ON THE COVER
Seniors Donald Broomfield and Chris Jones are the Tigers featured on today's program cover. Both have waited patiently throughout their careers for the opportunity to start behind some star players, Broomfield behind Anthony Simmons. Bromell is playing for the Miami Dolphins, while Simmons is with the Seattle Seahawks. Today is also IPTAY Day. Check out page 128 for the 1997-98 IPTAY Athlete of the Year featured in today's "Last Word."

Clemson Passing Outstanding vs. Deacs

Clemson has a perfect 4-0 record against Wake Forest under Tommy West and passing offense has been the key. Over the four games, Clemson quarterbacks are 59-86 passing for 818 yards and four touchdowns. That is a 68.6 completion percentage and a 161.5 passing efficiency.

Nealon Greene handled most of the passing during the last four years. He had his top yardage game as a Tiger in last year’s 33-16 Clemson victory, as the current member of the Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian League hit 18-26 passes for 286 yards and two scores. Greene was 6-7 against Wake Forest before injuring a shoulder in the second quarter two years ago at Death Valley.

Each of the last three years Clemson has had its top completion percentage and passing yardage game of the season against Wake Forest. Greene was 18-25 at Winston Salem in 1995, a game that featured a four touchdown performance by Emory Smith.

Edwards Turns in Long Plays

Clemson senior cornerback Antwan Edwards became the first player in Clemson history to have a pair of 80-yard runs in the same game when he had an 86-yard kickoff return in the second period to set up a field goal, then had a 93-yard fumble return for a touchdown that changed the momentum of the entire game.

His scoring return came with Virginia leading 17-5 and prevented the Cavs from taking a 24-5 lead. Instead, he closed the gap to 17-11, and the Tigers eventually took an 18-17 advantage before losing, 20-18.

Edwards became the fourth player in Clemson history to be involved with at least two 80-yard plays in a season, never mind a single game. Five other Tigers have been involved in at least two 80-yard plays in a career.

Doug Thomas had a pair of 98-yard kickoff returns for touchdown just two weeks apart in 1990. He had the returns against Long Beach State and Maryland that year. Nealon Greene had a pair of 80-yard touchdown passes in 1996. He had one of those 80-yarders against Wake Forest in Death Valley. Don Kelley had an 85-yard punt return against Maryland and a 102-yard interception return against Duke in 1970.

The other players who have had at least two 80-yard plays in their careers are Rex Vann (1977-78), Bobby Gage (1945-48), Derrick Witherspoon (1990-93), Craig Brantley (1974-75) and Perry Tuttle (1979-81).

Bobby Gage is the only Clemson player in history to be involved in three plays of at least 80 yards. As a freshman in 1945, he had an 88-yard run against Presbyterian. Two years later he had an 89-yard kick return for a touchdown against Duquesne and in 1948 he had a 90-yard punt return against NC State. That punt return proved to be the winning score in Clemson’s 13-6 victory in an undefeated season.

Edwards fumble return was the longest in Clemson history, breaking the mark of 91 yards by Mike Barber (now with Indianapolis Colts) against UT-Chattanooga in 1992. Edwards kickoff return was the longest by a Clemson player since 1990 when Thomas went 98 yards against Maryland. Edwards return was also the longest non-scoring kickoff return in Clemson history.

A look to the following chart shows us that Edwards certainly makes things happen when he has the pigskins in his hands. He has averaged 34 yards every time he has touched the ball this year and 23 yards over the 32 times he has handled the ball in his career.

Dingle Half Way to Sack Record

During the preseason, Clemson head Coach Tommy West praised senior defensive lineman Adrian Dingle many times. “We just can’t block Adrian Dingle,” said West on many occasions. It seems the opposition is having problems blocking Dingle also.

The senior from Holly Hill, SC, who was a high school football teammate of Clemson starting basketball center Harold Jamison now has five sacks in just three games this year. He has had at least one sack in each game and needs just two more consecutive games with a sack to tie Chester McGlockton’s Clemson record. McGlockton, who has been an All-Pro each of the last four years, had at least one sack in five straight games between 1989-90.

Dingle has five sacks already this season, halfway to the single season record of 10 set by William Perry in 1984, Jim Stucky in 1979 and Michael Dean Perry in 1987. All three of those players had significant NFL careers.

In the season opener, Dingle had three sacks against Furman, the second time in his career he has tied the Clemson single game mark. He joins Michael Dean Perry as the only players in Clemson history to have three sacks in a game, twice.

Dingle leads the team in quarterback pressures with seven and has 14 total tackles, including 11 first hits. He is fourth on the team in first hits. He also has a caused fumble and a recovered fumble this season.

With his six tackles for loss and five sacks, Dingle has moved into the top 10 in Clemson history in both defensive areas. He is currently tied for ninth in tackles for loss with 36, joining former All-American Jim Stucky and current Kansas City Chiefs starter Wayne Simmons. He is currently ninth in sacks with 17.5, just a half a sack behind Stucky.

Laird Averaging over 43 yards

One of the highlights of the performance at Virginia was the play of Clemson punter Kevin Laird. Field position is always important in a close game and it was especially key in the Tigers comeback in Charlottesville.

Three times Laird punts were downed inside the Virginia 20-yard line. In the third period, Laird, who also serves as the holder on Clemson field goal attempts, nailed a 41-yard punt to the Virginia two. Three plays later Gary Childress stopped a Virginia runner for a safety.

In the fourth period he got off a 63-yard punt to get Clemson out of field position trouble and send Virginia back to its own 20.

For the year, Laird is averaging 43.1 yards per punt, ahead of his 42.8 average of last season when he was second in the ACC and 33rd in the nation. Over the last two years, Laird has a 42.83 average for 87 punts. The native of Brandon, MS has 47 punts inside the 20 for his career. The record is 69 by Dale Hatcher between 1981-84, who went on to be an All-Pro in the NFL.

Laird's 39.78 career punting average is ninth best in Clemson history. He certainly would be much higher on the Clemson charts had he not had so many opportunities to pin opponents inside their own 20-yard-line.

Harold Means Business

For the second time in just six games, Harold Means showed he means business when he comes off the bench and takes over a starting assignment. Means got the starting assignment against Virginia when senior O.J. Childress could not go due to a pulled hamstring injury suffered in the Virginia Tech game.

Means responded by leading Clemson in tackles with 11. He also contributed a career high three tackles for loss, including a nine-yard sack in the fourth period. At the time, it looked to be a huge sack, because it gave Virginia a second-and-19 from its own 25 with just 3:30 left. So far this season Means has 21 tackles in 103 plays. The Virginia game was his first start of the year and he has had four tackles for loss. He averages a tackle every 5.7 plays.

It was no surprise to Clemson coaches that Means did the job. Last year against North Carolina he was called on to start alongside former high school teammate Anthony Simmons when Monds Wilson sustained a knee injury against Duke.

Means responded with 15 tackles and was a big reason the Tar Heels had just 50 yards rushing against the Tigers. He also started against South Carolina and had seven tackles. Means was second only to Simmons last year in plays per tackle. This year he is second only to Chris Jones.

Richardson Had Best Game vs. Wake Forest

David Richardson made his only attempt at Virginia, a 21-yard field, and also made both conversions. The native of Clemson is a perfect 5-5 on field goal attempts this year and is also 4-4 on PATS. His 19 points lead the Clemson team in scoring.

With his perfect 5-5 field goal kicking this year, Richardson is now 20-23 for his career, including 16-17 inside the 40. The 87 percent field goal percentage by Richardson is the best in Clemson history.

Richardson had a perfect 4-4 field goal day last year at Wake Forest, leading Clemson to a 33-18 victory. The four field goals included a career best 52-yarder. He scored 13 points in the game, his high for the year and second most of his career behind the 15 he scored in the season opener against Furman. Richardson was the ACC Specialist of the Week for his performance against the Demon Deacons last year.

Wake Forest Update

Wake Forest enters today’s game with a 1-1 record, a 42-0 loss at Air Force and a 26-14 victory over Navy. Coach Jim Caldwell’s team has not played since the Navy game, so this will be its first action in 16 days.

Expectations are high in the Wake Forest camp this year, thanks in part to a number-22 preseason ranking by Sports Illustrated. Part of the reason for the high expectations are the past performances of a veteran and balanced Demon Deacon offense, and a much more physical defense.

The offense is led by senior quarterback Brian Kuklick. He has completed 42-66 passes for nearly 400 yards through two games. He has completed 64 percent of his passes, similar to his performance last year. Clemson has not seen much of Kuklick recently because he was injured against the Tigers last year.

Kuklick’s favorite target is Desmond Clark, a 6-3 NFL prospect who has 13 catches for 113 yards and a touchdown so far this season. Some time this year he should become the ACC’s career reception leader. Jamie Deese is actually the top pass catcher with 16 receptions for 193 yards.

Morgan Kane is the top running back and that is no surprise to Clemson fans. Kane had 131 yards in 33 rushes against Clemson in Death Valley two years ago. He is the top rusher for the Deacs this year with 172 yards in 38 attempts in two games. He had 94 yards rushing against Navy.

The top tackler on defense is linebacker Dustin Lyman, a 6-4 250-pound junior who has 29 tackles, including two behind the line of scrimmage. Abdul Guice, another junior, is the second leading tackler with 20 stops, while Mat Petz is the leader of the defensive line with 17 tackles, including seven behind the line of scrimmage.

Wake Forest has a fine secondary. Opponents have thrown just 20 passes, but Wake Forest has three interceptions. The leader of the secondary is Damaon Daniel with eight tackles and an interception.

Clemson Update

Clemson enters this afternoon’s game hungry for a victory. The Tigers have lost two games in a row, both to current top 20 teams from the state of Virginia.

Clemson fell behind to Virginia 17-3 after one quarter before Clemson’s defense changed the momentum of the game. First, Gary Childress stopped Thomas Jones in his own endzone for a safety to cut the lead to 17-5.

Later in the period Jason Holloman tackled Tyree Foreman and the ball popped loose. Antwan Edwards picked up the ball at the seven and raced 93 yards for a touchdown. It was the longest fumble return in Clemson history and the second long run of the game for Edwards, who had an 86-yard kickoff return in the first half.

Clemson took an 18-17 advantage in the fourth period when Brandon Streeter took the Tigers 87 yards in just six plays. The junior quarterback connected with junior wide receiver Brian Wolford on a 54-yard touchdown pass. It was the longest reception of Wolford’s career and the longest pass and first scoring pass of Streeter’s career.

Clemson’s defense was outstanding down the stretch. Clemson’s point prevention unit actually outscored Virginia’s offense over the game’s last 45 minutes, 8-3. With 3:55 remaining, Virginia took over at its own 34. The Cavs moved the ball to the Clemson 12 and with 49 seconds remaining, Todd Braverman booted a 30-yard field goal to give the Cavs a 20-18 lead and victory. On the winning drive, Virginia ran 10 plays. They lost yards or failed to gain on seven of them. A pass interference penalty against Clemson, one sited as controversial by members of the media covering the game, was a key to Virginia’s drive.

Clemson Defense Making Big Plays

Clemson’s defense continued to make big plays against Virginia last week. The Tiger defense had five sacks for 30 yards lost and a total of 11 tackle for loss plays. There were also six passes broken up and nine quarterback pressures. Adrian Dingle and Antwan Edwards recovered fumbles, while Jason Holloman and Howard Bartley caused fumbles.

Antwan Edwards returned one of the fumbles 93 yards for a touchdown. It was the second defensive touchdown of the season for the Tigers. The other was scored by Edwards roommate, Chris Jones, who recovered a fumble in the endzone for a score against Furman.

Over the last two weeks Clemson has made a lot of big defensive plays. Virginia Tech had 38 plays of no gain or lost yards, while Virginia had 32 such plays. Harold Means had three tackles for loss against Virginia, while Gary Childress and Braxton Williams had a pair of minus plays.

The touchdown by Edwards was the 12th scored by the defense since Tommy West became head coach of the Tigers in 1994. Clemson has had six fumble returns for touchdown, four interceptions and two blocked punt returns for score in the West era.

Punter Kevin Laird is averaging 43.1 yards per punt in 1998.

Go Tigers! Grrrrrrrrr.

Bill and Bob Peeler for Peelers Milk. The Milk of Choice for Clemson Tiger Fans.
by Bernie Merritt

No true sports fan could deny the fact that Clemson football and the linebacker position go almost hand in hand. Who could forget such names as Jeff Davis, Levon Kirkland, Anthony Simmons and O.J. Childress. O.J. Childress? Yes, this name may one day be listed with the other distinguished linebackers who played for Clemson, but for now Childress will settle for being known as the linebacker who fought and clawed his way to the position he so desperately desired: starting inside linebacker.

Last spring, while the Clemson coaches tried to decide who exactly would fill the linebacker position left vacant by All-American and NFL-bound Anthony Simmons, Childress, a soon to be senior, decided this would be his last shot at the starting position that alluded him his first three seasons with the Tigers. With a rigorous schedule and an unwavering drive, Childress landed that position and helped ease the minds of the coaches, players and the many Clemson faithful.

Born Orian J. Childress, he knew while growing up in Hermitage, TN that football would be more than just a past time. All the males in his family had played football at one time or another, and with his older cousin beginning his career at Tennessee State the notion of going to college to get a degree and to play football seemed like the right thing.

While at McGavock High School in Nashville, TN, Childress played his best trying to impress recruiters with his speed and great athletic ability. He played both ways as a senior totaling 126 tackles, five fumble recoveries and two interceptions on defense. Offense he tallied 11 receptions for 383 yards and five touchdowns. "I enjoyed playing both ways because it was something not too many people could do." During one game he caught three touchdowns and gained 150 yards as a tight end and tallied 16 tackles as a linebacker on defense.

He came to Clemson in 1995 with hopes of carrying on the excellent tradition of Tiger linebackers. "The Hill and Rock were also in the back of my mind, but the linebacker tradition is what really caught my eye." However, for the last three seasons the opportunity of starting linebacker was never available because of the talent ahead of him. So while on special teams he continued to work hard on and off the field, still hoping to get some attention.

As a freshman he was the leading special teams tackler and saw action as a second team outside linebacker in three games, including the Gator Bowl. He missed the only two games of his career as a freshman due to almost receiving a red-shirt season. "I was nearly red-shirted at the start of my freshman season, but the coaches decided they needed me out on the field instead."

Childress would see the most action of his first three years during his sophomore campaign. Childress played in all 12 games that season seeing playing time on 134 snaps. He also tallied nine more special teams tackles to bring his two-year total to 22, which was almost half of the career record 45 special teams tackles held by another former linebacker, Ashley Sheppard. It was not until the spring before his senior year that he would make the biggest move of his career.

With the thought of playing second fiddle to Rahim Abdullah for one more year becoming more and more of a reality, Childress decided that enough was enough. He hit the weight room, where he would increase his pound power to third best on the team and his vertical jump to first among defensive players. This would make him one of the strongest and most athletic of all the Tiger linebackers. Coach Reggie Herring noticed this right away during spring practice. "I've always been impressed with O.J.'s athletic ability, but he really showed this spring that he was stronger, smarter and someone we could count on as a source of consistency."

His work would move him from an outside linebacker position to a starting role as inside linebacker. "The biggest reason for the move was that we needed him on the field. We could not afford to let one of our three best linebackers sit on the bench." With him now in the lineup, coach Herring is looking forward to a very stable and productive year from Childress and the rest of the defense. "O.J. has really stabilized our front seven and I look for them to be not only productive, but to also be a source of consistency over the course of the season."

This sudden rise from second team linebacker and special teams tackling leader to starting linebacker was not accomplished alone. "Abdullah was a big reason for my improvement. He never gave me an inch on the playing field. I had to work for everything and so I knew that I better improve or be satisfied with playing backup for my fourth and final year."

