. State. Dalton Hilliard and Garry James at LSU, and North Carolina’s Means and Leon Johnson at North Carolina.

Moody has been coaching at the Division I level for the last 23 years and hopes to translate that experience into a successful offense at Clemson. He has coached in the biggest bowl games, including the Orange Bowl as an assistant at LSU in 1983. He has coached in 10 bowl games overall. The 1970 N.C. State graduate was an outstanding athlete for the Wellpack. He was a three-year letterman at N.C. State (1965-67) and led the team in passing in 1969. He was a member of N.C. State’s 1968 ACC Championship football team and a starter on the Pack’s 1968 College World Series baseball team, the only CWS team in N.C. State history.

At the conclusion of his athletic career he went into coaching and was an assistant coach under Lou Holtz at N.C. State by the time he was 25.

Ellis Johnson
Defensive Coordinator/Outside Linebackers

Ellis Johnson is in his first season as the defensive coordinator, his second season as outside linebacker coach, and his third year on the Clemson staff. As defensive line coach and co-defensive coordinator last year, he was a significant reason Clemson ranked in the top 10 in the nation in scoring defense and the top 20 in rushing defense.

Johnson is in just his third year at Clemson, but is no stranger to the area. He attended The Citadel, but he grew up a Clemson fan. He has coached in the state at The Citadel as a graduate assistant, at Gaffney High as an assistant coach and at Spartanburg High as an assistant coach and head coach. His most successful stint in coaching so far took place in Alabama. The Crimson Tide experienced a perfect season and defeated Miami (FL) in the Sugar Bowl to win the National Championship in 1992. He is one of two Tigers this year’s staff with a National Championship ring. Les Herrin, a member of Clemson’s 1981 staff, is the other.

Johnson was a part of four outstanding defenses at Alabama. During his tenure (1990-93), Alabama ranked in the top five in the nation in total defense and pass defense three times. The 1992 Alabama defense led the nation in total defense and rushing defense and ranked second nationally in passing defense and scoring defense.

Johnson married the former Tonya Taylor in August of 1994.

Richard Bisaccia
Running Backs/Special Teams/Recruiting Coordinator
Richard Bisaccia enters the 1996 season after coaching the ACC leading rusher in Raymond Prierster. He helped to develop Prierster into the single-season ground gainer in Clemson history. He also has had a positive effect on fullback Emory Smith, who gained 712 yards last year and combined with Prierster to set a Clemson single season rushing record for a starting backfield.
Bisaccia, a Yonkers, NY native, learned how to hold onto the football as a four-year starter and team captain at Yankton College. He has been successful in teaching that aspect of the game, as Clemson had just two lost fumbles in 1994, his first year, tying the all-time NCAA Division I record for fewest lost fumbles in a season. He was a free agent with the Philadelphia Stars of the USFL after his college career.

While the 1983 Spring season saw the end of his play-career, the 1983 fall was the beginning of his coaching career. He was named the offensive coordinator at Wayne State in Nebraska his first year out of college.

Unlike many Division I full-time assistant coaches. Bisaccia has not made a lot of moves. He has experience coaching on defense and offense, but will concentrate on the running backs position at Clemson.

Bisaccia probably wears more hats than any other Clemson coach. In addition to his time with the running backs, he is also the special teams coach and the recruiting coordinator.

In addition to Bisaccia’s recent changes on the gridiron, he has had a family addition within the last two years. In August of ’94 his wife Jeanne gave birth to their first son and fourth child, Richard Oakley.

Charlie Harbison
Defensive Backs
Second-year Clemson coach Charlie Harbison has more experience at the professional level than any other current Tiger mentor. Harbison was a starter at strong safety with the New Orleans and Boston Breakers of the USFL in 1983-84 and also signed a free agent contract Harbison also coached on the pro level with the Raleigh-Durham Skyhawks of the World League of American Football, with the Charlotte Barons of the MLFS and with the Charlotte Rage of the AFL. He has coached wide receivers, line backers, and defensive backs in his career, but has by far his most experience as a secondary coach.

He enters the ’96 campaign after a successful season a year ago. His secondary, led by NFL draft picks Brian Dawkins and Leonont Evans, ranked in the top 20 in the nation. The 22 interceptions was the eighth best total by a national championship season. In 1994 he coached the secondary at UTep. This season, his second at Clemson, he will have the opportunity to enhance the careers of a veteran secondary led by Dexter McCleod, Andre Carter and the Ford twins, Peter and Andy.

In addition to his Division I experience, Harbison also has had significant success at the NAIA level.
His Gardner Webb team of 1992 had a 12-2 record and played in the NAIA Championship game.

Reggie Herring
Inside Linebackers
Reggie Herring is another example of an outstanding former player who has gone on to become an outstanding coach. A teammate of Rick Stockstill at Florida State, Herring left his own mark with the Seminole program as a player.
Herring was captain of the 1980 Orange Bowl team and earned AP All-America honors in 1980. The Seminoles played in the Orange Bowl and ranked in the top 10 in the nation his junior and senior seasons, and he was recently inducted into the Florida State Hall of Fame.
He was a three-year starter at Florida State and the Seminoles played in three bowls during his four-year career. Florida State also had three double-figure victory seasons during his career.

Like many of Clemson’s assistant coaches in 1996, Herring has a diverse experience history. He has been a part of successful programs at Oklahoma State, Auburn, TCU and now Clemson. He was defensive coordinator at TCU prior to coming to Clemson.

Herring has not made plans over the Christmas holidays for quite some time. He has been a part of college football as a player and coach since 1977. In those 19 seasons he has been to 14 bowl games, 11 as a coach and three as a player.

In his first year at Clemson he coached UPI National Freshman of the Year Anthony Simmons who was also a third-team AP All-American. Herring also coached first-team Academic All-American Andy McCrorley.
John Latina
Centers and Guards

John Latina has been an offensive coach for a Division I program every year since 1979. He is in his second season coaching the centers and guards at Clemson, a drastic change from coaching the entire offensive line in 1994. This change has allowed him to spend more time with fewer players.

Latina showed his expertise as a teacher last year as he helped Clemson to the fourth best rushing attack in the nation. This year he hopes to build on the ’95 season, but will only have one of his three starting returners this year. But if ’94 was any indication of how he brings along a young offensive line, the ’96 team will be at its best.

The Virginia Tech graduate, who once played against Clemson as an offensive guard (1978), has worked at Virginia Tech, Pittsburgh, Temple and Kansas State. He has already coached in a bowl game with four different schools.

During his career he has worked with Dan Marino, who led the Panthers to a 9-3 ledger and the Cotton Bowl in 1982. Paul Palmer, one of the top rushers in NCAA history with Temple, was also a member of Latina’s offense in the 1980s.

Over the five years he was with the program, Kansas State’s team in general and offense in particular, showed as much improvement as any in the country. In Latina’s second season at Kansas State as offensive line coach and running game coordinator, the Wildcats set a school record for total offense with 4,231 yards. Kansas State advanced to a bowl game in 1992, just the second bowl appearance in school history.

Mac McWhorter
Offensive Tackles/Tight Ends

Mac McWhorter is in his rookie season at Clemson. He arrives from Georgia, where he spent the last five years as an offensive line coach. The Georgia native is coming off a successful stint in Athens, where he worked with All-American Eric Zeier from 1991-94, and a "tough-nose" running game in ’95. He helped Georgia to set numerous team records in many different categories in the last five years.

The Dogs led the SEC in rushing and passing during his career with the Bulldogs. Coach McWhorter played football at Georgia in the early ’70s as an offensive lineman; so he is no stranger to the surroundings of Death Valley. He has played and coached in many big bowl games, including the Gator, Peach, Hall of Fame, Citrus, and Sun Bowls.

McWhorter was an AP All-Southeastern Conference selection as a guard in 1973. He was also an honorable mention All-American and was named captain of the Bulldogs. Georgia played in two bowl games during his career.

McWhorter has been a college coach each of the last 15 years and 12 of those years he worked with either Georgia or Georgia Tech. He also coached two years at ACC rival Duke (1990-91). Altogether, McWhorter has coached in six bowl games.

Rick Stockstill
Wide Receivers

Rick Stockstill has been around successful programs and record setting offenses his entire coaching career. In his first year as quarterback coach at Clemson (1989), the Tigers set a school record for completion percentage (60%). The Tigers led the Atlantic Coast Conference in total offense for the 1991 season, and Clemson gained the second most yards in school history in the process.

Last year Clemson had its third most productive offense in history scoring over 300 points and gaining over 4500 yards of total offense. Stockstill also tutored productive offenses at Central Florida and Bethune-Cookman in his early years as a football coach. As a player, he was the starting quarterback for Florida State. He guided the Seminoles to a pair of Orange Bowl appearances, a pair of top 10 rankings, and was the team captain in 1981.

It is no surprise that Stockstill has moved up the coaching ladder so swiftly because he is the product of an athletic family. His father was head coach at Fernandina Beach High School in Florida for many years. His brother, Jeff, was a starting wide receiver for the Tigers in 1982, and a reserve on the National Championship team of 1981.

Stockstill is in his eighth year with the Clemson program and the Tigers have been bowl games in five of the previous seven seasons at Clemson. He joins Les Herrin and Whitey Jordan as the only assistant coaches in Clemson history to serve under three different head coaches.

1996 Clemson Football - The Centennial Season
The Clemson Ring of Honor is in its third year of existence in Clemson Memorial Stadium. On September 3, 1994, during ceremonies prior to the Clemson vs. Furman football game, Frank Howard, Steve Fuller and Banks McFadden were inducted into the Clemson Ring of Honor. On September 2, 1995, Jeff Davis was added to the Clemson Ring of Honor.

The Ring of Honor is the highest honor a Clemson football player can receive. A recipient must first be a member of the Clemson Hall of Fame, earn at least an undergraduate degree, and make a significant contribution to the heritage of Clemson athletics. Honorees will have their jersey retired.

Howard was Clemson’s head coach between 1940-69 and he guided Clemson to eight conference championships, six bowl games and six Top 25 seasons. He was inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame in 1989 and is the second winningest coach in ACC history. He had 165 wins when he retired.

McFadden was named the Nation’s most versatile athlete in 1939. He was an All-American in football and basketball, the only Clemson athlete in history to do that. McFadden led Clemson to its first bowl bid ever, a 6-3 win over Boston College in the 1940 Cotton Bowl. He was the number-three pick of the 1940 NFL draft, the highest draft selection in Clemson history.

Fuller is the only football player in Clemson history to be chosen an All-American on the field and in the classroom. Fuller was a first-team Academic All-American in 1977 and 1978 and was a third-team AP All-American in 1978. Fuller, who was ACC MVP on two occasions, is still Clemson’s all-time leader in total offense. He was an NCAA Top Five Award winner in 1979, the only Clemson athlete to win the award.

