BATSON Can TACKLE Any Textile Need!

For over 50 years, Batson Yarn and Fabrics Machinery Group, Inc., has provided capital equipment, machinery parts and technical service consultation to the textile industry.

We proudly offer the following top quality products:

Alexco: Off-loom take-ups, fabric inspection equipment and gantries.
Batson: Material handling equipment.
Biella Shrink Process: Dry finishing equipment for woolen/worsted fabrics and synthetics.
BRD: Noise control systems, including sound enclosures.
Corghi: Cone to cone, hank to cone winders, dewinders and knit yarn recovery machinery.
DMP: Waste water treatment systems.
Dornier: Rigid rapier weaving machinery with patented, positively controlled filling transfer, dobby or jacquard motion; air-jet weaving for high quality fabrics; through air dryers, thermal bonding; and knit finishing machines - EcoFix®, EcoSqueeze® and EcoCombine®.
Fehrer: Nonwoven, web forming, and needle punch machinery.
Flenco: Oil and grease lubrication systems.
Greased Lightning: High performance cleaner and degreaser.
Jenkins: Waste briquetting machinery, Rota-Clean fans.
Keith® Manufacturing: Walking Floor®, unloading and conveying systems.
Knotex: Warp tying equipment, including computer-controlled machinery, drawing-in systems and frames.
Lemaire: Transfer printing systems for warp yarn and fabrics and decorative lamination systems.
Malcam: Moisture measurement equipment for packages, bales, modules and containers.
NANOsystems: Intelligent camera systems for edge guiding/trimming systems for simple and complex fabric inspection.
Nordson: Hot melt and melt blown for coating and web forming machines.
Parex-Mather: Singeing range vacuum saturation machines, compressive shrinkage machines for textile finishing.
Recomo: Standard application and complex coating systems.
Rolando: Textile waste recycling systems for yarn, fabric, fiber, nonwovens and carpet.
Smart Machines: Ovens, slitters, entry/exit doffing for needle looms, accumulators.
Temafa: Fiber opening and blending systems for carpet, nonwovens, woolen/worsted and spinning.
VTA: Sectional warping, direct warping and warping creels.
Welker: Yarn conditioning and steaming systems.
William Tatham: Carding and crosslapping systems for synthetics, woolens, nonwovens and sliver knitting.

Clemson lost a legend on October 30 when longtime sports information director Bob Bradley passed away. He served Clemson for 45 years working long hours to promote Tiger athletics. In 1981 he arranged to have a live Tiger at the football team's Picture Day festivities and he took the opportunity to pose with the playful feline. The above photo captures the joy and Clemson spirit he brought to his chosen profession. Turn to page 120 for more on the life and times of Mr. B.

Final Stretch for 19 Clemson seniors

Clemson's 19 seniors (15 on scholarship and four walk-ons) are looking to close out the season with a win over South Carolina and then on to the Orange Bowl. These seniors have been the key to Clemson's success this season and have been a vital part of the Tigers' rise to the top of the ACC.

Tigers Look for Nine-Win Regular Season

Another significant accomplishment for this year's senior class would be to leave with a nine-win regular season. Clemson has not won nine games in a regular season since 1991 when the Tigers were 9-1-1 in the regular season. A total of 10 Clemson teams have won at least nine games in a regular season. The list of teams to accomplish this feat are: 1948 (10-0), 1978 (10-1), 1981 (11-0), 1982 (9-1-1), 1983 (9-1-1), 1987 (9-2), 1988 (9-2), 1989 (9-2), 1990 (9-2) and 1991 (9-1-1).

Clemson and South Carolina Both Ranked

This is just the fourth time in the history of the Clemson vs. South Carolina series that both teams are ranked in the AP national rankings heading into the game. Clemson is 16th in the latest AP poll, while South Carolina is 25th. The other seasons both teams were ranked heading into the game were 1979, 1987 and 1988. Only once have both teams been in the top 15 in the nation heading into the game and that was in 1987. For the game in Columbia, Clemson was eighth and South Carolina was 12. South Carolina won that game by a 20-7 count.

Clemson has been ranked in the top 25 heading into the South Carolina game 22 previous games. Clemson has a 15-5-2 record in those previous 22 games. South Carolina has been ranked coming into the game with Clemson five previous occasions. Clemson has won six of the last seven times the Tigers have been ranked coming into the South Carolina game. But, the Gamecocks won the last contest, 34-31 against a 22nd ranked Clemson team in 1996.

The Gamecocks are 3-2 against Clemson when they enter a game ranked against the Gamecocks. South Carolina holds a 2-1 advantage when both teams enter the game ranked by AP.

It should be noted that Associated Press national rankings date to the 1936 season. In 1926, before the days of national polls, Clemson and South Carolina were both 5-0 heading into the game in Columbia. Clemson won that game 32-0. The two teams were almost both ranked heading into the 1956 game. In the October 15, 1956 poll, Clemson was 15th and South Carolina was 20th. Neither team played on Saturday, October 20th, yet Clemson dropped to 20th and South Carolina dropped out of the October 22nd poll.

Fifteen Clemson Scholarship Seniors will make their final appearance in Death Valley this afternoon. They have been a major reason for the resurgence of Clemson football.

Clemson and South Carolina Have Combined for 15 wins

Clemson and South Carolina have combined for 15 total victories entering this weekend’s game. Clemson is 8-2 and South Carolina is 7-3. This is just the sixth time in history that the two teams had 15 wins combined entering the contest. It is the first time since the 1988 season when both teams were 8-2 entering the contest. Clemson won that game 29-10. Here is a list of the seasons in which the two teams have combined for at least 15 wins entering the game.

Holts and Bowden Both Semifinalists for Coaching Award

Both coaches in today’s game have guided terrific turnarounds in their respective programs. Clemson’s Tommy Bowden took over a 3-8 team and took the Tigers to a bowl game in his first year. Clemson has improved on that victory total by two more so far this year, giving Clemson its first eight-win regular season since 1995.

South Carolina Coach Lou Holtz has taken South Carolina to seven wins, after an 0-11 season last year. A victory over Clemson would give the Gamecocks an eight-win improvement in one season. That would tie for the second best one-season turnaround in NCAA history. Hawaii’s 1999 team holds the record with an 8-5 game improvement over the previous year. Purdue’s 1943 team and Stanford’s 1940 team are the only teams to make an eight-game improvement in one year.

As a result, both coaches are listed as semifinalists for the Football News National Coach of the Year. The other eight coaches on the list are Frank Beamer of Virginia Tech, Mike Bellotti of Oregon, Bob Davie of Notre Dame, Dennis Franchione of TCU, Rick Neuheisel of Washington, Gary Nord of UTEP, Bob Stoops of Oklahoma and Randy Walker of Northwestern.

South Carolina’s Turnaround

South Carolina has shown this improvement through a much improved offense and a consistent defense. The Gamecocks are 7-3 entering this weekend’s game and are heading to a bowl game for the first time since 1994 when current Clemson assistant head coach Brad Scott defeated West Virginia in the CarQuest Bowl.

Derek Watson needs just 84 yards this afternoon to reach 1000 yards for the season. The sophomore has 10 touchdowns in leading a South Carolina running game that averages 156.5 yards per game. A ndrew Pincock, a sophomore replica of former Notre Dame running back Jerome Bettis, who played for Holtz from 1990-92 before joining the Pittsburgh Steelers, has seven touchdowns and a four-yard average on 91 attempts.

Phil Petty is the quarterback for South Carolina. The junior has thrown for 1910 yards, leading the Gamecocks to a 212 yard average per game, virtually the same total as Clemson. South Carolina is balanced when it comes to receiving stats. Senior Jermaine Kelly leads the way with 35-511 and four scores. Ryan Brewer has 30 for 301, while Brian Scott is a big play performer with 29-474. Watson has shown his pass catching ability with 20-177.

South Carolina is one of the top defensive teams in the nation, allowing just 15.8 points a game. South Carolina has allowed less than 110 yards rushing and less than 200 yards a game passing so far this season. The top tackler is Rashad Faison, who has 83 tackles, including a team best five sacks. Andre Offing has 82 stops. Sheldon Brown has 62 tackles and a team best 4-71 in terms of interceptions. He also has 13 passes defensed, one of the top figures in the SEC.

Four Clemson Players On Award Lists

Keith Adams, Robert Carswell and Woodrow Dantzler were all named finalists or semifinalists for national position awards on November 9. Adams, Clemson’s All-America linebacker, was named one of three finalists for the Butkus Award.

Carswell was listed among 12 semifinalists for the Thorpe Award, which is presented to the top defensive back in the nation, while Dantzler was named one of eight semifinalists for the Davey O’Brien Award, which is given to the nation’s top quarterback.

Earlier last week, wide receiver Rod Gardner was named one of 10 semifinalists for the Biletnikoff Award. This is the first time in history Clemson has had four different players listed as semifinalists or better for national player position awards.

Clemson had a pair of semifinalists in 1997 when Tony Horne was among the final 10 for the Biletnikoff and Anthony Simmons was one of the top 10 for the Butkus. Clemson also had two top five players according to position rankings in 1990. Levon Kirkland was listed among the final five for the Butkus and Stacy Long was one of three finalists for the Outland Trophy.

Gardner needs eight receptions to become Clemson’s all-time leader.

Adams joins Rocky Calmus of Oklahoma and Dan Morgan of Miami (FL) among the semifinalists for the Butkus Award. Adams has 122 tackles, 16 tackles for loss and six sacks to rank among the top linebackers in the nation. Calmus has 71 tackles and three sacks for the top ranked Sooners, while Morgan has 93 tackles and eight tackles for loss for the Hurricane.

The winner of the Butkus Award will be announced on December 8 in Orlando, FL at an event televised nationally by Fox Sports Net.

Dantzler is Clemson’s first quarterback in history to rank among the semifinalists for a national award. The junior from Orangeburg, SC has completed 108 of 184 passes for 1506 yards and 10 touchdowns. He has also rushed for 867 yards and 13 touchdowns. That is the highest rushing total in history for a Clemson quarterback.

Dantzler is joined on the list by Drew Brees of Purdue, Eric Crouch of Nebraska, Joey Harrington of Oregon, Josh Heupel of Oklahoma, Marques Tuasosopo of Washington, Michael Vick of Virginia Tech and Chris Wenke of Florida State. The winner will be announced Thursday, Dec. 7 on the Home Depot College Football Awards Show from Orlando, FL on ESPN.

Carswell, who ranks fourth on the Clemson team in tackles with 69 and is Clemson’s career leader among defensive backs in that area, is among 12 semifinalists for the Thorpe Award, which is also presented at the Home Depot College Football Awards Show in Orlando on Dec. 7.

Travis Zachery needs 72 yards to reach 1000 for the season.
By Samantha Carruth
Clemson Sports Information

Senior Chad Speck will always be remembered in Clemson Tiger history for his 18-yard touchdown against Auburn in the 1998 Peach Bowl on a blocked punt return.

A freshman at the time, Speck, the only player in Clemson history to score a touchdown on a blocked punt return in a bowl game, was a football neophyte at the time. It was his first bowl game appearance and the game was on national television. “Looking back it seems so long ago and I know so much more about the college football game now,” said Speck.

The second team free safety has definitely proven that he has developed into a college athlete. Speck set the Clemson single game record for special teams tackles with seven against Georgia Tech during the 1999 season. Number-31 needs just three special teams tackles in today’s game to break Ashley Sheppard’s career record. Sheppard had 45 between 1989-92 and Speck has 43, including 14 this year.

Speck, who serves as president of LIFE-LINE, Clemson’s football leadership organization, has not only developed into a talented athlete, but a leader and role model on the football field as well.

“My role is to lead by example. I am not extremely vocal, but I will say things when guys need to step it up. I try to be an example to the younger guys by leading in practice. It is my role to work hard on every single play, so that younger guys or anyone watching can see that you are supposed to work hard on every play.”

Speck grew up in a small town in the state of Texas, where football is huge. It was there he adopted his love for football and his work ethic that would carry over into his Tiger football career.

During his junior year under the influence of his coach, Speck started thinking about his career in college football. In high school, Speck was a member of the football, baseball, basketball, soccer, and track teams.

He remembers after making the decision to play college football his junior year staying after practice to better himself. “After track practice every day, Coach would stay afterwards and we would throw around the football and do agility drills to try to get better. He instilled a hard work ethic in me.”

The work ethic that was instilled throughout his junior year carried over to his senior year when he moved from Texas to Tennessee. Since most of his recruiting had gone on in Texas, he had to work much harder because he had moved. His senior year after making a highlight video to send to schools around Tennessee, he traveled to Clemson, South Carolina on his recruiting trip. It was then that he fell in love with the small town and big time football atmosphere.

The signing class of 1997 included players such as Robert Carwell, Rod Gardner, Charles Hatley, and Will Merritt. Along with Speck and other signees, the 2000 senior class made a decision the day they reported in 1997 to turn the football program around.

Speck signed as a free safety along with Carwell. Since that year they have not only been teammates, but friends. “Robert and I were in the same recruiting class and we room with each other on the road. To this day we both push each other to work harder and be competitive.”

Playing behind Carwell has pushed Speck to become a competitive football player. Each day in practice he prepares himself as if he were a starter, but he also knows that one of his big roles on the Tiger football team is on special teams.

“I want to work as hard as I possibly can to play my role on this team,” said Speck. “I love special teams, especially the kickoff team, it is my favorite snap of the game.”

Some athletes have superstitions such as putting their uniforms on a particular way or many athletes listen to heavy music before a game. Speck’s pregame includes listening to music by contemporary Christian singer Michael W. Smith. He lies on the floor of the locker room before the coaches arrive and listens to the motivational church music and then prays hard for about 20-25 minutes before the game starts.