The leadership shown by Abdullah also rubbed off on Childress. Since his recent rise to starter, Childress has served as a quiet, go about his own business kind of guy who other players respect. He has also motivated many of his teammates like Adrian Dingle and even his own brother Gary Childress.

In 1996, Gary chose to play for Clemson over Alabama and Tennessee. His decision was simple however. "I wanted to play with my brother, so once he came here, my mind was made up," Gary said. This has pleased the older Childress and has given their parents more of an opportunity to see them both play football. Having Gary join him on the defense has guaranteed O.J. that his name will be on at least one distinguished list of ex-Tigers. That list being the brother letterman combination, which includes Jeff and Joe Bostic in 1977-78 and perhaps the most famous pair, the Perry brothers, William and Michael Dean, in 1984.

With all that has happened during his career Childress has remained motivated and inspired by his parents. "My parents have supported me a lot and have really pushed me to get an education and not just play football." He has taken their advice and hopes to either play in the NFL or get a position in sports marketing if the NFL does not work out. Childress credits coach Herring for motivating him on and off the field as well. "Coach Herring has pushed me and made me work to be a better football player and most importantly a better person."

This season promises to be a fruitful one for Childress. He has improved on the consistency of his play and has shown coach Herring that he has finally become an active force he can count on to lead and stabilize the defense. "He started out as an inactive and inconsistent player, but has developed nicely into a solid defender," said Herring.

Even though he has never received the name recognition like Anthony Simmons, Levon Kirkland and other current and former Tiger linebackers, Childress does not feel cheated. "I feel very fortunate to have put on a Clemson jersey and gotten the chance to play. I feel that the rest of the seniors and I will go out winners."

In a season of mysteries, such as who is going to win the Atlantic Coast Conference football title or who is going to emerge as the Heisman winner, maybe the biggest mystery is who is the team leader and stand-out on this season’s Clemson defensive line? Search no longer for that man is Donald Broomfield.

Clemson has always been blessed with great defensive linemen. Over the years, Clemson’s defensive line positions have always been occupied by big name stars such as Chester McGlockton, William and Michael Dean Perry, Brentson Buckner, and Jeff Bryant. However, this season’s Tiger defensive line lacks the big name stars, but not leadership. As defensive line coach, Les Herrin, points out, “Donald has accepted the role as the leader and one who leads by example, not words.” Broomfield may not have the media attention as many of Clemson’s past defensive linemen who have gone on to professional careers, but his ability and leadership is second to none.

Broomfield came to Clemson from Olustee, FL where he played at Baker County High School. While in high school, he played tailback, wide receiver, and inside linebacker. He admits enjoying the opportunity to play both ways in high school, but his greatest love has always been defense. “I enjoyed playing both sides of the ball, but more so, I enjoyed the defensive aspect of the game.” You might ask, “What was a defensive lineman doing playing tailback and wide receiver?”

What many Tiger fans do not know is that Broomfield came to Clemson as a 230 pound, linebacker prospect only to be converted to a defensive lineman early in his career. “It was a decision I made with the help of Coach Herrin’s persuasion.” Coach Herrin saw his potential and teased him about how he would make a great defensive lineman. So, he bulked-up during his first two years at Clemson and was moved to the defensive line.

Coming into his senior season, Broomfield was ranked sixth on the Tiger team with a bench press of 422 pounds. His 330 pound clean was ninth best on the Tiger team. Coach Herrin attributes Broomfield’s achievements to his dedication and desire to be the best player and person he can possibly be. However, what may be more remarkable than his work ethic is his patience.

Broomfield came to Clemson in 1994, but was red-shirted and went on to miss most of the 1995 spring practice because of a sinus problem that required surgery. He saw limited action in the 1995 and 1996 seasons while playing, behind such stars as the Miami Dolphins Lorenzo Bromell, Denver Bronco Trevor Pryce, and Raymond White. In 1997, Broomfield played in all 12 games for the Tigers but did not start in any game. He earned 27 tackles in a reserve role, which ranks best among returning defensive linemen.

Now we come to the 1998 season, and four years later, Broomfield has earned his chance to start every weekend for the Tigers. His unbelievable patience and dedication to Coach Herrin’s defensive philosophy has also earned him the role of defensive leader up front. “It’s a role I have asked Donald to take on and one that he feels comfortable with.”

The role of leader is not only a role Coach Herrin expects Donald Broomfield to take on, but it is also a role that Broomfield expects of himself. "I set goals for myself to just basically be a leader on the defensive front. I have to lead the others because I feel like I’m the older guy on the line and I want to lead them by what I do and not what I say."

As any great leader does, Broomfield puts his personal goals aside and stresses the team goals that he and the defensive line have set for the 1998 season. Broomfield and his other teammates on the defensive line want to be the best defense in the nation. “We want to shut other teams out and be as intimidating on defense as possible. If we do our part on the defensive side of the ball we will win games.”

Broomfield is one of five active players who has played in three bowl games prior to the 1998 season, and he would like nothing more than to participate in a fourth bowl game.

As memorable as his experiences in big games have been, nothing compares to the feeling of standing at the top of “The Hill” before each game in the Valley. “I heard people talk about the feeling you get before you run down The Hill, but I never thought it would be the way people talked about it. It’s one of the greatest feelings in the world, to know that all those people are waiting for you to come down and put on a show.”

The memories will always be cherished, but there is one game that Broomfield says has provided a confidence booster for the Clemson football team coming into this season. That game was the Florida State game last season that was played in the Valley. For Broomfield and the rest of the Tigers, that game showed them that they could compete in big games with the elite teams in the nation. As he says, “It was probably one of the most exciting games I have ever played in. Just to see the team play and know that we can play in big games let me know that we can hang with the better teams of the nation.”

Broomfield knows that this is his season to shine and give 100 percent everyday in order to prepare himself for the chance to fulfill his ultimate goal: playing for an NFL team in 1999. “I think I have the tools and ability to do it (play for an NFL team), and now it is all a matter of whether or not I go out there and do all I can,” says Broomfield. There is no denying that Broomfield plays for one of the top NFL player producing defenses in the nation. Combine that with his work ethic and desire to prolong his football career, there is little standing in the way of preventing Broomfield from getting his chance to play on Sundays.

If for some reason an NFL career is not in the future for Broomfield, he will always have his education to fall back on. Broomfield is a marketing major at Clemson and he contains all the characteristics of a successful marketer. His confidence, work ethic, ability to lead by example, and love for talking to people have all contributed to his success in the classroom. He choose marketing because of the opportunity to become a sports marketer. As Broomfield says, “I like to talk to people and be persuasive.” Furthermore, I like the chance that I have to become a sports marketer.” Broomfield, as with many successful people, contributes his successful lifestyle to the influence his parents have had on him.

“I can’t say enough about my mom and dad being there for me.” They have instilled in him the importance of leadership and doing well in the classroom. Broomfield has a strong relationship with his parents, and their guidance has resulted in a leader and someone who is both mentally and physically healthy. “They taught me to do my best and let things fall into place.” The advice his parents have given him is a contributing factor to the patience he has displayed over the last four years at Clemson.

At the conclusion of this season, Donald Broomfield will no longer be a mystery to Tiger football fans, but a defensive lineman that all Tiger fans will associate with the leaders of the past.

Constantine W. "Deno" Curris began his fourth year at the helm of Clemson University with a heightened sense of optimism and determination - and for good reason. Not only had he won a personal battle against cancer; he also had succeeded in building consensus among faculty, staff, students, and trustees about the University's direction for the future.

That direction is spelled out in a new mission statement and a set of implementing concepts adopted by the Board of Trustees at Curris' request earlier this year. The president's personal contribution was a statement of Clemson's vision: To be the nation's premier land-grant university.

No small order, but Curris believes the faculty, staff, students, alumni, and friends are up to the task. Speaking at the spring general faculty meeting, Curris outlined areas where Clemson needs to excel in order to achieve its potential. He challenged the University to:
- Increase access to Clemson without compromising academic standards, working to raise achievement at the middle and high school levels;
- Provide an educational experience second to none, bridging the gap between research and teaching;
- Create a distinctive core curriculum built around liberal arts and sciences, and emphasizing communication ability, critical thinking, ethical judgment, global awareness, scientific knowledge, and technological understanding;
- Expand research activity, particularly in areas where the University can achieve national and international distinction.

"Clemson's size and its rich tradition of faculty-student interaction give us decided advantage to become the nation's premier land-grant university," he said. "We have never embraced the concept of feedlot education, and we have benefited from a physical setting that permits the reinforcement of the curricular by the co-curricular. If there is a will to be the best, we can be."

Curris is not one to shrink from difficult challenges. After successful tenures as president at two other universities - Murray State in Kentucky and Northern Iowa - Curris quickly began to make his mark at Clemson. Progress has been made during his administration on a number of fronts: Expanding the University's information technology infrastructure, enhancing the sense of community and appreciation for traditions that add to the Clemson experience, and involving more alumni and friends in the life of the University through initiatives such as the Commission on the Future of Clemson University - a comprehensive advisory group involving more than 200 leaders in business and the professions.

A native of Lexington, Kentucky, Curris received a bachelor's degree in political science from the University of Kentucky, a master's in political science and public administration from the University of Illinois, and a doctorate in higher education from the University of Kentucky.

Curris is also a national leader in higher education. He is a past Chairman of the Board of Directors of the American Association of State Colleges and Universities and was a featured participant in a 1997 national video teleconference on "The New Public University: How Do We Compete in a Changing Environment?" Curris is also one of 25 presidents currently serving on the national Kellogg Commission on the Future of Land-Grant Universities and is South Carolina's representative on the Commission on the Future of the South.

When his schedule permits, Curris enjoys gardening, fishing, and reading. He is married to Jo Hern Curris, a tax attorney and author, and they have a son, Robert Alexander, and a daughter, Elena Diane.
He’s not your father.

And he’s not your brother.

That’s what’s great about a coach.

You can tell him things you wouldn’t tell your father.

And he’ll give you advice that’s probably more responsible than your brother’s.

Kids need coaches.

They need them now.
Tommy West's Clemson resume as a head coach includes four bowl appearances, a top 25 ranking in every season, 12 road wins and four wins over AP Top 25 teams. The 1998 Peach Bowl was Clemson's third straight year in a bowl game, something only 16 other programs can claim. This is the first time since the 1985-91 era, that Clemson has been to a bowl game three straight years and he is just the second Clemson coach in history to take the Tigers to three consecutive bowl games.

Each of his first four seasons has seen the Tigers make a late season run. In 1994, with the youngest offense in Clemson history, one that started seven freshmen at times, the Tigers won three of their last four games, including a victory at 12th ranked North Carolina.

The run of success at the end of the 1995 season had the Tigers in the top 25 of every poll. Clemson won its last five regular season games, including four wins by at least 17 points. West's Tigers were picked fifth in the ACC preseason poll that year, but, thanks to the third best offense in Clemson history and a defense that ranked 10th in the nation in scoring, Clemson finished third in the ACC standings with a 6-2 record, its best league finish since the Tigers won the ACC title in 1991.

The 1995 campaign was one in which Clemson excelled in every area. The Tigers ranked fourth in the country in rushing, yet also led the ACC in yards per pass attempt. Defensively, Clemson rated in the top 20 in the nation in rushing defense, passing efficiency defense and turnover margin. In terms of special teams, Clemson was the only school in the nation to have an individual ranked in the top 25 in puntng, placekicking, punt returns and kickoff returns. The 1996 season saw Clemson win five of its last six regular season games, including a victory at 15th ranked Virginia, just the third road win over a ranked team in the decade of the 1990s for the Tigers. For the second straight year Clemson won the ACC rushing title and reached a top 25 ranking. Again, Clemson won 75 percent of its ACC games, this time finishing tied for second in the league standings with North Carolina. The Tigers were extended a bid to the Peach Bowl to face LSU.

Last season the Tigers won four of their last five regular season games, including a 47-21 victory over South Carolina in the season finale that clinched a bowl bid.

The season featured a record setting passing attack, led by first-team AP All-American Anthony Simmons, who led the conference in tackles and tackles for loss. Clemson's defense ranked in the top 20 in the nation in rushing defense, total defense and scoring defense and ranked third in the ACC in pass defense.

Clemson's improvement on the field is matched with its improvement in the classroom during the West era. In 1996-97, 20 Clemson football players made the ACC academic honor roll, the highest on record. In fact, each of the three highest totals in that area in Clemson history have taken place under West and the team's cumulative GPA entering 1998 is a 20-year high.

West took over the head coaching position on November 29, 1993. Less than a month later he already had a bowl victory on his ledger, a 14-13 triumph over Kentucky in the Peach Bowl, Clemson's sixth bowl win in an eight-year period. With his debut in the Peach Bowl, West became the sixth coach in NCAA history to make his debut with a program in a bowl game. However, he was just the second coach in history to make his debut in a bowl game without previously coaching his new team as an assistant coach earlier in the season.

West was a mainstay of a Clemson coaching staff that led the Tigers to a 69-20-4 record and six Associated Press Top 20 finishes between 1982-89. During West's first tour of duty with the Tigers as an outside linebacker coach, Clemson was in five bowl games (winning four) and claimed four ACC Championships, including three in a row from 1986-88. Clemson had a 44-10-1 record against ACC competition during his era on the Tiger staff, an 81 percent winning mark. Additionally, five of those Clemson teams ranked in the top 15 in the nation in rushing defense and scoring defense, and three ranked in the top 12 in the nation in total defense.

Clemson's 1989 defense ranked fifth in the nation in total defense, rushing defense and scoring defense and West's outside linebackers had a lot to do with that success. His top four outside linebackers that year all played in the NFL in 1994. The list of former West players in the NFL includes Levon Kirkland and Wayne Simmons, both of whom have played in the Super Bowl in recent years.

West began his coaching career as a graduate assistant at Tennessee (his alma mater) in 1977. He coached one year of high school football at White County High in Sparta, TN in 1978, then became an assistant at Mississippi in 1979. For the 1980 and 1981 seasons he served as an assistant coach at Appalachian State.

After his career at Clemson (1982-89), West became the running backs coach at Tennessee. During that 1990 season Tennessee won the Southeastern Conference and captured the Sugar Bowl with a win over Virginia. The Volunteers scored a school record 442 points that year and averaged over 410 yards a game in total offense, 205.7 rushing and 204.4 passing. He served as Co-Defensive Coordinator at South Carolina in 1991 and 1992.

In 1993 West took over a UT-Chattanooga team that had won just two games in 1992. He doubled that total in 1993 and guided the Mocs to one of the landmark wins in school history, a 33-31 win over #1 ranked Marshall. He concluded the regular season with a 45-42 victory over Furman. Ironically, his first regular season game as Clemson coach was a victory over Furman.

West earned three letters in his four-year career at Tennessee (1972-75). The Vols played in three bowl games and were ranked in the final Top 20 poll in three seasons. He was the co-captain of Tennessee's 1975 football team and played in the Blue-Gray All-Star game that same year.

He began his college career as a running back, but saw most of his playing time as a tight end. He caught 37 passes for 575 yards in his career with the Vols, including 16 passes for 233 yards as a senior. As a junior he caught an 81-yard pass from Condredge Holloway, still the longest non-scoring play in Tennessee history. He earned a bachelor's degree from Tennessee in 1976 and was drafted by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers that same year. West played two years (1974-75) of baseball at Tennessee and had a career batting average of .305. He hit .367 in 1975 and was named All-SEC Eastern Division.

