Haltiwanger to Edit Tiger for Next Year

Clemson will soon begin next year's football season. The first game is set for September 1st. The Tigers have released their football schedule for the upcoming season.

The schedule includes games against some of the top teams in the country, including the University of Florida, the University of Alabama, and the University of Georgia.

The Tigers will also play against some of the state's smaller colleges, including Wofford and Furman.

The Tigers are expected to have a strong season, and fans are looking forward to seeing them play.

The Tigers' first game is set for September 1st, and they are looking to make a strong statement early in the season.

The schedule is expected to be released in full later this month.
This is the last issue of THE TIGER for this season, marking the close of another year of work by the paper for the past year, and is hereon to be considered the first of the new year. It has been a rather hard year for students actively engaged in the work, and for a number of reasons it could not be done without serious mistakes. This TIGER is so infrequent to the rule, for, in the language of Mr. H. B. Parks, it has continued to come out without skipping a single issue. A college publication occupies a rather important place in the daily life of college students. It is the medium in which students can give expression to their ideas and things of the college, and the thoughts of the individual body are judged. The staff, there, labor daily, waiting with bated breath to lay all of the papers of the day to rest, and then from that day to that, it is on the wing. Many an individual even has a specific favorite, and no copy ever will.

The editors desire to acknowledge that without the cooperation of the class of '19, and of cadets, and of the staff, particularly Newman and Shuler, we would not have been possible to keep the paper up to date on schedule, and so the editors wish to express their appreciation to all the individuals whose names are known.

He turns the page over to the new staff under the leadership of Mr. H. Wofford with confidence that it will continue to come out and always be favorably of the old TIGER to do so, for "there is no end to an old spirit ever.

It is in this time, when graduation exercises are being held on the campus of Clemson College, that many high school students will begin to think of the institution in which they are co-workers in the South Carolina high schools in the form of dancing. There are four dancing clubs at Clemson: One from each of the colleges. The college also shows free entertainment to help pass spare time away.

We know that there are many colleges which are in the habit of offering so-called "manuscripts" to any high school student who has shown himself to be a man of mark, of athletic ability. For example, there are cases like this high school student receives a letter setting forth the various advantages of some institution, and with the statement that there are a few scholarships available, and that is possible that he may be awarded one. Some of these "bibles" and sometimes, but not once, but that is either here or there. The point is that some schools do have scholarships available, but DO NOT HAPPEN IN THE CAMPUS OF CLEMSON. Clemson has no money to offer in that department. There are no free scholarships, free tuition, or free books, or anything of athletic ability. What Clemson does have for any students is only this: that he possesses a technical education which is valuable in the South and at least the cost of any institution in the United States.

Mr. High School student—you are either going to college or you are not. If you are not, then you are already going to a literary institution. If you are, then you are going into a literary college, and if you are, you must be coming to a literary college. If you are coming to a literary college, then WHY NOT COME TO CLEMSON? The college of the state of South Carolina which has won every literary contest she has entered for the past 15 years is the college that you have been thinking of. The college of the state of South Carolina which has won more championships than any other college in the United States. Clemson is no exception to the rule, for in one out of every two cases, Clemson will make the cut, and will win more championships than any other college in the state. Clemson comes out in the literary section of the state, and so the following list of literary winners:

1. Clemson College
2. South Carolina College
3. Clemson College
4. South Carolina College
5. Clemson College

From all these indelible facts, then, it must be evident to any person—high school student, college student, teacher, or otherwise—that Clemson has a standing in the literary world. The college of South Carolina which has won more championships than any other college in the state, and so the following list of literary winners:

1. Clemson College
2. South Carolina College
3. Clemson College
4. South Carolina College
5. Clemson College

All these are determined by the literary sections of the colleges, and can be ascertained by going to the literary section of the South Carolina Literary Association.

In closing, let me say that THE TIGER is no exception to the rule, for in one out of every two cases, Clemson will make the cut, and will win more championships than any other college in the state. Clemson is no exception to the rule, for in one out of every two cases, Clemson will make the cut, and will win more championships than any other college in the state.

TIGER, the literary publication of Clemson College, rates most favorably with any other college publication in the state, and so the literary section of the state, and so the following list of literary winners:

1. Clemson College
2. South Carolina College
3. Clemson College
4. South Carolina College
5. Clemson College

All these are determined by the literary sections of the colleges, and can be ascertained by going to the literary section of the South Carolina Literary Association.