Davis, captain of Clemson’s 1981 National Championship team was a first-team All-American that year when he led the Tigers in tackles with 175, the highest total in Clemson history. Davis was also named the MVP of the ACC and was the Defensive MVP of the Orange Bowl victory over Nebraska, the game that clinched the national championship for the Tigers.

RING OF HONOR GUIDELINES

Purpose: The charge of the Ring of Honor committee is to bestow the highest athletic award presented by the Clemson Athletic Department on deserving candidates. The committee will examine the careers of candidates in all Clemson sports.

Nominations: Nominations are made by any member of IPTAY, a member of the faculty or a relative of a worthy nominee, and are accepted up to 30 days prior to the committee meeting. The committee will meet once every two years in the month of April to vote on the nominations.
When it comes to fashion, there's just one rule: "no rules."

Hosts of this year's most exciting conference action.

For a winning conference, trade show, banquet or meeting, make the handoff to Palmetto Expo Center. We're set to tackle special events of any size or scope. Our starting lineup includes 420,000 square feet of meeting and exhibit space, an outdoor courtyard, and banquet seating and service for up to 2,500 people. To set your game plan in motion, we field special teams for catering, light and sound, and event staging. For conference action, Palmetto Expo Center is an odds-on favorite.

Textile Hall Corporation, owner of Palmetto Expo Center, is the proud donor of the Textile Bowl Trophy, presented each year to the winner of the Clemson-North Carolina State game in honor of the textile graduates of these two fine universities.

Saluting 100 years of Tiger Football.

ACC FOOTBALL

*Since the league’s inception in 1953, ACC schools have captured 56 NCAA and AIAW championships, including 27 in men’s competition and 29 in women’s. In addition, 96 men and 24 women have earned the coveted title of the NCAA champion.

The ACC is one of only two conferences to capture three or more national football titles since 1980. Clemson laid claim to the league’s second title in 1981, Georgia Tech followed suit in 1990 while Florida State pocketed national title number four in 1994.

The nine schools that take to the field this fall under the ACC banner have produced 310 first or second team gridiron All-Americans and 48 first-team academic All-Americans. ACC teams have had 1,336 players selected in the annual professional football draft, including 82 first-round draft selections.

*If success is best measured in terms of wins and losses, the ACC over the years has proved itself to be among the elite in Division I-A football. After posting a 3-1 bowl mark in 1995, the ACC moved past the Pacific-10 as the conference with the best all-time bowl winning percentage. The league’s teams are a combined 76-63-5 (.545) in post-season play.

*Ten times over the past 16 years, an ACC member school has claimed the CFA Academic Achievement Award which is awarded to a CFA member institution with the highest graduation rate among members of its football team. The ACC Academic Honor Roll record was broken for the 10th-straight year as 1,185 student-athletes were recognized for their work in the classroom.

*The 1995-96 academic year concluded with the league pocketing two more national team titles and seven individual NCAA crowns. In all, the ACC has won 23 national team titles the last six years.

*In addition, seven ACC schools - North Carolina (6), Virginia (21), Florida State (23), Clemson (27), N.C. State (32), Maryland (34) and Duke (39) were ranked in the Top 40 of the Sears Directors’ Cup, an all-sports award honoring the Division I school with the best performance by women’s and men’s athletic teams during the 1995-96 academic year.

*The ACC placed at least one team in the Top 10 nationally in 13 of the 23 sports sponsored by the league. Other records of note during the 1995-96 season include 83 teams competing at the NCAA Championships, four bowl teams and 20 Top 10 showings.

*Six ACC teams, in six different sports, representing three of the nine member institutions, earned a No. 1 ranking during the course of the past academic year.

*The ACC set a single season attendance mark in 1995 averaging an all-time high 46,588 fans per game. The conference drew more than 2.2 million fans for a fifth straight year. Over 51 home dates, ACC schools attracted 2,376,003, the third highest total in league history and a five percent increase over 1994. ACC teams played to 89 percent of their stadiums’ capacity.

*For the second year in a row, five ACC players were among 24 players selected to the Hitachi/CFA Scholar Athlete team. Florida State’s Todd Rebol, Clemson’s Andye McCrorey, N.C. State’s Jonathan Risser, North Carolina’s Russell Babb and Wake Forest’s Rusty LaRue were selected.

*ACC football teams made 24 appearances on television during the 1995 season. League teams made 11 appearances on ABC, nine on ESPN, and one each on CBS, NBC, TBS, and Prime.

Priester led the ACC in rushing in 1995, the first Tiger to win that statistical crown since 1987. He is one of many outstanding ACC running backs in 1996.
1990 10-2
Clemson got the decade of the 1990s off to a great start with a 10-2 ledger in 1990, the fourth straight 10-2 record for the Clemson program. The first touchdown of the decade came on an interception return by Arlington Nunn against Long Beach State in a 59-0 Clemson victory. It was fitting that Clemson's first score of that year was by the defense, because Clemson led the nation in total defense that season, allowing just 217 yards per game. Eleven members of that Clemson defense played in the NFL, including current stars, Chester McGlockton, Brentson Buckner, Levon Kirkland, Ed McDaniel and Wayne Simmons.

Chris Gardocki
Chris Gardocki is the most accomplished all-around kicker in Clemson history. He ranked in the top 10 in the nation in both placekicking and punting in 1990 and was a two-time All-American as a placekicker. Today he leads the NFL in net punting. His final kick in Death Valley was a 78-yard punt against South Carolina.

Vance Hammond
Vance Hammond was a two-time All-ACC selection who played professionally in the Canadian league. An outstanding player, he was also known for his leadership abilities on and off the field. Clemson ranked in the top 15 in the nation in total defense all four years he played at Clemson.

Tiger Timeline

September 1, 1990—Clemson defeated Long Beach State 59-0 in the first game of the Ken Hatfield era. Clemson scored two touchdowns via return, one on an interception return by Arlington Nunn and one on a kickoff return by Doug Thomas. The 49ers were coached by NFL legend George Allen, who was making a comeback as a coach. Unfortunately, the venerable coach who led that team to a 6-5 record, died at the end of the season from pneumonia.

October 6, 1990—Clemson thrashed Georgia 34-3 in Death Valley. Clemson's largest margin of victory in the series since 1905. Doug Brewster, a native of Athens, provided the big play with a blocked punt.

October 13, 1990—Eventual national champion Georgia Tech defeated Clemson 21-19 in Atlanta. Clemson rushed for over 300 yards in the game, yet lost to Bobby Ross's team, one of just two times in the last 15 years that Clemson had a 300-yard rushing game, yet lost. Chris Gardocki's 60-yard field goal attempt to win the game was just a couple of yards short.

January 1, 1991—Clemson shut out Illinois 30-0 in its first Hall of Fame Bowl appearance. It was Clemson's largest margin of victory in a bowl game. The win elevated Clemson to #9 in the final AP poll and gave Clemson a Top 10 ranking in Ken Hatfield's first year. He was the first ACC coach ever to take a team to a Top 10 ranking in his first year. It was a record 40th win for Clemson's seniors.

October 26, 1991—Clemson wore purple jerseys for the first time since the 1930s in a 29-19 victory over 10th-ranked (USA Today) N.C. State. The 18th-ranked (AP) Tigers were led by freshman Nelson Welch, who kicked a Clemson record five field goals. Clemson scored its first touchdown on a fake field goal as Rudy Harris ran three yards for a score.

November 16, 1991 — The Tigers clinched their 12th ACC Championship with a 40-7 win over Maryland at Death Valley. DeChane Cameron was 13-23 for 213 yards in leading Clemson to victory in his final home game.

November 23, 1991—DeChane Cameron gained 322 yards of total offense, 206 passing and 116 rushing to lead Clemson to a 41-23 win at South Carolina. Clemson also had a 100-yard receiver in the game, giving Clemson a 200-yard passer, 100-yard rusher and 100-yard receiver (Terry Smith) in the same game for just the fifth time in Clemson history.
Clemson 30, Illinois 0
One of the most dominant Clemson performances in its extensive bowl history came against Illinois in the 1991 Hall of Fame Bowl. Clemson shutout Illinois 30-0 and the Tiger defense showed why it led the nation in total defense. DeChane Cameron connected on 14-19 passes, still a Hall of Fame bowl record for completion percentage.

Rob Bodine
One of the great stories of Clemson football this decade belongs to Rob Bodine. A 250-pound middle guard who walked on to the team after transferring from North Dakota, Bodine was a first-team All-American in 1991. He is the only walk-on non-special teams player in Clemson history to earn All-America honors.

Chester McGlockton

Mr. Inside & Mr. Outside
Clemson has a great tradition of linebackers and this tradition was certainly enhanced by the performances of inside linebacker Ed McDaniel and outside linebacker Levon Kirkland. McDaniel, a first-team All-American in 1991, recorded 389 tackles in his four years, still third in Clemson history, while Kirkland had 40 career tackles for loss and was a three-time first-team All-ACC selection.

Tiger Timeline

November 30, 1991 — Clemson ran its overseas record to 2-0 with a 33-21 win over Duke in the Coca Cola Bowl in Tokyo, Japan. Clemson had to score 26 points in the fourth period to register the victory. It was Ken Hatfield's 100th win as a college coach. Clemson had a pair of 100-yard rushers in the game. Rudy Harris and Rodney Blunt, and reserve quarterback Richard Moncrief threw a pair of touchdown passes for an injured DeChane Cameron.

September 12, 1992 — Florida State defeated Clemson 24-20 in the first night game at Clemson since 1956. The contest was televised by ESPN. Clemson had taken a 20-17 lead in the fourth period on a touchdown pass to Terry Smith. The Seminoles led by quarterback Charlie Ward, scored the winning TD in the two final minutes.

October 10, 1992 — Clemson overcame a 28-0 deficit to defeat Virginia in Charlottesville, 29-28. Nelson Welch kicked a 32-yard field goal with 52 seconds left to cap the comeback. Quarterback Louis Solomon came off the bench with the score 28-0 and led the comeback. His 64-yard scoring run just before the half changed the course of the game. The victory over the 10th-ranked Cavaliers was just the third in Clemson history over a top-10 team on the road.

November 7, 1992 — Clemson soundly defeated #18 North Carolina 40-7 at Death Valley, the largest margin of victory for the Tigers over a top 20 team in history. Freshman Patrick Sapp hit 13-23 passes for 205 yards, while Rodney Blunt scored three TDs in leading the Clemson offense. The Tigers controlled the clock for a record 42:52.

September 4, 1993 — Clemson opened the 1993 season with a defeat of UNLV in the first meeting between the two teams. Sophomore quarterback Patrick Sapp posted the sixth-highest passing efficiency mark in Clemson history (235.0) in the game, throwing two touchdown strikes in the 24-14 Tiger victory. But most of the strikes were coming from above, as the game was delayed 17 minutes in the fourth quarter due to lightning. Both teams and most fans cleared the field.

