2002 Tiger Senior Class .... 7
Senior Spotlight
The 2002 senior class is a group that has brought consistency to the Tiger program. For the first time since the seniors of 1991, this group will appear in a bowl game each of their four seasons. That is a significant accomplishment considering the program came off a 3-8 season in 1998.

Jerry Butler ................. 9
ACC 50-Year Anniversary Player
Forever associated with "The Catch," Jerry Butler was one of nine former Tigers named to the ACC 50-Year Anniversary team. The high school player who was not highly recruited went on to make the most memorable catch in Tiger history and a prominent NFL career with the Buffalo Bills.

Willie Underwood .......... 11
Greatest ACC Performances
The 1980 renewal of the Clemson-South Carolina rivalry produced one of the most unlikely heroes in the history of Clemson football. Willie Underwood, former starting strong safety for the Tigers, left a lasting mark on his career at Clemson in the greatest performance by a Tiger defensive back in history.

Terry Kinard ................. 13
ACC 50-Year Anniversary Player
It was a reunion, or even a homecoming of sorts. The players were diverse. The setting was an August, 2002 weekend in South Bend, IN. The event was the College Football Hall of Fame induction ceremony. One of the inductees was former two-time Tiger All-American Terry Kinard.

Senior Walk-Ons .......... 49
Senior Spotlight
Six walk-on seniors, who have meant more to the football program than people imagine, will don Tiger uniforms for the last time today in Death Valley. Toby Albright, Eugene Koon, Brett Sherman, Scott Wade, Matt Watson, and Anthony Williams beat the odds to become valuable squad members.

Welcome to the 100th Game

This is the 100th meeting between Clemson and South Carolina. The series dates to 1896 and the first year of football at Clemson, the fourth season for South Carolina. Clemson holds the advantage 59-36-4 since that first meeting in Columbia. Since Josh Nov. Kansas-Missouri 1902 Nov. Nov. a Nov. Nov. Oct. True Throw tive Gms on homa longest a Nov. Clemson-South Carolina Matchup Clemson-South and Kansas and Kansas State played for the 100th time, so the Clemson-South Carolina series will tie it for 14th on the list.

This will be the 94th-consecutive year that Clemson and South Carolina have met on the gridiron, every year since 1909. It ranks as the fourth-longest uninterrupted rivalry in college football history and third among active rivalries. The only active rivalries that are longer are the Kansas-Nebraska rivalry (active since 1906) and the Minnesota-Wisconsin rivalry (active since 1907). The Kansas-Oklahoma rivalry ran 96 consecutive games before it was interrupted after the 1997 game.

Top-10 Unusual Facts About the Series
10. Both coaches who have won bowl games for South Carolina will be on the field today on opposing sidelines. Brad Scott was the first South Carolina head coach to win a bowl game when he took the Gamecocks to victory in the 1994 Carquest Bowl over West Virginia. Current South Carolina Head Coach Lou Holtz has taken South Carolina to bowl wins each of the last two years, both times against Ohio State. The Buckeyes have not lost since the Gamecocks defeated them 31-28 in last year’s Outback Bowl.
9. The visiting team won seven consecutive years in games played between 1921-91.
8. Josh Cofield had a 4-0 record for Clemson against South Carolina between 1927-30. He is the only coach in the series to have a perfect record, given a minimum of three games coached.
7. Paul Williams is the last player to letter for both schools. He lettered for Clemson in 1978 and for South Carolina in 1980.
6. A Clemson captain actually played for South Carolina. Cary Cox lettered for the Gamecocks in 1943. After the war, he enrolled at Clemson and served as captain for the Tigers in 1947.
5. Since 1989, seven different coaches have served both schools. The list includes current Clemson Offensive Coordinator Brad Scott. Tommy West (now head coach at Memphis), Miles Aldridge (now an assistant coach with the Buffalo Bills), David Bibeau, Rich Bisaccia (now an assistant coach with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers), Woody McCorvey (now at Tennessee) and Chuck Reedy.
4. In 1948 and 1981, a blocked punt returned for a touchdown proved to be the pivotal play in a Clemson win, victories that allowed Clemson to go on to an undefeated season. In both instances, the original line of scrimmage was the South Carolina 28-yard-line.
3. Willie Underwood had two intercceptions to lead Clemson to victory over South Carolina in 1980. A starter for four years, the strong safety never had recorded an interception in any of his first 46 games as a Tiger, then had two against the Gamecocks in his 47th and final game.
2. In a placekicking career that spanned five years, Bob Pauling made 107 of 109 extra points. Both of his misses were at South Carolina, one in 1981 and one in 1983. He had a streak of 70 consecutive made extra points in between the two misses.
1. In 30 games that Frank Howard coached at Clemson against South Carolina, Clemson scored 411 points and South Carolina scored 411 points.

Miller Fifth Nationally In Interceptions

While this is ‘Senior Day’ at Clemson, one could make a case that the best player on the Clemson team right now is a first-year freshman. Justin Miller had one of the best all-around games in Clemson history for a defensive back in the loss to Maryland last week. The first-year freshman from Owensboro, KY had two interceptions, a pass deflection, two caused fumbles and five tackles. Additionally, he returned four kickoffs for 152 yards, including a 76-yard return that led to a field goal.

So far this year, Miller has seven interceptions, including four over the last three games. He ranks fifth in the nation in picks, first among freshmen in that category. His two thefts against Maryland marked the first time since 1989 that a freshman had two interceptions in the same game. Robert O’Neal had two at Duke that year, ironically also a True freshman Justin Miller has a remarkable seven interceptions and eight pass breakups against with a 37.5 yards per kickoff return average.

Today's Game

South Carolina Update

South Carolina enters Saturday's game with a 5-6 record. Lou Holtz's team is in need of a victory to become bowl eligible for the third-straight year. South Carolina has never been to a bowl game three consecutive years. That will certainly be motivation for the Gamecocks, who are coached by a man who has taken six different programs to bowls. Holtz has 238 coaching victories in his career, tied for eighth in Division I history with former Ohio State Head Coach Woody Hayes. Hayes coached his final game at Ohio State against Clemson, in 1978.

Aaron Hunt, a Lou Groza Award semi-finalist, has made 10 consecutive field goals and 15 of 18 overall this season. The junior has made 35 of 46 in his career.

South Carolina has lost four games in a row and has been outscored 107-31 in those four games. The Gamecocks rank 45th in the nation in rushing and are coming off a game in which they gained 197 yards on the ground against a very good Florida rush defense. Clemson gave up 285 yards rushing against Maryland, so that will be an area South Carolina will attempt to exploit.

South Carolina's top rusher is Corey Jenkins, a former professional baseball player who has 655 net yards on 160 attempts, a 4.1 average. That is an impressive average considering he is a quarter- back and must take sacks that hurt his average.

Andrew Pinnock is second on the club in rushing with 495 yards. Like Jenkins, Pinnock also scored four touchdowns.

Jenkins is the top passer over the season with round numbers of 100 completions and 10 interceptions in his 180 attempts. Donnell Pinkins started last week against Florida and could be the signal caller tonight, as Jenkins gets work in the secondary. Pinkins, who made his first career start at Florida last week, is 24-51 for 252 yards and a touchdown.

The top receiver for South Carolina is Ryan Brewer with 27 catches for 288 yards. He has been injured of late, but is certainly a threat as a receiver and kick returner. Michael Ages is second on the squad with 19 catches for 303 yards. Troy Williamson leads the team in touchdown receptions with three.

South Carolina has been solid on defense, ranking 34th in the nation in scoring defense. The Gamecocks combine the defensive effort with the eighth-best net punting figure in the nation to frequently win the field-position battle. Dunta Robinson is a player in the secondary Clemson will have to worry about the entire game. He has four interceptions to lead the club. Jonathan Martin is the top tackler with 114. Lance Laury is second on the team in tackles (88).

Langston Moore is a strong player up front with 55 tackles, including a team-best 9.5 tackles for loss. George Gause has 52 stops and four sacks.

Hunt 11th in Nation in Field Goals

Clemson junior placekicker Aaron Hunt continued his outstanding season against Maryland last Saturday night. Kicking in rain and slick-field conditions, Hunt made 4-4 field goals, hitting from 29, 35, 22, and 42 yards. He scored all 12 of Clemson's points. It marked the second time this year he had a 4-4 day in terms of kicking field goals.

For the season, the Lou Groza Award semi-finalist is 15-18, an outstanding .833 figure. He has actually made 15 of his last 16 field goal attempts after missing his first two of the year at Georgia. His only miss since the opener was a 49-yarder against Georgia Tech. He has made 11 straight inside the 36-yard line and 10 in a row overall.

Hunt is currently 11th in the nation in field goals per game with a 1.50 figure. He has played in just 10 of the 11 games, due to the fact that he did not enter the contest in the N.C. State game earlier this season. Hunt has now made 35 of 46 attempts for his career on field goals, a 76.1-percent mark. The Tiger career record on a percentage basis is held by Bob Pauling, who made 34-41 from 1979-83, an 82.9-percent mark.

With the 12 points against Maryland, Hunt now has 78 points for the year, tops on the Clemson team. He has 227 points for his career, sixth in Clemson history and just five points from moving into fifth place past former All-American David Treadwell. Hunt has 122 extra points in his Clemson career, an all-time school record.

Clemson Has Played 11th Toughest Schedule

Clemson has a 6-5 record against a schedule ranked as the 11th-most difficult in the nation by the Sagarin computer poll, a rating published by USA Today. Sagarin is one of the computer rankings used by the BCS standings.

Clemson has losses to three of the top-12 teams in the nation according to the ranking, Florida State, Georgia, and Maryland. Clemson's highest-schedule ranking in the history of the Sagarin poll is a #7 rating in 1999, Tommy Bowden's first year at Clemson. Clemson was 6-6 that year, but still had a final top-25 ranking (24th) according to Sagarin's computer rankings. Clemson's highest-overall final ranking by Sagarin is #15 (2000).

Congratulations Strom Thurmond

We close our final today's game of the season with a happy birthday wish to South Carolina Senator Strom Thurmond. After 48 years as a Palmetto State senator, the former Clemson cross country runner and member of the Clemson athletic Hall of Fame will retire in January. He will celebrate his 100th birthday on December 5. Senator Thurmond has attended this rivalry game for many years and we wish to thank him for his service to the state of South Carolina.

We dedicate this page to the 2002 senior football class. It is a group that has brought consistency to the Tiger program. For the first time since the seniors of 1991, this group will appear in a bowl game each of their four seasons. That is a significant accomplishment considering that when most of them came to Clemson, the program was coming off a 3-8 season, its worst record since 1976.

These 22 players (15 scholarship and eight walk-ons) have had many highlights. First, there was a victory over a top-20 Virginia team in Death Valley in 1999 in just the second game of the season. Later that season, Clemson defeated South Carolina 31-21 in the season finale to clinch a bowl berth, an accomplishment few thought Clemson would reach in Tommy Bowden’s first year. That team faced the 10th-toughest schedule in the nation that year, including games with undefeated teams in Marshall, Virginia Tech, and eventual National Champion Florida State.

The 2000 season featured an 8-0 start, Clemson’s most consecutive wins to start a season since 1981, when Clemson won the national championship. The run included a win at North Carolina, in which the Tigers overcame a 17-point deficit, the second-greatest comeback in Tiger history. Clemson was ranked as high as #3 in the nation, Clemson’s highest ranking in any poll since 1984. The regular season concluded with a 16-14 victory over rival South Carolina, a top-25 team.

This group’s junior season was disrupted by the events of September 11. By the end of that month, Clemson upset #9 Georgia Tech in Atlanta by a 47-44 score in overtime. It was Clemson’s highest-ranked road win since 1981. The following week, this group helped pave the way for Woodrow Danzl’s 517-yard performance in a 45-37 win at N.C. State. This year, the winning has continued, as the Tigers strive for a seventh victory this season and a third for then-senior leadership in the Gamecocks. Here is a rundown on the current scholarship seniors. The walk-ons members of this class are featured on page 49 of this program.

Altroy Bodrick is our personal favorite in this class in the sports information office, because he has worked for us in his “spare time” over the last year and a half. Bodrick is probably the most well-versed Tiger football player when it comes to knowledge of all sports. On the field, he has overcome a torn ACL (suffered in the preseason last year) to rank tied for ninth on the team in tackles this season. Speaking of torn ACLs, offensive tackle Derrick Brantley has played in just two games this year due to a season-ending injury against Louisiana Tech in the year’s first home game. Tiger fans realize how big a negative impact that injury has had on the Tiger offense this year. Watch films of the 2001 Humanitarian Bowl and his block by the sideline that sprung Roscoe Crosby for a long touchdown reception and you will get an idea of his athleticism. Gary Byrd has more career starts and more plays than any other offensive member of this class. A red-shirt who actually played in a game in 1998 before he was injured, he has been a mainstay of Clemson’s offensive line. Clemson’s 2000 and 2001 offenses rank first and second in school history, respectively, and he was a common denominator on both lines.

Nick Eason gets a lot of attention for his community-service work off the field. Justifiably so, because he is the only ACC athlete to be chosen as a Top Six Award winner each of the last four years. But on the field, Eason is a leader, emotionally and statistically. He has seven sacks this year and 58 tackles overall, one of the top figures among ACC defensive tackles. His seven sacks are the most by a Clemson tackle since Trevor Pryce had 7.5 in 1996. Pryce is now an All-Pro defensive tackle.

We are not sure if Tony Elliott should be included in this article. The transfer from Air Force Prep School in Colorado actually has another year of eligibility. He has not decided whether or not he will return as a graduate student to play one more year. A walk-on with a 3.5 career GPA, Elliott has made many big plays this year, including a 44-yard touchdown catch against Georgia Tech in a five-point Clemson victory.

Rodney Feaster is a native of South Carolina who wants to finish his career with a winning record against the Gamecocks. He made his only career start at South Carolina in 1999 and recorded a sack, helping Clemson to victory. Feaster has been a reliable player who contributes on special teams and on scrimmage plays. His 39 tackles this year have put him over the 100 mark for his career.

Graham Gillespie is one of five active Clemson players with an undergraduate degree who will be playing in his final home game today. He is another player who has had to overcome a torn ACL, but he is a four-year letterman who has played just about every position on the offensive line, including tight end. He saw his most action as a Tiger against Maryland when Cedric Johnson was injured. He could get his first career start today.

Only one player on the Clemson roster has played in the bowl game victory. Ryan Kopp played his first two years at Georgia, where he played in bowl wins over Virginia and Purdue. After last year’s win over Louisiana Tech in the Humanitarian Bowl, Kopp hopes to make it four in a row this season. The only author on the Clemson team, Kopp has 15 punts inside the 20 this year, most by a Clemson player since Ryan Romano had 15 in 1999.

Brian Mance might be the most improved defensive player on the Clemson team this year. In fact, he might have the most legitimate All-America candidacy among Clemson’s senior class. He ranks in the top 20 in the nation in interceptions and leads the Tigers in passes defended (16). His ESPN SportsCenter moment took place against Wake Forest, when he forced a fumble on a late Demon Deacon drive to seal Clemson’s 31-23 win.

J.J. McKelvey might be the most improved offensive player on the Clemson squad this season. Originally a defensive player at Clemson, McKelvey is the most productive non-starter on the Clemson team and perhaps the entire conference. Now among the leaders in the ACC in receptions and reception yards, he leads the team in touchdown receptions and has turned into Clemson’s big-play performer. No one will forget his 63-yard reception on a fourth-down play in the final two minutes at Georgia Tech in 2001.

When Bryant McNeal came to Clemson, everyone said he was the second coming of Lorenzo Bromell, a Clemson defensive end in 1996 and 1997 who now plays with the Minnesota Vikings. McNeal has lived up to that comparison and then some. He now has seven sacks this year and 15 over the last two years, more than Bromell totaled his two years as a Tiger starter.

Eric Meekins has been a starter each of the last two years in the secondary who also doubles as a run stopper. He is third on the team in tackles this year, and with an extra game on the schedule, has a chance to reach 100 tackles this year. Along with McNeal, Meekins has a chance to break the Clemson record for career games played. He and McNeal will tie the Clemson record (48) once they take a snap against South Carolina.

Bernard Rambert patiently waited his turn at running back and, despite an injury-plagued senior year, has been productive. He had 101 yards rushing and 78 receiving in the Humanitarian Bowl, the top all-purpose game in Clemson bowl history for a running back. After a 106-yard rushing game at North Carolina, he is obviously finishing strong.

Jackie Robinson is another leader of this class in all phases. He is the president of Clemson’s LifeLine organization, the football team’s leadership organization. Leadership must be a class at Orangeburg-Wilkinson High School, because Robinson follows Woodrow Danzl’s role at that position at Clemson. The top blocking wide receiver on the team, Robinson has had a consistent career, with nearly 50 receptions for over 500 yards.

Jeff Scott grew up rooting for Clemson’s prime rivals, Florida State and South Carolina, as his father, Brad, was coaching at those institutions in Jeff’s formative years. But, when Brad Scott came to Clemson as offensive coordinator, he changed his allegiance. One of Clemson’s most valuable performers from a special-teams standpoint, he has nearly a 10-yard rushing average on fake field goals over his career. He plans to follow in his father’s footsteps in a football-coaching career.

Rodney Thomas has more tackles than any active Clemson player, and many of them have been memorable hits. Few have seen a harder hit on an opposing quarterback than the sack he registered on North Carolina quarterback C.J. Stephens two weeks ago. Thomas is now challenging for the ACC lead in tackles this year with over 12 per game.

Tim Bourret is Clemson’s Sports Information Director and is in his 25th year at Clemson.

Jerry Butler

by Shipp Daniel

Note: Clemson had more players chosen to the ACC 50-Year Anniversary Football team than any other school. Throughout the season we have highlighted the careers of all nine former Tigers who were named. Today we feature Jerry Butler.

Today's game marks the 21st time that the gridiron battle between Clemson and South Carolina has been aired on television. There have been quite a few exciting games, but perhaps none more exciting than the first televised confrontation.

It is a pleasant 64 degrees on Saturday, November 19, 1977. There are 56,410 fans in attendance to watch the Gamecocks (5-5) play host to the Tigers (7-2-1).

At the half, Clemson is up 17-0 thanks to two rushing touchdowns and a field goal. But, in the second half, the real drama begins.

After scoring 20 unanswered points, South Carolina quarterback Ron Bass finds wide receiver Philip Logan over the middle. Logan sprints 40 yards down the left sideline to score, and the extra point is good, giving the Gamecocks a 27-24 lead and adding seven more points to the unanswered column. The crowd goes wild, as do the Gamecocks, as they are penalized five yards for delay of game after celebrating in the endzone.

We are in the fourth quarter, and the game clock reads 1:48.

Gamecock kicker Eddie Leopard kicks off from the 35 yard line, and Clemson's Willie Jordan returns the kick 26 yards to the Clemson 33.

First-and-10: Clemson quarterback Steve Fuller drops back to pass and is run out of bounds after a one-yard gain.

Second-and-Nine: Fuller throws complete to Warren Ratchford over the middle, gaining two yards. Clemson calls a timeout with 1:18 left.

Third-and-Seven: Fuller throws complete to Rick Weddington for a 26-yard gain.

First-and-10: Fuller, scrambling from the South Carolina 38 yard line, throws out of bounds.

Second-and-10: Fuller throws complete to Dwight Clark over the middle. It is an 18-yard gain.

The clock reads 0:55.

First-and-10: Fuller drops back from the 20 and connects with Jerry Butler in the left side of the endzone. "The Catch," as it will be called in the future, ultimately gives Clemson a 31-27 win over the Gamecocks and, at the same time, immortalizes Butler.

Only a short two years earlier, Butler had no idea he would be wearing a Clemson football uniform.

In late July of 1975, coaches from all over the ACC area gathered for the North-South All-Star game in Columbia, SC. The game, which is now played at Myrtle Beach in December, was the final high school event of the year and a final showcase for soon-to-be first-year freshmen.

Ninety percent of the participants were highly recruited signees from the previous February who were ready to join Division I schools from all over the Southeast. But, at one juncture of the game, a wide receiver who had not signed a football scholarship with any school took over the game.

Jimmy Kiser, a future ACC assistant football coach, threw a pass over the middle to a wide receiver named Jerry Butler of Ware Shoals High School. Butler turned on the speed and raced untouched 70 yards for a score. The college coaches, who were not familiar with the track star, took notice and collectively asked, "Who is that guy?"

That included the Clemson coaches. Much to their glee, they discovered by the end of the evening that Jerry Odel Butler was in fact coming to Clemson...on a track scholarship.

He ended up running track and playing football at Clemson. Most people do not remember him for winning the 1978 ACC title in the 60-yard dash. Most people also do not remember him beating one-time world record holder Harvey Glance in a qualifying race of the NCAA Indoor Track Championships in 1977. Most people remember him for "The Catch."

Recently, on a trip back to Clemson as Director of Player Programs for the Cleveland Browns, Butler reflected on the drive leading up to that memorable play. "Phil Logan had just made a great catch," said Butler. "He got way up there to catch it, and then had to jump over a couple guys to get into the endzone. I looked up at the scoreboard really fast, did the math, and figured out that we were going to be down. I was like, 'Oh my gosh.'"

"We got together as a group before we went out on the field and talked about what we needed to do," Butler recalled. "We knew exactly what we needed to do. We had enough time and we had the weapons, so we went out there. Steve (Fuller) hit Warren (Ratchford) and Rick (Weddington). We got a first down, and then Fuller came back with one to Dwight (Clark). We were in a hurry-up mode, which may have messed them up a little.

"Then, I was supposed to run a corner route; but when I broke through the coverage, I saw that the safety had cheated over, so I bent it out a little in case he threw it over that way. He did throw it up that way, and I jumped as high as I could and came down with it. I surprised myself. It's not that I had a great game or anything; I didn't catch many balls (Butler had three catches for 66 yards). I just did what I could."

That "I just did what I could" attitude he showed serves as a good summation of his personality. "Jerry Butler is always Jerry Butler," he said of himself. "I'm not a person that lets success or failure alter who I am. If I fail, who I am brings me up to success. If I'm successful, who I am keeps me grounded. I think it's my belief in God and my spiritual foundation that keeps my soul planted in the right way. My biggest joy is trying to be a person of value, a person of character, strength and encouragement, a great father. I try to lead in that respect."

The member of Clemson's Ring of Honor has always been a leader by example. He's also never been one to brag about his accomplishments, and there are plenty to brag about.