West was a multi-sport standout in high school. He was an outfielder in baseball, a guard in basketball and a running back in football. In 1972 he was named a High School All-American in football and was a second-round draft choice in baseball by the Chicago Cubs. Willie Randolph, who went on to an All-Star career with the New York Yankees, was one of 77 future Major League players drafted after West in the regular phase of the June 1972 draft. He played his prep football at Gainesville High in Gainesville, GA for Coach Bobby Gruhn.

He was an all-state back as a junior and was also named to the All-Southern team. Born Thomas Cleveland West on July 31, 1954, he is married to the former Lindsay Watkins of Forest City, NC. The couple has one son, Turner.

The West Family
Les Herrin is the dean of football coaches at Clemson. The assistant head coach is in his 14th season with the Tigers. In addition to his administrative duties as assistant head coach, he is the Clemson defensive line coach. Herrin has been a defensive coach at Clemson for all but one of his seasons and has coached such notable players as Chester McClockton, Brentson Buckner, Jeff Davis and Trevor Pryce.

The 50-year old native of Waycross, GA, is the only member of the current staff who was on Clemson's 1981 National Championship coaching staff. That season Herrin coached linebacker Jeff Davis who went on to be captain of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers and is a member of Clemson's prestigious Ring of Honor.

In 1982, Johnny Rembert was a starting linebacker under Herrin and he became an All-American, then a Pro Bowl player (1989) with the New England Patriots. Three-time Pro Bowl defensive tackle Chester McClockton, regarded as one of the top defensive players in the NFL today, was coached by Herrin between 1989-91.

Brentson Buckner, a 1996 Super Bowl participant with the Pittsburgh Steelers, who is now with the San Francisco 49ers, also played for Herrin during that era. Last year as a rookie, Trevor Pryce was a member of the Denver Broncos Super Bowl Championship team. Under Herrin's tutelage at Clemson, Pryce led the Tigers in tackles for loss and sacks in 1996.

In his previous 13 seasons with Clemson, Herrin has coached in eight bowl games, been a part of six top 20 seasons and four ACC titles. Clemson has had at least one all-conference player coached by Herrin in 12 of the 13 years he has been with the program.

Herrin and his wife Shirley have a son, Deke, who is currently a student at Clemson and a member of the football team.

Steve Ensminger enters his second season as Clemson's offensive coordinator. In his first year, Ensminger directed the Tiger offense in establishing 15 school single season records in the passing game on a team and individual basis, included in the marks were school bests for passing yardage, completion percentage, and completions.

Nealon Greene ranked 19th in the nation in passing efficiency, highest ranking by a Clemson player in 14 years.

Ensminger came to Clemson after a three-year stint at Texas A&M and is now in his 11th year as an offensive coordinator.

While at Texas A&M, his Aggie offense averaged 404 yards per game in 1996 and it featured a balanced attack of 230 yards rushing and 174 passing.

Ensminger is a native of Baton Rouge, LA and played for hometown LSU from 1976-79 as quarterback where he lettered all four years. He was the MVP of the LSU team in 1979 and still holds two LSU passing records: most touchdowns in a game (4) and longest touchdown pass play (82 yards).

The 39-year-old has coached at Nicholls State (Wide Receivers, 1981-83), McNeese State (Quarterbacks/Wide Receivers, 1984-87), Louisiana Tech (Offensive Coordinator, 1988-90), Georgia (passing game Coordinator/Quarterbacks, 1991-93), and Texas A&M (Offensive Coordinator/Quarterbacks, 1994-96).

Ensminger was a significant reason Georgia quarterback Eric Zeier set 61 school and 11 SEC passing records between 1991-93. Georgia ranked ninth in the nation in total offense in 1992 with a 450.4 yards per game average. The team was 10th in the country in scoring with 32 points per game.

Ensminger is married to the former Amy Marie Gonzales and they have three children: Krystalin, Steve, and Brittany Rose.
David Bibee is in his second year at Clemson, and is coaching his second different position. This season Bibee takes over the secondary, perhaps the most talented area on the Clemson team with preseason All-American Antwan Edwards. Bibee is no stranger to the secondary as he has coached that aspect of the defense at six different schools during his career.

Last year he coached Clemson outside linebackers, a group that helped the Tigers rank sixth in the nation in rushing defense and 16th in total defense.

The 1998 season marks Bibee's 19th year of coaching college football. He has 11 years experience as an assistant head coach.

Bibee played football at Tennessee and was a member of the 1973 Gator Bowl and 1974 Liberty Bowl teams. During two of his playing seasons he was a teammate of Tiger Head Coach Tommy West. He earned a B.S. in Health Education from Tennessee in 1977.

He began his coaching career with the Volunteers as a graduate assistant coach in 1976. He then spent the 1977 season at his prep alma mater, Bristol's Tennessee High School, before moving on to Mississippi for one campaign as co-head coach of the junior varsity squad in 1978. Following his stay at Mississippi, Bibee had coaching stints at North Alabama, Middle Tennessee State, Austin Peay, Appalachian State and South Carolina.

During his six years at Appalachian State, the Mountaineers won two Southern Conference championships and twice led the nation in turnover margin.

Bibee left Appalachian State in 1989 to become assistant head coach and secondary coach at South Carolina. After the 1993 season, he went into private business before returning to college football as Tennessee Tech's secondary coach and recruiting coordinator in 1996.

A native of Bristol, TN, Bibee is married to the former Lisa Carter. The couple has three daughters, twins, Ashlee and Allison, and Lindsay.

Clemson has been on a record pace in terms of rushing offense since Rich Bisaccia came to Clemson in December of 1993. Each of the last three years Clemson has finished first or second in the ACC in rushing, including a number-four national finish in 1995 when Clemson averaged 260 yards per game.

Under Bisaccia, tailback Raymond Priester set the Clemson all-time records for single game rushing yards, 263, rushing yards in a season, 1,345, and most rushing yards in a career with 3,966. He was the ACC rushing champion in 1995. In all, Priester established 18 Clemson rushing records during his career under Bisaccia.

Bisaccia wears many hats at Clemson as he also handles the special teams and serves as the recruiting coordinator. His special teams unit was the only one in the nation to have an individual rank in the top 25 in field goals, punt, punt returns, and kickoff returns in 1998.

A year ago Clemson ranked 15th in the nation in kickoff returns and 39th in punt returns. The Tigers had three blocked punts in the Peach Bowl to set a school record. Clemson also led the ACC in field goals (20-27) in 1997.

Bisaccia graduated from New Fairfield High School in New Fairfield, CT. He earned his degree in health and physical education at Yankton College in 1983. While at Yankton College, Bisaccia was a four-year starter and the team captain from 1979-82. The Philadelphia Stars of the USFL signed him as a free agent in 1983.

Bisaccia's first coaching job was as the offensive coordinator at Wayne State (NE) in 1983. After five years at Wayne State, he moved to South Carolina for a six-year career. In 1989, Bisaccia became the volunteer assistant coach for defensive ends at South Carolina. In 1991, he was named the tight ends coach, then was promoted to running backs coach and special teams coach at South Carolina in 1992. He held that role for the 1992 and 1993 seasons. Clemson came calling in December of 1993 and named Bisaccia as its running backs coach, in charge of special teams and the recruiting process.

Bisaccia married the former Jeanne Jones. The native of Yonkers, NY and his wife have four children: Michele, Elizabeth, Madeline, and Richard Oakley.

Brick Haley takes over the outside linebacker coaching duties in his first season with the Tiger program.

Haley will coach perhaps the most famous position in contemporary Clemson football history. The Tigers have had many outside linebackers move on to the NFL in the decade of the 1990s, including Levon Kirkland an All-Pro for the Pittsburgh Steelers and Wayne Simmons, a starter for the Green Bay Packers 1996 Super Bowl Champions.

Haley himself has a history of recruiting and coaching players who have gone on to the NFL. The list of players Haley has coached include Jeff Gooch, a starter with the Tampa Bay Bucs in 1997, and Pratt Lyons, a starter with the Tennessee Oilers. Reggie Lowe, who signed with the Seattle Seahawks out of Troy State, and Donnell Gilyard, who played with the New York Giants are two more Haley protégés. Michael Swift of the Carolina Panthers, and Kurt Pointer of the Pittsburgh Steelers were both recruited to Austin Peay by Haley.

Haley, a native of Gadsden, AL, attended Alabama A&M. He graduated from A&M in 1989 after playing for the Bulldogs for four seasons. There he was a Division II All-America inside linebacker in 1987 and 1988. Haley earned a bachelor of science in health and physical education with a minor in telecommunication.

His coaching career began in 1989 when he was a student assistant coach at Alabama A&M. The next year, he coached tight ends and coordinated the punt and punt return teams at Enterprise High School in Enterprise, AL.

In 1991, he began his four-year stay at Austin Peay State. After three years with the Troy State program, Haley served as outside linebackers coach at Houston in 1997 before arriving in Tiger town.

Haley, a native of Gadsden, AL, is married to the former Tina Delaine of Clayton, NC.
JOHN LATINA
Centers and Guards

Mac McWhorter enters his third year at Clemson as the offensive tackles and tight ends coach. McWhorter, 48, and a native of Atlanta, GA, shares the duties of the offensive line with coach John Latina. McWhorter deserves much of the credit for Jim Bundren's 1997 All-America season.

RICK STOCKSTILL
Wide Receivers

Rick Stockstill is in his 10th consecutive season at Clemson as an assistant coach. He has experience as a wide receivers and quarterbacks coach at Clemson. His contributions in terms of on-field coaching and recruiting are significant reasons Clemson has been to bowl games in seven of his nine seasons with the program.

Stockstill has had a positive effect on the Clemson passing game over the years. In 1997, his receiving corps set school records for receptions and reception yardage. Leading the way was Biletnikoff Award semifinalist Tony Horne, who had a record 70 receptions and record tying eight touchdowns.

Stockstill graduated from Fernandina Beach High School in Fernandina Beach, FL, in 1977. After graduating from Florida State in 1982 with a B.S. degree in physical education, he immediately went into coaching.

As a member of Bobby Bowden's first recruiting class, Stockstill was the starting quarterback on a pair of Orange Bowl teams, a pair of top 10 rankings, and was the team captain in 1981.

Although Stockstill never played a game in Death Valley, his brother, Jeff, played for the Tigers from 1979-82 and was a key reserve on the national championship team.

Before coming to Clemson, Stockstill was an assistant coach at Bethune Cookman (1983-84) and Central Florida (1985-88).

In his first year (1989) as quarterbacks coach at Clemson, he helped lead Clemson to a single-season record for completion percentage (60%). In 1991, the offense led by DeChane Cameron, the all-time winningest quarterback in Clemson history in terms of percentage, led the Atlantic Coast Conference in total offense. He also co-coordinated the #6 offense in Clemson history in 1995.

Stockstill is married to the former Sara Fleischman. The couple have one son, Brent, and one daughter, Emily.

John Latina is in his fifth season at Clemson, as the offensive centers and guards coach. Since taking over the most inexperienced offensive line in Clemson history in 1994, the unit has steadily improved and helped rewrite many of Clemson's individual and team offensive records.

The 1997 line was an integral part of a Clemson team that established six team records in offensive categories. Each of the last three years Clemson has been first or second in the ACC in rushing and Latina's line is a big reason Raymond Priester set the Clemson career rushing record in just three seasons.

Latina received four letters as an offensive lineman at Virginia Tech from 1975-78 and played in Death Valley for the Hokies in 1978. He earned his bachelor's degree in 1979.

Latina's coaching career began immediately after his playing days were over. In 1979, he was an assistant coach at his alma mater in Blacksburg. He then moved to Pittsburgh for the 1982 season where he worked with an outstanding Panther team quarterbacked by Dan Marino.

In 1983, Latina was named as the offensive line coach at Temple. Following his stay at Temple, Latina went west to Manhattan, KS, to coach Kansas State. His offensive line helped to lead the Wildcats in 1993 to the Big Eight title in passing, averaging 245 yards per game. In 1991, Kansas State set a school record with 4,231 yards in total offense, including 1,756 yards rushing, the most by a Kansas State team in 10 years.

Latina arrived at Clemson as the offensive line coach in December of 1993. He has already coached the Tigers in four bowl games, the 1993 Peach, the 1996 Gator, the 1996 and 1998 Peach Bowl.

Latina and his wife, the former Michele Veltri, have two sons John Jr. and Michael.

Mac McWhorter, 48, was named the offensive line coach at Georgia before coming to Clemson. During his five years in Athens the Bulldogs set school records in many categories including a record 25 touchdown passes and 5,135 yards of total offense in 1994.

He was a three-year letter-winner at Georgia as an offensive player. As a player, McWhorter had success both on and off the field, as he was an All-Academic Southeastern Conference performer in 1972 and 1973 and owned the highest grade point average on the Georgia football team in 1973.

McWhorter began his coaching career as an assistant coach on the high school level. He was the head coach at Villa Rica High in Georgia in 1979, where he was named Carroll County Coach-of-the-Year.

McWhorter jumped to the college ranks in 1980, when he was named to the Georgia Tech coaching staff. Since joining the college coaching profession at Georgia Tech, he has had coaching stints at Alabama, West Georgia, Duke, Georgia and Clemson.

Altogether McWhorter has coached in eight bowls during his 18-year coaching career.

McWhorter and wife Rebecca have three children: Kasay, Katie, and Mac.

Running Down the Hill

What has been described as, "the most exciting 25 seconds in college football from a color and pageantry standpoint," actually started out as a matter-of-fact entrance, mainly because of necessity.

The first 20,000 seats in Clemson Memorial Stadium were built and ready for use before the 1942 season. Less than a year before Pearl Harbor was bombed and the United States was at war. The shortest entry into the stadium was a walk down Williamson Road from Fike Field House's dressing rooms to a gate at the top of the hill behind the east end zone. There were no dressing facilities in the west end zone—only a big clock where the hands turned, and a scoreboard, which was operated by hand.

The team would dress at Fike, walk down Williamson Road, come in the gate underneath where the big scoreboard now stands and jog down the hill for its warmup exercises. There was no fanfare, no cannon shot fired, no tiger paw flag, no Tiger Rag played...just the team making its entrance and lining up to do the side straddle hop.

That's pretty much the way things went for the next 25 years.

Either in 1964 or 1965, S.C. Jones, a member of the Clemson class of 1919, made a trip to California. He stopped at a spot in Death Valley, CA, and picked up this white flint rock. He presented it to Coach Frank Howard as being from Death Valley, CA, to Death Valley, South Carolina."

The rock laid on the floor in Howard's office in Fike for a year or more. One day Howard was cleaning up his office and he told Gene Willimon, who was the executive secretary of IPTAY, to, "take this rock and throw it over the fence, or out in the ditch...do something with it, but get it out of my office."

Willimon didn't think that was the way a rock should be treated. Afterall, it had been brought 3000 miles by a very sincere Tiger fan.

By the mid-sixties, Memorial Stadium was pretty well living up to its moniker, Death Valley, because of the number of victories that had been recorded there.

Actually, the name was first used by the late Lonnie McMillian, head coach at Presbyterian College in Clinton in the 1940s.

McMillian and the other Blue Hose coaches before him used to open the season each year by coming to Clemson. Seldom scoring (24 shut outs in 39 games) and with only three wins and four ties to show for it, his teams were getting killed by the Tigers regularly. In 1948 McMillian made the comment to the press that he was taking his team to play Clemson in Death Valley.
An occasional reference to Memorial stadium by that name could be heard for the next three or four years, but when Howard started calling it 'Death Valley' in the 1950's, the name took off like wildfire. The Tigers celebrated the 50th season in the 'valley' in 1991.

But getting back to Howard's rock.

The rock was mounted on a pedestal at the top of the hill. It was unveiled September 24, 1966, on a day when Clemson played Virginia. The Tigers were down 18 points with 17 minutes to play and came back to win (40-35) on a 65-yard pass play from Jimmy Addison to Jacky Jackson in the fourth period. That was quite a spectacular debut for that rock.