“The music and prayers help me calm down and get my focus on the game. It also reminds me that the talents I have are from God and I want to go out there and play for His glory.”

Since arriving in Tigertown, Speck has been a member of two Peach Bowl teams. His sophomore year the team did not make a bowl game. While at home over Christmas break of that season he met his fiancée, Rachel Fletcher. Fletcher is a senior at the University of Tennessee. Speck and Fletcher plan to get married next summer after both have graduated.

In the spring Speck, a three-time member of the ACC Academic Honor Roll, will graduate with a degree in Parks, Recreation, Tourism, and Management with an emphasis in Sport Management. Speck was blessed with the ability to discipline himself and manage his time wisely so he could bear down and get assignments done. Throughout his academic career he has accumulated a 3.84 career GPA. Speck has aspirations of going to law school, but also has dreams of one day coaching.

Wide Receiver coach Rick Stockstill believes that Speck will succeed in anything he does in life. “He has been a role model both on and off the field. He is going to be successful in everything he does because he is hard working and dedicated. He is in everything he does. We are lucky to have had him in our football program,” said Stockstill.

Although Speck will always remember the spectacular play from the 1998 Peach Bowl and the atmosphere here in Death Valley for home games, his most memorable moment here will always be the bond and closeness that this season’s team shares.

“Team is the closest we have had since I have been at Clemson. I will always remember, the time spent with these guys working hard, blood, sweat, and tears for four years to get to the point we are at now,” said Speck.

The record books will always hold the memory of the touchdown at the 1998 Peach Bowl, but Chad Speck will be remembered by friends, teammates, and coaches as a model student-athlete who was an instrumental part of Clemson University for four years both on and off the football field.

Speck needs just three special teams tackles to break Ashley Sheppard’s Clemson career record.
Robert Carswell

Graduate Assistant

Over his career at Clemson, senior Robert Carswell has made a name for himself as one of the best strong safeties in the nation. As impressive as he has been on the gridiron, however, it has been his dedication and service off the field during his career that have truly placed him in a class by himself.

Born in Gary, Indiana, Carswell grew up just a few miles west of South Bend and the University of Notre Dame. He grew up listening to Notre Dame football every Saturday on the radio and as he listened he dreamed of one day wearing a gold helmet and experiencing the mystical powers of the Irish first hand. “Growing up, all everybody wanted to do was play for Notre Dame,” remembered Carswell. “I had that feeling instilled in me as well and I dreamed of playing there all the time.”

That dream took a detour, however, when at age nine Robert and his family moved South to Lithonia, GA. Even after the move, though, Carswell held on to his love for Notre Dame football and his dream one day playing for the Irish.

He attended Stone Mountain High School in Georgia where during his senior year he was a first-team All-State and Parade All-America selection. He was recruited by almost every major college in the country including Florida State, Clemson, Tennessee, and Notre Dame. On his recruiting visit to Notre Dame he nearly committed to the Irish, but at the advice of his parents he decided to take a closer look at several of the other schools.

While visiting Clemson, he was given the opportunity to rub Howard’s Rock and run down the hill. His father accompanied Robert down the hill and it was at that moment that Robert realized how important it would be for him to be able to have his family in the stands at every home game.

The night before signing day, Carswell tossed and turned in his sleep as he struggled to sort through his life long dream of playing for Notre Dame and the importance of staying close to home. The next morning he took two letters of intent, one from Notre Dame and one from Clemson, with him to school.

“When my coach came to get me in homeroom, I still had both letters of intent in my hands,” recalled Carswell. “When I walked into the library where we were making the announcement, I saw my parents standing there smiling and I knew then what my decision would be.

“In high school my whole family would go out to eat after every one of my games and I wanted to be able to do that in college. If I went to Notre Dame I would not have been able to experience that nearly as often. I am very close with my family. They are a big part of me and I am a big part of them.”

At the close of the 1997 season, Carswell realized he could make a big impact on the Tigers. In the seventh game of his freshman season against Maryland, he made his first career start as he filled in at strong safety for an injured Antwan Edwards. In that game, he registered 11 tackles and broke up three passes in Clemson’s 20-9 victory over the Terrapins.

Since that game, Carswell has started 39 consecutive games and he has established himself as leader of the Clemson secondary. Prior to this season, he was a first-team All-America selection by several publications including Street and Smith and Football News. He was listed as the number-one free-safety in the nation by Sporting News and Lindy’s magazine tabbed him as the third-ranked candidate for the Thorpe Award which is the award given annually to the nation’s top defensive back. Just last week he was named a semifinalist for that award, one of the top 12 defensive backs in the nation.

Coming into today’s game against South Carolina, Carswell is ranked seventh on Clemson’s all-time tackles list with 351 and earlier this season he set the Clemson record for most career tackles by a defensive back. In Clemson’s last three games, Carswell has averaged over 10 tackles per game and had a season tying high of 11 tackles against Florida State, including nine in an active first half.

Last season, his 129 total tackles set the Clemson record for most tackles in a season by a defensive back and against Virginia Tech he had a career high 16 tackles. In that game, he also picked off two Michael Vick passes deep in Clemson territory.

As impressive as Carswell’s accomplishments have been in football, his work off the field and in the community are what have made him so important for Clemson. He has always felt a special bond with young fans and as a result he is constantly looking for ways to share his time and comradery with children in the community. As he said, “I just like being around children because they are genuine.”

“Carswell said, “They always speak their minds and their facial expressions are so much fun to watch.”

Carswell ranks seventh in Clemson history with 351 career tackles.

to represent their team as leaders in the community. Through their service in the community, these players enhance their leadership skills and develop career skills that will better serve them in the future.

"Every opportunity you get, you have to present yourself well because somebody is always going to be looking at you," Carswell stated. "You just never know that one person might be the person that models himself after you. If they see you misbehaving or acting the wrong way, then he or she will think that it is okay for them to act that way."

Through the staff at Vickery Hall and the leadership of Bill D'Andrea, Clemson has established a very successful community outreach program. "Robert demonstrated the leadership qualities we needed very early on his career," said D'Andrea. "We could see that he was very interested in the program and he has been very involved with it ever since. We have a lot of student-athletes who give their time to community service, but very few put in as much time as Robert Carswell."

For his extraordinary work in the community, Carswell was named to the American Football Coaches Association Good Works Team for 1999. The team honors student-athletes who show exceptional dedication to charitable organizations, service groups, or other services activities within the community. He was one of only 11 Division I football players in the nation to be selected to the team and it was the first time a Clemson player had ever been selected.

For Carswell, his favorite community service activities are ones that combine his two favorite pastimes, working with kids and playing football. "Every time I go home I get all the kids in the neighborhood together and we play tackle football in my parents front yard," Carswell chuckled. "I put on my Peach Bowl jersey, they put on their team jersey, and it is basically like one big carnival. The kids are always asking my parents when I am coming home again, but when I get home though they are always rough on me. I could have played a great game the week before but they always get on me about the plays I messed up on."

Carswell's love for children extends into his academic career as well. He is a secondary education major and hopes to one day follow in the footsteps of his older brother James and pursue a career in teaching. "I just want to give back to the community in any way I can and teaching is one way I feel that I could do that," Carswell said.

Carswell has been extremely happy with his decision to attend Clemson. "I am so happy with my decision to come to Clemson," he said. "I have done almost everything that I have wanted to do and most importantly, my parents have gotten the chance to see me play almost every game."

Ironically, the head coach on the opposing sideline of today's game will be the same coach Carswell grew up admiring as a child in Indiana. "I grew up watching Lou Holtz," Carswell remembered.

"I remember watching him walk the sideline and then kneel down to pick grass. Whenever I am coaching kids in the neighborhood I always pace up and down the sideline and pick grass just like Coach Holtz does. He is a great coach and his track record speaks for itself."

While Carswell will most certainly have an opportunity to make it at the next level, for now he is focused on helping Clemson continue to climb back into the national spotlight of college football. "After going 3-8 my sophomore year and 6-6 last season, I would like to think that I have played an important part in helping to turn this program around," he stated. "We still have a great deal left to do this season but I am very excited with what we have been able to accomplish."

It comes as no surprise that when he is asked about his most memorable moments on the football field, Carswell deflects the conversation to focus the attention on the accomplishments of his teammates. "The things I have enjoyed most over my career have been the things that I have seen other people do," he stated. "Whether it be the big catches Rod Gardner made against North Carolina this year, the big plays Keith Adams has made the last two years, or the interception Terry Jolly had last year against Duke, those are the type plays I will remember most. I could go on and on, but it is those plays that other guys have made that are the ones that really stand out in my mind."

With today's game being the last home game of his career, Carswell admits it is going to be difficult getting off the bus knowing that it will be the last time he will rub Howard's Rock and run down the hill. "I am really going to miss the comraderie of the team and everyone coming together for one common goal," he said. "Standing at the top of the hill in a sea of orange and rubbing the rock is something very special. Getting to the bottom of the hill and seeing the Tiger and the balloons are all things that I am going to miss, but that I will never forget."

Over his career, Robert Carswell has been an unselfish leader who has let his actions on the football field and in the community speak for themselves. He has represented Clemson with class and integrity both on and off the football field and it is certain that he will continue to do so even after his playing days as a Tiger are over.

It's the Saturday morning of a football game. The team wakes up at about 8:00 am. They go eat a little breakfast. Then it's time for a team meeting followed by position meetings, all in an effort to go over last minute details before taking on the day's opponent. After the meetings, it's time for the chapel service.

Wait... chapel service?

Yep, that's right... chapel service. The Clemson football team holds about an hour-long chapel service every game day before taking the field. Those chapel services are led by the team chaplain, Darren Bruce.

Bruce, a native of New Castle, PA, came to Clemson with head coach Tommy Bowden from Tulane University, where he served the Green Wave in the same capacity. Prior to serving as Tulane's chaplain, Bruce was an assistant children's pastor, an interim children's pastor, a chapel speaker and a chaplain for the football team at the Christian Academy in Pennsylvania. He then made his way from Pennsylvania to Louisiana as a result of a simple phone call.

"I had a friend in Baton Rouge, and he gave me a call and told me there was a church looking for a minister to do an inner-city ministry," recalled Bruce. "We talked about it, and they flew me down to Baton Rouge, and we ended up going to New Orleans. New Orleans was the area in which they wanted to plant a new church. I looked around, and I thought 'this is where I need to be.' So in 1992, I went to New Orleans and started an inner city church right in the housing projects. I was there for seven years, and that's where I met coach Bowden.

"When Coach Bowden took the job at Tulane, he was looking for a team chaplain, and I'm not sure how our paths crossed, but somehow he got my resume. I got a chance to talk with him, we talked for an hour or so, and we connected."

How Bruce got into the ministry is an interesting story, beginning with a personal spiritual transformation. He grew up without a father and with a mother who had a drinking problem. His entry introduction to Christianity and later the ministry began with a self-realization of what was shaping his life and where he was headed.

"My junior year in college, I was out with some fraternity brothers, and we had been drinking. There were some Bible college students that were out on the same strip we were on passing out tracts. This young lady, I'll never forget it, with blue eyes and brown hair, handed me a tract. And it was like everyone else walked on ahead, but it was my time and destiny. She handed me a tract - it was a red tract with a big yellow question mark on it. I opened it up and it said 'if you were to die now, where would you go?' Instantly, I said 'Man, I'd bust hell wide open.'"

That thought changed Bruce's life. "I said to myself, 'Man I need to change my life, I need to get my life right.' So I just thought in my heart, that as soon as we get back to campus, I was going to give my life to Christ. Sure enough, I did. Then I got real crazy, going to Bible studies, church, just got real serious about it."

He did indeed start doing what was right, stacking up a resume that includes multiple years as an assistant pastor, ministry coordinator, and even an appearance on The 700 Club.

Bruce's work at churches ended when he began working with students and realizing that he was being called to work specifically with college students.

"When I was at Tulane, I still had my inner-city ministry, and things began to happen there. I had a tremendous ministry with the kids there. It wasn't hard for me, because I could identify with them, having been a student-athlete. Doors just started opening. I was getting invitations to go minister at LSU and other surrounding colleges, and all of a sudden, my heart went out to the college kids."

Identifying with college students, especially student-athletes, is perhaps Bruce's greatest strength. He isn't a stranger to the pressures of being a student-athlete, having attended Bishop College in Dallas, Texas, on a football scholarship from 1980-1984. While at Bishop College, he also played three years of baseball as a walk-on.

"I am able to identify in every facet with the hearts of these young men. One, being a student-athlete. Two, just knowing the pitfalls that these guys can go through. I'm here to help them out. I'm here to tell them that they don't have to test the fire to know that it will burn them. It's just my heart and passion — to minister to young student-athletes, and to help develop character. I think that if they have a strong, spiritual foundation to start with, and to build from, that they will be strong academically, physically, and mentally."

Bruce's commitment to helping build the team's foundation begins with the coaches on Monday morning. At 6:30 am, Bruce leads a coaches' devotional. On Wednesday nights, he leads the Fellowship of Christian Athletes that is primarily for Clemson athletes, but not limited only to those athletes. Bruce, as stated earlier, also conducts a chapel service every game day. Along with those duties, he frequently meets with the players and coaches on an individual basis. The influence Bruce has had on the Tigers is evident when he talks to operators and coaches alike.

"You can have one-on-one meetings with him or group meetings. It doesn't matter. He's just an excellent man. There is no other person like him. He helps us out a great deal," says junior strong safety Charles Hailey.

Wide receiver coach Rick Stockstill says, "He brings a comfort level, a confidence level to the players. They know they have somebody they can go talk to about any problem or situation they may have that they don't feel comfortable talking about with their coaches or teammates. The kids have a ton of respect for him."