Butler was an All-American selection in 1978 and was considered the nation's premier college wide receiver that year. That same year, he finished third in the balloting for ACC Player-of-the-Year.

Butler played nine years for the Buffalo Bills, garnering many honors during that time. A first-round draft pick (fifth overall), Butler was named AFC Rookie-of-the-Year in 1979.

In 1980, he was named to the Pro Bowl. That same year, he established a football league for inner-city youth. In 1981, he was named the Bills' "Man of the Year" for community service. After sitting out the 1984 season due to injury, Butler averaged 18.8 yards per catch on 41 receptions in 1985.

In 1986, he won the Ed Block Courage Award, an award given to the most courageous player on each of the 28 NFL teams. His last catch as a professional was a 25-yard diving touchdown catch versus the Miami Dolphins. Although he suffered a broken leg on the play, Butler still held on to the ball.

Butler was recently named to the ACC's 50-Year Anniversary team, and he handled that award just as one would expect. "That was pretty neat," said Butler. "There are a lot of players who have played in the ACC and in the NFL. To be recognized after that much time has passed is amazing. Either the selection committee was made up of really old people, or I'm just really lucky."

In truth, Butler is not really lucky, and the selection committee was not made up of really old people. He has earned every bit of what he has been awarded.

Butler, who is married to Paula, and father to Jerry (16) and Chrissy (14), is simply a man of character. "Jerry Butler is the most humble, gracious, wonderful guy I've ever met," said former Clemson Assistant Sports Information Director and Orange & White founder Al Adams. "There aren't many like him."

Shipp Daniel, a junior from Dillon, SC, is a student assistant in the Clemson Sports Information Office.

Butler, who was named one of the 50 best players in ACC history, went on to earn AFC Rookie-of-the-Year honors in 1979.

Willie Underwood

by Philip Sikes

Note: Each program this year, we have reviewed the greatest games in Clemson history by position. Today we recall the greatest game in history by a Clemson defensive back.

The 1980 renewal of the Clemson-South Carolina rivalry produced one of the most unlikely heroes in the history of Clemson football. Willie Underwood, former starting strong safety for the Tigers, left a lasting mark on his career at Clemson.

The 5’11”, 193-pound Underwood had two interceptions and totaled 17 tackles on his way to the greatest performance ever by a defensive back in Clemson history. The irony of his miraculous effort was that Underwood had never intercepted a pass in 46 previous games at Clemson. However, the senior went out with a bang in this 27-6 Tiger victory.

The Gator Bowl bound Gamecocks came into the contest ranked #14 in the nation and were heavily favored over Danny Ford’s 5-5 Tigers. However, it became apparent early in the contest that the game would prove to be much harder for South Carolina than most had expected.

Underwood’s first big play came late in the second quarter with Clemson leading by a score of 6-3. The Gamecocks decided to go for a fourth-and-one on Clemson’s 32-yard line. But, Gamecock tailback and eventual Heisman Trophy winner George Rogers was met at the line of scrimmage by Underwood, who wrapped the All-American up for a loss and preserved the 6-3 lead for Clemson.

“In a situation like that, I try to read the play and go for a tackle,” Underwood told reporters after the game. “Luckily, I got through and was able to take him (Rogers) down low.”

Underwood struck again with 4:25 left in the third quarter. With the score tied 6-6, he stepped in front of a Garry Harper pass and returned it 64 yards to set up the game’s first touchdown. Homer Jordan dove in from one yard out to give the Tigers a 13-6 lead heading into the fourth. The play provided Clemson with some much-needed momentum.

“It was even until then,” Underwood said of his game-breaking interception. “It was tied, and the way both teams were playing it could have easily gone either way. The interception picked us up because we realized we could win. It was contagious - you could feel it on offense and defense.”

Less than two minutes later, Underwood again came through with a big play. He intercepted his second pass of the game. But this time, he made the most of it. He raced to the endzone untouched from 37 yards out to give Clemson a 21-6 lead.

“On both interceptions I was looking for the same thing,” he said. “I looked for the curl pattern first and then broke for the flat. When I saw the first interception coming, I thought I could take it all the way. But I started getting tired and somebody caught me. On the second one, there was no doubt – it was touchdown all the way. I waited a long time for an interception. I guess it couldn’t have come at a better time.”

For his efforts, Underwood received numerous accolades. He was named National Defensive Player-of-the-Week by Sports Illustrated. He was also the ACC Defensive Player-of-the-Week. He was the recipient of the R.F. Poole Award, an honor presented annually to the best offensive and defensive player of the Clemson-South Carolina game.

Underwood’s selection for the Blue-Gray All-Star game capped his Clemson career.

Underwood’s 101 interception return yards remains a Clemson single-game record to this day. His performance garnered plenty of praise from Head Coach Danny Ford, who could have been happier for his defensive back from Fort Payne, AL.

“He certainly went out in great style today,” Ford said. “He’s been starting for us for the last four years, and he saved his best performance for last.”

The 1980 game against South Carolina also marked a first for Clemson football. Orange pants were worn for the first time, thanks in large part to Underwood and linebacker Jeff Davis. The two had urged the coaches earlier in the season to introduce Tiger fans to the new pants.

“Several weeks ago, Jeff (Davis) and I were kidding around with the idea of wearing orange pants,” Underwood joked after the game. “It sounded like a pretty good idea to the coaches, so we ordered them and kept it a secret just for this game. Maybe it helped.”

Davis, Ford, Underwood, and equipment manager Len Gough were the only people who knew of the pants until just before the game.

Underwood waited 47 games for his first career interceptions, including a 37-yard interception return for a score. His 101 return yards still stand as a Clemson record.

From the opening kickoff, it was obvious that Clemson was intent on winning its final game of the season. The seniors wanted to go out with a win and preserve a winning season. Underwood and his teammates put pressure on themselves to maintain pride for the team as well as Clemson’s fans.

“We knew they would try to pass a lot on us,” Underwood said after the game. “Our secondary has been vulnerable, but we worked hard this week. We were determined not to let (Gary) Harper beat us back there.”

Underwood was known for his leadership abilities. As captain of the team, he led both by example and vocally. In this particular game, his desire to win overcame the pain from which he was suffering. He played the game with strained muscles in his neck and shoulder. As a result, he had an electrical device attached to his shoulder during the contest. The device, called SIMPULSE, transmitted electrical stimulations into his battered areas.

“Desire to win and passion to improve are some of the things that stand out when thinking of Underwood. But his legacy in Clemson football was left when he scored that 37-yard touchdown in the fourth quarter. While it may be the way almost everyone envisions going out, few actually do it. For Underwood, it was the only way he would allow himself to go out.

As all Clemson historians know, that victory over South Carolina jump-started Clemson for the 1981 season. The Tigers went on to a 12-0 season and won the National Championship. Although he did not play during that year, many members of the that team will say Underwood’s performance against South Carolina in 1980 had quite a bit to do with Clemson’s success the next year.

Perhaps teammate and fellow defensive back Jack Cain summed up the performance better than anyone. He mentioned the respect that Underwood received from his teammates as well as the unparalleled leadership that he exhibited on that November afternoon.

“Willie went out in style, and I’m really happy for him,” Cain said. “He’s our team leader and he’ll stick you on every down. I really respect him.”

PROUD TO SUPPORT THE TIGERS
Note: Clemson had more players chosen to the ACC 50-Year Anniversary Football team than any other school. Throughout the season we have highlighted the career of all nine former Tigers who were named. Today we feature Terry Kinard.

It was a reunion, or even a homecoming of sorts. The players were diverse. Age, race, and even sex (a daughter represented one who had passed on) knew no boundaries at this gathering.

The place and the reason for the meeting was the important point to note. The setting was an August, 2002 weekend in South Bend, Ind., just two miles from famed Notre Dame Stadium where a Clemson freshman once starred, and the reason for the gathering was the College Football Hall of Fame induction ceremony.

A love for the game of football was what brought everyone together, and like the laces on a football, it is the stuff that binds these and other football fans so tightly to all that is mystical and magical about the gridiron game.

Already armed with a wealth of accolades, former Clemson All-American Terry Kinard, known as “Special K” during his playing days, was one of the 25 honorees this season. A strong Kinard family and Clemson contingent, including myself, joined him for this special event.

This weekend was the culmination of a year of celebration of Kinard’s incredible career. First, in November of 2001, he was inducted into the Clemson Ring of Honor at the nationally-televised Clemson-Florida State game, the highest honor a Clemson athlete can receive. The celebration was also tied to Clemson’s 20-year reunion of the 1981 National Championship, so all of Kinard’s teammates were on hand.

Then, in December, he traveled to New York and the Waldorf Astoria for the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame banquet, a black-tie affair that featured over 100 former Hall of Famers. It was a fitting scene for Kinard, who was a Pro Bowl defensive back with the New York Giants during his professional career.

Then, in July, he joined eight other former Clemson players with his selection to the ACC 50-Year Anniversary team. Clemson had the most selections in the league on the prestigious team with nine, but Kinard was Clemson’s leader in terms of voting points.

Why all the accolades and selection to the College Football Hall of Fame? Quite frankly, he might be the best football player in Clemson history. We do not want to go to those Banks McFadden fans or Fred Cone fans angry, but Kinard’s level of accomplishment is unprecedented in many ways.

His 17 interceptions still stand as a Clemson record. He was a first-team All-American in 1981 and 1982, the only two-time First-Team AP All-American in Clemson history. He was named first-team All-American in 1982 by every service, the only unanimous All-American in Clemson history. At year’s end, he was honored as the CBS National Defensive Player-of-the-Year, the only Tiger ever to win a national award of that magnitude. Since the conclusion of his career, he has been named to the college football All-Century team by Sports Illustrated and to the college football All-1980s team by USA Today.

All of the honors brought great joy to Kinard, but this trip to South Bend had to be the most enjoyable because it was a family affair. As fellow inductee Keith Jackson said, “The thing that impressed me the most about the weekend was the fraternity of college football. It brings people of all ages and backgrounds together. The formal ceremony and announcement in New York in January was great, but this truly was a family gathering.”

It was certainly a family affair for Kinard as well. Among the attendees was his mother, his biggest fan. She even got to watch her son play football one more time. A feature of the weekend is the annual East-West flag football game on the artificial turf field in front of the College Football Hall of Fame. Kinard excelled once again, leading the East team to victory along with former Notre Dame quarterback Ralph Guglielmi, who at age 72 threw a touchdown pass to win the game on the final play. Seeing Kinard on the field with Guglielmi was quite a thrill for me. While I promoted Kinard and the “Special K” campaign in 1982, my father was the Notre Dame football student manager when Guglielmi was a senior All-American quarterback for the Irish.

Kinard had an interception in the victory, his third in the city of South Bend. As a freshman in 1979, he burst on the national scene with two interceptions in the fourth quarter to stop a Notre Dame comeback and lead Clemson to a 16-10 victory.

The weekend also included a golf tournament (yes Kinard is improving his golf game), an induction breakfast on Friday morning that featured a stirring speech from Jackson, a breakfast, and press conference along with the induction dinner on Saturday.

Each Hall of Fame inductee spoke at some point at a function during the weekend festivities. Kinard took his turn at the microphone at the Saturday morning press conference. He offered his perspective on his playing career and his football experiences, as well as the opportunities the game provided to him.

The following is what Kinard said when he gave his speech to the media, fans, and other Hall of Fame inductees:

“I would like to first give thanks to the Hall of Fame for this prestigious honor. I stand before you a prime example of what football can do for many people. I’m here because of the foundation that was given to me a long, long time ago. I started as a little country boy from the small country town of Sumter, South Carolina. I never really dreamed that something like this could happen to me. I was just tickled to death to be able to play football. It was something I enjoyed doing and it has always been a part of my life. Coming from a small school in Sumter and to be given the opportunity to go to college was something that I wanted to do.”

“To be able to go on and continue to play athletics, especially football, was great. I was given the opportunity to go to, in my opinion, one of the greatest universities in the nation in Clemson University. They offered me a scholarship and I was so proud that I chose to go there because it was a continuous learning experience for me.

“The foundation that was given to me in high school was enhanced at Clemson. The people that I met at Clemson will always be there for me, no matter what I’m doing in life. These are the things that I remember and they have added to my foundation, and made me the person I am today.

“Clemson gave me an opportunity to play football and I’ve met a lot of people through the game because it truly is a wonderful sport. I’d like to think that you gain from the experiences that you have from college, and through all the great people you meet in football. Fortunately, there are people from the Clemson teams when I played that I still stay in contact with today.”

“Regardless of what you’re doing in life, those experiences and those people I’ve met through college football have made me what I am today. For me to be standing here before you today, being inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame, is something that I never imagined would have happened to me. But I’m here and this is probably the greatest gift that anyone could possibly give me.”

“Football is a game, but those years of practice, studying of playbook, and hours of sweat yield so much more than what can ever appear in the win-loss column. It is the friendships made and the lessons of life that are learned that build character and transform athletes into heroes for future generations to admire.

“The entire weekend of the College Football Hall of Fame enshrinement ceremonies brought this feeling to the forefront. It certainly put Terry Kinard’s career in perspective for himself and for those of us who worked with him.

“Thanks for the memories, Terry.”

Clemson GPA Nears All-Time High

The Clemson football team had a 2.56 team GPA for the spring semester of 2002, second best on record behind the 2.58 achieved in the spring of 2001. Each of the top-five semester GPAs achieved by the Clemson football program have taken place within the seven semesters Tommy Bowden has served as head coach. Nine Clemson football players graduated in May, meaning 18 of the 22 seniors who dressed for the 2001 Humanitarian Bowl now have degrees.

Clemson Has Eight Graduates on 2002 Roster

The 2002 Clemson team broke a school record before the first kickoff of the season. This year’s team has eight graduates on its roster, a record for a Clemson squad. The list includes three players who still have eligibility left in the 2003 season, also an unprecedented accomplishment.

Clemson quarterback Willie Simmons, starting defensive end Khaleed Vaughn, and starting right tackle William Henry are listed as graduates on the roster, but still have the rest of this year and 2003 in terms of eligibility. Simmons received his degree last May, accomplishing his course requirements in just three years and three summer schools. That is the earliest a Clemson scholarship football player has ever graduated.

Vaughn and Henry both graduated this past August and still have the 2003 season to play. Both have started this season and been important contributors the entire season.

The list of graduates on the 2002 Clemson team includes starting wide receiver Jackie Robinson, starting roverback Altroyn Bodrick, starting defensive tackle Nick Eason, and starting offensive left tackle Gary Byrd. Nathan Gillespie is a reserve offensive lineman who also has his Clemson diploma. Eason graduated in August of 2001, so he also had his degree with two years to play.

The previous high for graduates on a Clemson football team was seven, set just last year. By the end of the 2002 academic year, 18 of the 22 seniors on the 2001 football team already had their degrees. Two of those players are in school this year and plan to graduate by May of 2003.

It is pretty impressive when you are warming up on the field and listen to the starting lineups being announced," said Head Coach Tommy Bowden. "We have eight graduate students on our team, but six or seven of them are starters. It gets your attention and says a lot for our program at Vickery Hall and the character of our young men."

Bowden Teams Have Top-3 Honor Roll #’s

Clemson has had 80 ACC Academic Honor Roll selections in the last three years, the highest three-year period in history. That says something about the commitment Tommy Bowden has made to academics. Each of the three highest single-accademic years in terms of ACC Academic Honor Roll selections has come under Bowden.

The list of players currently on the Clemson roster who have made the academic honor roll include Jackie Robinson, the president of Clemson’s LifeLine organization has been named to the ACC Academic Honor Roll each of his four years at Clemson. If he is named to the list for a fifth time, he will join an elite list of Clemson athletes, regardless of sport, who have done it five times. The last football player to do it was Andye McCrorey, who played for the Tigers from 1991-95.

While they are no longer on the Clemson team, Chad Carson and Kyle Young certainly deserve a lot of credit for these positive numbers during the Tommie Bowden era. Both were three-time academic All-Americans at Clemson, the only three-time selections in Tiger history. Young became the second three-time, first-team selection in ACC history and was just the second offensive lineman in college football history to be chosen three times.

Carson was a first-team selection twice and second-team choice as a sophomore. As a senior, he was a finalist for a Rhodes Scholarship, the only Division I football player in the nation who made the final 100. He and Young were both recipients of the ACC Weaver-James-Corrigan Scholarship. Carson is back at Clemson taking graduate courses and plans to go to medical school. Young is currently studying for his doctorate degree at Virginia Tech, where he also works in their office of NCAA compliance.

82.4% Graduation Rate for 1996 Entering Class

Clemson has eight graduates on its current roster, one of the top totals in the nation. The list of signees who entered Clemson in 1996 also had an outstanding graduation rate. Of the 17 Tigers who entered as scholarship players that fall, 14 have graduated, an 82.4 percent graduation rate. When the NCAA releases its rates for that class next fall, Clemson should be among the national leaders. The class includes a perfect 9-9 in terms of graduates among African American signees for that year. No other school can top that 100-percent rate.

Members of that class who have their Clemson degrees are Terry Bryant, Gary Childress, Rod Gardner, Jason Holloman, Freddie James, Mal Lawler, John McDermott, Harold Means, Theo Mougros, Ryan Romano, Shaun Sullivan, Justin Watts, Terry Witherspoon, and Brian Wofford.

It is interesting to note that the study does not include athletes who entered in January. Two other first-year Tigers who started their careers in January of 1996 and graduated are Jason Gamble and Mike Seth. They are not included in the figures.

Nick Eason was named to the AFCA Good works team in 2001 for his community service work and is one of eight current starters already with a degree.
Building a Future for Clemson

President James F. Barker

Clemson University’s 14th President, James F. Barker, is first and foremost an architect. So it comes as no surprise that he came to the office with a clear blueprint of Clemson’s future in mind - a future built around such ideas as collaboration, community, and quality.

A 1970 Clemson graduate, the former dean of the university’s College of Architecture, Arts, and Humanities was named president in October 1999, having outlined for the Board of Trustees a vision of making Clemson one of the top-20 public universities in the country. From that vision came the development of a set of 10-year goals adopted in 2001 – goals that are already showing results, including:

- a 70 percent increase in research support over two years, earning Clemson a ranking as one of the nation’s top 100 research universities;
- a capital campaign that raised $295 million;
- the enrollment of Clemson’s brightest class ever, with an average SAT approaching 1,200;
- recognition in 2000 as Time Magazine’s Public College-of-the-Year for its innovative communication across the curriculum program.

Barker earned his bachelor of architecture degree from Clemson University and his master of architecture and urban design degree from Washington University in Saint Louis, MO. Before returning to Clemson in 1986 to serve as dean of the College of Architecture, he was dean of the School of Architecture at Mississippi State University. In 1995, he became dean of the new College of Architecture, Arts, and Humanities, which was created after a comprehensive reorganization and has received national attention as a new model in education.

He is a recipient of the National Distinguished Professor Award of the Association of Collegiate Schools of Architecture and served as president of that association. Barker was named Fellow of the American Institute of Architects. He also has been a partner in an architectural practice.

He has been awarded honorary doctoral degrees from S.C. State University and Mars Hill College, and has served on the Truman Scholars selection committee. He currently serves on the Commission of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, the region’s accrediting agency.

At Clemson, Barker co-founded the South Carolina Design Arts Partnership to support community design outreach projects, initiated the Charleston Architecture Center, established the university’s “Arts in April” program, and developed a Mayors’ Institute to help city leaders learn how to manage issues related to growth and development.

Despite his responsibilities as president, Barker remains committed to the classroom. Each spring, he is part of a team that teaches an undergraduate course exploring “a sense of place” in architecture, literature, and history. Success in athletics is important to Barker. The former high jumper at Clemson is omnipresent at Tiger athletic events and follows all of the school’s programs closely. He recently directly chaired the three-person committee that hired new athletic director Terry Don Phillips.

The Barkers, Jim and Marcia, have two sons, 18-year-old Britt, a senior at Daniel High School in Clemson, and Jacob, 28, who works for an advertising agency in Greenville, SC. Jacob received his undergraduate degree from North Carolina, where he was also a member of the baseball team. He earned his master’s degree from Clemson in 2002 and worked in the sports information office while he was pursuing that degree.

A New Era Begins

Terry Don Phillips is the newest addition to the Clemson athletic family, but he is no stranger to the world of college athletics. The long-time administrator and teacher is charged with the duty of leading Clemson into the new millennium. He will undoubtedly call on his vast experience in all areas of athletic administration to address the challenges set forth in the University’s vision statement to become a top-20 public university.

The three-person committee charged with finding a replacement for retiring 17-year Athletic Director Bobby Robinson found a perfect match for Clemson University in Phillips. His resume is one of the most impressive, well-rounded personal documents in college athletics.

Academically, Phillips has an undergraduate degree from Arkansas (1970), a master’s degree from Virginia Tech (1974), a doctorate from Virginia Tech (1978), and a law degree from the Arkansas School of Law (1996). He is a member of the Arkansas Bar and the American Bar Association. Phillips has also served in an adjunct faculty role at his previous stops and plans to continue to teach a course in legal studies at Clemson.

From an experience standpoint, Phillips has worked in just about all phases of college athletics. He served as an assistant football coach at Virginia Tech, supervised Spring sports and student-athlete enrichment at Florida, handled athletic fundraising and facility enhancement at Missouri and Arkansas, and has 15 years experience as an athletic director, including 13 at the Division I level.

When it comes to success on the field and in the classroom, Phillips’ programs have been among the best in the nation. The achievements of the Oklahoma State program during his tenure (1994-02) included a pair of national championships in men’s golf, a men’s basketball Final Four, two trips to the College World Series, 13 Big 12 Championships, and 11 individual national champions. Academically, it had 53 academic All-Americans from 1995-02.

Phillips knows the importance of rivalries and Oklahoma State notched four football wins over arch-nemesis Oklahoma in his tenure in Stillwater, including a 16-13 victory in 2001 against the defending national champion and #4 Sooners. Before his arrival in 1995, the Cowboys had just three wins over Oklahoma in the previous 48 years. The Cowboys also won the first-ever Bedlam Championship in 2001, the all-sports competition between the two.

From a facilities enhancement standpoint, Phillips has significant experience, an important aspect to his new job at Clemson, where facilities improvements and corresponding fund-raising challenges command his attention immediately.

In Stillwater, the program compiled a long list of successful facilities projects, including the completion of nearly $65 million in new construction.

