Aaron Hunt .................. 6,7
Senior Spotlight
The kicker who critics said would never play at this level has left a permanent mark on the Tiger recordbooks. With 14 points against #3 Florida State, Aaron Hunt became Clemson's all-time leading scorer, surpassing the likes of Nelson Welsh, Chris Gardocki, David Treadwell, and Obad Ariri.

Military Heritage ............. 10,11
Clemson University
Clemson University was a military college in its infancy. Training soldiers to lead our fight, protect democracy and protect the people who are able to live in freedom because of what this university did. The fact that we are here today, we owe to the thousands of men and women who have died to give us that freedom.

Tyrone Lee .................. 13
Senior Spotlight
Former walk-on Tyrone Lee is a testament to hard work paying off in terms of earning a scholarship. Though he will not be playing in the NFL (the usual measuring stick of success) on Sunday afternoons in the future, Lee, with help from his family and friends, has already found success in life.

Keith Adams .................. 63
Former Tiger All-American
From star linebacker to unsung "wedge buster," former Tiger Keith Adams knows what it takes to make a good team. The Philadelphia Eagle has experienced much in his short professional career and is now trying to help his team to the Super Bowl as a standout on the Eagles' special teams.

Stacy Long .................. 119
Genorosity to Fight Cystic Fibrosis
The former Tiger offensive lineman and two-time All-American has made it his mission in his life to help find a cure for Cystic Fibrosis. The twin sons of former teammate Chuck O'Brien are his inspiration for organizing a benefit in the Chicago area to raise money to fight the disease.

The Last Word ............. 120
2003 Senior Class
Fifteen Tiger seniors will play their final home game today in Death Valley. The group has a chance to be a part of five bowl teams and has record-setters among them, including Aaron Hunt and Kevin Youngblood. Graduation and character are also common words associated with the 2003 senior class.

2003 Clemson Football
Two Teams Coming Off Noteworthy Victories

Two teams coming off emotional home-field victories will compete in Death Valley today in the home finale for the Tigers. Clemson enters the game after defeating #3 Florida State by a score of 26-10 last Saturday evening. That afternoon, Duke ended a 30-game ACC losing streak with a resounding 41-17 victory over a Georgia Tech team that had not lost since losing to Clemson in September.

The Tigers had not beaten Florida State since the Seminoles entered the ACC and had never defeated Bobby Bowden in Death Valley in six previous meetings. But, Clemson stopped the Florida State running game, limiting the Seminoles to just 11 yards the entire night. The result was a sound victory over the nation’s #3-ranked team. It was the highest-ranked team Clemson has beaten in its history, topping the wins over fourth-ranked teams (Georgia and Nebraska) in 1981.

Duke ended its four-year drought in ACC play behind the running of Chris Douglas, now the top rusher in the ACC. He carried 30 times for a career-high 218 yards and two touchdowns to pace the Duke offense against Georgia Tech. Malcolm Ruff had a 42-yard interception return for a touchdown that keyed the defensive performance.

Douglas became the first Duke player to top the 200-yard mark in nine games when he scored on a 27-yard touchdown run with just 2:49 left. The 218 yards were the third highest in school history. It marked the third-straight game Douglas had reached at least 100 yards rushing. Overall, Duke had 253 yards rushing against a Georgia Tech team that had allowed a league-best 95 yards per game on the ground entering the contest.

For the season, Douglas has 957 yards on the ground and obviously needs just 43 yards rushing to reach the 1,000-yard mark. He also has 18 catches out of the backfield, so he will be a prime concern for Leroy Hill, John Leake, and the Clemson defense. Douglas averages 124 all-purpose running yards per game as well, second in the ACC to Clemson’s Derrick Hamilton.

Playing Through the Roof

Ted Roof has taken over the reigns as head coach of the Duke football program and his team has responded. This will be his fourth game as head coach. The team played 60 competitive minutes against N.C. State and Tennessee, and soundly defeated Georgia Tech by 24 points. It was an ironic first victory for Roof as head coach, because he was a star player for the Yellow Jackets in the 1980s.

Today’s game will be the first time an interim head coach has brought a team to Death Valley. In 1994, George O’Leary coached his first game for Georgia Tech in a November contest at Clemson. The Tigers won that game behind freshman Nealon Greene by a score of 20-10.

Roof is in his second tour of duty with the Duke program. He served as outside linebacker coach from 1990-93 and returned to the Duke program in 2002 as defensive coordinator. He served in that capacity prior to being elevated to the interim head coaching position in October.

Roof began his coaching career in 1987 as a graduate assistant at Alabama under Bill Curry. One of the assistant coaches on that Alabama staff was Tommy Bowden. They were on the same staff.

Clemson

Tommy Bowden is 4-0 against the Blue Devils, including last year’s 34-31 victory at Durham. Bowden-coached Clemson teams have averaged 50.8 points per game against Duke, including 58.5 points in a game in two games in Death Valley. The last time Duke came to Clemson, the Tigers came away with a 59-31 victory. That game was played on December 1, 2001 and marked the day that Woodrow Dantzel became the first player in college football history to record 2,000 yards passing and 1,000 yards receiving in the same season.

Clemson scored at least 50 points in each of Bowden’s first three games against Duke, the only time in history Clemson has scored at least 50 points against the same ACC team three consecutive years. Clemson went for over 50 points in five straight seasons against Presbyterian from 1948-52.

Hamilton, Hunt Career Record Holders

It certainly was quite a night in Death Valley on November 8. Not only did the Tigers defeat #3 Florida State, two Clemson career records were set. Given Clemson’s 108-year history of football, rarely do you see any career record broken in a given game. But, last Saturday, Derrick Hamilton became Clemson’s career leader in all-purpose running yards and Aaron Hunt became the school’s all-time leading returner. Hamilton set the record with two returns and was eclipsed within about 20 minutes of each other.

Derrick Hamilton had an outstanding game, with six catches for 123 yards and a touchdown. He also added 12 yards rushing and seven yards in punt returns, giving him 142 all-purpose yards for the night. On a 58-yard touchdown catch and run from Charlie Whitehurst, Hamilton broke Travis Zachery’s career all-purpose yardage record and went over the 2,000-yard mark in career receiving.

Hamilton, only a junior, now has 4,412 all-purpose (receiving yards, rushing yards, punt returns, and kickoff returns) running yards for his career. He broke the previous record of 4,391 set by Zachery from 1998-01. He entered the season in sixth place, but has now risen to first.

The native of Dillon, SC is one of the top big-play performers in school history. There have been five plays in Clemson history of 100 yards and he owns two of them, 100-yard kickoff returns for touchdowns against Maryland in 2001 and against North Carolina this year. He is already Clemson’s career leader in kickoff return yards, a mark he set at Wake Forest. He now has 1,486 yards in that category.

Hamilton was the first Clemson receiver in history to have at least 100 catches through the end of his sophomore year, as he has 152 career catches for 2,349 yards. He is currently on the Clemson reception list and fifth in yardage. He recently passed all-time great Jerry Butler on the reception list and needs just 15 catches the remainder of this season to break Rod Gardner’s record for catches in a career.

Hunt has been on quite a hot streak of late and has now made 11 consecutive field goals. His career-best streak is 12 in a row and the Clemson record is 14, set by Obed Acri in 1982. He had a career-best-tying 4-4 field goals in the win over Florida State and scored 14 points, giving him 302 for his career, one more than Nelson Welch had in his Clemson career (1991-94).

Hunt made just 3-8 field goals to open the season, but has now made 11-11 to stand at 14-19 for the season. For some reason, October 15 is the magic day for Hunt. Over his Clemson career, Hunt is 33-39 on field-goal attempts kicked after October 15 and just 18-30 on attempts prior to that date. That is 85 percent versus 60 percent.

Hunt now has 51 field goals, fourth most in Clemson history behind Welch, Chris Gardocki, and Obed Aniti. He already has the school record for extra points in a career (149). For a list of Clemson’s career scoring leaders, see Hunt’s feature article in this program on p. 7.

Tigers Have 49 Wins Over Top-25 Teams

We ran the list last week, but it warrants repeating. Clemson’s win over #3 Florida State was the highest-ranked win in school history. The previous highest-ranked teams Clemson has defeated on the gridiron had #4 rankings. In 1981, Clemson’s National Championship season, the Tigers defeated #4 Georgia in Death Valley by a score of 13-3 and #4 Nebraska by a score of 22-15 in the Orange Bowl. That Nebraska victory won the national title.

The 26-10 victory over the Seminoles gave Clemson two wins over ranked teams this season. Virginia was ranked #24 in the nation entering the 30-27 Tiger victory in overtime earlier this year. This is the first time since 1996 that Clemson has defeated two ranked teams in the same season. Clemson now has 49 all-time wins over top-25 ranked teams.

Regardless of site, Clemson has 10 wins over top-10 teams in its history, including four in Death Valley. Clemson has had 23 wins over top-25 teams since 1986 and has had at least one ranked win in 15 of the last 17 seasons. Clemson had been 0-9 all-time in games against teams ranked in the top three in the nation prior to the win over Florida State. That included four losses in games at Death Valley.

Whitehurst Breaks Single-Season Records

Tiger quarterback Charlie Whitehurst set a Clemson single-season record for completions in the Wake Forest game. He then set the single-season passing yardage record in the victory over Florida State. He threw for 272 yards in that game and now has 2,682 for the season. The previous yardage record was 2,578, set by Woodrow Dantzler in 2001.

Whitehurst had 17 completions in the win over Florida State and now has 221 for the season.

Dantzler also had that previous record with 204 in 2001. Whitehurst has been a sophomore, but is already near the top in many career categories. He is first in completion percentage (60 percent), first in passing yards per game, fourth in touchdown passes, third in completions, and fifth in passing yardage.

Coleman Contributing in All Areas

Duane Coleman became the first Tiger running back to gain 100 yards in a game when he had 111 in 13 carries in the win over North Carolina on October 25. Coleman also had 48 receiving yards on four catches for 159 total yards from scrimmage.

The Florida native had a 50-yard run in the game, the longest of the year by a Tiger back and longest by any Clemson running back since Travis Zachery had a 52-yard run against Duke in 2001.

Coleman has shown improvement as the year has progressed and is Clemson’s top rusher, with 527 yards in 10 games. He has averaged 4.8 yards per carry. He now ranks eighth in the ACC in rushing yards per game. He has gained 410 yards in 75 attempts over the last seven games, an average of 5.5 yards per rush. Coleman is fourth on the team in receptions (23) and has 227 receiving yards along with two touchdowns. He has at least three receptions in each of the last five games as well.

Clemson Limiting Turnovers

Clemson had just one turnover in its victory over #3 Florida State. Clemson is now 5-0 this year when it commits fewer turnovers than the opponent. Most coaches will tell you that is a key to victory. Clemson has not allowed the opposition to score a point off turnover in eight of the 10 games this year. That includes a seven-game period from the Furman game through the North Carolina game. For the season, Clemson has scored 37 points off opponents turnovers and the opposition has just 27.

Clemson ranks in the top 15 in the nation in fewest turnovers committed. The Tigers have averaged just 1.3 turnovers committed per game for the season. If the season ended today, the 1.3 turnovers per game would be the seventh-best average for a season in Tiger history.

Basketball Season Starts Friday

While this is the last home football game, the basketball season will be opening next weekend at Littlejohn Coliseum. The Tiger men’s team will open the Oliver Purnell era with a 6:00 PM game against Gardner-Webb, while the Lady Tigers will follow with an 8:30 PM game against South Carolina. Tickets are available for both games at the Clemson athletic ticket office, or by calling 1-800-CLEMSON.

Football is a game of skill and precision. It is a game of numbers, a game of thrilling moments and of heartbreaking ends. Football is a game of emotion and pain; but most of all, football is a game of individual players working as a team to accomplish a goal. Not a single other player stands alone on that field, experiencing all these components, with more pressure and individual significance than a team's kicker.

Clemson has had a long line of superior kickers and current senior Aaron Hunt has added his name to the list.

