CLEMSON COLLEGE, S. C.

AUGUST 24, 1918.

No. 2

J. S. Watkins, of the junior class, was unanimously given first place in the inner ring, and awarded the intercollegiate color which was held in Greenwood last Friday evening in the auditorium at Lander College. This is the second time that Clemson has held this honor, the other time being the first inter-collegiate or-collegiate contest in this state which was won by Moise of Clemson.

The subject of Watkins’ speech was the character of the Tiger, and it was delivered in a manner that would have done credit to any school where more strain was laid upon public speaking than at Clemson.

E. C. Koh of Furman University was second in the contest. He, by the way, is an old Clemson man, having finished the sophomore class here before going to Furman.

C. B. Bond, of the University of South Carolina was third place. About twenty seniors and a few underclassmen also believe that there should be avoided, if possible, but I

MEMORANDUM

April 23, 1918.

The Commissary desires to inform the Cadet Corps that no inspection of the College is being made. Cad. Boice was entirely satisfactory. Of course there were many small deficiencies which it is hoped will be corrected in the future.

Perfection is scarcely to be expected, but by following these same-overs, the members of the Cadet Corps should place Clemson on the list of Distinquished Colleges. The best fit in the United States, and there is no reason why it should not get there and remain. The Commissary cannot put the College in that class right now, but it can do so in the future. It is the earnest wish and determination, the individual members of the Corps and his determination to do all he can to make the Regiment the best in the country. This would make the Corps a credit to the best appearing organization of its kind in the country. This would make the College a credit to the South Carolina.

Sincerely yours,

J. B. Faust,
Assistant Editor.

EDUCATIONAL.

The University of Georgia will be on the campus on Tuesday and Wednesday, and Tigers, they have a good team. It will take some skilled playing to beat them, but we can do it. Then Enos will journey up here Friday.

Erskine will take some good playing to beat them. The Tigers are as follows: Many cadet officers are considering entering the Corps for first place in the annual literary contest between the colleges of South Carolina.

At the meeting of the South Carolina College Press Association last fall in Rock Hill, a Clemson delegate, in bringing the association to hold its next meeting at Clemson, made the statement that he realized that the general opinion of the Literary Education at Clemson is as high as she now leads them in athletics, and that he wanted the Press to help him bring out the fact that literary education at Clemson stop; that literary education at Clemson if for no other reason than that it is the best in its influence on their daily life, regardless of the profession or trade they are entering in, the privileges granted by the War Department to graduates of a distinguished college who wish to take up military work, will make the effort well worth while. It is generally conceded that some men of military training will be adopted soon and the man who has the benefit of an efficient training in college will have some advantages over his fellow citizens.

There is an increasing demand for military instructors in high schools all over the country. This demand will certainly keep on growing and offer a wide field to graduates of such colleges. The higher the rating the College holds, the higher the rating the graduates and the better the place that will be open to them. A few of the defects that were noticed are as follows: Many cadet officers were not chewing gum. This was entirely unnecessary and looks unbecoming. Too much self-confidence is to be expected, but it is not to be expected when drilling the squads or platoons and did not give it the commands as if they meant them. Even if a person is not sure of the proper command he should give the best one he can think of that will produce result and give it as though he knew it to 100% right. There was a great deal of leisure in the units—both as regards cadence and the inability to keep step. More attention should be paid to this.

The 3rd Battalion put up a much snappier Military appearance than the other. The cadence of their step was better and they held their heads up and their shoulders back, so that there was an absence of the slouch that we noticed through—though slight—in the other battalions. The formation of the advance guard in double time by Company "C" was excellent, as was also the steady Military appearance of the officers and cadets.

Sincerely yours,

J. B. Faust,
Assistant Editor.

Fifth inning. Atkinson relieves Perrit as pitcher. Harris threw three batters out at first after a difficult stop. This was one of the finest plays in the game. Blanchard out, Jordan to James. Atkinson fanned Keeler. James drew the ball to center for two bases. McMeekin batted safe, James advanced to third, Harris on the mound, hit and Miss Ludlow to the bench James stole home. Sanders advanced to safe to center, McMeekin coming home on the hit. 'Ring' stole second, then the noble "Stumpy" Banks drove the ball to center for four bases. Atkinson fanned out.