Gallaher-Iba Arena, the Cowboys’ basketball arena, was expanded from 6,000 to 13,611 seats, and 14 suites were added. It was named the best college venue in the nation by CBS Sportsline. An equestrian center, softball stadium, women’s soccer complex, golf training facility, and indoor baseball softball facility were also a part of a broad range of facility improvements.

Phillips also supervised the planning of a $50 million renovation to Oklahoma State’s football stadium that will add 2,300 club seats, 12 suites, and rebuilt concession, restrooms, press, and concourse areas. Additionally, Phillips and his staff raised approximately $20 million for capital projects, the most in the school’s history, a $9 million budget increase to nearly $23 million, and a $1 million deficit reduction while expanding programs to conform with Title IX.

The Longview, TX native also knows how to attract and lead members of his community. He initiated the Orange Peel Rally, a student-produced spirit rally before the first Oklahoma State home football game that averaged approximately 20,000 in attendance. His blueprint for the event was Clemson’s Tigerama, which had impressed him in 1978 when he made his first trip to Clemson with the Virginia Tech football team.

The athletic program also started the Best of America Rally that introduced grade-school age youngsters to Oklahoma State University.

Phillips is the Chair of the NCAA Division I Infractions Appeals Committee, which serves the appellate role for all University and individual appeals arising from the Committee on Infractions. He also serves on the Olympic Sports Liaison Committee.

Before leading Oklahoma State, Phillips served as senior associate athletic director at Arkansas from 1988-94. He ran the daily operations for and oversaw the football programs, and was president of the Razorback Foundation.

Phillips was also athletic director of the University of Southwestern Louisiana from 1983-88 and Liberty College from 1980-81. He was an assistant athletic director at Missouri from 1981-83 where he supervised athletic fund-raising. George Bennett, current Clemson Executive Director of IPTAY and a leader in that field, met with Phillips when he first accepted that position. Phillips began his administrative career in 1978 as an assistant athletic director at Florida, where he worked with Spring sports and student-athlete enrichment.

Phillips also has considerable experience in coaching. He began his coaching career as a graduate assistant at Arkansas from 1970-71. He then moved on to Virginia Tech as an assistant coach from 1971-78 before joining the ranks of athletic administration. During his coaching career there, he served with former Clemson Head Coaches Charley Pell and Danny Ford, and worked directly under former Tiger defensive coordinator Tom Harper.

Winning has been in Phillips’ resume since his playing days. At Arkansas, Phillips lettered on Frank Broyles teams of 1966, 1968, and 1969. The Razorbacks were a combined 27-5 in those three seasons and played in two Sugar Bowl games. Phillips played for the Razorbacks in the famous 1969 Arkansas-Texas game that decided the National Championship. One of the assistant coaches on the 1968 and 1969 Arkansas teams was former Clemson Head Coach Hootie Ingram.

Phillips has two children, John Dennis (25) and Sarah Jane (21). He has three step-children, Meagan (13), Marshall (12), and Madison (10). He is married to Tricia Phillips.

Terry Don Phillips, his wife Tricia and children Meagan, Marshall and Madison are in their first football season at Clemson.
Head Coach Tommy Bowden

4th Year Head Coach

When Clemson was selected for the 2001 Crucial.com Humanitarian Bowl, it meant that the Tigers would be making their third straight bowl appearance - the third under Head Coach Tommy Bowden. With that selection, he became the first head coach to take Clemson to a bowl game in each of his first three seasons. That is something that prominent predecessors Jess Neely, Frank Howard, Charley Pell, Danny Ford, and Ken Hatfield failed to do. Under Bowden's direction, Clemson appeared in the Peach Bowl in 1999 and in the Gator Bowl in 2000 prior to its Humanitarian Bowl appearance.

Clemson made the most of that 2001 bowl appearance, defeating Louisiana Tech, 49-24 on New Year's Eve, Clemson's first bowl win since 1993. Clemson set school bowl records for points scored, touchdowns, and total offense in a bowl game in the victory. The Tigers threw five touchdown passes, a record for any Clemson game. The Clemson defense also limited the effectiveness of Louisiana Tech's nationally ranked offense, as the defense held Tech to but 10 points and 270 yards before reserves were summoned to the contest on both sides.

It was a record-breaking performance for the Tigers in Boise, ID, something that surprised no one who has followed the Tigers the last three seasons. In that short period of time, Clemson has set over 125 school records on an individual and team basis. Three of the top five total-offense seasons in school history have been recorded under Bowden, including the 2001 season when Clemson averaged over 30 points and 432 yards of total offense.

The 2001 season demonstrated Bowden's ability to win in the long run, as he had the second-youngest two-deep in the ACC. Thirty-four of his top 44 players were underclassmen. Only Duke had a younger group of top 44 players. Fourteen different freshmen saw action in 2001, including 10 who played in at least 10 games. Ten Clemson freshman records have been set under Bowden in his short tenure. In 2001, freshmen receivers caught 106 passes, while freshmen defensive players combined for 173 tackles and 15 tackles for loss.

Bowden has a record of 22-14 entering the 2002 season as Clemson's head coach. He has recorded that ledger against a difficult schedule. His first year, Clemson's schedule was ranked in the top 10 in the nation. In 2001, his team defeated five teams that finished the season with a winning record, tied for the third-highest single-season figure in school history. One of the wins was a 47-44 overtime triumph at #9 Georgia Tech. It was Clemson's highest-ranked road win in 20 years.

He has also gained that record with a group of overachieving players. Of the 25 teams who have been to a bowl game each of the last three years, only East Carolina (two) has had fewer players drafted than Clemson (three) over that period. Two of the years Clemson has advanced to a bowl game under Bowden, Clemson did not have any players drafted (1999 and 2001).

When Bowden came to Clemson in 1998, he inherited a team with a 3-8 record. By late October of 2000, just 14 months after his first game, Clemson was ranked third in the nation in the USA Today poll after an 8-0 start. That ranking was the highest for the program in 16 years. The final #14 ranking in that same poll was the highest final listing for the program since the 1990 season.

Making a swift improvement is nothing new for Bowden. In 1997, he took over a 4-7 Tulane program and brought the Blue Wave to a 7-4 mark in his first year. In 1998, the improvement continued with an 11-0 regular season and #7 national ranking. In 1999, Bowden elevated the Tigers from 3-8 to a bowl game and a 6-6 final record. The 2000 Tigers concluded the season with a 9-3 record, its highest win total since 1993.

As you can see, considerable improvement is a common phrase for Tommy Bowden coached teams. In each of his first four years he has coached at the Division I level, his team showed at least a three-win improvement over the previous year, believed to be a first in Division I college football history. Bowden is just the third coach in Clemson history to bring the Tigers to a three-win improvement in consecutive years and was one of just two Division I coaches (John Robinson of UNLV) to do it over the 1999 and 2000 seasons.

Bowden's second Clemson team was one of the most decorated in history. Six different Tigers were finalists or semi-finalist for national position awards, including linebacker Keith Adams, who was one of the final three finalists for the Butkus Award.

Kyle Young and Chad Carson were both named first-team Academic All-Americans, making Clemson the only Division I-A school in the nation to have a pair of first-team selections. For the second straight year, the football team had its highest team GPA on record and a record number of ACC Academic honor-roll recipients. Eighteen of the 22 seniors on the 2001 team have already earned their degrees and two more will join them this year. The top-five semester GPAs on record have taken place under his seven-semesters watch. Carson brought pride to the entire University last winter when he reached the final stage of the Rhodes Scholarship selection process.

The Bowden family: Lauren, Tommy, Linda, and Ryan.
When Bowden came to Clemson, he had one simple goal — improvement. Bowden warned Clemson supporters that the Tigers were unlikely to be bowl participants in 1999, but his main focus was to improve. Bowden’s goal of improvement was reached and he was happy to be wrong about his preseason prediction, as the Tigers were invited to the 1999 Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl.

In 1999, Bowden accomplished a personal milestone that no Clemson coach had attained since 1981, the year the Tigers won the National Championship. He became the first Clemson coach since Danny Ford to be named ACC Coach-of-the-Year.

Bowden led the Tigers to a 6-6 record and 5-3 mark in the ACC against the nation’s third-toughest regular-season schedule according to Jeff Sagarin. The Tigers finished tied for second with Georgia Tech and Virginia in the final conference standings, a six-place improvement over 1998, the greatest one-season jump in ACC history in league play.

The improvements in the ACC standings were thanks in large part to an innovative offensive attack. The Clemson offense ended the season averaging 402.6 yards per game, nearly a 100-yard per game improvement over 1998. The Tigers scored 26.8 points per game in 1999 compared to 19.8 in 1998. Clemsons 42 touchdowns in 1999 ranked fifth best in school history. Clemsons has exceeded that touchdown total each of the last two years.

Under Bowden, Clemson continued its strong defensive tradition. With 47 sacks, Clemson was first in the ACC in that category for the second straight season, and the final total established a school record. Three players (Keith Adams - 15.5, Chad Carson - 12.0, Robert Carswell - 10.8) all had nearly 10 sacks per game in 1999 to rank among the top-ten tacklers in the league.

Adams, a sophomore that season, finished with 186 tackles, highest in the nation, and broke the Clemson single-season tackle record held by Anthony Simmons. They all contributed to the 17th best total defense in the nation, a unit that had 19 interceptions, ninth highest in the country. Four of Clemson’s losses in 1999 came against teams ranked in the top 15 of the final AP poll.

Bowden Bowl I, the first ever meeting between father and son head coaches in college football history, took place on October 23, 1999. Bowden faced his father Bobby’s top-ranked Florida State team in Death Valley in front of a national television audience. The Tigers lost a tough battle to the eventual National Champions, 17-14, the closest margin of victory for the Seminoles and the fewest points they recorded all season by two touchdowns.

Making strong improvement in his first year with a program that was nothing new for Bowden. In the two seasons he was the head coach at Tulane, Bowden took a team that had been 4-18 in the two years previous to his arrival, and emotionally and numerically reversed the team’s fortunes with an 18-1-3 record, an 11-1 conference mark, and finished the 1998 season ranked seventh in the nation by both polls. Tulane and Texas were the only undefeated teams in college football in 1998.

His Tulane team had a 22-game average of 39.7 points, 5.1 touchdowns, 463 yards of total offense, 270.5 yards passing, and 192.6 yards rushing. The Green Wave averaged 6.34 yards per play, and converted on third down 47 percent of the time.

Some say the most telling statistic in terms of wins and losses, and the most telling statistic when it comes to coaching ability is turnover margin. The Green Wave ranked fifth in the nation in turnover margin each of his seasons at Tulane.

It didn’t take Bowden long to put Tulane back on the college football landscape. In his first year, Tulane was picked last in the preseason polls of Conference USA. But he led the New Orleans based school to a 7-4 record, a second-place conference standing with just one league loss, and set 33 school records in the process, including 26 on offense.

Tulane’s accomplishments on offense were noteworthy in 1997, but its offensive charts reached uncharted areas in 1998. Tulane stood as the nation’s only school averaging over 500 yards per game, passing and 200 yards per game rushing. Tulane ranked fourth nationally in total offense (507.1 per game) and second in scoring (45.4 per game).

The Green Wave scored 40 or more points in eight contests in 1998, including each of the last seven games. In one game, the Green Wave scored 72 points and rolled up 704 yards of total offense. They converted 52 percent of their third down opportunities for the season and had just 11 turnovers in over 800 plays. The 1998 season saw Tulane post a perfect 11-0 regular season under Bowden, its first perfect regular season since 1931. The Green Wave won Conference USA, its first league title since Tulane joined the SEC in 1949. Bowden was named Conference USA Coach of the Year.

Bowden’s team ranked seventh in the final AP poll and was a mainstay in the polls from the third week of the season on. Tulane had not been ranked at any time since 1979, and had not been ranked in a final poll since 1973. After Bowden accepted the job at Clemson, Tulane defeated Brigham Young in the Liberty Bowl, 41-27.

A look to the list of coaches who had undefeated seasons in the 1990s shows two other men named Bowden. His father, Florida State Head Coach Bobby Bowden, had a perfect regular season in 1956 and 1999, while his brother Terry posted a perfect regular season in 1993. The Bowdenses are the first family of college coaching, and this "Wonder Years" environment had a lot to do with Tommy Bowden’s decision to enter the coaching world.

The fatherly influence of a college coach who reached 300 career wins against his son in 1999, also had an influence on other members of the family. Terry has been a head coach at Samford and Auburn, posting a 47-17-1 record at the latter. Terry serves as an in-studio commentator for ABC’s college football package. Jeff Bowden is in his eighth year as wide receivers coach at Florida State, his second as offensive coordinator.

Tommy Bowden began his college football experience as a walk-on wide receiver at West Virginia. He played for his father between 1973-75 and then for Frank Signetti during the 1976 season.

As a junior, he caught 15 passes for 189 yards and one score. Bowden remained at West Virginia for the 1977 season and began his coaching career, serving as a graduate assistant on Signetti’s staff. His interest in coaching only became more intense after that first year as a graduate assistant. His father then hired him as a second-year coach at Florida State for the 1978 season.

That experience was confirmed to Bowden that he was in a profession that would be his life’s work. The Seminoles posted a 19-4 mark in his two seasons at Florida State.

In 1980, Bowden joined the staff at East Carolina, where he coached for the Spring practice session of 1980. That spring, he moved to Auburn and served as the Tigers running back coach for the 1980 season. Among the players he coached was James Brooks, who went on to a 13-year NFL career and is still second in Auburn history in rushing.

In 1981, Bowden returned to Tallahassee as the tight ends coach. In two more years at Florida State, the Seminoles posted a 15-8 mark. The 1982 team ranked 13th in the final poll, claimed a 9-3 record, and won a Gator Bowl championship.

In 1983, Bowden accepted his first job as a coordinator. He served under Steve Sloan at Duke as the Blue Devils’ quarterbacks coach and offensive coordinator. It was as the Duke offensive coordinator that Bowden made his first years, his longest stint as a college assistant coach. During his tenure, Duke was a combined 46-20-2, including a perfect 11-0 season in 1993. Auburn had four Associated Press top-25 seasons, including a #4 final ranking in 1993 and a #9 final ranking in 1994. The Tigers were 20-1-1 in 1993-94 combined. Bowden worked under his brother, Terry, for his last four years at Auburn and the Tigers had a 36-9-1 record with both Bowdens on the staff.

Born on July 10, 1954, in Birmingham, AL, Bowden is married to the former Linda Joan White, who he first met when the two were in school together at Morgantown (WV) High. The couple has two children, Ryan (20), a junior at Clemson, and Lauren (17) a senior at nearby Daniel High.
If he weren't on the field, he'd be in the stands.

Clemson Memorial Stadium has been held in high esteem for many years. Whether it be players from the 1940s and 1950s, opposing players from the 1970s and 1980s, or even professional players in the 1990s, the ambience of this special setting is what college football is all about.

The storied edifice added to its legend when the first meeting of father and son head coaches (Bowden Bowl I) took place before a sellout crowd of more than 86,000 fans in 1999. Clemson has ranked in the top 20 in the nation in average attendance 19 consecutive seasons.

In the 70s, 80s, and 90s, various publications named top-10 stadiums in college football and Memorial Stadium, affectionately known as “Death Valley,” has been a common denominator on those lists. The facility’s mystique is derived from its many traditions, which date to its opening in 1942, the legendary games and players, and Clemson’s corresponding rate of success. Clemson has won 211 games in the previous 60 years there (211-84-7) and has won over 71 percent of the contests. Thirty-six times since 1983, crowds have exceeded 80,000.

The stadium has definitely been good to the Tigers, but the stadium was constructed against the advice of at least one Clemson coach. Just before head coach Jess Neely left for Rice University after the 1939 season, he gave Clemson a message. "Don't ever let them talk you into building a big stadium," he said. "Put about 10,000 seats behind the Y.M.C.A. That's all you'll ever need".

Instead of following Coach Neely's advice, however, Clemson officials decided to build the new stadium in a valley on the western part of campus. The place would take some cleaning there were many trees, but luckily there were no hedges.

The crowds went to work, clearing, cutting, pouring, and forming. Finally on September 19, 1942, Memorial Stadium opened with Clemson thrashing Presbyterian, 32-13. Those 20,000 seats installed for Opening Day would soon grow; and grow and grow.

When the original part of the stadium was built in the early 40's, much of the work was done by scholarship athletes, including many football players. The first staking out of the stadium was done by two members of the football team, A.N. Cameron and Hugh Webb. Webb returned to Clemson years later to be an architecture professor, and Cameron went on to become a civil engineer in Louisiana.

The building of the stadium did not proceed without a few problems. One day during the clearing of the land, one young football player proudly announced that he was not allergic to poison oak. He then commenced to attack the poison oak with a swing blade, throwing the plants to and fro. The next day, however, the boy was swelled twice his size and had to be put in the hospital.

There are many other stories about the stadium, including one stating that Frank Howard put a chew of tobacco in each corner of the stadium as the concrete poured.

Howard said that the seeding of the grass caused a few problems. "About 40 people and I laid sod on the field," he said. "After three weeks, on July 15, we had only gotten halfway through." "I told them that it had taken us three weeks to get that far, and I would give them three more week’s pay for however long it took. I also told them we would have 50 gallons of ice cream when we got through. After that it took them three days to do the rest of the field. Then we sat down in the middle of the field and ate up that whole 50 gallons."

Howard said that on the day of the first game in the stadium, "the gates were hung at 1:00 pm and we played at 2:00 pm." But that would be all of the construction for a while. Then in 1958, 18,000 sideline seats were added and, in 1960, a total of 5,658 West end zone seats were added in response to increasing attendance. With the large end zone, "Green Grass" section, this expansion increased capacity to about 53,000.

Later, upper decks were added to each side of as crowds swelled - the first in 1978 and the second in '83. This increased capacity to over 80,000, which makes it one of the largest on-campus stadiums.

The effect spiraling inflation has had in this century can be dramatically seen in the differences in stadium construction. The original part of the stadium was built at a cost of $125,000 or at $6.25 a seat. The newest upper deck was finished in 1983 at a cost of $13.5 million, or $866 a seat.

Through the years, Memorial Stadium has become known as “Death Valley.” It was tagged this by the late Presbyterian coach, Lonnie McMillan. After bringing his P.C. teams to Clemson for years and getting whipped, McMillan said the place was like Death Valley. A few years later the name stuck.

In 1974, the playing surface was named Frank Howard Field for the legendary coach because of his long service and dedication to the University.

Luckily, the stadium wasn’t built behind the Y.
“When you get to the bottom of the hill, it’s like you’re in a hole and all around you are nothing but Clemson fans. Its like the crowd is one big voice. You feel like little kings.”

Former Clemson running back Rodney Blunt

“Running down the hill is still talked about everywhere I go. Players who played against Clemson when I was in college remember us running the hill and thinking we would gain some type of spirit. The adrenaline rush was unbelievable for a Clemson player and quite a shock for the opponent.”

Former Clemson All-American Jerry Butler

“There is no place louder or more picturesque than Death Valley. There, where Clemson folks see magic in a hill and a rock, orange gets more respect than anywhere this side of Gainesville, Florida.”

Terence Moore, Atlanta Constitution

“The rock has strange powers. When you rub it, and run down the hill, the adrenaline flows. Its the most emotional experience I’ve ever had.”

Six-time All-Pro and former Clemson All-American Michael Dean Perry

“Florida was loud in the swamp. But, the loudest, not only the stadium, but the loudest place I have ever been around in my life was definitely Death Valley. I was yelling at the top of my lungs in that first series and I couldn’t even hear what I was saying. My voice was gone after the second series, so we had to signal everything. That place was unreal in how loud it was. I don’t think I will ever be in a louder place than Clemson.”

Florida State Quarterback Chris Rix, 2001

“Clemson’s record at home is not a coincidence. Running down the hill is a part of that record. You get so inspired, and so much of college football is about emotion. You get out of that bus and you hear the roar of the crowd and it gives you chills up and down your spine.”

Former Clemson All-America kicker David Treadwell

“I came here knowing it would be loud and that Clemson would hit me hard. But to me, the noise was the biggest factor. I know I didn’t concentrate as well because of it.”

Herschel Walker after Clemson’s 13-3 victory in 1981, his only regular season loss at Georgia.

“Death Valley really lives up to its image. I was impressed with this stadium. When you put 80,000 people in there, it really feels like they are on top of you. I would hate to be Georgia Tech or whoever else comes in here.”

San Francisco 49ers Quarterback Steve Young

2002 Clemson Football
What has been described as, "the most exciting 25 seconds in college football from a color and pageantry standpoint," actually started out as a matter-of-fact entrance, mainly because of necessity.

The first 20,000 seats in Clemson Memorial Stadium were built and ready for use before the 1942 season. Less than a year before Pearl Harbor was bombed and the United States was at war.

The shortest entry into the stadium was a short walk down Williamson Road from Fike Fieldhouse's dressing rooms to a gate at the top of the Hill, which is located behind the east endzone. There were no dressing facilities in the west end zone - there was only a big clock where the hands turned and a scoreboard, which was operated by hand.

The team would dress at Fike, walk down Williamson Road, come in the gate underneath where the big scoreboard now stands and jog down the hill for its warm-up exercises. There was no fanfare, no cannon shot fired, no tiger paw flag, no Tiger Rag played...just the team making its entrance and lining up to do the side straddle hop.

That's pretty much the way things went for the next 25 years.

Either in 1964 or 1965, S.C. Jones, a member of the Clemson class of 1919, made a trip to California. He stopped at a spot in Death Valley, CA, and picked up this white flint rock. He presented it to Coach Frank Howard as being from Death Valley, CA, to Death Valley, South Carolina."

The rock laid on the floor in Howard's office in Fike for a year or more. One day Howard was cleaning up his office and he told Gene Willimon, who was the executive secretary of IPTAY, to, "take this rock and throw it over the fence, or out in the ditch...do something with it, but get it out of my office."

Willimon didn't think that was the way a rock should be treated. Afterall, it had been brought 3000 miles by a very sincere Tiger fan.

By the mid-sixties, Memorial Stadium was pretty well living up to its moniker, Death Valley, because of the number of victories that had been recorded there. Actually, the name was first used by the late Lonnie McMillian, head coach at Presbyterian College in Clinton in the 1940s.

McMillian and the other Blue Hose coaches before him used to open the season each year by coming to Clemson. Seldom scoring (24 shutouts in 39 games) and with only three wins and four ties to show for it, his teams were getting killed by the Tigers regularly. In 1948 McMillian made the comment to the press that he was taking his team to play Clemson in Death Valley.