The team members started rubbing the rock prior to running down the hill September 23, 1967, a day when Clemson defeated Wake Forest, 23-6. Prior to running down the hill that day, Howard told his players: "If you're going to give me 110 percent, you can rub that rock. If you're not, keep your filthy hands off it." Howard told of the incident the next day on his Sunday television show and the story became legend.

When Hootie Ingram succeeded Howard as head coach prior to the 1970 season, Ingram decided that the team would make its final entrance on the field out of the dressing room in the west end zone. In all home games in 1970 and 1971 and the first four of 1972 when the Tigers did not run down the hill, their record was 6-9. The team decided it wanted to come down the hill once prior to the South Carolina game in 1972. The result, in a cold, freezing rain, was a 7-6 victory when Jimmy Williamson knocked down a two-point conversion attempt which preserved the win.

The Tigers have made the entrance for every home game since 1942, except for the seasons mentioned above—261 times heading into the 1998 season.

After Clemson's final warm-up, the team goes back into its dressing room under the west end zone stands for final game instructions. About 10 minutes before kickoff the team boards two buses, rides around behind the north stands to the east end zone and debarks to the top of the hill behind Howard's Rock.

At the appointed time, the cannon booms and led by a high-flying tiger paw flag, the band forms two lines for the team to run between and strikes up 'Tiger Rag'...The frenzy starts in all sincerity...and usually lasts two and a half to three hours.

It is a tradition that has inspired Clemson players for many years.
Death Valley. The name speaks for itself. If you want to play in this house, you better have the reputation to back it up. TORO's 640 Series Sprinkler has been the number one choice for athletic sports fields for more than a decade. That's a reputation built on MVP performances.

If you want that kind of durability, match TORO quality products with certified contractors like Environmental Landscaping...a winning team that can handle the toughest conditions.
Death Valley
Name synonymous with Clemson Memorial Stadium. The Stadium was dubbed this affectionate title by the late Lonnie McMillian, a former coach at Presbyterian College in Clinton, SC. He used to take his teams to play at Clemson, and they rarely scored, never mind gained a victory. Once he told the writers he was going to play Clemson up at “Death Valley” because his teams always got killed. It stuck somewhat, but when Frank Howard started calling it that in the 50s, the term really caught on. It is now in its 57th year.
Many people think the name is derived from the fact that there rests a cemetery outside the fence on the press box side of the stadium. But, although it would make sense, the name was first coined by McMillian.

First Friday Parade
The Clemson football season kicks off each year with the annual First Friday Parade. The once a year event takes place on the Friday afternoon prior to the first home football game. Floats from various fraternities and sororities and other campus organizations are represented in the parade that rolls down highway 93 in front of the President’s house in Clemson. The parade cumulantes at the Amphitheater in the middle of campus where the first Pep Rally of the year takes place.

The Grand Marshall of the Parade is featured at the Pep Rally. Recent Grand Marshalls have ranged from former PGA professional Dillard Pruitt, to College Football Hall of Fame legends Jess Neely and Frank Howard, to noted television announcers Brent Musberger and Ara Parseghian.

Homecoming
Clemson holds a classic homecoming every year. Displays by fraternities and sororities that are months in the making, are built on Bowman Field the week prior to Homecoming weekend. It is an event that draws alumni and friends of Clemson from all over the country.

The Friday evening prior to the game, Tigerama is held in Death Valley, which is an event that attracts over 35,000 fans. It is widely known as the largest pep rally in the world. The Homecoming Queen and her court are presented in addition to Homecoming skits, a pep rally, and a large and loud fireworks display.

The first homecoming game played at Clemson took place on September 30, 1922 when Clemson met Centre. Clemson has a 53-18-3 record on Homecoming games over the years, a .736 winning percentage, and has outscored the opposition 1,555-976 in those previous 74 games. The average margin of victory is 21 to 13. Clemson has been especially successful on Homecoming in recent years, posting a 23-2-2 record since 1970.

Orange Pants
The tradition of the Clemson team wearing orange pants is new according to tradition standards. The Tigers first wore the all orange uniform for the final game of the 1980 season against South Carolina. Clemson upset the 14th ranked Gamecocks and Heisman Trophy winner George Rogers, 27-6. The victory set the stage for Clemson’s National Championship run of 1981.

Overall, Clemson is 31-9 in orange pants since that 1980 game, including an 18-2 record in games played in the month of November. The Tigers had an eight-game winning streak in orange pants snappied in the 1996 Peach Bowl against Louisiana State. Clemson has nine wins over top 20 opponents when wearing orange pants, including the 22-15 National Championship clinching win over Nebraska in the 1982 Orange Bowl.

Rock, Howard’s
When the Clemson team gathers to run down “The Hill”, the players first rub Howard’s Rock because of the mystical powers it is supposed to give Clemson players. The rock is mounted on a pedestal at the top of the hill and was given to Coach Frank Howard by a friend (S.C. Jones ’19) who picked it up in Death Valley, CA. The Rock was first placed on the pedestal at the top of the hill on September 24, 1966, for a game Clemson won 40-35 over Virginia. In that game, the Tigers rallied from 18 points down with 17 minutes to play. The team started rubbing the rock for the first game of 1967, a 23-6 win over Wake Forest on September 23, 1967.

Running Down the Hill
One of the most exciting 25 seconds (about 35 seconds when Clemson dresses 120 players for homecoming) in college football from a color and pageantry standpoint. After Clemson’s last warm-up, the team retreats to the home dressing room located under the West Stands. At about 12:50 (for normal 1:00 PM game), the team boards two buses and drives around the periphery of the stadium to the east side of the field. After everyone is properly collected, the cannon sounds, Tiger Rag is played, and Clemson charges down the hill (exactly 100 feet top to bottom) and onto the field. It is one of the most celebrated entrances in sport. The Tigers have done it for every game since 1942, except for 1970, 1971, and four games of the 1972 season. In all, the Tigers have run down the hill 261 times heading into 1998.

How in the world did the tradition of running down the hill start? There is no long involved explanation. It used to be the quickest way to get to the field. When the stadium was built in 1942, the football lockerrooms were up the street in Fike Fieldhouse.

When the players were finished getting dressed they used to walk out the front door and walk down the street to “The Hill”. Coach Howard continued the tradition when lockerrooms were finally built inside the stadium because Clemson fans used to get so fired up when they gathered at the top of the hill. That’s when the buses came into use to spend the trip from the lockerroom to the other side of the stadium.

In 1996, the Clemson University athletic department agreed to have University Netcasting, better known as FANSONLY, post its official athletic website on the world wide web. Since that time, Clemson fans have been able to access up to the minute information on all of Clemson's varsity sports at the internet address www.clemsontigers.com.

This upcoming school year should prove to be another exciting season at clemson-tigers.com. In early September the site took on a fresh design. In an effort to give the Clemson site its own unique image, the people at FANSONLY and Clemson have worked over the summer to make the site more appealing to you, the fan. In addition to cosmetic changes at clemson-tigers.com there will be some new features.

Some of the highlights for this season from clemson-tigers.com are live game stats and live audio coverage for every football game. If you can't make it to the game, don't worry, with our real-time stats and live game coverage you'll be able to follow every single snap from the comforts of your home computer. Our Associated Press wire feed will automatically post the game story minutes after the contest has concluded. In addition to the game recap, fans will be able to check out actual video highlights of the game.

Not only will you have more information than those Monday morning quarterbacks, but you'll have more access than ever before to Clemson football. Fans will be able to hear clips from Tommy West's post-game interviews as well as be able to listen live to the ACC Football Coach's Teleconference every Wednesday throughout the season.

Football isn't the only sport covered by clemson-tigers.com; you can get comprehensive coverage on all of Clemson's 19 varsity sports. Check out the latest release on the women's soccer team, view the game recaps from men's soccer, or find your favorite volleyball player's biography. ClemsonTigers.com is expanding its coverage of Tiger Olympic sports to include more action photos, audio clips from players and coach's and video highlights.

As the official athletic website for Clemson University athletics, clemson-tigers.com is the only place to go for all of your Clemson sports information. From live audio broadcasts to video highlight clips to late breaking news, clemson-tigers.com has you covered.

SEASON TICKET HOLDERS/OTHER VISITORS: Season ticket holders and other visitors to the stadium are requested to enter Gates 1, 5, 9, 11, or 13. Persons with top deck tickets must enter the stadium via the ramps, which are located behind the North and South Stands. Ramp entrances are adjacent to Gates 1 and 13 on the South side and Gates 5 and 9 on the North side.

HANDICAPPED: Special entrances have been provided at Gates 1, 5 and 13 for the handicapped.

WILL-CALL: Will-call tickets can be picked up at the ticket office at Gate 9.

PASS-OUT HAND STAMPS: Pass-out hand stamps will be available at Gates 1, 5, 7, 9, 11, and 13 and the top decks. Any person leaving the stadium other than with a team pass must have his or her hands stamped, as well as admittance stub, to be readmitted to the stadium.

Gates 4, 6 and 8 are closed prior to the games and are opened for exit purposes only.

TELEPHONE: Pay telephones are located at the stadium ticket offices at Gates 1, 5, 9, 13, top decks.

PUBLIC ADDRESS SYSTEM: The public address system is intended primarily for spectators' information concerning the game. Please do not request the use of the public address system to make social contacts.

RESTROOMS: Ladies' and men's rest-rooms are located between the stands and can be reached by exit from portal.

LOST & FOUND: If any article is lost or found, please report it to the Gate 1 or Gate 10 information booths.

CONCESSION STANDS: Concession stands are located beneath all stands and can be reached from any portal.

PROHIBITED ITEMS: The following items are prohibited in Memorial Stadium: umbrellas, folding chairs, chaise lounges, food and beverage containers of any type, alcoholic beverages, thermos jugs, and ice chests.

NOTICE: Solicitation for any purpose is prohibited at an athletic contest in Clemson Memorial Stadium.

EMERGENCIES

First Aid stations are located at the following places: South Side—Under Section J; North Side—Under Section T; North Top Deck—Under Section K; South Top Deck—Under Section E.

Trained nurses are on hand during each game. Should a doctor be needed, ask any usher, who knows the seat location of doctors. Ambulances are located at Gates 1, 5, 8, and 13.

WHAT TO DO IF EMERGENCIES ARISE: Please step back and give the organized EMS personnel room to work. Well-intentioned attempts to help by untrained persons interfere with the efficiency of the EMS system.

Most emergencies occurring at the stadium result from pre-existing medical conditions. Bring your medical identification card or wear medical identification jewelry.

INSECT STINGS: Common at outdoor events. Treat immediately with ice and seek medical advice. If allergic, carry a kit from your physician with you.

HOW TO RECOGNIZE A HEART ATTACK: The symptoms of a heart attack vary, but the usual warning signs are:
1. Uncomfortable pressure, fullness, squeezing or pain in the center of your chest lasting for two or more minutes.
2. Pain spreading to the shoulders, neck, jaw, arms, or back.
3. Dizziness, fainting, sweating, nausea, and/or shortness of breath.

EXPECT A DENIAL: Frequently heart attack victims deny they are having a heart attack. The event is frightening or they don't want the embarrassment of a false alarm. Therefore, they delay getting help by ignoring their symptoms or rationalizing, "It's just indigestion."

New therapies have been developed that can minimize heart damage and save lives if treatment begins within the first few hours of symptom onset. "Time is muscle." Get help or get to a hospital immediately.

EMERGENCY CALLS: Emergency calls are received in the Security Booth.

THE STADIUM EMERGENCY PHONE NUMBER IS (864) 655-2999.

ALL-PRO CENTER

When you're calling the plays for an important conference, trade show, banquet or meeting, you need a center who understands your signals and is ready to respond. That's why meeting planners all across the country make their calls to Palmetto Expo Center. With more than 420,000 square feet of meeting and exhibit space, 8,000 square feet of pre-function and registration area, a 3,500-square-foot outdoor courtyard, and 2,500 well-lit parking spaces on site, Palmetto Expo Center is set to tackle events of practically any size and scope. It's a snap to stage and service virtually every aspect of your event because our lineup includes a fully equipped catering kitchen, banquet seating and service for up to 2,500 people, sophisticated light and sound systems, and a staff that's trained to make the handoff smoothly with no fumbles or penalties.

Textile Hall Corporation, owner of Palmetto Expo Center, is the proud donor of the Textile Bowl Trophy, presented each year to the winner of the Clemson-North Carolina State game in honor of the textile graduates of these two fine universities.

When you're making your game plan, put the all-pro center on your team.

We Do Chicken
Right.
IPTAY is widely regarded nationally as the father of Athletic Fundraising. It all started in 1934 and from a private meeting of a small group of Clemson supporters has sprung into an organization that raised a record $9,143,045 last year. The organization plays a major role in ensuring that all 19 of the varsity sports at Clemson are given the maximum amount of scholarships offered by the NCAA.

The organization also has helped finance facilities that contribute to the well-being of student-athletes on and off the field. Vickery Hall is a 27,000 square foot facility that houses the tutoring and advising programs for student-athletes. It is a major reason Clemson student-athletes have had their highest cumulative GPA on record for five consecutive semesters.

While IPTAY is primarily concerned with athletic fundraising, the mission of Clemson University has not been overlooked. The IPTAY Academic Scholarship Endowment was created to help meet the need for more academic scholarships for non-athletes who are highly qualified academically. The IPTAY Academic Scholarship Fund is presently the largest scholarship endowment of its kind at Clemson, currently helping over 30 students at Clemson.

IPTAY Executive Director George Bennett has continued to keep Clemson among the best in the nation in terms of fund-raising by the establishment of the IPTAY Endowment Program. In April of 1994, he kicked off the beginning of the endowment of positions program at the 85th birthday celebration for former Clemson Coach Frank Howard. The endowments are secure with a $100,000 donation paid over a five-year period.

“This is a chance to broaden the horizons of IPTAY,” said Bennett. “It gives an individual or a group of people an opportunity to endow a position that meant something during their college days, or to honor a person at a position. The money being endowed is going to secure our future as the interest is used to carry on our program forever.”

The first endowment was for the head football coach position to honor the legendary Frank Howard. Howard coached football at Clemson 39 years, 30 as the head coach. During his tenure the Tigers won 165 games, 100 of which were against conference foes. “Former players and friends of Coach Howard made donations over the cost of attending the celebration program and that was enough for the endowment. Their gifts were a way of permanently thanking Coach Howard for all that he did for Clemson.

“Following Coach Howard’s birthday party we began to look for an individual to help us support and promote the program and Bill Hudson’s name came up. He was an outstanding player at Clemson who has been equally successful in the business world. We went to him and explained the program and its goals and that we were looking for his leadership to help get the program going, and he accepted.”

Hudson, a 1956 graduate, was a three-year letter winner at tackle who played professionally for the Montreal Alouettes, the San Diego Chargers, and the Boston Patriots. He earned Pro Bowl honors in 1962. Mr. Hudson sees this program growing into a large part of Clemson’s athletic funding. “When other people see information on the endowment program and learn what it is about this program will grow. Success builds on success. People who are looking to honor a friend or family member now have a great means to do that.”

Besides the Hudson’s family endowment four other football endowments were made and one manager’s position in the first year. Now there are over 50 positions endowed. The goal of the program is to get every position endowed. “From the free safety to the number-three player in women’s tennis, we hope to have every position endowed,” said Bennett.

“We will likely use the Avenue of Champions as a physical place to honor these people further for the positions they have endowed. That will have plenty of space, so we will be working to have as many endowments across all of our sports.

“The personal satisfaction that they helped Clemson University, specifically the Athletic department, and that they are securing its future are the main reasons for becoming involved.”

