For over 50 years, Batson Yarn and Fabrics Machinery Group, Incorporated, has provided capital equipment, machinery parts and technical service consultation to the textile industry.

We proudly represent the following manufacturers:

- Alexco: Off-loom take-ups, fabric inspection equipment and gantries.
- Beltran: Pollution control and smoke abatement systems.
- Biella Shrunk Process: Dry finishing equipment for woolen/worsted fabrics and synthetics.
- BRD: Noise control systems, including sound enclosures.
- Brouwer: Open-end and ringtube stripping machines and ringtube stacking/packing/alignment systems.
- CC+I: Standards-based monitoring/decision support systems.
- Corghi: Cone to cone, hank to cone winders, dewinders and knit yarn recovery machinery.
- Dornier: Rigid rapier weaving machinery with patented, positively controlled filling transfer, dobby or jacquard motion; air-jet weaving for high quality fabrics; through air dryers, thermal bonding; and knit finishing machines - EcoFix®, EcoSqueeze® and EcoCombine®.
- Fehrer: Nonwoven, web forming, and needle punch machinery.
- Genkinger: Warp beam, cloth roll, and material handling equipment.
- Nordson: Hot melt and melt blown for coating and web forming machines.
- Jenkins: Waste briquetting machinery, Rota-Clean fans.
- Keith Manufacturing: Walking Floor®, unloading and conveying systems.
- Knotex: Warp tying equipment, including computer-controlled machinery, drawing-in systems and frames.
- Lemaire: Transfer printing systems for warp yarn and fabrics and decorative lamination systems.
- NANOsystems: Intelligent camera systems for edge guiding/trimming systems for simple and complex fabric inspection.
- Parex-Mather: Singeing range vacuum saturation machines, compressive shrinkage machines for textile finishing.
- RF Systems: Radio frequency ovens for hanks, cones, fabric and nonwovens.
- Recomo: Standard application and complex coating systems.
- Rolando: Textile waste recycling systems for yarn, fabric, fiber, nonwovens and carpet.
- S.C.A.L.I.: Automated warehouse storage and retrieval systems, automated weighing and packaging systems.
- Shinwa: Pattern shearing and sanding.
- Temafa: Fiber opening and blending systems for carpet, nonwovens, woolen/worsted and spinning.
- VTA: Sectional warping, direct warping and warping creels.
- Welker: Yarn conditioning and steaming systems.
- William Tatham: Carding and crosslapping systems for synthetics, woolens, nonwovens and sliver knitting.
- WXTEX: Direct screen engraving machines for lacquer and galvano.

Clemson Ranked 15th Overall

Clemson has the nation's toughest schedule according to rankings by noted computer analyst Jeff Sagarin. According to his latest data, Clemson's schedule has a rating of 83.17, nearly a point higher than its nearest competitor, ACC foe Virginia. Clemson is the only team in the nation to play three undefeated teams, Florida State, Virginia Tech and Marshall and that certainly has a lot to do with the high ranking. When Clemson meets Georgia Tech on November 13 that schedule ranking will be further enhanced.

Virginia Tech is ranked first by the Sagarin poll and Florida State is second, while Georgia Tech is eighth and Marshall 16th. Thus, four of the top 10 teams in the nation are on Clemson's schedule.

Clemson is shown quite a bit of respect by the Sagarin poll. Despite a 4-4 record, Clemson is ranked 15th in the nation by the computer. Clemson is the only team in the Sagarin top 20 that does not have a winning record. The Sagarin computer ranks Clemson higher than undefeated Mississippi State. Purdue, Ohio State, Notre Dame and Georgia.

It is interesting to note that Duke is ranked fifth in schedule ranking according to Sagarin.

Tigers Look to Clinch Winning ACC Season

There are a lot of factors on the line when Clemson takes on Duke at Memorial Stadium on Saturday. The Tigers enter the action with a 4-4 record, needing two victories in the last three games to become bowl eligible. Clemson's last two games are on the road, at Georgia Tech and at South Carolina.

A victory today would also clinch a winning season in ACC play for Coach Tommy Bowden and the Tigers. Clemson has not had a winning regular season in the ACC since 1996 when Clemson was 6-2 in the league and tied for second in the standings. Clemson was also 6-2 in 1995. A victory today would also mean Clemson could finish no worse than third in the ACC standings. That would be quite an accomplishment considering no preseason poll picked Clemson higher than sixth in the standings.

A victory today would also give Clemson a winning record at home, something Clemson has done just once in the last four years. The Tigers were 5-1 at home in 1996, but 3-3 in 1995 and 1997. Clemson was 3-4 last year in Death Valley.

Finally, a win today would give Clemson a 5-4 record for this season. It would be the first time Clemson was over .500 since the first game of the 1998 season.

Odd But True

Clemson has not won an odd numbered game this season. The Tigers lost one game against Marshall, game five at NC State and game seven against Florida State. The Tigers hope to break that streak against Duke on Saturday.

This streak goes against Clemson's success in odd numbered seasons in recent years. Clemson has been to a bowl game or won at least a game in every odd numbered season since 1977. Obviously, Clemson could keep this streak alive by going to a bowl this year, a goal that is still alive.

This odd success rate is even more prevalent in the last eight years. Over the last four odd numbered seasons, Clemson is 33-14-1, a 70 percent winning percentage. Clemson has been to a bowl game each year. Over the last four even numbered years, Clemson is just 20-25, a 44 percent winning percentage. Clemson has been to a bowl game just one of the last four even numbered seasons.

Streeter Leads Clemson Comeback

Many Clemson fans were surprised that Brandon Streeter came off the bench to lead the Tigers to victory in Wake Forest last Saturday. Streeter had suffered a broken collarbone against North Carolina on October 2 and many felt he was out for the rest of the regular season. But a diligent rehabilitation schedule by Streeter and Clemson's athletic training staff, and a lot of prayers from Streeter's mother Barbara, allowed Streeter to return for the eighth game of the season.

Still, Streeter did not think he would play against the Demon Deacons, and told his mother to stay home and save some of her magic for another game. Mrs. Streeter watched in amazement via satellite from Pennsylvania as his son came off the bench in the fourth quarter and guided the Tiger offense to 10 points in two possessions. He even scored the clinching touchdown on a one-yard quarterback sneak with just 1:18 left.

Streeter hit on 3-7 passes for 72 yards and led the Clemson offense to 106 yards of total offense in his 11 minutes of play. Clemson trailed 3-2 entering the fourth period before winning 12-3. It marked the first time since 1996 against Georgia Tech that Clemson trailed entering the fourth quarter, then won the contest.

Streeter has now completed 85 of 127 passes this season for 874 yards and two scores. His 67 percent completion percentage is on a record pace. In fact, he is significantly ahead of the record of 62.1 percent set by DeChane for Clemson in 1997.

Dantzler on Record Total Offense Pace

Clemson quarterback Woodrow Dantzler is on a record pace in terms of total offense this year. He has averaged 241 yards per game in total offense so far this season and that is ahead of the 213 yards per game by DeChane for Clemson in 1997.

Dantzler began his sophomore season as the backup quarterback and did not even play against Virginia and Virginia Tech. He came off the bench for an injured Brandon Streeter and recorded 213 yards of total offense in just three quarters, leading Clemson to a 31-20 victory against North Carolina.

The sophomore from Orangeburg, SC has been Clemson's starting quarterback each of the last four weeks and gained 1162 yards of total offense out of Clemson's team total of 1569. That is 74 percent of Clemson's offense from Dantzler and he has averaged 290.5 yards per game in that area as a starter.

Dantzler has been effective as a runner and passer. For the season he has 413 yards rushing, most by a Clemson quarterback in a season since DeChane Cameron gained 458 in 1991. Dantzler has a chance to become the first Clemson quarterback to gain 500 yards rushing in a season since 1978 when Steve Fuller gained 649. Only four times in history has a Clemson quarterback rushed for 500 yards in a season. Fuller did it twice. Dantzler rushed for 183 yards on the ground against Maryland, an all-time Clemson record for a quarterback.

Now that Dantzler has played in 75 percent of Clemson's games (6 of 8), he appears in the national statistics. He is 29th in the nation in total offense and 50th in passing efficiency. On the ACC level, Dantzler is sixth in the league in rushing, fourth in passing efficiency and third in total offense.

Both Quadruplets Proactive in 1999

There has been a lot of talk this week as to the starting quarterback for Clemson against Duke. A look at the statistics tells us that it really doesn't matter. Brandon Streeter and Woodrow Dantzler have been effective in that role this year, in fact their stats are very similar. Streeter has a 67 percent completion percentage to 57 percent by Dantzler, but Dantzler averages 70 yards rushing to Streeter's 15 yards rushing, most by a Clemson quarterback.

Other than that, as you can see by the chart below, there isn't much of a difference.

Receiving Trio on Verge of Records

Clemson's receiving corps had smiles on their faces last December when Tommy Bowden was named head coach.

From L to R - Mal Lawry, Rod Gardner and Brian Wofford need two receptions to establish a school record for combined receptions by three receivers in a season.
coach. They were well aware of the production Tulane's receivers reached under Bowden in 1998.

While Clemson's offensive numbers aren't quite what the Green Wave had in their undefeated 1998 season, the Clemson wide receivers are at a school record pace. Rod Gardner, Brian Wofford and Mal Lawyer are Clemson's top three receivers and have combined for 125 catches so far this season for 1517 yards. The record for total receptions by the top three receivers in a season is 126, set by Tony Horne, Wofford and Lawyer in 1997. So far, just two more receptions by those three receivers will break that record on Saturday. The receiving yardage record for three receivers could also go by the boards. The threesome needs just 163 yards to break the record of 1679 by Horne, Lawyer and Wofford in 1997.

Gardner has 55 catches so far this season, 14th best in the nation. Wofford, who tied his career high with nine catches at Wake Forest, now has 43 for the season. This is already the first time in Clemson history two players on the same team have combined for 100 catches. Gardner and Wofford have tied the record for catches in a season by two receivers. Horne and Wofford (or Lawyer) combined for 98 in 1997. Wofford is 41st in the nation in receptions per game this year. Gardner is 29th in reception yards per game with 88.0.

Polite Provides Big Plays
One of the most improved players on the Clemson defense this year has been cornerback DoMarco Polite. The senior from Miami, Fla., now has 31 passes broken up to lead the team, including three in consecutive games against Maryland and Florida State.

Polite provided two of the biggest defensive plays of the season in the win at Wake Forest. First, he made a solo tackle to stop Wake Forestusher Morgan Kanie at the one-yard line that prevented a touchdown on a second and goal play. Clemson ended up limiting Wake Forest to a field goal, thus that was a four-point tackle.

Then, after Clemson had taken a 5-3 lead, Polite made a one-handed interception at midfield and returned it 27 yards. Clemson converted the turnover into a touchdown that tilted the game away.

Polite now has four interceptions for the season, best on the team and 20th best in the nation. He was outstanding against Florida State, recording three passes broken up and an interception. He was in charge of defending Peter Warrick most of the night. Although Warrick caught 11 passes, he averaged only 11 yards a catch and never had a gain over 19 yards. For the year, Polite has 37 tackles, 11 passes broken up and four interceptions.

Final Game for Clemson Seniors
Saturday will be the final home game for Clemson's 13 seniors. This is the smallest senior class at Clemson since the 1985 season when the Tigers had just 11. Of the 13 seniors listed below, just eight are on scholarship. This list includes Terry Witherspoon, who could return to Clemson for the 2000 season if he graduates this summer.

This year's senior class features Brandon Streeter, who has established six Clemson passing records in his career. Brian Wofford and Mal Lawyer are both ranked in the top 10 in Clemson history in receptions, while DeMarco Fox has been a starting defender for three years and has been among the team's top three tacklers three years in a row.

As a team, this class has helped Clemson to two bowl games and a win today could go a long way towards making it three bowl games in four seasons. Another highlight was a 6-2 ACC record in 1996, Peach Bowl appearances in 1996 and 1997, and this year's home victory over 19th ranked Virginia.

Clemson-Duke Series Notes
Clemson has won 15 of the last 18 meetings with Duke, but the Blue Devils were victorious last year in Durham. 28-23. Duke has not beaten Clemson in consecutive seasons since 1969-70. The last time Duke won at Clemson was 1980 and current Blue Devils head coach Carl Franks was a sophomore on that team. Clemson has won nine in a row in the series at Clemson.

The last time the two teams played at Clemson, the Tigers were victorious, 29-20 in overtime, the only overtime game in Clemson history. Rahim Abdullah ended that game with a 63-yard interception return for a touchdown, thus the unusual score for an overtime game.

Clemson won in 1995 at Clemson by a 34-17 score in a game that was played in a downpour in the first half and in brilliant sunshine in the second half. Raymond Priester set a Clemson rushing record with 263 yards on 32 carries to lead the Clemson offense and Brian Dawkins, now with the Philadelphia Eagles, had three interceptions in the first quarter to set a Clemson record.

Clemson holds a 27-15-1 lead in the series, including a 14-4-1 advantage in Death Valley. The Tigers are 11-11 at Duke dating back to 1934, when Duke was victorious 28-6. Duke's last win at Clemson took place in 1980, a 34-17 victory led by Ben Bennett, then a freshman quarterback for the Blue Devils.

The Tigers have been outstanding defensively against Duke in recent years. Duke has scored 20 points against Clemson just twice in the last nine years. Their three wins against Clemson since 1980 were in 1994, in 1989 (21-17 at Duke) and 28-23 last year at Duke.

Duke Coming on Strong
Duke has been coming on strong of late. Over the last four games, Duke has won at Virginia in double overtime and defeated Maryland in College Park. Their two losses have been to number-eight Georgia Tech by seven points, and at NC State in overtime by just seven points.

Duke has found a solid player at quarterback and the result has been a Duke team that has scored at least 24 points each of the last four games. Spencer Romine is coming off a 27-42 performance at Maryland, a game in which he threw for 464 yards and three touchdowns. The winning touchdown was a 14-yard pass from Romine to Scottie Montgomery with just 1:42 left to play. Montgomery and Richmond Flowers combined for 17 catches for 294 yards and three touchdowns at Maryland.

Plackicker Sims Lenhardt set two school records at Maryland and is one of the top kickers in the nation. He now has 235 career points, an all-time Duke record. He has also made 60 straight extra points, also a school record. For his career, Lenhardt has 55 field goals, eighth best in ACC history. Clemson's Nelson Weikh (1991-94) is still the all-time leader with 70. Lenhardt is 14-18 this season and ranks eighth in the NCAA in field goal percentage.