An occasional reference to Memorial stadium by that name could be heard for the next three or four years, but when Howard started calling it 'Death Valley' in the 1950's, the name took off like wildfire. The Tigers celebrated the 50th season in the 'valley' in 1991.

But getting back to Howard's rock.

The rock was mounted on a pedestal at the top of the Hill. It was unveiled September 24, 1966, on a day when Clemson played Virginia. The Tigers were down 18 points with 17 minutes to play and came back to win (40-35) on a 65-yard pass play from Jimmy Addison to Jacky Jackson in the fourth period. That was quite a spectacular debut for that rock.

The team members started rubbing the rock prior to running down the hill September 23, 1967, a day when Clemson defeated Wake Forest, 23-6. Prior to running down the hill that day, Howard told his players: "If you're going to give me 110 percent, you can rub that rock. If you're not, keep your filthy hands off it." Howard told of the incident the next day on his Sunday television show and the story became legend.

When Hootie Ingram succeeded Howard as head coach prior to the 1970 season, Ingram decided that the team would make its final entrance on the field out of the dressing room in the west end zone. In all home games in 1970 and 1971 and the first four of 1972 when the Tigers did not run down the hill, their record was 6-9. The team decided it wanted to come down the hill once prior to the South Carolina game in 1972. The result, in a cold, freezing rain, was a 7-6 victory when Jimmy Williamson knocked down a two-point conversion attempt which preserved the win.

The Tigers have made the entrance for every home game since 1942, except for the seasons mentioned above - 286 times heading into the 2002 season.

After Clemson's final warm-up, the team goes back into its dressing room under the west end zone stands for final game instructions. About 10 minutes before kickoff the team boards two buses, rides around behind the north stands to the east end zone and debarks to the top of the hill behind Howard's Rock.

At the appointed time, the cannon booms and led by a high-flying tiger paw flag, the band forms two lines for the team to run between and strikes up "Tiger Rag". The frenzy starts in all sincerity...and usually lasts two and a half to three hours.

It is a tradition that has inspired Clemson players for many years.

“When Clemson players rub that rock and run down the hill, it's the most exciting 25 seconds in college football.”

Bennie Cunningham, Jim Stuckey, and Jeff Bostic combined to win seven Super Bowl Championship Rings between 1977–91.
That's one reason she's headed to Clemson. — She's going off to pursue dreams of her own. I know it's going to be tough... for both of us. I've always been there to look out for her. I'm just glad that same protection will follow her to college. She says she's ready for this.

Toby Albergotti
When Toby Albergotti arrived at Clemson, one of the things that he wanted to become involved in was "big-time football," and he believed that he was in the right place. "I tried out for the football team because I wanted to learn how a major Division I football program works," said Albergotti. "I wanted to understand how a program operates, both on and off the field."

In addition to his desire to become part of a major college football program, Albergotti also wanted to become part of a great tradition. "Another major reason I went out for the team was because I wanted to see what it took to win a national championship," he said. "Being part of a great winning tradition was very important to me, and I have been fortunate enough to have had that opportunity at Clemson."

Albergotti is a linebacker from Orangeburg, SC, majoring in economics. While growing up, his family offered him some of the best inspiration and support he could have ever asked for.

"My family, my mother, father, and three younger brothers, they have all supported me and been behind me through whatever decisions I have made," he said. "My parents taught my brothers and I that we could do whatever we want to do."

Albergotti plans on returning to Clemson next year to take additional classes. Having switched majors from mechanical engineering, he intends on taking one more year of economics' classes before possibly attending graduate school.

Britt Sherman
Since becoming a member of the football team, Britt Sherman has been surrounded by people who have supported his decision to do so. "One of my favorite things about playing football are my teammates," said Sherman. "The interaction I have with them has led to some great friendships and has helped me stay focused."

Hailing from Martinsburg, WV, Sherman's family was a key source of inspiration to him while growing up. "My mother has only had one leg since she was born," he said. "She drives eight miles every day to graduate school. I have heard that things do not always come easy to you. You have to work hard to see a reward."

Sherman is a health science major and plays fullback for the Tigers. After he receives a graduate degree in education, he plans on getting involved in coaching high school football in West Virginia.

Eugene Koon
Eugene Koon is a unique member of Clemson's football team because he is one of the only players in school history to have never played a single down of high school football.

"I had never played football in high school or at any other level before I came to Clemson, and part of the reason is because I had an overprotective mother," said Koon. "I consider myself very fortunate to have played football here. It has taught me a lot about discipline and preparation, both physically and mentally."

Another lesson that Koon has learned from his Clemson football experience is that playing on the team has made it more difficult to balance his time. "Playing football makes it harder to get things done," he said. "I have learned that even though football is a big-time commitment, it can work to your advantage because you realize when you have to get things, like schoolwork, done."

Koon is a senior wide receiver from Irmo, SC majoring in animal science. After graduation, he plans on going into pharmaceutical sales and possibly veterinary school.

He added, "I would like to thank my high school basketball coach, Timart Gates (C.A. Johnson), my position coach Rick Stockstill, and Bill D'Andrea. They helped me show the basics of football and life."

Matt Watson
The best part of Matt Watson's football experience at Clemson is the people he has met. "I have enjoyed meeting a lot of people, and as a result, now I have a lot of close friends," he said.

In addition to his friends, Watson has gathered inspiration from his family and religion. "My parents and my brother Alec have been there for me through everything," said Watson. "My family and God have always supported me. I would like to thank them, my teammates, and my coaches for everything they have done for me."

Like so many of his teammates, Watson has learned some valuable lessons as a result of playing football at Clemson. "I have learned that things do not always come easy to you. You have to work hard to see a reward."

Watson is a marketing major from Rock Hill, SC. After he graduates in December, he plans on obtaining a masters degree in business administration, hopefully from Clemson.

Anthony Williams
Playing football for Clemson was not exactly what letterman linebacker Anthony Williams thought it would be.

"I did not really have too many expectations at first," he said. "I can say that some of my favorite aspects of playing football here are my teammates, the great people I am surrounded by, and also being on the field in Death Valley. Running down the hill and hearing the crowd chant after we score, that sends chills up my spine."

Although he had limited expectations early in his career, Williams is nonetheless living out a childhood dream, a dream which he says he could not have made possible without the support of his parents and his high school football coach, Bill Kimren (Dutch Fork).

"At first, Coach Kimren thought that I was a Division II prospect," Williams said. "When he told me that, that was all the motivation I needed to make the team."

Another source of motivation for Williams not only helped keep him committed to the team, but also taught him an important lesson. "The support I received from the friends I made my freshman year was so important and so motivating," Williams said. "They taught me that there is more to life than just football."

Williams is a valuable member of Clemson's kickoff coverage team. One can find #55 sprinting down the field looking to tackle the returner.

A computer engineering major from Irmo, SC, Williams would like to be retired by the age of 30.

"I would like to thank my high school basketball coach, Timart Gates (C.A. Johnson), my position coach Rick Stockstill, and Bill D'Andrea. They helped me show the basics of football and life."

GBale Greenem

by Brian Hennem

Note: Khalil Greene joins golfer D.J. Trahan as Co-IPTAY Athletes-of-the-Year for the 2001-02 year.

Six-for-six. No, not one of his amazing performances on the field. That was what Khalil Greene went in terms of earning national recognition in the form of national player-of-the-year by the six services that give the award. Greene, whose first name means "gift from God" was born near Pittsburgh, PA. Despite moving to Key West, FL at a young age, he remained a devout Pirate fan and admired then Pirate Barry Bonds.

The soft-spoken, blonde-haired ballplayer, who grew up on the beaches of the Florida Keys, arrived at Clemson in 1998 and soon after began his quest to become the finest collegiate baseball player in the country by career's end.

Head Coach Jack Leggett knew he had a special player, even though Greene was not drafted after his high school career.

In 1999, the then freshman was the everyday starter at third base and hit .358 with eight home runs and 69 RBIs.

Greene continued his torrid hitting as a sophomore when he batted .364 and helped lead Clemson to its first College World Series appearance since 1996.

Then he made the move to shortstop during his junior season, a move that helped the team on defense.

But after that season, when he hit .303 with 12 homers and 52 RBIs, he was drafted lower than expected and decided to return for his senior season, a decision that literally earned him millions.

Greene's 2002 campaign was one for the recordbooks. He led the nation in hits (134), doubles (33), total bases (250), and runs scored (93). His incredible .470 batting average, 27 home runs, 91 RBIs, and 17 stolen bases coupled with a .961 fielding percentage (an outstanding mark for a shortstop) helped him to be named national player-of-the-year by every service.

After four years of playing in all 272 games as a Tiger, which included an NCAA record 269 consecutive starts, he set the NCAA record for doubles (95) and finished second in NCAA history in hits (403). The doubles record stood for 14 years before Greene surpassed Phil Stanford's (Wichita State) mark of 94.

Despite these unprecedented accomplishments, you will never hear boastful remarks from Greene, who led the Tigers to a third-place NCAA national finish at the 2002 College World Series. In fact, he stressed his pride in his defense, which included many "highlight-reel" plays at shortstop his final two seasons.

"Khalil always took a great deal of pride in his defense, even more so than his offensive skills," stated Leggett. "He was certainly one of the best players I've ever coached, in all facets of the game."

The culmination of the 2002 season resulted in Greene being selected in the first round of the Major League Draft, the 13th overall pick by the San Diego Padres. And it was all because of his desire and hard work in returning for his senior season, a lesson that Leggett has not lost.

"Khalil showed the two main ingredients in returning for his senior season, patience and confidence," said Leggett. "He proved that those two qualities mean a great deal if you believe in your abilities. Sure enough, he proved that coming back for your senior year is not a negative, but a positive."

He hit a school-record 27 homers in 2002, but his last two long balls were his most memorable. In his last at-bat in front of Clemson fans at home, he hit a dramatic and fitting home run against Arkansas that clinched Clemson's birth in the College World Series. Then against hometown favorite Nebraska in the College World Series, he hit a towering three-run homer with two outs in the seventh inning to give the Tigers a 10-8 lead. Clemson went on to win 11-10 in the game that saw him total three hits and five RBIs.

"He had, from start to finish, the best college baseball season I've ever seen in my 25 years of coaching," exclaimed Leggett. "Not only did he contribute to the team defensively and offensively, but his leadership and how he played the game was something that the team played off all year long."

"His contributions go far deeper than statistics and his abilities on the field. He was voted "most dedicated" in the weight room by his teammates, and he proved that good work habits off the field can make a difference in how you perform on the field. We would not have made it to the College World Series without Khalil Greene. He was a tremendous player in clutch situations all year long and throughout his career, Khalil was certainly as good a player as I've ever coached."

During his remarkable senior season, he maintained Honor Roll status. He is only a semester away from earning his degree in sociology and plans to return to Clemson in the near future to finish his coursework.

All this for a person who made it difficult for some to get a word out of him when he first stepped on campus. By career's end, he had given so many award acceptance speeches, one might mistake him for someone who actually enjoys the limelight.

So as Greene ventures off into a future of Major League baseball, it is only fitting that we remember #14 as, not only a great player on the field, but a great person off the field. What a great example for any baseball player with dreams of playing college baseball and making it to the "show."

Baseball America on Greene

A mature, well-spoken player. He plays the game with solid work ethic and gives hard everyday, with no highs or lows. He has a real big league approach and is polished with the bat. He waits for his pitch and rarely misses, and can drive it to the gap either way. He hit a lot of doubles, but he also has plus power to the pull side and uses leverage well. He has good bat speed and the looseness is apparent in his swing. This guy loves to hit. He gets out of the box quick, is consistent and uses his strength on the other side of the plate.

"Defensively, I know people have always questioned him as a shortstop. But he has enough arm for the shortstop hole, and he will surprise you with his range. He makes the routine play easy with soft hands and solid actions, and his instincts help him give you a good first step. He moves well laterally and makes body control plays with ease."

"You've really got to see him on an everyday basis to truly appreciate his athleticism - it will surprise you. Coaches love his work ethic and his leadership on and off the field. He's just a very focused and driven player. Think of all he went through this year, what a long season it was for him mentally and physically, and he finished very strong for (Class A) Lake Esmor. His first season went very well."

A Message to Our Boosters

Tiger fans, thank you for your support! As a fan, NCAA rules could define you as a “representative of our athletics’ interests” or a “booster.” Once identified as one, you hold this identity forever.

NCAA rules limit our booster’s actions. Boosters may not try and persuade prospects, their family members or their coaches to attend a particular school. Additionally, boosters may not provide or arrange financial assistance, transportation or living expenses for a prospect, their families or friends. There are some NCAA rules that do allow boosters to help Clemson. For example, if you know of any outstanding prospects in your area, send information such as newspaper clippings to our coaches and let them contact the prospect on Clemson’s behalf. You can also join IPTAY. IPTAY helps provide scholarship costs for Clemson’s ten men’s and nine women’s teams.

Once a prospect becomes a college athlete, NCAA rules prohibit anyone other than their family to provide benefits. A full scholarship covers basic educational needs, and those student-athletes with severe financial need can receive Pell grants up to $4,000 and they also can use funds from NCAA special assistance. NCAA rules strictly prohibit booster involvement with prospects and student-athletes. The penalties for ignoring these rules are too great. Help Clemson athletics operate free of booster problems. If you suspect a violation or have questions about a particular NCAA rule, call Clemson’s compliance services.

Gambling

The Clemson athletic department asks for your cooperation in protecting intercollegiate athletics from the perils of gambling. Not only does the NCAA and Clemson oppose all forms of legal and illegal sports gambling, but it’s against the law!

Did you know that sports wagering or gambling activities by Clemson athletic administrators, coaches and student-athletes are violations of NCAA rules and regulations? Please refuse to engage in these activities since penalties for these violations are severe. Violating these rules can result in permanent dismissal, suspension or loss of eligibility for your beloved Tigers.

The NCAA defines wagering and gambling activities as:
- Providing information to individuals involved in organized gambling activities involving NCAA events.
- Soliciting or accepting a bet for cash or prizes on Clemson or any NCAA team.
- Placing bets on any NCAA or professional athletic events through a bookmaker, parlay cards or other means used by organized gambling.

Amateurism & Agents

NCAA rules require student-athletes to maintain their amateur status if they want to participate in NCAA competition. Student-athletes will lose their amateur status if they use their skill for pay or accept promise of future pay while still competing for Clemson. Additionally, student-athletes may not sign a contract with a pro team, receive a salary or expenses from a pro team, compete on a pro team or ask to be placed in a pro draft or enter into an agreement with an agent.

Once a student-athlete’s intercollegiate athletic career is over and the student-athlete has interest in playing professionally, an agent is hired for the purpose of marketing their athletics ability. However, if a student-athlete with eligibility remaining enters into a verbal or written agreement with an agent before their eligibility is complete, they will no longer be able to compete for Clemson. In addition, student-athletes may not accept transportation, clothing, meals, lodging, or any benefit from an agent or agency without jeopardizing their eligibility. Please do not contact our athletes on behalf of any agent or agency.

Conclusion

NCAA rules are complex and at times may seem confusing. If you have questions or would like additional information regarding NCAA rules, contact Clemson compliance services through our e-mail, compliance-L@clemson.edu, or through our website at www.clemsonbuckeyes.com/compliance/anderson.html. Again, thank you for your support of Clemson and its athletics’ program!
Clemson Tiger Sports Properties supplies Tiger fans with a full day of broadcast each football Saturday. Each broadcast day has three programs, "Tiger Tailgate Show" "Game Day Broadcast," and the "Fifth Quarter Show." A Clemson tradition since the 1970s, the "Tiger Tailgate Show," is a two-hour entertainment and interactive program produced from the stadium. In years past, it has been done from the lawns at Littlejohn Coliseum in front of the Tiger statue. Due to renovations at that facility, the "Tailgate Show" will be produced on the lawn (at the corner) closest to Death Valley.

The program begins two hours prior to kickoff. Popular Greenville entertainers Love and Hudson along with Joe Erwin and Duane Evans play host to the show that is attended by many Clemson fans. It is the gathering place on gameday. Interviews with former Clemson players, games, display items, and pre-game entertainment are all part of the program.

The game broadcast is anchored by Jim Phillips, the longtime voice of the Tigers. The legendary voice and Clemson Hall of Famer is in his 35th year broadcasting Clemson athletics. His career dates to 1968 when he provided commentary on games coached by Frank Howard. He is one of the most respected announcers in the nation and is the dean of all ACC announcers.

Joining Phillips in the broadcast booth will be former Clemson quarterback Rodney Williams. Also a member of the Clemson Athletic Hall of Fame, Williams worked the sidelines on Clemson broadcasts for six years. With Mike Eppley's retirement from the broadcast booth, Williams will join Phillips and provide color commentary. Williams is the winningest quarterback in Tiger history. He led the Tigers to 32 wins from 1985-88, including bowl wins over Stanford, Penn State, and Oklahoma.

Providing commentary and updates from the sideline will be Pete Yanity. The sports director at WSFA-TV in Spartanburg was a member of the broadcast team last year providing score updates during the game and by hosting play by play. Yanity is one of the most knowledgeable broadcasters in the South and has covered Clemson football for over 15 years.

As has been the case in the past, the gameday broadcast will begin with the Tommy Bowden Pre-game Show. Bowden will meet with Jim Phillips to provide Clemson fans with the latest lineup and strategy information as his Tigers prepare for another competitive contest. Phillips, Williams, and Yanity will also provide a last minute scene setter that will include the latest lineup and weather information.

After the game, Yanity and former All-ACC Tiger Will Merritt will play host to the Fifth Quarter Show. Interviews with Coach Bowden and assistant coaches Brad Scott and John Lovett also will be included. An added feature will include lockerroom interviews with Clemson’s top players that day. A rundown of the game’s statistics and highlights will be provided. Scores and reports from the day’s bowl games will also be provided.

Fans can also follow the Tigers by listening to "Tiger Calls" from area Ingles Grocery Stores, a one-hour program with Bowden and Phillips. This broadcast will air live each Thursday evening from 7:00 PM to 8:00 PM. It can be heard on most of the Clemson Tiger Sports Properties network affiliates. The show will begin Thursday evening, August 29.

Clemson Tiger Sports Properties also will produce the Tommy Bowden Show, a recap of the previous game’s highlights. The program will give Clemson fans insight into the coaches decisions during the previous game and take an up close and personal look at some of your favorite players.

You're in good hands.

Clemson fans look forward to seeing tough, hard-nosed football when they come to Death Valley or travel to other schools to watch their Tigers in action. But some of the Tigers' most intense competition and action doesn't take place on autumn Saturday's and it doesn't take place on a field. Take a peek into the Clemson Strength Training Room at almost any time of day, almost any day of the week, at any time of the year, and you will see the Tigers building the foundation for their pursuit of a championship.

Perhaps the most impressive characteristic of the facility is its size. Several years ago, it was enlarged to an astounding 11,000 square feet, making it one of the largest in the nation. In 1998, it was expanded to 14,000 square feet. The facility boasts two full lines of Nautilus machines and over 12 tons of weights. The large number of machines and free weights allows the weight room to be used by athletes from several other sports at the same time, without anyone having to wait in line at a particular station.

Within the last three years the dumbbell area and leg development areas were expanded as well as the nutrition and hydration area known as the Power Station. The Power Station features the energy and recovery drink to aid each athlete's recovery from intense training.

The plush atmosphere provides an interesting contrast to the physical exertion that takes place in the facility. When an athlete enters the etched glass doors, he is greeted by plush, wall-to-wall carpeting, walls lined with mirrors, ceiling fans, and music from a 26-speaker sound system - a worthy backdrop for well over $500,000 worth of state-of-the-art equipment.

Color television monitors are also positioned throughout the facility. These monitors are used for training and instruction, as strength coaches film the athletes and work with them on form correction.

The large staff of four full-time strength coaches, four graduate assistants, numerous student assistants, and volunteers ensures that each football player receives proper instruction on the fundamentals of strength and speed development. Training programs at Clemson are position specific and designed to meet the needs and demands of each athlete. Also, each position is appointed a full-time strength coach that serves as a personal trainer throughout his/her career.

Hard core training and competition in the weight room and the annual Ironman Classic will help each athlete reach optimal levels in strength and speed development. The Tiger Strength Training and Nutrition Program help each athlete to become a complete player.

Break From Tradition.

Traditionally, rich aesthetics, cost-effectiveness and color haven’t gone hand in hand. If you wanted fashion color, you had to go to a specialty boutique and it wasn’t going to be cheap. With Voridian’s Chromspun® and Estron® yarns — you can have your cake and eat it too.

Chromspun solution dyed acetate yarn is available in a wide range of fashion colors and can also be produced in custom colors. It complements our popular Estron line of white yarns. Plus, we make all Voridian® yarns in the USA. As a matter of fact, Chromspun is the only colored acetate yarn made in America. That’s a tradition we’re proud of.

If you’re from around here, you know the music of a mountain creek. You know the green river rocks are slicker than the orange ones. And you know that with a few flat rocks and some falling water, Mother Nature makes a pretty amazing playground. You see, we think it’s our job to know you well, to discover things that don’t appear on a checking account application or the back of an ATM card. We believe knowing people better makes us... well, better people. You’d be surprised how it makes us a better bank.

Carolina First. We have a pretty good sense of where we are.
Since its inception in 1991, the five-faceted Student-Athlete Enrichment Program has provided its student-athletes a continued commitment to excellence. Our approach is to address the total student-athlete, and we are committed to coaching our student-athletes to success (C.A.T.S.) not only in the athletic arena but in the academic, personal growth, career, and service arenas as well. As an original member of the NCAA Life Skills/CHAMPS Program, we provide opportunities and services to address the changing needs and skills of student-athletes in the years during college and after graduation.

Clemson University’s commitment to provide its student-athletes with the very best of facilities is evident in many ways. From the soaring upper decks of Memorial Stadium, to the state-of-the-art strength training facility, young men and women from all 19 of Clemson’s varsity sports have the very best in facilities for training and competition. Vickery Hall is no exception, as the $3 million structure is as impressive aesthetically as any of the other facilities. But the importance of Vickery Hall to the Clemson University Athletic Department is not found in the structure itself, but in the many programs that the building houses.

Vickery Hall opened in the spring of 1991 and was the first facility in the country built solely for the all-around academic support of student-athletes. The two-story, 27,000 square-foot building is open throughout the day and into the evening to accommodate the extended schedules of student-athletes.

The mission of the Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs is to monitor, guide, and encourage student-athletes to fulfill their long-term goals, and to achieve their academic and career potential.