Senior cornerback Darrel Crutchfield summed up what Bruce means to the team on a daily basis. "He's a great guy. He's somebody who always cares about you and who always tries to pull you in and keep your heart pointed in the right direction. If you've got something on your mind, he's always there to help you out."

Duane Goodine (DB)
Duane Goodine is a reserve defensive back who plays an important part in the Clemson Football Program. He devotes many hours a week at practice helping prepare the Tigers for their next opponent.
He also shows this kind of dedication in the classroom; he will graduate in May with a Chemistry degree. Goodine credits a lot of his success to the academic program run by Bill D’Andrea at Vickery Hall.

“The tutors have helped me a lot over the years,” said Goodine. “I would not have made it this far without their help.” Upon graduation he plans to work in the Chemical Industry field.

Goodine is a 1996 graduate of West-Oak High School in Seneca, South Carolina where he played under Coach Scott Harley. He was a 1995 All-County and All-Region Defensive Back. Goodine also served as a Team Captain during his junior year. He lettered in football and track for three years. He joined the Tigers in January of 1996, after transferring from North Greenville College.

Finally, he would like to thank his mother and his family for their encouragement and support. They have frequented many of his games and supported the entire team while he was a Tiger.

Marcus Mauney (WR)
Reverend Dr. Marcus Mauney, Sr. and Pearl Mauney instilled great work ethic in their son Marcus Mauney, Jr., it is very evident at football practice every day. His father played football at the University of West Virginia for Bobby Bowden from 1971 and 1973 and his cousin Tony Mauney played at Clemson from 1988-1991. Mauney was a starter on Clemson’s 1991 ACC Championship team.

As a junior wide receiver, majoring in management, Mauney has seen action in three games this season. Against The Citadel he played in four plays, in the Missouri and Wake Forest games he participated in five plays. “Marcus is a dedicated young man who will be successful in whatever his chosen field turns out to be,” said receiver coach Rick Stockstill. “It was great to see him on the field for the first three games this year.”

Mauney attended Spartanburg High School, in Spartanburg, South Carolina where he was a member of the track and field team. He earned four letters in track and a State Championship in 1994 in the 4X400 Relay. Under Coach Glover Smiley he was All-Region and All-State in 1994-1996 in the 400-meter and 200-meter events. “I would like to thank my family, friends, and spiritual family for all their support while I have been here at Clemson.”

John Strait (PK)
John Strait chose to face two difficult challenges when he came to Clemson in the fall of 1996. He chose to play football and to major in Electrical Engineering. He has been faithful and dedicated to both areas of his life during the years he has been at Clemson.

By budgeting his time and following the philosophy of getting the jobs done when they need to be done, he has maintained a 3.41 GPA. “It is not difficult, you just have to want to do it and then make up your mind to be successful,” adds Strait.

He is a 1996 graduate of Ridge View High School, in Blythewood, SC. While attending high school he lettered in golf for three years and football for one year. He played under Coach Jim Bonneville. Strait is also a fan of hockey, his father, John, played at Cornell University.

After receiving his degree in May he plans on following in his father’s footsteps and climb the corporate ladder. He would like to thank his parents for their support and dedication by attending all of his games and being there for him while he was at Clemson. “Without my parents passing to me their values of hard work, dedication, and honesty I would have never been the person I am today.”

Matt Whinghter (OL)
Matt Whinghter is a reserve Center/Guard for the Tigers. He joined the Clemson family in the fall of 1997. He has dedicated three years to the team, and will graduate in May with a degree in Sports Marketing. He hopes to work in the sports marketing division of a major sports franchise.

A native of Beech Island, SC, Whinghter played football for Coach Al Lown at Silver Bluff High School. While at Silver Bluff he lettered in football for three years and in track and field, in the shot put and discus, his junior and senior years. His senior year he was All-Region his senior year and All-Area his junior and senior year.

Clemson football games are a family event for the Whingheters. Joe and Sally Whinghter bring their four sons to watch the Tigers play each week. Whinghter has four brothers, a brother at Clemson in graduate school, one a freshman at Presbyterian College in Clinton and two at Augusta Christian.

He really has enjoyed getting to know his teammates and the team Chaplain Darren Bruce. Whinghter comments, “It is a real blessing to have him on staff 24 hours a day. Being a part of the Clemson program has been a great experience.”

Clemson vs. USC Series

By Jack Felling
Clemson Sports Information

The bowl implications may be the least significant issue that will be decided by today’s game between Clemson and South Carolina. At stake is the pride of the students and families whose loyalties have only grown stronger in the 104 years since the Clemson vs. South Carolina series began. The result will determine more than bragging rights. A victory legitimizes an allegiance to a team that, for at least a year, has the upper hand in the most passionate rivalry in college football.

In 1896, South Carolina defeated Clemson 12-6 in the first gridiron match up between the schools. A crowd of nearly 2,000 were in attendance. For 64 years the game was played as part of State Fair Week in Columbia. Until 1958, the contests had not been held on Saturdays, and the day of the game was referred to as “Big Thursday.” The game was the main event in the most important yearly exposition in the state. The origin of the series at the State Fair accounts for why this rivalry remains a defining characteristic of the culture of South Carolina. The story of this state cannot be told short of mentioning the history of the Clemson vs. South Carolina rivalry.

Hostilities did not take long to develop. Serious tensions occurred following the 1902 game, when South Carolina emerged victorious in a meeting of unbeaten teams. South Carolina fans paraded through downtown Columbia carrying an image of a Gamecock standing over a defeated tiger. Clemson cadets in military uniform marched onto the South Carolina campus intent on destroying the displayed picture. Before a full-scale riot emerged, the image was burned between both factions.

The near-disastrous effect of the post-game occurrences in 1902 led to the suspension of the series until 1909. The series has not been interrupted since. Today’s game marks the 92nd consecutive meeting between the schools. The only longer active streaks in football are Kansas vs. Nebraska and Minnesota vs. Wisconsin.

In last year’s meeting with South Carolina, Keith Adams set a Clemson record with 27 tackles in the game. But Adams has nothing on O.K. Pressley, an injured All-American whose effort launched Clemson to victory over a 5-0 South Carolina team in 1928. Coach Josh Cody repeatedly denied Pressley’s efforts to enter the game. The game was still close when South Carolina pushed deep into Clemson territory in the second half. Cody realized that he couldn’t keep his team’s injured captain off the field any longer.

Pressley entered the game and made four consecutive tackles for losses of eight, seven, five and seven yards, respectively. Clemson went on to shutout the Gamecocks and improve to 6-0 on the season. No other Clemson athlete has ever recorded a tackle for loss on four successive plays.

The antics of the fans of this series warrant as many stories as the athletes themselves. The most famous was orchestrated by a group of South Carolina students in 1961. Dressed as the Clemson football team, the students, with the permission of South Carolina coach Marvin Bass, dressed in full uniform and jogged onto the field impersonating the Tigers during warm-ups. Even Clemson’s band was fooled as they began playing Tiger Rag. Though the sloppy drills were an indication to most fans that the team was not the real thing, the group made it clear when they broke out in a rendition of Chubby Checker’s “The Peppermint Twist.” At that point the Clemson section of the stands emptied. Nobody was seriously injured.

One year later, in 1962, the schools agreed to always hold the Clemson vs. South Carolina game in the last week of the regular season. However, the 1963 match up was postponed when news broke of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. The tragedy led to the only Thanksgiving game in the history of the series.

One of the most thrilling games of the series took place in 1977 in Columbia, a game televised on ABC. Today’s game will also be shown on that network, an example of the interest in this rivalry. Jerri Butler caught a 20-yard touchdown pass from Steve Fuller with just 49 seconds left to give Clemson the victory and a Gator Bowl bid. That was Clemson’s first bowl bid in 18 years.

The Tigers have never entered the game with more to lose than in the National Championship season of 1981. Clemson’s victory was in part to the efforts of brothers Rod and Chuck McSwain. Rod blocked a South Carolina punt into the endzone, and Johnny Rembert recovered to give the Tigers an early 7-6 advantage. Chuck rushed for 151 yards to lead Clemson to a 29-13 win. Perhaps the most unique image of the 81 season was that of exploding oranges on the South Carolina AstroTurf. They were being tossed from the Clemson student section to signify the Tigers Orange Bowl birth.

The Clemson vs. South Carolina game has been decided in the Tigers favor in each of the past three seasons. However, Lou Holtz enters this game with a 4-1 personal record against the Tigers. He never lost in four meetings with Clemson while at North Carolina State, including a 2-0 mark at Death Valley.

Clemson earned a 58-45-4 all-time advantage in the series with a victory last year. The win kept Clemson eligible for a bowl game while keeping South Carolina winless for the season. For Clemson, several of the big performers from 1999 will have to repeat their efforts in order for Clemson to extend its winning streak over the Gamecocks. Travis Zachery rushed for 105 yards in that game while Rod Gardner caught six passes for 138 yards. Each had a pair of touchdowns. Woodrow Dantzler completed 14 of 26 passes for 249 yards in the win.

This year figures to be a thrilling game. The two teams have combined for 15 wins and are both bowl eligible. That is the first time since 1988 that the two teams have at least 15 combined wins heading into the contest. Clemson and South Carolina were both 8-2 heading into that contest, a 29-10 Clemson win in Rodney Williams last home game.

Jerry Butler’s catch to beat South Carolina in 1977 is perhaps the most famous play in school history.

Clemson University's 14th President, James F. Barker, is first and foremost an architect. So it comes as no surprise that after one year in office, he is already designing a blueprint for Clemson's future—a future built around such ideas as collaboration, community, and quality.

A 1970 Clemson graduate, the former dean of the university's College of Architecture, Arts and Humanities was named president in October 1999, bringing to the job a clear vision of Clemson's future. Barker has outlined a 10-year goal for Clemson to become one of the top 20 public universities in the country.

"South Carolina students deserve to have access to a top-tier education without leaving their home state," he said. "Building Clemson's academic, research and service programs to the level where we can compete with anyone will benefit our state, our students, and our alumni."

Specifics of the 10-year plan include:

- Continuing to excel in teaching;
- Increasing research support to at least $100 million a year;
- Setting the standard in public service by engaging the whole campus in service and outreach;
- Completing the current capital campaign and a subsequent one, exceeding goals in both;
- In athletics, winning another national championship in football and two other sports, and making it to the Final Four at least twice in basketball;
- Sending student performing groups to Carnegie Hall;
- Establishing a thriving Phi Beta Kappa chapter;
- Seeing at least two Clemson students win Rhodes Scholarships;
- Building a greater sense of community and diversity;
- Increasing international programs and activities;
- Seeking out areas where teaching, research and service overlap;
- Focusing on collaboration, with partners both inside and outside the university;
- Improving essential academic resources such as the library.

They are ambitious goals, but goals that Barker believes Clemson can achieve.

"The charge I have been given is to ensure that the idea of Clemson will be stronger at the end of my service than it is now," he said at his inauguration. "I am convinced that there is no university in America stron-

When Tommy Bowden approached the 1999 season, he had one simple goal for his first Clemson team - improvement. Bowden warned Clemson supporters that the Tigers were unlikely to be bowl participants in 1999, but his main focus was to improve. Bowden's goal of improvement was reached and he was happy to be wrong about his preseason prediction, as the Tigers were invited to the 1999 Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl.

Unfortunately, Clemson lost the bowl game 17-7 to Mississippi State, which finished the season ranked 12th in the nation, Clemson's fourth loss to a team ranked in the top 12 of the final AP poll. That loss did not tarnish the great accomplishments the Clemson football team achieved in its first season under Bowden.

In 1999, Bowden accomplished a personal milestone that no Clemson coach had attained since 1981, the year the Tigers won the National Championship. Bowden became the first Clemson coach since Danny Ford to be named ACC Coach of the Year.

Bowden led the Tigers to a 6-6 record and 5-3 mark in the ACC against the nation's third toughest regular season schedule according to Jeff Sagarin. The Tigers finished tied for second with Georgia Tech and Virginia in the final conference standings, a six-place improvement over the previous season, the greatest one-season jump in ACC history in league play.

The Tigers also made a four-game ACC win improvement in 1999. It was just the fifth time in ACC history that a team made that big of a league victory jump. Bowden had taken over a team with a losing record and brought it to a bowl game in his first season, just the sixth coach in ACC history to accomplish that feat.

The Clemson program set or tied 38 school records in Bowden's first year, including 26 on offense. Ironically, Bowden's first Tulane team set or tied 26 offensive school records.

The improvements in the ACC standings were thanks in large part to an improved offensive attack. The Clemson offense ended the season averaging 402.6 yards per game, nearly a 100-yard per game improvement over 1998. The Tigers scored 26.8 points per game in 1999 compared to 19.8 in 1998. Clemson's 42 touchdowns in 1999 ranked fifth best in school history.

Bowden's first Clemson team averaged 67.1 more yards a game through the air than in 1998, as the Tigers passed for 3019 yards, an all-time Clemson record. Clemson quarterbacks made good on 59.6 percent of their pass attempts in 1999, third highest percentage in school history.

In 1999, Clemson ranked 103rd in the nation in turnover margin, but in 1999 the Tigers were 11th, an incredible 92-place improvement in the rankings. Clemson scored 100 points off turnovers, while opponents only scored 44 in the same statistical category.

Under Bowden, Clemson continued its strong defensive tradition. With 47 sacks, Clemson was first in the ACC in that category for the second straight season, and the final total established a Clemson record. Three players (Keith Adams - 15.5, Chad Carson - 12.0, Robert Carswell - 10.8) all had nearly 11 tackles per game in 1999 to rank among the top four tacklers in the league.

Bowden, a sophomore, finished the season with 186 tackles, highest in the nation, and broke the Clemson single season tackle record held by Anthony Simmons. They all contributed to the 17th best pass efficiency defense in the nation, a unit that had 19 interceptions, ninth highest in the country.