November 20, 1993 — Clemson defeated South Carolina 16-13 in Columbia, Clemson's third straight win over the Gamecocks in Columbia. Dexter McCleon quarterbacked the Tigers to victory and fullback Emory Smith led the rushing attack with 15 carries for 84 yards. It was Hatfield's last game as Clemson head coach. He had a 52-13-1 record for his four years and the .707 winning percentage is still Clemson 29, Virginia 28
One of the most incredible games in Clemson history took place at Virginia in 1992. The Tigers trailed 10th ranked Virginia 28-0 with 32 minutes left in the game. Enter freshman Louis Solomon. The nifty quarterback rushed and pass for over 100 yards each and led Clemson to its greatest comeback victory ever, 29-28. Nelson Welch kicked the game winner from 32 yards out with 52 seconds left.

Terry Smith
While Perry Tuttle and Jerry Butler receive much of the acclaim, Terry Smith is Clemson's career reception and reception yardage leader. He caught 162 passes for 2681 yards in his four year career on run-oriented teams. Many of his catches were spectacular.

Ken Hatfield
Ken Hatfield became Clemson's head coach in 1990 and he guided Clemson to 32-13-1 record in four years, the fourth best winning percentage in ACC history. Hatfield guided the Tigers to three top 25 seasons and is one of just three coaches in NCAA history to take three different programs to a bowl game and a top 20 season.

Tiger Timeline

November 29, 1993 — Tommy West was named Clemson's 23rd head coach and took over the Clemson team heading for the Peach Bowl. West, who spent the 1993 regular season as head coach at UT Chattanooga, became the sixth coach in Division I history to make his head coaching debut for a school in a bowl game and the second coach to ever become head coach for a bowl game after not serving as an assistant at that school during the regular season.

December 31, 1993 — The Tigers scored the latest touchdown to gain victory in a game since 1958, as Patrick Sapp connected with Terry Smith with 0:20 remaining to defeat Kentucky, 14-13, in the Peach Bowl. West experienced his fifth consecutive bowl victory with Clemson, as the Tigers won four straight bowl games during his years as an assistant (1986-89). Emory Smith was the offensive MVP of the game as he scored one touchdown and set up another with a 57-yard pass reception.

September 3, 1994 — For the first time ever, Clemson faced a team coached by a Clemson graduate. Bobby Johnson, an academic All-ACC defensive back for the Tigers and a 1973 Clemson graduate, brought his Furman Paladins to Death Valley. Clemson came away with a 27-6 win. Clemson inducted Frank Howard, Steve Fuller, and Banks McFadden into the Ring of Honor prior to the game.

September 10, 1994 — For the second straight week and the second time in history, Clemson faced a team coached by a Clemson graduate. Mike O'Cain, Clemson class of 1976 and the MVP of Clemson's 1976 team, brought his N.C. State team to Clemson and the Pack prevailed, 29-12. Clemson used the shotgun offense for the first time in this game.

September 17, 1994 — Clemson and Virginia met in the 1,000th ACC football game history. Virginia won 9-6. Clemson's Andre Carter had three takeaways in the game, just the third Tiger in history to do that.

October 15, 1994 — Nelson Welch became the ACC's career field goal leader with a 47-yarder in the third quarter at Duke. It gave Welch 61 career field goals, breaking the record of 60 held by Jess Atkinson, Scott Sisson, and Obed Arin.

October 29, 1994 — Louis Solomon set an all-time Clemson quarterback rushing record.
Stacy Seegars
Stacy Seegars was a two-time first-team All-American offensive guard. At 320-pounds, he was a dominant run blocker who had 213 career knockdown blocks, including a single season record 103 in 1992.

Brentson Buckner
Brentson Buckner might be the best Clemson football player never to make All-American. The 310-pounder now with the Pittsburgh Steelers, ended his career with 46 tackles for loss and 22 sacks, both in the top four in Clemson history. He was a leader of Clemson's 1993, 9-3 team.

Great Start for West
Tommy West became just the second coach in NCAA history to take over a program for a bowl game without having served as an assistant coach earlier in the season. It was quite a debut for West, a 14-13 victory over Kentucky that was clinched on a 21-yard touchdown pass from Patrick Sapp to Terry Smith with just 20 seconds remaining.

Tiger Timeline

with 159 yards rushing to lead Clemson to a 24-8 win over Wake Forest at Death Valley. He broke Mike O’Cain’s record of 140 yards rushing from the QB position against N.C. State in 1976. Tim Jones became the eighth player in Clemson history to go over 300 career tackles.

November 5, 1994 — Nelson Welch became Clemson’s career scoring leader with five field goals and a PAT in Clemson’s 28-17 upset of 12th-ranked North Carolina in Chapel Hill. Clemson’s defense held UNC to 11 yards rushing. Clemson started an all first-year freshman backfield.

May 15, 1995 — The Banks McFadden building was dedicated. The facility is the home of Clemson football administration with all the top of the line in facilities for players and coaches.

August 12, 1995 — The Carolina Panthers and the Denver Broncos play the first professional game in the history of Death Valley. The Panthers win the exhibition game over the John Elway led Broncos.

September 17, 1995 — The Carolina Panthers meet the St. Louis Rams in the first regular season NFL game in Death Valley. It is the first of eight regular season games for the expansion Panthers at Clemson Memorial Stadium.

October 7, 1995 — Clemson wore “turn back the clock” uniforms for the Clemson-Georgia game at Death Valley. The uniforms were replicas of those worn by the 1939 Clemson team that went to the Cotton Bowl, the first bowl appearance in Clemson history. The contest started at 6:39 PM because Clemson football started in 1896 and Clemson’s first bowl team was the 1939 club. Georgia won the thrilling game, 19-17, but that would be Clemson’s final regular season loss of 1995. Leomont Evans had 18 tackles in the contest, most ever by a Clemson defensive back, and the Tigers blocked three Georgia kicks, a single game record for blocked kicks by a Clemson team.

October 21, 1995 — For the first time in Clemson history the Tigers executed a “Hail Mary Pass” on the last play of a half. Louis Solomon’s heave into the endzone from 33 yards out was tipped by Tony Horne and caught by Antwuan Wyatt as the horn sounded ending the first half. Clemson went on to a 17-0 victory, its third straight shutout of the Maryland Terps.

November 4, 1995 — Clemson raised its record in orange pants to 29-6 with a pivotal
Clemson 28, Georgia Tech 25

Clemson upset 22nd ranked Georgia Tech on October 19 this season. The winning touchdown was scored on a fourth-down quarterback sneak by Nealon Greene (or perhaps Wesley Ellis, we still aren’t sure) with just four minutes remaining. The victory gave Clemson a 24-1-2 record on Homecoming since 1970.

17-10 victory over North Carolina in Death Valley. Twin brothers Peter and Andy Ford both had interceptions for the Tigers, the first time in ACC history that twin brothers had interceptions in the same game.

November 11, 1995—Two all-time Clemson records were set on the same day in Clemson’s 34-17 victory over Duke. Raymond Priester gained 263 yards rushing to break Cliff Austin’s Clemson single game rushing mark. All-American Brian Dawkins had three interceptions in the first quarter to set a quarter record and set the single game mark for interceptions. The game was played in a driving rainstorm in the first half and brilliant sunshine in the second half.

November 18, 1995—Clemson outscored South Carolina 21-0 in the fourth period to defeat South Carolina in Columbia, 38-17. It was Clemson’s fourth straight win in Columbia. The victory clinched a bid to the Gator Bowl for the Tigers. Emory Smith had 101 yards rushing on 12 carries, including a 54-yard run in which he dragged a South Carolina defender for 15 yards.

December 10, 1995—The defending Super Bowl Champion San Francisco 49ers defeated the Carolina Panthers at Death Valley. Jerry Rice caught one touchdown pass from Steve Young in the contest that attracted over 75,000 fans.

December 15, 1995—Tiger linebacker Anthony Simmons was named UPI National Freshman of the Year, the first defensive player in the history of the award. Simmons led Clemson in tackles in 1995 with 150, 46 more than any other freshman in school history. He was also named ACC Rookie of the Year and was second in the voting for ACC Defensive Player of the Year.

January 28, 1996—Clemson legend Frank Howard, the school’s head football coach between 1940-69 passed away at his home in Clemson. Howard, who still had come to his office in the Jervey Athletic Center a month prior to his death, died on the same day as his former teammate and Alabama legend Bear Bryant, 14 years later.

November 9, 1996—Clemson defeated #15 Virginia on the road, 24-16. Kelton Dunnican and Raymond Priester each rushed for over 100 yards and the Clemson defense had eight sacks and held Tiki Barber under 100 yards for the first time in 1996.

In 1991, two very special anniversaries in the Clemson football tradition were observed. Not only did the 1991 season mark the 10th anniversary of Clemson's National Championship season, but it also marked the 50th birthday of the place where the Tigers won six games that season: Memorial Stadium.

In the first 54 years of Memorial Stadium, Clemson has a record of 187-70-7, including a 29-8-1 ledger over the last six seasons. Clemson had a 16-game unbeaten streak at home between 1990-92 and has a career winning ratio of 72.0 percent.

The stadium has definitely been good to the Tigers who call it home, but the stadium was constructed against the advice of at least one Clemson coach. Just before head coach Jess Neely left for Rice University after the 1939 season, he gave Clemson a message: "Don't ever let them talk you into building a big stadium," he said. "Put about 10,000 seats behind the Y.M.C.A. That's all you'll ever need.'

Instead of following Coach Neely's advice, however, Clemson officials decided to build the new stadium in a valley on the western part of campus. The place would take some clearing—there were many trees, but luckily there were no hedges.

The crews went to work: clearing, cutting, pouring, and forming. Finally, on September 19, 1942, Clemson Memorial Stadium opened with the Tiger football team thrashing Presbyterian College, 32-13. Those 20,000 seats installed for Opening Day would soon grow; and grow and grow. This year Clemson celebrates its 55th year in this outstanding facility.

When the original part of the stadium was built in the early 40's, much of the work was done by scholarship athletes, including many football players. The first staking out of the stadium was done by two members of the football team, A.N. Cameron and Hugh Webb. Webb returned to Clemson years later to be an architecture professor, and Cameron went on to become a civil engineer in Louisiana.

The building of the stadium did not proceed without a few problems. One day during the clearing of the land, one young football player proudly announced that he was not allergic to poison oak. He then commenced to attack the poison oak with a swing blade, throwing the plants to and fro. The next day, however, the boy was swollen twice his size and had to be put in the hospital.

Memorial Stadium is one of the 10 largest on-campus stadiums in the nation with capacity listed at 81,474.