Senior Emmett Grant is one of the leaders of the Duke defense. He has a career high 16 tackles against Georgia Tech, including 13 solo efforts. He enters the Clemson game with 27 career pass breakups, third best in school history.

Dextra Polite leads Clemson in interceptions and is ranked 20th in the nation with four.
Another major victory of 1959 took place on October 22nd in the final "Big Thursday" game. It was a masterful performance by the Tigers, who skunked the Gamecocks 27-0, Clemson's largest margin of victory over their chief rival in 20 years. A Harvey White to Gary Barnes 30-yard scoring pass was a first half highlight, while White threw another scoring pass of 26 yards to Mathis.

But, it was the defense that dominated. Lowndes Shingler had a 21-yard interception return and the defense forced four lost fumbles. Lou Cordilleon, a first-team All-American that year, joined Harold Olson and Dave Lynn as leaders of the defense that day and throughout the season.

The Clemson defense of 1959 set a modern record with five shutouts, including four in a row against NC State, South Carolina, Rice and Duke at midseason. Furman scored just a field goal, or it would have been a sixth regular season shutout. Clemson led the ACC in total defense, rushing defense and scoring defense and ranked in the top 11 in the nation in all three categories. Teams averaged less than 200 yards a game in total offense.

Frank Howard was famous for taking his team on the road to face top-flight competition and that was the case in 1959. Clemson played 11 games that year and seven were away from home. One of the most impressive triumphs took place at Rice, where Clemson shutout the Owls, 19-0. It had to be especially rewarding for Howard, who defeated his former boss, Jess Neely, who had been Clemson's Head Coach from 1931-39.

Doug Dzigonauft, who had been a defensive standout the first five games, joined the offense for the first time and netted 52 yards in 10 rushes. He scored one touchdown on a rush, while Snyder returned an interception 18 yards for a score and Mathis recovered a fumble in the endzone for a third score.

A late season, narrow loss to Maryland meant Clemson had to defeat Wake Forest in the final regular season home game to claim the ACC title. Clemson ranked 19th in the nation entering the contest held the favorites role, but the Tigers struggled early. A 72-yard interception return by Wake Forest's Bobby Robinson (no not the current Clemson Athletic Director), gave the Deacons life.

Clemson trailed most of the contest, including by a 24-14 score in the second half and 31-27 in the fourth period. When the Tigers stumbled late in the fourth period down by four points it looked as if the ACC championship had been lost. But, a substitution rule prevented Wake Forest star quarterback Norm Snead from entering the game late in the fourth period.

Reserve Deacon quarterback Chuck Reiley lobbed a pass over the middle with under six minutes left, and Usty intercepted and returned 73 yards to the Deacon 10. Two plays later Usty scored from the one, giving Clemson a 33-31 lead with 4:24 left. The Clemson defense stiffened and the Tigers had their second straight ACC title. Doug Cline led all rushers in the game with 125 yards in 29 carries, leading a Clemson ground game that picked up 295 yards on 66 rushes.

Clemson entered the first Bluebonnet Bowl in Houston with an 8-2 record and number-11 national ranking and faced seventh-ranked TCU and star lineman Bob Lilly, who would go on to a celebrated career with the Dallas Cowboys.

It was a strong all-around game for the Tigers. The offense scored three touchdowns, including a 68-yard scoring pass from Harvey White to Gary Barnes. The defense held TCU to just 159 yards of total offense, including just 70 yards passing and just seven points. Four different Tigers, Doug Cline, George Usty, Doug Dzigonauft and Lon Armstrong had interceptions.

The victory over the seventh-ranked Horn Frogs is the second highest ranked victory in Clemson history in a bowl game. Only the victory over fourth ranked Nebraska in the 1982 Orange Bowl is higher. Clemson finished 11th in the final poll, but there was no post-bowl poll in those days. Five teams ranked ahead of Clemson heading into the bowls lost in postseason, so by today's way of doing things, the 1959 Tigers would be considered a top seven or eight team.

In one of the most famous photos in the Clemson archives, Coach Frank Howard kisses the Big Thursday game with South Carolina goodbye. The Tigers won the last Big Thursday game between the two schools 27-0.

James F. Barker, a Clemson University graduate and former dean of the university's College of Architecture, Arts and Humanities, was named Clemson's 14th president on October 4, and will take office officially in December.

Barker earned his bachelor of architecture degree from Clemson and his master of architecture and urban design degree from Washington University in St. Louis. Before coming to Clemson in 1986 to serve as dean of the College of Architecture, he was dean of the School of Architecture at Mississippi State University.

He is a recipient of the National Distinguished Professor Award of the Association of Collegiate Schools of Architecture and served as president of that association. Barker was named Fellow of the American Institute of Architects. He also has been a partner in an architectural practice.

At Clemson, Barker co-founded the S.C. Design Arts Partnership to support community design outreach projects, initiated the Charleston Architecture Center, and established the university’s “Arts in April” program. In 1995, he became dean of the new College of Architecture, Arts and Humanities, which was created after a comprehensive reorganization and has received national attention as a new model in education.

During his interviews for the presidency, Barker outlined a 10-year vision for Clemson, which is to become one of the top 20 public universities in the country. Currently, U.S. News & World Report rankings have Clemson tied for 38th. Specifics of the 10-year plan include:

- Increasing funded research to $100 million a year;
- Setting the standard in public service for all land-grant universities in the U.S. by engaging the whole campus in service and outreach, becoming much more focused and becoming very good in selected areas;
- Completing the current capital campaign and a subsequent one, exceeding goals in both;
- In athletics, winning another national championship in football and two other sports, and making it to the final four at least twice in basketball;
- Sending the University Chorus to perform at least once at Carnegie Hall;
- Establishing a thriving Phi Beta Kappa chapter;
- Seeing at least two Clemson students win Rhodes Scholarships;
- Continuing to excel in teaching.

“I have had the wonderful opportunity to visit 120 classes during the last few years as part of teacher evaluations in my college,” he said. “I have a very good feel for what we’re doing in the classroom, and I’m very proud of what we’re doing. But we can never take good teaching for granted. We have to nurture it, encourage it, support faculty development, to make ourselves worthy of a university that has a top 20 ranking.”

As for immediate priorities, Barker wants to focus significant attention on funding for the library, saying “a university can only be as good as its library.” Other short-term goals will be continuing to implement the recommendations of the Commission on the Future and increasing Clemson’s international perspective, which he sees as aligning closely with South Carolina’s economic development needs.

And then there’s one major commitment: completing the class he is teaching this fall.

“I think it’s important that a president never lose touch with the classroom. I intend to complete my class. I owe it to my students. Whether I’ll be teaching in the same way or not, I want to stay engaged in the classroom and in my own research as much as I can. I think that perspective is an important one to have,” he said.

Expectations are that the Barker presidency will focus on the holistic education of students, a sense of community, developing our international activities, and interdepartmental collaboration. That has been his hallmark as dean, particularly after a comprehensive university restructuring created a new college. Faculty credit Barker with turning an organization of unrelated departments into a true college by finding common ground, creating platforms for collaboration, and communicating.

The Barkers — Jim and Marcia — have two sons: 15-year-old Britt, a freshman at Daniel High School, and Jacobs, 25, who graduated from the University of North Carolina, attending on a baseball scholarship, and is now enrolled in Graduate School at Clemson.

Barker expects to take office officially in time to shake the hands of graduates at the December graduation. A national search will be held to find his successor as Dean of the College of Architecture, Arts and Humanities.

It hasn’t taken long for Tommy Bowden to have an impact on the Clemson program. The combination of his 19 years of experience as an assistant coach, and his unconscionable two-year resume of accomplishments at Tulane has Clemson fans buzzing.

In the first six months since his December 2, 1998 appointment as Clemson’s 23rd head coach there have been many testimonies to the excitement surrounding the Clemson program.

First, executive suites at Memorial Stadium sold out by the end of February, the earliest sellout of the premium-priced, 100-suite, 3000-seat area in school history.

Second, the Spring Game attracted a record crowd of 16,500 on April 10th. The record crowds continued on the IPTAY meeting circuit in May. In Charleston, 500 people were expected to attend and 800 showed up. Season tickets are over 50,000, up nearly 5,000 over the previous year. On July 1, IPTAY membership reached a record 21,000 and IPTAY donations reached $9.4 million for the first time ever.

An exciting style of play and an undefeated 1998 season certainly has a lot to do with the recruiting success and fan support for his Clemson program. As current Clemson sophomore quarterback Woodrow Danzler put it, "The numbers they put up in two years at Tulane were amazing. It makes you gasp for air."

The numbers are truly breathtaking. Bowden inherited a Tulane program that had not been to a bowl game since 1987, had not been ranked since 1979, had not finished a season in the top 20 since 1973, had not won a conference championship since 1949 and had not posted a perfect season since 1931. He reached all of those goals in just his second year as the Green Wave’s head coach.

In the two seasons he was the head coach at Tulane, he took a team that had been 4-18 in the two years previous to his arrival, and emotionally and numerically reversed the team’s fortunes with an 18-4 record, posted an 11-1 conference mark and finished the 1998 season ranked seventh in the nation by both polls. Tulane and Tennessee were the only undefeated teams in college football in 1998.

How did he accomplish so much in so little time? A major factor was the productive, thrilling offense that had fans and opposing defensive coordinators on the edge of their seats. His Tulane team had a 22-game average of 39.7 points, 51 touchdowns, 463 yards of total offense, 270.5 yards passing, and 192.6 yards rushing. The Green Wave averaged 6.34 yards per play, and converted on third down 47 percent of the time. His 22-game offensive averages would be Clemson all-time season records in 12 different categories.

Some say the most telling statistic in terms of wins and losses and the most telling statistic when it comes to coaching ability is turnover margin. The Green Wave ranked fifth in the nation in turnover margin each of his two seasons at Tulane.

It didn’t take Bowden long to put Tulane back on the college football landscape. In his first year, Tulane was picked last in the preseason polls of Conference USA. But, he led the New Orleans based school to a 7-4 record, a second-place conference standing with just one league loss, and set 33 school records in the process. The five-game improvement was second best in the nation for the 1997 season.

Tulane’s accomplishments on offense were noteworthy in 1997, but their offensive charts reached uncharted areas in 1998. Tulane stood as the only school in the nation that averaged over 300 yards per game passing and 200 yards per game rushing. The team ranked fourth in the nation in total offense (507.1 per game) and second in scoring (45.4 points per game). They were 13th in passing and 23rd in rushing.

The Green Wave scored 40 or more points in eight contests last season, including each of the last seven games. In one game the Green Wave scored 72 points and rolled up 704 yards of total offense. They converted 52 percent of their third-down opportunities for the season and had just 11 turnovers in over 800 plays.

The 1998 season saw Tulane post a perfect 11-0 regular season under Bowden, its first perfect regular season since 1931. The Green Wave won Conference USA, its first league title since Tulane won the SEC in 1949.

Bowden’s team ranked seventh in the final AP poll and was a mainstay in the polls beginning with the third week of the season. Tulane had not been ranked at any time since 1979 and had not been ranked in a final poll since

Head Coach Tommy Bowden
Bowden remained at West Virginia for the 1977 season and began his coaching career, serving as a graduate assistant on Signetti’s staff. His interest in coaching only became more intense after that first year as a GA. His father then hired him as the secondary coach at Florida State for the 1978 season.

That experience confirmed to Bowden that he was in a profession that would be his life’s work. The Seminoles posted a 19-4 mark in his two seasons at Florida State, incredibly similar to his 18-4 record in his first two years as a head coach at Tulane.

In 1980, Bowden joined the staff at East Carolina, where he coached for the Spring practice session of 1980. That spring, he moved to Auburn and served as the Tigers running backs coach for the 1980 season. Among the players he coached was James Brooks, who went on to a 13-year NFL career and is still second in Auburn history in rushing.

In 1981, Bowden returned to Tallahassee as the tight ends coach. In three more years at Florida State, the Seminoles posted a 23-12 mark and played in a pair of bowl games. The 1982 team ranked 13th in the final poll and claimed a 9-3 record and a Gator Bowl championship. In Tommy’s five years as an assistant coach under Bobby Bowden at Florida State the Seminoles were 42-16.

In 1984, Bowden accepted his first job as a coordinator. He served under Steve Sloan at Duke as the Blue Devils quarterbacks coach and offensive coordinator. It was as the Duke offensive coordinator that Bowden made his first trip to Death Valley as a coach. Among the players Bowden tutored was Anthony Dilweg, who went on to an NFL career.

After three years at Duke, Bowden became the wide receivers coach at Alabama under Bill Curry. It was at Alabama that Bowden refined his offensive coaching prowess under noted offensive mind Homer Smith, then the Alabama Offensive Coordinator.

In 1990, Bowden returned to a coordinator position, serving Kentucky as its offensive coordinator and wide receivers coach. That season he helped the Wildcats to their first upper division SEC finish since 1984.

In 1991, Bowden joined Pat Dye at Auburn. He would remain with the SEC Tigers for six years, his longest stint as a college assistant coach. During his tenure, Auburn was a combined 46-20-2, including a perfect 11-0 season in 1993. Auburn had four Associated Press top 25 seasons, including a number-four ranking in 1993 and a number-nine in 1994. The Tigers were 20-1-1 in 1993-94 combined. Bowden served under his brother Terry Bowden for his last four years at Auburn and the Tigers had a 36-9-1 record with both Bowdens on the staff.

After 19 years as an assistant and nine address changes, Bowden’s patience paid off with his selection as Tulane’s head coach on December 11, 1996. With 18 wins, over 10,000 yards of offense, and nearly 50 school records later, he became the head coach at Clemson.

Born on July 10, 1954, in Birmingham, AL, Bowden is married to the former Linda Joan White, who he first met when the two were in school together at Morgantown High in West Virginia. The couple has two children, Ryan (17), a right end on the Daniel High School football team in Columbia, and Lauren (14) also a student at Daniel.

LOST & FOUND: If any article is lost or found, please report it to the Gate 1 or Gate 10 information booths.

CONCESSION STANDS: Concession stands are located beneath all stands and can be reached from any portal.

PROHIBITED ITEMS: The following items are prohibited in Memorial Stadium: umbrellas, folding chairs, chaise lounges, food and beverage containers of any type, alcoholic beverages, thermos jugs, and ice chests.

NOTICE: Solicitation for any purpose is prohibited at an athletic contest in Clemson Memorial Stadium.

EMERGENCIES
First Aid stations are located at the following places: South Side—Under Section J; North Side—Under Section T; North Top Deck—Under Section K; South Top Deck—Under Section E.