Vickery Hall focuses on five primary areas to meet the student-athlete’s needs.

Academic Commitment

The academic commitment aspect of Clemson’s Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs has provided one of the best academic support and advising programs in the nation.

Clemson student-athletes posted an overall GPA of 2.85, the highest on record, for the spring semester of 2002. A record 37 student-athletes earned selection to the President’s List with a perfect 4.0 for the semester, while 104 made the Dean’s List, just one off the all-time semester record.

Two-hundred-and-twenty-one Clemson student-athletes earned at least a 3.0 or better for the semester, meaning nearly 50 percent of all Clemson student-athletes were on the academic honor roll. Seven of the 15 programs had a semester GPA of at least 3.0.

The Clemson football team had a 2.56 team GPA for the semester, second best on record behind the 2.58 achieved in the spring of 2001. Each of the top-five semester GPAs achieved by the Clemson football program have taken place within the seven semesters Tommy Bowden has served as head coach. Nine Clemson football players graduated last year, meaning 18 of the 22 seniors who dressed for the Humanitarian Bowl earned their degrees.

Many prominent Clemson athletes were named to the academic honor roll. Kyle Young and Chad Carson, both first-team Academic All-Americans in 2001, concluded their Clemson academic careers with a perfect 4.0 semester in the classroom.

The Academic Counselors perform a variety of duties to track academic progress. These duties include providing assistance in registration and scheduling, contacting faculty, personally checking classes, recording information, counseling sessions with student-athletes, providing diagnostic testing, and directing career aspirations.

One of the most prestigious programs that has received recognition essential to the growth of Vickery Hall is the tutorial program.

Of 450 tutoring programs certified by CRLA, the Clemson Student-Athlete Enrichment Program was one of the first three student-athlete programs in the country to be granted all three levels of certification from the College of Reading and Learning Association, International Tutor Certification Program. The program was also honored with the National Champs Skills Excellence Award in 1999, one of only six schools across the country to be honored.

Having tutor certification allows student-athletes to be provided the highest quality of academic assistance possible. Approximately 80 tutors are hired to provide academic support in the many subject areas offered.

Many post-graduate scholarships and internships are also available to student-athletes continuing their education through postgraduate studies. Our student-athletes are provided timely information regarding these opportunities and the resources necessary to assist in the application process for either scholarships or internships.

The Department of Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs has recognized the need for student, to have access to high-quality computing equipment and has made a commitment to provide the student-athletes at Clemson with one of the largest computer labs in the country. Located on the first floor of Vickery Hall is the Dick Hendley Microcomputer Laboratory. The lab is open seven days a week, for 16 hours on Monday through Thursday, and a limited time on the weekend. Vickery Hall is now a "wireless facility" which allows students in the building with laptop computers to access the campus mainframe without physically plugging into the system.

The lab staff has a full-time computer manager, and also graduate students, many of whom are pursuing advanced degrees in computer science. Lab staff members are available for tutoring of any Computer Science course, as well as the many management, engineering, and business courses that deal with personal computers.

The Department of Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs is committed to providing state-of-the-art computing facilities. New computers have recently been purchased bringing the lab to a state of the art facility. More than 50 computers are available for student-athletes.

All computers are fully connected to the internet allowing for access of computers throughout the world for research and communication.

Personal Development Commitment

One of the most important programs that helps student-athletes reach their full potential and engage successfully in this college experience is the Personal Growth and Development Program.

One of the key components of this program is the first-semester freshman transition class designed to assist the student-athlete in making a successful transition into his/her university and athletic life. All first-semester freshmen attend a semester-long series of workshops targeting the transitional issues of time management, organizational strategies, health and wellness issues, athletic issues, diversity issues, career orientation, and service training. Throughout the academic year, all student-athletes are required to attend four large-group programs, which focus on pertinent social, health, and athletic issues.

Career Development Commitment

The Career Assistance Program provides student-athletes an opportunity to fulfill career aspirations by participating in various career seminars offered by the Vickery Hall staff. The philosophy of this program is to provide student-athletes with job-seeking skills and strategies, internships, practical experience, and summer employment. These programs are designed to address specific career opportunities and acquire information about the student-athletes for each year.

By using the resources available to the University, Alumni Center, and the Athletic Department, the staff is working to establish a network of businesses, companies, and executives who will help assist with the Summer Employment Assistance Program. The program's main goal is to provide the student-athletes with job experience and a work history, which he or she can apply to his or her academic discipline.

The Career Assistance Program is coordinated from the academic colleges, the Placement Center, and through the Athletic Department contacts. This program is designed to better prepare the student-athlete for full-time employment and focuses on resume writing and interview techniques.

The SAEP career assistance program has a full-time career counselor housed in Vickery Hall. Unique to our program, the career counselor is a member of the Michelin Career Center staff as well as the Student-Athlete Enrichment staff. This link between athletics and the Michelin Career Center provides student-athletes the most up-to-date information and resources in career development and preparation for entrance into the job market upon graduation.

Service Commitment

Providing community and outreach service to student-athletes and the surrounding community by engaging the student-athletes in hands-on interactive programs is an important aspect of the Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs. The staff of SAEP coordinates various activities each year to engage student-athletes in community outreach projects along with academic programs.

Another aspect of the service commitment is that of community service. The purpose of community service is to allow the student-athletes to become involved with the happenings of the community while giving back at the same time. Each year every team is required to perform at least two community outreach projects. Recently implemented was a new community service program entitled Success Away From The Game. The purpose of this program is to combine athletes of different sports in community outreach programs. By doing this, each outreach program participates, thus creating a diverse group of athletes with new and different ideas.

At the end of each year, six student-athletes who have demonstrated outstanding commitment and contributions to the community are recognized as the Top Six by the ACC. LifeLine is another aspect of community service, consists of chosen football players who work together in specific community outreach projects. LifeLine has approximately 20 members along with a president, vice president and secretary. Once a month, these young men meet to discuss future projects. To date, they have sponsored Hi-Five Day, planted a garden at Helping Hands Children Shelter, and held reading programs at elementary schools. These young men have vital roles in both the community and the athletic arena.

To assist our student-athletes in becoming effective service leaders and communicators, we provide service and speaking training, which anticipates the demands placed on a student-athlete when he or she might be speaking with a group of young people or also speaking with members of the media.

Athletic Commitment

Nine Clemson athletic teams posted top-25 finishes in 2001-02, contributing to Clemson's #27 finish in the Sears Director's Cup. Clemson set a school record for points scored in that national ranking and the finish was its best in four years. Clemson had 29 All-Americans, its third-highest total ever.

Clemson had a spring to remember as the Clemson golf, men's track and field, and baseball teams all finished in the top four in the nation. It marked the first time in school history that three different sports finished in the "Final Four" in the same spring. Clemson was the only school in the nation to finish in the top four in all three of those men's spring sports. The women's track and field and rowing teams also finished in the final top 25 during the spring.

Clemson boasted some of its greatest athletes in history in 2001-02. Clemson became the second school in history to have the National Player-of-the-Year in golf and baseball in the same academic year. D.J. Trahan won the Jack Nicklaus Award as the top player in collegiate golf, while baseball shortstop Khalil Greene was national Player-of-the-Year according to the Baseball Coaches Association, Collegiate Baseball, Baseball America, and many other services. Women's track and field All-American Jamine Moton won the NCAA Outdoor championship in the hammer throw.

South Carolina Steel Corporation had the ideal game plan for Littlejohn Coliseum when the Tigers needed a new roof. We teamed with C.P. Buckner to provide an innovative solution for a complex, schedule-driven dilemma.

Replacing the Tigers 90,000 square foot roof structure with 950 tons of steel in 10 weeks wasn’t easy. In fact, many doubted the Tigers could start their new season in Littlejohn.

South Carolina Steel Corporation and C.P. Buckner beat the shot clock and scored, replacing the roof with a stronger, better looking structure.

With over 50 years of experience designing and building structural steel solutions, South Carolina Steel Corporation knows the game. The next time you need to score big, call us at 864-244-2860.

IPTAY Endowment Program

IPTAY is widely regarded nationally as the father of Athletic Fundraising. It all started in 1934 and from a private meeting of a small group of Clemson supporters has sprung into an organization that raised a record $16 million in 2001. The organization plays a major role in ensuring that all 19 of the varsity sports at Clemson are given the maximum amount of scholarships offered by the NCAA.

The organization also has helped finance facilities that contribute to the well-being of student-athletes on and off the field. Vicky Hall is a 27,000 square-foot facility that houses the tutoring and advising programs for student-athletes. It is a major reason Clemson student-athletes have had their highest cumulative GPA on record for five consecutive semesters.

While IPTAY is primarily concerned with athletic fundraising, the mission of Clemson University has not been overlooked. The IPTAY Academic Scholarship Endowment was created to help meet the need for more academic scholarships for non-athletes who are highly qualified academically.

The IPTAY Academic Scholarship Fund is presently the largest scholarship endowment of its kind at Clemson, currently helping more than 40 students at Clemson.

IPTAY Executive Director George Bennett has continued to keep Clemson among the best in the nation in terms of fund-raising by the establishment of the IPTAY Endowment Program. In April of 1994, he kicked off the beginning of the endowment of positions program at the 85th birthday celebration for former Clemson Coach Frank Howard. The endowments are secure with a $100,000 donation paid over a five-year period.

"This is a chance to broaden the horizons of IPTAY," said Bennett. "It gives an individual or a group of people an opportunity to endow a position that meant something during their college days, or to honor a person at a position. The money being endowed is going to secure our future as the interest is used to carry on our program forever."

The first endowment was for the head football coach position to honor the legendary Frank Howard. Howard coached football at Clemson for 39 years, 30 as the head coach. During his tenure, the Tigers won 165 games, 100 of which were against conference foes.

"Former players and friends of Coach Howard made donations over the cost of attending the celebration program and that was enough for the endowment. Their gifts were a way of permanently thanking Coach Howard for all that he did for Clemson."

"Following Coach Howard's birthday party, we began to look for an individual to help us support and promote the program," said Bill Hudson. "I was excited, and the program and its goals, and that we were looking for his leadership to help get the program going, and he accepted." Hudson, a 1956 Clemson graduate, was a three-year letterwiner at tackle who played professionally for the Montreal Alouettes, the San Diego Chargers, and the Boston Patriots. He earned Pro Bowl honors in 1962. His son, Bruce Hudson, is also a former Tiger.

"We will likely use the Avenue of Champions as a physical place to honor these people further for the positions they have endowed. That will have plenty of space, so we will be working to have many endowments across all of our sports." The personal satisfaction that they helped Clemson University, specifically the athletic department, and that they are securing its future are the main reasons for becoming involved.

And with more involvement, Clemson University will have a very secure future for generations to come.

In the last two seasons under Head Coach Marcia Noad, the Lady Tigers have had two individual national champions and a national championship 4x100m relay team. Clemson has recorded back-to-back top-25 finishes both indoor and outdoor for the first time in women's track & field history. Behind Jamaine Moton and Sherri Smith, the Lady Tigers placed 21st at the NCAA Indoor Championships in 2002. Outdoor, Moton won an individual NCAA crown in the hammer throw, and Giselle Oliveira earned All-America honors to lead Clemson to a 20th-place finish.

The 2002 Clemson women's cross country team enters the season with a unique blend of youth and depth. The Lady Tigers return six runners from last year's squad, and welcome nine new harriers. Sophomore Laura Ann Rukat is expected to be one of the top two runners, while freshmen Casey Phillips, Jennifer Barton, and Jennifer Hooten are billed as the top newcomers.

Juniors Tiffany Charles and Evan Ross along with sophomore Shannon Day complete the returning roster. Freshmen Barton, Hooten, and Phillips along with senior Kim Mcgill and sophomores Christina Reinhard and Erica Jaros enter their first cross country season. The team also features three rookie cross country runners in seniors Kasha Haughton and Lauren Nicholson, as well as freshman Angela Thomas. That trio of quarter-milers will help complete the concept of incorporating a total team.

Throughout the indoor and outdoor seasons, Renee Kedzus, Day, Ross, Jaros, and McGill will compete for the Lady Tigers in the 3000m and 5000m. Kedzus, who set out the cross country season due to injury, is expected to begin competing during the indoor season. She was the Lady Tigers' top indoor runner in the 3000m and 5000m in 2002. Phillips, Hooten, and Day will be Clemson's mainstay in the 1500m. Phillips was a strong 1500m and mile runner in high school, while Hooten and Day will provide depth in that event.

Rukat and Barton are expected to flourish during the track season and lead the Lady Tigers in the 800m after a strong cross country season. Rukat is Clemson's top returning 800m runner from a year ago. Freshman Angela Thomas will add depth in the 800m, as she has a personal-best time of 2:14 entering her rookie season. Charles will also compete in the 800m after recording the Lady Tigers' third-fastest outdoor time in 2002.

The Lady Tiger sprint corps will have depth and strength in 2002-03. Clemson returns All-Americans in Shannon Murray and Marcia Smith, as well as All-ACC honoree Silja Ulfarsdottir. Indoor, Murray was among the Lady Tigers' top sprinters in the 60m and 200m, while she led Clemson in the 100m outdoor in 2002. Smith was an NCAA outdoor qualifier in 2002, recording a season-best time of 53.34 in the 400m.

All-American Shannon Murray is one of many outstanding Lady Tiger sprinters.

Ulfarsdottir led Clemson in the 200m indoor and outdoor as well as in the 400m indoor. The sophomore returns as one of the team's top talents in those events after earning All-ACC honors in the 400m indoor and outdoor. A talented group of underclassmen will bolster the aforementioned NCAA and ACC Championship-caliber athletes. Jaya Moore, Thomas, Denise Cruse, and Kaprice Williams, as well as sophomores Randi Hinton, Marquita Dorch, Danielle Whaley, and Latoya Woodberry will compete in sprint events ranging from the 60m to the 400m.

Hinton recorded the Tigers' second-fastest times in the 200m and 400m as a freshman and was a member of the 4x400m relay team that finished third at the ACC Championships indoor in 2002. Outdoor, she posted her fastest time of the season in the 400m, and competed on the 4x100m and 4x400m relay teams. Dortch will add depth in the sprints, but will compete primarily in the hurdles.

Whaley ran the third-fastest time on the team in 2002 and competed as a member of the 4x100m relay team. Moore was a two-time state champion in the 100m and 200m in high school, then added four All-America honors at Barton CC.

Cruse's honors include two all-star team selections and Performor-of-the-Year awards as she helped lead her team to consecutive WCAC Championships. Williams was also a strong high school competitor recognized as an all-metro selection.

Ulfarsdottir will lead the Lady Tiger hurdlers, while Thomas, Nicholas, and Haughton along with Moultire and Dortch are also expected to make an impact in the hurdles. Ulfarsdottir recorded her best 400m hurdle time of the season at the ACC Outdoor Championships (11.00.11), scoring for the Lady Tigers. Haughton recorded the second-fastest 100m hurdle time on the team in 2002, while Nicholas was the Lady Tigers' third-fastest 100m hurdler. Phillips, Hooten, and Day will be Clemson's mainstay in the 1500m. Phillips was a strong 1500m and mile runner in high school, while Hooten and Day will provide depth in that event.

The ACC Indoor Championships will include the top depth and talent in the region, while the ACC Outdoor Championships will feature the best 4x400m relay teams from around the country. Clemson will compete in both events during the indoor and outdoor seasons.

the NCAA Outdoor Championships, was also an All-ACC honoree in the outdoor triple jump. Oliveira is Clemson's all-time leader in the triple jump, and recorded a season-best 43' 9.5" at the NCAA Championships. In the long jump, Oliveira recorded a mark of 19' 8.75" indoor. Thomas and Nicholson will also compete in the long jump for the Lady Tigers.

Freshman Kristal Woods is expected to be the Lady Tigers' top javelin thrower in 2002-03, but junior Elizabeth Lord will challenge her. Both will contribute to Clemson's scoring in the event at the ACC Championships, while Haughton may also add depth in the discus. Woods had her personal-best of 129' 9" in the javelin, while Lord's best from 2002 was 128' 9".

Sophomore Jackie Hudgins, a scorer in the shot put, will try to build upon last year. She will receive support from Mary Gosselin, Haughton, and freshmen Alison Bradshaw and Woods. Hudgins posted a season-best 480.75" in the shot put outdoor as a rookie, ranking her fifth on the all-time list, and also competed in the discus, where she had a season-best 142' 8" mark. She also ranks second on Clemson's all-time list in the weight throw (52' 4"

Bradshaw was the Connecticut state open champion indoor and outdoor in the shot, and has a personal-best of 44' 9". She is also expected to compete in the hammer and weight throw. Woods will focus on the discus, but also adds depth in the shot put. Gosselin will compete in the weight throw indoor and hammer throw outdoor. She is the Lady Tigers' top returner in the hammer throw.

Nicholson is the top returning shot putter for Clemson. She finished fourth at the ACC Championships in 2002, with a career-best 4,647 points. Haughton tallied 4,208 points at the ACC Championships in the heptathlon last year, placing 10th, while Thomas will also compete in the multi-events.

Anne Miller is an Assistant Sports Information Director and is in her third year at Clemson.
Clemson Swimming & Diving Head Coach Christopher Ip looks for the 2002-03 Clemson men's swimming & diving team to raise the level of competition from last season. In his inaugural season as the leader of the Tiger program, Ip is excited about the prospect of working with the team to help it move to the next level.

"Last season, we had a number of student-athletes that were just slightly off of the NCAA qualifying times," said Ip. "With hard work in training and technique, I expect those athletes to be able to take that one step up and quality to compete in the NCAA Championships."

The Tigers have 20 letterwinners returning from the 2001-02 squad, including eight seniors, seven juniors, and five sophomores. Six talented freshmen complete the 2002-03 roster.

"The former coaching staff has placed us in a great situation in terms of recruiting," said Ip. "We have a number of freshmen who will play a critical role in our success this season. The strengths of the newcomers will really complement the talents and experience of the returning veterans."

Clemson will look to its upperclassmen to cover the sprint freestyle events in 2002-03. "We have a solid group of sprint freestylers coming back who have experience at the ACC level," stated Ip. "We just need to move them up one more notch to be NCAA contenders."

Junior Drew Scheerhorn swam the Tigers' fastest times of the 2001-02 season in the 50 and 100 free in the preliminary rounds of the ACC Championships. Senior Josh Williams, junior Brent Hitchcock, and sophomore Derrick Mulder will also compete for the Tigers in the sprint free.

Hitchcock and Williams will move up from the sprints to lead the Tigers in the middle-distance freestyle events. Hitchcock finished 10th in the 200 free at the 2002 ACC Championships, posting a career-best time that is also the sixth-fastest time in Clemson history. Two freshmen, Greg Middleton and Jordan Raynovich, will also play key roles in the mid-distance free events. Middleton was a four-time high school All-American and was the state runner-up in Ohio in the 200 and 500 free in 2002.

Clemson has a strong group of returning veterans in the distance freestyle. Seniors Jeff Atteberry and Adam Tepe, junior Travis Taylor, and sophomore Buddy Reed return from last year's distance crew. With the addition of freshman Jonathan Mengerling to the group, the Tigers will have significant depth in the distance free.

Junior Rob Kummer will lead Clemson in the butterfly this season. "Kummer just missed the NCAA qualifying time last year," recalled Ip. "We want to make sure he makes the cuts this year."

Kummer, a 2002 ACC selection, holds the fastest time in Clemson history in the 200 fly, which he recorded as he finished second in the event at the ACC Championships last season. He is second in the Tiger recordbooks in the 100 back. Backing up Kummer in the butterfly will be sophomore Thomas Rappold and freshman Benjamin Kanoy.

Junior Mark Henty, and sophomores David Liebers and Buddy Reed return for Clemson in the breaststroke. Henty, who placed fifth at the 2002 ACC Championships in the 200 back, holds the fastest time in Clemson history in the event. Freshman Charlie Dillon will help out in the backstroke as well. Dillon was a four-time first-team all-state selection in Texas and earned All-America honors four times in high school as well.

There is a strong core of upperclassmen returning for the Tigers in the breaststroke. Seniors Gregor Govse and Matt Norman, and junior Ryan Cassella will cover the breaststroke events for the 2002-03 season. Govse holds second place on Clemson's all-time top-10 list in the 200 breast, while Cassella is third on the list for the 100 breast.

"We did not bring any freshman breaststrokers in this season," said Ip, "but the core we have is strong. Cassella and Govse were not far off of the NCAA qualifying times last season, and I definitely expect to see them both reaching the next level this year."

There are a number of athletes who will contribute in the individual medley. Returners Henly, Rappold, and junior James Stotter, along with newcomers Raynovich and Dillon will vie for positions in the IM events for the Tigers. Raynovich was the Florida state champion in the 200 IM and also earned first-team All-America honors in 2000.

Ip expects the Tiger relays to be strong in 2002-03. "Most of the relays will depend on the returning upperclassmen. This will help us out because they know each other well and will be comfortable with the relay starts and transitions. There are some freshmen who will be pushing for spots on the relay teams, but for the most part, the upperclassmen will have those spots."

The diving events will be one of Clemson's strengths during the 2002-03 season. Senior Craig Thomas, an All-ACC honoree in 2002, returns for the Tigers after placing third in the three-meter and fourth in the one-meter diving competitions at the ACC Championships. Eric Shulick, a sophomore, and Marsh Lindley, a freshman, will compete for Thomas for the top spot on the Tiger diving squad. Lindley was the 2002 Indiana state diving champion and was a high school All-American in both 2001 and 2002. Seniors Jonathon Folds and Nathan Spivey round out a Tiger diving squad that has considerable depth.

The 2002-03 Clemson swimming & diving schedule includes meets with four teams that finished in the top 30 at the 2002 NCAA Championships. The Tigers will compete in dual meets against 10th-place NCAA finisher Georgia, Virginia (11), South Carolina (26), and Georgia Tech (27).

"It's important that we swim against top-ranked programs," said Ip. "We definitely would like to see Clemson moving in that direction, and to do that, we have to swim against the best."

Included in the 2002-03 schedule are three home meets, which, due to renovations to Clemson's McHugh Natatorium, will be played at the Spartanburg YMCA/Spartanburg, SC. Ip is excited about the improvements that are being made to McHugh, which will be ready for competition in the 2003-04 season.

"After the renovations are finished, McHugh is going to be a very pleasant place to call our home," said Ip. "Not only that, but by switching the starting blocks to the deeper end of the pool, we are going to have an extremely fast facility. I think it will be a great home-pool advantage."