"Once I got here, I looked at the media guide and saw all the All-Americans and all-conference kickers, and realized there are a lot of expectations for this position," said Hunt, who is rapidly reaching the levels of those Clemson All-Americans before him. "I try to live up to them."
The tradition includes seven All-America punters and placekickers over the last 21 years and nine different All-ACC players since 1979.

Dale Hatcher ranked in the top 20 in the nation in punting three of his four seasons at Clemson and went on to a professional career, including an All-Pro season. Chris Gardocki twice earned All-America honors for his punting and placekicking, and ranked fourth in the country in punting and field goals in 1999. He turned professional after his junior year, a rarity for a kicker, but certainly was the correct decision, as he is still playing at a high level in the NFL with the Cleveland Browns. He is the all-time punting leader in the history of the Chicago Bears and the Indianapolis Colts.

Hunt entered the season with 237 career points and in fifth place in the Tiger charts. Thanks to 11 made field goals in a row (all in the last four games) entering the game against Duke and a 14-point performance (including four field goals) against #9 Florida State on November 8, Hunt surpassed Nelson Welch's Clemson career record with 302 points. Hunt admits holding the career record is an accomplishment, but his top priority is to help Clemson win its remaining games in the process.

"The career scoring record is nice, but it doesn't compare to beating Florida State. That's something you dream about as a kid. Personal honors are great, but team honors are better."

The scoring title is only one of a plethora of records that Hunt holds or will hold. He already led all Clemson kickers at the start of the season with 126 extra points and is only increasing his margin. He has 149 career extra points, something only a handful of ACC kickers in history have accomplished.

Hunt enters the Duke game fourth in Tiger history on the field-goal list with 51. He has converted 51 of his 69 attempts, good for 74-percent mark.

His 17 field goals made in 2002 tie him for ninth place and he holds the record, as well as third and seventh places, for extra points made over a season. He made 45 in 2000, 44 in 2001, and 37 in 2002. He is also listed in the top-10 for kick scoring and extra points attempted during a season.

As a member of the Tigers, Hunt has accomplished many other notables. Last season, he was a semi-finalist for the Lou Groza Award, named for the Cleveland Browns' star kicker referred to as "The Toe." A national panel consisting of all Division I head coaches, sports writers, and sports-broadcasters from across the country, conference officials, various NFL kickers, and all previous finalists vote and present the award to the nation's top Division I collegiate placekicker.

Hunt was also an honorable mention All-American by College Football News and earned Honor Mention All-ACC honors in 2002. He made 17 out of 22 field goals while converting on 37 of 38 extra point attempts in helping the Tigers to another bowl berth.

Hunt was second in the ACC and 18th in the nation in field goals per game, and he ranked fourth in the ACC in scoring (7.3 points per game). He was the only ACC kicker to make four field goals in a game all year, and he achieved the feat twice. His four field goals against Louisiana Tech totaled 144 yards, seventh best in Tiger history. Hunt finished the season with 88 total points scored, also seventh highest in Clemson history for kick-scoring points.

In the 2001 season, Hunt made 10 of 12 field goals and 44 of 45 extra points. He ranked third in the ACC in field-goal percentage, fourth in extra-point percentage, fourth in extra points made, sixth in kick scoring, and 10th in overall scoring. He converted a 48-yard field goal against North Carolina, still his career best.

However, Clemson fans will always reserve a place in their hearts for Hunt for a single game, a single kick, during his freshman year in 2000. With 19 seconds left in the game at Death Valley, trailing South Carolina 14-13, quarterback Woodrow Dantzler rolled to his left and threw backwards the right sideline into double coverage, completing a 50-yard pass to receiver Rod Gardner.

Everyone remembers that as one of the great plays in Clemson history, but it did not score any points. Hunt had to boot a 25-yard field goal with three seconds remaining. Had he not converted, that pass play would have been just another 50-yard play on a play-by-play summary in the Clemson sports information office. The Hill erupted as the ball sailed through the uprights giving the Tigers a 16-14 victory over their arch rivals.

Hunt had missed two field goals two weeks before in a loss to Georgia Tech, the team's first loss of the season. "I'd had a terrible game right before and we lost. I broke all of our hearts. I told the team before the South Carolina game that I wouldn't let it happen anymore."

Hunt had three opportunities to redeem himself in the South Carolina rivalry game and took advantage of each of them. He admits his stomach was churning right before that last, game-deciding kick.

"Coach (Lou) Holtz called a timeout to try to 'ice' me, being a freshman and shaky earlier, but I really needed it to calm myself down. It backfired."
Aaron Hunt
Senior Spotlight

Being from Tennessee and growing up around SEC rivalries, Hunt was not previously exposed to the significance of the Clemson-South Carolina football game. He understood on November 18, 2000, "Once the game started and I saw the 83,000-plus fans in Death Valley, I quickly realized that this game meant a whole lot to a lot of people."

Their treatment of him after the game meant a lot to Hunt as well, gaining him the fan support and confidence he desperately needed.

The 22-year old began playing football when he was in seventh grade. Current Georgia Tech Assistant Coach Joe D'Alessandrini, a good friend of the family, recommended to Hunt's mother (Becky) that they wait to let Aaron play, as he was afraid Aaron would break growth plates if he started too early. When the family moved to Oak Ridge, where the school had an organized team, Hunt was finally allowed to don a football jersey.

A soccer player since he was five years old, Hunt decided to stay after practice one day to try his luck at kicking and discovered his calling. His father (John) recognized his outstanding footwork when Aaron was very young, and worked with his son throughout his junior high and high school football careers. Hunt still claims his dad to be his favorite coach.

Hunt was an all-state kicker at Oak Ridge High School, converting a school-record 52-yard field goal in 1999. He helped lead his high school team to a 12-1 record his senior year, winning the region title and reaching the quarterfinals of the state playoffs. He was named the kicker of the year for his region, was selected to the Tennessee All-Star team in a game against Kentucky All-Stars, and was chosen to the Tennessee All-Star team that played in Australia.

Although successful, critics told him he would never earn a scholarship to play football as a kicker at the collegiate level, but Hunt loves to defy the odds. "People always tell me I can't, but it's a big thing for me to prove them wrong. I've always been too slow, too short, too everything to be anything. They told me kickers don't get scholarships coming out of high school."

Head Coach Tommy Bowden thought he deserved one, though, and Hunt has only missed playing in one game since, last year against N.C. State when Clemson did not attempt a field goal or extra point.

"Aaron has done a good job throughout his career," said Bowden. "He has become our all-time leading scorer at a school with great history... that says something. He has been a kicker who has always improved over the course of the season, and when he has been called on in the clutch, he has delivered. We will miss him."

The offer from Clemson was a dream come true for Hunt. He and his dad drew a 300-mile radius around Knoxville to start the college search. He visited Clemson and fell in love with the campus, coaches, and traditions. He likes best that there are bodies of water near the college town, so he can enjoy his favorite activities outside of football - boating and fishing.

"My roommate and teammate Josh Smith and I usually pack up and go up to the river in Walhalla to go trout and bass fishing. I'm yet to catch anything big though."

Once at Clemson, Hunt's kicking strategy and preparation has followed the same pattern throughout his career. He treats practice like a game, preparing himself mentally for the task. During games, he kicks three balls into a practice net on the sidelines to loosen his leg when the opposing team is kicking off or punting. Hunt stretches throughout the time Clemson has the ball on offense and does a few leg swings when the team approaches the red zone.

Once his number is called, the routine is second nature. "When I'm lining up, I take three steps back and two over. Then I take a little jab step, then a little bigger step, then a long step, kick it, and hope it goes in. It's just natural now."

Hunt hopes to continue kicking in the future and still dreams of playing in the NFL, but he knows he will apply many other lessons learned from being a part of Clemson football to anything he does. Teamwork, leadership, dedication, hard work, and pressure situations are all tied into football and "real life" as well.

Hunt will graduate in May of 2004 with a degree in marketing, concentrating on sports marketing, but he regrets that his football playing days could be almost over. "I'm going to miss the atmosphere of college football and being with the same 110 guys every day; the bonds you make there and those with past players. I hope to come back to as many games as possible, but I'll just miss being a part of everything here at Clemson."

He offers the following words of wisdom to future Clemson kickers. "Any kicker coming in is going to have high expectations and when you don't perform to those expectations, people will be down on you. But you have to keep your head up and do the best you can and try to make it work."

If players follow his advice, the future looks bright and the Clemson kicking tradition will continue to prosper.

TOP 10 TAILGATING ESSENTIALS

1. Grill. Game day just isn't game day without the mouth-watering smell of a big ol' pile of meat on the grill.

2. Gold Star Steak. Game day calls for thick, juicy steaks. And if you want to be sure you're buying the best, buy Gold Star steaks - the choice of true meat lovers everywhere.

3. Fried Chicken. Our fried chicken is crispy on the outside, tender and juicy on the inside. You'll feel like a real turkey if you forget the chicken!

4. Deli Trays. Stop by the deli and pick up a delicious tray of ham, turkey, roast beef and assorted cheeses. It'll make you look like you went to a lot of effort, even if you really didn't.

5. Beer. We have a great selection of all your favorite beers. Just remember to be responsible - choose a designated driver the day BEFORE.

6. Extra Ice. If your friends have to drink warm beverages because you forgot the ice, well, that's a tough one to live down.

7. Paper Products. To keep things neat and tidy, make sure you have plenty of paper towels, paper plates and toilet paper.

8. Trash Bags. Littering is unlawful, unsanitary and unsportsmanlike. Keep your tailgating area clean, so everyone can enjoy it.

9. Sun Block. Make sure you have plenty of protection so you don't look like a lobster by half time!

10. Antacid. No matter who's winning, it's hard to enjoy the game when you feel like you've been drinking lighter fluid.
It’s nice to be young and live in a day and age where the young people of today have the luxury of taking just about everything for granted. But how did we get so complacent? You need to look no further than this university that is loved so dearly by thousands across this great land, to see the change that has taken place over the last century and even the last half-century. Clemson University, and this entire nation, has undergone a major facet from what it was at its inception. It is something that we as young people owe to those who came before us, the brave and courageous men and women who, when faced with treacherous situations, performed without complaint or question.

When Thomas Clemson left Fort Hill to the state of South Carolina, Clemson’s Board of Trustees decided that the school, which had the purpose of educating farmers and mechanics, would follow a military system of discipline, which most land grant schools did at the time. The first class (pictured right) arrived on July 5, 1853 in uniforms that they had to buy, and Lt. T.Q. Donaldson, a graduate of West Point, was appointed by the War Department as the first Commandant to Cadets.

The proud military history of what we know as Clemson University really began when, in 1917, the entire senior class of Clemson Agricultural College volunteered for service in World War I. A total of 1,549 cadets saw service in World War I, 25 of which died in battle. Two soldiers from Clemson received the Congressional Medal of Honor (Ensign Daniel Sullivan and Sergeant Erains Foster).

The famous Senior Platoon was created in 1929, adding to the prestige of Clemson’s military heritage. The Senior Platoon gave drill performances throughout the nation and became better known as the “Pride of Clemson.” The platoon, normally made up of seniors, allowed freshmen, sophomores, and juniors to join during World War II and the Korean War, because the majority of the seniors had left for war and there weren’t enough seniors to field the famed platoon.

Company K-7 of the Scabbard and Blade Society was formed in 1933. The Scabbard and Blade Society was the military fraternity on campus that was only eligible to the top-10 percent of cadets at Clemson University. In 1936, Clemson became the first school to implement an ROTC Infantry Brigade, and by 1940, there were over 2,000 students in the cadet corps.

World War II saw Clemson cadets answer the call to arms, just as they had for World War I. With the exception of West Point and Texas A&M, Clemson provided more Army officers for World War II than any other public university in the country. A total of 6,475 Clemson cadets faced battle in one theater or another, and 384 died in the name of freedom. The Congressional Medal of Honor was awarded to LTC Jimmy Dyess.