Trained nurses are on hand during each game. Should a doctor be needed, ask any usher, who knows the seat location of doctors. Ambulances are located at Gates 1, 5, 8, and 13.

WHAT TO DO IF EMERGENCIES ARISE: Please step back and give the organized EMS personnel room to work. Well-intentioned attempts to help by untrained persons interfere with the efficiency of the EMS system.

Most emergencies occurring at the stadium result from pre-existing medical conditions. Bring your medical identification card or wear medical identification jewelry.

INSECT STINGS: Common at outdoor events. Treat immediately with ice and seek medical advice. If allergic, carry a kit from your physician with you.

HOW TO RECOGNIZE A HEART ATTACK: The symptoms of a heart attack vary, but the usual warning signs are:
1. Uncomfortable pressure, fullness, squeezing or pain in the center of your chest lasting for two or more minutes.
2. Pain spreading to the shoulders, neck, jaw, arms, or back.
3. Dizziness, fainting, sweating, nausea, and/or shortness of breath.

EXPECT A DENIAL: Frequently heart attack victims deny they are having a heart attack. The event is frightening or they don't want the embarrassment of a false alarm. Therefore, they delay getting help by ignoring their symptoms or rationalizing, "It's just indigestion." New therapies have been developed that can minimize heart damage and save lives if treatment begins within the first few hours of symptom onset. "Time is muscle." Get help or get to a hospital immediately.

EMERGENCY CALLS: Emergency calls are received in the Security Booth.

THE STADIUM EMERGENCY PHONE NUMBER IS (864) 656-2999.
Now that you’ve stopped playing the field, maybe it’s time to think about another kind of diamond.

Congratulations. You’ve decided to pop the question. Now it’s time to select that special ring. Make sure it’s a Keepsake.

The name Keepsake engraved on the inside of your ring is your assurance of superior quality and lasting value. It tells you that your center diamond has been laser inscribed and authenticated by a certificate to meet the standards known as the 4Cs. Your diamond is Cut to proper proportions, its Clarity is brilliant, its Color is dazzling, its Carat weight is accurate.

It also assures you of a 5th C. Confidence. Confidence that your Keepsake ring has been mounted by master artisans. Confidence that its quality is warranted for a lifetime. Confidence that whichever classic design you choose, she will love it. And love you for it.

Chester McGlockton was the first-round pick of the Oakland Raiders in 1992 one of five Tigers taken in the first round in the 1990s.

William Perry was a first round choice of the Bears in 1985, then was a key component in their drive to the Super Bowl title that same year.

Clemson is the only school in the nation with a first round defensive selection three years in a row.

What has been described as, "the most exciting 25 seconds in college football from a color and pageantry standpoint," actually started out as a matter-of-fact entrance, mainly because of necessity.

The first 20,000 seats in Clemson Memorial Stadium were built and ready for use before the 1942 season. Less than a year before Pearl Harbor was bombed and the United States was at war.

The short entry into the stadium was a walk down Williamson Road from Fike Field House's dressing rooms to a gate at the top of the hill behind the east end zone. There were no dressing facilities in the west end zone—only a big clock where the hands turned, and a scoreboard, which was operated by hand.

The team would dress at Fike, walk down Williamson Road, come in the gate underneath where the big scoreboard now stands and jog down the hill for its warmup exercises. There was no fanfare, no cannon shot fired, no tiger paw flag, no Tiger Rag played...just the team making its entrance and lining up to do the side straddle hop.

That's pretty much the way things went for the next 25 years.

Either in 1964 or 1965, S.C. Jones, a member of the Clemson class of 1919, made a trip to California. He stopped at a spot in Death Valley, CA, and picked up this white flint rock. He presented it to Coach Frank Howard as being from Death Valley, CA, to Death Valley, South Carolina.

The rock laid on the floor in Howard's office in Fike for a year or more. One day Howard was cleaning up his office and he told Gene Willimon, who was the executive secretary of IPTAY, to, "take this rock and throw it over the fence, or out in the ditch...do something with it, but get it out of my office."

Willimon didn't think that was the way a rock should be treated. Afterall, it had been brought 3000 miles by a very sincere Tiger fan.

By the mid-sixties, Memorial Stadium was pretty well living up to its moniker, Death Valley, because of the number of victories that had been recorded there. Actually, the name was first used by the late Lonnie McMillian, head coach at Presbyterian College in Clinton in the 1940s.

McMillian and the other Blue Hose coaches before him used to open the season each year by coming to Clemson. Seldom scoring (24 shut outs in 39 games) and with only three wins and four ties to show for it, his teams were getting killed by the Tigers regularly. In 1948 McMillian made the comment to the press that he was taking his
As head coach prior to the 1970 season, Ingram decided that the team would make its final entrance on the field out of the dressing room in the west end zone. In all home games in 1970 and 1971 and the first four of 1972 when the Tigers did not run down the hill, their record was 6-9. The team decided it wanted to come down the hill once prior to the South Carolina game in 1972. The result, in a cold, freezing rain, was a 7-6 victory when Jimmy Williamson knocked down a two-point conversion attempt which preserved the win.

The Tigers have made the entrance for every home game since 1942, except for the seasons mentioned above—268 times heading into the 1999 season.

After Clemson’s final warm-up, the team goes back into its dressing room under the west end zone stands for final game instructions. About 10 minutes before kickoff the team boards two buses, rides around behind the north stands to the east end zone and debarks to the top of the hill behind Howard’s Rock.

At the appointed time, the cannon booms and led by a high-flying tiger paw flag, the band forms two lines for the team to run between and strikes up ‘Tiger Rag’. The frenzy starts in all sincerity... and usually lasts two and a half to three hours.

It is a tradition that has inspired Clemson players for many years.

Team to play Clemson in Death Valley.

An occasional reference to Memorial Stadium by that name could be heard for the next three or four years, but when Howard started calling it ‘Death Valley’ in the 1950’s, the name took off like wildfire. The Tigers celebrated the 50th season in the ‘valley’ in 1991.

But getting back to Howard’s rock.

The rock was mounted on a pedestal at the top of the hill. It was unveiled September 24, 1966, on a day when Clemson played Virginia. The Tigers were down 18 points with 17 minutes to play and came back to win (40-35) on a 65-yard pass play from Jimmy Addison to Jacky Jackson in the fourth period. That was quite a spectacular debut for that rock.

The team members started rubbing the rock prior to running down the hill September 23, 1967, a day when Clemson defeated Wake Forest, 23-6. Prior to running down the hill that day, Howard told his players: “If you’re going to give me 110 percent, you can rub that rock. If you’re not, keep your filthy hands off it.” Howard told of the incident the next day on his Sunday television show and the story became legend.

IPTAY is widely regarded nationally as the father of Athletic Fundraising. It all started in 1934 and from a private meeting of a small group of Clemson supporters has sprung into an organization that raised a record $9.5 million last year. The organization plays a major role in ensuring that all 19 of the varsity sports at Clemson are given the maximum amount of scholarships offered by the NCAA.

The organization also has helped finance facilities that contribute to the well-being of student-athletes on and off the field. Vickery Hall is a 27,000 square foot facility that houses the tutoring and advising programs for student-athletes. It is a major reason Clemson student-athletes have had their highest cumulative GPA on record for five consecutive semesters.

While IPTAY is primarily concerned with athletic fundraising, the mission of Clemson University has not been overlooked. The IPTAY Academic Scholarship Endowment was created to help meet the need for more academic scholarships for non-athletes who are highly qualified academically. The IPTAY Academic Scholarship Fund is presently the largest scholarship endowment of its kind at Clemson, currently helping over 30 students at Clemson.

IPTAY Executive Director George Bennett has continued to keep Clemson among the best in the nation in terms of fund-raising by the establishment of the IPTAY Endowment Program. In April of 1994, he kicked off the beginning of the endowment of positions program at the 85th birthday celebration for former Clemson Coach Frank Howard. The endowments are secure with a $100,000 donation paid over a five-year period.

"This is a chance to broaden the horizons of IPTAY," said Bennett. "It gives an individual or a group of people an opportunity to endow a position that meant something during their college days, or to honor a person at a position. The money being endowed is going to secure our future as the interest is used to carry on our program forever.

The first endowment was for the head football coach position to honor the legendary Frank Howard. Howard coached football at Clemson 39 years, 30 as the head coach. During his tenure the Tigers won 165 games, 100 of which were against conference foes. "Former players and friends of Coach Howard made donations over the cost of attending the celebration program and that was enough for the endowment. Their gifts were a way of permanently thanking Coach Howard for all that he did for Clemson.

"Following Coach Howard's birthday party we began to look for an individual to help us support and promote the program and Bill Hudson's name came up. He was an outstanding player at Clemson who has been equally successful in the business world. We went to him and explained the program and its goals and that we were looking for his leadership to help get the program going, and he accepted."

Hudson, a 1956 graduate, was a three-year letter winner at tackle who played professionally for the Montreal Alouettes, the San Diego Chargers, and the Boston Patriots. He earned Pro Bowl honors in 1962. Mr. Hudson sees this program growing into a large part of Clemson's athletic funding. "When other people see information on the endowment program and learn what it is about, this program will grow. Success builds on success. People who are looking to honor a friend or family member now have a great means to do that."

Besides the Hudson's family endowment four other football endowments were made and one manager's position in the first year. Now there are over 70 positions endowed. The goal of the program is to get every position endowed. "From the free safety to the number-three player in women's tennis, we hope to have every position endowed," said Bennett.

"We will likely use the Avenue of Champions as a physical place to honor these people further for the positions they have endowed. That will have plenty of space, so we will be working to have as many endowments across all of our sports.

"The personal satisfaction that they helped Clemson University, specifically the Athletic department, and that they are securing its future are the main reasons for becoming involved."

And with more involvement Clemson will have a very secure future for generations to come.

know the Rules

Clemson University is a member of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) and the Atlantic Coast Conference (ACC). These organizations allow us to develop rules that help provide equitable competition opportunities. All of us associated with Clemson and Tiger athletics are obliged to follow the rules of these organizations. We will enjoy the championship competition provided by the NCAA and the ACC - and we will support the Tigers within the guidelines - so that we do our part to protect amateur sports!

Clemson joins other NCAA and ACC member schools in promoting principles of sportsmanship and ethical conduct. Whether you are an athlete, coach or one of the TIGER fans, help us follow and encourage the values of respect, fairness, civility, honesty and responsibility for fair play at all times.
Leading the Field.

It takes drive, commitment, and ability to be a leader. That’s what brought Sanders Bros., Inc. to the front. And that’s what will keep us there.

Hosts of this year’s most exciting conference action.

For a winning conference, trade show, banquet or meeting, make the handoff to Palmetto Expo Center. We're set to tackle special events of any size or scope. Our starting lineup includes 420,000 square feet of meeting and exhibit space, an outdoor courtyard, and banquet seating and service for up to 2,500 people. To set your game plan in motion, we field special teams for catering, light and sound, and event staging. For conference action, Palmetto Expo Center is an odds-on favorite.

Textile Hall Corporation, owner of Palmetto Expo Center, is the proud donor of the Textile Bowl Trophy, presented each year to the winner of the Clemson-North Carolina State game in honor of the textile graduates of these two fine universities.

Saluting over 100 years of Tiger Football.

Thomas Green Clemson believed that South Carolina needed an institution of higher education dedicated to science and agriculture. With his belief came the foundation that was laid for Clemson Agricultural College. On April 6, 1888, Thomas Clemson died, leaving most of his estate to the state of South Carolina with the purpose of establishing a college that would teach scientific agriculture and the mechanical arts to the young people of South Carolina.

The college formally opened its doors in 1893 with an enrollment of 446 students. As an all-male military school, the college quickly became recognized across the nation as an important part of the national system of state universities and land-grant colleges. In 1955 Clemson became a civilian co-educational college. As the school expanded its academic offerings and research pursuits, the state Legislature renamed the college Clemson University in 1964.

Today, Clemson is much more than Thomas Clemson could have ever envisioned. The campus is located on 1400 acres of beautiful rolling hills on what once was the plantation of former U.S. Vice-President John C. Calhoun. Landmarks such as Fort Hill, the former home of the Clemsons and the Calhouns, Tillman with its clocktower, the statue of Thomas Green Clemson and the outdoor amphitheater all help retain the air of tradition.

The Clemson Student
*Almost 50 percent of last year's entering freshmen participated in the Advanced Placement program with more than 50 percent receiving credit for one or more courses.

*There is plenty of room for individual attention in the classroom, Clemson features a student to instructor ratio of 17 to 1.
*Clemson features a competitive student body, and thus a degree that has meaning. Clemson's 1998 entering freshman class achieved an average SAT score of 1145. This score is the highest ever attained by Clemson's entering students and once again leads the state's public colleges and universities.
*Clemson has a mentoring program to help students prepare and compete for Rhodes, Truman, Marshall, or Fulbright Scholarships.
*Clemson's total enrollment of 16,685 represents 50 states and 80 foreign countries.
*More than 450 employers interview Clemson students on campus each year through the University's Career Center.
*The Clemson family includes a mentoring and support network of over 80,000 alumni world-wide.

The Clemson Education
*U.S. News and World Report ranked Clemson the leading national university in South Carolina and 38th among the nation's top public universities.
*Clemson features a diverse curriculum, there are 73 undergraduate degree programs and 74 graduate degrees.
*Average class size is 31 students.
*Clemson's five different colleges include: Agriculture, Forestry, and Life Sciences; Architecture, Arts, and Humanities; Business and Public Affairs; Engineering and Science; and Health, Education, and Human Development.
*With the goal of maintaining the vision of Thomas Clemson, the school continues to place importance on the studies of agriculture, scientific, technological, and business courses. These courses and others help the Clemson student prepare for life in our fast-paced and changing society.

Clemson Memorial Stadium has been held in high esteem for many years. Whether it be players from the 1940s and 1950s, opposing players from the 1970s and 1980s, or even professional players in the 1990s, the ambiance of this special setting is what college football is all about.

This year the storied edifice will add to its legend when the first meeting of father and son head coaches (Bowden Bowl I) takes place before a sell-out crowd of over 84,000 fans.

In the 1970s, 1980s and 1990s, various publications have named top 10 stadiums in college football and Clemson Memorial Stadium, affectionately known as "Death Valley," has been a common denominator on those lists.

The facility's mystique is derived from its many traditions, which date to its opening in 1942, the legendary games and players, and Clemson's corresponding rate of success. Clemson has won 199 games in the previous 57 years there (199-78-7) and has won over 70 percent of the contests. Twenty-eight times since 1983, crowds have exceeded 80,000.