And with more involvement Clemson will have a very secure future for generations to come.

Clemson fans look forward to seeing tough, hard-nosed football when they come to Death Valley or travel to other schools to watch their Tigers in action. But some of the Tigers' most intense competition and action doesn't take place on autumn Saturday's and it doesn't take place on a field. Take a peek into the Clemson Strength Training Room at almost any time of day, almost any day of the week, at any time of the year, and you will see the Tigers building the foundation for their pursuit of a championship.

Perhaps the most impressive characteristic of the facility is its size. Several years ago, it was enlarged to an astounding 11,000 square feet, making it one of the largest in the nation. Two years ago, it was expanded to 14,000 square feet. The facility boasts two full lines of Nautilus machines and over 12 tons of weights. The large number of machines and free weights allows the weight room to be used by athletes from several other different sports at the same time, without anyone having to wait in line at a particular station.

Within the last year the dumbbell area and leg strength area were expanded and the facility saw the addition of the Austin Leg Drive Machine.

The plush atmosphere provides an interesting contrast to the physical exertion that takes place in the facility. When an athlete enters the etched glass doors, he is greeted by plush, wall-to-wall carpeting, walls lined with mirrors, ceiling fans, and music from a 26-speaker sound system - a worthy backdrop for well over $500,000 worth of state-of-the-art equipment.

Four color television monitors are also positioned throughout the facility. These monitors are used for training and instruction, as Tiger strength coaches film the athletes and work with them on form correction.

The strength training staff spends long hours working around the various schedules of each sport and even takes the facility on the road when the Tiger football team plays in a bowl game.

Recently, the operation of the strength training facility was enhanced by the addition of a new computerized program. Tiger strength coaches are now able to enter all the current strength data on an athlete, and the computer will generate a 10-week conditioning program that will help the athlete reach optimum results.

Clemson recently added a power station supplement bar in the facility.
by Bob Bradley and Tim Bourret

Frank Howard's 1958 Clemson football team does not hold a lot of school records. There are teams with more yards rushing, more yards passing, more points scored and the same goes for defensive high water marks. For the season, this ACC Championship team ranked 12th in the final AP poll, yet outscored the opposition by just 31 points.

But, this team does have one important distinction.....it is the all-time record holder for fourth-quarter victories. Four times that season, Clemson overcame a deficit in the final period to gain victory with the final score of the game. Three times this team came back from a deficit to gain victory over North Carolina, and they did it twice against Virginia. The touchdown that gave the Tigers a 12-7 victory at Vanderbilt was registered with nine seconds to spare, and the ACC Championship was clinched with a 13-6 win over NC State.

What was this team's secret to success? One need only look to the example set by team captain Bill Thomas. This club put the team first in every manner. Thomas even delayed his wedding until after the season in accordance to Coach Frank Howard's wishes.

"We didn't play very well against Colorado in the 1957 Orange Bowl," recalled Thomas, who was a sophomore in 1956. "A lot of the players had gotten married that year and brought their wives to Miami for the bowl game. We went down 21-0 in the first half and Coach Howard thought the player's minds weren't on the football game.

"He said he didn't want me to get married until after the bowl game. I wanted to get married in December and have a honeymoon in New Orleans at the Sugar Bowl, but coach Howard said no."

That is just one example of the self-sacrifice and the "team first" attitude of the 1958 Tigers. It was a true team, the deepest of Frank Howard's career. Clemson won the ACC title, but had just one first-team All-ACC player and no All-Americans.

This team had talent, but it was balanced. Eight players off the 1958 Tigers made it to the NFL, including five who played at least five years and two who were first-round draft choices (Lou Cordileone and Harvey White). Harold Olson, a tackle, went on to make All-Pro in the AFL.

The statistics from that season document the incredible level of balance. Clemson led the ACC in rushing with 225 yards a game, yet no one had over 500 yards and only one player, quarterback Harvey White, had a 100-yard rushing game. Eight different players had at least 100 rushing yards for the year. The team completed 69 passes for the season, but to 15 different players. No receiver had over 60 yards in any game, never mind a 100-yard game. Twelve different players returned kickoffs and another dozen returned a punt. Three different quarterbacks ran the attack and seven different players had interceptions.

"Coach Howard played two full teams and sometimes three," said Thomas. "That depth was the big reason we were able to dominate the fourth period and win games in the final quarter."

Clemson opened the season with a victory over Virginia at Death Valley. This was a special opening day because Memorial Stadium had been enlarged over the summer to hold 40,000 fans. There was a new press box, a new scoreboard, and the team ran down the hill on a rug for the first time.

Clemson dominated the action, gaining 384 yards on the ground and winning the total offense battle, 438-300. Additionally, Clemson intercepted four passes, typically, by four different players, but gave up 174 in the air on 13 completions, a high total for those days. Lowndes Shinger scored on a one-yard run with 14 minutes left and the Tiger defense held Virginia in the final moments.

After the game, Howard said he was disappointed with his pass defense, something that was apparent to a lot of people, even his wife. "I tried to get my wife (Anna) interested in football for 15 years," said Howard in a newspaper account the week after the game. "Then our son Jimmy started playing and she went to all his games. When I saw her after the game, she asked me what I was going to do about that pass defense. I've created a backseat driver."

Game two was against North Carolina and it might have been the biggest game of the season. A record 40,000 fans jammed Death Valley on a 93 degree day. Concessions ran out of soft drink and ice in the third period. It was so hot that the North Carolina team warmed up in just T-shirts, they didn't put their pads in until just before gametime.

This was a day that team depth would be the difference. Howard had nine different players rush the ball, and Harvey White and Shinger split the quarterback duties. Mrs. Howard was satisfied with the pass defense on this day as North Carolina gained just 145 yards in the air. Clemson on the other hand had its most efficient day of the year, hitting 9-14 passes for 110 yards.

The game went back and forth with many clutch plays. Clemson scored early on a blocked punt. North Carolina attempted a quick kick by Don Coker, but Jim Payne raced through the line to block the attempt. Jim Padgett got to the ball first and raced 28 yards for a touchdown.

One of the biggest plays took place right before halftime when George Usry scored a touchdown on a one-yard run on the last play of the half. Clemson was sending its kicking unit on to the field to try for the PAT, but when North Carolina's Jim Tatum argued over the allowance of the late score, the Tar Heels were hit with a delay of game penalty, moving the ball to the one-yard-line. Howard then tried to go for two, but the attempt failed and the score was tied at the half. That is one of the few recorded times in history that getting a penalty helped a team directly on the scoreboard.

The second half went back and forth until the Tigers drove 80 yards for the lead score. With 2:52 remaining in the game George Usry scored from a yard out to put Clemson up 26-21, and that would be the final score.

This was a landmark day for Howard. First, he finally defeated fellow future Hall of Fame Coach Jim Tatum after five straight losses. Second, it was the 100th head coaching victory for Howard, still the only Clemson coach with 100 wins (he would end his career with 165). After the game, he presented the game ball and proudly stated it was going to be placed prominently on his mantle at home next to a picture of Fred Cone, who was a key player for Howard in the 1948-50 era.

"I think the smartest thing I did today was substitute every five minutes," said Howard. "I knew depth was going to be a factor in this heat." Howard also singled out the play of Jim McCandless, a fine player who would go on to the pros. McCandless was playing for the first time after breaking his neck in a swimming accident two years previously.

In the spirit of the day, Tatum addressed the Clemson team after the game to congratulate them for their fine play. Then the Clemson players went into the North Carolina dressing room to exchange sportsmanship.

While game three won't go into the books as a game decided by a touchdown or less (seven points), it was really decided by just one touchdown. Clemson scored just one touchdown then made a two-point conversion to gain an 8-0 triumph over Maryland in College Park. This was Clemson's first victory over Maryland since the formation of the ACC.

White connected with Wyatt Cox on a 50-yard scoring pass in the third period, then George Usry scored the two-point play. You will notice that there were a lot of two-point conversion attempts in this season. The 1958 season was the first year of the two-point play in college football. Coaches at that time, including Frank Howard, thought it would be easy to score from the three. Clemson scored 25 touchdowns that season and went for two 20 times, converting eight times.

While Clemson did not have a star system in 1958, the Vanderbilt game produced the single best performance of the year by a Tiger. Harvey White gained 105 yards rushing in just 14 carries, and completed 8-12 passes for 60 yards. Additionally, White scored both of Clemson's touchdowns in the final period of a thrilling 12-7 victory in Nashville.

Clemson trailed 7-0 going into the final period, thanks to five turnovers over the game's first 45 minutes. But, White, and Rudy Hayes, who had 99 yards rushing on the night, led Clemson back. Trailing 7-6 with just 6:30 left in the game, White took the Tigers on a breath-taking drive that included a fourth-down conversion at the Vanderbilt 10 with 53 seconds left.

Finally, with nine seconds remaining, White burst over the goal line from three yards out. This remains the latest fourth-quarter touchdown score in Clemson history that decided the outcome of a game. For his heroics, White was named Associated Press National Back of the Week. "That was the finest performance I have seen by an opponent quarterback in this stadium," said Fred Russell, noted writer of the Nashville Banner, who had seen every game in Vanderbilt's stadium dating to 1922.

"With Harvey White you knew he was going to get the job done," recalled Thomas. "He could take a team down the field in the clutch." The scores of the games to this point backed up Thomas' statement. It was the third victory by exactly five points for the Tigers in the first four games and in reality, the fourth straight win by a touchdown.

Clemson hit a midseason slump, losing to South Carolina, gaining victory over Wake Forest, then losing to Georgia Tech. The Wake Forest game was a 14-12 Clemson victory. One of the highlights was a touchdown by Johnny MacGoff, who is now Superintendent of Education for the state of Ohio. He scored what proved to be the winning touchdown in the fourth quarter.

His score gave Clemson a 14-6 lead. But, Wake Forest came back behind the passing of future NFL star Norman Snead. He scored a touchdown on a five-yard run that culminated an 88-yard drive, with just four minutes left. But, on the touchdown play, Snead was injured and reserve Charlie Carpenter had to come off the bench cold to try for the two-point play. His pass was incomplete and Clemson had another close victory.

Clemson closed the regular season with three consecutive victories. A 13-6 victory in Raleigh clinched the ACC Championship. Bill Mathis, who later became the first former Clemson player to win a Super Bowl Championship ring with Joe Namath and the New York Jets, was the top rusher against the Pack with 13-75. Usry and Bobby Morgan scored the touchdowns, as again Clemson scored both of its touchdowns in the fourth period.

After the team's most convincing victory of the season, 34-12 over Boston College, Clemson clinched a Sugar Bowl bid with a 36-19 win over Furman. Clemson was outscored 19-6 in the second half by Furman and Clemson players and coaches wondered if they had blown the Sugar Bowl bid in the process.

Immediately after the game, Coach Howard went to his office and called the bowl committee to get a reaction. The committee offered Clemson the bid. Howard went into the dressing room to inform the team, "We got it." The Tigers were matched with undefeated and number-one ranked LSU and 34-year-old coach Paul Dietzel.

Clemson's invitation was met with disdain by many of the national media. "A lot of people thought SMU should have been LSU's opponent," said Thomas. "We were not shown much respect, but we came to play."

The Tigers put in many hours of practice at home and in Biloxi, MS, in preparation for Billy Cannon, the 1958 Heisman Trophy winner. Coach Howard kept all the articles that ridiculed the Clemson program and showed them to the players prior to the game in an effort to fire up the team.

His ploy worked, as Clemson gave LSU its toughest game of the season. LSU's high powered offense gained just 182 yards of total offense and gained just nine first downs. The LSU Tigers had to score on a halfback option pass in the third period after a Clemson fumble at its own 11.

Clemson drove 17 plays from its own 17 to the LSU 28 late in the game, but a fourth-down pass from White to George Usry went incomplete.

Never has a Clemson team gained so much respect from a loss. "I wish we could line up and play LSU again...today," said Thomas. Cannon better not be within 100 miles of Death Valley when the 1958 team holds it reunion this weekend. He'd probably be thrown for a loss.

It was this type of spirit, which still lives on today, that made the 1958 Clemson team one of Clemson's most successful and respected teams in history.

HISTORY

Thomas Green Clemson believed that South Carolina needed an institution of higher education dedicated to science and agriculture. With his belief came the foundation that was laid for Clemson Agricultural College. On April 6, 1888, Thomas Clemson died, leaving most of his estate to the state of South Carolina with the purpose of establishing a college that would teach scientific agriculture and the mechanical arts to the young people of South Carolina.

The college formally opened its doors in 1893 with an enrollment of 446 students. As an all-male military school, the college quickly became recognized across the nation as an important part of the national system of state universities and land-grant colleges. In 1955 Clemson became a civilian co-educational college. As the school expanded its academic offerings and research pursuits, the state Legislature renamed the college Clemson University in 1964.

Today, Clemson is much more than Thomas Clemson could have ever envisioned. The campus is located on 1400 acres of beautiful rolling hills on what once was the plantation of former U. S. Vice-President John C. Calhoun. Landmarks such as Fort Hill, the former home of the Clemsons and the Calhouns, Tillman with its clocktower, the statue of Thomas Green Clemson and the outdoor amphitheater all help retain the air of tradition.

Over the last 10 years the Clemson men's track and field program, under the direction of Head Coach Bob Pollock, has won 14 ACC championships. The Tigers have won the ACC indoor and outdoor track championship each of the past two seasons. Clemson finished third at the 1998 NCAA Indoor Championships and tied for 11th-place at the 1998 NCAA Outdoor Championships.

Cross Country/Distance

Clemson has established itself as a strong track and field power. Now Pollock wants the distance team to rise to that level as well.

Senior Joe Gibson was named All-ACC and All-region in cross country last season. An All-American at Brevard College before transferring to Clemson, Gibson is developing as an All-America candidate for the Tigers.

Senior Esteban Diaz also garnered All-region honors last season. He is much stronger this year, and has the knowledge and expertise to help lead the team.

Another senior, Matt Tooman, provides great leadership for the team. "Tooman is very supportive of our younger people, and is consistently among our top five runners," said Pollock.

Rounding out the top six runners for the Tigers will be juniors Steve Alexander, Jason Putnam and B.J. Dillard, who red-shirted last season.

Two freshmen who will be looking to break into Clemson's top eight runners are Jason Meany, the New York state high school 3,200-meter champion last season, and Ryan Demers, the Maine state 3,200-meter runner-up.

Red-shirt freshmen David Abel and Clay Wiggins and true freshmen Everett Ernest and Mike Connelly will be the next to break into Clemson's top eight runners.

Last season, the Tigers placed third at the ACC Championships, just two points out of second place, before finishing fifth at the NCAA Region III Championships. Pollock expects the team to challenge even more at the NCAA Regionals this year.

Middle Distance

Senior Davidson Gill will lead the team in the middle distance events. Gill placed second at the ACC indoor and outdoor championships in the 800-meters and was a member of the All-American 4x400-meter relay team that placed third at the NCAA indoor championships.

Senior Esteban Diaz returns as Clemson's top 1,500-meter athlete. He placed third in the 800-meters at the ACC indoor championships and sixth in the 1,500-meters at the outdoor championships.

Senior Matt Tooman finished seventh in the mile at the ACC indoor championships and ran on the Clemson indoor distance medley relay team. Senior Jason Reckner will compete in the 1,500-meter and 3,000-meter steeplechase, after placing sixth in the steeplechase at the ACC outdoor championships.

Junior Shawn Murphy ran on the 4x400-meter relay team that placed third at the ACC outdoor championships. Pollock believes Murphy has learned a great deal and should add to the 800-meter middle distance event this season.

Freshmen Ryan Demers and Mike Connelly will also compete in the middle distance events.