Though many Clemson alumni fought valiantly, there is at least one other that is more than deserving of the Congressional Medal of Honor. The Battle of Okinawa was one of the bloodiest battles of World War II according to many historians, and the United States was able to seize the island thanks in large part to Clemson graduate of 1942, Captain Julian Dusenbury.

The fate of the battle for the Shuri Castle on the Shuri Ridge fell on the shoulders of a Clemson cadet. After being cut off from a host of American forces and his unit being depleted to only 40 soldiers, amazingly Dusenbury knew that his unit was in perfect position to take the castle, and in effect, the island. The biggest problem facing the unit was that they were rapidly running out of ammunition as darkness fell.

In a moment of desperation and incredible bravery, Dusenbury instructed his men to survive while he set out to retrieve precious ammunition. Three times during the night he crawled thousands of yards directly through the enemy lines to recover ammunition. The next morning, because of Dusenbury’s amazing act of courage, the United States defeated Japan, and captured the castle and the island of Okinawa.

Dusenbury is only one of a number of Clemson graduates that have excelled on the field of battle protecting the freedoms that the people of this proud country and the people of this university have come to take for granted. While soldiers were off at war, life did not stop here in the small town of Clemson.

The football team started running down the Hill in 1942, and in 1946, one year after the war officially ended, Company C-4 of the Pershing Rifles was formed. The Pershing Rifles have gained prominence as one of the best drill teams in the country. Company C-4 won the National Drill meet in 1999 and 2003.

The list of Clemson military heroes can be traced back to the corps of cadets, but is not limited to pure military men. Some of the most famous athletes in school history have fought for our freedoms as well. Banks McFadden, arguably the greatest athlete in Clemson history, served in the Air Force for over three years. Though he did not want to leave South Carolina, he served his country because Uncle Sam needed him.

One of the most versatile student athletes in Clemson history was Frank Gillespie. Gillespie played football, basketball, and baseball while serving as student body president and as a member of student council. His athletic career was put on hold for 16 months when, after his freshman year, the United States government came calling. Gillespie earned all-division status while playing guard for the 90th Division’s football team, and was awarded three battle stars for his service in World War II. After he returned from the battlefield, he resumed the three sports he loved so dearly. In addition to sports and politics, Gillespie earned two degrees (textiles and electrical engineering).

The face of college athletics has changed over the years as well. The only draft college football players worry about these days is held by the National Football League, but that wasn’t always the case. During the middle of the 20th century, the prospect of being called upon to fight the country’s battles was very real, for athletes and coaches alike. Student-athletes were often pulled out of school and sent to war, and some coaches served while they coached.

One of Clemson’s most respected coaches was Bob Jones. Jones, a Tiger football coach from 1931 through the 1969 season, coached football, boxing, and golf while serving in the armed forces. He served in World War II from 1941 until 1946 and was honored with several medals. He received the Silver Star, Bronze Star, and Purple Heart, and the Legion of Merit. Jones retired from the military in 1965 as a Major General after 35 years of military service.

Coach Howard often went to extremes to keep what players he could, like Marion “Butch” Butler. Butler entered Clemson in one of the most tumultuous times in the history of the world, the 1940s. Highly touted coming in, Butler was expected to be one of the best running backs in Tiger history; but when World War II began, it was unclear what uni-torm he would wear, fatigue or the orange and purple of the Tigers.

Coach Howard stated that it was a very uncertain time. The Clemson coaching legend explained, "Travel was hard, money was tight, everything was hard. A boy would enroll one semester and be gone the next. Once the war was over with, we had some good football teams with the return of our boys."

After an outstanding season in 1942, Butler was relocated as a Military private to Fort Jackson in Columbia, SC. Luckily for Coach Howard, Butler's commanding officer was a Clemson graduate, and Howard made an arrangement with him that gave Butler weekend passes so he could play football for the Tigers.

Butler was still in the service in 1945 serving at Fort Jackson. Using his unique negotiating skills, Coach Howard convinced the Commanding General to give Butler a 60-day pass. He arrived just in time to help lead the Tigers in several victories that season.

By 1950, the United States of America was at war again, this time with Korea. There was no shortage of Tigers, as 1,500 Clemson Cadets served in Korea and 17 died in action. At the end of the war in 1953, 180 veterans enrolled at Clemson. In 1955, Clemson became a civilian institution, apparently ending the proud military heritage of Clemson Agricultural College, as the school was renamed Clemson College. Though Clemson has not been a military institution since 1955, Clemson graduates have been at the forefront of every major military conflict since.

Air Force Major Rudolf Anderson, Jr. (pictured right), a Clemson graduate of 1948, was an American who was instrumental in avoiding a third World War. Anderson found himself in the middle of a crisis, flying U-2 spy planes over Cuba. Anderson's reconnaissance missions, and those of other brave U-2 pilots, witnessed a buildup of Russian ballistic missiles in Cuba. The ensuing "chess match," known as the Cuban Missile Crisis, took the world to the brink of disaster.

President John F. Kennedy and Soviet Premier Nikita Krushchev utilized the pawns of war to avoid a certain nuclear catastrophe. Anderson was one of those pawns. After Kennedy implemented a naval blockade of Cuba and Krushchev struggled to retain his power, the world held its breath. Anderson's reconnaissance missions continued, as did the buildup of nuclear weapons.

The final U-2 flight, set for the skies over Cuba, brought the crisis to an end, but tragically, it also brought Major Anderson's life to an end. The October 27, 1962 flight, on the 12th day of the crisis, took place as the entire world braced for war. As Anderson flew one last mission over Cuba, he was shot down over the eastern end of the island nation, bringing an abrupt end to the threat.

Krushchev, realizing that American retaliation would come hard and fast, almost immediately pulled the missiles out of Cuba. Anderson's sacrifice (he left a wife, two sons, and a daughter) saved millions of lives, as the world let out a collective sigh of relief. The only known casualty of the "Cold War," Anderson is one of the greatest and lesser-known heroes in Clemson and United States history.

Clemson soldiers have been at the forefront whenever Uncle Sam has called. Former Tiger football player Vic Alifi served in the Army after he was drafted in 1967. He said that the only difference between war and football is that they shoot at you. Alifi had a reputation as a hard nosed soldier in Vietnam while earning two silver stars, eight bronze stars, and a number of other medals. He embodied the American soldier and the Clemson spirit. When his name was mentioned, the phrases "with complete disregard for his own safety" and "responsible for saving several lives" usually followed closely after.

Alifi was a leader on football fields and battlegrounds. He took charge of situations and performed the necessary actions for victory. During an attack in Vietnam, many of his men were getting wounded. Instead of panicking, Alifi carried his men through enemy fire to rescue helicopters which were waiting to take them to safety. Alifi earned his second Silver Star for his heroic actions.

Clemson alumni have also been at the forefront in several other conflicts. In Vietnam, 20 former Clemson students were killed in action. And in the recent operations in Afghanistan, Marine Captain Daniel McCollum was killed in a tragic plane crash during a resupply mission. Ten other alumni have died while performing their military duties during training exercises and deployments.

Clemson was a military college in its infancy. Training courageous soldiers to lead our fight, protect democracy, and protect the people who are able to live in freedom as a result of what this university did. Clemson continues to produce outstanding military leaders through its nationally-renowned Army and Air Force ROTC programs. Clemson alumni continue to serve around the globe, helping to preserve those freedoms that we all cherish. Today, we honor all veterans, but especially those students, faculty, and alumni who have served and continue to serve in the deployed theaters of the 21st century - Bosnia/Kosovo, Afghanistan, and Operation Iraqi Freedom.

Many children grow up playing youth recreational league football, with dreams of playing big-time college football. Throughout their high school careers, they receive awards and accolades, and then battle for four years for their chosen school. But what happens when the scholarship is not there? What happens when your hard work and dedication does not result in a college football scholarship?

"You just have to keep working harder and harder," said senior fullback Tyrone Lee, a walk-on from Effingham, SC. "You have to continue to improve and leave everything on the field every day."

Lee grew up outside of Florence, SC playing sports as a young boy. He played football and baseball, but later stopped playing football, choosing to play only baseball throughout junior high school.

"I played baseball throughout the years before high school, and then I finally came and played football starting my 10th-grade year," said Lee. "Then I played football during 10th, 11th, and 12th grade. I really didn't think I'd play baseball, but then I also ended up being pretty decent in football."

But the humble fullback and linebacker was more than just pretty decent. Lee was named to the all-conference team as a junior and senior, and was named an alternate to the North/South All-Star squad. Along with those awards, Lee was also named the team MVP and was the recipient of many academic honors.

Lee's biggest high school game was between West Florence and its arch-rival (Wilson), led by quarterback Darian Durant, now the starting quarterback at North Carolina. With 20 seconds left and Wilson driving for the game-winning score, Lee hit Durant and wrapped him up for a game-saving tackle.

"I hit Darian and wrapped him up, and somebody hit me off of him, and he ran it in for a touchdown. That's the biggest memory I have. I know that's not the best one, but it was the biggest one. That was our biggest game and it probably hurt the most. Darian and I grew up together, and it was good to get some revenge on him earlier this year."

Lee then began thinking about his plans after high school. Like many high school athletes, the prospect of playing college football was foremost on his mind.

"I had some offers from some smaller Division I schools. I really wanted to go to either Georgia Tech or Clemson, but it just really didn't work out with a scholarship. I didn't like Georgia Tech after I visited, and I got an invitation to walk-on at Clemson, and it turned out to be a real good situation."

Lee received a red-shirt his freshman year, which allowed him to gain valuable experience and work hard to earn playing time. But he admits that being a walk-on is not easy.

"It is an experience because you are starting from the bottom. You have to do things more extraordinary, stuff that stands out more than the guys that are on scholarship. I might play all four years here, but not get as much of a chance as some of the others. It's a great experience, but it takes hard work."

Lee has had tremendous family support throughout his career. "I don't think that my dad missed a football game while I was growing up, but the first game he missed was during my true freshman year, when I wasn't even playing. But even then, he only missed one game. I don't think that he missed another game through-out high school or college. He has been there for everything. I talk to him every other day. He has been the most impactive person in my life."

Lee continued to work hard, trying to earn more playing time. "You just have to get in there and do what you are supposed to do and work hard during the offseason. Then when you get out there on the field, you just have to take advantage of every opportunity you have. You won't be given as many chances as a scholarship player, so that means you have to work twice as hard."

As he was battling on the field and in the weight room, his mother was going through a different sort of battle. "When I was in high school, my mom had a battle with breast cancer. Then after my true freshman year, I went home during break before summer session. That was when she found out she had colon cancer. I stayed home through that first (summer) semester. So she couldn't come to any of the games that year because she was going through chemotherapy and other treatments. She even had to have a foot of her colon removed. But she has been healthy ever since then. She's doing great now."

Lee, an electrical engineering major, held academic scholarships during his first two years. But then during his sophomore (eligibility) year, Lee's hard work paid off, as the coaches recognized all of his efforts and awarded him a scholarship.

He was able to balance the demands of college football with the rigors of a very difficult major. "Time is the biggest thing," said Lee, who will graduate in May. "I am majoring in electrical engineering, so it is really time consuming. But I don't know what I would do without football, because during spring semester when we would have days off, I wouldn't know what to do with myself. I always felt like I was wasting time. So you just get accustomed to it like a way of life. It is a great experience and I wouldn't trade it for the world."

After graduation, Lee plans to go to graduate school or get a job in the engineering field, possibly with General Electric or Exopack, a company with which he completed an internship. "I just want to try to get a job and stay in touch with all my friends: Khaleed Vaughn, my roommate, J.J. Howard, and all the guys from our first year. We have all been really close with all the other guys from our freshman class, so I would like to try to keep in touch. I guess I try to live the dream through them. I already told them that when they are playing in the NFL, I am going to be the first one asking for tickets."

Though his college experience may not have been what he dreamed about as a little boy in Florence, Lee has learned many lessons after his four years here at Clemson.