There are many other stories about the stadium including one stating that Frank Howard put a chew of tobacco in each corner of the stadium as the concrete poured.

Howard says that the seeding of the grass caused a few problems. "About 40 people and I laid sod on the field," he says. "After three weeks, on July 15, we had only gotten halfway through."

"I told them that it had taken us three weeks to get that far, and I would give them three more week's pay for however long it took. I also told them we would have 50 gallons of ice cream when we got through. After that it took them three days to do the rest of the field. Then we sat down in the middle of the field and ate up that whole 50 gallons."

Howard says that on the first day of the first game in the stadium, "the gates were hung at 1:00 pm and we played at 2:00 pm." But that would be all of the construction for a while. Then in 1958, 18,000 sideline seats were added and, in 1960, a total of 5,658 West end zone seats were added in response to increasing attendance. With the large end zone "Green Grass" section, this expansion increased capacity to about 53,000.

Later, upper decks were added to each side of the stadium as crowds swelled—the first one in 1978 and the second in 1983. This increased capacity to over 80,000, which makes it one of the 10 largest on-campus stadiums in the country.

The effect spiraling inflation has had in this century can be dramatically seen in the differences in stadium construction. The original part of the stadium was built at a cost of $125,000 or at $6.25 a seat. The newest upper deck was finished in 1983 at a cost of $13.5 million, or $866 a seat.

Through the years, Memorial Stadium has become known as "Death Valley." It was tagged this by the late Presbyterian coach, Lonnie McMillan. After bringing his P.C. teams to Clemson for years and getting whipped, McMillan said the place was like Death Valley. A few years later the name stuck.

On November 16, 1974 the playing surface was named Frank Howard Field for the legendary coach because of his long service and dedication to the University.

Luckily, the stadium wasn't built behind the Y.

Vickery Hall

Clemson University’s commitment to provide its student-athletes with the very best of facilities is evident in many ways. From the soaring upper decks of Memorial Stadium, to the state-of-the-art strength training facility, young men and women from all 18 of Clemson’s varsity sports have the very best in facilities for training and competition. Vickery Hall is no exception, as the $3 million structure is as impressive aesthetically as any of the other facilities. But the importance of Vickery Hall to the Clemson University Athletic Department is not found in the structure itself, but in the many programs that the building houses.

Vickery Hall opened in the spring of 1991 and is the only facility in the country built solely for the all-around education of student-athletes. The two-story, 27,000 square foot building is open throughout the day and into the evening to accommodate the extended schedules of student-athletes.

The mission of the Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs is to monitor, guide, and encourage student-athletes to fulfill their long term goal, and to achieve their academic and career potential.

“Vickery Hall is one of the most important facilities the Clemson University Athletic Department has ever built or will ever build. It makes a philosophical statement about institutional commitment—giving our student-athletes the same opportunity to achieve their full potential academically that we give them athletically. We’re very serious about that,” said Athletic Director Bobby Robinson.

Vickery Hall focuses on five primary areas to meet the student-athlete’s needs.

Academic Support

Clemson’s Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs have provided one of the best academic support and advising programs in the nation.

The Academic Counselor performs a variety of duties to track academic progress. Their duties include providing assistance in registration and priority scheduling, contacting faculty, personally checking classes, recording information, counseling sessions with student-athletes, providing diagnostic testing, and directing career aspirations.

The academic support goals are to improve academic performance, assist student-athletes to become goal oriented, and promote all student-athletes to maintain good scholarship, and promote independence in the academic arena.

Tutoring

One of the most prestigious programs that has received recognition essential to the growth of Vickery Hall is the tutorial program. The Student-Athlete Enrichment Program has been granted a Level 1 certification from the College of Reading and Learning Association, International Tutor Certification Program. Of the one hundred programs certified by CRLA, the Clemson Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs is one of two student-athlete programs in the country to achieve this distinction.

Having tutor certification will enable student-athletes to be provided the highest quality of academic assistance possible. Approximately 80 tutors are hired to provide academic support in the many subject areas offered.

Computing Facilities

The Department of Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs has recognized the need for students to have access to high-quality computing equipment and has made a commitment to provide the student-athletes at Clemson with the largest computer lab in the country. Located on the first floor of Vickery Hall is the Department of Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs’ Microcomputer Laboratory. The lab is open seven days a week, for 16 hours on Monday through Thursday, and limited time on Saturday and Sunday. During exam periods the lab hours are extended.

The lab staff consists of graduate students, many of whom are pursuing advanced degrees in computer science. Lab staff members are available for tutoring of any Computer Science course, as well as the many management, engineering and business courses that deal with personal computers. Student-athletes may also arrange tutoring sessions outside normal lab hours any time during the school year.

The Student-Athlete Enrichment Program is committed to providing state-of-the-art computing facilities. Seventeen new computers have recently been purchased and an additional purchase of 15 new computers is slated for the next academic year. A new computer lab has been constructed and make a total of 40 computers available for student-athletes.

All computers feature comprehensive software packages that enable student-athletes to complete assignments successfully. All computers are fully connected to the internet allowing for access of computers throughout the world for research and communication.

Career Assistance Program

The Student-Athlete Career Assistance Program is one of the most important programs provided by the staff of Vickery Hall. The philosophy of this program is to provide student-athletes with job searching skills and strategies, internships, practicum experience as well as summer employment. These programs are designed to address specific career opportunities through a program that uses each year to gain information on the student-athletes.

By using the resources available to the University, Alumni Center and the Athletic Department, former Tiger gridder James Earle is working to establish a network of businesses, companies, and executives who will help assist with The Summer Employment Assistance Program. The program’s main goal is to provide the student-athlete with job experience and a work history, which he or she can apply to his or her academic discipline.

The Long Term Career Assistance Program, also coordinated by Earle, will be coordinated from the academic colleges, the Placement Center, and through the Athletic Department contacts. This program is designed to better prepare the student-athlete for full-time employment and will focus on resume writing and interview techniques.

Personal Growth Program

Another aspect of Clemson University’s commitment to help student-athletes reach their potential in all areas of their life—academically, athletically, and socially, is the personal growth program. This particular area of student development is designed to enhance and support the lives of student-athletes during their enrollment in college as well as in their life experiences after graduation.

The Vickery Hall Staff realizes that student-athletes have more obligations than a regular college student. The personal growth program seeks to eliminate some of the stresses of adjustment to the higher level of academics and athletics. It is the group’s special task to assist the student-athlete by creating a finely tuned balance of all areas to ensure success in obtaining a Clemson University degree, by supporting successful athletic practice and competition, enhancing personal growth, and helping with the transition to life after college.

The purpose of the Personal Growth and Development Program is to assist the student-athlete in making a successful transition into his/her university and athletic life. These programs will provide the student-athlete the opportunity to examine and explore issues and topics pertaining to his/her values, personal health and wellness, behavior, and goals. The specific topics will encompass both general transition issues and specific athletic issues as well.

Jane Robelot

by Tim Bourret

The White team offense was about to break the huddle for the first play of Clemson's 1982 Spring Game in Death Valley and the ESPN producer was yelling in Jane Robelot's ear, "No, we aren't out of commercial yet, don't let them start."

There was only one thing for Jane Robelot, to do, "I knew it was my job to keep the game from starting so I figured if they couldn't snap the ball they couldn't start. So, I just ran out to the middle of the field. I knew they wouldn't start if I was standing over the ball! With that swift action a television career was born."

Today, Robelot is the anchor of "CBS This Morning", the morning news and entertainment program in the 7-9 AM timeslot on the CBS network. The native of Greenville, SC has made a "Wizard of Oz" journey that has included a yellow brick road through WSPA TV 7 in Spartanburg (1985-90), and WCAU in Philadelphia (1990-95) before "Dorothy Jane's" landing in the Big Apple with the network.

Her duties with the "CBS This Morning" program take up the majority of her time, but Robelot also goes on the road to cover major stories like the Oklahoma City Bombing and most recently Hurricane Fran that hit the coast of the Carolinas two months ago.

It is an exciting and hectic lifestyle that got its start at Clemson University. As a senior during the 1981-82 academic year, Robelot was the chairman of the pep rally committee within Central Spirit. The football pep rallies were at their zenith that year, one, because of Robelot's exuberance, and two, because the Tigers never lost a football game that National Championship season.

Robelot had successfully devised a theme for each pep rally. By the end of October, Clemson was 8-0 and ranked third in the nation, the highest ranking in school history. Up next was a contest in Chapel Hill with eighth-ranked North Carolina in what would be the first (and still only) battle of Top 10 ranked teams in ACC history.

"I wanted to do something special for that game because we were starting to actually believe we had a chance at the National Championship. I told him I did not want this scoreboard show, so he would call me at the station with all the notes and stats he had access to with ABC. I had facts and figures no other radio scoreboard show in the country had," recalls Robelot with a laugh.

After a year at WCCP, Robelot was hired by WFBG in Greenville, the station that just happened to be the flagship of Clemson football. Once again the "Tiger Tailgate Show" had a profound impact on her career.

"In 1981, I joined the Tiger Tailgate Show. I have the people at Clemson to thank for so much of what I was able to accomplish during those years because that exposure on a 50-station, two-state network certainly helped. And, I was having so much fun, riding around in that golfcart talking to Clemson people."

The exposure through the Tiger Tailgate Show and her work in the news department at WFBG radio led to a job at WSPA TV in Spartanburg. Her first assignment was as host of "Caroline Noon", a news and entertainment program that aired live from 12:00 Noon to 12:30 PM each day.

One of her early guests was Coach Howard. "Just before the red light went on to start the show, Coach Howard said, "now this is on tape, right Jane?" I told him it was live and Coach turned white. I was kind of subdued in that interview. I guess when he did his show at WSPA when he was coach he knew he could get away with a 'bad word' because it could be edited out."

Howard, and his friendship with former WSPA station owner Walter Brown had a positive effect on Robelot's career. Howard even told Brown to give her a raise during that live broadcast. When Howard passed away last January 28th, Robelot flew in from New York for the day to attend the services.

"The people of Clemson have done so much for me. From Coach Howard, to George Bennett to Bob Bradley...it was a great period and we knew it at the time. It is a part of my life that I cherish so much."

If you would have asked Kelton Dunnican at midseason to state his best overall game as a Clemson Tiger, he probably would have had to think about it a while. Over the last month if you ask that question he has been able to give a quick answer, his most recent game.

"My best performance here has to have been the Georgia Tech game this year," said Dunnican on November 5. "Not necessarily from a rushing yards standpoint, but also executing plays, blocking and everything else." Dunnican gained 35 yards in six rushes and had seven knockdown blocks, his career high.

That answer changed after the Tigers' upset of 15th-ranked Virginia in Charlottesville on November 9. "THAT was definitely my best overall game," is the response that you will get from Dunnican now. Nobody should blame him for the changed response, because against the Cavs, KD contributed in every aspect imaginable.