Ip, along with diving coach Leslie Hasselbach and assistant coaches Sean Weddell and Rachael Amman, is enthusiastic about the upcoming season and the future of the program. The combination of experienced returners and talented freshmen will provide the Tigers with a great balance of athletes throughout the events.

"I am really looking forward to watching the athletes and coaching staff work together to produce great accomplishments during the 2002-03 season," said Ip. "With some hard work and persistence, I have no doubt that we will compete at the NCAA level. The talented athletes and hard-working coaching staff are exactly what we need to begin building a successful future for the program."
by Libby Kehn

In his first season as the head coach of the Clemson swimming & diving teams, Christopher Ip looks for the 2002-03 Tiger women's swimming & diving team to improve on its success from last season. Included in the list of accomplishments from 2001-02 are three ACC titles (in the 200 and 400 free relays, and the 400 medley relay), six All-ACC honorees, six participants at the 2002 NCAA Swimming & Diving Championships, and four honorable mention All-America selections.

Clemson returns 17 members from last year's team and Ip is looking to those veterans to provide leadership for the Tigers throughout the season. In addition to the experienced returners, the Tigers have added a number of talented freshmen to the roster who will play a critical role in the team's success in 2002-03.

Ip is excited for the upcoming season, as he, along with diving coach Leslie Hasselbach and assistant coaches Sean Weddell and Rachael Amman, will work to instill a philosophy of teamwork and tradition.

"In my first year with the program, it is especially important that we provide the athletes and team with a great base and teach them our philosophy of working as a team and supporting each other as a team," stated Ip. "I expect the team to do well in the ACC Championships and also return to the NCAA Championships. In general, I think we are a very well-balanced team, from the sprints down to the IMs, and in the relays and diving competition as well."

Ip looks to the Tiger sprint freestylers to be very competitive in 2002-03. "We have an extremely solid group of sprint freestylers returning, including three that participated in last year's NCAA Championships."

Senior Jenna Burch returns to lead the Tiger sprint freestylers. Burch, an honorable mention All-American and All ACC honoree in 2002, posted the Tigers' top times in the 50, 100, and 200 free last season, and competed for Clemson in the 100 free, 200 free relay, and 400 medley relay at the 2002 NCAA Championships. Fellow senior Elise Thieler and sophomore Christine Woodruff, who also garnered honorable mention All-America and All-ACC honors last season, return in the sprint free events. Ip expects junior Courtney Humes and freshman Nikki Deering to contribute in the sprint free as well.

Sophomore Aurelie Gessret returns in the middle-distance freestyle. "Gessret is very versatile and can go all the way down to the sprints and up to the middle distance," said Ip. "She will cover all of the mid-distance events for us and we will move up some of the sprinters if we need additional help."

Perhaps the event Clemson will show the most depth will be the distance freestyle. Senior Meghan Clifford and juniors Liz Dwors, Kim Cober, and Alison Gjervold led Clemson last season. They will be challenged in 2002-03 by a very strong recruiting class of distance freestylers, including Nichole Carlton, Shelly Klaus, and Kimberly Routh. Carlton was a three-time state champion in the 500 free and holds the South Carolina state record in the event, while Klaus qualified for the Olympic trials in the 200 fly and 400 IM, and was a senior national qualifier in those events, as well as the 200 IM and the 400, 800, and 1500 free.

Thieler, who holds the fastest time in Clemson history in the 100 fly (54.73), will lead the Tigers in the butterfly this season. Thieler will be assisted by returners Clifford, Courtney Humes, and Meghan Murphy, and newcomers Deering and Kelly Uso.

The Tigers return senior Mary Brewer and juniors Lindsey Kroeger and Kate Walker in the backstroke. Kroeger, an honorable mention All-American and an All-ACC selection, swam the backstroke leg of the 400 medley relay for the Tigers at the 2002 NCAA Championships. Kroeger currently holds the fifth-fastest time in Clemson history in the 100 back (56.61), while Walker is sixth all-time in the 200 back (2:02.42).

In the breaststroke, Clemson returns two solid upperclassmen from last year's squad, including honorable mention All-American and All-ACC selection Mandy Commons. She holds the fastest times in Clemson history in the 100 breast (1:01.86) and the 200 breast (2:16.09), and competed for the Tigers in the 200 breast and the 400 medley relay at the 2002 NCAA Championships. Commons and Bissell will be assisted by freshman Ashley Shafer, who was the 2000 Florida state champion in the 100 breast and was the state runner-up in the event in 2001.

Returning for Clemson in the individual medley is Gessret, who posted the Tigers' top time in the 400 IM last season (4:23.92) to finish in 10th place at the 2002 ACC Championships. Freshmen Sarah Deibler and Shafer will also compete for Clemson in the IM events.

Clemson returns all four members of last season's 200 and 400 medley relay teams (Kroeger, Commons, Thieler, and Burch). The 200 medley relay team claimed the ACC title in 2002 with a time of 1:40.76, while the 400 medley relay team set a school record and season-best time of 3:43.50 in the preliminary round of the NCAA Championships. The Tigers also return three of four members from last year's ACC Champion 200 and 400 free relay teams. Woodruff, Burch, and Thieler, along with former Tiger Patty Hider, combined to set a school and Maryland pool record in the 200 free relay at the ACC Championships, with a time of 1:31.39.

"In the relays, we have five women that are coming back with NCAA experience," said Ip. "Not only will they lead us in the relays, but their NCAA experience will help the team in terms of realizing what it takes to reach the next level."

Diving coach Leslie Hasselbach is optimistic about the 2002-03 Clemson women's diving team. Returning for the Tigers are senior Amy Tolley and sophomore Shastin Leathers. Leathers led all Clemson divers last season, scoring 326.55 points in the three-meter competition at the ACC Championships. Clemson adds two freshman to the 2002-03 diving squad, both of whom Hasselbach expects to have a significant impact on the team's successes.

"Cristina Curtuneanu and Jessica Watzke have both really stepped up," said Hasselbach. "Right now it's a toss up as to who is better than the rest."

Coach Ip is looking forward to a challenging schedule in 2002-03 (see page 108 for complete schedule). "It's important that we swim against top-10 ranked programs. We definitely would like to see Clemson moving in that direction and to do that, we have to swim against the best."

The Tigers are scheduled to compete against three teams that finished in the top 10 at the 2002 NCAA Championships. They will compete in dual meets against NCAA runner-up Georgia and eight-place California. Clemson will also travel to the Indiana Invitational. The Hoosier women finished in a tie for 10th place at last year's championships.

Included in the 2002-03 schedule are three home meets, which, due to renovations to Clemson's McHugh Natatorium, will be played at the Spartanburg Middle YMCA in Spartanburg, SC. Ip is excited about the improvements that are being made to McHugh, which will be ready for competition in the 2003-04 season.

"After the renovations are finished, McHugh is going to be a very pleasant place to call our home," said Ip. "Not only that, but by switching the starting blocks to the deeper end of the pool, we are going to have an extremely fast facility. I think it will be a great home-pool advantage."

Ip is optimistic about the possibilities that lay ahead for the Clemson program. With the help of a number of veteran returning athletes who have already experienced some success, a few key freshmen, and a knowledgeable and energetic coaching staff, Ip sees great things for the future.

"I am really looking forward to a great 2002-03 season that will be the beginning of a successful future for the program. With some very talented athletes and a coaching staff that I expect to be the hardest working part of the program, we will move this program to another level."

CLEMSON TIGERS AND BI-LO.
NOW THAT'S A DREAM TEAM!
by Mandie Parrish

The Tiger Band has been gearing up for the 100th game pitting the Tigers against the Gamecocks. The “Band that Shakes the Southland” is one of the few bands that entertains fans both at home and away games, and thus has had a busy fall.

The Tiger Band is under the direction of Dr. Mark Spede, who is just wrapping up his first football season at Clemson.

“I have really enjoyed working with the (Clemson) band since June,” he said. “It has been a great experience here at Clemson.”

He is also ready to see the much heralded in-state rivalry between Clemson and South Carolina. “I am looking forward to the South Carolina game. Everyone has been talking about this rivalry.”

The band will continue to perform old favorites to cheer the Tigers on. The traditional pregame agenda starts with the “Orange Bowl March,” where the band spells out in script “Tigers.” While getting into position, the band changes their tune to “Tiger Rag.” During this performance of “Tiger Rag” is the traditional “dotting of the i” in the script of “Tigers.”

“Dotting the i” for tonight’s game will be football Ring of Honor members. The show will continue with “God Bless America,” the “Star Spangled Banner,” and the Clemson University Alma Mater.

Following the alma mater, the band will perform the “Orange Bowl March” again and then change formation. The band then waits for the team bus for the “most exciting 25 seconds in college football.” After the team gets off the buses, the players rub Howard’s Rock and then run down the Hill and through the tunnel the band has formed, while the band plays “Tiger Rag.”

Dr. Spede and the Tiger Band have been working on this week’s halftime show titled “Gospel” for Clemson fans. The show returns to facing the South side of the stands, after changing to face the North stands when Clemson played against N.C. State. That game was the first time all season the band did not face the South side of the stadium.

The opening selection for the “Gospel” halftime show is titled “Praise,” which was originally recorded by Christian music singer Sandi Patti. The show will conclude with “Take My Hand.” This halftime is the conclusion of the American theme that has highlighted all the halftime shows this season. Each of the selections showcased American music and styles as well show tunes that were all written by Americans.

For every home game, the band selects a feature member or group for whom to dedicate their performance. Since it is the last home game of the season, it is Senior Day. They will honor the seniors during the pregame and will read out seniors’ names.

Remember that you can take home the sounds of Tiger Band by purchasing the group’s CD “Shakin’ the Southland.” The CD features 30 famous Tiger fan favorites from previous football seasons. It includes “Sock It To ‘Em,” “Eye of the Tiger,” and the Clemson Alma Mater. The CD is available at the Tiger Band Office (119 Brooks Center) for $15. To order by mail, send a check payable to CUTBA for $17 ($15 plus $2 shipping and handling) to CUTBA c/o Clemson Tiger Band, 119 Brooks Center, Clemson, SC 29634-1505.

THERE'S A LOT MORE TO CLEMSON THAN FOOTBALL. With a $9 million grant from the National Science Foundation to support collaborative research among the state's three research universities, Clemson researchers will work with their colleagues on projects ranging from systems to protect the food supply to development of new medical materials and technologies. At Clemson, the funds will be used to hire new faculty and expand research in nanomaterials and bioengineering. Enhancing such research efforts will help South Carolina build its technology-based economy while improving the health of its citizens.

Clemson Lady Tiger Basketball will be headlined by one of the best players in ACC history. That was stated this past fall when senior guard Chrissy Floyd was named to the ACC 50-Year Anniversary team, one of just two active ACC players named to the 50-person squad.

With that said, the Lady Tigers' success may depend on how much or how little of the load Floyd has to shoulder. Another concern for Head Coach Jim Davis is rebounding. And according to the 15-year veteran coach, rebounding will be a watchword in this year's practices.

"I have been very disappointed the last few years in our rebounding," said Davis. "We must become a better rebounding team. We are going to have to commit ourselves as coaches and players to do a better job on the boards at both ends. That is my primary focus for this team. I know we are going to defend well and we will score enough to be successful. Rebounding will be our primary objective, and we have to be a better rebounding team...period."

Clemson will return three starters from last year's NCAA Tournament team. Last year's squad finished with a 17-12 record overall and a 9-7 mark in the ACC. The 15th-straight year Clemson has been at least .500 or better in ACC play. The Lady Tigers also return 10 letterwinners.

"This will be an athletic team," stated Davis. "We will be able to play a full-court game. This team will be a good transition team, a fast-break team. We will press and run. We are going to have better depth than we had in the last year or two. We suffered growing pains last year and we are going to have more 'go-to' people. We are going to lean on Chrissy Floyd for much of the scoring, but she will have some help from Julie Aderhold and Maggie Slosser."

The goals for this year's team include participating in the NCAA Tournament and winning 20 or more games, common occurrences for the Lady Tigers program through the years.

"Obviously, we want to win 20 or more games every year," commented Davis. "We felt short last year. For us to be successful, we will have to do well in our non-conference schedule, but it will be a good test for us. We will also have to finish high in the conference to win 20 games. The league is going to be just as tough, if not tougher, this season. It is going to be a real challenge. We also have as one of our goals to participate in the NCAA Tournament. We want to get 'hot' at the right time and go deep in the tournament."

"We have quickness and speed. We will have to use these two characteristics in our rebounding. We need rebounding not only from our inside people, but also from our guards on the defensive end. We need them to get more involved in rebounding. There is no reason we can't be a better rebounding team."

Clemson will feature one of the best guards in the nation with Floyd (5-9, Sr.) returning. Floyd has scored 1,432 points in her career and she could become Clemson's second all-time leading scorer by the end of her senior year. Currently, she is eighth on the school list for most points scored. She is one of the Lady Tigers' all-time leading defensive players, as she is currently in eighth place on the Clemson career list for most steals with 166 (1.84 steals per game). She was named to the league's first-team all-defensive squad in 2001-02.

"Chrissy Floyd is an All-America player and we know she will have an excellent senior year," said Davis. "She has become a complete player offensively and defensively. Last year, she became a premier player in the league. She enjoys playing the game and gives tremendous effort every tick of the clock. Chrissy is a quiet leader and we look forward to her having another all-league year. She is one of the finest guards in the country."

Kanetra Queen (5-8, Jr.) finished last season playing in 28 games and averaging 1.5 points a game. She also was the second-best playmaker on the squad, tallying 51 assists.

"Kanetra will be the leading candidate to assume the point-guard position, replacing Krystal Scott, who was an outstanding four-year player," said Davis. "She is quick-on-quick and has great leadership qualities. She gives us great defensive pressure, and Kanetra should have a great year at the point-guard position."

Julie Aderhold was the fourth-leading scorer in 2001-02 with a 6.5 points per game average. She started 15 games for the Lady Tigers and averaged 25.4 minutes per game. She was also very effective from the three-point line, making 26 of 80 attempts from behind the arc. She also was 40-48 from the free-throw line for an .833 mark, an indication of her abilities as a pure shooter.

Leah Roper (5-11, Jr.) played in 29 games last season and started 12 contests. She averaged 5.5 points per game and was the Lady Tigers' second-leading rebounder with a 5.0 rebounds per game mark.

"Leah Roper had a good junior season," said Davis. "She plays with intensity and puts everything she has into the game. She is a typical Clemson player, as she has a great attitude and a team-first work ethic."

Lakeia Stokes played in 27 games and had four starts a season ago. She averaged 13.3 minutes per game and finished the year averaging 5.8 points per contest. She also had a 3.2 rebounds per game mark.

Tabitha Vasiliak (5-6, Sr.) played in 13 games and averaged 2.2 minutes per game. The fine student-athlete made the ACC Academic Honor Roll last year as well.

The two newcomers to the backcourt this season are Julie Taylor (5-6, Fr.) and Lauren Chauvin (5-10, Fr.). Chauvin is a 5'-10" guard/forward who played at Vanderbilt Catholic High School in Houma, LA, near her hometown of Thibodaux, LA. During her senior season, she averaged 15.0 points per game, 6.0 rebounds per game, and 3.0 assists per outing. Taylor was a standout at nearby Seneca (SC) High School, where she was an all-state player and was named as one of the top-100 players in the nation.

Clemson returns starter Maggie Slosser (6-2, Jr.) on the inside. She finished the 2001-02 season as the Lady Tigers' top rebounder, with a 5.2 rebounds per game mark. She also was accurate from the field, hitting 75 of 150 shots from the floor for a .500 percentage. She also scored 6.4 points per game.

"Maggie is going to be undersized on the inside, but she is a tough young lady and gives great effort all the time," stated Davis. "Much of the rebounding will fall on her shoulders. She is very athletic and will play both the power forward and center positions."

Also returning on the inside is Lacey Shafer (6-5, So.). Shafer saw action in 26 games and averaged 6.6 minutes per game a season ago. She finished the year with a 1.4 points per game mark and averaged 1.7 rebounds per contest.

Another sophomore returning is Monica Blackmon. Blackmon played in 23 games last year and saw action in 101 minutes (4.4 minutes per game).

Khali Sanders will join the Lady Tigers after red-shirting last season due to a torn ACL. Sanders is a talented player who had the potential to start last season.

A senior who was a force inside last year was Tia Andrew. Andrew played in 22 games and led the Lady Tigers in blocked shots (24).

Two newcomers on the inside are Amanda White (6-4, Fr.) and Lauren Allen (6-2, Fr.). White, who is a center from Hillcrest High School in Fountain Inn, SC, was named all-state and was a national top-100 player. Allen was an all-state performer from DelKal, GA.

Sam Blackman is Clemson's Associate Sports Information Director and is in his 16th year at Clemson.

As the sun rises over beautiful Lake Hartwell, so do the women of the Clemson rowing team. These Tigers have learned that hard work and dedication are the tools needed to earn a spot among the nations best teams. As the team enters its fifth year as a varsity program, it already has many accomplishments under its belt. The team’s strength will lie in using this experience and versatility, and turning it into success throughout the year.

Last year, the Tigers were very successful both on and off the water. They earned a plethora of honors and awards. Among the senior class, Lucy Doolittle and Aimee Fox earned All-America honors and were named to the ACC All-ACC and the 50-year anniversary ACC teams. They also were named to the First-Team CRCA All-Region team along with current team captain Emily Kuivila. Sally Kukla was named to the second team.

Overall, the Tigers finished their spring season ranked #22 in the nation, their second consecutive top-25 ranking. Att the South Region Championship, they were the team champions as the Varsity 4+ and Novice 8+, while the Second Varsity 8+ was the South Region Champion.

These Tigers have also had an impressive reputation in the classroom. Kuivila was chosen by the CRCA as a national scholar-athlete. The team posted an overall GPA of 3.22, with many receiving 4.0’s. This is 0.6 higher than the average posted by the rest of Clemson’s female students and is the second highest GPA within the athletic department. Twenty-three out of 38 rowers made Clemson’s honor roll, while 34 made the ACC honor roll.

Academic advisor Ginty Porter said, “I have never worked with a more dedicated and focused group of student-athletes than the Clemson rowers.”

The rowing team returned 30 student-athletes to its roster this fall in addition to the 40 novices named to the team in September. Fifth-year Head Coach Susie Lueck is excited about the upcoming year.

“The varsity came back from the summer fired up and ready to succeed. They worked hard this summer and proved that they are committed and dedicated to making Clemson a fast program.”

There is plenty of skill and ambition returning to the varsity squad this year. There are seven Tigers with experience in the varsity boat, which brings a lot of depth to the team. The Tigers have been practicing hard both on and off the water. They have worked on speed and power on the ergs, trying to get the most out of every workout.

This, then, is transitioned over to water workouts. While rowing in smaller boats, improvements can be made in technique which will lead to success when rowing in 8+ racing shells. The Tigers have had an exhibition race against the men’s club crew team, where they finished just behind them.

At the Head of the Charles Regatta, the Varsity 8+ traveled to Boston for one of the most prestigious head races in the country. Last year, on the team’s first trip to Boston, it started 52nd and finished 20th overall. This year, the Tigers started 18th and finished 27th.

Next, the Tigers traveled to Gainesville, GA to defend their title as Head of the Hootch Champions. Their fall season concluded with the Rivanna Romp in Charlottesville, VA on November 10.

The Clemson rowing team has the motto: “The will to win means nothing without the will to prepare.” That preparation has already begun for the 2003 spring rowing season.

Not only are the rowers committed to a national powerhouse, but the coaching staff brings a wealth of experience to the program. As the team has expanded, so has the staff. This year, they welcome Michele Rupe to the program. Rupe, as director of operations, is primarily in charge of the organizational and administrative work within the program. She will also be working closely with Novice Coach Kelly Lynch to ensure that Clemson rowing will have a stellar recruiting class.

Other additions to the staff include undergraduate coaches Aimee Fox and Farrell Finstad. Though both have been a part of the program since its existence, they have entered the realm of coaching by assisting with both the novice and varsity teams. The coaching staff has a combined total of over 30 years as full-time coaches, and the undergraduate coaches bring with them four years each of athletic experience at the Division I level, as well as many years of experience within the Varsity 8+.

This year, there is a new opportunity for leadership within the team. The program graduated 12 seniors last season, which changes the dynamic of the team. Kuivila, Nicolette Burgess, and Liz Montelth have taken on the roles of team captains.

They provide a unique combination of strengths that work well together in helping our team reach its potential,” Lueck said. “This year, the upperclassmen have the chance to step up and lead by example. They possess strong leadership skills - a reflection of the dedication and work ethic that has been instilled within them from day one.”

The sophomore class will make the transition from novice to varsity. Collectively, they had an outstanding year. Not only did the Novice 8+ have a strong finish at the end of the year, placing first in the South Region, but other freshman were integral members of both the Varsity 8+ and second Varsity 8+.

“They are a talented group physically,” said Lueck. “They come to practice every day excited, and through consistency and intensity, they are committed to making Clemson rowing a competitive program on a national level.”

The Novice squad was named to the team on September 21 and consists of 38 athletes. Novice coach Kelly Lynch is “very excited about this group of athletes. They are a great group; they’re dedicated, committed, and fun-loving.”

The process of creating the novice squad started in the south side of the football stadium. There, the athletes were taught the proper technique of rowing while working on their cardiovascular conditioning. They soon earned the privilege of practicing at the boathouse and have since been training both on and off the water.

“This is a really talented group of athletes that has improved exponentially since the first day of practice,” Lynch said.

For the Tigers, practice does not end on the water. This team “busts it” in the weight room three days a week. Megan McGaunt, a graduate of the program, was named the rowing team’s first Strength and Conditioning All-American in the spring of 2002.

“Clemson’s rowers have an intense desire to excel in all aspects of their training,” said strength coach Tanna Burge.

On the water, their success is obvious, as they have finished in the top 25 for the past two years. But they do not stop there. They treat their time in the weight room as an extension of practice.

“I like working with rowers,” Burge said. “Their work ethic is like no other team. They have an unstated competition within themselves. Individually, they want to push themselves to their max. By doing this, they are pushing everyone around them. They aren’t the type of team to back down and let someone practice harder than they do.”

Rowing is the ultimate team sport. The demands that rowing places on an individual are just as mental as physical. Not only does one want to be powerful, but eight people in a boat have to demonstrate this power simultaneously. Their technique has to match at every point of the stroke and if it does not, the rowers will actually be working against each other rather than with each other.