"Going through my experiences at Clemson, and with my mother's sickness, it makes you more thankful for everything. It makes you look at everything a little bit differently, to be thankful for everything and everybody around you. Because there are a lot of people that are worse off that we are, and aren't as blessed as I have been."

Though he will not be playing in the NFL (the usual measuring stick of success) on Sunday afternoons in the future, Lee, with help from his family and friends, has already found success in life.

#79 Steve Creed
0G • Myrtle Beach, SC
Imagine practicing four days a week with the Clemson football team. Now imagine majoring in biochemistry, one of the more difficult degree programs at Clemson. Put the two together, and that's what you get with walk-on Steve Creed.

Creed majors in biochemistry, because he desired to “create medicines that will help all of mankind.” He first joined the football team during the fall two-a-day camp in 2001. Since then, he has been a member of the scout team as a center. Creed admits it has been hard work, but does not hang his head because of it. “You go through pain and frustration that occurs daily for little recognition,” he said. “But I’ll remember coming back day after day to do it.”

Among other things, his favorite memory of Clemson will be each game when he got the chance to “rub Howard’s Rock and run down the Hill with over 80,000 Clemson fans screaming at the tops of their lungs.”

Creed wishes to thank two groups of people for helping him through the hard times and the good times, his parents and his fellow walk-ons. “My parents constantly supported and believed in me. I also have to send thanks to all my fellow scout-teamers for keeping this a fun experience for me.”

#69 Nick DePrimio
0T • Chesnee, SC
Nick DePrimio had a number of opportunities to play either football or basketball at a higher level after graduating from Chesnee High School in 2000. But the 6’9” two-sport athlete chose to come to Clemson, where the coaches recruited him as a walk-on for the football team in the fall of 2000.

“What I’ll remember most about playing football at Clemson is running down the Hill for the first time in 2000,” DePrimio said. “I was so nervous before the game that I forgot to rub the Rock.”

DePrimio has been a model student, while helping the team as an offensive tackle on the scout team. A psychology major, he hopes to one day obtain a position in the field of human resources.

He points to high school as his source of motivation from an academic standpoint. “My high school English teacher, Faye Howard, had the greatest influence on me academically,” he said. “By following what she taught me, I have never made below an “A” in literature or English class at Clemson.”

He has made lasting relationships during his time at Clemson, and he will never forget “the friends that I’ve made on the team, especially the other walk-ons.” One of those friends is roommate Kevin Burnett, the third-string tight end for Clemson this season.

DePrimio would also like to thank his family. “I would just like to thank my mom and dad, Bonita and Alfred DePrimio, for their support all these years. It wasn’t always easy, but they were behind me through it all.”

#68 Joshua Smith
LS • Easley, SC
The ultimate accomplishment for a walk-on football player is the moment he steps onto the field of play for the first time in a game. For Joshua Smith, three and a half years of hard work and dedication finally paid off when he played in his first collegiate football game against North Carolina in late October.

“I have been coming to Clemson games as long as I can remember,” Smith said. “This is what I have dreamed about growing up and I never gave up on it.”

When long snapper Geoff Riggsby became ill early in the North Carolina game, Smith was called on to handle his duties. He ran the remainder of the contest. He handled the job flawlessly, almost as if he had seen the field of play many times before. He had a big part in Aaron Hunt’s three field goals, the margin of victory in Clemson’s 36-28 conquest.

“Catfish” cites the game against the Tar Heels as his most cherished moment in four years of football at Clemson. He will also remember “the faculty and staff that have helped me through the past four years, and the great traditions that I have been a part of.”

Smith is a sport management major from nearby Easley, SC, and his career aspiration is to one day work in public relations for a professional sports team. He credits his mother and father, Sharon and Mike Smith, for inspiring him academically and athletically.

Of all the memories Smith has of Clemson, the one that perhaps stands out more than any other is the camaraderie he enjoys with the rest of his teammates. “I have made great friends with my teammates,” Smith said. “I will take the memories of Clemson with me for a lifetime.”

#35 Kyle Tucker
P • Cartersville, GA
Kyle Tucker was born with Clemson football in his blood. His grandfather, Don Wade, is in the Clemson Athletic Hall of Fame after lettering for four years and coaching nine years under Frank Howard.

“My grandfather was definitely the one that got my love for Clemson started,” Tucker said. “I grew up coming to home games since I was about three.”

To prove it, Tucker has just about every game score memorized since 1986. “I’m not sure why or how I know any of that stuff, but I do.”

After four years of football at Cartersville (GA) High School, he decided to attend Clemson and walk-on to the team in the fall of 1999. “After high school, there was really no choice but Clemson. I felt I could compete at this level and I wanted to come to Clemson and run down the Hill, wear orange pants, and just be a Tiger.”

Tucker, who is listed as the second-string punter on the depth chart, eventually earned his way onto the roster as a reserve punter and placekicker. He recalls the difficulty of being a walk-on in his first couple of years at Clemson. Being named to the travel squad was a big accomplishment for Tucker.

“That has been a lot of fun, as I have been able to go to all of the stadiums in the ACC and experience great atmospheres every Saturday,” Tucker said. “There are some walk-ons that don’t even get to dress at home games, so to be able to be on the travel squad is something that I appreciate.”

He cites the friendships he has made at Clemson as one of the cherished memories he will take with him. He will also remember the pride he took in wearing a Tiger uniform. Tucker, a secondary education major, wishes to follow in the footsteps of his father (Johnny) and become a high school football coach.

Clemson University President James F. Barker is first and foremost an architect. So it is no surprise that he came to the office with a clear blueprint of Clemson's future in mind—a future built around such ideas as collaboration, community, and quality.

A 1970 Clemson graduate, the former dean of the university's College of Architecture, Arts, and Humanities was named president in October of 1999 and embarked on a goal of making Clemson one of the nation's top public universities. From that vision came the development of a set of 10-year goals adopted in 2001—goals that are already showing results, including:

- a 70-plus percent increase in research support over two years, earning Clemson a ranking as one of the nation's top 100 research universities and surpassing $100 million dollars in annual research support;
- an academic plan that identifies eight emphasis areas where Clemson hopes to build nationally recognized programs;
- the recruitment of more outstanding young faculty, including 16 National Science Foundation CAREER award winners, given to the nation's most promising faculty;
- the enrollment of Clemson's brightest freshman class, with an average SAT exceeding 1205;
- recognition as Time Magazine's Public College of the Year for its innovative Communication Across the Curriculum program.

Barker earned his bachelor of architecture degree from Clemson and his master of architecture and urban design degree from Washington University in St. Louis, MO. Before returning to Clemson in 1986 to serve as dean of the College of Architecture, he was dean of the School of Architecture at Mississippi State University. In 1995, he became dean of the new College of Architecture, Arts, and Humanities, which was created after a comprehensive reorganization and has received national attention as a new model in education.

He is a recipient of the National Distinguished Professor Award of the Association of Collegiate Schools of Architecture and served as president of that association. Barker was named Fellow of the American Institute of Architects. He also has been a partner in an architectural practice.

He has been awarded honorary doctoral degrees from S.C. State University and Mars Hill College, and has served on the Truman Scholars Selection Committee. He currently serves on the Commission of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, the region's accrediting agency. In 2003, he received the Greenville Chamber of Commerce Buck Michel Award for Community Service and was named one of Greenville Magazine's 50 most influential people in the area.

As chair of the ACC's Council on Presidents in 2003, Barker played a key role in the conference's expansion as well as the development of collaborative academic initiatives. Barker co-founded Clemson's S.C. Design Arts Partnership to support community design outreach projects, initiated the Charleston Architecture Center, established the university's "Arts in April" program, and developed a Mayors' Institute to help cities learn how to manage issues related to growth and development.

Despite his responsibilities as president, Barker remains committed to the classroom. Each spring, he is part of a team that teaches an undergraduate course exploring "a sense of place" in architecture, literature, and history.

Barker's Goals By 2010

Academics, Research, & Service
1. Excel in teaching, at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.
2. Increase research and sponsored programs to exceed $100 million a year in research support.
3. Set the standard in public service for land-grant universities by engaging the whole campus in service and outreach, including a focus on strategic emphasis areas.
4. Foster Clemson's academic reputation through strong academic programs, mission-oriented research and academic centers of excellence, relevant public service, and highly regarded faculty and staff.
5. Snarl and cultivate areas where teaching, research, and service overlap.

Campus Life
1. Strengthen our sense of community and increase our diversity.
2. Recognize & appreciate Clemson's distinctiveness.
3. Create greater awareness of international programs and increase activity in this area.
4. Increase our focus on collaboration.
5. Maintain an environment that is healthy, safe, and attractive.

Clemson's National Reputation
1. Promote high integrity and professional demeanor among all members of the University community.
2. Establish a Phi Beta Kappa chapter.
3. Have at least two Clemson students win Rhodes Scholarships.
4. Send student ensembles to perform at Carnegie Hall.
5. Have at least two Clemson faculty win recognition by national academies.
6. Publicize both national and international accomplishments of faculty, staff, and students.
7. While maintaining full compliance, achieve notable recognition with another national football championship, two championships in Olympic sports, and two Final Four appearances in basketball.

Educational Resources
1. Campaign goal surpassed by 40 percent.
2. Rededicate our energy and resources to improving the library.
3. Increase faculty compensation to a level competitive with top-20 public universities.
4. Increase academic expenditures per student to a level competitive with top-20 public universities.
5. Manage enrollment to ensure the highest quality classroom experiences.

Student Performance
1. Attract more students who are ranked in the top 10 percent of their high school classes and who perform exceptionally well on the SAT/ACT.
2. Promote high graduation rates by increasing freshman retention, meeting expectations of high achievers, and providing support systems for all students.
3. Promote excellence in advising.
4. Increase the annual number of doctoral graduates to the level of a top-20 public research university.
5. Improve the national competitiveness of graduate student admissions and financial aid.

Britt, Jim, Marcia, and Jacob Barker
It hasn’t taken Dr. Terry Don Phillips long to begin to influence the direction of the Clemson athletic program. His first year as athletic director featured the establishment of a long-term strategic plan for Clemson athletics that is designed to provide opportunity for Clemson athletics to work toward becoming a model program, one that can compete at the highest levels in all sports. To become a model program, Clemson must be able to, not only compete at the highest levels, but do so with academic integrity, concern for the student-athlete, financial responsibility, and in full compliance.

“Nothing is worse than trying to maintain status quo,” said Phillips, who became Clemson’s 10th athletic director on July 1, 2002.

That motto has been a basic tenet that has characterized his career as an administrator and his pursuit to develop Clemson into a model athletic program in the 21st century. His beliefs are in line with the University’s overall goal of making Clemson one of the top-20 public universities in the nation.

Strides were made toward these goals in his first year through facility improvements and the development of concepts that will serve the entire program. Littlejohn Coliseum and Doug Kingsmore Stadium completed renovations that now make them very competitive nationally. A new indoor track was completed in the summer of 2003 as well.

Phillips also introduced the West Endzone plan for Clemson Memorial Stadium. It is planned that in 2004, Clemson will begin construction at Death Valley that will add 2,000 premium club seats in the west endzone and create a new revenue stream for facilities at Clemson. After completion of the club seats, future plans call for a new comprehensive football building at Memorial Stadium. The building will benefit the entire department, as it will create additional updated facilities for Clemson’s Olympic sports program in the McFadden Building. A “Clemson Center” to include history of Clemson University and athletics is also a planned part of the project.

On the field of competition, Clemson won its first ever national championship in golf, with a landmark victory at Oklahoma State’s Karsten Creek. Larry Penley’s team was the #1-ranked team in the nation for the entire season and became the first golf program in history to win its conference, NCAA Regional, and NCAA National Tournament. According to Phillips, this feat is a great tribute to Penley and Bobby Robinson, who laid the foundation for the Clemson golf program.

It was an ironic first national title at Clemson for Phillips in that he had been at Oklahoma State for eight years prior to his arrival at Clemson. He has now been the athletic director for three national championship golf programs in the last 10 years.