The 5'11" 206 pound Sumter native started off his big day by leveling Heisman hopeful Tiki Barber on the Tiger's first punt. The tackle held Barber, who had been averaging 20.1 yards per return on the season, to two yards. The next time that the Tigers punt, Barber tumbled, and Dunnican was right there to cash in on his mistake, recovering at the Hoos' one-yard line. The ensuing touchdown put Clemson in control, 14-3.

Dunnican was not done, however. With 6:47 remaining in the game, and the Tigers holding a tenuous 17-9 lead, he broke free for a 54-yard touchdown that all but sealed the game. It was the longest run of his college career. "Holland (Postell) and Glenn (Rountree) had two crushing blocks on the right side and the receivers were able to hold their blocks. I just ran. That was the easiest part of that play. I didn't get touched at all," said Dunnican. Kelton's 123 yards on 13 carries marked a career high and he was named ACC Offensive Back of the Week.

His effort did not go unnoticed by Head Coach Tommy West. "I can't give enough credit to Kelton, who came in when Emory (Smith) couldn't go because of his shoulder. Kelton stepped up and really put an exclamation point on our offense."

While at Sumter High School, Dunnican was named to the all-state team in 1990 and 1991. The Gamecocks won the state title in 1990, but lost in the championship game in 1991 to Spartanburg. Dunnican had 115 yards on four carries in that game. Following high school, Kelton furthered his career at Northeast Oklahoma Junior College.

"I don't want to say that I didn't really like it out there, the people were just different than what I was used to. I just tried to deal mainly with the people from the Southeast." Whatever he was doing, it must have worked, as he rushed for over 400 yards his freshman season. Early in his sophomore year, he tore an ACL in practice, and spent almost the entire next year recovering from the injury.

The work ethic that he used in his recovery has stuck with him, and is one of the reasons that he feels that he is a leader on this year's team. "I feel like my role on the team has been to lead by example. I think the other players on the team look at me as someone who goes hard and gives 100 percent all of the time."

Dunnican, who has been labeled as undersized for a fullback by some, attributes his blocking ability to his work ethic and "want to." "Undersized is what the media says. I'm definitely smaller than Raymond (Priester) and Emory. Football and blocking is about 'want to.' If you want to do it you can."

One thing that Kelton wants to do is take back the most embarrassing moment in his career. At the end of a 21-yard first quarter run against Georgia Tech, Dunnican was pushed out of bounds and into head Clemson trainer Doc Hoover.

"I got out of the backfield and into the secondary, and I was trying to read my receiver's block. Their safety started closing in, so I decided to hit the sidelines, and he shoved me just as I got there. The collision knocked the unsuspecting Hoover unconscious, and forced him off the Tiger sidelines for the first time in 416 games.

"My first thought was 'Oh my gosh, I hurt Doct!,' said Dunnican, "It was like a 20-yard gain, but that really took away from it." When Clemson players are injured for a practice, they wear either yellow or green jerseys, to limit the amount of contact they receive. "The Tuesday after that game, Doc showed up to practice wearing a green jersey. He still gives me a hard time about that. Every time he sees me, he says 'Get away from me Kelton!'"

Dunnican also inadvertently ran into Furman Head Coach Bobby Johnson on the sidelines during the Furman game this year, and he required some surgery to repair a cut. Look out when Kelton is headed for the sidelines.

Today, Kelton will make his final trip into Death Valley, his favorite stadium in the country. "There is no place like Death Valley. I have been to many other stadiums in the country, but this is definitely the best." Kelton will make sure that he does not have another embarrassing moment today when he runs down the hill. "There will be a lot of emotion flowing when we run down the hill against South Carolina, but you have to make sure you pace yourself. You can't go down it at full speed, or you will trip."

Dunnican will graduate in the Spring with a degree in Human Resource Development. He hopes that a professional football career will be in his future, but, if not, he has other plans. "I would like to go into the Human Resources field," said Dunnican. "I also would not mind going back to Sumter High as a coach."

One thing that he can take with him for sure will be the memories of his big day in Charlottesville. Perhaps that best game of his career statement will be edited again.
Death Valley. The name speaks for itself. If you want to play in this house, you better have the reputation to back it up. TORO’s 640 Series Sprinkler has been the number one choice for athletic sports fields for more than a decade. That’s a reputation built on MVP performances.

If you want that kind of durability, match TORO quality products with certified contractors like Environmental Landscaping...a winning team that can handle the toughest conditions.

The Tiger junior class of Scott Ayer, John Dunham, and PJ Olson, who is the second captain for the Tigers, continue to make great strides as Clemson representatives. They have made major contributions to the Tigers over the past two years and should continue on that avenue in 1996-97. Todd Wasilewski, currently a sophomore, had a great diving year for the Tigers and is the only returning diver to the Clemson group.

Leading the Tigers on the women's side of things is 1996 ACC Rookie-of-the-Year, Wendy Henson. The sophomore was the only Lady Tiger to make it to the NCAA's in her event and was named Honorable Mention All-American for her efforts. Henson, the 1996 ACC Rookie of the Year, is joined by three seniors in Sarah Borowski, Jennifer Daugherty, and Tiffany Jones.

The Lady Tiger freshmen class of 1995-96 was one of the most successful in Clemson history, consistently winning events, developing and adding depth to the Lady Tigers for the future. Lisa Bartlett was one of the strongest competitors in the 200 IM and the 200 butterfly for Clemson. Kathy Lowry also had a good year for the Tigers as a freshman, posting a top three finish at the conference championships in the 100 butterfly and scoring at the ACC champinships in the 50 and 100 freestyle.

Sarah Borowski will be one of the Lady Tiger captains in 1996-97, who made NCAA provisional marks during the season last year.
She is a hopeful for the NCAA Championships in '97 and is expected to be one of the Lady Tigers top performers in the distance freestyle events. Tiffany Jones takes on the reins as a captain in 1996-97 as well. She is a senior 200 backstroker who looks to the NCAA Championships as a way to top off her career with Clemson.

Coming into the Tiger program are 11 new men and eight new women to add to the team in 1996-97. The women's recruiting class is one of the strongest classes that the Lady Tigers have seen.

Erin Shatz is one of the most diverse swimmers to come into the program. She qualified for the Olympic Trials in the 200m breaststroke and has times, coming out of high school, that would score within the top five at the confer-eence championships in the 100 yds., 200 yds., 500 yds. freestyle as well as the backstrokes.

Anderson is the captain of the Clemson
Men's program for 1996-97.

Agata Jankowska comes to the Lady Tigers from Poland. She has made times that qualify her for the national championships in both backstroke events. Jennifer Muhlik is a local recruit from Clemson, SC and has the potential to reach the NCAA's within the next few years.
Kendra Kelly comes to the Lady Tigers with the fastest 100 butterfly time so far and Marchionda will look to put her into the 400 or 200 yds. IM as well.

Another area recruit is Dory Glenn, out of Spartanburg, SC, who should help in the 100 yds. and 200 yds. breaststroke. Meg Davis comes to compete for the Lady Tigers in the sprint events from Spartanburg, SC, Magdelena Kupiec, the second Lady Tiger recruit from Poland, is a breaststroker. She has posted times in the past that rank her in the top 10 in the world.

Wes Morrow is from Simpsonville, SC and looks to be the Tigers' top male competitor in the IMs, especially in the 200 & 400 IM. He is a diverse swimmer, in addition to his IM duties, he also swims the 100 yds. and 200 yds. butterfly, Sasha Novozhilov is a junior college transfer from Broward Community College who enters Clemson to compete in the sprint events. He should be an asset in both the 50 and 100 yds. freestyle and will be counted on to compete on the relay events as well.

Adam Porter, a recruit from Boxboro, MA, will add to a depleted backstroke contingent with the Tigers. Mike Pridemore, out of Franklin, TN, is more of a short sprinter, but could play a major role and be fourth leg on a few freestyle relays, especially the 200 relay.
Chris Muro, a local recruit out of Greenville, SC, has not been swimming that long, but has impressive times in the 200 yds. freestyle and should compete there for the Tigers in 1996-97.
The Tigers gain another junior college transfer in Matt Nelson, who came from Indian River Community College. Nelson is a freestyler who should add to the depth of the Tigers in the sprint events and the relays.

Rob Ethridge out of Aiken, SC is a backstroker in the sprints and is one of only three backstrokers on the team. He will add a competitive edge to the Tigers backstrok ing contingent this year as well. The Tigers also grabbed Jeremy Timko out of Pittsburgh, PA. He should be able to step up, continue to improve and become a major contributor in the 100, 200 butterfly and the 200 freestyle.

Henson earned All-America honors as a freshman.

Consistency and peaking at the right time are essential in life and especially in golf. The Clemson golf team historically has experience in both of these qualities. A look at the Tigers accomplishments in the 1990s tells the story.

Clemson is one of six teams in the nation to make the cut at the NCAA National Tournament at least six of the seven years this decade. Larry Penley's club has finished in the top 20 nine of the last 10 years. That is consistency.

Peaking at the right time became a Tiger trademark between 1993-95 as Clemson claimed three consecutive NCAA East Regional titles, an accomplishment that is unprecedented in NCAA golf.

In 1997, Penley looks to a team that has both experience and a great deal of depth to continue the Tiger golf traditions. He feels that the pursuit starts with co-captains and 1996 All-Americans Richard Coughlan and Charles Warren.

"Richard will be wearing a lot of hats this year. Without question he has been one of our most consistent players in the last three years. He is a stabilizer in our lineup because he never really has a lot of high scores," Penley states.

As the only senior on this year's team Penley will expect more from Coughlan (Offally, Ireland), than just his consistent play. "He will be more of a leader this year and that is a different role for him. He had always been the underclassman and now he is the upperclassman. I expect both Coughlan and Warren to help us in bringing along the younger players and helping the younger players develop confidence."

Warren (Columbia, SC) was a third-team All-American and an All-ACC pick in 1996 as a sophomore. As a freshman, he had the eighth best freshman stroke average in Clemson history.

"Warren had a great year in 1996. We are counting on him for a lot of different things. He had a great summer and brings a lot of tournament experience to our lineup. Coughlan, Warren, and Joey Maxon need to start looking to win tournaments."

Junior Joey Maxon was another player in 1996 who earned both All-America and All-ACC honors. During the summer Maxon won the Delaware Open and advanced to a playoff in the Southern Amateur.

"Maxon had a great summer. He is a great competitor and he is not afraid to win. Maxon is the last player we have had to win an individual title. I feel he is going to be one of our best players this spring."