Thanks to the wide open offensive attack several Clemson players made their presence felt in the national rankings and the Clemson record book. Sophomore running back Travis Zachery had 16 touchdowns, to rank ninth in the country in scoring. He was injured in the first quarter of the Peach Bowl and did not get a chance to tie or break Lester Brown's single season Clemson record for touchdowns.

Junior wide receiver Rod Gardner set two Clemson single season records and became the school's first 1000-yard receiver. Gardner had 80 receptions for 1084 yards, Clemson single season records in both areas. He was 17th in the nation in receptions per game with a 6.6 mark. His yards per game average of 121.7 was 23rd best in the nation.

For the first time in Clemson history two Tiger quarterbacks threw for over 1000 yards in a season. Woodrow Dantzler passed for 1506 yards, while Brandon Streeter passed for 1466 yards during the regular season. The two diametrically opposite quarterbacks had total offensive games over 350 yards, a testimony to Bowden's offensive system.

On the defensive side of the ball, Adams, a first-team All-American by Football News and the ACC Defensive Player of the Year, set the league tackle for loss record in 1999. Adams recorded 33 tackles for loss, six better than the previous mark during the regular season (Adams finished the season with 35 tackles for loss, but the ACC does not count bowl stats). He broke the school record for tackles in a game at South Carolina with 27.

Junior free safety Robert Carswell tied for first in the ACC and was 10th in the nation in interceptions with six. Senior cornerback Dextre Po-lite set an all-time Clemson record with 17 passes broken up.

Four of Clemson's five losses in 1999 came by four points or less and three of the five losses came against the only undefeated teams in the nation during the regular season (Marshall, Virginia Tech and Florida State).

Bowden Bowl I, the first ever meeting between father and son head coaches in college football history, took place on October 23, 1999. Bowden faced his father Bobby's top ranked Florida State team in Death Valley in front of a national television audience. The Tigers lost a tough battle to the eventual National Champions, 17-14, the closest margin of victory for the Seminoles and the fewest point they recorded all season by two touchdowns.

Making strong improvement in his first year with a program is nothing new for Bowden. In the two seasons he was the head coach at Tulane, Bowden took a team that had been 4-18 in the two years previous to his arrival, and emotionally and numerically reversed the team's fortunes with an 18-4 record, posted an 11-1 conference mark and finished the 1998 season ranked seventh in the nation by both polls. Tulane and Tennessee were the only undefeated teams in college football in 1998.

The Bowden Family: Tommy, Linda, Lauren and Ryan.
His Tulane team had a 22-game average of 39.7 points, 5.1 touchdowns, 453 yards of total offense, 270.5 yards passing, and 192.6 yards rushing. The Green Wave averaged 6.34 yards per play, and converted on third down 47 percent of the time.

Some say the most telling statistic in terms of wins and losses and the most telling statistic when it comes to coaching ability is turnover margin. The Green Wave ranked fifth in the nation in turnover margin each of his seasons at Tulane.

It didn’t take Bowden long to put Tulane back on the college football landscape. In his first year, Tulane was picked last in the preseason polls of Conference USA. But, he led the New Orleans based school to a 7-4 record, a second-place conference standing with just one league loss, and set 33 school records in the process, including 26 on offense. Tulane’s accomplishments on offense were noteworthy in 1997, but their offensive charts reached uncharted areas in 1998. Tulane stood as the only school in the nation that averaged over 300 yards per game passing and 200 yards per game rushing. The team ranked fourth in the nation in total offense (507.1 per game) and second in scoring (45.4 points per game).

The Green Wave scored 40 or more points in eight contests in 1998, including each of the last seven games. In one game the Green Wave scored 72 points and rolled up 704 yards of total offense. They converted 52 percent of their third-down opportunities for the season and had just 11 turnovers in over 800 plays.

The 1998 season saw the program post a perfect 11-0 regular season under Bowden, its first perfect regular season since 1931. The Green Wave won Conference USA, its first league title since Tulane won the SEC in 1949. Bowden was named Conference USA Coach of the Year.

Bowden’s team ranked seventh in the final AP poll and was a mainstay in the polls from the third week of the season on. Tulane had not been ranked at any time since 1979 and had not been ranked in a final poll since 1973. After Bowden accepted the job at Clemson, Tulane defeated BYU in the Liberty Bowl, 41-27.

Bowden’s 11-0 record at the time was the 17th perfect regular season in college football in the decade of the 1990s.

A look at that list reveals two other coaches named Bowden. His father, Florida State Head Coach Bobby Bowden, had a perfect regular season in 1996 and 1999, while his brother, Terry, posted a perfect regular season in 1993. Obviously, the Bowdens are the first family of college coaching and this “Wonder Years” environment had a lot to do with Tommy Bowden’s decision to enter the coaching world.

The fatherly influence of a college coach who reached 300 career wins against his son in 1999, also had an influence on other members of the family. Terry has been a head coach at Samford and Auburn, posting a 47-17-1 record at the latter. Terry serves as an in-studio commentator for ABC’s college football package. Jeff Bowden is in his sixth year as wide receivers coach at Florida State.

Tommy Bowden began his college football experience as a walk-on wide receiver at West Virginia. He played for his father between 1973-74-75 and then for Frank Signetti during the 1976 season.

As a junior he caught 15 passes for 189 yards and one score. Bowden remained at West Virginia for the 1977 season and began his coaching career, serving as a graduate assistant on Signetti’s staff. His interest in coaching only came more intense after that first year as a GA. His father then hired him as a secondary coach at Florida State for the 1978 season.

That experience confirmed to Bowden that he was in a profession that would be his life’s work. The Seminoles posted a 19-4 mark in his two seasons at Florida State.

In 1980, Bowden joined the staff at East Carolina, where he coached for the Spring practice session of 1980. That spring, he moved to Auburn and served as the Tigers running backs coach for the 1980 season. Among the players he coached was James Brooks, who went on to a 13-year NFL career and is still second in Auburn history in rushing.

In 1991, Bowden joined Pat Dye at Auburn. He would remain with the SEC Tigers for six years, his longest stint as a college assistant coach. During his tenure, Auburn was a combined 46-20-2, including a perfect 11-0 season in 1993. Auburn had four Associated Press top 25 seasons, including a number-four final ranking in 1993 and a number-nine final rating in 1994. The Tigers were 20-1-1 in 1993-94 combined.

Bowden worked under his brother Terry Bowden for his last four years at Auburn and the Tigers had a 36-9-1 record with both Bowdens on the staff.

Born on July 10, 1954, in Birmingham, AL, Bowden is married to the former Linda Joan White, who he first met when the two were in school together at Morgantown High in West Virginia. The couple has two children, Ryan (18), a freshman at Clemson, and Lauren (15), a student at Daniel High.

- Clemson reached the finals of the ACC Tournament, won the Clemson Regional, beat Mississippi State in the Super Regional to earn the school's ninth trip to the College World Series.
Death Valley. The name speaks for itself. If you want to play in this house, you better have the reputation to back it up. TORO’s 640 Series Sprinkler has been the number one choice for athletic sports fields for more than a decade. That’s a reputation built on MVP performances.

If you want that kind of durability, match TORO quality products with certified contractors like Environmental Landscaping...a winning team that can handle the toughest conditions.
Clemson Memorial Stadium has been held in high esteem for many years. Whether it be players from the 1940s and 1950s, opposing players from the 1970s and 1980s, or even professional players in the 1990s, the ambiance of this special setting is what college football is all about.

The storied edifice added to its legend when the first meeting of father and son head coaches (Bowden Bowl I) took place before a sellout crowd of more than 86,000 fans.

In the 1970s, 1980s and 1990s, various publications named top 10 stadiums in college football and Clemson Memorial Stadium, affectionately known as “Death Valley,” has been a common denominator on those lists.

The facility’s mystique is derived from its many traditions, which date to its opening in 1942, the legendary games and players, and Clemson’s corresponding rate of success. Clemson has won 202 games in the previous 58 years there (202-80-7) and has won over 70 percent of the contests. Thirty times since 1983, crowds have exceeded 80,000.

The stadium has definitely been good to the Tigers who call it home, but the stadium was constructed against the advice of at least one Clemson coach. Just before head coach Jess Neely left for Rice University after the 1939 season, he gave Clemson a message. “Don’t ever let them talk you into building a big stadium,” he said. “Put about 10,000 seats behind the Y.M.C.A. That’s all you’ll ever need”.

Instead of following Coach Neely’s advice, however, Clemson officials decided to build the new stadium in a valley on the western part of campus. The place would take some clearing—there were many trees, but luckily there were no hedges.

The crews went to work: clearing, cutting, pouring, and forming. Finally, on September 19, 1942, Clemson Memorial Stadium opened with the Tiger football team thrashing Presbyterian College, 32-13. Those 20,000 seats installed for Opening Day would soon grow; and grow and grow. This year Clemson celebrates its 59th year in this outstanding facility.

When the original part of the stadium was built in the early 40’s, much of the work was done by scholarship athletes, including many football players. The first staking out of the stadium was done by two members of the football team, A.N. Cameron and Hugh Webb. Webb returned to Clemson years later to be an architecture professor, and Cameron went on to become a civil engineer in Louisiana.

The building of the stadium did not proceed without a few problems. One day during the clearing of the land, one young football player proudly announced that he was not allergic to poison oak. He then commenced to attack the poison oak with a swing blade, throwing the plants to and fro. The next day, however, the boy was swollen twice his size and had to be put in the hospital.

There are many other stories about the stadium, including one stating that Frank Howard put a chew of tobacco in each corner of the stadium as the concrete poured.

Howard said that the seeding of the grass caused a few problems. “About 40 people and I laid sod on the field,” he said. “After three weeks, on July 15, we had only gotten halfway through.

“I told them that it had taken us three weeks to get that far, and I would give them three more weeks’ pay for however long it took. I also told them we would have

Clemson has had 30 crowds over 80,000 in Death Valley, including the record of 86,092 for Bowden Bowl I in 1999.
50 gallons of ice cream when we got through. After that it took them three days to do the rest of the field. Then we sat down in the middle of the field and ate up that whole 50 gallons."

Howard said that on the day of the first game in the stadium, "the gates were hung at 1:00 pm and we played at 2:00 pm." But that would be all of the construction for a while. Then in 1958, 18,000 sideline seats were added and, in 1960, a total of 5,658 West end zone seats were added in response to increasing attendance. With the large end zone, "Green Grass" section, this expansion increased capacity to about 53,000.

Later, upper decks were added to each side of the stadium as crowds swelled—the first one in 1978 and the second in 1983. This increased capacity to over 80,000 which makes it one of the 10 largest on-campus stadiums in the country.

The effect spiraling inflation has had in this century can be dramatically seen in the differences in stadium construction. The original part of the stadium was built at a cost of $125,000 or at $6.25 a seat. The newest upper deck was finished in 1983 at a cost of $13.5 million, or $866 a seat.

Through the years, Memorial Stadium has become known as "Death Valley." It was tagged this by the late Presbyterian coach, Lonnie McMillan. After bringing his P.C. teams to Clemson for years and getting whipped, McMillan said the place was like Death Valley. A few years later the name stuck.

On November 16, 1974 the playing surface was named Frank Howard Field for the legendary coach because of his long service and dedication to the University.

Luckily, the stadium wasn’t built behind the Y.

Running Down The Hill
Mark Richt (assistant coach) was talking to Jeff Bowden (assistant coach) telling him what to call. Jeff was screaming at a player not five yards away and that guy couldn’t hear him.

“When we went out to warm up it felt like a National Championship game. When I went back to the team (in the locker room) before the game, I said this is going to be great practice for playing at Florida because this is as loud as it gets.”

Florida State Head Coach Bobby Bowden

“Death Valley really lives up to its image. I was impressed with this stadium. When you put 80,000 people in there, it really feels like they are on top of you. I would hate to be Georgia Tech or whoever else comes in here.”

San Francisco 49ers Quarterback Steve Young

“Clemson’s record at home is not a coincidence. Running down the hill is a part of that record. You get so inspired, and so much of college football is about emotion. You get out of that bus and you hear the roar of the crowd and it gives you chills up and down your spine.”

Former Clemson All-America kicker David Treadwell

“The rock has strange powers. When you rub it, and run down the hill, the adrenaline flows. It’s the most emotional experience I’ve ever had.”

Six-time All-Pro and former Clemson All-American Michael Dean Perry

“Running down the hill is still talked about everywhere I go. Players who played against Clemson when I was in college remember us running the hill and thinking we would gain some type of spirit. The adrenaline rush was unbelievable for a Clemson player and quite a shock for the opponent.”

Former Clemson All-American Jerry Butler

“Last spring (1999), New York Knicks Head Coach Jeff Van Gundy came to Clemson for a coaching clinic. One of the first things he said was, ‘before I leave I’ve got to rub Howard’s Rock.’ So, we brought him to the rock about midnight one night. He rubbed the rock, but he wouldn’t run down the hill. He was a little afraid of that.”

Clemson Head Basketball Coach Larry Shyatt

“It has always been a dream to run down that hill. You get to the top and it’s emotional because you think of all the players that have done the exact same thing that you are doing. When you get to the bottom you look up and see 80,000 people hollering and you realize you have a tradition to live up to.”

FIRST FRIDAY PARADE
The Clemson football season kicks off each year with the annual First Friday Parade. The once-a-year event takes place on the Friday afternoon prior to the first home football game. Floats from various fraternities and sororities and other campus organizations are represented in the parade that rolls down highway 93 in front of the President’s house in Clemson. The parade culminates at the Amphitheater in the middle of campus where the first Pep Rally of the year takes place. The Grand Marshal of the Parade is featured at the Pep Rally. Recent Grand Marshals have ranged from former PGA professional Dillard Pruitt, to College Football Hall of Fame legends Jess Neely and Frank Howard, to noted television announcers Brent Musburger and Ara Parseghian.