In terms of personnel, Phillips made national news when he hired Oliver Purnell as Clemson head basketball coach. Purnell had led Dayton to 20-win seasons each of the last four years, including a 24-6 campaign in 2002-03 that included a top-four national seed for the NCAA Tournament and the championship of the Atlantic 10 Conference. Departmental diversity was further enhanced with the hiring of two outstanding individuals - former NCAA administrator Phil Grayson and former Clemson All-American football player Jeff Davis - as assistant athletic director positions.

Phillips is also known around the Clemson athletic department for his love of Clemson traditions and spirit. He instituted a “Solid Orange” day in the department that encourages athletic department employees to wear Clemson school colors every Friday. The plan has spread across the state, as Clemson fans, where possible, wear orange to work on Fridays. School children have also adopted the plan across the state. He has also instituted the playing of the alma mater at all athletic events.

“We’re working on infrastructure and strategy, we’re working just as hard on school spirit and re-energizing the great pride we all have in Clemson,” said Phillips in Clemson World. Clemson’s Alumni magazine summer of 2003 issue. “When it (our spirit and pride) really flows - as it can at Clemson - it’s an amazing testament from every alumnus, student, and supporter, and a tremendous boost to every Clemson effort. That is the case in recruiting, not only athletic recruiting, but academic as well.”

Phillips has an undergraduate degree from Arkansas (1970), a master’s degree from Virginia Tech (1974), a doctorate from Virginia Tech (1978), and a law degree from the Arkansas School of Law (1996). He is a member of the Arkansas Bar, American Bar Association, and the Sports Lawyers Association.

From an experience standpoint, Phillips has worked in nearly all phases of college athletics. He served as an assistant football coach at Virginia Tech, supervised spring sports and student-athlete enrichment at the University of Florida, handled athletic fundraising and facility enhancement at Missouri and Arkansas, and had 15 years experience as an athletic director, including 13 at the Division I level prior to his appointment at Clemson.

When it came to success on the field and in the classroom at Oklahoma State, Phillips’ programs were among the best in the Big XII Conference. The achievements of the Oklahoma State program during his tenure (1994-02) included a pair of national championships in men’s golf, a men’s basketball Final Four, two trips to the College World Series, a Women’s Softball World Series, 13 Big XII Championships, and 11 individual national champions. Academically, it had 53 academic All-Americans.

Very importantly, Oklahoma State notched four football victories over arch-rival Oklahoma during his tenure, including an upset of a fourth-ranked Sooners team in 2001 that knocked Oklahoma from the national championship race. Before his arrival in 1995, the Cowboys had just three wins over Oklahoma in the previous 48 years and had won only a total of 14 games in the previous five years. The year in which he left, Oklahoma State won three more Big XII championships, a national championship in wrestling, and put nine teams in NCAA postseason play. The Oklahoma State football team again defeated the Rose Bowl Champion Sooners, making OSU’s wins over OU live out of the last eight years - something no other team in the Big XII has done. The football program also produced a 100-percent graduation rate based on the 1997 recruiting class, as well as winning the Houston Bowl.

From a facilities enhancement standpoint, the Oklahoma State program compiled a long list of successful facilities projects, including the completion of approximately $55 million in new construction. The projects included a new athletics center complete with a strength/conditioning complex, locker facilities, player lounges, offices, meeting rooms, sport medicine area, an academic center, and the Heritage Hall, among others. Gallagher-Iba Arena, the Cowboys’ basketball facility, was expanded from 6,000 to 13,611 seats, and 14 suites were added. CBS Sportsline named it the best college basketball venue in the nation.

Phillips also supervised the planning of a $50 million renovation to the Oklahoma State football stadium that will add 2,300 club seats, 14 suites, and rebuilt concession/restrooms, press box, and concourse areas. All facilities were supported through new revenue streams and capital.

fundraising, as construction began in the spring of 2003.

Before leading the Razorbacks, Phillips served as senior associate athletic director at Arkansas from 1988-94. He ran the daily operations and had oversight of facility projects for the men's programs, and was president of the Razorback Foundation.

Phillips was also athletic director at the University of Southwestern Louisiana from 1983-86 and Liberty College from 1980-81. He was an assistant athletic director at Missouri from 1981-83, where he supervised athletic fundraising. Phillips began his administrative career in 1978 as an assistant athletic director at Florida, where he worked with spring sports and student-athlete enrichment.

Phillips began his career in college athletics coaching football. He started as a graduate assistant at Arkansas from 1970-71. He then moved on to Virginia Tech as an assistant coach from 1971-78 before joining the ranks of athletic administration. During his coaching career in Blacksburg, he served with former Clemson Head Coaches Charley Pell and Danny Ford.

Winning has been in Phillips's resume since his playing days. At Arkansas, Phillips lettered on Frank Broyles teams of 1966, 1968, and 1969. The Razorbacks were a combined 27-5 in those three seasons and played in two Sugar Bowl games. Phillips played for the Razorbacks in the famous 1969 Arkansas-Texas game that decided the National Championship. During the spring of 2003, the book Horns, Hogs, and Nixon's Coming chronicled that historic game. One of the assistant coaches on the 1968 and 1969 Arkansas teams was former Clemson Head Coach Hootie Ingram.

Phillips is the Chair of the NCAA Division I Infractions Appeals Committee, which serves the appellate role for all University and individual appeals arising from the Committee on Infractions. He also works with the NCAA Certification Program. He currently serves on the following ACC Committees: Finance Committee, Committee on Infractions and Penalties, Television Committee, the Men's Basketball Committee, and the Football Committee.

Phillips has two children - John Dennis (26) and Sarah Jane (22). He has three stepchildren - Meagan (14), Marshall (13), and Madison (11). He is married to Tricia Phillips, who earlier had an athletic administration career in marketing at Southwestern Louisiana and is a graduate of the University of Missouri School of Journalism.

Phillips was a three-year letterman at Arkansas under Frank Broyles and played in the 1969 National Championship game against Texas.
When Clemson was selected for the Mazda Tangerine Bowl on December 1, 2002, it meant that Clemson would be making its fourth-consecutive bowl appearance—the fourth under Head Coach Tommy Bowden. With that selection, Bowden became the first head coach to take Clemson (and just the third in ACC history) to a bowl game in each of his first four years. In fact, no coach had ever done so more than twice to open their career at Clemson. That is also something that prominent predecessors Jess Neely, Frank Howard, Charley Pell, Danny Ford, and Ken Hatfield failed to do.

Under Bowden’s direction, Clemson appeared in the Peach Bowl in 1999, the Gator Bowl in 2000, and the 2001 Humanitarian Bowl prior to its Tangerine Bowl appearance.

Clemson’s appearance in the Tangerine Bowl marked what it was the first time since the senior class of 1951 that Clemson went to a bowl game four straight years. The 2002 Tiger seniors were the first group Bowden recruited to Clemson, so it is an indication of the firm foundation that group set for the program.

The 2002 season included victories over bowl teams Georgia Tech and Wake Forest, and a third victory in four years over arch-rival South Carolina. Clemson gained 434 yards of total offense in the 27-20 win over the Gamecocks, the most yards against Lou Holtz’s defense all season.

The 2002 Tigers featured balance on offense and defense. Clemson’s receiving trio of J.J. McKelvey, Kevin Youngblood, and Derrick Hamilton combined for 163 receptions for nearly 2,000 yards and eight scores. Running backs Yusef Kelly and Bernard Rambert collectively gained over 1,000 yards rushing, while quarterbacks Willie Simmons and Charlie Whitehurst threw for over 3,100 yards (a school record) and 16 scores.

The Clemson defense featured two of the top 21 players in the nation in interceptions per game. Justin Miller had eight interceptions, best among all freshmen nationally, and Brian Mano had six in an All-America season. Clemson’s defense was one of the most improved units in the ACC and ranked in the top 10 in the nation in total interceptions (21).

Clemson had another record-setting season in 2001, a season that culminated with a bowl win over Louisiana Tech. Clemson set school bowl records for points scored, touchdowns, and total offense in a bowl game in the win. The Tigers threw five touchdown passes, a record for any Tiger game.

It was a record-breaking performance for the Tigers in Boise, ID, something that surprised no one who has followed the team during the last four seasons. In that short period of time, Clemson has set over 150 school records on an individual and team basis. Three of the top six total-offense seasons in Clemson history have been recorded under Bowden, including the 2001 season when Clemson averaged over 30 points and 432 yards of total offense per game.

Bowden now has a record of 29-20 as Clemson’s head coach and is 47-24 overall. He ranks 16th among active Division I coaches on a winning-percentage basis. He has recorded that ledger against a difficult schedule. His first year, Clemson’s schedule was ranked in the top 10 in the nation. In 2001, his team defeated five teams that finished the season with a winning record, tied for the third-highest single-season figure in school history. One of the victories was a 47-44 overtime triumph at #9 Georgia Tech. It was the highest-ranked road win in 20 years for the Clemson program. In 2002, Clemson’s schedule strength once again ranked in the top 15 by the Sagarin rating.

When Bowden came to Clemson in 1998, he inherited a team with a 3-8 record. By late October of 2000, just 14 months after his first game, Clemson was ranked third in the nation in the USA Today poll after an 8-0 start. That ranking was the highest for the program in 16 years. The final #14 ranking in that same poll was the highest final listing for the program since the 1990 season.

Making a swift improvement is nothing new for Bowden. In 1997, he took over a 4-7 Tulane program and brought the Green Wave to a 7-4 mark in his first year. In 1998, the improvement continued with an 11-0 regular season and #7 national ranking. In 1999, Bowden elevated the Tigers from 3-8 to a bowl game and a 6-6 final record. The 2000 Tigers concluded the season with a 9-3 record, its highest win total since 1983.

As one can see, considerable improvement is a common phrase for Tommy Bowden coached teams. In each of his first four years he coached at the Division I level, his team showed at least a three-win improvement over the previous year, believed to be a first in Division I college football history. Bowden is just the third coach in Clemson history to bring the Tigers to a three-win improvement in consecutive years and was one of just two Division I coaches (John Robinson of UNLV) to do it over the 1999 and 2000 seasons.

In 2000 and 2001, his dynamic offense produced a Heisman Trophy contender in quarterback Woodrow Dantler, who placed his name next to five school records as the Tigers’ signal-caller. The hefty total included eight single-game marks, 23 season records, and 22 career records. He is the school’s career leader in total offense, passing yards, and touchdown responsibility, and set single-season marks in 2001 for total offense, passing yards, and touchdown passes. In 2001, he became the first quarterback in Division I history to accumulate 2,000 yards passing and 1,000 yards rushing in a single season. Dantler was named a semifinalist for the Davey O’Brien Award in 2000 and 2001.

Center Kyle Young was a finalist for the Rimington Award in 2000 and 2001, and won the ACC’s Jim Tatum Award, presented to the league’s top student-athlete. He was one of eight players nationally to receive a National Football Foundation Scholarship and became just the second offensive lineman in college football history to become a three-time first-team Academic All-American. Linebacker Chad Carson also performed well in the classroom and on the gridiron. He and Young were first-team Academic All-Americans in 2000 and 2001.

Bowden’s second Clemson team was one of the most decorated in history. Six different Tigers were finalists or semifinalists for national position awards, including linebacker Keith Adams, who was one of the final three finalists for the Butkus Award.

Young and Carson were both named first-team Academic All-Americans, making Clemson the only Division I-A school in the nation to have a pair of first-team selections. For the second straight year, the football team had its highest team GPA on record in 2001 and a record number of ACC Academic honor-rolls recipients. Nineteen of the 22 seniors on the 2001 team have already earned their degrees. The top-five semester GPAs on record have taken place under his eight-season tenure. Bowden brought pride to the entire University in 2002 when he reached the final stage of the Rhodes Scholarship selection process, the only Division I college football player to hold that distinction.