Sprints

Junior Shawn Crawford is ready to continue Clemson's national success in the sprint events. He became Clemson's youngest national champion after winning the 200-meter indoor national championship in 20.69. The only ACC champion in three events, he won the 100 and 200-meters and was a member of the winning 4x100-meter relay team at last season's championships.

Senior Kenny Franklin returns after placing third at the ACC outdoor championships in the 200-meters. He and junior Charles Allen earned All-American honors as a part of the 4x100-meter relay team that won the league championship with a time of 39.85.

Anthony Moorman and Ato Modbo are two freshmen who will compete in Clemson's sprint group this season.

Hurdles

Sophomores Sultan Tucker and Tony Washington are expected to complete the hurdle team. Tucker finished third at the ACC indoor championships in the 60-meter hurdles and eighth outdoors in the 110-meter high hurdles. He will again compete on the shuttle hurdle relay team. Washington has great strength and speed and is ready for the next step, according to Pollock.

Freshman Todd Matthews, the Junior National Champion in the 110-meter high hurdles, placed sixth at the world championships and already has experience running against collegiate-level competition.

Jumps

The Tigers return several veterans in the jump events. Sophomore Tony Lloyd won the triple jump at the ACC indoor championships. His jump of 59' 9 1/2" ranks third on Clemson's all-time list. Lloyd also placed third in the high jump competition at the ACC outdoor championships.

Junior Bryan Williams finished third at the ACC indoor (49-8.25) and outdoor (48-10.25) competitions in the triple jump. He also scored in the high jump competition last season and will provide quality depth in the long jump this year.

Senior Kenny Franklin provides versatility, depth and strength to the jump events. He placed sixth in the triple jump at the ACC indoor competition and fifth in the long jump at the outdoor competition.

Freshmen Kai Maull, Mark Jellison and Todd Matthews will strengthen the Tigers in the long jump.

Senior Jorge Tienda tied for second place in the pole vault competition at the ACC indoor championships with sophomore Ben Heiss. Sophomores Bobby Latham and Wade Van Sice will also compete in the pole vault. Adding depth to the jumps this season will be Todd Dunn and Adam Edgington, who red-shirted last season.

The ACC outdoor high jump champion returns for Clemson. Senior Jason Brewer won the competition last season with a jump of 6-11.75. Freshman Mark Mirabito, runner-up at the National Indoor Scholastic Championships, and Doug Amegh (6'10") will add depth in the high jump along with Jellison.

Throws

Clemson graduated the ACC javelin champion, Damian DiCola; however, the Tigers return Tom Hopkins, who placed third at the ACC outdoor championships. Sophomore Wade Van Sice also returns after placing seventh a year ago. Freshman Tony Smith, the Pennsylvania state runner-up with a throw of 211'2", will add to the Tiger attack.

Senior Jason Brewer returns the shot put and 35 lb. weight competition. Added to Hopkins on the throwing squad are three outstanding freshmen. Keith Rzewuski, a high school All-American, Brett Varner and Jason Moss, all good size athletes, each had successful high school careers in the throw events and hope to provide Clemson with needed depth in the throws.

Multi-events

The Tigers look to sophomores Wade Van Sice and Rob Rauch, who contributed to the Tigers' success in the decathlon and pentathlon last season. Freshman Mark Jellison, the pentathlon runner-up at the National Scholastic Indoor Championship, along with Gary Nichols will add strength and depth in the decathlon.

With depth at just about every position, the Clemson Track & Field team should once again be in the spotlight both on a conference and national level during the 1998-99 season.
by Michael Blanding, Kristen Bono, and Bradley Ruppert

Few people realize what some members of Clemson University’s football team are doing in their spare time. In addition to working hard in one of the university’s most grueling sports and keeping up with their course load, 18 members of the team find time to organize activities in the community for their entire team to participate. LIFE LINE is an organization of Clemson football players selected to represent their team as Leaders in Football and Education. By reaching out to others on and off campus, LIFE LINE members enhance their personal leadership skills, develop career skills for the future, and spread these qualities to the rest of the team through peer leadership.

This program was started in 1996 with the intent to handle the squad’s issues through peer leadership. Laurie Haughey, the team’s academic advisor, and Bill D’Andrea, the Director of Clemson’s Student-Athlete Enrichment Program, chose 12 players to be inaugural members of LIFE LINE. These players were already considered leaders of the team both on and off the field. Membership emphasized what strong assets they provided to the team. After selecting those original members there still remained the task of getting the program up and running. Harold Cheatham, Dean of the College of HEHD, Bobby Robinson the Athletic Director, and Coach Tommy West, were also helpful in making LIFE LINE an officially sponsored University activity. Laurie Haughey serves as the secretary to the group and coordinates and facilitates the group’s retreats. But it was the four original members, Kevin Laird, Brandon Streeter, Holland Postell, and Michael Allen, along with the original cast including Anthony Simmons and Raymond Priester who made the group the success it is today. Michael Allen and Holland Postell are currently officers of LIFE LINE, serving as president and vice-president respectively.

Current membership nominations come from within the group. After Haughey’s and D’Andrea’s initial involvement in membership selection, the rest has been left up to the members themselves. The initiated participants nominate other members of the team that represent the values that they have established. When a member graduates, the team votes in a new member to replace him. If two are found to take his spot, so be it. That is how the membership grows. This program is not meant to be exclusive. There is no set number of the participants.

These values include self-discipline, dedication, responsibility, positive attitude, a good work ethic, honesty, and most important, leadership. Through these positive attributes, members give LIFE LINE a positive team image, well-developed goals and objectives, team unity, and smart decision making. All of this enables LIFE LINE to achieve its mission of establishing a group of Clemson University football players who enhance and encourage high academic, athletic, and social ideals within their team.

As members of LIFE LINE, individuals are required to meet once a month to discuss issues affecting the team and the surrounding community. During these “retreats,” members reflect upon past community projects and plan future ones. They also discuss issues affecting team unity. These include issues that are discussed in the locker room as well as those issues that have not yet been brought to light. Through open discussion, current matters can be resolved and future problems avoided. To further assist individuals in conflict resolution and leadership growth, members are also required to attend a seminar taught by Dr. Steven Madden, a professor in Speech and Communication Studies at Clemson.
Robert Carswell is one of the most active members of LIFE LINE. Every Monday last semester, he worked with students at the Anderson Alternative School.

Dr. Madden offers the group skills in conflict resolution, and is able to facilitate the players in the areas of negotiation and persuasion. Mayor Larry Abernathy also has addressed the group about their responsibilities to the Clemson community.

Members of LIFE LINE are required to be involved in the organization's community outreach projects, which run throughout the academic year. Throughout LIFE LINE's brief history the organization has been affiliated with Helping Hands of Clemson. In December of 1996 members of the football team donated money from their football bowl funds to help sponsor 2 children at Christmas. The money was used to purchase a practical gift as well as a toy to help make the child's Christmas more enjoyable. Every semester the team again raises money for Helping Hands as part of Career Dress Day. For each participating player, sponsors donate a small sum of money to the organization. Last spring $550 was donated to the Helping Hands of Clemson. LIFE LINE participants have had to use their imaginations to come up with these innovative ways of raising funds within the parameters of NCAA regulations.

Although they will continue to try to find ways to donate money, LIFE LINE members would like to focus their future attention on direct involvement with the children. LIFE LINE plans to start a garden at the Helping Hands home in Six Mile. The players will work with the children who will each be responsible for taking care of a row. Gardening requires skills in patience and perseverance. They would also like to continue their affiliation with Habitat for Humanity. This is a program where they volunteer their time to help build homes for those who are less fortunate. Another program they look forward to repeat involvement in is High Five Day. Children of the community are hosted by the football team at Vickery Hall for pizza, a movie and to compete to see who can give the Tiger the best high five. The player's judge the contest and the winner receives a prize, but the athletes cheer for all of the children.

Goals for the future are to get the word out about the advantages of this program. Haughey and D'Andrea want other sports teams to see the positive results this outreach program has had on the football team. It helps boost morale and better the team's unity. Members of LIFE LINE have stated that they do not participate because they want recognition. They do it because they want to contribute. It is an honor to be a part of LIFE LINE, because it helps the team and the community. There is also a wish to spread this kind of program to other campuses. Members of the team and Haughey have given presentations at the 1997 & 1998 Summer Leadership Institutes where they have offered peer leadership strategies for professionals around the country. In October, Haughey will give a presentation on starting peer leadership organizations at the Southern Institute in Atlanta.

According to Haughey this program was initiated to help build leadership and unity on a very large team, not as a public relations maneuver. If this is the first you have heard about their group, that is probably why. When asked if part of the reason behind forming this program was to help change the image of Clemson's football team, Haughey said, "LIFE LINE was formed to shape an image, not change one."

Brandon Streeter was one of 100 players that participated in Dress for Success Day. The team raised over $1,000 for Helping Hands of Clemson through the project.
The toughest game of all is the game of life. And the ACC grooms winners on the field and in the classroom. That's why NationsBank is proud to support the conference.

As an Official Corporate Partner of the ACC, NationsBank supports 23 ACC championship events, helps provide scholarships and assists community projects, such as ACC Operation Outreach.

Through academic and athletic achievement, ACC schools like Clemson continue to make a positive impact in the communities they serve. NationsBank is proud to support the tradition of the ACC.
Women's Cross Country/Track & Field

by Julie Paré

Clemson's women's track team has one goal in mind for the 1998-99 season — winning an ACC Championship. At both the ACC indoor and outdoor championship meets last season, Clemson finished second with the closest margin in six years.

According to head coach Ron Garner, the team's success depends upon the right attitude. "Every athlete on this team understands that team unity is the most important factor," he says.

Cross Country/Distance

The cross country and distance runners are under the direction of a new coach, Rodney Rothoff. Rothoff earned success as the head cross country coach at Arkansas-Little Rock for eight years. The coaching staff is confident that the cross country team can reach the same level of success the indoor and outdoor teams have had. "The team as a whole is ready for the next level," said Rothoff. "The nucleus is committed to the philosophy of our program, to grow and develop.

Junior Beth Ahern has the strength and mental toughness to lead the team this season. In Clemson's first meet of the season, Ahern won the Western Carolina Invitational with a time of 18:01. Last season she placed fourth indoors and fifth outdoors in the 3,000-meters at the ACC championships. In the 5,000-meters at the outdoor championships, she placed third with a time of 17:33.49. She also set new personal records in the 1,500 and 3,000-meters during the outdoor season.

Senior Julianne Littman and junior Shannon Schoppman are also among Clemson's top distance runners. Littman placed fifth in the mile run at the ACC indoor championships and fifth in the 800-meters at the ACC outdoor championships, while Schoppman finished fourth in the mile run at the ACC indoor championships and fifth in the 1,500-meters at the ACC outdoor championships.

Success

Sophomore Jennifer Meador was one of the most consistent cross country runners a year ago. Meador finished eighth in the mile run at the ACC indoor meet, giving the Tigers three athletes in the mile finals for the first time in Clemson's history.

Completing the distance runners is junior Erica Van Reenan, who stepped up her performance at the indoor championships, then placed sixth in the 10,000 meters at the ACC outdoor championships.

In the distance relay events, the Tigers return Littman, Epps and Schoppman off Clemson's record-setting 4x1500-meter relay team that posted the seventh fastest collegiate time last season. The 4x800-meter relay team of Meador, Schoppman, Littman and Epps returns after setting the school record last season with a time of 9:04.69, but is capable of running much faster, according to Garner.

Sprints/Hurdles

Clemson's sprinters are also under the direction of a new coach this season, Celena Mondie-Milner. An 18-time All-American at Illinois, Mondie-Milner won a gold medal at the 1995 World Championship as a member of the 4x100-meter relay team. She will lead a fierce group of competitors that she believes understand what the "roar of the Tiger" is about. "Our athletes understand our goals of developing ACC and NCAA champions and have adapted well to the coaching changes," she said. "The team's versatility will be an important factor in our success this season.

The sprint group lost one senior from last season, Simone Tomkinson, the ACC outdoor champion in the 100-meters and the indoor champion in the 60-meter dash; however, the team returns five All-ACC performers in senior Nikki Bouyer, junior Shikera Weston and sophomore LaShonda Cutchin, Simone Brown and Terri Robinson.

Brown was a two-time All-American last season after placing sixth nationally indoors in the 55m hurdles and running and on the 4x400-meter relay team that also finished sixth indoors. Her leading speed and versatility will be important to the Tigers this season. Bouyer finished second in both the 200-meters and the 60-meter hurdles at the ACC Indoor championships. Outdoors, she was the ACC champion in the 200-meter dash and placed third in the 100-meter hurdles. Her 200-meter time of 23.51 is the second-fastest time in Clemson history. Bouyer also holds Tiger hurdle records in the indoor 60-meters (8.20) and outdoor 100-meters (11.37).

Weston also gained experience on a national level last season. She was a member of the 4x400-meter relay team that finished sixth at the NCAA indoor championships, garnering All-American honors. Weston placed second in the 400-meters and third in the 200-meters at the ACC indoor championships.

Cutchin also gained All-American status as part of the 4x400-meter relay team that won the ACC championship and then finished sixth at the indoor national championship. At the ACC Outdoor championship, she placed fifth in the 200-meters and third in the 400-meters. She is expected to do well again this season in both the 200 and 400-meters and will run on the 4x400-meter relay team.

Brown finished eighth in the 200-meters at the league indoor championships and was seventh in the 100-meters at the league outdoor championships, while Robinson placed second in the 60-meter dash indoors and fourth in the 100-meters outdoors. Robinson is a prominent national-class jumper who will also contribute to the 4x100-meter relay team this season.

Two freshmen will complete the sprint and hurdles group. Kyana Elder, the Georgia state champion and record holder in several hurdle events, will compete in the 100-meter hurdles. Melissa Manning, the Pennsylvania state champion in the 400-meter hurdles, will complete the hurdle team.

Field Events

The field events played a significant role in Clemson's 1998 success. The group was consistent throughout the season and tied the sprint and hurdles group for the highest number of points at the ACC outdoor championships.

Sophomore Jamaine Moton returns as the ACC defending outdoor shot put champion after throwing 50' 1 3/4" at last year's meet. She holds the Clemson all-time record in the discus at 162' 9". Moton provisionally qualified for the NCAAs during both the indoor and outdoor seasons last year. Junior Kammie Blount returns as the ACC javelin champion, after improving significantly in 1998.

Two seniors return in the hammer competition. Ann McAuley placed fourth in the hammer at the ACC outdoor meet last year. She holds the Clemson record with a throw of 156' 0". Julie Polovick placed seventh in the hammer and eighth in the weight throw at the ACC indoor meet last season. She finished seventh in the javelin at the outdoor meet. Polovick ranks second, behind McAuley, on Clemson's all-time list with a throw of 150' 6".

Sophomore Mandy McLane was an all-ACC pole vaulter last season, placing second outdoors and eighth indoors at the league championships meet. Freshman Erin Nett will also compete in the pole vault. Net placed third indoors and sixth outdoors at the high school national championships meet last year. She has already jumped higher than the ACC record of 11' 2" in the pole vault competition.

Sophomore Simone Brown will also compete in the long jump this season.

With the enthusiasm of the new coaching staff the Clemson cross country and track & field teams are poised for a run at the ACC championships.

What if Clemson University lost its ROTC programs, and its proud military tradition faded into the past?

The Clemson Corps is dedicated to making sure that doesn’t happen. The new constituency group was formed to help preserve the University’s distinguished military heritage and strengthen our Army and Air Force ROTC programs.

To give Clemson a competitive edge in recruiting and retaining quality cadets, The Corps has established an annual ROTC fund and endowment to provide outstanding military students with scholarships for tuition, room and board.

Your support is crucial if the Corps is to be preserved and enhanced.