Homecoming
Clemson holds a classic homecoming every year. Displays by fraternities and sororities that are months in the making, are built on Bowman Field the week prior to Homecoming weekend. It is an event that draws alumni and friends of Clemson from all over the country.

The Friday evening prior to the game, Tigerama is held in Death Valley, which is an event that attracts over 35,000 fans. It is widely known as the largest pep rally in the world. The Homecoming Queen and her court are presented in addition to Homecoming skits, a pep rally, and a large and loud fireworks display.

The first homecoming game played at Clemson took place on September 30, 1922 when Clemson met Centre. Clemson has a 55-18-3 record on Homecoming games over the years, a 74 winning percentage, and has outscored the opposition 1,609-996 in those previous 76 games. The average margin of victory is 21 to 12. Clemson has been especially successful on Homecoming in recent years, posting a 25-2-2 record since 1970.

HOWARD’S ROCK
When the Clemson team gathers to run down “The Hill”, the players first rub Howard’s Rock because of the mystical powers it is supposed to give Clemson players. The rock is mounted on a pedestal at the top of the hill and was given to Coach Frank Howard by a friend (S.C. Jones 19) who picked it up in Death Valley, CA. The Rock was first placed on the pedestal at the top of the hill on September 24, 1966, for a game Clemson won 40-35 over Virginia. In that game, the Tigers rallied from 18 points down with 17 minutes to play. The team started rubbing the rock for the first game of 1967, a 23-6 win over Wake Forest on September 23, 1967.

The Tiger Paw logo has become synonymous with the University’s athletic teams since its invention by John Antonio. Antonio was an innovative account executive with Henderson Advertising in Greenville, and prior to the 1970 season, unveiled the Paw as Clemson’s new logo. It has shown up all over the country on items owned by Clemson fans from shirts to hats to the now famous “two-dollar bills”. Many institutions with a feline as a mascot have used the logo, or an impression of it.

Antonio also came up with the phrase, “fly the friendly skies of United,” when he worked for the Leo Burnette Agency in Chicago. “I’ve never had a logo or an emblem copied as much as the Tiger Paw,” said Antonio, now 69 and living in Greenville.

Antonio still remembers the day he made the presentation of the Tiger Paw to Frank Howard, then the Clemson Athletic Director. “He wasn’t saying much at all,” recalled Antonio in an article in the Greenville News by Alyce Atkinson on Feb. 16, 1997, “I kind of thought I was losing this fight.” At this point Antonio pulled out an orange football helmet with a tiger paw painted on the side.

“Coach Howard’s eyes got as big as saucers and he smiled. From there it was downhill. Coach Howard wanted that helmet.” Those Tiger paws are still on the Clemson helmets today.

A) O. K. Pressley
B) Bob Jones
C) Goat McMillan
D) Maxcey Welch

$250,000
He blocked a South Carolina punt that was recovered for a TD to lead Clemson to a 29-13 win in Columbia in 1981 on the way to the National Championship:
A) Rod McSwain
B) Johnny Rembert
C) Andy Headen
D) Anthony Rose

$500,000
His block of a 4th quarter punt produced the winning TD as Clemson beat South Carolina 13-7 during the undefeated 1948 season:
A) Frank Gillespie
B) Phil Prince
C) Ray Clanton
D) Gene Moore

Compiled by Dr. Harold Vigodsky

For $1 Million
He picked up the blocked punt in the 1948 victory over South Carolina and returned it 11 yards for the winning TD:

Deliah Arrington

By Annabelle Vaughan
Contributing Writer

Deliah Arrington doesn’t remember a single thing about the first classes she attended at Clemson University. It wasn’t that she was a terrible student or sleeping in class. And no, the professors weren’t that boring. It’s just that she can’t remember back that far. Even though Arrington is only a sophomore, she sat through her first class at Clemson 17 years ago.

Arrington was born the year that her father, Vandel, was a redshirt sophomore on the Tiger football team that ended a Cinderella season with a trip to the Orange Bowl and a national championship. She spent her early years living practically in the shadow of Death Valley, as her family lived in the married housing duplexes on campus.

Now, Deliah is back on the Clemson campus, working to become the second member of her family who is a member of an athletic dynasty at Clemson. As a key player on the women’s soccer squad that has been ranked as high as second in the nation this year, she hopes that one day she too can play on a national championship team.

But don’t expect Deliah Arrington to talk much about her athletic accomplishments, even though they are many. She ranks second on the team in goals and in game winning goals and was named the NCAA Player-of-the-Week after netting the winning goal in the Tigers’ win over top-ranked North Carolina. But you’d have to read all of that in the newspaper. It’s a trait she inherited from her father.

Although most Clemson fans have at least one memento of the Tigers’ national championship season, you could spend a long time with the Arringtons without ever knowing Vandel played on such a nationally-known team. “Football was my everything back then,” remembers Vandel. “I really had things out of line as to which came first in my life and which came second. It was a game, but sometimes I put the game higher than my standards or my family, so God really had to straighten me out. I’m really proud of playing for Clemson, but it’s not life.

“Deliah has always loved soccer and when she was growing up, she would get so caught up in it that I would have to remind her that it’s just a game. Athletics are supposed to teach us about life, but not run our lives. I had to get a balance on that and I’m so proud that she already has that balance. A number of people ask her what her goals and plans are. ACC Player of the Year? Playing pro? And she just says, ‘I want to play. I want to enjoy it.’ She’s got a great attitude about it.”

Deliah was just a toddler when Vandel was finishing up his playing career and working on his degree. And although times were not always easy, his commitment to God helped him make a stronger commitment to his family and to his classwork. So while his wife, Jackie, would go to work on campus, Deliah would often accompany her father to his classes. “She would sit with me and never make a noise,” he remembers. “I’d give her a piece of candy or a toy and she’d sit quietly through the whole class. She was always very mature.”

A couple of years later, after Vandel had graduated from Clemson, the family moved down the road to Central, where they served as house parents at a home for troubled youths. When Deliah was five or six, Vandel felt called to a ministry in Florence, S.C., where he would once again be working with young people.

It was in Florence that Deliah began her love affair with the game of soccer. Her father was coaching her younger brother Lamar on a rec. league team (“I didn’t know what I was doing, but I was coaching,” he laughs. “The kids used to tell me what the positions were. I didn’t have a clue!”). After a couple of seasons, Deliah started playing and soon discovered that she had a knack for the game.

“I was always competitive - very competitive,” she says. “I would have tried hard at anything. It was fun.”

Vandel agrees that his daughter has a competitive streak. “She was always ‘Look, Daddy, look,’ or ‘Look, Mama, look!’ She was always trying to run the fastest or jump the highest. When she started soccer, she would run herself to death and then go to sleep!

“I knew she was good back when she was nine or 10. There was just a difference between her and the other kids. She could run with the little boys. She WAS the team.”

The Arringtons left Florence when Deliah was about to start high school, as Vandel accepted a call to a church in Pawley’s Island. When they moved to that coastal area, they soon discovered that there was not an established soccer program for her to join. But not long after they had moved, a coach from Charleston called and asked her to come down and try out for his team. She made the team and her family made a commitment.

“To this day, I have no idea how they knew about me,” says Deliah. “It was an hour drive down there and an hour drive back and I had to go once a week for practice and every weekend for games. We did that for four years. My Mom drove me for the first two years and then when I started driving, I went by myself.

“There was one time when my Dad didn’t want me to do it because he thought it was too much on me. But I talked him into it because I wanted to play on a good team. I didn’t really beg, but I put on a sad face for him. It worked!”

“She loved it,” says her proud father. “My wife Jackie was a big part of it. She reminded me that I spent a lot of time helping kids and that I needed to make sure I put that same effort into my own. That really stuck with me.”

While Deliah was playing with the Olympic Development Program in Charleston, the coach at Waccamaw High School made an interesting proposition. He asked her to play for his team. The only problem was, it was a boy’s squad.

BCS & Bowl Schedule

Starting in 1998, the Bowl Championship Series (BCS) determined the Division I-A National Champion in football. In the BCS’s first season, Tennessee defeated Florida State, 23-16, in the Fiesta Bowl to claim the national title. Last year, it was Florida State’s turn as the Seminoles topped Virginia Tech 46-29 in the Sugar Bowl for their second national title in seven years.

The BCS Series consists of the Rose Bowl, Sugar Bowl, Orange Bowl and the Fiesta Bowl. Conferences with automatic berths include the Atlantic Coast, Big East, Big Ten, Big 12, Pac-10 and the Southeastern Conferences.

This past January, BCS members voted to extend the BCS agreement with ABC through the 2005 regular season and 2006 bowl season allowing each of the four bowls to host two national championship games.

The BCS also notes the importance of regional consideration regarding team selection. Specifically, as a member of the BCS, the Rose Bowl will host the Big Ten and Pac-10 champions in those years in which either the Rose Bowl does not have the national championship game or the Big Ten and Pac-10 champion is not ranked No. 1 or No. 2. Other “regional consideration” tie-ins include the SEC champion in the Sugar Bowl, the ACC or Big East champion in the Rose Bowl and the Big 12 champion in the Fiesta Bowl.

Any Division I-A independent team or the champion of any Division IA conference which is ranked sixth or higher in the BCS standings, will also be eligible for the Bowl Championship Series. A year ago, more than 1.2 million fans attended college football’s 23 bowl games. This season, there will be 25 post-season bowl games, from the 87th Annual Rose Bowl, to the first-year galleryfurniture.com Bowl in Houston, Texas and the Silicon Valley Bowl in San Jose, Calif.

Who Will Inherit Your Assets?
Your Heirs, Or The IRS?

Prudential can help put you in control.

Did you know that, depending on the size of your estate, current estate taxes can run as high as 55%? That means your loved ones may inherit less than half of what you’ve spent a lifetime building. Let Prudential help you preserve your assets by funding your estate plan.

Learn strategies to help minimize estate taxes. As your Prudential Agent, I can show you how charitable giving and other tax-efficient options can help avoid estate taxes.

Find out why life insurance can serve such a vital role in your estate plan. Did you know that life insurance can provide ready funds for paying estate taxes or help in the equitable distribution of assets among your heirs? I can show you how.

Clemson fans look forward to seeing tough, hard-nosed football when they come to Death Valley or travel to other schools to watch their Tigers in action. But some of the Tigers’ most intense competition and action doesn’t take place on autumn Saturday’s and it doesn’t take place on a field. Take a peek into the Clemson Strength Training Room at almost any time of day, almost any day of the week, at any time of the year, and you will see the Tigers building the foundation for their pursuit of a championship.

Perhaps the most impressive characteristic of the facility is its size. Several years ago, it was enlarged to an astounding 11,000 square feet, making it one of the largest in the nation. In 1998, it was expanded to 14,000 square feet. The facility boasts two full lines of Nautilus machines and over 12 tons of weights. The large number of machines and free weights allows the weight room to be used by athletes from several other sports at the same time, without anyone having to wait in line at a particular station.

Within the last two years the dumbbell area and leg development areas were expanded as well as the nutrition and hydration area known as the Power Station. The Power Station features the energy and recovery drink to aid each athlete’s recovery from intense training.

The plush atmosphere provides an interesting contrast to the physical exertion that takes place in the facility. When an athlete enters the etched glass doors, he is greeted by plush, wall-to-wall carpeting, walls lined with mirrors, ceiling fans, and music from a 26-speaker sound system - a worthy backdrop for well over $500,000 worth of state-of-the-art equipment.

Color television monitors are also positioned throughout the facility. These monitors are used for training and instruction, as Tiger strength coaches film the athletes and work with them on form correction.

The large staff of four full-time strength coaches, four graduate assistants, numerous student assistants, and volunteers ensures that each football player receives proper instruction on the fundamentals of strength and speed development. Training programs at Clemson are position specific and designed to meet the needs and demands of each athlete. Also, each position is appointed a full-time strength coach that serves as a personal trainer for that particular athlete throughout his career.

Hard core training and competition in the weight room and the annual Ironman Classic will help each athlete reach optimal levels in strength and speed development. The Tiger Strength Training and Nutrition Program help each athlete to become a complete player.

After 80 years in higher education, we’ve learned a thing or two about investing.

Let us teach you what we know.

For the better part of a century, TIAA-CREF has been the retirement system of choice for millions of educators and researchers. Now, our low-cost, high-quality personal retirement annuities, IRAs, mutual funds, and financial counseling services are available to everyone.

But don’t just take our word for it. Individual Investor magazine says, “For decades TIAA-CREF has churned out top returns by following disciplined strategies that focus on controlling risk.” Of course, past performance is not a guarantee of future results. Call 800.226-0147 for more information about TIAA-CREF’s products and services, including charges and expenses, or mutual fund and personal annuity prospectuses. Please read them carefully before you invest or send money.

Vickery Hall

Since its inception in 1991, the five-floored Student-Athlete Enrichment Program has provided its student-athletes a continued commitment to excellence. Our approach is to address the total student-athlete, and we are committed to coaching our student-athletes to success (C.A.T.S.) not only in the athletic arena but in the academic, personal growth, career, and service arenas as well. As an original member of the NCAA Life Skills/CHAMPS Program, we provide opportunities and services to address the changing needs and skills of student-athletes in the years during college and after graduation.

Clemson University's commitment to provide its student-athletes with the very best of facilities is evident in many ways. From the soaring upper decks of Memorial Stadium, to the state-of-the-art strength training facility, young men and women from all 19 of Clemson's varsity sports have the very best in facilities for training and competition.