When Bowden came to Clemson, he had one simple goal—improvement. Bowden warned Clemson supporters that the Tigers were unlikely to be bowl participants in 1999, but his main focus was to improve. Bowden’s goal of improvement is still ongoing... was reached and he was happy to be wrong about his preseason prediction, as the Tigers were invited to the 1999 Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl.

In 1999, Bowden accomplished a personal milestone that no Clemson coach had attained since 1981, the year the Tigers won the National Championship. He became the first Clemson coach since Danny Ford to be named ACC Coach-of-the-Year.

Bowden led the Tigers to a 6-6 record and 5-3 mark in the ACC against the nation’s third-toughest regular-season schedule according to the Sagarin rating. The Tigers finished tied for second with Georgia Tech and Virginia in the final conference standings, a six-place improvement over the previous season, the greatest one-season jump in ACC history in league play.

The Tigers also made a four-game ACC-win improvement in 1999. It was just the fifth time in ACC history that a team made that big of a league victory jump. Bowden had taken over a team with a losing record and brought it to a bowl game in his first season, just the sixth coach in ACC history to accomplish that feat.

The Clemson program set or tied 41 school records in Bowden’s first year, including 26 on offense. Ironically, Bowden’s first Tulane team set or tied 26 offensive school records.

Under Bowden, Clemson continued its strong defensive tradition. With 47 sacks, Clemson was first in the ACC in that category for the second-straight season, and the final total established a school record. Three players (Keith Adams - 15.5, Chad Carson - 12.0, Robert Carswell - 10.8) all had nearly 11 tackles per game in 1999 to rank among the top-four tacklers in the league.

Adams, a sophomore that season, finished with 186 tackles, highest in the nation, and broke the Clemson single-season tackle record held by Anthony Simmons. They all contributed to the 17th-best pass efficiency defense in the country, a unit that had 19 interceptions, ninth highest in the country.

Thanks to the wide-open offensive attack, several Clemson players made their presence felt in the national rankings and the Clemson record book. Junior wide receiver Rod Gardner became the school’s first 1,000-yard receiver. Gardner had 80 receptions for 1,084 yards, Tiger single-season records in both areas. He was 17th in the nation in receptions per game, with a 6.8 mark. He had another 1,000-yard season in 2000 when he was a first-round draft choice of the Washington Redskins.

For the first time in Clemson history, two Tiger quarterbacks threw for more than 1,000 yards in a season. Woodrow Dantzler passed for 1,506 yards, and Brandon Streeter passed for 1,466 yards during the season. The two diametrically opposite quarterbacks had total-offense games more than 350 yards, a testimony to Bowden’s offensive system. Four of Clemson’s losses in 1999 came against teams ranked in the top 15 of the final AP poll. Bowden Bowl I, the first ever meeting between father and son head coaches in college football history, took place on October 23, 1999. Bowden faced his father Bobby’s top-ranked Florida State team in Death Valley in front of a national television audience. The Tigers lost a tough battle to the eventual National Champions, 17-14, the closest margin of victory for the Seminoles and the fewest points they recorded all season by two touchdowns.

Making strong improvement in his first year with a program was nothing new for Bowden. In the two seasons he was the head coach at Tulane, Bowden took a team that had been 4-18 in the two years previous to his arrival, and emotionally and numerically reversed the team’s fortunes with an 11-1 conference mark, and finished the 1998 season ranked seventh in the nation by both polls. Tulane and Tennessee were the only undefeated teams in college football in 1998.

It didn’t take Bowden long to put Tulane back on the college football landscape. In his first year, Tulane was picked last in the preseason polls of Conference USA. But he led the New Orleans-based school to a 7-4 record, a second-place conference standing with just one league loss, and set 33 school records in the process, including 26 on offense.

The 1998 season saw the program post a perfect 11-0 regular season under Bowden, its first perfect regular season since 1931. The Green Wave won Conference USA, its first league title since Tulane won the SEC in 1949. Bowden was named Conference USA Coach-of-the-Year.

Bowden’s team ranked seventh in the final AP poll and was a mainstay in the polls from the third week of the season on. Tulane had not been ranked at any time since 1979, and had not been ranked in a final poll since 1973. After Bowden accepted the job at Clemson, Tulane defeated Brigham Young in the Liberty Bowl, 41-27.

A look to the list of coaches who had undefeated seasons in the 1990s shows two other men named Bowden. His father, Florida State Head Coach Bobby Bowden, had a perfect regular season in 1996 and 1999, while his brother, Terry, posted a perfect regular season in 1993. Obviously, the Bowdons are the first family of college coaching and this “Wonder Years” environment had a lot to do with Tommy Bowden’s decision to enter coaching.

The fatherly influence of a college coach who reached 300 career wins against his son in 1999, also had an influence on other members of the family. Terry has been a head coach at Samford and Auburn, posting a 47-17-1 record at the latter. Terry serves as an in-studio commentator for ABC’s college football package. Jeff Bowden is in his ninth year as wide receivers coach at Florida State, his third as offensive coordinator.

Tommy Bowden began his college football experience as a walk-on wide receiver at West Virginia. He played for his father between 1973-75 and then for Frank Signetti during the 1976 season. As a junior, he caught 15 passes for 189 yards and one score. Bowden remained at West Virginia for the 1977 season and began his coaching career, serving as a graduate assistant on Signetti’s staff. His interest in coaching only became more intense after that first year as a graduate assistant. His father then hired him as a secondary coach at Florida State for the 1978 season.

That experience confirmed to Bowden that he was in a profession that would be his life’s work. The Seminoles posted a 19-4-2 mark in his two seasons at Florida State.

In 1980, Bowden joined the staff at East Carolina, where he coached for the spring practice session of 1980. Later that spring, he moved to Auburn and served as the Tigers running backs coach for the 1980 season. Among the players he coached was James Brooks, who went on to a 13-year NFL career and is still second in Auburn history in rushing.

In 1981, Bowden returned to Tallahassee as the tight ends coach. In two more years at Florida State, the Seminoles posted a 15-8 mark. The 1982 team ranked 13th in the final poll, claimed a 9-3 record, and won a Gator Bowl championship.

From 1983-86, Bowden served under Steve Sloam at Duke as the quarterbacks coach. He was named coordinator in 1985. It was as a Duke assistant that Bowden made his first trip to Death Valley as a coach. Among the players Bowden tutored was Anthony Dilweg, who went on to the NFL.

After four years at Duke, Bowden became the wide receivers coach at Alabama under Bill Curry. It was there that Bowden refined his offensive coaching prowess under noted offensive mind Homer Smith, then the Tide offensive coordinator.

In 1990, he returned to a coordinator role, serving Kentucky as its offensive coordinator and wide receivers coach. That year, he helped the Wildcats to their first upper division SEC finish since 1984.

In 1991, Bowden joined Pat Dye at Auburn. He would remain with Auburn for six years, his longest stint as a college assistant coach. During his tenure, Auburn was a combined 46-20-2, including a perfect 11-0 season in 1993. Auburn had four Associated Press top-25 seasons, including a #4 final ranking in 1993 and a #9 final ranking in 1994. The Tigers were 20-1-1 in 1993-94 combined. Bowden worked under his brother, Terry, for his last four years at Auburn and the Tigers had a 36-9-1 record with both Bowdens on the staff.

Born on July 10, 1954 in Birmingham, Ala., Bowden is married to the former Linda Joan White, who he first met when the two were in school together at Morgan State High School in West Virginia.

The couple has two children, Ryan (21), a senior at Clemson, and Lauren (18), a freshman at Clemson.

2003 Clemson Football
Construction on Clemson's WestZone Club will begin after the 2003 season and will create a unique facility that benefits Clemson players, coaches and fans. The Club will include new “game day” locker room facilities, a comprehensive team weight training area, coaches offices, football administration, recruiting area, and media area that will enhance the quality of the football experience for the student-athlete and staff. A comprehensive 14,000 square foot museum that documents Clemson's history is also part of the project. The addition of 2000 Club Seats will provide a continuous revenue stream to help finance the WestZone Club. The Club Seating area will include enclosed and outside seating that is complete with associated lounges and amenities. The Club Seats are already on sale at the Clemson Ticket Office (1-800-CLEMSON).

Scott Highlights
In his first season at South Carolina in 1994, he led the Gamecocks to their first post season bowl victory in school history with a 24-21 win over West Virginia in the Carquest Bowl. While at Florida State, the Seminoles were 10-1 in bowl games, with the win at the Carquest. Scott never tasted a bowl defeat in his first 12 bowl games as a coach...Florida State posted a 44-6 (180) record with Scott as offensive coordinator, which ranked as the most wins by a Division I program during those four seasons. Florida State also claimed the 1993 National Championship with Scott running the Seminoles offense and finished no lower than fourth in the nation in any one season during that span. Coach Heisman Trophy winner Charlie Ward...two of his five recruiting classes at Florida State were ranked #1 in the nation (1985 & 1989), Clemsons’ tight ends were especially productive in 1999, catching a pair of touchdown passes in the same season for the first time in more than a decade. Clemsons’ 2000 offense set 31 records, including most total offense and most touchdowns scored. Clemson ranked in top 15 in the nation in total offense, scoring, and rushing in 2000...as offensive coordinator in 2001, he directed quarterback Woodrow Danzler to the first 2,000-1,000 passing rushing season in NCAA Division I history...his son, Jeff, was the Tigers’ holder the past three seasons and even had a touchdown rushing to his credit, coming off a fake held goal...his other son, John, is a sophomore football player at Harvard.

• Comes to Clemson after leading Dayton to the NCAA Championship and a top-four NCAA Tournament seed in 2002-03.
• Led Dayton to postseason play in each of his last four years with the program and won at least 21 games in each of his last four years with the Flyers.
• Has had eight 20-win seasons in his 15 years as a head coach and has guided teams to postseason play eight times.
• Had a 14-2 conference record in the regular season, then led the Flyers to the Atlantic 10 Tourney title with a victory over Temple and Hall of Fame Head Coach John Chaney.
• The 24 victories by the Flyers in 2002-03 were the most for the Dayton program since the 1986-87 team won 25 games.
• The 24 wins in 2002-03 included wins over Marquette, a Final Four team that year, and Cincinnati, the fifth-winningest program in college basketball in the first decade of this century.
• Finished #18 in the final regular-season Associated Press poll and also ranked in the final top 25 of the USA Today coaches’ poll.
• Finalist for the Naismith Award in 2002-03, which is given to the college basketball coach-of-the-year.
• Named the Atlantic 10 Coach-of-the-Year in 1997-98 and was also chosen as the NABC District Coach-of-the-Year that season. It was his third different conference honor as coach-of-the-year.
• Also serves as an assistant coach with USA Basketball; he will be one of the assistants for the 2004 United States Olympic team. He served as the assistant coach of current NBA players this past August in Puerto Rico.
• Helped Old Dominion to the NCAA Division II National Championship as a senior in 1975. He was the MVP of the national championship game as well.

Clemson Memorial Stadium has been held in high esteem for many years. Whether it be players from the 1940s and 1950s, opposing players from the 1970s and 1980s, or even professional players in the 1990s, the ambiance of this special setting is what college football is all about.

The storied edifice added to its legend when the first meeting of father and son head coaches (Bowden Bowl I) took place before a sellout crowd of more than 86,000 fans in 1999. Clemson has ranked in the top 20 in the nation in average attendance 20 consecutive seasons. That includes 2001 when Clemson set an ACC record for total attendance. Last year, the streak continued when Clemson averaged over 77,500 fans.

In the 70s, 80s, and 90s, various publications named top-10 stadiums in college football and Memorial Stadium, affectionately known as "Death Valley," have been a common denominator on those lists.

The facility's mystique is derived from its many traditions, which date to its opening in 1942, the legendary games and players, and Clemson's corresponding rate of success. Clemson has won 216 games in 61 years there (216-86-7) and has won over 71 percent of the contests. Thirty-eight times since 1983, a crowd has exceeded 80,000.