Penley is looking for sophomore Elliot Gealy to be a contributor in 1997. Gealy opened his collegiate career with an 81 at the Wofford Invitational last season, but bounced back in the second round to fire a 79. At Clemson's next tournament, the Carpet Capital Classic, he opened with a round of 68. That is the first time a Clemson player has had back-to-back rounds in the 60s since 1993 when Nicky Goetz did it.

"Gealy is certainly one of the most talented players we have ever had. His game really has no weaknesses, he is a great putter, has a great short game, and incredible length off the tee. His consistency is what we have been working on and I think it has finally arrived."

True freshman Jonathan Byrd (Columbia, SC) made an immediate impact on the Tiger program this fall. Byrd finished sixth in the season opening Topy Cup held in Japan. Byrd fired rounds of 70, 73, and 72 on the way to leading Clemson to a third-place finish.

"Byrd is going to be a fantastic player for us. He has to get a little more consistent. His biggest problem is big numbers. He can play 15 or 16 holes under par or better, then have one double or triple bogey that would waste his round. We have to eliminate that from his game. For him time, maturity, and experience will take care of that, but I have confidence he will be a great player for this program in the future," Penley said.

Outside of the top five Penley expects to see junior Chad Starliper (Knoxville, TN) and sophomore John Walker, IV (Macon, GA) to see action in the spring. Starliper played in 12 tournaments during last season when Clemson finished 14th in the nation. He was third on the team in rounds under par and finished in the top 10 twice in 1996. Walker was a red-shirt last season, but gained experience in five tournaments during the spring of 1995.

"Both of those guys have been in our top five throughout their careers. Starliper went through a swing overhaul this past summer. He came back this fall and played well in a couple of tournaments for us. Walker has a lot of game and an incredibly positive attitude. I expect him to do some things for us within the next two or three years."

One thing Clemson golf has in its corner is the Walker Golf Course. The Walker Course is now in its second year of operation and Penley has seen it grow faster than expected.

"Everything about the Walker Course has been positive for our team. The course itself probably has come along faster than I ever dreamed it would. The greens are absolute-

The state of South Carolina has looked to Clemson University for leadership in higher education for more than a century. Now, that tradition is being extended nationwide as Clemson faculty, staff and administrators assume positions of leadership in some of the country's most influential educational, professional and technological organizations. We couldn't list them all, so allow us to introduce a representative few. By serving their colleagues from coast to coast, these leaders are helping build Clemson's reputation as a national university.

clockwise:

Clemson President Constantine Curris serves as Chairman of the Board of Directors of the American Association of State Colleges and Universities.

Tom Keinath, Dean of Engineering and Science, is President of the International Association on Water Quality.

Marvin Carmichael, Director of Financial Aid, is the current Chairman of the National Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators.

Dan Smith, Director of the School of Applied Science and Agribusiness, is the U.S. representative to the Executive Council of the International Farm Management Association.

Chris Przirembel, Associate Dean of Engineering and Science, is the Senior Vice President for Education for the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and will begin a term in June on the Society's Board of Governors.

1996 Clemson Football - The Centennial Season
Why some teams have a stronger bench than others.
IPTAY

IPTAY is widely regarded as the father of Athletic Fundraising. It all started in 1934 and from a private meeting of a small group of Clemson supporters has sprung an organization that raised over $56 million last year. The organization plays a major role in ensuring that all 18 of the varsity sports at Clemson are given the maximum amount of scholarships offered by the NCAA.

The organization also has helped finance facilities that help student-athletes on and off the field. A $27 million foot facility that houses the tutoring and advising programs for student-athletes. It is a major reason Clemson student-athletes have had the highest cumulative GPA on record for three consecutive semesters.

While IPTAY is primarily concerned with athletic fundraising, the mission of Clemson University has not been overlooked. The IPTAY Academic Scholarship Endowment was created to help meet the need for more academic scholarships for non-athletes who are highly qualified academically. The IPTAY Academic Scholarship Fund is presently the largest scholarship endowment of its kind at Clemson. It generates $2.5 million in funds, currently helping 34 students at Clemson.

IPTAY Executive Director George Bennett has continued to keep Clemson among the best in the nation in terms of fund-raising by the establishment of the IPTAY Endowment Program. In April of 1994, he kicked off the beginning of a program of program recognition at the 85th birthday celebration for former Clemson Coach Frank Howard. The endowments are secure with a $100,000 payment done over a five-year period.

"This is a chance to broaden the horizons of IPTAY," said Executive Director of IPTAY George Bennett. "It gives an individual or a group the opportunity to create a position that means something during their college playing days, or to honor a person at a position. The money earned is going to secure our future as the interest is used to carry on our program forever.

"Fans interested in seeing IPTAY and Clemson athletics succeed today, the road now have the perfect means to do that. They can create endowments that can't be touched whereby, only the support will continue. Thus this is a way to ensure that the programs they are in favor of are continued. It has been institutionalized at several colleges and it seemed to be a natural thing to do at Clemson. We have the people who are very supportive and willing to take part."

The first endowment was for the head football coach position to honor the legendary Frank Howard. Howard coached football at Clemson 39 years, 30 as the head coach. During his tenure the Tigers won 165 games, 100 of which were against conference foes.

"Former players and friends of Coach Howard made donations over the cost of attending the celebration program and that was enough for the endowment. Their gifts were a way of permanently thanking Coach Howard for all that he did for Clemson.

"Following Coach Howard's birthday party we began to look for an individual to help us support and promote the program and Bill Hudson's name came up. He was an outstanding player at Clemson who has been equally successful in the business world. We went to him and explained the program and its goals and that we were looking for his leadership to help get the program going and he accepted."

Hudson responded favorably. "Clemson has been good to my family and I have been fortunate in business, which allowed me to be involved in this program," said the former Clemson tackle. "Two of my brothers, my son, and I came to Clemson on a scholarship. The entire family is grateful so I put the endowment of the tackle position in the family's name."

Bill Hudson, a 1956 graduate, was a three-year letter winner at tackle who played professionally for the Montreal Alouettes, the San Diego Chargers, and the Boston Patriots. He earned Pro Bowl honors in 1962. His brother Bob was also a lineman at Clemson who lettered four straight years and played over professionally. "We have a foundation in academics and it is something special to get a letter of thanks from a student who received a scholarship through our donation," said Bill. "That's a great feeling so we were willing to do a similar thing for the athletic department. The permanency of this is what makes it so important, it will be around much longer than I am. Future generations of my family will be able to enjoy and contribute to our endowment."

Mr. Hudson sees this program growing into a large part of Clemson's athletic funding. "When other people see information on the endowment program and learn what it is about this program will grow. Success builds on success. People who are looking to honor a friend or family member now have a great means to do that."

Besides the Hudson's family endowment four other football endowments were made and one managers position in the first year. Now there are over 15 positions endowed. The goal of the program is to get every position endowed. "From the free safety to the number three player in women's tennis, we hope to have every position endowed," said Bennett. "We will likely use the Avenue of Champions as a physical place to honor these people further for the positions they have endowed. That will have plenty of space, so we will be working to have as many endowments across all of our sports. "The personal satisfaction that they helped Clemson University, specifically the Athletic department, and that they are securing its future are the main reasons for becoming involved."

And with more involvement Clemson will have a very secure future for generations to come.

Allens' Creations, Inc. - Frame & Art Gallery - in Clemson sadly announces the unexpected death of artist Bill Stroud on July 6, 1996. Mr. Stroud, of Cayce, S.C., was 46 years old.

On April 1, 1996 a cooperative effort between Allens' Creations, Inc., Mr. Stroud, Clemson University, and the Walker Course led to the release of "The Tiger Paw Hole" #17 The Walker Course At Clemson University. This is the ONLY "officially authorized" and licensed limited edition print of the signature hole on the new golf course at Clemson. At the time of his death, Mr. Stroud had signed only 700 of the 1000 copies of "The Tiger Paw Hole."

Mr. Stroud's first Clemson print release was "On a Clear Day" featuring Tillman Hall in the winter. The remaining copies of "The Tiger Paw Hole" and "On A Clear Day" will be sold on a first-come first-served basis. Please call for availability and current prices.

To view other Clemson prints you can call or write for color brochures - or you can check out our Internet web site at http://www.allenscreations.com. You can e-mail your questions or comments to: aci@innova.net.

STADIUM EMERGENCIES

The Clemson University Athletic Department provides the following for your safety and emergency medical needs:

1. Advanced cardiac life-support stations in four locations (North stands, upper North deck, South stands, Upper South deck). These units are staffed with skill-care nurses, physicians, cardiologists, internists, paramedics, and EMTs.
2. Mobile units of EMTs and paramedics are strategically located throughout the entire stadium.
3. Ambulances with life-support equipment are available in North stand and South stand areas and have prearranged routes for evacuation to local hospitals.

Learn to recognize these personnel and facilities.

WHAT TO DO IF EMERGENCIES ARISE:
Please step back and give the organized EMS personnel room to work. Well-intentioned attempts to help by untrained persons interfere with the efficiency of the EMS system. If you have basic or advanced training in specific life-support methods, make your qualifications known and offer your help. Untrained personnel can frequently be more harmful than helpful.

Most emergencies occurring at the stadium result from pre-existing medical conditions. Bring your medical identification card or wear medical identification jewelry. Moderation is the key with dress, food, beverage intake, and physical exertion. The two most frequent medical problems at football games are allergic reactions to insect stings and heart attacks.

INSECT STINGS:
Common at outdoor events. Treat immediately with ice and seek medical advice. If allergic, carry a kit from your physician with you.

HOW TO RECOGNIZE A HEART ATTACK:
The symptoms of a heart attack vary, but the usual warning signs are:

1. Uncomfortable pressure, fullness, squeezing or pain in the center of your chest lasting for two minutes or more.
2. Pain spreading to the shoulders, neck, jaw, arms, or back.
3. Dizziness, fainting, sweating, nausea, and/or shortness of breath.

EXPECT A DENIAL
Frequently heart attack victims deny they are having a heart attack. The event is frightening or they don’t want the embarrassment of a false alarm. Therefore, they delay getting help by ignoring their symptoms or rationalizing, "It’s just indigestion" Find out what’s really wrong. Prompt response can dramatically increase chances of survival and recovery.

New therapies have been developed that can minimize heart damage and save lives if treatment begins within the first few hours of symptom onset. "Time is muscle." Get help or get to a hospital immediately.

Death Valley

Name synonymous with Clemson Memorial Stadium. The Stadium was dubbed this affectionate title by the late Lonnie McMillan, a former coach at Presbyterian. He used to take his teams to play at Clemson, and they rarely scored, never mind gained a victory. Once he told the writers he was going to play Clemson up at Death Valley because his teams always got killed. It stuck somewhat, but when Frank Howard started calling it that in the fifties, the term really caught on. It is now in its 55th year.

Many people think the name is derived from the fact that there rests a cemetery outside the fence on the pressbox side of the stadium. But, although it would make sense, the name was first coined by Lonnie McMillan.