The stadium has definitely been good to the Tigers who call it home, but the stadium was constructed against the advice of at least one Clemson coach. Just before head coach Jess Neely left for Rice University after the 1939 season, he gave Clemson a message. "Don't ever let them talk you into building a big stadium," he said, "Put about 10,000 seats behind the Y.M.C.A. That's all you'll ever need".

Instead of following Coach Neely's advice, however, Clemson officials decided to build the new stadium in a valley on the western part of campus. The place would take some clearing; there were many trees, but luckily there were no hedges.

The crews went to work: clearing, cutting, pouring, and forming. Finally, on September 19, 1942, Clemson Memorial Stadium opened with the Tiger football team thrashing Presbyterian College, 32-13. Those 20,000 seats installed for Opening Day would soon grow; and grow and grow. This year Clemson celebrates its 58th year in this outstanding facility.

When the original part of the stadium was built in the early 40's, much of the work was done by scholarship athletes, including many football players. The first staking out of the stadium was done by two members of the football team, A.N. Cameron and Hugh Webb. Webb returned to Clemson years later to be an architecture professor, and Cameron went on to become a civil engineer in Louisiana.

The building of the stadium did not proceed without a few problems. One day during the clearing of the land, one young football player proudly announced that he was not allergic to poison oak. He then commenced to attack the poison oak with a swing blade, throwing the plants to and fro. The next day, however, the boy was swollen twice his size and had to be put in the hospital.

There are many other stories about the stadium including one stating that Frank Howard put a chew of tobacco in each corner of the stadium as the concrete poured.

Howard said that the seeding of the grass caused a few problems. "About 40 people and I laid sod on the field," he said. "After three weeks, on July 15, we had only gotten halfway through."

"I told them that it had taken us three weeks to get that far, and I would give them three more week's pay for however long it took. I also told them we would have 50 gallons of ice cream when we got through. After that it took them three days to do the rest of the field. Then we sat down in the middle of the field and ate up that whole 50 gallons."

Howard said that on the day of the first game in the stadium, "the gates were hung at 1:00 pm and we played at 2:00 pm." But that would be all of the construction for a while. Then in 1958, 18,000 sideline seats were added and, in 1960, a total of 5,658 West end zone seats were added in response to increasing attendance. With the large end zone, "Green Grass" section, this expansion increased capacity to about 53,000.

Later, upper decks were added to each side of the stadium as crowds swelled the first one in 1978 and the second in 1983. This increased capacity to over 80,000 which makes it one of the 10 largest on-campus stadiums in the country.

The effect spiraling inflation has had in this century can be dramatically seen in the differences in stadium construction. The original part of the stadium was built at a cost of $125,000 or at $6.25 a seat. The newest upper deck was finished in 1983 at a cost of $13.5 million, or $866 a seat.

Through the years, Memorial Stadium has become known as "Death Valley." It was tagged this by the late Presbyterian coach, Lonnie McMillan. After bringing his P.C. teams to Clemson for years and getting whipped, McMillan said the place was like Death Valley. A few years later the name stuck.

On November 16, 1974 the playing surface was named Frank Howard Field for the legendary coach because of his long service and dedication to the University.

Luckily, the stadium wasn't built behind the Y.

FIRST FRIDAY PARADE

The Clemson football season kicks off each year with the annual First Friday Parade. The once a year event takes place on the Friday afternoon prior to the first home football game. Floats from various fraternities and sororities and other campus organizations are represented in the parade that rolls down highway 93 in front of the President’s house in Clemson. The parade culminates at the Amphitheater in the middle of campus where the first Pep Rally of the year takes place.

The Grand Marshall of the Parade is featured at the Pep Rally. Recent Grand Marshals have ranged from former PGA professional Dillard Pruitt, to College Football Hall of Fame legends Jess Neely and Frank Howard, to noted television announcers Brent Musburger and Ara Parseghian.

HOMECOMING

Clemson holds a classic homecoming every year. Displays by fraternities and sororities that are months in the making, are built on Bowman Field the week prior to Homecoming weekend. It is an event that draws alumni and friends of Clemson from all over the country.

The Friday evening prior to the game, Tigerama is held in Death Valley, which is an event that attracts over 35,000 fans. It is widely known as the largest pep rally in the world. The Homecoming Queen and her court are presented in addition to Homecoming skits, a pep rally, and a large and loud fireworks display.

The first homecoming game played at Clemson took place on September 30, 1922 when Clemson met Centre. Clemson has a 54-18-3 record on Homecoming games over the years, a .740 winning percentage, and has outscored the opposition 1,578-976 in those previous 75 games. The average margin of victory is 21 to 12. Clemson has been especially successful on Homecoming in recent years, posting a 24-2-2 record since 1970.

ORANGE PANTS

The tradition of the Clemson team wearing orange pants is new according to tradition standards. The Tigers first wore the all orange uniform for the final game of the 1980 season against South Carolina. Clemson upset the 14th ranked Gamecocks and Heisman Trophy winner George Rogers, 27-6. The victory set the stage for Clemson's National Championship run of 1981.

Overall, Clemson is 32-9 in orange pants since that 1980 game, including a 19-2 record in games played in the month of November. The Tigers had an eight-game winning streak in orange pants snapped in the 1996 Peach Bowl against Louisiana State. Clemson has nine wins over top 20 opponents when wearing orange pants, including the 22-15 National Championship clinching win over Nebraska in the 1982 Orange Bowl.

ROCK, HOWARD'S

When the Clemson team gathers to run down "The Hill", the players first rub Howard's Rock because of the mystical powers it is supposed to give Clemson players. The rock is mounted on a pedestal at the top of the hill and was given to Coach Frank Howard by a friend (S.C. Jones '19) who picked it up in Death Valley, CA. The Rock was first placed on the pedestal at the top of the hill on September 24, 1966, for a game Clemson won 40-35 over Virginia. In that game, the Tigers rallied from 18 points down with 17 minutes to play. The team started rubbing the rock for the first game of 1967, a 23-6 win over Wake Forest on September 23, 1967.

THE TIGER PAW

The Tiger Paw logo has become synonymous with the University's athletic teams since its invention by John Antonio. Antonio was an innovative account executive with Henderson Advertising in Greenville, and prior to the 1970 season, unveiled the Paw as Clemson's new logo. It has shown up all over the country on items owned by Clemson fans from shirts to hats to the now famous "two-dollar bills". Many institutions with a feline as a mascot have used the logo, or an impression of it.

Antonio also came up with the phrase, "Fly the friendly skies of United," when he worked for the Leo Burnett Agency in Chicago. "I've never had a logo or an emblem copied as much as the Tiger Paw," said Antonio, now 69 and living in Greenville.

Antonio still remembers the day he made the presentation of the Tiger Paw to Frank Howard, then the Clemson Athletic Director. "He wasn't saying much at all," recalled Antonio in an article in the Greenville News by Alyce Atkinson on Feb. 16, 1997. "I kind of thought I was losing this fight." At this point Antonio pulled out an orange football helmet with a tiger paw painted on the side.

"Coach Howard's eyes got as big as saucers and he smiled. From there it was downhill. Coach Howard wanted that helmet." Those Tiger paws are still on the Clemson helmets today.

Clemson Athletics Launches $30 Million Capital Campaign

Tiger Pride Will Fund Athletic Facility Upgrades Over a Five-Year Period

For the first time in Clemson history, the Athletic Department is entering into a five-year, $30-million capital campaign designed to bring the University’s athletic facilities into the 21st century.

Much like IPTAY, Tiger Pride donors will have the opportunity to make annual contributions over a five-year period, with some form of recognition. They will also be allowed to designate how the gift will be used and by what facility.

Those interested in learning more about Tiger Pride should contact the IPTAY office at Clemson University at (864) 656-2115 or visit www.tigerpride.com.
Everyone can be a part of the Tiger Pride campaign by inscribing his or her name on the building blocks of the future. By donating $250* over a five-year period, you can have your name or the name of a loved one placed on these historical bricks. Along with these bricks you will receive a complimentary Tiger Pride lapel pin. On the lines below, please print clearly the name you wish to be on the brick. Due to the amount of space on the brick, only one name per brick is allowed. We thank you for your contribution and for your interest in the future of Clemson Athletics. Please call the IPTAY office at (864) 656-2115 (8 a.m.-4:30 p.m.) for more information.

A new indoor track that will also house an indoor practice field for football, soccer and baseball.

When a team comes so close to reaching its goals and falls just short, the following year’s team usually comes back with a tenacious desire to reach those unachieved goals. The 2000 Clemson baseball team is no different.

Clemson came within three outs of reaching its goal in ’99, a trip to the College World Series. Seventeen of the 25 players that experienced that bitter end return in 2000. Despite the disappointing end to ’99, Clemson won at least 40 games for the 14th straight season and played in the NCAA Tournament for the 13th year in a row.

This year’s team returns its nucleus of position players but will have to count on some new faces on the mound. Six starters in the field, including All-American outfielder Patrick Boyd, and some new faces, like freshman shortstop Jeff Baker, spotlight the position players. Baker and the other newcomers have been so impressive that Baseball America tabbed (Recruiting Coordinator) Tim Corbin’s class #1 in the nation.

“I’m really excited about this team,” stated Head Coach Jack Leggett, who has averaged 48 wins in six seasons at Clemson. “We have a lot of depth at every position. We brought in some talented players in the offseason. We’ve got a chance to be a solid offensive and defensive team, and if we can just put our pitching together, we should have a successful season.”

“Expect a very aggressive offensive team,” said Leggett. “We have a good combination of speed and players who can hit for power. We also have some intra-team competition and leadership. The team has a feeling deep down inside that it wants to go to Omaha and play for the National Championship.”

Clemson lost valuable performers and leaders in Kurt Baltrmann, Jason Harris, and Derek Borger, but several veterans return who have been through the battles of ACC and NCAA Tournament competition. “We have a lot of experienced players and a lot of newcomers, so we’ll look to players like Ryan Mottt, Brian Ellis, Boyd, Justin Singleton, and Henri Stanley to step up and be leaders.”

Boyd, who hit .390 with 17 homers, 70 RBIs, and 20 stolen bases, heads up a talented group of outfielders. The second-team All-American is the team’s top returning bat in batting average, home runs, doubles, RBIs, and on-base percentage. Boyd managed the .390 batting average despite being hampered by a shoulder injury during most of ’99. Baseball America has named Boyd the #2 college prospect for the 2000 Major League Draft. Stanley, a senior, has a tremendous fall and will be counted on to provide power and speed with his 41 career stolen bases in 45 attempts. Stanley scored a team-best 85 runs and tied the Tiger single-season record with 64 walks in ’99 while batting in the leadoff spot.

Juniors Casey Stone and Singleton have both improved from last season. Stone, who had a phenomenal NCAA Tournament, gives Clemson a scarp and hand-nosed presence on the bases and in left field. Singleton, along with senior Brian Holstad, has the athletic ability and defensive versatility to play a variety of positions, including infield. Sophomore Kyle Frank, and freshmen Ryan Hub, Alan Lindsey (4th round pick by the Red Sox), and Grant Redding will provide depth in the Tiger outfield.

In the infield, the Tigers must replace Baltrmann (2B) and Harris (1B), who were mainstays for four and two years, respectively. “We will have competition at first base this season,” stated Leggett. “Mike Caliri, Michael Johnson, Jesse Douglass, and Jarrod Schmidt all have a chance to step up and start there. All of these players have shown power and some good defensive skills.”

Schmidt, a heralded recruit, can play first base, outfield, catcher, and will be given a chance to pitch in late innings. Baseball America listed Schmidt as the #22 high school prospect and as one of the best raw power hitters in the nation coming out of high school. Schmidt, another in the long line of Tigers who hail from Marietta, GA, was also the MVP of the Connie Mack League World Series this past summer and was drafted in the 23rd round by the Florida Marlins.

Baker, a fourth-round pick by the Cleveland Indians, is another freshman who will be counted on in 2000. While playing for the USA Junior National Team this past summer, he hit .481 and had the game-winning hit in the World Series Championship game. Baker will compete with Bradley LeCroy, Mike Masiello, and Russell Triplett for the middle infield spots. LeCroy, who hit .286 with 44 RBIs and 13 stolen bases as a junior, was the starting shortstop in ’99 but might move to second base with the emergence of Baker.

Sophomore Khalil Greene hopes to continue his torrid postseason hitting of ’99 as the starting third baseman. Greene, a third-team Freshman All-American, broke the Clemson freshman record for hits (198) and batted .519 in the NCAA Tournament. Johnson and Caliri will provide depth behind Greene at the hot corner.

Ellis, a senior, is the only returning catcher who has played an inning for the Tigers behind the plate, but several young newcomers have caught the attention of Leggett. “Brian has been a starter for the last two years. As a sophomore he had an excellent walk-to-strikeout ratio in the leadoff spot, but was less consistent in ’99. We have confidence that he will get back to that level. Steve Pyszik is a freshman catcher who will be an outstanding player in time. Jon Smith and Brian Kirk will also get behind the plate. We also will look at Schmidt at catcher. He has outstanding power and a good arm.”

Pitching coach Kevin O’ Sullivan will have to replace Mike Paradis (first-round pick), Doug Roper, and closer Chris Heck, the top three pitchers in ’99 in terms of ERA. Mottt, a right-hander, returns for his senior season after a disappointing junior campaign. He will be counted on to provide leadership with the young Tiger pitching staff. Mottt will look to repeat his freshman and sophomore seasons that saw him win 10 and nine games, respectively.

Other candidates for starting roles include senior right-hander Scott Berney, a transfer from Connecticut, left-hander Thomas Bozzer, and right-hander Steve Reba. As freshmen, Bozzer and Reba combined for an 11-7 record and 14 starts. Junior left-hander Mike Proto came up big in a relief role to earn the victory in the clinching win in the Fayetteville Regional. For the second year in a row, he has the team’s best returning ERA. Junior college transfer and right-hander Kevin Lynn will also vie for a starting spot.

Senior right-hander Matt Additon returns with a career record of 12-5 in 163.1 innings pitched over three seasons. With 16 appearances in 2000, he will set the all-time Tiger record for appearances. He has experience in both starting and relief roles. Other veterans who will bolster the Tiger bullpen include left-handers Brandt Cook, Justin Lombardi, and Mike Rhue, along with right-hander Matt Hennie.

Right-hander Nick Glaser, a transfer from Edmonds Community College in Washington, is a candidate for the closer role. His coach at Edmonds, Hank King, is a new Tiger assistant coach, replacing Mike Hampton.