Answer the call!

If you share a deep-rooted love for Clemson’s heritage of military excellence and wish to support it, join The Clemson Corps. Contact the Clemson Fund at 864/656-5896 or the Alumni Office at 864/656-2345.

Ensuring the future for those who shape it.
Anthony Simmons playing in front of him for three years. We had to put Chris as Anthony's backup because we didn't have anyone else with that type of ability. But he's been unselfish and paid the price. We've always respected him for his resilience and now he's got a chance to show what he can do.

Jones put on quite a show in his first start against Furman on September 5 when he tied for the team lead in tackles with nine, which came in only 34 plays. He also scooped up a fumble and rolled into the endzone for his first touchdown as a Tiger.

"I saw the ball fly over the quarterback's head and my eyes lit up," says Jones with an uncontrollable smile. "I didn't even know I fell into the end zone until the cannon went off. It's the type of feeling you really can't describe. It was the first touchdown I had scored since high school." The Monroe, GA native came to Clemson after playing tailback at Monroe Area High School. He rushed for over 1,400 yards in his senior season, 329 of which came in only 15 carries against Loganville High School. In a sign of things to come, he played linebacker for his last four games of his senior season. That four game stretch was the first time he had ever played the position.

Despite his impressive numbers, his only other major college offer he received was from Illinois State. Clemson, though, saw a linebacker in Jones and signed him. He arrived in the same class with many of the current Tiger starters on defense, including Simmons, Antwan Edwards, Rahim Abdullah, Adrian Dingle, and O.J. Childress.

Jones' first season saw the rock-solid 6-0, 225 pounder make an immediate impact. In his first game as a Tiger against Western Carolina in 1995, he had seven tackles in limited playing time. He went on to accumulate 50 tackles, seventh best on the team.

His 1996 season numbers were not as good as his freshman numbers. But against Florida State, Jones had a play he will never forget, and neither will the Seminoles' Dee Feaster, as Jones knocked him unconscious on a punt return.

"I was running down the field on the punt coverage team and was bearing down on Feaster," recalls Jones. "I had a lot of momentum and just leaned into him. His whole body went limp and the ball came free. It's one of those hits you dream about."

In his junior season, he increased his tackle total to 38, including a team-best 13 special teams tackles. His 22 special teams tackles through his first three seasons rank as one of the best Tiger figures over the three-year span.

Now that he is a starter in '98, he has made the most of his opportunity through the first two games. His 26 tackles are eight more than the nearest Tiger. Included in that total was a 17-tackle performance against Virginia Tech, by far his career high. He has also had the 26 stops in only 94 plays, good for a tackle every 3.6 plays.

His career numbers reflect his efficiency. Through his first three seasons and two games of '98, he has averaged a tackle every 4.2 plays, which is slightly behind Simmons' career mark of 4.1. He is also tied for the team lead in career games, as the senior has appeared in 38 of 39 games entering today's game.

Despite his collegiate success, Jones, the youngest of seven children, had to overcome many obstacles that most people do not know about. "My mom, Christine, who I was named after, and dad, Timothy, taught us right from wrong and the value of life," says Jones. "My dad worked with the city of Monroe and my mom took care of me and my brothers and sisters. It was tough. I knew my parents couldn't pay my way through college, so I had to go out and earn a scholarship."

"Even though I never got the opportunity to do a lot of things that other kids got to do, like play recreational sports and enjoy a lot of nice things, I really don't blame them for anything. It was really tough. I also want to thank Lester and Lillie Middlebrooks, who were family friends of mine and helped me through some tough times."

"One thing I did in my spare time was lift weights. I had a little weight bench in my backyard." By the looks of his biceps and the Tiger Paw tattoo on one of them, it is obvious Jones has a desire to be the best for Clemson.

Thanks to his perseverance, Jones has made a name for himself with professional scouts, who clocked Jones 40-yard dash time at a blistering 4.40 seconds. He also benched 422 pounds, sixth best on the team.

But Jones realizes that professional football is not a guarantee. "I plan to use what I've learned in PRTM-CLS (community leisure services) to work with children. Through hard work and dedication, 99 times out of 100 your dreams will come true."

Perhaps Head Coach Tommy West sums the former high school tailback's situation up best. "He's handled the whole situation well. He knew he was going to get some playing time and he knew how important he was on our special teams. But you sure appreciate what guys like that do. He was playing behind a great player. I'm glad to see him get his opportunity now because he's certainly earned it!"

Future Schedules

With the higher caliber of play in football within the ACC has come an increased demand for ACC games to be televised. In order to give the conference as much exposure as possible, the ACC adopted a policy in 1993 of determining football schedules in December of the year prior to the following football season.

The procedure allows ACC alumni and fans throughout the country to become familiar with ACC institutions, their football programs and student-athletes. More television exposure directly translates into more talented high school football players aware of the high quality of ACC football and correspondingly better athletes enrolling at ACC schools. Finally, higher viewership produces more rights fee dollars from the networks to support each institution's athletics program and the 2,500 student-athletes currently receiving scholarship assistance at ACC institutions.

We apologize for the inconvenience that this policy places on those of you who are making long term plans during the football season. We thank you for your support of Clemson football and the ACC and appreciate your patience.

Here is a look at the Clemson non-conference schedule thru the year 2005. The complete 1999 schedule will be released in December 1998.

In 1991, two very special anniversaries in the Clemson football tradition were observed. Not only did the 1991 season mark the 10th anniversary of Clemson's National Championship season, but it also marked the 50th birthday of the place where the Tigers won six games that season: Memorial Stadium.

In the first 56 years of Memorial Stadium, Clemson has a record of 197-74-7, including a 32-11-1 ledger over the last seven seasons. Clemson had a 16-game unbeaten streak at home between 1990-92 and has a career winning ratio of 72.0 percent.

The stadium has definitely been good to the Tigers who call it home, but the stadium was constructed against the advice of at least one Clemson coach. Just before head coach Jess Neely left for Rice University after the 1939 season, he gave Clemson a message. "Don't ever let them talk you into building a big stadium," he said. "Put about 10,000 seats behind the Y.M.C.A. That's all you'll ever need".

Instead of following Coach Neely's advice, however, Clemson officials decided to build the new stadium in a valley on the western part of campus. The place would take some clearing—there were many trees, but luckily there were no hedges.

The crews went to work: clearing, cutting, pouring, and forming. Finally, on September 19, 1942, Clemson Memorial Stadium opened with the Tiger football team thrashing Presbyterian College, 32-13. Those 20,000 seats installed for Opening Day would soon grow; and grow and grow. This year Clemson celebrates its 57th year in this outstanding facility.

When the original part of the stadium was built in the early 40's, much of the work was done by scholarship athletes, including many football players. The first staking out of the stadium was done by two members of the football team, A.N. Cameron and Hugh Webb. Webb returned to Clemson years later to be an architecture professor, and Cameron went on to become a civil engineer in Louisiana.

The building of the stadium did not proceed without a few problems. One day during the clearing of the land, one young football player proudly announced that he was not allergic to poison oak. He then commenced to attack the poison oak with a swing blade, throwing the plants to and fro. The next day, however, the boy was swollen twice his size and had to be put in the hospital.

There are many other stories about the stadium including one stating that Frank Howard put a chew of tobacco in each corner of the stadium as the concrete poured.

Howard says that the seeding of the grass caused a few problems. "About 40 people and I laid sod on the field," he says. "After three weeks, on July 15, we had only gotten halfway through.

"I told them that it had taken us three weeks to get that far, and I would give them three more week's pay for however long it took. I also told them we would have 50 gallons of ice cream when we got through. After that it took them three days to do the rest of the field. Then we sat down in the middle of the field and ate up that whole 50 gallons."

Howard says that on the day of the first game in the stadium, "the gates were hung at 1:00 pm and we played at 2:00 pm." But that would be all of the construction for a while. Then in 1958, 18,000 sideline seats were added and, in 1960, a total of 5,658 West end zone seats were added in response to increasing attendance. With the large end zone, "Green Grass" section, this expansion increased capacity to about 53,000.

Later, upper decks were added to each side of the stadium as crowds swelled—the first one in 1978 and the second in 1983. This increased capacity to over 80,000 which makes it one of the 10 largest on-campus stadiums in the country.

The effect spiraling inflation has had in this century can be dramatically seen in the differences in stadium construction. The original part of the stadium was built at a cost of $125,000 or at $6.25 a seat. The newest upper deck was finished in 1983 at a cost of $13.5 million, or $866 a seat.

Through the years, Memorial Stadium has become known as "Death Valley." It was tagged this by the late Presbyterian coach, Lonnie McMillian. After bringing his P.C. teams to Clemson for years and getting whipped, McMillian said the place was like Death Valley. A few years later the name stuck.

On November 16, 1974 the playing surface was named Frank Howard Field for the legendary coach because of his long service and dedication to the University.

Luckily, the stadium wasn't built behind the Y.

The ACC had five of the first 15 players and seven of the first 19 taken in the 1998 NFL draft. The seven first-round selections were the second most in league history.

The ACC has had 15 first-round draft choices in the last two years, the most in a two-year period in conference history, and more than any other conference. The SEC is second to the ACC in first-round picks the last two years with 14, while the Big 12 is third with eight.

The ACC had 29 players drafted overall in 1998, third highest among conferences. Eight of the nine schools had at least one pick and they went to 23 different NFL teams.

The ACC has long been a conference with a strong tradition when it comes to linebackers. Four of the ACC’s first eight selections were linebackers in 1998 and overall, six ACC linebackers were chosen, including Clemson’s Anthony Simmons, who was the 15th pick of the entire draft by the Seattle Seahawks.

Over the last two years, 11 ACC linebackers have been selected, including seven within the first three rounds.

The ACC has had at least one first-round selection in 10 consecutive NFL drafts and in 19 of the last 20. Florida State leads in first-round selections with 21, while Clemson is second with 18. The Tigers have had 168 players drafted in history, including five in 1998.

There were only 13 teams nationally who had at least five selections and the ACC had three of those teams. Florida State, North Carolina and Clemson all had at least five draft choices in 1998.

For each of the last two years, the ACC placed 11 former players in the NFL Pro Bowl. Only the Pac-10 with 17 selections had more Pro Bowl selections than the ACC in 1997. Clemson has had seven of those 22 ACC Pro Bowl selections over the last two years, including Levon Kirkland and Chester McGlockton, who have gone each of the last two seasons.

The ACC had a conference record six consensus All-Americans in 1997, tied with the Big 12 for the most consensus All-Americans. The list included Clemson’s Anthony Simmons, who was a first-team selection by Associated Press, the Football Coaches Association and Sporting News. The ACC has had 10 consensus first-team All-America selections over the last two seasons.

Overall, the ACC had 16 different players earn, first, second or third-team All-America honors in 1997.

A total of 154 former players from the nine ACC schools played in 1997 in the NFL during the regular season or postseason.

The ACC is the nation’s second winningest conference in bowl games over the years. The league has a combined .540 winning percentage (79-67-5) in bowl games. Over the last eight years the ACC is the only conference in the country to have each of its member schools play in a bowl game.

Georgia Tech, Clemson and Florida State all rank among the top 15 schools in the history of the game in bowl winning percentage (given a minimum of 15 appearances).

In the decade of the 1990s, ACC teams have posted the nation’s second best non-conference winning percentage. The ACC is 178-92-4 against non-league foes since 1990.

The ACC is one of only two conferences to capture three or more national football championships since 1980. Clemson won the title in 1981, while Georgia Tech took the crown in 1990 and Florida State was number-one in 1993. Maryland also won the National Championship in 1953, giving the ACC four different schools who have been number-one at the end of a season.

The 1997 season marked the ninth straight year that the ACC has had at least four teams participate in bowl games.

ACC Football has drawn at least 2.2 million fans for seven straight years. ACC teams played to 85 percent of their stadium capacity in 1997.

Twelve times in the last 18 years an ACC member school has claimed the CFA Academic Achievement Award, which is awarded to the CFA institution with the highest graduation rate among members of its football team.

Eighty percent of ACC football games involving conference teams are on television. Clemson has averaged 10 televised games per year the last three years to rank among the national leaders in that category. That should be the case again this year. As many as 10 games are expected to be seen on national or regional TV this year, including the Georgia Tech game on ESPN on Thursday, November 12th.

Clemson University's commitment to provide its student-athletes with the very best of facilities is evident in many ways. From the soaring upper decks of Memorial Stadium, to the state-of-the-art strength training facility, young men and women from all 19 of Clemson's varsity sports have the very best in facilities for training and competition. Vickery Hall is no exception, as the $3 million structure is as impressive aesthetically as any of the other facilities. But the importance of Vickery Hall to the Clemson University Athletic Department is not found in the structure itself, but in the many programs that the building houses.

Vickery Hall opened in the spring of 1991 and was the first in the country built solely for the all-around education of student-athletes. The two-story, 27,000 square -foot building is open throughout the day and into the evening to accommodate the extended schedules of student-athletes.

The mission of the Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs is to monitor, guide, and encourage student-athletes to fulfill their long term goal, and to achieve their academic and career potential.

Vickery Hall focuses on three primary areas to meet the student-athlete's needs.

ACADEMIC SUPPORT

Clemson's Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs have provided one of the best academic support and advising programs in the nation.

The proof is in the statistics. A record number of Clemson student-athletes made the academic honor roll in 1997. Nine of Clemson's 13 Sports programs had a higher GPA than the student body average in the 1997 Spring semester. Twenty Clemson football players were on the ACC academic honor roll for the 1996-97 academic year, an all-time record. The Tiger football team had an all-time record GPA for the entire year in 1997-98. The Academic Counselor performs a variety of duties to track academic progress. Their duties include providing assistance in registration and priority scheduling, contacting faculty, personally checking classes, recording information, counseling sessions with student-athletes, providing diagnostic testing, and directing career aspirations.

One of the most prestigious programs that has received recognition essential to the growth of Vickery Hall is the tutorial program.

The Student-Athlete Enrichment Program has been granted a Level 1 certification from the College of Reading and Learning Association, International Tutor Certification Program. Of the 160 programs certified by CRLA, the Clemson Student-Athlete Enrichment Program is one of three student-athlete programs in the country to achieve this distinction.

Having tutor certification enables student-athletes to be provided the highest quality of academic assistance possible. Approximately 80 tutors are hired to provide academic support in the many subject areas offered.

The Department of Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs has recognized the need for students to have access to high-quality computing equipment and has made a commitment to provide the student-athletes at Clemson with the largest computer lab in the country. Located on the first floor of Vickery Hall is the Department of Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs' Microcomputer Laboratory. The lab is open seven days a week, for 16 hours on Monday through Thursday, and limited time on Saturday and Sunday. During exam periods the lab hours are extended.

The lab staff has a full-time computer manager in Steve Coleman, and also graduate students, many of whom are pursuing advanced degrees in computer science. Lab staff members are available for tutoring of any Computer Science course, as well as the many management, engineering and business courses that deal with personal computers.

The Student-Athlete Enrichment Program is committed to providing state-of-the-art computing facilities. New computers have recently been purchased bringing the lab to a state of the art facility. Over 40 computers are available for student-athletes.

All computers are fully connected to the internet allowing for access of computers throughout the world for research and communication.

PERSONAL GROWTH PROGRAM

One of the most important programs that helps student-athletes reach their full potential and engage successfully in this college experience is the Personal Growth and Development Program.

The purpose of this program is to assist the student-athlete in making a successful transition into his/her university and athletic life. These programs will provide the student-athlete the opportunity to examine and explore issues and topics pertaining to his/her values, personal health and wellness, behavior, and goals. The specific topics will encompass both general transition issues and specific athletic issues as well.