The stadium has definitely been good to the Tigers, but the stadium was constructed against the advice of at least one Clemson coach. Just before head coach Jess Neely left for Rice University after the 1939 season, he gave Clemson a message. "Don't ever let them talk you into building a big stadium," he said. "Put about 10,000 seats behind the Y.M.C.A. That's all you'll ever need."

Instead of following Coach Neely's advice, however, Clemson officials decided to build the new stadium in a valley on the western part of campus. The place would take some clearing there were many trees, but luckily there were no hedges. The crews went to work, clearing, cutting, pouring, and forming. Finally on September 19, 1942, Memorial Stadium opened with Clemson thrashing Presbyterian, 32-13. Those 20,000 seats installed for opening day would soon grow and grow.

When the original part of the stadium was built in the early 40's, much of the work was done by scholarship athletes, including many football players. The first staking out of the stadium was done by two members of the football team, A.N. Cameron and Hugh Webb. Webb returned to Clemson years later to be an architecture professor, and Cameron went on to become a civil engineer in Louisiana.

The building of the stadium did not proceed without a few problems. One day during the clearing of the land, one young football player proudly announced that he was not allergic to poison oak. He then commenced to attack the poison oak with a swing blade, throwing the plants to and fro. The next day, however, the boy was swollen to twice his size and had to be put in the hospital.

There are many other stories about the stadium, including one stating that Frank Howard put a chew of tobacco in each corner of the stadium as the concrete poured.

Howard said that the seeding of the grass caused a few problems. "About 40 people and I laid sod on the field," he said. "After three weeks, on July 15, we had only gotten halfway through." I told them that it had taken us three weeks to get that far, and I would give them three more week's pay for however long it took. I also told them we would have 50 gallons of ice cream when we got through. After that it took them three days to do the rest of the field. Then we sat down in the middle of the field and ate up that whole 50 gallons."

Howard said that on the day of the first game in the stadium, "the gates were hung at 1:00 and we played at 2:00." But that would be all of the construction for a while. Then in 1958, 18,000 sideline seats were added and in 1960, 5,658 west endzone seats were added in response to increasing attendance. With the large endzone, "Green Grass" section, this expansion increased capacity to 53,000. Later, upper decks were added to each side as crowds swelled - the first in 1978 and the second in '83. This increased capacity to over 80,000, which makes it one of the largest on-campus stadiums.

The effect spiraling inflation has had in this century can be dramatically seen in the differences in stadium construction. The original part of the stadium was built at a cost of $125,000 or at $6.25 a seat. The newest upper deck was finished in 1983 at a cost of $13.5 million, or $886 a seat.

Through the years, Memorial Stadium has become known as "Death Valley." It was tagged this by the late Presbyterian coach, Lonnie McMillan. After bringing his P.C. teams to Clemson for years and getting whipped, McMillan said the place was like Death Valley. A few years later the name stuck.

Luckily, the stadium wasn't built behind the Y.
What Visitors Are Saying About Death Valley

"There is no place louder or more picturesque than Death Valley. There, where Clemson folks see magic in a Hill and a rock, orange gets more respect than anywhere this side of Gainesville, Florida."

Terence Moore, Atlanta Journal-Constitution

"I remember being nervous before the game because there were 80,000 people dressed in orange. It's intimidating. I even threw up before the game. It's the only time I've ever done that."

Former Duke Quarterback Dave Brown

"I came here knowing it would be loud and that Clemson would hit hard, but to me, the noise was the biggest factor. I know I didn't concentrate as well because of it."

Georgia Running Back Herschel Walker after Clemson's 13-3 victory in 1981, his only regular-season loss as a Bulldog

"Death Valley really lives up to its image. I was impressed with this stadium. When you put 80,000 people in there, it really feels like they are on top of you. I would hate to be Georgia Tech or whoever else comes in here."

San Francisco 49er Quarterback Steve Young

ESPN's Gameday made an appearance at Clemson for a Thursday night game in 2002. Clemson was on either ESPN or espn2 eight times during the 2002 season, including four times at Death Valley.
What has been described as, "the most exciting 25 seconds in college football from a color and pageantry standpoint," actually started out as a matter-of-fact entrance, mainly because of necessity.

The first 20,000 seats in Memorial Stadium were built and ready for use before the 1942 season. Less than a year before Pearl Harbor was bombed and the United States was at war.

The shortest entry into the stadium was a short walk down Williamson Road from Fike Fieldhouse's dressing rooms to a gate at the top of the Hill, which is located behind the east endzone. There were no dressing facilities in the west end zone - there was only a big clock where the hands turned and a scoreboard, which was operated by hand.

The team would dress at Fike, walk down Williamson Road, come in the gate underneath where the big scoreboard now stands and jog down the Hill for its warm-up exercises. There was no fanfare, no cannon shot fired, no Tiger Paw flag, no Tiger Rag played, just the team making its entrance and lining up to do the side-straddle hop.

That's pretty much the way things went for the next 25 years.

Either in 1964 or 1965, S.C. Jones, a member of the class of 1919, made a trip to California. He stopped at a spot in Death Valley, CA, and picked up this white flint rock. He presented it to Coach Frank Howard as being from Death Valley, CA, to Death Valley, South Carolina.

The rock laid on the floor in Howard's office in Fike for years. One day, he was cleaning up his office and he told Gene Willimon, who was executive secretary of IPTAY, to "take this rock and throw it over the fence, or out in the ditch. Do something with it, but get it out of my office!"

Willimon didn't think that was the way a rock should be treated. After all, it had been brought 3,000 miles by a very sincere Tiger fan.

By the mid-sixties, Memorial Stadium was pretty well living up to its moniker, Death Valley, because of the number of victories that had been recorded there. Actually, the name was first used by the late Lonnie McMillian, head coach at Presbyterian College in Clinton in the 1940s.

McMillian and the other Blue Hose coaches before him used to open the season each year by coming to Clemson. Seldom scoring (24 shutouts in 39 games) and with only three wins and four ties to show for it, his teams were getting killed by the Tigers regularly. In 1948, McMillian made the comment to the press that he was taking his team to play Clemson in Death Valley.

An occasional reference to Memorial stadium by that name could be heard for the next three or four years, but when Howard started calling it "Death Valley" in the 1950s, the name took off like wildfire. The Tigers celebrated the 50th season in the "Valley in 1991.
Running Down the Hill
"The most exciting 25 seconds in college football"

But getting back to Howard’s Rock.
The rock was mounted on a pedestal at the top of the Hill. It was unveiled September 24, 1966, on a day when Clemson played Virginia. The Tigers were down 18 points with 17 minutes to play and came back to win (40-35) on a 65-yard pass play from Jimmy Addison to Jacky Jackson in the fourth period. That was quite a spectacular debut for that rock.
The team members started rubbing the rock prior to running down the Hill September 23, 1967, a day when Clemson defeated Wake Forest, 23-6. Prior to running down the Hill that day, Howard told his players: “If you’re going to give me 110 percent, you can rub that rock. If you’re not, keep your filthy hands off it.” Howard told of the incident the next day on his Sunday television show and and the story became legend.

When Hootie Ingram succeeded Howard as head coach prior to the 1970 season, Ingram decided that the team would make its final entrance on the field out of the dressing room in the west end zone. In all home games in 1970 and 1971 and the first four of 1972 when the Tigers did not run down the Hill, their record was 6-9. The team decided it wanted to come down the Hill once prior to the South Carolina game in 1972. The result, in a cold, freezing rain, was a 7-6 victory when Jimmy Williamson knocked down a two-point conversion attempt which preserved the win.

The Tigers have made the entrance for every home game since 1942, except for the seasons mentioned above - 293 times heading into the 2003 season.

After final warmups, the team goes back into its dressing room under the west endzone stands for final game instructions. About 10 minutes before kickoff, the team boards two buses, rides around behind the north stands to the east endzone, and debarks to the top of the Hill behind Howard’s Rock.

At the appointed time, the cannon booms and led by a high-flying Tiger Paw flag, the band forms two lines for the team to run between and strikes up “Tiger Flag,” the frenzy starts in all sincerity and usually lasts for three hours.

It is a tradition that has inspired Clemson players for many years.

"The Rock has strange powers. When you rub it, and run down the Hill, the adrenaline flows. It's the most emotional experience I've ever had."
Six-time All-Pro and former Tiger All-American Michael Dean Perry

In football, it's always a thrill when your team is considered a pre-season favorite. But being ranked #1 at the end of the season is an even greater honor — an achievement you earn through teamwork and determination. That's why Regions Bank is proud to be ranked #1 in the nation in friendliness to small businesses by the U.S. Small Business Administration.*

We're proud of this achievement, but not surprised by it. Taking care of small businesses and the people and communities they serve has been the foundation of our business since 1865.

Let us show you why Regions Bank truly has the strength to help you do more.

Regions Bank
The Strength To Help You Do More

*Based on the most recent study by the SBA, which ranked the banks from which small businesses were most successful in obtaining loans.
Clemson has played some unusual teams over the years according to today's standards, and that is especially the case on this date throughout history. Games with Auburn, Florida, Duquesne, or Kentucky are unheard of on today's schedules, but they were commonplace during the early days of Tiger football. The last six meetings on this date have been against ACC competition, and the two contests on this date since 1958 have been vital in Clemson's pursuit of an ACC Championship.

From October 2, 1915 to November 15, 1941, the Tiger football team called Riggs Field home. The Tigers posted 54 victories and some of the greatest moments in Clemson history at the facility. Riggs Field saw Clemson's first orange uniforms, its first All-American (O.K. Pressley), Maxey Welch's five rushing touchdowns against Newberry in 1930, and possibly the single-greatest athlete in the history of Clemson athletics, Banks McFadden.

In what would be the final game at Historic Riggs Field, the "Clemson 11," which is what football teams were called back then, faced off against the "Wake Forest 11." The first quarter saw the Tigers drive inside the Demon Deacon's 20-yard line twice, only to come away with nothing. Early in the second quarter, from Wake Forest's three-yard line, Butch Butler took a reverse three yards for the go-ahead touchdown. The extra point was blocked, and the Tigers led 6-0.

The score remained 6-0 until late in the second quarter when Butch McHan found Bill Chipley on a 33-yard pass completion to the two-yard line and Chipley bowled his way into the endzone. After the extra point was converted, the Tigers held onto a 13-0 lead at halftime.

As the second half began, it became apparent that the final half of football at Riggs Field would be dominated by Clemson. The second-half scoring began when Joe Blalock blocked a Wake Forest punt, shooting the ball 21-yards backwards and out the back of the endzone for a safety and a 15-0 lead.

1958
The N.C. State game on this date in 1958 was the Tigers' last ACC game of the year. A win would propel Clemson to 5-0 in ACC play and a league championship, but a loss would negate a great season. Clemson came into the game at 5-2 overall, but N.C. State, playing on its home field, was determined to spoil the Tigers hopes of a championship.

The first three quarters belonged to the defenses. The two defensive squads combined to force two turnovers, 15 punts, and allowed only 10 first downs. The kicking trend would not continue into the fourth quarter.

Clemson's last drive of the third quarter and first drive of the fourth quarter was highlighted by backs Bill Mathis and George Usy. Mathis carried the ball three of the first five plays of the drive for 25 yards before Usy was called on. Usy bulled his way through the Wolfpack defense for 14 yards on six plays to give the Tigers the lead. The two-point conversion failed, and Clemson led 6-0.

After the Tiger defense shut down the Wolfpack on its next drive, Clemson rushed its way into the endzone for another score. This time it only took five plays and a Bobby Morgan 15-yard touchdown run to put the game out of reach. Lowndes Shingley's extra point was good to give the Tigers a 13-0 lead.

On its ensuing drive, N.C. State methodically drove the ball down and scored a touchdown to narrow the score to 13-6, but it was too little, too late. Clemson ran the clock on its next possession and the celebration began. The ACC title belonged to the Tigers. It was the first of two consecutive league titles for Frank Howard and the third ACC Championship in Clemson football history.