Freshmen right-handers Ryan Childs, a 17th-round selection by the White Sox, Chad Bendinelli, J.D. Davis, James Dawson, Paul Harrelson, Patrick Hogan, and R.J. LaMuta, and sophomore transfer Rob Sine (Richmond), along with left-handers Arie Caroe and transfer Anthony Urbico (Long Island) also have a chance to contribute in 2000.

Clemson’s schedule features 37 home games, including 23 and 11-game homestands from February to April. The Tigers open the season in January at the ACC Disney Blast against defending National Champion Miami (FL), Rice, and Central Florida. UNLV and The Citadel will visit Tiger Field for three-game series in March. Clemson also has non-conference home series with Old Dominion, James Madison, and Ohio, and mid-week games with Coastal Carolina, William & Mary, and East Carolina before the ACC season. During the conference season, Clemson will face Georgia, UNC Charlotte, Western Carolina, Furman, South Carolina, Elon, and Liberty. The 2000 ACC Tournament will be held in the Charlotte area for the first time in conference history.
The 1979 football season was suppose to be a rebuilding year. But, it developed into a season in which football fans all over the country were impressed with the starring power of the program. Danny Ford, in his first full season as head coach of the Tigers, had to replace 15 starters from the 1978 team, including some of Clemson's best players in history.

One thing the 1979 team had in its favor was the schedule. No, it wasn't easy, but the first four games were at home, a chance for Ford and his young team to gain confidence in front of the Death Valley fans. After a win over Furman and a loss to nationally ranked Maryland, the Georgia Bulldogs came to Clemson for a continuation of what was then one of the great rivalries of college football.

A good rushing offense and strong rushing defense were the keys to success for Danny Ford teams during his 11-year tenure and that was the hallmark of the 1979 team. Those characteristics led to Clemson's 12-7 victory over Georgia in the season's third game. In front of a sell-out crowd, Clemson ran for 386 yards on 71 rushes. Billy Lott put the ball in the air just eight times, but gave the ball to running backs Marvin Sims and Lester Brown 51 times. Sims ended the game with 25 carries for a career high 146 yards. Brown gained 26-81 and scored Clemson's only touchdown on a one-yard run. Eddie Geathers contributed to the scoring when he tackled Georgia quarterback Jeff Pyburn in the endzone for a safety. The game was not as close as the score indicated, as Georgia's only score came with nine seconds left. Clemson's rushing defense, led by All-American Jim Stuckey and all-time leading tackler Bubba Brown, held the Dawgs to just 73 yards rushing.

An important victory in 1979 took place at Death Valley when Clemson defeated Wake Forest 31-0. Now, most fans of the 1970s and 1980s recall an 82-24 victory over Wake Forest and don't remember many games when Wake Forest was favored over the Tigers. But, on that day in 1979, Wake Forest entered the game ranked 14th in the nation, having won at 12th ranked Georgia and over 13th ranked Auburn.

Bubba Brown, Johnnie Stuckey, and the Clemson defense. Davis had 10 tackles, caused a fumble, broke up a pass and returned an interception 17 yards for a touchdown, a play that gave Clemson a 10-0 lead and an emotional lift. The Tigers drubbed Wake Forest 31-0, holding the Deacons to 199 yards of total offense and forcing 11 punts.

Obie Ariiti went on a kicking binge down the stretch of the 1979 season. He booted four field goals in a 19-10 victory at North Carolina. The win in Chapel Hill was also a landmark occasion for Lester Brown, who became just the fifth player in school history to eclipse the 2000-yard mark.

Encouraged by the consecutive wins over Wake Forest and North Carolina, Clemson made its first ever trip to Notre Dame. The Tigers were trying to become just the third team in the last 40 years to defeat a Notre Dame senior class in its final home game.

The Irish took a 10-0 lead in the first half thanks to a strong running game and big play passing from Rusty Lisch. It could have been 17-0, but guard Tim Fowley, the captain of the Notre Dame team, was called for holding on an Irish touchdown. Notre Dame never scored again. Ariiti booted two field goals in the third period, then the Clemson ground game got into high gear behind quarterback Billy Lott, who's 26-yard scoring run on an option play put Clemson into a 13-10 lead. Ariiti added another field goal in the fourth quarter and the Clemson defense shutout the Irish in the second half. Freshman Terry Kinard, who would become one of Clemson's greatest defensive players in history by the conclusion of his career, had two interceptions in the fourth quarter to preserve the historic win.

The 16-10 victory marked the third time within his first 15 seasons as Clemson head coach that Danny Ford defeated a future Hall of Fame coach. He beat Woody Hayes of Ohio State in his first game and Hayes' last, then defeated Vince Dooley early in the 1979 season. Notre Dame was coached by Dan Devine, who had led the Irish to the National Championship just two years previously. Devine was inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame five years ago.

The win over Notre Dame gave Clemson eight wins and a berth in the Peach Bowl. The Tigers faced Baylor and All-American linebacker Mike Singletary on that cold day in Atlanta. The Bears came away with a 24-18 victory, but had to withstand a strong comeback by Lott and the Tigers. The comeback included the recovery of an onside kick by Andy Headen. Clemson has not recovered an onside kick since.

Clemson's 8-4 record in 1979 set the groundwork for greatness. The sophomores on that team would become senior leaders of Clemson's 1981 National Championship team.

Are you showing your TRUE COLORS?

Here's a simple survey to determine if your blood "runneth orange."
Check off each item that you have sported in the past year:

- Orange shirt
- Orange cap
- Orange paw on cheek
- IPTAY or Clemson Fund donor decal on vehicle

SCORE: If you checked all four items, you're 100% Solid Orange!

Your gift to Clemson is the best way to show your pride and commitment — to show that orange and white are your "true colors."

Private gifts can help lift Clemson above the competition in the classroom and on the playing field.

Over his career at Clemson, DoMarco Fox has made a name for himself as a hard hitting, versatile defender. This season the senior strong safety from Philadelphia, MS is playing his third different position in four years. While his position on the team has been like a revolving door, his reputation as a hard hitter has been a constant ever since his arrival at Clemson.

Fox attended Neshoba Central High School and ironically it was at quarterback that he earned all-division and second-team all-state honors. While at Neshoba, Fox played against current Green Bay Packer and former Clemson cornerback, Antwan Edwards, who attended nearby Starkville High School.

"I played against Antwan every year from seventh grade on. We had a friendly but intense rivalry. We would talk before and after the games but it was not until we both came to Clemson that we became good friends. Antwan and I were roommates for two years at Clemson and now we keep in contact on a regular basis."

"At first I thought Antwan was going to Florida State, but then a week after I had committed to Clemson, he signed with Clemson. When I got to Clemson I knew I was going to have great competition every day in practice."

Coming out of high school Fox was rated the 19th best overall player in the state of Mississippi. Even though Fox played quarterback in high school, Clemson moved him to defense his freshman year. "Ever since I was moved to defense I have not had any regrets about not being able to play offense. It is a little more difficult this year though when I see the type of offense we are running," Fox said with a chuckle.

Fox feels that the key to Clemson's success in the secondary this year has been its aggressive, no fear attitude. "There is a certain attitude that we have on defense. From our coaches to the rest of our players, we are all one unit trying to accomplish one goal. It is all about emotion and we try to play with great emotion everyday in practice and in the games. It is different than playing on offense and I really enjoy the physical side of playing defense."

Fox's physical style has left junior free safety Robert Carswell awe struck on several occasions over the past few years. "The hits he puts on people are scary. He is only about 180 pounds but he hits like he weighs 250 pounds. When he is out on the field he looks like he has been shot out of a cannon. I can remember two hits in particular. One was last season against Terrence Williams from Virginia. The second was this year against Travis Minor of Florida State. Minor was running the ball and when he hit the line Fox was there and punished him. Hits like that really get everyone excited," said Carswell.

Like Carswell, sophomore linebacker Chad Carson is amazed by Fox's ability to register the big hit. "I remember one time during two-a-day practices this year, DoMarco hit one of our receivers on a crossing play. He hit him so hard that the receiver had to leave practice with a concussion. After that coach Bowden told DoMarco and Robert Carswell that they were not allowed to hit our receivers until the end of two-a-days. DoMarco is a very physical player and he excels at that type of play."

Carson also says that Fox's aggressive attitude makes him a leader not only on the field but off the field as well. "DoMarco is a real intense guy. Whether it is on the field or in team meetings, he is the one that gets in your face and gets you excited."

As a freshman during the 1996 season, Fox played in all 12 games and led the team in special team tackles with 10. That season he also saw action as a free safety and had his best two games against Georgia Tech and Virginia, both of whom were ranked in the top-25 at the time.

The 1997 season saw the emergence of Fox as one of the best defenders in the country. That year, while playing free safety, he was fourth on the team in tackles and had a key punt block late in the North Carolina game. That block gave Clemson a chance to score what could have been the winning touchdown. Fox was also the key ingredient to a defense that ranked third in the conference against the pass and 32nd in the nation.

In 1998, Fox spent most of the season back at the free safety position. He had a 30-yard interception return and a fumble recovery against Virginia Tech, but his playing time during the last four games was limited due to a knee injury.

Prior to this season, Fox was listed as the 16th best cornerback in the nation and was a first-team All-ACC selection. He was also an honorable mention All-American choice by College Sports News. He went into spring practice this year as a cornerback but by the end of the spring was moved to the strong safety position.

A knee injury prior to the Marshall game and an ankle injury during the NC State contest have slowed Fox a little, but he refuses to use them as an excuse. "When you are playing at this level you have to know how to play with pain. The injuries have slowed me down a little bit, but I've just needed to step up a little more and play through those injuries."

Like his former roommate, Fox has a goal of playing in the NFL one day. "The transition to the NFL is just like the transition from high school to college. You want to see if you are good enough to compete on the next level. I just want to see where I stand with players at the next level. I feel like anybody who plays a college sport should want to go to the next level. It does not make sense to me if you do not want to."

With his physical style and versatility as a defender, playing at the next level is a very realistic goal for DoMarco Fox. For now though Fox is concentrating on earning his degree and the possibility of leading Clemson back to another bowl game.
Damonte McKenzie was a high school sophomore in Baltimore, MD. Damonte McKenzie enjoyed reading college football recruiting letters. He especially enjoyed reading the ones from Clemson. The only problem was the letters from Clemson weren’t addressed to him. They were addressed to his teammate, Joe Gray.

"Back in Baltimore when I was a sophomore we had a great receiver on our team named Joe Gray. He was a scriter. Clemson would send him all orange letters and I used to read them. That familiarized me with the program.

I remember I was receiving letters from smaller schools at the time. Places like Towson State would send me letters and he was receiving letters from bigger schools like Clemson. He would throw it in my face. He would ask ‘Where are you going, Towson State?’. Then he would tell me, ‘I am going to Clemson’. It was fun because I looked up to him and missed him to this day," said McKenzie.

McKenzie spent his entire life up until his senior year in high school in Baltimore. His home was located just 20 minutes from the city’s famous Inner Harbor and Camden Yards. Unfortunately for McKenzie, Baltimore is more known for its crab cakes than high school football.

"In Maryland football isn’t quote, unquote everything like it is in South Carolina. Half of our football field was connected to the baseball field. Fifty yards of the field was filled with rocks and dirt. We really had no bleachers. A lot of people sat on a hill near the field to watch our games."

Prior to his senior year of high school, McKenzie moved to South Carolina to live with his grandmother. Lake City, a rural town located halfway between Columbia and the Atlantic coast, was his new home, and Lake City High School was where he was going to complete his prep career.

The one year at Lake City was a positive move for McKenzie for two reasons. He enjoyed the support that the team received from the townpeople and the guidance he received from his head coach Mickey Moss.

"When Lake City goes to play another school it is like Lake City High School represents that whole town. The town almost shuts down to come to the football games," said McKenzie.

While the town provided the support, it was Coach Moss who provided McKenzie with the guidance and direction he needed at that particular point in his life.

"Ever since the first day I came to South Carolina, from that day on Coach Moss took me under his wing. He was so much more than a coach to me. He really cares for his players. He was really an inspiration."

That season, McKenzie led the Lake City team to the state AAA semifinal playoff game and to a 12-2 final record. McKenzie, a tailback at the time, finished the season with 1,566 yards rushing and 15 touchdowns. On defense, he had 12 tackles. His stellar play landed him a spot on South Carolina’s Shrine Bowl team.

At the annual game, which pits the top high school players from South Carolina against the top players from North Carolina, McKenzie did not play as a tailback. Instead he played in the game as a defensive end.

That move to the defensive side of the ball was a prediction of things to come for McKenzie once he arrived at Clemson. Before coming to Tiger town, McKenzie was under the impression that he would move from tailback to fullback. In his mind bigger was better. So during January of his senior year at Lake City, McKenzie began a regiment of working out and eating. In January, he weighed 225 pounds.

By the first day of preseason practice at Clemson in August of 1995, McKenzie tipped the scales at 260 pounds.

"The first day of freshman drills I felt like I was walking in knee high mud," recalled McKenzie.

Before the first day of practice, McKenzie was asked by then Clemson head coach Tommy West if he wanted to play right away. McKenzie’s answer was yes and he made a permanent move to the defensive side of the ball.

When starter Marvin Cross went down with an injury, McKenzie got his chance to play. In all he saw action in 55 plays in seven games. He had a total of six tackles, two of which were tackles for loss.

McKenzie lists the Maryland game of that season as the most memorable moment of his college playing career.

"My freshman year we were up in Maryland and I was able to see my mother and some other family members. It was a break and I was immediately overwhelmed with excitement. A few days later, I was playing left defensive end and the quarterback faked to my side on a bootleg and ran away from me. By the time he ended up crossing the line of scrimmage I caught him and made a nice hit on him."

Through eight games this season, McKenzie has 24 tackles and six quarterback pressures as well as a caused fumble. As the only senior starter on the defensive line this season, McKenzie has taken on more of a leadership role for his team.

"We have two different kinds of leaders. There are those who are vocal and those that lead by example. I feel like making plays is the best motivator in the whole world."

Most of the leadership qualities that McKenzie possesses are most likely attributed to his mother. The defensive tackle stated that Deborah Ann McKenzie has been the most positive influence on his life.

"I would like to thank my mom for being strong and raising six children basically on her own. Sometimes when I want to quit during drills and I am really exhausted and tired, I will remember all the times my mom has been knocked down. She just keeps getting up and going and going. That really drives me."