Rowing is a perfect balance of individual power, maintaining technique, and responding to the surrounding environment. As the Tigers train for their spring season, the execution of these elements will show that Clemson is ready for the competition.

Farrell Finstad, a senior from Yuba City, CA, is a student assistant in the Clemson Sports Information Office.

Legendary Tiger Head Coach Frank Howard kisses "Big Thursday" goodbye. Clemson never had a home game in this series prior to 1960.
Every game in this series between 1896 and 1959 was played on the Thursday of the South Carolina State Fair week.

South Carolina 12, Clemson 6
South Carolina won the first contest between the two state rivals 12-6 at the state fairgrounds in Columbia. Gamecock Cansen Foster scored the go-ahead touchdown in the second half on a five-yard run. The lone Tiger highlight of the day was a trick play that resulted in a 60-yard touchdown run.

1897
Clemson 18, South Carolina 6
Clemson used its superior size to beat South Carolina 18-6. W.T. Brock recovered a teammate's fumble and raced 30 yards to open the scoring. Charlie Gentry followed moments later when he went untouched on a 35-yard touchdown run. Jeff Maxwell and R.T. Vogel added scores in the second half to extend Clemson's lead. South Carolina got on the board in the second half when Cansen Foster fell on a blocked kick for a score.

1898
Clemson 24, South Carolina 0
Clemson secured another state championship by defeating the Gamecocks in Columbia by a score of 24-0. Shack Shealy scored two touchdowns in the contest for the Tigers. J.G. Kaigler also scored for the Tigers. His 30-yard touchdown run late in the second half put the game away for Clemson. A.F. Riggs and Claude Douthit also scored for the Tigers on touchdown runs.

1899
Clemson once again dominated the rival Gamecocks in Columbia on its way to a 34-0 win. The much larger Tiger offense ran the ball straight through the heart of South Carolina’s defense with ease all afternoon according to published reports. Shack Shealy scored on two magnificent touchdown runs for the second straight year against the Gamecocks. The win gave Clemson Head Coach Walter Riggs a victory over South Carolina, his lone victory against the Gamecocks.

1900
Clemson 51, South Carolina 0
Legendary Head Coach John Heisman led Clemson to victory over South Carolina in his first season. The Tigers dominated the Gamecocks for the fourth consecutive year, winning by the final margin of 51-0. The game was seen by over 5,000 spectators at the state fairgrounds in Columbia. Six different players scored on touchdown runs in Clemson's balanced rushing attack. The Tigers were led by two Buster Hunter touchdowns, one of which went for 55 yards. Claude Douthit also ran for two touchdowns on the day.

South Carolina 12, Clemson 6
South Carolina ended Clemson's early dominance of the series by winning 12-6 after a one-year layoff between the two rivals. The Gamecocks shut down Clemson's potent running game, limiting the Tigers to only 21 yards in the first half. Clemson found itself in Gamecock territory for much of the second half, but was unable to score time after time. Vet Sitton, who went on to become Clemson's first Major League baseball player, provided the only offense of the day for Clemson, scoring on a 30-yard run late in the game. Col. Charles S. Roller, who was the head football coach at Furman, served as the only official for this game. He did not call a single penalty. The scheduled officials could not get to the game because of a railroad accident. A not between the schools' fans broke out after the game. Officials at both colleges called off the series for seven years.

1909
Clemson 6, South Carolina 0
This defensive struggle between the two teams resulted in a 6-0 Clemson victory. Fullback C.M. Robbins scored the game's only touchdown late in the first half. With Hankle gained 40 yards on a sweep to set up the score. A crowd of 2,500 fans made it out to watch the contest on what was otherwise a miserably hot day. The victory was the first over South Carolina for Tiger Head Coach Bob Williams.

1910
Clemson 24, South Carolina 0
This was the first year forward passes were deemed legal under college football rules. Clemson would use it to its advantage. With a confusing array of passplays and a strong running attack, the Tigers beat the Gamecock victory, 24-0. The Tigers reached into their bag of tricks when left halfback Marion Coles hit right halfback Paul Bissell on a "delayed pass" to make the score 12-0 at halftime. Quarterback Bill Connelly added two touchdown runs in the second half to clinch the win.

1911
Over 3,500 people came to the state fairgrounds and saw Clemson continue its dominance in the series with a 27-0 win. The Tigers led 15-0 at the half behind a Paul Bissell field goal and touchdown runs from Alex Lewis and Jonnie Kangeter. Following a scoreless third quarter, Clemson came back strong in the fourth period to put the game out of reach. Fullback Tanny Webb plowed in from a short distance to make the score 21-0. Lewis put an exclamation point on the victory when he scored his second touchdown in the final minute of play.

South Carolina pounded the ball through Clemson's defense throughout the game and cruised to a 22-7 victory. The Gamecocks survived a hot and humid day in Columbia to break Clemson's four-game winning streak in the rivalry. Billy Harsh returned a fumble 4 yards for a touchdown to give South Carolina momentum. In the second half, the Gamecocks added two touchdowns on the ground to pad their lead. Clemson's lone score was a short touchdown run by Jonnie Kangeter.

1913
Clemson rebounded from the previous year's loss to post a 32-0 win over South Carolina. Clemson scored its first two touchdowns by picking up their own fumbles. John Logan scored on a 25-yard run off-tackle to break the game open at 19-0. Clemson continued the onslaught in the second half when Shorty Schletter scored on two touchdown runs. He and Logan both scored twice.

1914
Clemson 29, South Carolina 6
Fullback Tanny Webb rushed for three touchdowns to lead Clemson over South Carolina 29-6. Kicker Dopey Major added three field goals, the first time anyone kicked three field goals in this rivalry. Webb's first touchdown came in the third quarter from 35 yards out off of a brilliantly-executed fake field goal. He added another in the third and a final score in the fourth to seal the victory.

1915
The Tigers and Gamecocks battled for four quarters, only to finish scoreless. It was the first time in the rivalry's history that the two teams tied. On a day in which both offenses struggled, the game turned into a punting contest. First downs for both teams were scarce. The game bore an old-fashioned look. Few passing plays and spread formations were used. Much of the work was done on the ground. It provided the large crowd at the fairgrounds with splendid competition between the two rivals.

1916
Clemson 27, South Carolina 0
A crowd of over 5,000 watched as Clemson took it to its rival 27-0. The Gamecocks were unable to muster any offense and struggled mightily against the Tiger defense. The Tigers were only up 7-0 at the half after a 25-yard pass from Dopey Major to Stumpy Banks. After halftime, the Tigers dominated the game. Major and Banks both scored on touchdown runs in the second half to blow the game wide open.
Clemson–South Carolina Series History

1917
Clemson 21, South Carolina 13
Fans saw an action-packed game at the fairgrounds on this day. Clemson, the heavy favorite, survived a relentless Gamecock defense to win 21-13. Clemson held a one-point lead in the final minutes when L.P. Thackston intercepted a desperate Gamecock pass and ran 25 yards for the game-clinching touchdown. The Tigers also got touchdown runs from L.R. Kay and Fish Witsell in the contest.

1918
Clemson 39, South Carolina 0
Clemson scored 26 points in the fourth quarter on its way to a 39-0 win. Offensively, the Tigers were led by halfback Boo Armstrong’s three touchdowns. Switzer Allison added two touchdowns runs. This game was extremely rough, particularly for the Gamecocks. Six players were sent to the hospital from South Carolina’s squad, while three Clemson players left the game with severe limps.

1919
Clemson 19, South Carolina 6
South Carolina fought hard defensively, but eventually succumbed to the more physical Clemson team by a score of 19-6. Clemson went up 12-0 quickly behind touchdown runs from Switzer Allison and L.D. Harris. The Gamecocks closed to 12-6 at the half after a Herbert Timmons touchdown run. The lone touchdown of the second half came when Stumpy Banks scored from six inches out. The Gamecocks battled, but were unable to score again.

1920
South Carolina 7, Clemson 0
Joe Wheeler intercepted a forward pass and raced 40 yards to score the game’s only points and give South Carolina a long-awaited victory over arch-rival Clemson. The 7-0 win was its first since 1912. Clemson appeared to be on the verge of scoring twice in the first half, but was never able to penetrate South Carolina’s dominant defensive line.

South Carolina 21, Clemson 0
South Carolina rode the strength of its defense and beat Clemson for the second consecutive year, this time by a 21-0 score. Joe Wheeler was the star for the Gamecocks. He broke through Clemson’s line with ease and on several occasions threw down Tiger runners behind the line of scrimmage. Alex Waite scored two of South Carolina’s touchdowns on the ground. The other Gamecock score was a 60-yard interception return for a touchdown by George Belk.

1922
Clemson 3, South Carolina 0
A field goal by Charlie Robinson in the second half turned out to be the only points scored in Clemson’s 3-0 win over South Carolina. Clemson nearly scored in the first quarter when Rhet Turner crossed the goal line. However, he fumbled, resulting in a touchdown. South Carolina’s lone threat came in the second half when it reached the seven-yard line. But the Gamecocks tried four straight runs and turned the ball over on downs, ending any chance.

1923
Clemson 7, South Carolina 6
This exciting game was decided by the kickers. Charlie Robinson connected on an extra point that gave Clemson the victory over South Carolina by a score of 7-6. The game was characterized by inefficient offense and lack of continuity. C.C. Garrison plunged in from two yards out to put Clemson up 7-0 in the early part of the third quarter. The play was set up by S.L. Jackson’s fumble recovery. South Carolina scored off a blocked punt when the ball was recovered in the endzone for a touchdown.

1924
South Carolina 3, Clemson 0
For the third consecutive year, the Clemson-South Carolina game was decided by a kicker. This time, a P.J. Boatwright field goal would be all the Gamecocks needed to beat the Tigers 3-0. Much of the credit went to Blake Edmunds, who helped set up Boatwright’s winning field goal. Edmunds intercepted a pass and took it to the five-yard line. Boatwright then came on to nail his kick.

South Carolina won in convincing fashion over Clemson by a score of 33-0 in front of nearly 13,000 fans, a record for the series at the time. Quarterback Bill Rogers started for the Gamecocks, as he scored twice and masterfully directed the offense. Alexander Jacewicz was also a major factor for South Carolina. He converted on all three extra points as well as three field goals in the contest.

1926
South Carolina won its third consecutive game against Clemson by crushing the Tigers 24-0. The Gamecocks exploded for three-fourth-quarter touchdowns. Quarterback Bill Rogers was responsible for two scores. The Gamecock defense was outstanding, holding Clemson to four first downs.

1927
Clemson 20, South Carolina 0
Clemson put an end to South Carolina’s three-year winning streak by defeating the Gamecocks 20-0 before a crowd of 13,000 fans in Columbia. Bud Eskew’s touchdown pass to Bob McCary put Clemson on the board early in the fourth quarter. Minutes later, Eskew returned a South Carolina punt 35 yards for a touchdown to put the Tigers ahead by a commanding 14-0 score. Eskew then put the game out of reach when he added a final touchdown near the end of the final quarter, as he rumbled up the middle for three yards and six points.

1928
Clemson 32, South Carolina 0
A large crowd saw Clemson beat South Carolina 32-0. Clemson’s defense limited the Gamecocks to just five first downs and only 39 total yards. Johnny Justus ignited the Tiger offense. He rushed for over 70 yards and a touchdown. J.K. Hane provided the play-of-the-game when he raced 32 yards for a touchdown. All-American O.K. Pressley came off the bench and had four consecutive tackles for loss to stop a Gamecock scoring opportunity and turn the momentum in Clemson’s favor.

1929
Clemson 21, South Carolina 14
Covington “Goat” McMillan gave Clemson the go-ahead score after he ran in 18-yard touchdown, as the Tigers downed South Carolina 21-14. The two teams battled fiercely, as the game went back-and-forth. Clemson struck first when Johnny Justus scored on a 14-yard run midway through the first period. South Carolina battled back with touchdowns in the second and third quarters, but lost in the final quarter by McMillan’s heroics.

1930
Clemson 20, South Carolina 7
Clemson downed South Carolina 20-7 on its way to an 8-2 record. South Carolina got on the board first when R. Baine eluded three tacklers and sprinted 64 yards for six. However, the Tigers responded with 20 straight points. Maxey Welsh, who rushed for 94 yards, threw a touchdown pass to Bob Jones to bring the Tigers back into the game. Welsh later rushed for a score, capping a memorable performance. The victory gave Josh Cody a 4-0 record against South Carolina, the only Clemson coach in the history of the series with a perfect record, given a minimum of three games coached.

South Carolina 21, Clemson 0
South Carolina scored 14 points in the final quarter to down Clemson 21-0. Earl Clay rushed for 136 yards and scored a touchdown. Defensively, South Carolina held Clemson to just six first downs and a little more than 100 yards of total offense. The game was scoreless at half, but South Carolina got going in the third period when Clay scored on a three-yard run. Quarterback Dick Shinn ruined any chance of a Tiger comeback when he ran for a 17-yard touchdown in the fourth quarter.

Clemson’s first team paved the way for future Tiger squads, like John Heisman’s perfect 6-0 team of 1900.

The 100th Game

South Carolina 14, Clemson 0

A capacity crowd was on hand as South Carolina was victorious again. The Gamecocks scored two second-half touchdowns to earn a 14-0 win. A Gamecock punt hit Gene Willimon in the leg during the third quarter, making the ball live. South Carolina's Henry Willard dove it on for a touchdown. Earl Clary threw a touchdown pass in the fourth to seal the win. It was a miserable day for Clemson's offense, as it could only manage to gain just three first downs in the entire game.

1933

South Carolina 7, Clemson 0

Fred Hambrght caught a 25-yard touchdown pass in the first quarter. It would be all the Gamecocks needed to beat Clemson. The 7-0 victory marked the third consecutive year that South Carolina defeated Clemson. Harold Mauney and Wilburn Clary both gained over 100 yards rushing to pace the Gamecock attack. Clemson's offense was nonexistent for the third year in a row. This time, Clemson gained only four first downs and had under 100 yards of total offense.

1934

Clemson 18, South Carolina 0

Clemson's offense finally showed up and helped the Tigers down the Gamecocks 19-0. It was a dismal game for South Carolina's offense. The Gamecocks gained only six yards on the ground. The victory was the first for Clemson Head Coach Jess Neely in four tries against South Carolina. The player of the game for Clemson was Stan Fellers, who kicked two lengthy field goals.

1935

Clemson 44, South Carolina 0

Clemson rode a strong running game to a decisive victory over South Carolina 44-0. The Tigers rushed for 309 yards in the contest. Clemson led just 11-0 at the half, but poured it on in the second stanza. Joe Net Berry ran for two touchdowns in addition to his team-best 89 yards rushing. Streuck Lawton also ran for a touchdown. But Lawson's highlight-reel play came in the waning moments of the game when he stepped in front of a Gamecock pass and sprinted 30 yards for the final touchdown.

1936

Clemson 28, South Carolina 0

The rivalry's 40th anniversary saw a consistent Clemson rushing attack lead the way over the Gamecocks by a 19-0 score. The Tigers were led by the duo of Streuck Lawton and Mac Folger. The two combined for 146 rushing yards, while Folger was responsible for all three Tiger touchdowns. South Carolina kept pace with Clemson for most of the day, but did not do a good job of converting its opportunities. Drives either stalled out deep in Clemson territory or ended with lost fumbles.

1937

Clemson 34, South Carolina 6

Clemson won its fourth consecutive game over South Carolina by a score of 34-6. A crowd of greater than 19,000 watched as the Tigers piled up 265 rushing yards in the game. Don Willis ran for 73 yards and two touchdowns to lead the Tiger offense. Right halfback Ben Pearson averaged 8.8 yards on the day, also scored a touchdown for Clemson. Mistakes hurt South Carolina badly, as the team fumbled nine times and lost four of them.

1938

Clemson 34, South Carolina 12

Clemson jumped out to an early 20-0 lead and held on to defeat South Carolina 34-12. The game featured strong running efforts from both teams. South Carolina ran for 208 yards on the day, while Clemson rushed for 254. The play-of-the-game came from Clemson halfback Shad Bryant. With Clemson already up 14-0 midway through the first quarter, Bryant turned a simple toss sweep into a 70-yard touchdown run. South Carolina scored 12 points in the final quarter, but it was too late at that point for a comeback.

1939

Clemson 27, South Carolina 0

Clemson defeated South Carolina 27-0 behind 304 rushing yards and a stellar defensive performance. The game featured line performances by Shad Bryant and All-American Banks McFadden. The two each rushed for 63 yards. McFadden struck early, as he caught a short pass out of the backfield and raced 20 yards for a touchdown. Bryant's spectacular play was a 36-yard run early in the game that helped set up McFadden's catch-and-run.

1940

Clemson 21, South Carolina 13

Clemson lengthened its winning streak in the rivalry to seven games after the Tigers beat the Gamecocks 21-13. The win was legendary Head Coach Frank Howard's first against South Carolina. George Floyd scored from six yards out to put Clemson on the board first. Then, Charlie Wright intercepted a Gamecock pass deep in South Carolina territory. Joe Bell caught a pass around on the next play for a 15-yard touchdown. Just that quickly, the score was 14-0. It was a tough day for Gamecock passers, who were responsible for throwing five interceptions in the game.

South Carolina jumped out to an 18-0 lead by halftime and Clemson could not recover, as it fell to the Gamecocks 18-14. South Carolina used a speedy ground game and spectacular passing to get past the Tigers. A Grygo scored a touchdown run straight up the gut in the late stages of the second quarter to put the Gamecocks ahead by 18 points at halftime. Clemson stormed back in the second half. Booty Payne almost single-handedly brought the Tigers back into the contest. But it was not enough, as time ran out on Clemson.

1942

Clemson 18, South Carolina 6

Marion "Butch" Butler turned in one of the greatest individual performances in the rivalry's history when he led Clemson to an 18-6 win over South Carolina. Butler, a versatile athlete from Greenville, played a big part in each touchdown. He started the Tigers off by throwing a seven-yard touchdown pass to Chip Clark in the second quarter. He struck again in the third, hitting Red Stacey on a 32-yard pass for another score. He capped his day off with an elusive, cross-field 64-yard run.

1943

South Carolina 33, Clemson 6

South Carolina scored 33 unanswered points in the second half to defeat Clemson 33-6. The Gamecocks overcame a sluggish first half to take over the game. In the first half, only Marion Butler's deep punts could save Clemson. The second half proved to be different. South Carolina's ferocious defense held Clemson to one first down, while the offense came to life. The Gamecocks gained over 300 yards of total offense. The play-of-the-game occurred in the third quarter when Phil Cantore picked up a teammate's fumble. Instead of faking on the ball to avoid a turnover, Cantore picked it up and ran. What resulted was a 70-yard touchdown scamper that ended any hope for Clemson.

1944

Clemson rushed for 302 yards and upset the favored Gamecocks 20-13. Tigers Sid Tringley and Bill Rogers were the workhorses in the backfield. The fullback (Rogers) scored two touchdowns for the Tigers, both on runs of five yards. Tringley made the game's big play, a 42-yard burst for Clemson's second touchdown. South Carolina's offense struggled throughout the contest and was held to only 149 total yards.

1945

Clemson 0, South Carolina 0

Reminiscent of the 1915 contest, this one also resulted in a scoreless tie. A capacity crowd sat through drizzling rain and saw one of the rivalry's greatest defensive battles. Neither offense was able to mount much of a charge. Clemson's biggest threat occurred on the opening drive, when the Tigers got down to South Carolina's 17-yard line. However, South Carolina forced and recovered a fumble. South Carolina's only scoring threat was in the final minutes. The Gamecocks drove to Clemson's 28-yard line, but the drive stalled as time expired.

South Carolina 26, Clemson 14

South Carolina scored two touchdowns in the final quarter to defeat Clemson 26-14. Red Harrison scored the go-ahead touchdown on a 12-yard run and the Gamecocks never looked back. Red Wilson scored on an end-around in the game's final minutes to secure the victory. The Gamecocks rushed for over 200 yards and also passed for over 100, giving them the balance it took to win the game. The game was played in unusual circumstances, as over 10,000 counterfeit tickets were printed and fans stormed the gates just before kickoff. The crowd even moved on to the field at one point. Coach Howard recalled a fan standing next to him on the sideline telling him what play to call.

South Carolina 21, Clemson 19
Bishop Strickland went 38 yards untouched on a reverse to score a touchdown. The excitement never let up. Clemson missed two crucial extra points, and as a result fell to South Carolina by a score of 21-19. Strickland ran for 71 yards. Teammate Bobby Giles intercepted a pass in Clemson territory, then ran in a one-yard touchdown to give South Carolina the lead for good. Clemson was led by Ray Matthews, who rushed for 104 yards, including a 66-yard touchdown run early in the contest.

1948
Clemson 13, South Carolina 7
Clemson rallied to score 13 points in the final quarter and beat South Carolina 13-7 to preserve a perfect season. For three quarters, the Tigers trailed 7-0. South Carolina jumped on top early after Bo Hagan hit Red Wilson on a 12-yard touchdown pass. Clemson roared back in the fourth. After Carol Cox scored to close the gap to 7-6, the Tigers made one last, desperate attempt to win. Clemson's Phil Prince blocked Bo Hagan's punt with just 4:15 left, and Oscar Thompson scooped it up and ran it in from 11 yards out for the winning score.

South Carolina's strong running game propelled the Gamecocks to victory over Clemson 27-13. With the game tied at 13-13 in the fourth quarter, South Carolina reeled off 14 unanswered points to clinch the win. South Carolina had 269 rushing yards. Quarterback Bo Hagan accounted for three of them, rushing for two and throwing for another. Clemson held a 13-0 lead at the end of the first quarter, but failed to score again due to costly errors.

1950
Clemson 14, South Carolina 14
Numerous penalties cost South Carolina a chance of victory. Fortunately for the Gamecocks, Clemson was unable to take full advantage of their mistakes. This game saw several holding and clipping calls against South Carolina's scoring threats, and as a result, the two teams tied 14-14. Steve Wadiak was a man amongst boys in this game. The Gamecock halfback rushed for 256 yards on 19 carries, including two touchdowns, still the most rushing yards ever against Clemson in a single game. Clemson was led by fullback Fred Cone, who ran for 117 yards and a touchdown.

South Carolina 20, Clemson 0
Billy Stephens set the tone for this game in the first quarter. The Gamecock quarterback scored a touchdown on a nifty 74-yard punt return. After that, the Gamecocks never looked back, winning by a final margin of 20-0. Both defenses were held in check for most of the day. Each team turned the ball over several times, including three interceptions thrown by each team. The game was characterized by two big plays. In addition to the play mentioned above, Harry Jabbusch intercepted a pass by Clemson's Billy Hair and raced 13 yards for the game's final touchdown.