Vickery Hall is no exception, as the $3 million structure is as impressive aesthetically as any of the other facilities. But the importance of Vickery Hall to the Clemson University Athletics Department is not found in the structure itself, but in the many programs that the building houses.

Vickery Hall opened in the spring of 1991 and was the first support facility in the country built solely for the all-around education of student-athletes. The two-story, 27,000 square-foot building is open throughout the day and into the evening to accommodate the extended schedules of student-athletes.

The mission of the Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs is to monitor, guide, and encourage student-athletes to fulfill their long-term goals, and to achieve their academic and career potential.

Vickery Hall focuses on five primary areas to meet the student-athlete's needs.

ACADEMIC COMMITMENT

The academic commitment aspect of Clemson's Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs has provided one of the best academic support and advising programs in the nation.

The proof is in the statistics. A record 227 Clemson student-athletes made the academic honor roll in the fall of 1999. The student-athletes had a record 2.76 GPA in the spring of 2000, just .02 from the overall student body GPA of 2.78. Records were also established for number of President's List and Dean's List students.

In the spring of 2000 the Clemson football team posted a team GPA of 2.49, highest on record. A record 21 players were named to the ACC Academic Honor Roll for 1999-2000.

The Academic Counselors perform a variety of duties to track academic progress. These duties include providing assistance in registration and priority scheduling, contacting faculty, personally checking classes, recording information, counseling sessions with student-athletes, providing diagnostic testing, and directing career aspirations.

One of the most prestigious programs that has received recognition essential to the growth of Vickery Hall is the tutorial program.

Of the 160 programs certified by CRLA, the Clemson Student-Athlete Enrichment Program was one of the first three student-athlete programs in the country to be granted a Level 1 certification from the College of Reading and Learning Association, International Tutor Certification Program. The program was also honored with the National Champs Life Skills Excellence Award in 1999, one of six schools from across the country to be honored.

Having tutor certification allows student-athletes to be provided the highest quality of academic assistance possible. Approximately 80 tutors are hired to provide academic support in the many subject areas offered.

Many postgraduate scholarships and internships are also available to student-athletes continuing their education through postgraduate studies. Our student-athletes are provided timely information regarding these opportunities and the resources necessary to assist in the application process for either scholarships or internships.

The Department of Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs has recognized the need for students to have access to high-quality computing equipment and has made a commitment to provide the student-athletes at Clemson with one of the largest computer labs in the country. Located on the first floor of Vickery Hall is the Microcomputer Laboratory. The lab is open seven days a week, for 16 hours on Monday through Thursday, and a limited time on Saturday and Sunday. During exam periods the lab hours are extended.

The lab staff has a full-time computer manager, and also graduate students, many of whom are pursuing advanced degrees in computer science. Lab staff members are available for tutoring of any Computer Science course, as well as the many management, engineering, and business courses that deal with personal computers.

The Department of Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs is committed to providing state-of-the-art computing facilities. New computers have recently been purchased bringing the lab to a state of the art facility. More than 50 computers are available for student-athletes. All computers are fully connected to the internet allowing for access of computers throughout the world for research and communication.

PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT COMMITMENT
One of the most important programs that helps student-athletes reach their full potential and engage successfully in this college experience is the Personal Growth and Development Program.

One of the key components of this program is the first-semester freshman transition class designed to assist the student-athlete in making a successful transition into his/her university and athletic life. All first-semester freshmen attend a semester-long series of workshops targeting the transitional issues of time management, organizational strategies, health and wellness issues, athletic issues, diversity issues, career orientation, and service training. Throughout the academic year, all student-athletes are required to attend four large-group programs, which focus on pertinent social, health, and athletic issues.

CAREER DEVELOPMENT COMMITMENT
The Career Assistance Program provides student-athletes an opportunity to fulfill career aspirations by participating in various career seminars offered by the staff at Vickery Hall. The philosophy of this program is to provide student-athletes with job-searching skills and strategies, internships, practical experience, and summer employment. These programs are designed to address specific career opportunities and acquire information about the student-athletes for each year.

By using the resources available to the University, Alumni Center, and the Athletic Department, the staff is working to establish a network of businesses, companies, and executives who will help assist with the Summer Employment Assistance Program. The program's main goal is to provide the student-athletes with job experience and a work history, which he or she can apply to his or her academic discipline.

The Career Assistance Program is coordinated from the academic colleges, the Placement Center, and through the Athletic Department contacts. This program is designed to better prepare the student-athlete for full-time employment and focuses on resume writing and interview techniques.

SERVICE COMMITMENT
Providing community and outreach service to student-athletes and the surrounding community by engaging the student-athletes in hands-on interactive programs is an important aspect of the Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs. The staff of SAEP coordinates various activities each year to engage student-athletes in community outreach projects along with academic programs.

Another aspect of the service commitment is that of community service. The purpose of community service is to allow the student-athletes to become involved with the happenings of the community while giving back at the same time. Each year every team is required to perform at least two community outreach projects. Recently implemented was a new community service program entitled Success Away From The Game. The purpose of this program is to combine athletes of different sports in community outreach programs. By doing this, each outreach program participates, thus creating a diverse group of athletes with new and different ideas. At the end of each year, six student-athletes who have demonstrated outstanding commitment and contributions to the community are recognized as the Top Six by the ACC.

LIFELine, another aspect of community service, consists of chosen football players who work together in specific community outreach projects. LIFELine has approximately 20 members along with a president, vice president and secretary. Once a month, these young men meet to discuss future projects. To date, they have sponsored Hi-Five Day, planted a garden at Helping Hands Children Shelter, and held reading programs at elementary schools. These young men have vital roles in both the community and the athletic arena.

To assist our student-athletes in becoming effective service leaders and communicators we provide service and speaking training, which anticipates the demands placed on a student-athlete when he/she might be speaking with a group of young people or also speaking with the media.

ATHLETIC COMMITMENT
Under the direction of athletic director Bobby Robinson, Clemson is undoubtedly one of the elite programs of Division I athletics.

Five Clemson teams ranked in the final top 10 of their respective sports last season, including three spring sports. Last year marked the fifth straight year Clemson has had at least seven top 25 teams. Eleven of Clemson’s 19 teams advanced to postseason play during the 1999-2000 academic year. Sixty Clemson student-athletes earned first-team All-ACC honors, the highest number since 1991-92. With a generous funding base from Clemson’s booster organization, IPTAY, and the forward-thinking of our athletic administration, the Clemson Tigers will continue to be a dominating athletic force, not only in the ACC, but nationally as well.

President Jim Barker congratulates academic award winners from Clemson’s 1999 team at the Athletic Department’s Academic Honor Roll Banquet.

Break From Tradition.

Traditionally, rich aesthetics, cost-effectiveness and color haven't gone hand in hand. If you wanted fashion color, you had to go to a specialty boutique and it wasn't going to be cheap. With Eastman's Chromspun® and Estron® yarns — you can have your cake and eat it too.

Chromspun solution dyed acetate yarn is available in a wide range of fashion colors and can also be produced in custom colors. It complements our popular Estron line of white yarns. Plus, we make all Eastman® yarns in the USA. As a matter of fact, Chromspun is the only colored acetate yarn made in America. That’s a tradition we’re proud of.

Clemson hit the national newsstands in August when TIME magazine named the University as its top choice for “Public College of the Year” in its 2001 edition of its college guide The Best College for You.

Clemson was spotlighted as “on the cutting edge of the communication-across-the-curriculum movement, in which faculty integrate not only writing, but also oral, visual and electronic communication in all disciplines.”

The honor grew out of a $1 million gift from Bob (Class of 1937) and Betsy Campbell, which opened the way for Clemson to become a national leader in technical communication.

Clemson’s Roy and Margery Pearce Center for Professional Communication and Art Young, holder of the Campbell Chair in Technical Communication, followed as primary drivers, but the true distinction of the program is its integration into every academic discipline. It is a remarkable example of what can be achieved through collaboration, faculty innovation and support from private partners.

The TIME honor places Clemson in the ranks of prestigious universities such as Cornell, Sarah Lawrence and Longview Community College — also recognized as “college of the year” in different categories — plus runners up such as the University of Missouri, University of Chicago, Mount Holyoke and Temple University.

If you’re an injured Clemson athlete, you get orders to visit the basement of Jervey Athletic Center.

Basement?!

Trust me, this doesn’t look like any normal basement. This room is big, bright and open. Through the full-paneled glass windows at the back are three hydrotherapy tanks, one large and two smaller. To the right are offices, a big reception area, examining tables and cabinets full of medical supplies. To the left are more cabinets, rows of more padded tables, bikes, stairclimbers, weights and strength machines, offices and tape.

There are TONS of tape. And it is stacked high on the tables. But that comes with the territory.

This brand-new training facility is state-of-the-art. Doctors have offices there, an orthopedic examining room, and there is a conference room and library. There is plenty of room. And room is just what the doctor ordered.

Danny Poole, director of sports medicine at Clemson, was in need of more room before this new training/rehabilitation room was built. Before, there were many chopped-up rooms, thus space to work and rehabilitate athletes was hard to come by.

“This place had been in the planning stage for a while,” Poole said. “We were allowed to design a place to fit what was best for us.

“We basically gutted this place,” Poole continued. “They came in here with Bobcats and tore it up. We moved out down here the last of February last year and moved back in the last of July. We’re just very excited to have this facility.”

Fred Hoover, for whom the facility is named, served as Clemson’s head trainer for 40 years and was inducted into the Clemson and national training Hall of Fame. He is proud of the facility and proud to have his name affiliated with it.

“Mr. (Bobby) Robinson said we needed a state-of-the-art training room that was functional and workable from the trainers’ standpoint,” he said. “We also wanted a training room that would be one of the best in the country.

“When we built the original training room in Jervey, it was incredible at that time,” Hoover remembered. “It was just time to improve on it.”

The training room has not always been in Jervey, however. Hoover came to Clemson in 1959 when the whole athletic department was located in Fike. Thus, the training room was in the basement. (What is it with training rooms and basements?)

At that time, there were only six varsity sports at Clemson: football, basketball, track, golf, tennis and baseball... And they all operated out of Fike.

Hoover and his staff knew they needed a larger area from which to work, and a space was allotted for them when plans for Jervey were being drawn. Hoover and his staff had to operate out of the rooms located at the end-zone of Memorial Stadium for a little over a year until the new training room space was available. Players would have to cross Perimeter Road to go to the training room in their cleats.

Not good for the cleats.

A dirt trail had to be made across the road so the players could get to the training rooms without making their cleats dull. Finally, the trainers moved into Jervey, but the building was still under construction. While Hoover and the rest of the training staff were taking to the athletes, the offices upstairs were still being built. Imagine the racket. When all of Jervey was finally finished, the training room was triple the size of the area they had in Fike.

And last year, they needed to grow again.

The planning stage took a few years, but the result and benefits are amazing. The new center replaced all the original space and took over the space from what used to be a weight room, storage area and a players’ lounge. The steam room

Clemson's new Fred Hoover Training Room is a state of the art facility, that makes life much easier for Clemson athletes and training room employees. and sauna were taken out and replaced by the new hydro-therapy tanks.

Because of the training room’s size, trainers can now work on more athletes than ever before. And the constant flow of traffic that visits the training room is no small potatoes either.

The facility handles athletes from all of Clemson’s sports. Trainers are there at seven in the morning and stay until they aren’t needed any longer in the evening.

Poole has a staff of four full-timers, 13 students and nine graduate assistants that are kept busy all the time. This new area facilitates the flow of athletes that need rehabilitation. However, trainers are always kept busy, even in the so-called “off-season.”

Athletes from all sports except one are treated and taped in the facility. Basketball is the only sport with a separate training room in Littlejohn (as in earlier years), but rehabilitation for all sports is done in Jervey. That makes for a large volume of traffic in and out to see Poole and his staff.

“It never slows up in here,” Poole commented. “The only down-time we might have is in between semesters. Even in the summer there are athletes here; there is no off-season.”

The gutting and new additions to the training room were needed. One of its biggest advantages is the number of people that can be treated at the same time. All the new equipment is a huge plus too. From the underwater treadmills and high-powered jets in the hydro-therapy area to the many tables and openness of the rehabilitation process for athletes in all Clemson sports.

Deliah Arrington

“At first I didn’t want to play with guys and they didn’t want me to play with them,” she says. “But I knew some of them, so I went out there and just played around. Some of the guys were pretty excited about me coming out. It was OK.”

Deliah led the team in goals her freshman year and played half of her sophomore season before quitting to focus mainly on track at the high school level. But while she played on the boys’ team, her father always stood vigilant. “I would stand at the fence, making sure they knew that if they hit her, they would have to deal with me,” says the former hard-hitting cornerback.

In addition to excelling in soccer, Deliah lettered for four years in track, winning three state championships as a senior (100-meter hurdles, long jump, triple jump). She scored 38 of her team’s 39 points at the state championships. But she saw her future in soccer.

“I went to soccer camp at Clemson when I was a sophomore and I fell in love with it,” she remembers. “I didn’t want to come here because my Dad went here, I wanted to come to play soccer. Tracy Leone was an unbelievable coach and it was such a nice place. It was just the whole package. There was never a question in my mind.”

So now Deliah is back to where she started, perhaps attending classes in the same rooms where she sat quietly while her father earned his degree. She had an outstanding freshman season, leading the Lady Tigers in goals, game-winning goals and points scored and her sophomore campaign has been just as successful thus far.

“It was very intimidating at first, because there weren’t many good soccer players in Pawley’s Island. It took me a while to get used to it and find my place. At first I wasn’t playing so well, but then I gained some confidence. I love the soccer. It’s a once-in-a-lifetime chance to play on this team. To travel and play with and against all of these great players is a great experience.”