Among the six children is McKenzie’s twin brother, Damon, who is also attending Clemson. McKenzie has enjoyed his experience as a player in the national college football league. He is especially enjoying this season in which he feels the foundation is being laid for great things to come for Clemson football. However, these feelings of happiness a peppered with a little bit of regret.

"I told the reporters after the Florida State game that for me the sad part about it is, I won’t be around to enjoy the success that this program is headed towards. To all of the schools in the ACC, I can tell you I am just starting to get comfortable. I am enjoying the ride as far as getting back to a winning tradition," stated McKenzie.

And what does the future hold for Damonte McKenzie? "Hopefully I can finish this season strong and make it to the NFL. Graduating is my number one goal, but making it to the NFL is not far behind it. I wouldn’t call it a distant second. Hopefully that is where I will be.”

Dave, Wendy's and the Wendy's High School Heisman recognize scholarship, athletics and citizenship in America's youth.

Tiger Fever has sparked once again today, and no group displays more spirit than the Tiger Band. The band will be rallying behind the Tigers, as they host the Duke Blue Devils.

The festivities will begin today with the traditional pre-game march. Tiger Band will sound the “Orange Bowl March”, as it moves into the script Tigers formation. While moving into the formation the band will play the “Tiger Rag” and the “i” will be dotted. Dotting the “i” this afternoon will be Col. Ben Skardon.

Col. Skardon is a 1938 Clemson graduate, he was born in Louisiana and was raised in South Carolina. He is one of five brothers who served their country during World War II. Four of the Skardon brothers, including Ben, received degrees from Clemson University.

Col. Skardon joined the United States Army as an infantry soldier in 1939. From 1941-1945 he served in the Pacific Theater. While in the Philippines in 1942, Skardon was captured. He survived the Bataan Death March and was held as a Japanese POW for three years. Col. Skardon has been honored with a Silver Star with OLC; a Bronze Star with 3 OLC; a Purple Heart and a Combat Infantryman’s Badge. In 1962 Col. Ben Skardon retired from the Army. After receiving his masters in English from the University of Georgia in 1964, Skardon returned to his alma mater to teach English until his retirement in 1983.

The pre-game show will conclude with the famous “Washington Post”, “God Bless America”, the “Star Spangled Banner,” and the Clemson Alma Mater. As the Tigers prepare to run down the hill the Tiger Band will form a human tunnel and play the Clemson favorites “Orange Bowl March” and the “Tiger Rag”.

Today, on Veteran’s Day in Death Valley, Tiger Band salutes the men and women of our Armed Forces with a halftime show titled “Stars, Stripes & Sousa”. Featured will be patriotic music by George M. Cohan and John Philip Sousa.

Today’s performance will be a special one for the Tiger Band graduating seniors as they perform for the last time in Death Valley as members of Tiger Band. The band staff and members salute their students for the contribution to The Tiger Band and the entire Clemson University Tiger Band Program.

Doctor Hosler comments, “The years of dedication and effort by these Clemson students has been appreciated by all of the members and staff of Tiger Band, and by Clemson football fans as well. Best wishes in the future, and thank you graduating seniors for a job well done!” Doctor Hosler would also like to extend a special thank you to all the Tiger Band parents in attendance. Their support of, and interest in, the Clemson University Band Program is greatly appreciated!

The Tiger Band would like to bestow an invitation to the Clemson community to attend their annual Pass-In-Review, which will be held Thursday, November 18 at 8:00 p.m. in the Brooks Theatre.

The Tiger Band staff includes: Doctor Mark Hosler, Director Tiger Band; Paul Buyer, Percussion Instructor; Cheryl Hosler, Flag Line/ Twirler Instructor; Tim Willis, Band Announcer.

Remember to take home the sounds of Tiger Band by purchasing the band’s recently released CD “Tiger Rag”. The CD features 26 famous Tiger fan favorites from the 1997 and 1998 football seasons. It includes favorites “Sock It To ‘Em”, “Tiger Rag”, “Eye of the Tiger”, and the Clemson Alma Mater. The CD is available at the Tiger Band Office (119 Brooks Center) for $15. To order by mail send a check (payable to CUTBA) for $17 ($15 plus $2 for shipping and handling) to: CUTBA c/o Clemson Tiger Band, 119 Brooks Center, Clemson, SC 29634-1505.

Of all the new football coaches at Clemson, new offensive line coach Ron West probably knows more than anyone about the tradition of Clemson football. West played offensive line for the Tigers in 1977 and 1978 and his memories of those Clemson teams are still very much alive in his mind today.

"There is no doubt that when I was here we had tremendous pride in the Clemson program. If you got an opportunity to play you were expected to lay it all on the line and give great effort. It was demanded that you play as hard as you could every time you stepped on the field."

West transferred to Clemson in 1977 from Marion Institute where he was a junior college All-American. The 1977 team began the season unranked but finished 8-3-1 and ranked 19th in the final AP poll. It was early on that season that West realized he was part of a special team. "In 1977 we were picked to win two games and then in the second game of the year we went to Athens and beat a Georgia team that was ranked in the top-20. That was a very special moment," West recalled.

West also ranks Jerry Butler's miraculous catch against South Carolina that year at the top of his list of memories. Clemson was 6-3-1 going into the game but with the 31-27 win over the Gamecocks in Columbia, the Tigers scaled an invitation to the Gator Bowl. "Jerry Butler's touchdown catch with less than 50 seconds left against Carolina is something that I will always remember," West said.

As successful as the 1977 season was for West and the Tigers, the 1978 campaign was even more impressive. In 1978, the Tigers finished 11-1, won the ACC Championship, and finished 6th in the final AP poll. That season, West made the only two stars of his career when starting tackle Joe Bostic was sidelined with mono. "In 1978 we went to College Park and beat a Maryland team that was ranked 11th in the country and then we went on to win the ACC Championship. Those were both great accomplishments for the Clemson program."

The friendships West developed with his teammates during those two years were just as rewarding as the success they had on the field. "I was very close with all of my teammates and we are all still very close today. Those type of friendships you develop are what make Clemson such a special place."

Before coming to Clemson, West served on Tommy Bowden's staff at Tulane for the 1997 and 1998 seasons. From 1993-1996 he worked as offensive line coach at Baylor and was part of the 1994 Baylor team that won the Southwestern Conference championship.

Prior to taking the job at Baylor, West served as defensive coordinator and assistant head coach at Southwestern Louisiana for six seasons. While at USL, his defenses ranked among the nation's top 20 in total defense three times. Also under West, the USL defense was ranked nationally in at least one defensive category for six consecutive seasons.

West feels the experience he gained as a defensive coach has made him that much better as an offensive coach. "After coaching defense for many years I now am able to see things much quicker on offense. I know how to attack defenses better and I better understand the different schemes people are running against us. Being a defensive coordinator was probably the best thing I ever did."

It was also while coaching defense at USL that West went head to head on several occasions with current Clemson Head Coach Tommy Bowden who was an assistant coach at Alabama. "We had some dog fights with Alabama over those few years. I think that is how Tommy and I became familiar with each other as coaches. We got after Alabama every time we played them and we almost beat them a few times. One year they only beat us 13-0 and then the next season they only won 24-21. We had chances to beat them when they were a dominant team in the country."

Now as offensive line coach at Clemson, West's main goal is to restore the pride in Clemson that he experienced as a player. "I want our players to be able to walk around town with their heads up and be able to say that Clemson is finally back. I want all of our guys, not just offensive linemen, to chase the ball all over the field and give tremendous effort. I think there is more pride here now than there was eight weeks ago. When our players put on that orange helmet they need to understand that they better play as hard as they can or we are not going to win."

Early in his first season with the Tigers, West has also brought stability and continuity to a very young and inexperienced offensive line. For sophomore center Kyle Young, West's contributions have been crucial to the development of the line. "Coach West has stressed from day one that we are all one unit. For the past couple of years, the tackles were separated from the guards in practice and while watching game films. It was almost impossible for us to develop any kind of cohesiveness with each other. This year everyone on the offensive line does everything together. From blocking drills to watching film, we work as one cohesive unit. I really feel like each of the linemen are on the same page and working together," said Young.

West feels that the offensive line has made improvements throughout the early part of this season, but that it was not until the Florida State game that they took their effort to the next level. "After watching our guys in that Florida State game, I felt like we were beginning to give the effort that we have been looking for. I could just see it in their eyes that they were ready to compete in that game and after watching film from that game I still feel the same way. There is no doubt that we were outmatched in terms of size, but we competed and we were not intimidated."

With the chance to coach at his alma mater, Ron West is experiencing something that many coaches can only dream about. With the tremendous pride he once showed as a player at Clemson, it seems only fitting that he has now been chosen to help lead the Tigers back into the forefront of college football.

The Best Seats To The Game.
Table Rock Golf Community

In a fertile valley along scenic Highway 11 lies a diamond in the rough: Table Rock Golf Community. Here residents will enjoy homesites overlooking bent grass greens, lakes, and streams all with a pristine view of mountains in the distance.

Located just 7 miles east of beautiful Lake Keowee, Table Rock lies within the protection of the “thermal belt” where prevailing winds and mountain contours combine to create a most equable year-round climate. “The Rock,” as it is known locally, lies less than 30 minutes from Clemson and Greenville, South Carolina, and 1 and 2 hours respectively from Commerce and bustling Atlanta, Georgia.

State parks abound in this picturesque region. From Devils Fork to Jones Gap, this is the heart of South Carolina’s state park system with over 15 designated state parks within 30 minutes of the community. And how is this for convenience? Charleston and South Carolina’s beaches are less than 4 hours away.

Table Rock Golf Community can be your piece of Camelot in the foothills of South Carolina. An awe-inspiring mountain setting you’ll never tire of calling home. Homesites and homes available, prices start at $24,900, set up your private tour today!

The ACC had the nation's best record (8-4) against non-conference AP ranked teams in 1998.

The ACC won more games (13) against BCS conference opponents than any other league and played more games against BCS conference opponents than any other league.

Eight ACC players earned first-team All-America honors in 1998, including Clemson defensive back Antwan Edwards. Fourteen ACC players were first, second or third-team All-Americans. Clemson has had at least one All-American 21 of the last 22 years.

Five ACC teams won seven or more games for the seventh time in the last eight seasons.

Seven former ACC players were on NFL Pro Bowl rosters after the 1998 season, including former Tiger linebacker Ed McDaniel.

A total of 163 former ACC players were on NFL rosters during the 1998 season.

Twelve Division I teams had at least eight players taken in the 1999 NFL draft and three were from the ACC. Clemson, North Carolina and Virginia all had six players drafted apiece.

Over the last two years, only eight Division I schools have had at least 10 players drafted. Florida State (13), North Carolina (12) and Clemson (11) are three of those eight schools.

Clemson (6) and North Carolina (5) led the nation in defensive players drafted after the 1998 season.

The ACC has had at least one first-round selection in 11 consecutive NFL drafts and in 20 of the last 21. Florida State leads in first-round selections with 21, while Clemson is second with 19. The Tigers have had 174 players drafted in history, including six in 1999.

The ACC had five of the first 15 players and seven of the first 19 taken in the 1998 NFL draft. The seven first-round selections were the second most in league history.

Over the last three years, 16 ACC linebackers have been selected in the NFL draft, including nine within the first three rounds.

For each of the last three years, the ACC placed 29 former players in the NFL Pro Bowl. Only the Pac-10 had more Pro Bowl selections than the ACC. Clemson has had eight of those 29 Pro Bowl selections over the last three years.

The ACC is the nation's winningest conference in bowl games over the years. The league has a combined .535 winning percentage (81-70-5) in bowl games. Over the last nine years the ACC is the only conference in the country to have each of its member schools play in a bowl game.

Georgia Tech, Clemson and Florida State all rank among the top 15 schools in the history of the game in bowl winning percentage (given a minimum of 15 appearances).

In the decade of the 1990s, ACC teams have posted the nation's second-best non-conference winning percentage. The ACC is 197-104-4 against non-league foes since 1990.

The 1997 season marked the 10th straight year that the ACC has had at least four teams participate in bowl games.

Twelve times in the last 19 years an ACC member school has claimed the CFA Academic Achievement Award, which is awarded to the CFA institution with the highest graduation rate among members of its football team.

Ninety percent of ACC football games involving conference teams are on television. Clemson has averaged nine televised games per year to rank among the national leaders in that category.

The Shows.

Tiger Tailgate Show
Beginning three hours before kickoff, the popular Tiger Tailgate Show gets Clemson fans ready for football! Hosted by Bill Love, Howard Hudson and Joe Erwin, the show also features former Clemson All-American Perry Tuttle, Whitney Walters, and live music by Duane Evans. Often imitated, but never duplicated, the Tiger Tailgate Show continues to set the standard in pre-game entertainment for fans of all ages.

Football Game Broadcast
The football game broadcast features Clemson Hall-of-Famer Jim Phillips, celebrating his 32nd year as the "Voice of the Tigers." Joining Phillips on the broadcast team is former quarterback Mike Epley, a member of Clemson's Hall-of-Fame who is in his tenth year as color analyst. Rodney Williams, another great former Tiger QB, provides color commentary from the sideline and anchors the post-game interviews.

Fifth Quarter Show
Concluding each broadcast Saturday for the 20th season is the Fifth Quarter Show, an award-winning two-hour college scoreboard hosted by Don Munson and Chris Scott. The show provides a rundown of games from across the nation with up-to-the-minute "live" reports and scores from eyewitness reporters. Tigers and Gamecocks, Paladins or Bulldogs, chances are they're all listening to the Fifth Quarter Show.

Clemson fans look forward to seeing tough, hard-nosed football when they come to Death Valley or travel to other schools to watch their Tigers in action. But some of the Tigers’ most intense competition and action doesn’t take place on autumn Saturday’s and it doesn’t take place on a field. Take a peek into the Clemson Strength Training Room at almost any time of day, almost any day of the week, at any time of the year, and you will see the Tigers building the foundation for their pursuit of a championship.

Perhaps the most impressive characteristic of the facility is its size. Several years ago, it was enlarged to an astounding 11,000 square feet, making it one of the largest in the nation. Two years ago, it was expanded to 14,000 square feet. The facility boasts two full lines of Nautilus machines and over 12 tons of weights. The large number of machines and free weights allows the weight room to be used by athletes from several other sports at the same time, without anyone having to wait in line at a particular station.

Within the last two years the dumbbell area and leg development areas were expanded as well as the nutrition and hydration area known as the Power Station. The Power Station features the energy and recovery drink to aid each athlete’s recovery from intense training.