CAREER ASSISTANCE PROGRAM

The Career Assistance Program provides student-athletes an opportunity to fulfill career aspirations by participating in various career seminars offered by the staff at Vickery Hall. The philosophy of this program is to provide student-athletes with job searching skills and strategies, internships, practicum experience as well as summer employment. These programs are designed to address specific career opportunities through a program that uses each year to gain information on the student-athletes.

By using the resources available to the University, Alumni Center and the Athletic Department, the staff is working to establish a network of businesses, companies, and executives who will help assist with The Summer Employment Assistance Program. The program's main goal is to provide the student-athlete with job experience and a work history, which he or she can apply to his or her academic discipline.

The Career Assistance Program is coordinated from the academic colleges, the Placement Center, and through the Athletic Department contacts. This program is designed to better prepare the student-athlete for full-time employment and focuses on resume writing and interview techniques.

This 78 yard punt return for a touchdown was a large portion of the 126 punt return yards Donnell Woolford had in 1987 against Georgia Tech that established a Memorial Stadium record.

Memorial Stadium Records

Nealon Greene holds the Clemson record in Memorial Stadium for pass completions in a game with 26 versus Virginia last season.

by Emily Rabon

In 1959, one of the greatest Clemson traditions came to an end. This was the final year of the Senior Platoon, which had begun in 1930 under the guidance of the legendary Frank B. "Gator" Farr. The fast stepping (double cadence) drill team performed intricate maneuvers that always ended with the Queen Anne salute. They were always in demand to perform and make appearances at various parades, including the Azalea Parade in Charleston, the Shriners Festival in Aiken, and the Shriners Football Game. The platoon also traveled as far away as New Orleans to march in the Mardi Gras Parade. Two of the most prestigious places they performed were Yankee Stadium and Fenway Park. They also performed at all home football games and sometimes traveled with the team.

The only time there was not a Senior Platoon was during World War II because most of the older cadets were in the war. During this time the Tiger Platoon was formed, which was opened to all cadets. The ending of the Senior Platoon came in 1959-60 when Clemson became a civilian institution.

Before the change, the platoon was a highly sought after honor to the cadets. Tryouts were held in the spring and only rising seniors could tryout. Anywhere between 100-150 cadets tried out every spring and 50 were chosen for the 43 member drill unit. There was competitive training for one month and the old members voted on the new members. If a cadet made a single mistake, then they would not be asked to come back. After making it through the rigorous month of competitive training, the cadets still had to undergo a five minute interview in front of the current platoon. Potential members would be interrogated on the various routines and had to display a positive attitude.

If the cadet made it this far, there was still more to undergo, as prospects then had to endure two weeks of initiation. They carried around a box of "goodies" and a paddle. Every time they saw a current senior member, they did a Queen Anne salute and gave the new members candy in exchange for a signature on their paddle. After lunch, the new members were lined up outside of the dining hall and paddled by the old members.

After the rigorous and sometimes humiliating two weeks, the tables were turned and the new members sought their revenge! After their final "paddling", the new members shook the old members hands to signify the switch from old to new. Then, the new members would take the old members hands and throw them in the reflecting pond on campus. "We looked forward to that for the entire two weeks," remembers former cadet Leonard George, a 1952-53 member of the platoon.

All of the training and torture was worth it. If you made it, you were part of the elite. But there was still more to pay. "We drilled from 6 a.m. until 6:45 a.m.," remembers George. "Then we got ready for breakfast and classes. At 4 p.m., we were back at it again. But it was worth it. When we competed against other schools, they did not even compare. At half-time of the football games, instead of the fans getting up and going to the concession area, they would stay to watch the platoon perform. It was electrifying to watch."

Former Sports Information Director Bob Bradley remembers the team. "One minute, they would be spread out all over the football field and you would think that there was no way they would get back together. But the next thing you know, they were all back in line and still in step together."

George was the commander of the 1953 Senior Platoon when they traveled to New Orleans for the Mardi Gras Parade. "That was the most difficult parade we ever marched in. The crowd was loud and out of control."

In the early 1990's, George was talking to Debbie Dubose, director of Alumni Relations, and he suggested that they try to reunite the members of the Senior Platoon. They contacted over 1500 members and the first reunion was held in the President's Box after the 1992 N.C. State football game. One of the members decided that the best way for people to remember the platoon was if they could see them perform. In the summer of 1996, the members met in Clemson and practiced one weekend each month from June until October. Their debut was at the 1996 N.C. State football game. "We made a few mistakes. The crowd was so loud we could not hear some of the commands," remembers George. "Last year when we performed at the Duke game, the announcer asked for the crowd to be quiet until the end. We were perfect that time. I just hope we can pull it off again this year. We are starting to get up there in age."

What makes these dentists, retired surgeons, retired textile managers, engineers and PhDs get together each year? "It is just the love for Clemson," says George. "When there are members driving all the way from Texas and Virginia once a month to practice, their dedication shows. This group is a wide cross section of Clemson humanity. This group is a good focal point of Clemson spirit."

The Senior Platoon performs before a crowd at Boston's Fenway Park in 1941.
THE COMMISSION ON THE FUTURE OF
CLEMSON UNIVERSITY

In May 1997, more than 300 alumni and friends from all over the nation gathered at the Madren Center for the convening of The Commission on the Future of Clemson University. Sixteen months later, the work of the Commission has been completed. In a dissolution ceremony held at the Madren Center last night, the Commission formally transmitted its recommendations to the Clemson University Board of Trustees. The Trustees will consider the Commission's suggestions in upcoming meetings as they determine what actions should be taken to prepare the University for the challenges of the next century.

The Commission was created by the Board of Trustees to elicit recommendations from alumni and friends on how to chart a successful course for the University into the 21st century and position Clemson as one of America's leading universities. Thank you to all of the members of the Commission, and congratulations on a job well done!
Your efforts are greatly appreciated.

Today, the Clemson Tigers will take on the Wake Forest Demon Deacons in yet another exciting match-up in Death Valley. With the 1998 season well underway, the Tigers will continue to look for support and encouragement from the fans and also from the Clemson Tiger Marching Band.

The Tiger Band's third performance of the season will begin with Clemson's traditional pre-game routine. The program will open with the ever popular "Orange Bowl March" bringing about fond memories of the Tigers' 1981 national championship season. Next follows the "Tiger Rag," always a favorite of the fans. The band will continue to dazzle the crowd with its renditions of "Washington Post," "God Bless America," and "The Star-Spangled Banner." Then the crowd is invited to sing along as the band performs the Clemson University Alma Mater.

This leads into the noted tradition of the dotting of the "i." Today, this honor will be performed by Jerry Dempsey and Lawrence Gressette, Jr. Mr. Dempsey and Mr. Gressette serve as co-chairmen on the Commission on the Future of Clemson University.

Finally the band will prepare themselves and the crowd for "the most exciting 25 seconds in college football." The band positions themselves on the field forming a tunnel for the team to pass through as they rush down the hill. Meanwhile, the band will play the "Orange Bowl March" and "Tiger Rag."

During the game, the Tiger Band will keep the enthusiasm going by playing favorites such as "Eye of the Tiger."

The band is under the direction of Dr. Mark Hosler. The percussion instructor is Paul Buyer, the flag line/twirler instructor is Cheryl Hosler, and the announcer is Tim Willis. Their jobs are made considerably easier with the help of four talented drum majors. Tiger Band Drum Majors act as field conductors during performances and field assistants to the Director during rehearsals - taking attendance, correcting individual errors and style problems, and assisting with the efficient teaching of marching drills to the band.

Landon Hammett is in his third year as a Drum Major, and his fifth year as a Tiger Band member. He is a native of Boiling Springs, SC and a graduate of Boiling Springs High School. Landon is a senior majoring in Packaging Science.

Susan Lark is in her fourth year as a Drum Major, and her fifth year as a Tiger Band member. She is a native of Townville, SC and a graduate of Pendleton High School. Susan is a senior majoring in Nursing.

Andrea Randolph is in her first year as a Drum Major, and her third year as a Tiger Band member. She is a native of Woodstock, GA and a graduate of Sequoyah High School. Andrea is a junior majoring in Marketing.

Allison Smith is in her second year as a Drum Major, and her fourth year as a Tiger Band member. She is a native of Bamberg, SC and a graduate of Bamberg-Ehrhardt High School. Allison is a senior majoring in Biological Sciences.

Today, Tiger Band presents a halftime show titled "70's Rock Classics." Featured in the show will be several progressive-rock hits by some of the greatest rock bands of the decade including "Roundabout" by Yes; "Carry On Wayward Son" by Kansas; and Emerson, Lake and Palmer's "Karn Evil 9."

Let us all thank the Clemson Tiger Marching Band, for without their dedication the spirit of Death Valley would not be the same.

Memories of Clemson football afternoons can be remembered with a copy of the band's latest CD, "Eye of the Tiger." The CD can be purchased for $15 plus $2.00 for shipping and handling by contacting the Tiger Band Office at (864) 656-3380. All proceeds from the sale of CDs will be used to help finance band scholarships.

Clemson University Alma Mater

Where the Blue Ridge yawns its greatness
Where the Tigers play
Here the sons of dear old Clemson
Reign supreme alway

Chorus
Dear old Clemson, we will triumph
And with all our might
That the Tigers roar may echo
O'er the mountain height.

Since 1954, a Clemson student has adorned the Tiger mascot suit to entertain the Clemson faithful. Joined in 1993 by The Tiger Cub, these furry creatures can be seen imitating game officials (which is now against the rules), signing autographs, getting their picture taken with dignitaries (President Reagan, President Bush, Olympic athletes, among others), shooting the cannon, or doing "Pushups" each time Clemson scores.

The 1994 season marked the 40th birthday for the lovable Tiger. The following year Stuart McWhorter (‘88-’89) and his father Clayton established an endowment for the Tiger mascot.

Rob Lockard, a senior from Lexington Park, MD, will take "The Tiger" into its 44th season in 1998-99. Dan Wangerin will serve as "The Tiger Cub" which is in its sixth year of adding fanfare to a Clemson football Saturday. Wangerin is a junior from Simpsonville, SC.

It didn’t take Anthony Simmons long to move to the top of the Clemson depth chart. The date was August 22, 1995 and Clemson had been in preseason practice for just two weeks. Seldom does a freshman ascend to the top of the depth chart at such a key position.

But, Anthony Simmons was a special player. He set a standard for future Clemson and ACC linebackers, one that will bring comparisons for many years to come. At a school famous for its linebacker tradition, a school that has had at least six former linebackers in the NFL for each of the last four years, Simmons stood above them all in many categories. When it came to tackles per game for a career and season, tackles for loss by a linebacker, and general honors on a regional and national level, Anthony Simmons was at the top.

The native of Spartanburg, SC culminated his three seasons at Clemson with an ACC best 158 tackles, including a league best 25 tackles for loss in 1997. He was a first-team Associated Press All-American, the first Clemson defensive player honored on the AP first team in 15 years.

Because of these accomplishments he will be the recipient of the IPTAY Athlete of the Year Award prior to today’s game. He was chosen by a vote of Clemson head coaches and administrators. The Award is endowed and presented by former Executive Director of IPTAY Gene Willmon.

Simmons won the award during one of Clemson’s top athletic years and there were many candidates for the honor. Sophomore Shawn Crawford was the indoor track national champion in the 200 meters and was a three-time All-American outdoors. Golfer Charles Warren was named the top senior in college golf and finished his career with a number-two national finish at the NCAA Tournament, leading the Tigers to a record second-place team finish. Soccer goalkeeper Matt Jordan was a finalist for National Player of the Year and was a first-team All-American who led the Tigers to the Final Eight of the NCAA Tournament. And let us not forget the accomplishments of Greg Buckner with the men’s basketball team, Sara Buescher in women’s soccer and Matt Paggett with the baseball team.

Simmons was a team leader from the first game of his freshman year. In just his second game at Clemson, he had 14 tackles in a loss to Florida State in Death Valley. The performance for the precocious linebacker elicited these comments from Seminole Head Coach Bobby Bowden: “Simmons is my type of linebacker. He can run and is very strong. He has to be among the top freshmen in the country.” Near the end of last season Bowden’s exclamations of Simmons received the ultimate compliment. “I’m getting a special letter out to all the NFL teams to have them go to Clemson and get him to go pro. He is simply one of the best players in college football.” Of course, Bowden was kidding about the letter, but Simmons was ready for the NFL and turned pro last spring with a year of eligibility remaining. Had he returned this year he had a chance to become just the second four-time Associated Press All-American in college football history. Charlie Justice of North Carolina (1945-46) is the only player in college history to earn that distinction.

“Anthony Simmons was the hardest working great player I have ever been around,” said Tiger Head Coach Tommy West. “He had just one bad practice in three years. He brought his lunch pail everyday.”

Many performances standout in Simmons incredible career. As a freshman, he had a string of three straight tackles in a goal line stand at NC State at a key juncture in the second half. His third consecutive tackle was a stop behind the line of scrimmage, forcing the Pack to kick a field goal. He ended that game with 14 tackles. Later that year he had 19 stops in Clemson’s 17-10 victory over North Carolina. In the regular season finale he had 19 tackles at South Carolina, including three tackles for loss.

At the conclusion of the 1995 season he was named a third-team AP All-American and the UPI National Freshman of the Year, the first defensive player in history to win that award. He had 150 tackles overall, 33 percent more than any freshman in Clemson history.

In 1996 he had at least double figures in tackles in every game, a first for a Clemson player since Jeff Davis did it in Clemson’s 1981 National Championship season. He had two sacks and 17 tackles in Clemson’s key win over 15th ranked Virginia in Charlottesville. The season ended with another third-team AP All-America selection, and a first-team Sporting News choice.

Anthony Simmons Accomplishments

• Second three-time All-American in Clemson history
• Second three-time AP All-American in ACC history
• Consensus All-American, 1997
• First-team All-ACC 1995, 1996, 1997
• UPI National Freshman of the Year, 1995
• Top 10 for Butkus Award, 1997
• Set Clemson record for tackles per game over career
• Set single season tackle record with 178 in 1996
• Set Clemson record for consecutive games with tackle for loss (17)
• Second in Clemson history in tackles for loss (52)
• Led ACC in tackles 1996 and 1997
• Ranked as ACC’s second best defensive player, 1995, 1996, 1997

His senior year included a streak of 12 straight games with at least a tackle for loss and eight quarterback sacks. He had 19 tackles in the win at Maryland, and 19 more in the defensive struggle with North Carolina. That was a landmark game in front of Brent Musberger and an ABC TV audience. “We’ve seen a lot of great linebackers this season, including Andy Katzenmoyer of Ohio State, but no one has had a better game than Clemson’s #41. Anthony Simmons has had a monster game this afternoon in Death Valley.”

After Clemson’s Peach Bowl game against Auburn, most NFL scouting services ranked Simmons as a late first-round draft choice. True to his work ethic throughout his career, he set in motion a workout schedule that would move him to the number-15 selection of the NFL draft. He attended a special speed camp in New Orleans and improved his strength significantly. In other words, he declared war on the draft.

When the Seattle Seahawks made him the number-15 selection of the entire draft there had to be a feeling of pride and completion for Simmons. True to his personality, he signed a multi-year contract and was in camp by the first day. A contract holdout is not in Simmons personality.

“You could see on the film that he loves to play the game,” said Seahawks Head Coach Dennis Erickson. “He is a hard worker who loves the game. He is our type of football player.” Unfortunately, in his first preseason game he sustained a knee injury that required surgery. But, he is expected to return to the field soon.

From Tommy West to Bobby Bowden to Dennis Erickson to what we are sure are many NFL coaches over the next 10 years, people will continue to sing the praises of Anthony Simmons. It is a work ethic he has had since the first day he set foot on the Clemson University practice field.