And even though she is slow to talk about her own accomplishments, Deliah is quick to credit her parents with helping her get where she is today. “My dad and I were always hitting heads because we’re both so stubborn,” she laughs. “But I really appreciate everything my parents did for me. They never pressured me about soccer, they just left it up to me. Now that I look back, the driving we had to do was unbelievable after a while and I know it was expensive to play and travel all the time. They put a lot of time and effort into it and I really appreciate it.”

“I’m so happy for her and proud of her,” says Vandel. “When I look at her, I feel like we did all right. For the past 15 years, I’ve been working with kids and I’ve seen a lot of them don’t make it. It makes you scared for your own kids. That’s why it’s so good that she has found something she loves to do and has a good time doing it. I would love her whether they win or not. I don’t give a flip as long as she’s happy. I’m happy because she is.”

Today in Death Valley is the long anticipated Palmetto Bowl where the Clemson Tigers take on the University of South Carolina Gamecocks. As the two teams battle for South Carolina’s title on the field, the band will be encouraging the fans from the stands.

Festivities will begin with the traditional pre-game show. The first selection will be the “Orange Bowl March” followed by “Tiger Rag” as the band forms the script Tigers. After the “i” is dotted, the pre-game show will conclude with “Washington Post”, “God Bless America”, the “Star Spangled Banner”, and as always the Clemson University alma mater.

Dotting the “i” today is Tiger Band Commander Tarik Pierce. A fifth-year member of the baritone section, he is a native of Florence, SC and a graduate of Wilson High School. Tarik is a senior majoring in Financial Management.

The role of the Tiger Band Commander is to facilitate a good spirit among band members and represent Tiger Band at duty calls. Basically he is the president of the band; but uses the term commander because of Clemson’s military heritage. Dotting the “i” along with Tarik will be his parents Eugene and Yvette Pierce.

For today’s halftime show, Tiger Band salutes one of the most acclaimed American musicals of all time - West Side Story. Music selections will include “Mambo”, “Cool”, and “Tonight”. The band will conclude its performance by spelling out “Mr. B”, in honor of Clemson’s longtime Sports Information Director Bob Bradley, who passed away on October 30.

Today’s performance will be a special one for the Tiger Band graduating seniors as they perform for the last time in Death Valley as a member of Tiger Band. Tiger Band salutes these students for their contributions to Tiger Band and the entire Clemson University Band Program.

“The years of dedication and effort by these Clemson students has been appreciated by all of the members and staff of Tiger Band, and by Clemson football fans as well,” said Dr. Mark Hosler, Clemson Band Director. “Best wishes in the future, and thank you graduating seniors for a job well done!”

Of course, this will not be the final performance for Tiger Band. The Tigers have qualified for a bowl game and look to be headed to sunny Florida for a January 1 match, a game that will be shown on national television.

Don’t forget to pick up your copy of Tiger Band’s most recent CD, Tiger Rag!, at the Tiger Band Office (119 Brooks Center) for $15.00. You can also order it by mail, just send a check (payable to: CUTBA) for $17.00 ($15.00 + $2.00 shipping and handling) to: CUTBA c/o Clemson Tiger Band, 119 Brooks Center, Clemson, SC 29634-1505.

Dr. Mark Hosler directs the Tiger Band. He is assisted by Paul Buyer (Percussion Instructor), Cheryl Hosler (Flag Line/Twirler Instructor) and Tim Willis (Announcer).

Lady Tiger Basketball

By Sam Blackman
Associate Sports Information Director

Chemistry will be the most important subject for the Lady Tigers this year.

With seven returning letterwinners and six newcomers, the development of team chemistry will be the first order of business for the Lady Tigers.

The development of the team’s chemistry will be very important to the success of this year’s team,” said head coach Jim Davis. “We want to get back to playing up-tempo offense and 94-feet in your face defense.” This is the brand of basketball we have been known for playing. In order for us to play this style, we must develop depth. We have enjoyed depth in previous years and this has been a tremendous advantage for us. We want everybody to contribute. In our system, we can’t play seven or eight players; we expect every player to make significant, positive contributions.

For the first time in 13 years at Clemson, our opponents out-rebounded us last season, and that is totally unacceptable. We have to become more dominant on the boards. Our young people will have to grow up in a hurry. I think all our newcomers will make an immediate impact. This could be the best recruiting class we have had since I have been at Clemson.

We will be a little undersized this season, so it is important that we will be fundamentally sound on the inside, have good technique and play bigger than we are. We are going to press more than we did last year. I think the personality of this team will be that of speed, quickness and explosiveness and hopefully a toughness that we didn’t display last year.

Here is how Coach Davis sees the Lady Tigers in various important aspects of the game.

REBOUNDING

“Erin Batth will be the key to our rebounding. With Erin’s leadership on the boards, we are going to have to get it done by committee. Everyone on our team will have to make sure they are involved in the rebounding. On the offensive boards, we are going to have to get some second-chance points from the forwards and the shooting guards. An aggressive mindset will be a key on the offensive boards.”

FREE THROW SHOOTING

“If you recruit good shooters, you are going to have a good free throw shooting team. We dropped off last year, and this area of the game has been a signature of our program throughout the years. We expect to lead the league in free throw percentage. I think this team is capable of that and they will take pride in being good free throw shooters.”

THREE-POINT SHOOTING

“There will be a marked improvement in our three-point shooting this season. Chrissy Floyd, Krystal Scott and Nelia Forns are all capable of being three-point threats. Nelia has been a good three-point shooter during her career. Marci Glenn will certainly be a threat from beyond the arc. Julie Adenhold and LaKeila Stokes are two freshmen who are accurate from the three point line.”

DEFENSE

“Last year, we hung our hat on defensive play. Defensively, Erin Batth leads us and I think that Erin Batth is the best post defender in America. Our speed and quickness should really be an asset in our defense. We must be good in transition to be one of the best teams in the country. We have to limit second-chance points. We have to play every tick on the clock at a high level of intensity. Team work is so very important in playing defense.”

OFFENSE

“We are going to rely more on three-point shooting this season. I expect Erin Batth to really have a good year on the offensive end of the floor. Floyd was our leading scorer last season and a freshman. She gave us a go-to player last season and she hit several big shots. Krystal Scott will be another go-to player in the clutch.”

“I think our outside shooting will be much improved. We will be a better fast-break team. We will be looking to run more. I think the best quality of last year’s team was that we didn’t beat ourselves. We led the league in turnover margin, and our ball handling ability will be better this season.”

Clemson’s Backcourt

Clemson features two returning starters in the backcourt as Krystal Scott (junior) and Chrissy Floyd (fresher) were starters for the Lady Tigers last season. Scott averaged 9.0 points a game and led the team in assists with 106. Chrissy Floyd had a sensational freshman season, as she was second-team All-ACC and led the squad with a 12.3 PPG and 55 steals. She was 162-352 from the field for a .468 shooting mark and was third on the team in assists with 43.

Andrea Gaines and Courtney Wittstruck are upperclassmen who saw action at the guard positions last season and will see plenty of playing time this year. Gaines played in 22 games and averaged 10.0 minutes per game. She finished the season with a 2.5 ppg. average. She has been one of the bright spots of the preseason. Wittstruck played in 16 games last season in her first season with the Lady Tigers.

“Krystal Scott is our returning starting point guard,” said Davis. “This season, she will see action at both guard positions depending on how quickly the other guards mature. Krystal had a very good sophomore year and her upper body strength along with her ability to go inside and post up allows her to score with her back to the basket. She was our most improved player last year and we have high expectations for her this season.”

Chrissy Floyd is coming off a banner year. Chrissy provided us with an offensive spark almost every game. Her explosiveness enables her to be effective off the dribble, and her hard work has resulted in a more consistent three-point shot. With her physical growth, I believe Chrissy will be one of the premier players in the ACC.

Andrea returns for her senior campaign, and I have high hopes that the experience she gained her first three years will allow her to emerge as a leader at the two guard spot. She is suited to the up-tempo offense that we expect to play this season.

“Courtney Wittstruck came into some pressure situations and played well. She overcomes her size with great determination and desire and toughness. She truly fights like a Tiger and inspires her teammates with her intensity.”

“Marci Glenn is the most versatile player we have had at Clemson since Courtney
Lady Tiger Basketball

Floyd was one of the top freshmen in the country last year.

Johnson (1988-92). She can play every position. When she got to Orono, she played on the guard spot along with Andrea Gaines." Glenny is a transfer from UCONN and brings considerable experience to the Clemson lineup.

Clemson added two newcomers to the backcourt as Kaneta Queen and Lakeia Stokes are both freshmen. "We are very pleased with Kaneta Queen's potential. She is out of the same mold as Iboro Umoh. She has the speed and quickness and she is a very good decision-maker. She distributes the ball very well, and I think she will emerge as a leader on this team very early in her career. Her personality indicates that she can lead effectively.

"Lakeia Stokes has great size for a two guard. She is a very well-rounded player. She handles the ball extremely well. Lakeia shoots well off the dribble and beyond the three-point line. She is a great athlete and her athleticism, size, and reach will make her a very good defender.

"This is a talented group of guards. I think we are very athletic and very deep at both guard positions. I would not be afraid to use any of them at any time in a game."

Clemson Frontcourt

Starters Nuria Forns and Erin Batth return for their senior seasons. Batth was named to the All-ACC Defensive team last season and according to Head Coach Jim Davis is one of the best if not the best post defender in the country. Batth led the team in rebounding last season with a 7.4 RPG mark. She was also the team's second leading scorer with a 9.3 PPG average. She was also third on the squad in steals and finished the season with a team-high 91 offensive rebounds.

"When you look at her offensive numbers, you have no indications of her value to our team. If you were to ask any of our opponents over the last two years, I believe they would list Erin as a big problem in trying to score against her. Offensively, her size and speed result in many layups and her quick feet and jumping ability enable her to gain position for many offensive rebounds. Erin is a leader in blocked shots each year in the ACC, and she has great three-point shooting range."

Nuria Forns returns after starting 30 games last season for the Lady Tigers. Forns averaged 7.2 points per game and led the Lady Tigers' fifth leading scorer. She also had 59 assists and 37 steals last season. "Nuria has been one of our leading three-point shooters through her career. At 6-1, she has the size to shoot over many of her defenders. Her improved ability to shoot off the dribble makes her a tougher matchup. We expect a really good senior season from Nuria."

Jamine Moton returns after playing 16 games her sophomore season. She averaged 3.6 minutes per game as a reserve in her first year on the Lady Tiger squad. "Jamine is not as tall as most post players, but plays much bigger because of her upper body strength and power in her legs. After a couple of years' layoff, Jamine picked up the basketball last year and made great strides. She has a double digit scoring game in our first exhibition game, so it is apparent she is a much improved player."

Heather Crowe played in 12 games after an injury-plagued season. She averaged 4.6 minutes per game and proved to be an outstanding rebounder. "Heather Crowe will be counted on to provide quality play at the small forward position. Her theater is the best 'pure shooter' on our team. She will spread defenses and is capable of having a big night on the offensive end. Her ball handling skills have improved, and she will adjust to the physical play in the ACC."

Marci Glenny sat out last season after transferring from Connecticut. The junior averaged 3.0 points a game and dealt out 78 assists in her 52 games. She is the top program in women's college basketball.

"Glenny will get an early look at the power forward position, but is also capable of playing any of the three perimeter positions as well."

"Since she plays the game with an all-out effort, Marci, although highly skilled, will emerge as a leader on our team because of the maximum effort she gives in practice and games. Glenny is sold in every aspect of the game."

Julie Aderhold, Liz Holbrook and Maggie Stosser are the freshmen joining the Lady Tigers in the post position. Julie comes to Clemson after a stellar career at McMinn Central High School where she was chosen AA Max Preps Basketball in the state of Tennessee. She is very capable of being a 'do it all type player.' She can handle the ball, and is a very consistent player with range. She is a very good passer and a solid defender and will pull down the rebound in traffic.

"At 6-2, Liz is strong enough to play the power forward position, yet skilled and athletic enough to play the small forward. She loves to rebound, which is a definite need, and her athleticism and aggressiveness may earn her lots of playing time early. She can score from 16-18 feet in and runs the floor extremely well. Maggie had a great career at Poland High School. The left hander is the prototype Clemson power forward. She runs well, scores with her back to the basket and has a nice touch from 15-18 feet. The quality that I like best is her toughness. The more physical the play-the better Maggie likes it. We need that kind of toughness at the forward position."

Although we are young and Erin and Nuria are our only seniors in the post, it is important that we grow up in a hurry. I believe our post players are athletic and talented. Our success in the front court depends on how quickly they adapt to the physical play in the ACC."

Clemson Lady Tiger Tennis

By Anne Miller
Assistant Sports Information Director

Clemson Women’s Tennis Coach Nancy Harris is once again cautiously optimistic about the upcoming season. The Tigers return seven of nine letterwinners from last year’s 15-7 squad, including five starters. That team was among the most improved programs in Clemson history and the most improved program on the Clemson athletic landscape in 1999-00.

As Harris pointed out, “Clemson was the most improved team by rank last year. This team reversed its 7-15 record from 1998-99 and posted a 15-7 record last season. We have great experience and talent returning, although as always, keeping the players healthy will be the key to the season.”

Co-captains and seniors Carmina Giraldo (Colombia, South America) and Christina Oldock (Naples, FL) are expected to lead the Tigers in the 2000-2001 campaign. Giraldo, the ‘Tigers’ top player last year, enters this season with a #20 national singles ranking and as the ACC’s reigning number one singles flight champion. As a junior, Giraldo recorded a 29-8 overall record with several wins over top 20 players throughout the season. She won 18 of her final 22 matches. “Carmina loves to compete and wants to do the very best not only for herself but also for the team. She is truly the cornerstone of this team and is a great asset now and for the future of the program,” said Harris. “She is a great ambassador for Clemson as a student-athlete. Carmina excels not only on the court, but in the classroom as well.”