The plush atmosphere provides an interesting contrast to the physical exertion that takes place in the facility. When an athlete enters the etched glass doors, he is greeted by plush, wall-to-wall carpeting, walls lined with mirrors, ceiling fans, and music from a 26-speaker sound system – a worthy backdrop for well over $500,000 worth of state-of-the-art equipment.

Color television monitors are also positioned throughout the facility. These monitors are used for training and instruction, as Tiger strength coaches film the athletes and work with them on form correction.

The strength training staff spends long hours working around the various schedules of each sport and even takes the facility on the road when the Tiger football team plays in a bowl game.

The large staff of four full-time strength coaches, four graduate assistants, numerous student assistants, and volunteers ensures that each football player receives proper instruction on the fundamentals of strength and speed development. Training programs at Clemson are position specific and designed to meet the needs and demands of each athlete. Also, each position is appointed a full-time strength coach that serves as a personal trainer for that particular athlete throughout his career.

Hard core training and competition in the weight room and the annual Ironman Classic will help each athlete reach optimal levels in strength and speed development. The Tiger Strength Training and Nutrition Program helps each athlete to become a complete player.
The Clemson Strength Training Facility has multiple stations for each training exercise. This allows the weight room to be used by athletes from several sports at the same time, without anyone having to wait in line at a particular station.

Clemson has a rich heritage when it comes to strength training. The program has had at least one strength All-American every year since 1983.

Global environmental reach.
Local environmental protection.

The truest test of any great company is how it improves the quality of life and well being of the local communities it serves. At Safety-Kleen, our record speaks for itself.

We’ve worked with more than 4,000 cities and towns to get household hazardous wastes out of homes and garages, and away from children. By handling this material in our network of highly engineered facilities, we’re diverting it from local landfills and disposing of it in the safest possible way.

Beyond that, we also recycle more than 135 million gallons of oil every year, ensuring that it is managed responsibly and in a manner that protects local water supplies. And because we’ve invested in the technologies that business needs to protect the environment, local companies can put more of their resources toward expanding and creating new jobs.

We do it all from South Carolina, too, which is where our corporate headquarters is located. Safety-Kleen employs more than 500 professionals in the state, and has an annual economic impact of over $44 million in salaries, income taxes and local vendor support.

As North America’s leading provider of recycling, industrial and environmental services, we’re providing global solutions to industries worldwide. But even with that size and scope, Safety-Kleen hasn’t forgotten that environmental protection - like all the good things in life - begins at home.

"As far as I'm concerned, if your word's no good, nothing else about you is good."

Bill Keels believes that trust is the foundation of any lasting relationship. So it should come as no surprise that he banks with BB&T.

"They aren't on the golf course. They aren't fishing. They're in the bank ready to answer our needs. That sets them apart."

It's just the way we go about business, Bill. When we say we're going to do something, we mean it. Besides, golf is way too frustrating.

Ensuring the future for those who shape it.
Since its inception in 1991, the multifaceted Student-Athlete Enrichment Program has provided its student-athletes a continued commitment to excellence. Our approach is to address the total student-athlete, and we are committed to coaching our student-athletes to success (C.A.T.S.) not only in the athletic arena but in the academic, personal growth, coaching dent-athlete, and service arenas as well. As an original member of the NCAA Life Skills/CHAMPS Program, we provide opportunities and services to address the changing needs and skills of student-athletes in the years during college and after graduation.

Vickery Hall opened in the spring of 1991 and was the first support facility in the country built solely for the all-around education of student-athletes. The two-story, 27,000 square-foot building is open throughout the day and into the evening to accommodate the extended schedules of student-athletes.

The mission of the Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs is to monitor, guide, and encourage student-athletes to fulfill their long-term goals, and to achieve their academic and career potential.

Vickery Hall focuses on five primary areas to meet the student-athlete's needs.

ACADEMIC COMMITMENT

The academic commitment aspect of Clemson’s Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs has provided one of the best academic support and advising programs in the nation.

The proof is in the statistics. A record 181 Clemson student-athletes made the academic honor roll in 1999. The student-athletes had a record 2.71 GPA in the spring of 1999, just .07 from the overall student body GPA of 2.78. Records were also established for number of President’s List and Dean’s List students.

In the spring of 1999 the Clemson football team posted a team GPA of 2.38, highest on record. Thirteen players were named to the ACC Academic Honor Roll for 1998-99.

The Academic Counselors perform a variety of duties to track academic progress. These duties include providing assistance in registration and priority scheduling, contacting faculty, personally checking classes, recording information, counseling sessions with student-athletes, providing diagnostic testing, and directing career aspirations.

One of the most prestigious programs that has received recognition essential to the growth of Vickery Hall is the tutorial program.

Of the 160 programs certified by CRLA, the Clemson Student-Athlete Enrichment Program is one of three student-athlete programs in the country to be granted a Level 1 certification from the College of Reading and Learning Association, International Tutor Certification Program.

Having tutor certification allows student-athletes to be provided the highest quality of academic assistance possible. Approximately 80 tutors are hired to provide academic support in the many subject areas offered.

Many post-graduate scholarships and internships are also available to student-athletes continuing their education through postgraduate studies. Our student-athletes are provided timely information regarding these opportunities and the resources necessary to assist in the application process for either scholarships or internships.

The Department of Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs has recognized the need for students to have access to high-quality computing equipment and has made a commitment to provide the student-athletes at Clemson with one of the largest computer labs in the country. Located on the first floor of Vickery Hall is the Microcomputer Laboratory. The lab is open seven days a week, for 16 hours on Monday through Thursday, and a limited time on Saturday and Sunday. During exam periods the lab hours are extended.

The lab staff has a full-time computer manager, and also graduate students, many of whom are pursuing advanced degrees in computer science. Lab staff members are available for tutoring of any Computer Science course, as well as the many management, engineering, and business courses that deal with personal computers.

The Department of Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs is committed to providing state-of-the-art computing facilities. New computers have recently been purchased bringing the lab to a state of the art facility. Over 40 computers are available for student-athletes.

All computers are fully connected to the internet allowing access to computers throughout the world for research and communication.

PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT COMMITMENT

One of the most important programs that helps student-athletes reach their full potential and engage successfully in this college experience is the Personal Growth and Development Program.

One of the key components of this program is the first-semester freshman transition class designed to assist the student-athlete in making a successful transition into his/her university and athletic life. All first-semester freshmen attend a semester-long series of workshops targeting the transitional issues of time management, organizational strategies, health and wellness issues, athletic issues, diversity issues, career orientation, and service training. Throughout the academic year, all student-athletes are required to attend four large-group programs, which focus on pertinent social, health, and athletic issues.

CAREER DEVELOPMENT COMMITMENT

The Career Assistance Program provides student-athletes an opportunity to fulfill career aspirations by participating in various career seminars offered by the staff at Vickery Hall. The philosophy of this program is to provide student-athletes with job searching skills and strategies, internships, practical experience, and summer employment. These programs are designed to address specific career opportunities and acquire information about the student-athletes for each year.

By using the resources available to the University, Alumni Center, and the Athletic Department, the staff is working to establish a network of businesses, companies, and executives who will help assist with the Summer Employment Assistance Program. The program’s main goal is to provide the student-athletes with job experience and a work history, which he or she can apply to his or her academic discipline.

The Career Assistance Program is coordinated from the academic colleges, the Placement Center, and through the Athletic Department contacts. This program is designed to better prepare the student-athlete for full-time employment and focuses on resume writing and interview techniques.

SERVICE COMMITMENT

Providing community and outreach service to student-athletes and the surrounding community by engaging the student-athletes in hands-on interactive programs is an important aspect of the Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs. The staff of SAEP coordinates various activities each year to engage student-athletes in community outreach projects along with academic programs.

Another aspect of the service commitment is that of community service. The purpose of community service is to allow the student-athletes to become involved with the happenings of the community while giving back at the same time. Each year every team is required to perform at least two community outreach projects. Recently implemented was a new community service program entitled Success Away From the Game. The purpose of this program is to combine athletes of different sports in community outreach programs. By doing this, each outreach program participates, thus creating a diverse group of athletes with new and different ideas. At the end of each year, six student-athletes who have demonstrated outstanding commitment and contributions to the community are recognized as the Top 6 by the ACC.

LIFElne, another aspect of community service, consists of chosen football players who work together in specific community outreach projects. LIFElne has approximately 20 members along with a president, vice president and secretary. Once a month, these young men meet to discuss future projects. To date, they have sponsored Hi-Five Day, planted a garden at Helping Hands Children Shelter, and held reading programs at elementary schools. These young men have vital roles in both the community and the athletic arena.

To assist our student-athletes in becoming effective service leaders and communicators we provide service and speaking training, which anticipates the demands placed on a student-athlete when he/she might be speaking with a group of young people or also speaking with the media.
It's A Beautiful Day In The Neighborhood.

Flowers blooming. Birds chirping. Trees swaying in the wind. Eastman takes these simple pleasures very seriously.

In fact, in the last decade, we've spent more than 1.5 billion dollars on environmental protection. We've reduced our Toxic Release Inventory emissions by 80%. And, for 30 years, biology experts have noted that we're a good neighbor to our aquatic friends. And that's just the beginning. With an ongoing commitment to Responsible Care®, we're dedicated to making sure that our neighborhoods around the world are beautiful. Now and in the future.

Louisiana is known for Cajun cooking, jazz music and Mardi Gras. Louisiana was all Thielean Smith had known for 45 years before moving east to Clemson and accepting the job as the Tigers' defensive line coach last winter.

A native of New Orleans, Smith played football at Louisiana State, then began a coaching career that led him to four different universities in Louisiana before he ended up at Clemson.

Smith began his coaching career at Warren Easton High School in New Orleans, where he coached from 1977-78. His first collegiate coaching job came in 1979, when he was named the defensive line coach at Southwestern Louisiana. Following a five-year stint at USL, Smith coached the linebackers and defensive line at Tulane from 1985 to 1990.

In 1991 Smith returned to his alma mater, where he coached the inside linebackers for two seasons. He then took a job at Northeast Louisiana, where he was the defensive line coach for another two seasons. "Northeast was probably the best job for me, in that I probably coached more pro players in two years at Northeast than I did in the 16 years before that at LSU. Tulane and Southwestern Louisiana combined," said Smith.

Two reasons led Smith back to Tulane in 1995 as the school's defensive line coach. "We had been successful at Northeast, but my father had just died, and I was guaranteed a two-year contract at Tulane," he said. "I wanted to be back close to my Mom, and I liked the people at Tulane, so it was a good move for me. Then when Tommy Bowden came to Tulane, it really made it a better job and a step up.

Smith remained at Tulane until last winter, when he made the move to Clemson with Bowden.

"At this time in my life it wasn't hard to leave Louisiana," he said. "It probably would have been harder as a young coach. Basically, if you look at my career, every job that I have gotten was a better job and a step up." I've been blessed," said Smith. "Most people have to leave the state to find coaching jobs, whereas I only had to go about 200-300 miles, and I was always in the same state. And when I did leave, it was to take a better job.

Smith sees lots of similarities between Clemson and northern Louisiana, so the transition between the two areas was easy. "When you think about northern Louisiana, you think about the red clay and the pine trees," he said. "We didn't have as many mountains there, and it wasn't as hilly. Both areas are similar in that they are Southern Baptist belts. Northern Louisiana and Clemson are very similar, and I recruited up there for several years, so I was used to that type of living.

In fact, Smith really didn't have a lot of say in whether or not his family would move to Clemson. His wife, Gail, sort of made the decision for him. "When we came here initially to interview, my wife committed," he said with a laugh. "She is from northern Louisiana. When we got off the plane and she saw the hills and the mountains and the backdrop at the airport, she was home. It was probably harder for me because I am from south Louisiana, where there are more bayous and rivers.

Because Smith knew he had accomplished what he set out to do as a coach at Tulane, he was ready to move on to a new challenge at Clemson. "As a coach, I made a personal deal with myself that I wanted to be one of the coaches that helped them win, and we did that," said Smith, who was a part of the coaching staff that led the Green Wave to a 12-0 record in 1998.

"Growing up in New Orleans, everybody always went to LSU, including me. I wouldn't go to Tulane because of their losing program. I will always go down as one of the coaches that went undefeated, so I am a part of Tulane history whether they want it or not, even though I'm an LSU graduate. When I left Tulane we had just gone undefeated and we would probably never do that again at Tulane."

Smith was also drawn to Clemson due to the school's similarities to his alma mater. "Playing in front of 80,000 fans and the tradition that the team has at linebacker compares to what I was used to when I played at LSU," he said. "They have a great defensive tradition, and Clemson has a great defensive tradition.

Smith hopes his philosophies will help continue the great traditions the Tigers have established on the defensive side of the ball. "On defense, I think you need to attack and you need to be aggressive," he said. "You need to dictate to the offense and not let them dictate to you. You have to force your will on the offense, and the only way you can do that is to keep it simple. I try to do things in sets of threes. If you give the defense too many things to do, they can't adjust to everything that an offense will do."

Besides his ideas about how the defense should work, Smith also has very specific ideas about the type of players he wants to coach. "I want the kids to play hard, and I want them to be disciplined. I want two people: I want a guy on the field that has a lot of swagger, that is very confident, that everybody notices. Off the field, I want him to be invisible. I just want him to be a normal person in the community, where he's not special, he's just whoever his personality is.

Bowden has given Smith the freedom to coach his way. "You wouldn't pick us as a pair if you just looked at us, but our coaching philosophy is the same: just keep it simple, be aggressive and be honest," said Smith. "I like coaching with Tommy because he lets me be myself. The thing for me personally that I respect about him is he knows what you are and he lets you be what you are. Tommy doesn't change you. People always talk about how boisterous we are, how demanding we are. That comes from the top, because if Tommy wasn't like that, then we couldn't be like that."

Smith also credits Bowden with being a good influence on his spirituality. "Tommy has been good for me spiritually, because I grew up in a religious family and kind of got away from it, but he helped bring me back, plus some other things. His support and his beliefs help me a lot."

Smith believes the coaching staff is on the right road toward turning around the Clemson program. "I think we've made some progress, but I believe personally we could have made more progress at this stage," he said. "The players didn't have faith in their ability at first. They did the work, but they didn't know why they did the work. When you work and you have fun working, then you will have more success.

"Early on the players were just doing the work because they thought we made them do the work, instead of just accepting that as a part of being successful and enjoying it, and making hard work a way of life. The longer they're around this coaching staff, that's the way it will be. The players will think, 'You can't work us hard enough, because we're going to have fun while we're working,'" I think when you have that attitude, then work is not work."