First Friday Parade

The Clemson football season kicks off each year with the annual First Friday Parade. The once a year event takes place on the Friday afternoon prior to the first home football game. Floats from various fraternities and sororities and other campus organizations are represented in the parade that rolls down main street in Clemson. The parade culminates at the Amphitheatre in the middle of campus where the first Pep Rally of the year takes place.

The Grand Marshal of the Parade is featured at the Pep Rally. Recent Grand Marshalls have ranged from current PGA professional Dillard Pruitt, to College Football Hall of Fame legends Jess Neely and Frank Howard, to noted television announcers Brent Musburger and Ara Parseghian.

Homecoming

Clemson holds a classic homecoming every year. Displays by fraternities and sororities that are months in the making, are built on Bowman Field the week prior to the Homecoming Weekend. It is an event that draws alumni and friends of Clemson from all over the country.

The Friday evening prior to the game, Tigerama is held in Death Valley, an event that attracts over 35,000 fans. The Homecoming Queen and her court are presented in addition to Homecoming skits, a pep rally and a large and loud fireworks display.

The first homecoming game played at Homecoming was in 1925.

"Death valley really lives up to its image. I was impressed with this stadium. When you put 80,000 people in here, it really feels like they are on top of you. I would hate to be Georgia Tech or whoever else comes in here."

Steve Young, San Francisco 49ers

Clemson took place on September 30, 1992 when Clemson met Centre. Clemson has a 52-17-3 record on Homecoming games over the years, a .742 winning percentage and has outscored the opposition 1519-930 in those previous 71 games. The average margin of victory is 21 to 12. Clemson has been especially successful on Homecoming in recent years, posting a 22-1-2 record since 1970.

Orange Pants

The tradition of the Clemson team wearing orange pants is new according to tradition standards. The Tigers first wore the all orange uniform for the final game of the 1980 season against South Carolina. Clemson upset the 14th ranked Gamecocks and Heisman Trophy winner George Rogers, 27-6. The victory set the stage for Clemson's National Championship run of 1981.

Overall, Clemson is 29-6 in Orange pants since that 1980 game, including a 16-1 record in games played in the month of November. The Tigers have won seven in a row in orange pants, including last year's important victory over North Carolina. Clemson has nine wins over top 20 opponents when wearing Orange pants, including the 22-15 National Championship clinching win over Nebraska in the 1982 Orange Bowl.

Howard's Rock

When the Clemson team gathers to Run Down the Hill the players rub Howard's Rock because of the mystical powers it is supposed to give Clemson players. The rock is mounted on a pedestal at the top of the hill and was given to Coach Frank Howard by a friend (S.C. Jones' 19) who picked it up in Death Valley, CA. The Rock was first placed on the pedestal at the top of the hill on September 24, 1966, a game Clemson won 40-35 over Virginia. The team started rubbing the rock for the first game of 1967, a 23-6 win over Wake Forest on September 23, 1967.

Running Down the Hill

One of the most exciting 25 seconds (about 35 seconds when Clemson dresses 120 players for homecoming) in college football from a color and pageantry standpoint. After Clemson's last warmup the team retreats to the home dressing room located under the West Stands. At about 12:50 (for normal 1:00 P.M. game), the team boards two buses and drives around the periphery of the stadium to the east side of the field. After everyone is properly collected, the cannon sounds, Tiger Rag is played and Clemson charges down the hill (exactly 100 feet top to bottom) and onto the field. It is one of the most celebrated entrances in sport. The Tigers have done it for every game since 1942, except for 1970, 1971 and four games of the 1972 season. In all, the Tigers have run down the hill 249 times heading into 1996.

How in the world did the tradition of running down the hill start? There is no long involved explanation. It used to be the quickest way to get to the field. When the stadium was built in 1942 the football locker rooms were up the street in Fike Fieldhouse.

When the players were finished getting dressed they used to walk out the front door and walk down the street to "The Hill". Coach Howard continued the tradition when locker rooms were finally built inside the stadium because Clemson fans used to get so fired up when they gathered at the top of the hill. That's when the buses came into use to spend the trip from the lockerroom to the other side of the stadium.

Running down the Hill is one of the greatest stadium entrances in all of sports

Mac McWhorter

by Adair Clary

Mac McWhorter was named Clemson tight ends and tackles coach in February of this year following his tenure at the University of Georgia, also his alma mater.

McWhorter, who has been in coaching since he got out of college, cannot remember the first time a football was placed in his hands. "I guess I started playing in elementary school, around 1960 when I was 10 years old. I come from a great history of football and I grew up in an athletic family."

Because he has experience both playing and coaching football, McWhorter is able to see the game from both points of view. "As a player, it was easier. I was one of those players who did what I was told and pretty much was self—motivated. As a coach, you have to worry about all the guys that you're responsible for and then a lot of people you aren't. You don't have quite the control over as much as you'd like." To McWhorter coaching is, "a different perspective that gives you a different realm of responsibilities."

In addition to having both played and coached football, McWhorter also has experience with coaching on both the high school and college levels. During his first five years as a high school coach he was an assistant and it was during his sixth and final year of high school coaching that he was named head coach. "It was a big jump from being an assistant coach to being a head coach, because as head coach, you're in charge of everything." When he moved to the college realms, "the details became many more and the time requirement was tremendous compared to high school ball."

Having coached at a variety of other schools, McWhorter has been impressed with the "tremendous fan support" at Clemson ball games. "The importance of football here is evident by the size of the stadium."

One of his biggest concerns when he accepted the job at Clemson was tripping while running down the infamous "hill." But, much to his relief he doesn't have to worry about it. "The coaching staff gets on the phones on the sidelines while the players are coming around to run down the hill. Coach West is the only coach that actually runs down the hill, so I haven't had to worry about running down and falling."

Reflecting on the changes in football since he began playing and subsequently coaching, McWhorter said, "Football has become much more sophisticated. When I first began playing we had limited formations, now there are numerous formations. The players are increasing in size and speed abilities more every year."

To look ahead to the game of football in 20 years concerns McWhorter. "I just hope it's not all soccer in 20 years. Football has gotten to be such a business, I see the quality of the players and the quality of the game increasing, but simultaneously I see the limitations of the game increasing." One primary concern of the future of football for McWhorter is the fact that, "they keep reducing scholarships and keep increasing the limitations on recruiting."

During his tenure at the University of Georgia, McWhorter had the opportunity to coach many greats, including Heisman trophy candidates Garrison Hearst and Eric Zeier. While McWhorter views his coaching experiences with future professional players as special, he does not feel any differently about them than other players he has coached. "I really don't feel any more sense of accomplishment with the players who have gone on to be professional players than I do with kids who have been great college players and have gone on to be successful in businesses and with their families."

Is McWhorter proud of his coaching record? Yes, he has been around bowl winning programs and successful players, but he is more proud of being able to look back and see that he has helped recruit players with scholarships that would not have been able to go to college or achieve the quality of life that they have reached otherwise.

"I can name you a half a dozen games that were special in one way or the other, but the reward of taking someone from an environment and giving them a chance to better educate themselves and improve their quality of life has been my greatest accomplishment."

"Coaching is one of the most rewarding professions. The players keep you young and you are challenged on a daily basis. I still draw from my playing experience when I am coaching my players."

He has had countless rewarding experiences this year. His young offensive line has made improvement every week, reaching a high point two weeks ago at 15th ranked Virginia when Clemson rushed for 263 yards. The Cavs had averaged allowing just 87 yards per game on the ground, ninth best in the country.

"I would like to see the Clemson offense continuing to progress daily, that's all we really have control over. We have a tremendous nucleus and will be losing only Jamie Trimble off the offensive line, so we should have a great returning line next year. We have improved weekly as is apparent in our games and I hope we continue to do so throughout the season and into next year."

One area McWhorter does not have to worry about is his family. It has been supportive of his career and a reason for his success. "I have a tremendously supportive wife. She is extremely supportive and independent, which is a real advantage to me in this business. I spend as much time with other people's kids as I do with my own and it's a great to have a wife like Becky that runs the family while I'm gone. Becky gets really involved in my job, she has a mothering instinct and wants to be the mother of all my players. In addition to my wife, my kids have gone home over three holidays which makes me feel good because I know they're behind me."

"My father influenced me more than anyone else in my life. He gave me a general philosophy that I continue to live by, 'You do things the right way, you will work hard and you will be enthusiastic about it and good things will happen.'"

When you think of one the most successful strong safeties in Clemson history, there are lots of names that come to mind, but one of the most prevalent has got to be Brian Dawkins. Dawkins, who was recently named to the Clemson Centennial Team for outstanding performances over his career, has made a name for himself as a rookie in the NFL.

In this, his first year with the Philadelphia Eagles, Brian Dawkins has already established himself as a starter on the team, has become one of the hardest working individuals in a defensive position, and looks to his future with confidence and ability of a "professional". He has the support of a young coaching staff that has been willing to take a chance on a true "rookie". He is among the team leaders in tackles and big plays. He had a sack in a Monday Night game against the Cowboys, and the hit forced a fumble that led directly to a touchdown.

"During the preseason games, I knew I would get in during the second quarter to play. I was really nervous and was trying make sure I knew what was going on out there on the field," says Dawkins. "After the first couple of plays, I started to settle down, but I have to say, those first plays were the most nervous moments of my life."

It is repetition that helps the most in these situations, and Dawkins has had plenty of it during the practices with the Eagles. With a day beginning at 7:00 am and continuing until 6:00 PM, there is plenty of time for both learning and repeating. "During my first practice, I was confused and I kept messing up on my checks. I was just happy to be here. I knew that I wasn't going to get to play because there were a lot of things I didn't know yet. I knew that I would get in on special teams and some at nickel (back), but I didn't know how much time I was going to see," says Dawkins.

Obviously the coaching staff at the Eagle compound thought that there was more potential when they looked at Brian Dawkins. There was talent, skill, and an innate knowledge of the game that gave him an edge, and an eventual starting role. This feeling of confidence in Dawkins by the coaches has rubbed off to produce an athlete who not only loves what he's doing, but who enjoys playing for the coaches, fans, and team in Philadelphia.

"I couldn't have asked for a better place to come," says Dawkins. "The coaching staff is down to earth and so are the players on the team. I'm still getting used to the situation here. But everyone is a part of the team, I'm one of the guys, not just a rookie." In support of the community, the Eagle team takes time off to do community service during the season and in the off-season.

When the coaching staff keeps the situation light, the pressure off, and the mood on the up swing, it's amazing how quick the response and how well the team performs. "Emmitt Thomas (secondary coach) is great and I have a lot of fun in his meetings. It is a relaxed atmosphere. We know how it is going to be every day, we know what to expect. We have time to learn and look at things and there is laughter every day."