Oldock underwent shoulder surgery last fall and is now playing the best tennis of her career according to Harris. “Christina is developing her game style more fully now that she is able to play relatively pain-free. She is a strong baseliner who has the potential to play the net as well. Christina is always positive and is a great team leader who should play in the top six this season.”

Sophomore Renata Brito (Rio de Janeiro, Brazil) will also play near the top of the lineup this year after posting a 14-8 record last season. Brito was 5-4 in the ACC with wins over North Carolina, Virginia, Florida State and Georgia Tech. She also won her match over Fresno State’s Renee Kopa Jones 7-5, 6-3 in the Tiger’s NCAA Tournament match last year. “Renata is potentially the next cornerstone of our program because of her leadership abilities. She is an exciting, enthusiastic, all-court player who is willing to be a team player,” said Harris.

Harris also looks for junior Anna Savitskaya (St. Petersburg, Russia) to have a successful season. “Anna had a good fall last year but battled some major injuries in the spring that hindered her performance. She is in much better physical condition now and should be able to compete at the level she is capable of achieving. Anna is one of the greatest athletes I have ever coached, and I am looking forward to seeing her compete healthy. She has a lot of heart and will give everything she has to every match.” Savitskaya had a strong 8-4 fall season in 1999-00.

Sophomore Laurence Jayet (Le Cannet, France) will be a major contributor for the Tigers in both singles and doubles. Jayet was 24-14 overall last year and recorded a 6-2 mark in ACC singles matches. She is also an outstanding doubles player who posted a 12-3 record with Brito last spring. Their only doubles loss in the ACC was to a Wake Forest team who won the match in a tiebreaker, 9-8. “Laurence plays with a lot of emotion and is a very coachable athlete,” said Harris. “She trains as hard as possible and is a positive role model for the entire team.”

Fellow sophomores Sunnie Harmon (Greenwood, SC) and Ana Stiglic (Kensington, South Africa) along with transfer Milena Stanoytcheva (Tifton, GA) and freshman Ashlea Bowen (Lawrenceville, GA) will complete this year’s lineup.

“Sunnie truly lives up to her name,” said Harris. “She is always happy and is a great team player. Sunnie is a great student of the game and I am very pleased with how her game is progressing.”

Ana Stiglic saw limited action last season, but is expected to contribute more this year. “Ana was a highly ranked junior player who has some great weapons,” said Harris. “Once she gains more confidence and learns to be patient, she will be more effective and could be a great impact player for us.”

Milena Stanoytcheva, a transfer from Abraham Baldwin Agricultural College, will join the team in January. “Milena is an exciting recruit. She was the junior college national champion and should fit into our top four,” said Harris. “Milena is a strong athlete with a great attitude. She is also a solid student and will be an all-around contributor to our program.”

Freshman Ashlea Bowen joined the Tiger tennis team this fall. “Ashlea knew she wanted to play tennis here at Clemson as a child,” said Harris. “She is a very disciplined player with an outstanding work ethic. I am looking forward to seeing her contribute to the team’s success this year.

“Our goal is to help Clemson become a top five team in the nation. We will grow into that, but we must make sacrifices and the commitment to accomplish that goal.” One way the Tigers hope to achieve that goal is through their scheduling. Clemson will have some great competition and hopes to take advantage of having over half of its scheduled matches at home. The schedule will be challenging for Clemson, both in and out of the conference, with matches against NCAA Champion Georgia as well as perennial in-conference powerhouses Wake Forest, North Carolina and Duke.

“This is a very dynamic and strong group of women,” said Harris. “As a team, they should be very effective and successful, much as they were last year. With the combination of the experienced returning players and the new talent coming in, I am excited about what we can accomplish this season.”

Bradley served Clemson in a sports information capacity for 502 consecutive games, a mark that probably will never be broken.

this nature don't exist (if anyone would have kept them it would have been Mr. B). The attendees at the funeral included the ACC Commissioner John Swofford, athletic officials from South Carolina (Including Dr. Mike McGee), Georgia and the other ACC schools, former Clemson coaches, current Clemson coaches, athletes and administrators, legends of sports writing and broadcasting.

"The attendees included 40 of his former student assistants and full-time assistants, people who traveled to Clemson on one day's notice, from all over the country. Rich Murray, the sports information director at the University of Virginia since 1983, drove seven hours, attended the services, then drove seven hours back to Charlottesville.

"The Saturday after his funeral, the Florida State athletic department acknowledged Bradley's contribution to ACC Athletics, by observing a moment of silence prior to the Clemson vs. Florida State football game in Tallahassee. I've never heard of a school honoring someone affiliated with the visiting team in that nature.

"ABC sports aired a testimonial to Mr. B during its November 4 broadcast. What was unusual was that Clemson wasn't even playing in the game, it was shown during the Maryland vs. NC State contest.

"On Saturday, October 28, he was presented the Order of the Palmetto, the highest honor a resident of the State of South Carolina can receive. The award was presented in his hospital room.

So, why did veteran sports writers struggle to fight back tears at NC State's weekly football press conference when they were told the news of Mr. B's passing?

Bob Bradley treated everyone with the same high level of respect, that is why he received so much respect in return. Noted author John Feinstein once told me that Mr. B treated him the same whether he was a student writer with Duke Chronicle or a features writer with Sports Illustrated.

I witnessed countless examples of this in the 23 years I worked for him and with him. He must hold the record for most tires changed for members of the media after a sporting event. He also fixed a parking ticket now and then, respect from Clemson policemen that media members REALLY APPIRICATED. He always carried jumper cables in his car trunk so he could help a member of the media when car lights were left on while covering a Clemson event.

Everyone who came into the Clemson press room, no matter what the sport or circulation of the publication was greeted with a friendly, personal, firm handshake. It was the personal touch, those intimacies, that made Mr. B special.

He had an impact on the careers of coaches, student-athletes in all sports, broadcasters and sports writers. He had a big impact on the Clemson fans also. Why do you have a strong love for this institution and its athletic teams? Why do you know about Frank Howard, Howard's Rock, Running Down the Hill, Banks McFadden, Jeff Davis, legendary Memorial Stadium? Stories, press guides and books that Bradley authored probably have a lot to do with those feelings.

United Methodist Church Minister Rev. Dr. George K. Howle, who gave a terrific eulogy to Bradley at his funeral (words equaled only by the thoughts of Mr. B's grand daughter Amanda), said it best. "Bob Bradley is the spirit of Clemson.

Bradley was layed to rest on November 1, All Saints Day in the Catholic Church. Bradley was Methodist, but it seemed a fitting day for the many Catholics who worked for him. That night 23 of us went to dinner to celebrate his life. We all told personal stories of how he had an impact on our lives.

My personal favorite had nothing to do with work. Back in 1984 I had just bought my first house. I was having a plumbing problem, so I called Mr. B to get a recommendation on a plumber who could fix my problem. An hour later, Mr. B showed up at my front door in an old pair of overalls with plumbing equipment in both hands.

Jerry Arp... you sure were right about Mr. B!!

Testimonials to a True Clemson Man

"He was a very unique person. Not many people have the ability to touch so many people like he did. He was a real treasure for Clemson, the state of South Carolina and intercollegiate athletics." - Bobby Robinson, Clemson Athletic Director

"We lost "a giant" in our business and in our society." - Marvin Skeeter Francis, former Wake Forest Sports Information Director

"What John Wooden is to basketball coaches, Bob Bradley is to sports information directors" - Mark Cohen, Wolford Sports Information Director

"Not many people have ever done their jobs as well as Bob Bradley did his. People across this country do business every day that business try to measure up to the Bob Bradley standard. And it was a high standard." - Wilt Browning, former sports editor of the Greensboro News & Record and the Asheville Citizen Times.

"If you ever wanted to write a definition of loyalty to a school, it would be Mr. Bradley. No one loved Clemson like Mr. Bradley did" - Former Clemson Basketball Coach Rick Barnes

"He was always a source of strength and information when you traveled because he simply had been through everything imaginable in this league. He told bus drivers how to take shortcuts to the gym." - Larry Shyatt, Clemson Head Basketball Coach

"I'm in this field because of Mr. Bradley. I thought I was going to be a sports writer until I called him out of the blue about working for him. He talked to me like he was my grandfather." - Annabell Vaughan, Sports Information Director, NC State University

"I have only been at Clemson a year and a half, but it is obvious to me that Bob Bradley was a special person in this school's history. I will always remember giving him the game ball after the Duke game in celebration of his 500th consecutive game. He will be missed by everyone." - Tommy Bowden, Clemson Head Football Coach

"Bob Bradley has been a fixture in the Atlantic Coast Conference since its inception and his work as the SID at Clemson has been one of the reasons the conference and Clemson University have achieved our strong and positive reputation both regionally and nationally." - John Swofford, Commissioner of the Atlantic Coast Conference

"Every morning I put on this Clemson ring. It is a little more special for having known Bob Bradley." - Bob Peele, Lt. Governor of South Carolina

By Tim Bourret
Sports Information Director

In 1978, I was given the opportunity to interview to be the assistant sports information director at Clemson University. My prospective supervisor was already a sports information legend named Bob Bradley (henceforth known as Mr. B), so I was a little nervous. He had just recently won the Arthur Ward Award as the Man of the Year among college sports information directors on a national basis. He had been President of CoSIDA (College Sports Information Directors of America) and was already in the CoSIDA Hall of Fame.

It didn't take me long to realize that I need not have anxious feelings. I interviewed with Mr. B on a Saturday afternoon in his office in the five-year-old Jervey Athletic Center. He took me to "Mac's Drive In" for lunch and he told me all about the history of Clemson (a lot of Frank Howard stories), something I knew a little about because I had traveled to Clemson the previous fall with the Notre Dame football team. He made this Connecticut Yankee feel right at home.

During the course of the weekend, I met with the late Jerry Arp, then the personable promotions director at Clemson. He had been Mr. B's assistant in the early 1970s. At the end of our interview he told me Clemson would be a great place to start my career because I would be, "working for a person who would treat me like a son."

On the plane ride to South Bend, that last comment struck me. A 22-year-old graduate student at the time, I hadn't been through a lot of job interviews, but it certainly seemed unusual that a virtual stranger would tell me that my prospective boss would treat me like a son.

When I returned to work that Monday at Notre Dame, I met with my boss, Roger Valdiserri, himself a legend in the profession, and he told me how much he respected Mr. B and that he would be a great person to work for, especially for my first job out of school.

Respect is the first word that comes to mind when I think of Bob Bradley. Recently, his name has been on my mind and in the thoughts of thousands of people who follow Clemson and college athletics. He passed away this past October 30 after an heroic three-year battle against bone cancer.

His desire to attend Clemson sporting events and serve his University was an inspiration to everyone. During the 2000 NCAA Baseball Tournament at Clemson, on consecutive days, he went through a chemotherapy treatment at 1:00 PM and was at the baseball press box to serve as official scorer by 2:00 PM.

His drive to reach 500 consecutive Clemson football games worked was a demonstration of physical and mental toughness that I will remember the rest of my life. The last two weeks of the streak he spent Monday to Thursday going through radiation and chemotherapy treatments, followed by rest in bed. Late in the week he would take some steroids and by Saturday he had a smile on his face as he made it to the press box. He kidded that he would not have been allowed to compete in the Olympics in Sydney this year. I don't know if they keep national medical records, but Mr. B went through 136 chemotherapy treatments during his courageous battle.

Earlier this year I wrote a story in this program about Ring of Honor recipient Dale Davis, calling him the toughest Clemson athlete I had ever seen. That was a list of former Clemson athletes. The only person who might be tougher than Mr. B is his wife Louise, known as Mrs. B to all, who personally greeted (standing) all 600 people who attended her husband's funeral on November 1. They were quite a couple for over 47 years.

During his 34 years as Clemson’s Sports Information Director and his over 45 years serving the athletic department and Clemson University, Mr. B sought ways to document the accomplishments of Clemson athletic teams and its players. In this business you do that through extensive research, or by providing interesting stories that prove your point, something he did as well as anyone in the business.

Here are some facts surrounding the events of his final days that give credence to the claim that Bob Bradley was one of the most respected and admired administrators in the history of this institution.

"When he reached his milestone 500th consecutive Clemson football game at Duke on September 30, the Duke Athletic Department waived a 60-year rule prohibiting the posting of banners in Wallace Wade Stadium. They figured Wade himself, a personal friend of Frank Howard, would have wanted it that way. IPTAY proudly posted "Congrats on 500 Consecutive Games Mr. B," in full television view."

I have only witnessed the media give applause at an athletic event in a media facility on three occasions. The first was for Arnold Palmer after he gave his post-round press conference after his final round of US Open play. The other occasions were at the Duke University Press Box when Mr. B reached his 500th consecutive game, and the following Saturday when we honored him at Clemson for that accomplishment. When you look at what Bradley did for the integrity of Clemson Athletics, you could make a case that he was the Arnold Palmer of Tiger sports.

"Over 600 people attended his funeral at United Methodist Church in Clemson on November 1, 2000. Attendance records of..."

"Building a strong relationship starts with trust. Trust that is earned. Yeargin did what they said, on time, on budget. We are impressed and so are our customers. Thanks!"

M.D. Clayton, General Manager
Precision Weaving, Inc.

When Precision Weaving, Inc., a division of the Marmon Group of Chicago decided to build a new 80,000 sq. ft. manufacturing plant in South Carolina, they chose Yeargin Construction, Inc. to manage their design and construction.

Yeargin's design/build experience, client-focused win-win attitude, and cost effective approach to the job were deciding factors.

The fast-track partnering effort between all the team members resulted in a first-class facility for Precision Weaving, Inc., built on schedule and within budget. A true win-win relationship for all.