With that attitude Smith and the Tiger defense will look to continue the tradition of strong defenses at Clemson and perhaps establish some new traditions in the future.
by Tim Bourret

When Clemson fans reflect on the "good old days of the 1980s", many of their fond memories took place in 1989. It was a season that featured dominating performances both individual and team against some of the nation's top teams.

In light of Florida State's dominance in the 1990s, Clemson's win in Tallahassee in 1989 is certainly one of the crowning achievements of the program. As Florida State's winning ways continue, that Clemson won grows in its legend. Florida State has lost just once at home since then, a 1991 loss to Miami (FL).

Clemson and Florida State were both among the top six winningest programs in college football in the decade of the 1980s and they played two monumental games in the decade. The first took place in 1988 and Florida State won 24-21 at Clemson thanks to the infamous "Puntrooskie Play".

Clemson's defense had heard enough about that play in the off season, and it was a motivating factor as the Tigers took the field at Doak Campbell Stadium on an 88-degree clear evening. Playing in front of ESPN's national television cameras, Clemson scored 28 points in the first half. Terry Allen, still in the NFL with the New England Patriots, scored three touchdowns in the opening 30 minutes. The last score was a 73-yard run with 1:16 left before halftime. Clemson was just trying to run out the clock and Allen turned the sweep into a game breaker.

The Clemson defense also stood out in the first half. Seventy-three was the magic number, as Wayne Simmons sprinted 73 yards with an interception to give Clemson a 21-0 lead. The defense continued to control the game in the second half.

Chris Moroco quarterbacked the Tiger offense to 389 yards of total offense. The graduate student was an efficient 8-9 passing for 134 yards, including 4-92 leading receiver Rodney Fletcher. The victory improved Clemson to 2-0 for the season and lifted Clemson to a number-seven ranking in the national polls.

Over 25 future NFL players participated in the game between the two teams. Florida State did not lose another game the rest of the year and concluded the season third in the final AP poll.

Clemson did not have a letdown the next week. With another road trip, The Tigers won at Virginia Tech 27-7. Clemson won this game in the film room the week of the game. Danny Ford noticed one of the Virginia Tech offensive linemen always put his palms up when the VT Tech players were going to pass. Knowing if the pending play was a pass or run certainly helped an already talented defense. One of Clemson's touchdowns was the result of a Levon Kirkland interception return.

After a 31-7 win over Maryland the week Hurricane Hugo hit the coast of South Carolina, Clemson ran into a hurricane in Durham, NC. Clemson ranked seventh in the nation with a 4-0 record traveled to 1-3 Duke. It was one of the most bizarre days in Clemson history. The Tigers actually forced five turnovers, all interceptions, and lost the game. Robert O'Neal intercepted a pass and fumbled on the return. Clemson held a 14-0 lead at intermission, but Scott Spurrier's team responded with 21 second half points and shocked the Tigers 21-17.

After a victory over Virginia and a homecoming defeat to an upset Georgia Tech team that would win the 1990 National Championship, Coach Ford rallied the troops for the stretch drive. With two losses in the ACC, Clemson was out of the conference race, but still was out to prove it was the top team in the ACC on a national basis. Over the last five games of the season they achieved that goal.

It was a dominant showing. The Tigers, as Clemson won its last five games by an average score of 36-6. The rush started with a 30-10 drubbing of 12th ranked NC State. Stacy Long led the Clemson offensive line that helped produce 30 points against NC State's feared defense. Chris Gardocki added three field goals, and Dexter Davis finished the game with 10 tackles.

Clemson allowed just 20 points over the last four games of the season. The defense dominated South Carolina in Columbia, 45-0, Clemson's largest victory margin over South Carolina in 89 years. Terry Allen played his final half of football for the Tigers, although he did not know it at the time. He gained 97 yards and scored two touchdowns in the first half before suffering a knee injury that shelved him for the rest of the season. Chester McClockton, Wayne Simmons, Ed McDaniell and Levon Kirkland all made bigger plays that led to the rout. With the score 21-17, McClockton intercepted a pass, which turned into a 75-yard touchdown return.

The season concluded with a 27-7 blunting of West Virginia and Hirsam Award candidate Major Harris in the Gator Bowl. Kirkland won Gator Bowl MVP honors as he continuously pressured Harris out of the pocket. McClockton put a punctuation on the proceedings with a sack of Harris that jarred the ball loose. He pounced on the ball for a Clemson touchdown, a fitting way to end a 10-2 season, the third of four straight 10-2 campaigns for the Clemson program between 1987-90.

During today's game the senior football players are recognized and honored for their hard work and dedication to the Clemson football program. Most Clemson fans can identify players such as Brandon Streeter or Brian Wofford quite easily, but there is a side that is not often recognized. That would be the walk-ons and transfers. They represent athletes who do not often get the glory, but their love for football is just the same as the other players.

Here are four football players who have worked hard each season because of their love for football and Clemson University: Tucker Hamrick, Darius Rapley, Jason Stockunas, and Michael Straup.

TUCKER HAMRICK
Shelby, NC

Being the smallest player on the team has not stopped Tucker Hamrick from following his dream of playing football. Hamrick, who stands at 5-5, is a kicker from Shelby, NC. His love of football began after watching a former kicker from Shelby High School play for North Carolina.

"I love to kick and I knew I was small, so I couldn't play any other position," said Hamrick.

Hamrick came to Clemson for academics, but thought he could make a contribution to the team.

He has fought through many injuries to make it where he is today. Before coming to Clemson, he suffered a torn ACL and tore the other one at the beginning of last season. This season, Hamrick is the starting holder for the Tigers.

Hamrick is majoring in secondary education and hopes to teach biology in the future. His love for football will continue to shine as he dreams to be a high school football coach.

DARIUS RAPLEY
Piedmont, SC

Darius Rapley, a reserve inside linebacker, came to Clemson for academics. He had no plans of continuing his football career until he received a phone call asking him to attend camp with the other freshmen. "I didn't know what it was like not to play football," said Rapley.

Rapley didn't play in either the 1995 or 1996 seasons. But after training hard during those years, the marketing major, lettered in the 1997 season for his efforts on the special teams. He was only one of two walk-on players to letter during the 1997 season. Last year, Rapley played in all 11 games. He recorded two tackles for the season. This season, Rapley is Clemson's leading special teams tackler with nine tackles through seven games.

His off the field performance is very impressive. He is one of the strongest linebackers on the team in terms of the bench press. He recorded a 422 pound lift, which was sixth on the team overall in that area.

Rapley is a native of Greer, SC, where he played for Greer High School. While in high school, he earned all-state honors. Greer was undefeated and won the state championship Rapley's senior year. Rapley is majoring in marketing and plans on going to graduate school.

JASON STOCKUNAS
Clemson, SC

Jason Stockunas is a reserve wide receiver whose hard work in practice earned him a letter as a reserve. Off the field Stockunas is a fine student, who has been named to the ACC Academic Honor Roll three years in a row. He is majoring in sports management with a minor in psychology.

Stockunas has played football since he was little, and it was his dream to be a Tiger football player. He grew up watching the Tigers play. "When I had a chance to join the team, I had no doubt in my mind that I was going to do it," said Stockunas.

While a member of the football team, Stockunas has made relationships he will never forget. It has been a huge honor for him to be a Tiger football player and his greatest memory will always be when he was asked to join the team.

Stockunas is a native of Clemson, SC. While at Daniel High School, he earned eight letters, including two in football. Stockunas was a tight end and linebacker on Daniel High's 1995 state championship team and he also made all-region that year.

MICHAEL STRAUP
Anderson, SC

Michael Straup is a punter whose football career began in high school. His football team his sophomore year in high school was in need of a kicker. He had played soccer for most of his life, so his sophomore year he decided to give football a try. His senior year he was named all-region, which was his greatest athletic achievement.

"It has always been a dream of mine to play football in college," said Straup.

When Straup transferred to Clemson, he didn't know that many people. Since then, he has made life long friendships with other members of the football team. Straup's greatest memory here at Clemson will always be the thrill of running down the hill.

Straup is a native of Anderson, where he attended Westside High School. He was a punter/place kicker. He is majoring in secondary education and hopes to teach history or geography. His love of football will continue, as he hopes to one day become a high school football coach.

Well, here they are, the top five Clemson players of the 20th Century. The season long announcement is concluded today, as we release the top five players as voted on by our 28-member panel of experts. Four of the five have been enshrined in the Clemson Ring of Honor at Memorial Stadium.

#5 Steve Fuller
QB, 1975-78
Steve Fuller is listed as our fifth greatest Clemson football player of the 20th Century, but he would have to be ranked as the greatest all-around student-athlete griller in school history. In addition to his selection as a third-team Associated Press All-American on the field in 1978, Fuller was a two-time first-team Academic All-American off the field. He maintained a 3.93 career GPA and would be considered the most decorated athlete in Clemson history from an academic standpoint.

But, Fuller was equally efficient on the field. When he graduated in 1978, he held the NCAA record for lowest interception percentage in the history of the sport. He set the Clemson career total offense record with 6,096 yards, including 1,737 yards rushing, most ever by a Clemson quarterback.

He is most remembered for quarterbacking Clemson during a renaissance of the program, bringing the Tigers to the 1977 Gator Bowl, the first bowl appearance for the Clemson program in 18 seasons. His senior year he led Clemson to an 11-1 record, the ACC Championship, and a 17-15 Gator Bowl victory over Ohio State and Woody Hayes. He finished sixth in the voting for the Heisman Trophy that year, still the highest finish in that prestigious voting by any Clemson player.

After the completion of his Clemson career, Fuller played 10 years in the NFL, including the 1985 Super Bowl Champion Chicago Bears. He is now a real estate developer in Hilton Head.

#4 Jerry Butler
WR, 1975-78
It has been quite a year for Jerry Butler, our fourth ranked football player of the 20th Century. Fuller and Butler are forever linked in Clemson football history. Classmates, they are still regarded as the greatest passing combination in school history. They are linked in this poll, also, as they follow each other on this list and just two total points separated them in the voting.

Butler is one of the great success stories in Clemson history. He actually first signed a track scholarship with Dr. I.M. Ibrahim's program. But, a performance at a high school all-star game the summer before he enrolled told Tiger football coaches this fleet receiver could be a star on the gridiron.

After catching just one pass as a freshman, Butler began a record streak of 35 consecutive games of catching at least one pass, a streak that still stands today. As a junior in 1977, he made perhaps the biggest and most important play in Clemson history when he made a leaping reception of a Fuller pass to beat South Carolina in Columbia, clinching a 31-27 victory and Clemson's first bowl bid in 18 years.

This year, Butler joined Fuller in the Clemson Ring of Honor. The 1978 first-team AP All-American also entered the coaching industry at the professional ranks with the Cleveland Browns, where he works for former Clemson teammate Dwight Clark.

#3 Terry Kinard
FS, 1978-82
Terry Kinard is ranked number-three in our poll, but he would be considered the most decorated Clemson football player on a national scale in the 20th Century. And the honors seem to keep on coming.

This past August, Sports Illustrated selected a college football team of the century and Kinard was the only Clemson representative on the squad. When USA Today selected a Team of the Decade for the 1980s, it was Kinard who was named to the team as the only free safety.

Why all the acclaim for Kinard? He patrolled the Clemson secondary for four years as a starter and was named first-team Associated Press All-American twice. From the 1979 Notre Dame game when he had two interceptions to preserve a 16-10 victory, to 1982, when he was named National Defensive Player of the Year by CBS Sports, Kinard was a player that gave offensive coordinators sleepless nights.

In 1982 he became Clemson's first and still only unanimous first-team All-American.

Kinard was a starter and leading interceptor on Clemson's 1981 National Championship team. Clemson had a 21-11 record his last two years and had a pair of top 10 national rankings, the only time in history Clemson has had consecutive top 10 finishes.

Now a high school coach in Oklahoma, Kinard still holds the Clemson career record for interceptions, takeaways and tackles by a defensive back.

#2 Jeff Davis
LB, 1978-81
Jeff Davis is ranked as Clemson's second greatest player, the school's greatest defensive player. He could also be called the school's greatest team leader, and he continues that leadership role today, serving Clemson University as the Director of the "Call me Mister" program.

Davis was a common denominator on two of Clemson's greatest teams, the sixteenth-ranked 1978 squad and the 1981 National Championship team. Captain of the defense in 1981, he led the Tiger point prevention unit with 175 tackles. He was named the Defensive Player of the Game in Clemson's 22-15 victory over Nebraska that gave the Tigers the National Championship.

The 1995 Clemson Ring of Honor Inductee was a model of consistency. He had at least 10 tackles in 22 of his last 23 games and had 30 double figure games in his 40-game career. He led the Clemson team in tackles 25 times.

In 1981, Davis set a standard for defensive players by being named ACC Player of the Year, just the second defensive player in league history to win the award. He was a first-team All-American that season by UPI, the Football Coaches, Football Writers, Football News and the Walter Camp Foundation.

Upon the completion of his Clemson career, Davis played six years with distinction with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers. He played 83 games in the NFL and started 72 between 1982-87, and led the Bucs in tackles three of those six seasons.

#1 Banks McFadden
Back, 1936-39
And, our number-one player of the 20th Century is the incredible Banks McFadden. His legend is still strong today. With all the accomplishments of thousands of Clemson football players and teams the last 60 years, McFadden was the leading vote getter on this team, by far. Of the 28 votes cast by this committee, McFadden was listed first on 19.

Still an avid Tiger fan in his 80s, McFadden established standards that are yet to be eclipsed by any Clemson athlete. In 1939, he was inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame, still the only former Clemson player in that national shrine. He was a charter member of the Clemson Hall of Fame and the state of South Carolina Hall of Fame.

This past summer he was named the greatest athlete, regardless of sport, in Clemson history by the Charleston Post Courier. In addition to his football accomplishments, McFadden was a first-team All-American in basketball, leading Clemson to the 1939 Southern Conference Championship.

A look at his statistics tells us why. Whether it be passing, running, punting, tackling, kicking, McFadden did it all between 1937-39, especially in 1939. He led Clemson to a 9-0-1 record that year, the school's first national ranking, and a 6-3 victory over Boston College in the Cotton Bowl. His All-American play in the secondary on that day was a key to Clemson's first bowl win ever. He had four pass deflections, some of which came in the final moments and are still a record for a bowl game today.

McFadden was the number-three selection of the 1940 NFL draft by the Brooklyn Dodgers and led the league in yards per carry that year. But he returned to Clemson the next year and served Clemson as a football coach and basketball coach the remainder of his career.

And, to this day he is still regarded as a Clemson treasure.