1952
South Carolina 6, Clemson 0
Clemson's offense was completely shut down in a 6-0 loss to nemesis South Carolina. Clemson turned the ball over six times and had just five first downs in the entire game. South Carolina scored on the game's first series when Gene Wilson hauled in a touchdown pass from Johnny Gamblin. That turned out to be the only big play South Carolina needed, as the Tiger offense sputtered and struggled throughout the day.

South Carolina 14, Clemson 7
Clemson had two costly lummies that led to another 14-7 Gamecock win. Tiger quarterback Don King was spectacular. However, when King left the game in the first half due to injury, the Clemson offense struggled. Red Whitten fumbled on South Carolina's five-yard line to make the first mistake. Following another lummy, Gamecock quarterback Bill Wohrman found Joe Silas for a 21-yard touchdown. Clemson's only score was a touchdown pass from backup quarterback Tommy Williams.

South Carolina 13, Clemson 8
South Carolina continued its streak of dominance over Clemson, this time by a score of 13-8. A fourth-quarter interception by Mackie Prickett ended the Tigers' hopes of victory on this day. That proved to be the costly error Clemson was hoping to avoid. The Tigers outgained the Gamecocks in yardage, but could not make up for the crucial mistake. Tiger quarterback Don King threw the interception on South Carolina's five-yard line.

A hungry Clemson team halted South Carolina's winning ways by a score of 28-14. The Tigers regained their offensive punch by rushing the ball for 283 yards in the contest. It was Clemson's first "Big Thursday" win since 1948. Joel Wells ran extremely well all day for the Tigers. He rushed for 116 yards on only 17 carries, including a touchdown. Charlie Bussey provided the Tigers' big play by connecting with Willie Smith for a 55-yard touchdown early in the first quarter.

1956
Clemson 7, South Carolina 0
Clemson used an early touchdown and a hard-nosed defensive effort to beat South Carolina 7-0. Charlie Bussey scored on a one-yard plunge in the first quarter to give Clemson the lead for good. Defensively, Donnie Bunton and John Gidjian stood out for the Tigers. Bunton was credited with 10 tackles in the game, while Gidjian contributed with nine stops. Although South Carolina outgained Clemson in almost every statistical category, mistakes hurt the Gamecocks. Clemson's defense caused the Gamecocks to turn the ball over five times in the game.

1957
Clemson used a balanced offensive strategy and strong defense to defeat the Gamecocks 13-0. Quarterback Harvey White threw a 15-yard touchdown pass to Whitney Jordan for Clemson's first score. The Tigers added another score on Rudy Hayes' one-yard dive. As a team, the Gamecocks threw for only 16 yards in the entire game. Clemson, meanwhile, rushed for 153 yards and threw for 130 in a more balanced offense.

South Carolina 26, Clemson 6
South Carolina rushed for 262 yards and easily got past Clemson 26-6 in Columbia. The Gamecocks scored 20 unanswered points in the second half to easily pull away for the victory. Four different Gamecock players scored on touchdown runs for the Gamecocks. Frank Howard was a legend in the coaching profession during the mid-20th century. He led 165 wins in 30 years (1940-69) at Clemson and helped create the great rivalry that Clemson-South Carolina is today.
South Carolina. The Gamecocks' balanced rushing attack was led by John Saunders, who rushed for 69 yards and a touchdown. Bobby Bunch also contributed for South Carolina with 61 rushing yards and a touchdown run.

Clemson 27, South Carolina 0
Clemson downed South Carolina 27-0 in the series' last 'Big Thursday' game. 'Big Thursday' was a tradition for the rivals, but this was the last played the Thursday of the state fair week. Harvey White tossed two touchdowns in a fine individual performance. He completed 8-10 passes for 162 yards and two touchdowns. The 282.1 efficiency rating is still second best in Clemson history given a minimum of 10 attempts. He hit Gary Barnes on a 30-yard pass for the first touchdown. Then, he hooked up with Bill Mathis on a 26-yard touchdown in the third quarter. It was a disappointing day for South Carolina and its fans, as they barely managed to gain 100 yards of total offense.

1960
Clemson 12, South Carolina 2
For the first time in the series, the game was played outside of Columbia. Clemson defeated South Carolina 12-2 in the first rivalry game played at Clemson's Memorial Stadium, better known as Death Valley, could hold up to 45,000 spectators at the time. It filled up quickly for this one. Clemson led 3-0 after Lon Armstrong booted a 45-yard field goal. But South Carolina came right back and downed Lowndes Shingles in the end zone for a safety. Mack Matthews added a seven-yard touchdown run for Clemson in the fourth period. Clemson added two points to its lead on a safety after Tommy Pilcher's wild lateral went into the endzone.

South Carolina used an old Clemson trick and scored the game-winning touchdown off of a blocked punt to beat the Tigers 21-14. Clemson was inefficient throughout the game, thanks in large part to four costly turnovers. South Carolina used a balanced running game to keep the Tiger offense off the field. Billy Gambrell had 112 total yards and scored the Gamecocks' initial touchdown. Jim Costen, who scored on the blocked punt, also ran for a score in a fine all-around effort.

1962
Clemson 20, South Carolina 17
A packed crowd of spectators filled Memorial Stadium to see another epic battle between Clemson and South Carolina. Fans got their money's worth in Clemson's thrilling 20-17 victory over South Carolina. Clemson racked up over 300 yards on the ground to control the line of scrimmage. However, kicker Rodney Rogers was the star most fans remember from this particular game. Rogers, a little-used player, kicked two field goals, including the game-winner in the final two minutes. South Carolina drove deep into Clemson territory late in the game, but the Tiger defense sacked South Carolina quarterback Dan Reeves on the last play of the game. The Tigers wore blue jerseys for this game, the same jerseys they had worn in the 1959 Sugar Bowl against Louisiana State.

1963
Clemson 24, South Carolina 20
All-ACC fullback Pat Crain, who led the Tigers in rushing, was named the game's most valuable player after leading Clemson to a 20-24 victory over South Carolina. Crain consistently bullied through South Carolina's line and punished the defenders. Hugh Maurawn, who also punted for Clemson, scored a touchdown with the win. Head Coach Frank Howard improved his record to 11-11-2 against the Gamecocks. The game was played on Thanksgiving Day due to the death of President Kennedy the previous Friday. Clemson had driven all the way to Columbia the day before to turn around the next day and head back to Clemson. The game was not called until late that Friday evening.

South Carolina 7, Clemson 3
In a down year for both teams, South Carolina edged Clemson by a score of 7-3. Clemson back Pat Crain, who rushed for 69 yards in the afternoon, fumbled on a goal-line stand by the South Carolina defense. The Gamecocks marched down the field on the ensuing drive after the fumble and scored a touchdown on Jim Rogers' 12-yard jaunt. The Tigers rushed for 227 yards in the contest, but could not get the ball across the goal line. The Tigers' only points came on a 24-yard field goal by kicker Frank Pearce.

South Carolina 17, Clemson 16
Clemson edged South Carolina in almost every statistic. However, the most important statistic was missing for Clemson...the score. South Carolina downed Clemson 17-16 when a Tiger gamble failed in the game's final minute. After Thomas Ray's touchdown pass to Phil Rogers, the Tigers trailed 17-16. Instead of tying the game with an extra point, Coach Frank Howard elected to go for the two-point conversion. His mind was set on an ACC championship. The two-point conversion failed and the two teams shared the ACC title. Coach Howard later explained that his Tigers "didn't come to tie."

1966
Clemson 35, South Carolina 10
Clemson clinched its fourth outright ACC crown and dispensed the previous year's loss to South Carolina by winning 35-10 over the Gamecocks. Buddy Gore, one of Clemson's top career rushers, had 130 yards on 25 carries to lead the Tiger offense. Clemson scored 21 unanswered points in the second half behind two touchdown passes from Jimmy Addison. The Tigers rushed for 255 yards in the game as well. Jacky Jackson, the backup tailback, had two rushing touchdowns on the day. However, the highlight of the day came from offensive guard Harry Oslezewski, who scored on a 12-yard fumble snap early in the fourth quarter. No Clemson offensive lineman has scored since that moment.

Clemson 23, South Carolina 12
Clemson capped an unbeaten ACC regular-season record by defeating South Carolina 23-12 in Columbia. Once again, the Tigers' powerful running game rushed for over 200 yards and controlled the ball much of the game. Buddy Gore, the ACC Player-of-the-Year, was dominant again, as he rushed for 189 yards on 31 carries. He went over the 1,000-yard mark in the process, the first Tiger to have a 1,000-yard rushing season. Tiger backfielder Jimmy Addison played a big part in the win for the second consecutive year. This time, he ran and threw for a touchdown. South Carolina beat itself for most of the day with costly penalties and four turnovers.
1968
South Carolina 7, Clemson 3
Both teams experienced losing seasons, but the rivalry game was still filled with excitement. South Carolina won by a slim margin 7-3. Tyler Hellams provided the game's only touchdown when he brilliantly ran back a punt for 73 yards in the third quarter. South Carolina passed for 215 yards, but much of that was negated by five interceptions thrown. Clemson only gained 156 total yards and had six turnovers.

1969
South Carolina 27, Clemson 13
Clemson said goodbye to a true legend in Frank Howard, who ended his reign as Tigers' head coach. Unfortunately, he was not able to win his final game, as the Gamecocks won 27-13. His 155 career victories include 13 against South Carolina. But this was not to be the Tigers' day. During his 30 years as head coach, Clemson and South Carolina both scored the exact same number of points (411). Warren Muir led the Gamecocks with 128 yards rushing and a touchdown. It was also a big day for wide receiver Fred Zeigler, who caught nine passes for 122 yards. Clemson's only spark came from Ray Yauger, who scored two touchdowns.

South Carolina 38, Clemson 32
Although this was a down year for both teams, the game proved to be one of the most exciting of the season. Tommy Suggs put on one of the greatest passing exhibitions ever seen in this series to lead South Carolina to a 38-32 win. Suggs, who was 3-0 against Clemson, connected on 19 of 29 pass attempts for a total of 316 yards and three touchdowns. Clemson gained over 300 yards in Hootie Ingram's first rivalry game as the Tigers' head coach, but could not overcome Suggs' brilliance.

1971
Clemson 17, South Carolina 7
A record crowd of over 57,000 saw undergrad Clemson come into Columbia and knock off the Gamecocks 17-7. Quarterback Tommy Kendrick had a fine game, throwing for a touchdown and directing the Tiger offense to another. All 17 points for Clemson were scored in the second quarter. It all started when Eddie Seigler kicked a field goal of 52 yards, still a Clemson-South Carolina game record to this day.

1972
Clemson 7, South Carolina 6
Clemson defeated South Carolina 7-6 in what turned out to be the last game of Hootie Ingram's brief tenure as the Tigers' head coach. Linebacker Jimmy Williamson was the hero, batting down a Gamecock two-point conversion attempt to preserve the win. Clemson rushed for 205 yards. Hal Davis ran for 100 yards, while Smiley Sanders scored the Tigers' only touchdown in the contest. South Carolina turned the ball over five times against none for Clemson to establish the difference in the game.

South Carolina 32, Clemson 20
Fred Parker's first rivalry game as head coach did not go the way he had hoped. South Carolina knocked off Clemson by a score of 32-20 behind the stellar performance of Quarterback Jeff Grantz. Grantz rushed for 185 yards on 31 carries and was 8-16 for 121 yards passing in a fine all-around effort. He also accounted for two of the team's four touchdowns. South Carolina racked up 516 yards of total offense on the day. Clemson was led by three touchdown runs from Smiley Sanders.

1974
Clemson 38, South Carolina 21
Clemson whipped South Carolina 39-21 behind the strength of two outstanding individual performances. Ken Calicut, the Tigers' tailback, rushed for 197 yards on 27 carries and also had 55 receiving yards. His 197 rushing yards and 252 all-purpose yards are still records for a Clemson player in this series. Defensively, middle guard Willie Anderson was dominant for the Tigers. He had a game-high 21 tackles, an amazingly high number for a defensive lineman. In fact, his performance is still a Clemson record for a lineman for a single game.

1975
South Carolina 56, Clemson 20
Clemson concluded one of its worst seasons with a 56-20 defeat at the hands of South Carolina. The 36-point deficit remains the largest margin of victory for South Carolina in the series. A pair of runningbacks led the Gamecocks in this affair.

1976
Clemson 28, South Carolina 9
Clemson won 28-9 in what was Coach Red Parker's last game in charge of the Tigers. A pair of freshmen led Clemson in this particular game. Tracy Perry rushed for 98 yards on 16 carries to earn ACC Rookie-of-the-Week honors. Rex Varn, a cornerback, intercepted a pass and tipped another that was picked off by a teammate. Varn was named ACC Defensive Back-of-the-Week for his efforts. South Carolina had 88 total plays against the Tigers, an extremely high number, but was only able to manage nine points in the contest. Clemson warmed up on the soccer field (now a parking lot above the North upper deck stands) and never appeared on the field until the Tigers ran down the Hill.

1977
Clemson 31, South Carolina 27
All-American Jerry Butler will always be remembered by Clemson fans for his heroics in this one. Butler made a diving backwards catch from Steve Fuller on a 20-yard touchdown pass with 49 seconds remaining to lead Clemson past South Carolina 31-27. "The Catch," as it came to be known, was Butler's fourth touchdown of the season and perhaps Clemson's most famous in history. Clemson opened with a 24-0 lead, then trailed 27-24 before the heroics of Fuller and Butler. Many regard it as the most important play in Clemson football history. The victory gave the Tigers a bid to the Gator Bowl, its first bowl bid in 18 years.

1978
Clemson finished the regular season with a 10-1 record after beating South Carolina 41-23 in Death Valley. It was Clemson's first 10-win year since the 1948 season. The Tigers had three players rush for over at least 100 yards on the ground, the first time that had happened since the 1950 season. This proved to be Charley Pell's last game as Clemson head coach. Tailback Lester Brown led the Tiger ground attack with 121 yards on 27 carries. Marvin Sims ran for 104 yards on 15 carries as well. Steve Fuller, one of Clemson's greatest quarterbacks in history and a Ring of Honor member, added 108 rushing yards on the day. South Carolina also had 310 yards rushing, but was not enough to overcome the Tigers' 18-point victory. The 707 combined rushing yards by both teams is still today a Clemson record for rushing yards by two teams combined.

South Carolina used a balanced offensive attack to defeat Clemson 13-9 in a battle of two nationally-ranked teams. Punter Jay Feitz backed Clemson up to its own four-yard line when he booted an 80-yard punt. Quarterback Billy Lott drove the Tigers all the way to South Carolina's five-yard line, but a fourth-down pass fell incomplete. Kicker Obed Ariiri scored all of Clemson's points. He connected on kicks of 23, 28, and 35 yards. George Rogers led South Carolina with 102 rushing yards on 27 carries. South Carolina's go-ahead score occurred when Ben Cornett caught a two-yard touchdown pass fromGary Harper. The game was Danny Ford's first rivalry game as Clemson's head coach.

1980
Clemson 27, South Carolina 6
Strong safety Willie Underwood intercepted two passes, returning one for a touchdown and the other 64 yards to set up another touchdown. He also made a game-high 17 tackles to lead Clemson to a 27-6 victory over South Carolina. Underwood was named National Defensive Player-of-the-Week by Sports Illustrated for his performance. It was his 47th game as a Clemson player, but his first career interceptions. Heisman Trophy winner George Rogers paced the Gamecocks with 168 rushing yards, but was unable to pick up the slack for his teammates. He finished his four-year career without having scored a touchdown against Clemson. Homer Jordan led the Clemson offense with 152 yards passing and a rushing touchdown.

1981
Clemson 29, South Carolina 13
Clemson concluded its perfect regular season with a 29-13 win over arch-rival South Carolina on its way to the national championship. Chuck McSwain ran for 152 yards and two scores to lead the Tiger offense. Just as Clemson had done in defeating South Carolina in 1948 to record a perfect season, Rod McSwain made a memorable play when he blocked a Chris Norman punt. Johnny Rembert fell on the ball to score a touchdown. After defeating the Gamecocks, the Tigers accepted an Orange Bowl bid and then defeated college football powerhouse Nebraska by a score of 22-15 to secure its only national championship.

1982
Clemson 24, South Carolina 6
Cliff Austin rushed for 117 yards and two touchdowns to lead Clemson over South Carolina by a score of 24-6. Clemson scored a balanced attack, with 209 rushing yards and 161 in the air. Austin's first score was set up by a 51-yard pass play from Homer Jordan to Jeff Stockstill, brother of current Clemson Assistant Coach Rick Stockstill. Clemson's All-American safety Terry Kinard intercepted his 17th career pass in this game, which tied an ACC record at the time and is still the Clemson career record.

1983
Clemson won its fourth consecutive game over South Carolina by a 22-13 score behind 222 team rushing yards and three field goals by Bob Paulling. Tailback Stacey Driver led the Tigers in rushing with 110 yards. Fellow backfield mate Kevin Mack rushed for 67 yards and a touchdown on the day as well. Clemson jumped out to a 9-0 lead after Braxton Williams' only career touchdown. South Carolina outgained Clemson in yardage, but turned the ball over four times in the game.

Clemson held a 21-3 lead late in the first half, but was not able to hold on and fell to South Carolina 22-21. Mike Hold scored from one yard out with just 54 seconds remaining to give South Carolina the edge. The Gamecocks missed the extra point, but Clemson was called for too many men on the field and South Carolina converted on the second attempt to win the game. It was South Carolina's first win at Clemson since 1970. South Carolina ended the regular season with a 10-1 record. Their only defeat had come against Navy. The Gamecocks rushed for 275 yards, with three different backs gaining at least 75 yards. Quinton Lewis, who led South Carolina with 85 yards rushing, scored a touchdown late in the first half to give the Gamecocks momentum heading into the lockerroom. It was the only home loss suffered by Clemson's senior class, which was led by All-American William Perry.

1985
Clemson 24, South Carolina 17

The two teams battled endlessly to the series' first tie since 1950. This back-and-forth game finished with a 21-21 score. David Treadwell made a 31-yard field goal with less than three minutes left in the game to tie it. Gamecock quarterback Todd Ellis had a fine game with 275 passing yards and one touchdown. Future NFL great Sterling Sharpe, perhaps South Carolina's greatest receiver ever, was the recipient of Ellis' 72-yard touchdown strike. Clemson held over 38 minutes of possession in this game, as witnessed by the team's 67 running attempts, but could not post a victory.

South Carolina 20, Clemson 7
This battle of ranked teams went in South Carolina's favor by a score of 20-7 after the Gamecocks scored 14 unanswered points in the second half to pull away. Clemson got on the board first when Wesley McFadden scored on a two-yard touchdown, completing a 94-yard drive. But the Tigers' offense was shut down after that. South Carolina got two field goals from Collin Mackie and a six-yard touchdown run by Harold Green to stretch its lead to 13-7. With the game still in the balance, Brad Edwards picked off a pass by Rodney Willams and returned it 49 yards for the gam clinching touchdown.

As a freshman in 1981, William Perry helped Clemson to the National Championship and a 29-13 victory over South Carolina in Columbia.

Fullback Tony Kennedy added 67 yards and two more scores in a backup role. Clemson's vaunted defense held South Carolina's offense to just 155 yards and forced five turnovers. Doug Brewster led Clemson with 10 tackles, while Wayne Simmons had eight stops, a sack, and two pass breakups. It was Danny Ford's final game coaching in the series. He finished with a 7-3-1 record against South Carolina.

All-American punter Chris Gardocki had a 78-yard punt in the fourth quarter, his last kick in Death Valley.

South Carolina freshman quarterback Steve Tanevill passed for 296 yards and two touchdowns to lead the Gamecocks over the Tigers 24-13. Clemson looked to be in good position after linebacker Tim Jones picked off a Tanevill pass and raced 26 yards for a touchdown. However, South Carolina put the game away behind Tanevill's passing and the running of Brandon Bennett. With the game outcome still uncertain, Bennett scored from four yards out to secure the win for South Carolina. Wayne Simmons led the Tigers with three tackles for loss, which included one and a half sacks.

Derrick Witherspoon scored Clemson's only touchdown in the third quarter. Dexter McCleon, now a defensive back in the NFL, started at quarterback as a freshman. It was a strong day for three particular Tiger defenders. LaMarick Simpson, Mike Barber, and Tim Jones each had a dozen tackles. Brandon Bennette rushed for 104 yards and a touchdown to lead the Gamecock offense. Clemson's offense struggled to the tune of just 177 total yards. Reid Morton connected on two field goals to pad South Carolina's lead.

Clemson scored 31 points and had a flurry of big plays in the second half to down South Carolina 38-17. Steve Tanevill threw a touchdown pass to Stanley Pritchett to give South Carolina a 17-10 lead early in the third period. Clemson then opened up its offense. Receiver Antwan Wyatt caught a short pass, then followed fellow receiver Tony Horne to a 56-yard touchdown. Raymond Priester, Clemson's career rushing leader, who played most of the game with a pulled hamstring, had 85 yards rushing and a touchdown. But, the play-of-the-game that will always be remembered by Tiger fans was Emory Smith's fourth-quarter run when he dragged a Gamecock defender nearly 15 yards. Tanevill finished his career with a 2-2 record against Clemson (2-0 in Death Valley and 0-2 at Williams-Brice Stadium).

Matt Padgett missed on a 37-yard field goal in the game's final moments that could have tied the game for Clemson.

Clemson 47, South Carolina 21
Clemson scored 27 points in the third quarter alone on its way to a 47-21 rout of South Carolina. The Gamecocks got up early after Troy Hambrick broke away for two long touchdown runs. However, the third quarter proved to be too much for South Carolina to overcome. Nealon Greene found Tony Horne open for a 15-yard touchdown to open the scoring in the third period. Minutes later, Horne weaved his way through several South Carolina defenders and cut across the field for a 39-yard punt return and a score. Then, cornerback Antwan Edwards stepped in front of Vic Penn's pass and ran 42 yards for a touchdown. Greene then hit Mal
Rod Gardner's 50-yard catch from Woodrow Dantzler with 10 seconds left in the game set up Aaron Hunt's 25-yard game-winning field goal, breaking the Gamecocks' hearts in Clemson's 16-14 victory in 2000.