Dawkins has the benefit of the "older folk" in the league passing on information, tips, and jabs, but he has the comfort of knowing that there is someone else going through the same things he's going through, almost. Ray Farmer, an All-America football player for the Duke football team, who ironically once beat Clemson with a blocked punt in 1994, was signed by the Eagles as well last year. Despite the competition during college, they have become fast friends in the face of what could be considered a stressful situation, playing against and with guys who have played in the NFL for years.

Farmer and Dawkins, who both live in New Jersey, (just a turnpike and bridge away from Philadelphia) commute to the stadium together each day. "We leave at about 6:15 am each morning to get to the Stadium by 7:00 am. I have my daily dosage of coffee to get me going so that I can lift. At about 8:20 am we have special teams meetings and we stay there for a while. On a typical day, special teams head out to the field at 1:00 PM and the whole team begins practice at 2:00 PM until 3:45 PM. At 4:00 PM we go to meetings and film. I get home by 5:30 PM or 6:00 PM every day."

A little different than the schedule at Clemson!

"I don't think that this is all that different from college ball," says Dawkins, "But now, I only have to concentrate on the one. I don't have to worry about class." In the pro ranks, everything is so regimented that a day goes by quickly and is filled each minute with different responsibilities for the players, coaching staff, and administration. "I miss the guys at Clemson that I played with for four years."

Another comforting thought for Dawkins this season has been the fact that when he looks to opponent sidelines, he has a good chance of seeing someone he played football with at Clemson. That happened when the Eagles took on the Washington Redskins during one of the preseason contests. "I saw Leon (Evans) during the game. We talked a little bit before hand. It was good to see him out there," says Dawkins.

His personal life is no different, with Dawkins constantly looking to the challenges and happiness that the days bring him. With wife, Connie, and newborn, Brian, Jr., life has taken on a new urgency with different implications. The days have certainly changed for this achiever, who graduated with his Clemson degree in May of 1996. They are now filled with early morning calls for "work" at the Eagles compound, returning home and spending some quality time with "Little B", grabbing some dinner, going to bed, and starting the regimen all over again.

Brian Patrick Dawkins, Jr., was born August 2 at 7 lbs. 2 oz. "It was hard at first," says Brian, Sr. "He was up every two hours and we got real tired. I helped Connie out the best I could. Now it's better though. He wakes up one time at 3:00 or 4:00 am and then it's back to bed."

Things became a little different with the addition to the family. "I had a family before," says Brian with a little sense of awe, "but now I have a dependent. Things have changed a lot. I changed my attitude tremendously." But that doesn't mean that the extended family isn't present. Mom and Dad are still extremely proud of their son, now professional football player, and college graduate. Brian Dawkins quickly made his mark on the Clemson football field with powerful hits and all-out aggression. Now, things are different. There is a new system to learn and new players to contend with, all who want the job that Dawkins has. But you can bet that he's not going to give it up. Making his mark in the Eagle's record books is next on the agenda. He's off to a good start.

Dawkins was a hard hitter at Clemson and he has enhanced that reputation this year in the NFL with Philadelphia.

Today is a day unlike any other. Granted the routines are the same, another football game, another cool, fall day filled with excitement and color. But it is different. Different because this day only happens once a year. The game of all games - South Carolina.

Since 1896 when the first game was played against the Gamecocks, this game has been one of the most heated rivalries in the country. Clemson and South Carolina fans have waited all year for the arrival of this game. When the day finally arrives the anticipation is running at a feverish pitch. Who will win, who gets to make rubb-it-in at the loser for the next year?

But today is also a special day for other reasons. Not only will the game determine the winner of this great rivalry, but it will bring back some of the finest people to ever play on this field. Now this does not mean just former football players, but rather those people who add a certain element to the game by the pageantry and show that they put on before and during the game.

Just 30 minutes before kickoff the “Band That Shakes The Southland” makes its entrance to the field and begins its pregame festivities by performing one of John Sousa’s most renowned marches, the “Washington Post.” The Clemson University Pershing Rifles Company C4 presents the colors on the field. Everyone stands to honor America in the singing of the “God Bless America.”

After the invocation, the crowd is asked to remain standing for the Pledge of Allegiance and the National Anthem conducted by the Clemson University Director of Bands Dr. Richard Goodstein. Tiger Band then invites everyone in the singing of the Alma Mater.

Tiger band then marches across the field to form the script “Tigers”, which is brilliantly displayed over the entire field. Dotting the “I” today will be Tiger Band Commander Chris Sloan.

After dotting the “I” the Tiger band will then begin playing the “Sound That Shakes The Southland” while marching to the end zone to form the tradition tunnel. This tunnel serves as an entrance to the field that the team takes. At this point, Clemson fans are just seconds away from the “most exciting 25 seconds in college football from a color and pageantry standpoint.”

At the designated moment, the cannon fires and the frenzy of excitement begins.

The players “Rub Howard’s Rock” hoping to gain some magical powers. No player will ever forget the excitement that this generates. The band then makes it way off the field.

Tiger Bands second appearance of the day will be during halftime. Today’s halftime performance will salute one of America’s favorite spy’s James Bond. The show is aptly titled “Bond and Beyond” and will feature songs from “Dragnet”, “Peter Gunn”, “Mission Impossible” and several James Bond Movies.

Another chapter in Clemson’s football season will be closed at the end of today’s game and the winner of the most celebrated rivalries will reign until the next meeting. But let us not forget today those people that participate in the game’s of today and the past. Those are the people in a different uniform that create just as much excitement for Tiger fans- Tiger Band.

Tiger band wishes to thank all those students, especially the seniors performing at Death Valley for the last time (see photo) who give so much time and effort into the band program. Without their outstanding leadership skills, performances and practices would be much more difficult.

DeChane Cameron thought he had some making up to do when Clemson played South Carolina in Columbia in 1991.

He did not get to play against the Gamecocks as a freshman in 1988 and got in the game late a year later to do some mopping up for Chris Morocco, and added 33 yards to the Clemson total. When the team finally became his in 1990, he started all 12 games, but the USC game was his worst offensively all season.

Of the four games where he had less than 100 yards of total offense, the South Carolina fracas was his lowest total (60 yards) of the season. Clemson still won that game in Death Valley, 24-15.

But regardless of what had happened in the past, it all came out on the plus side in Cameron's senior year (1991).

This game is one of only two that did not end Clemson's regular season schedule as the Tigers played Duke in Tokyo the next Saturday. In 1982 Clemson and Wake Forest also met in Tokyo following the season finale. Not since 1961 when the Gamecocks and Tigers met three games from the end has the always hotly-contested meeting between these two state rivals not been the grand finale.

Now Cameron was ready to start his final South Carolina game in Columbia. The LaGrange, Georgia native probably didn’t go into deep thought about it, but if the Tigers could win this go round, he could always say: “South Carolina never beat us while I was at Clemson.”

Six times in the storied series the Tigers have claimed four straight wins, and one of these times, the Clemson winning streak stretched to seven games. Players might not think about this much during their college days, but many a time I heard the late Bob Jones mention the fact that in his three years of varsity ball that Clemson was undefeated against the Gamecocks. ‘The General’ was around Clemson for four and a half decades, first as a player and then as a coach.

Cameron, who was the most valuable player in the 1991 Hall of Fame Bowl when Clemson defeated Illinois 30-0, started a trend in '91 which is still current today. The Tigers defeated the Gamecocks, 41-24, on enemy turf, and now, for five straight games, the home team has not won in this annual bloodletting.

For his days work against South Carolina in 1991, Cameron amassed 322 yards, including 206 through the air, which was his third such success during the season. His total offensive yardage that day was the third highest in Clemson history (behind Bobby Gage's 374 yards and Thomas Ray's 335).

Cameron, Gage (against Auburn in '47) and Ken Pengitore (against North Carolina in '73) are the only three Clemson backs to have over 100 yards rushing and 200 yards passing in a game in Tiger history. In Ray's yardage against North Carolina in '85, 323 came through the air, which still remains a Tiger record for passing yards in a game. Gage was only a junior when Auburn was the victim of his 'clinic' while Cameron, Pengitore and Ray were all seniors.

Clemson had seven scoring plays in that 41-24 victory, which was played exactly five years ago today before 74,200. Cameron had a hand in all seven of them, but Richard Moncrief came in and tossed the final score.

South Carolina moved straight down the field for 61 yards, but on a second down at the Tiger 15, Tyrone Mouton intercepted Bobby Fuller. Had it not been for a toughing the punter penalty, Clemson would have been three-and-out. But the drive stayed alive and Rudy Harris went in from the one. Cameron had a run and two pass completions for first downs in the march.

The senior signal caller had 20 of the 37 yards in the next scoring drive, which ended with Nelson Welch's 21-yard field goal for a 10-0 lead. A Clemson penalty kept a Gamecock drive alive and Fuller found Robert Brooks open on a 16-yard scoring pass to narrow the gap to three. But Clemson got this one back in just over four minutes and Cameron really ate up some real estate.

Following the kickoff Cameron passed to tight end Mike Samnik for 31 yards and then took it himself up the middle for five. After a couple of runs by Rodney Blunt, Cameron called his own number again, which resulted in the longest run in the game by either team — 31 yards and a resulting score. This drive was for 73 yards and took less than two minutes.

Marty Simpson's field goal with 21 seconds left in the half closed the margin to a touchdown again. But the Tigers would pretty well ice the game with a 17-point outburst in the third period. Welch kicked his second field goal after the opening second half drive bogged down and that took less than two minutes again... the big play in the drive? A 62-yard pass from Cameron to Terry Smith on the very first play.

South Carolina could muster only one first down before giving up the ball. Clemson was off on another drive, this one for 81 yards which was topped with Blunt's 16-yard dash around right end for a TD. Cameron was 4x4 on passing for 51 yards.

Cameron owned 48 of the 69 yards in the next drive and here Harris went off right tackle for six yards to score again and just 30 seconds were left in that third period. The Tigers felt fairly comfortable with a 24-point lead. The 41-24 final was a most satisfying victory for the Citrus Bowl bound and ACC Champion Tigers.

The Tiger signal caller, two games away from completing his four-year career, said in his post-game comments: “It was a gift — everything was going right. We got some lucky breaks, but we played great football. This was by far my best personal performance, even better than the Hall of Fame game (a 30-0 win over Illinois when his total offense was 217 yards).”

In pre-season Cameron said a person should always be persistent and consistent and that with hard work and dedication anyone can overcome obstacles.

And when asked: What bugs you the most?, the seriously-minded student of the game said: "Someone who thinks they are more than what they are.”

DeChane Cameron could think all he wanted about himself this day, but the result wouldn’t come anywhere close to the results that he rang up from the grid-iron five years ago today.

Cameron had his career game at South Carolina five years ago today.