The 1986 Tigers finished the season ranked #17 in the AP poll after posting only two losses and two ties against eight wins. The Tigers clinched the ACC Championship in dramatic fashion when they tied Maryland on this date that year. The Tigers featured five players who would garner All-America status by the end of their careers, including first-team All-American Terrence Darrow, the runner-up for ACC Player-of-the-Year, and Clemson fan favorite and Outland Trophy finalist Michael Dean Perry.

Both head coaches guided their teams from high above in the Memorial Stadium Press Box. Maryland's Bobby Ross was forced to the press box because he had chased officials off the field the week before in a game at North Carolina, and Danny Ford was put in the "penalty box" for going out onto the field during the Maryland game the year before.

Maryland took a 7-0 first quarter lead on the strength of a Tommy Neal one-yard touchdown plunge, but the Tigers struck back two plays into the second quarter when quarterback Rodney Williams leaped forward for a one-yard score. The teams struggled to get anything going offensively, as the defenses dominated the rest of the half.

Clemson took control of the game less than five minutes into the second half, as Kenny Flowers raced 28 yards for the go-ahead touchdown. The Terrapins converted a field-goal attempt with four minutes remaining in the quarter to make the score 14-10, Clemson, and set up a fourth-quarter showdown to decide the ACC Champion.

With just over 10 minutes left in the game, a fumble gave Maryland the ball at Clemson's six-yard line. Three plays later, Neal scored his second one-yard touchdown of the game, giving the Terrapins the lead 17-14 with nine minutes to go in the game.

After the two teams traded punts, Clemson got the ball on its own eight-yard line with seven minutes to play. Eight consecutive rushing plays by Clemson moved the ball down to Maryland's 39. After a fourth-down pass from Williams to All-ACC tight end Jim Riggs, the Tigers rushed the ball eight more times down to the Maryland four-yard line. Clemson took one last shot at the endzone; but when Williams pass fell incomplete, the Tigers called on clutch place kicker David Treadwell.

Treadwell, who had missed two long field goals earlier in the game, set up for the 21-yard attempt with the game, the season, and the ACC title hanging in the balance with just two seconds left. His kick sailed through the uprights, giving Clemson the 17-17 tie and its eighth ACC title. The 1986 crown was the first of three consecutive championships Clemson would win between 1986-88.

Bill Mathis, who later became the first Tiger alumnus to win a Super Bowl Championship ring, was instrumental in Clemson's 13-6 win at N.C. State on November 15, 1958.

Charlie Timmons returned the free kick 22 yards, and it took the Tigers just four plays to reach pay dirt again. Booty Payne highlighted the scoring drive with a 22-yard pass to Blalock and a 17-yard touchdown run behind the blocking of Hal Pierce and Tom Wright.

Clemson started its next drive at its own 26, and it only took three plays for the Tigers to score. Payne went around the right end for 33 yards and Butch Butler took a reverse 38 yards down to the Wake Forest three, where Timmons crashed his way over the top for the touchdown. He then kicked the extra point to make the score 29-0 at the end of the third quarter, which was the eventual final score.

Jim Riggs' fourth-down catch prolonged a fourth-quarter drive that allowed Clemson to tie Maryland and clinch the 1986 ACC title.

#25 Terrell Smith, S
It takes many different positions to comprise a football team. The most visible ones get all the glory, from quarterbacks to receivers to linebackers. But a good team also needs unsung role players who do the dirty work with little recognition. Former Tiger Keith Adams knows what its like to be both.

After a three-year career that saw him shatter records and opposing backfields, Adams is now a part of the NFL's Philadelphia Eagles. But he is not the star linebacker he was at Clemson. Instead, he is one of the team's most valuable special teams players at the blue collar position of wedge buster. So what is a wedge buster?

"The art of being a wedge buster involves getting down the field as quickly as you can," said Adams. "You have to be a physical player, you have to have a nose for the ball, and you have to be aggressive. You have three or four guys in the wedge that are coming full speed at you. You have to make a move to split them and get to the ball as quickly as you can."

It is Adams' job to ruin the opposing team's kick return game. He sprints downfield, lowers his shoulder, and tries to do what makes fans cringe and physics professors shake their heads. He tries to plow through something three times as big as he is. But for the gritty Tiger great, it does not matter how he gets on the field.

"My individual goal is just to do whatever it takes to help my team win the game," he said. "That's what they brought me in here for...to be a leader on special teams. If I get a chance to go in on defense, I will be prepared and try to play like I'm capable of playing. It's a great experience just having the opportunity to play in the NFL. I grew up always wanting to be in the NFL and I am blessed."

The son of former NFL player Julius Adams, Keith seemed destined to follow his father's footsteps after arriving at Clemson. He terrorized quarterbacks in scrimmages as a first-year freshman, and then did the same thing to opponents as a sophomore. He became the most decorated sophomore in Clemson history after he led the nation and set Clemson records with 186 tackles and 35 tackles for loss. He also set the single-game tackle mark (27) against rival South Carolina in 1999.

After a first-team All-America junior year when he was a finalist for the Butkus Award, he entered the 2001 NFL Draft and was taken in the seventh round by the Tennessee Titans. He learned the business of being a professional early when he was one of the last players cut in training camp that fall. Adams would not let his dream of playing in the NFL die, however.

"I had confidence in myself," he said. "I knew there were certain things I couldn't control, and I could only worry about the things I could control. I had to keep striving and looking forward and never look back. That's one mindset I always have. If I make a decision, I just keep going forward and don't look back."

He helped lead Berlin Thunder of NFL Europe to its second consecutive World Bowl title in the spring of 2002, as he finished second on the team with 55 tackles. He then caught on with the Dallas Cowboys that fall and acquired valuable experience while making five starts at middle linebacker.

"My time in Dallas was great," said Adams. "It was a great experience for me to really get my feet wet. It really opened up the door for the situation I'm in now."

He was released by the Cowboys in October of last season, but was picked up quickly by the Philadelphia Eagles. Adams was excited to move to a rebuilding squad to a Super Bowl contender.

"To be in an organization like the Eagles, the sky's the limit," he said. "It was a blessing from God to get this opportunity. Coming from a team that wasn't winning much to a team with a shot at the Super Bowl is a lifelong dream."

On December 21, 2002, Adams faced his former team and showed them what they were missing. He forced a fumble on a Dallas kick return and helped the Eagles to a 27-3 win.

"It was nice to have a direct impact and help my team win the game," he said. "I just tried to make a play and the opportunity presented itself."

Adams' hit wasn't on just any kick returner. The Cowboy return man had just electrified the nation two weeks earlier with a dazzling return for a touchdown against San Francisco. The kick returner was former Tiger teammate Woodrow Dantzler.

"We could never hit the quarterback in practice," said Adams. "To get a clean shot on Woody is something that is not really easy to do. He's a very elusive guy and a great player. The opportunity to get a shot on him felt good. I jawed a little bit and we still joke around about it. He's doing his thing in Atlanta now and it's great to see him doing well."

Although he has not had any big plays since, Adams' presence is still being felt on special teams.

Adams turned the ACC and nation upside down in three years as a Tiger, including in 1999 when he led the nation in tackles for loss and was named ACC Defensive Player-of-the-Year.

"He's made a dramatic impact on our cover-teams," said Philadelphia Special Teams Coach John Harbaugh. "Once a game, he hits someone in a wedge, makes them spin around, and go back the other way off the field, and he goes through six to eight contact lenses a game. When he hits someone so hard, his contact lenses pop out."

Of all the wedges he must face in a season, the Atlanta-area native cites the Chicago Bears as the toughest he must bust. "The Bears have some big guys on their wedge; they bring it. You know if you're playing against them, you've gotta put your hard hat on."

Adams still keeps a close eye on his alma mater every week. He said the player wearing his old jersey (#43) makes him proud. All-America candidate Leroy Hill has drawn comparisons to Adams as an undersized linebacker who gets the job done.

"I'm very happy to see him doing well. Tell him to keep up the good work and he can definitely make it."

Hill can only hope to have as good a game today as Adams had against the Blue Devils in 1999. Adams notched 14 tackles, four sacks, and six tackles for loss, as the Tigers drubbed Duke by a score of 58-7 in Death Valley. His day was so incredible that Adams' teammates lifted him on their shoulders and carried him off the field - at the end of the third quarter.

"I will always remember that game for the rest of my life," Adams recalled. "Just to go out as a team and play like we did that day was unbelievable. Everybody was on the same page and we just played tremendous football. The coaches called the right plays and put us in position. We were just hitting on all cylinders."

No matter what level of glory he achieves in the NFL, Adams takes joy in being a contributing member of the team. And he will always have fond memories of his alma mater.

"Tell everybody down there at Clemson that my heart is still with them and I still love Clemson. I'm always a Tiger at heart."

Louis Garmendia is an Assistant Sports Information Director in his second year in that position at Clemson. He previously worked as a graduate assistant at Clemson for two years.
In searching for nothing less than the origins of the universe, internationally recognized nuclear astrophysicist Donald Clayton has brought respect to space studies at Clemson.

His work proved the longtime theory of nucleosynthesis, which holds that the elements, including those that make up the human body, were formed in the explosion of stars. The historic 1987 supernova confirmed Clayton's predictions about nucleosynthesis. His groundbreaking research was selected by the American Astronomical Society as one of the top-50 astrophysics research papers of the 20th century. Clayton is a Fellow in the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and has been awarded an Exceptional Scientific Achievement Medal by NASA.

Ducane ChuckWagon
7200 Gas Grill with optional Beer Tap and optional Market Umbrella

AMERICAN MADE 2003
THE DUCANE CHUCKWAGON
is a real beauty on the outside! 18-gauge black powder-coated steel or optional stainless steel cabinetry will make you the envy of the road. But when you stop to grill you’ll realize the true beauty. Ducane ChuckWagon comes with all the Ducane features you’ve grown to love and trust. TOP-PORTED® Stainless Steel Burners are efficient and long lasting. Stainless SEAR GRIDS® are made of high-quality stainless steel which sear meat quicker and more evenly to hold in more juicy flavor. Ducane’s double-tiered LA-VA-GRATE® system features overlapping runners to hold and revaporize drippings, which means more flavorful food! The Ducane ChuckWagon 7200R model features our patented Open Flame Rotissing® System to hold that cook-out flavor. Meats stay moist because juices drip into the pan, rather than a flame, and are revaporized. And we haven’t even mentioned the Norcold refrigerator yet!

A GRILL YOU CAN TAKE WITH YOU.
From backyard to your next away-from-home event, our sure-lock mounting system assures a perfect fit and secure ride for the ChuckWagon grill. Made of heavy-duty, hand-welded structural tubular steel, the hitch adapter fits any standard 2” receiver. Our electric lift operates with a simple push of a button and will raise your grill over 18”. Another push will gently lower the grill onto the hitch adapter and retract the wheels into the transport position. The Ducane ChuckWagon comes with a 14’, 7-way trailer harness. This harness draws the power for the electric lift from your vehicle. It also provides the built-in grill tail lights with stop and turn signals. Our 2-plug inverter allows you to plug in a television, blender or other small appliances!

Convenience is all yours with the Ducane ChuckWagon! You won’t have to mess with wiring and mounting a tail light kit, or have to deal with temporary auxiliary lights—because the Ducane ChuckWagon comes fully equipped with tail lights!

Clemson Tiger Sports Properties supplies Tiger fans with a full day of broadcast each football Saturday. Each broadcast day has three programs, "Tiger Tailgate Show," "Game Day Broadcast," and the "Fifth Quarter Show." A tradition since the 1970s, the "Tiger Tailgate Show" is a two-hour entertainment and interactive program produced from the stadium. It is produced on the lawn (at the corner) closest to Death Valley.

The program begins three hours prior to kickoff. Bubba Britton, Duane Evans, Don Munson, and Whitney Walters play host to the show. It is the gathering place for gameday interviews with former Clemson players, games, display items, and pregame excitement are all part of the program.

FSNS - Fox Sports Net South: CC - Compartament Cable; CSS - Comcast Sports Southeast/Charter Sports Southeast; Note: All times are Eastern; Clemson's game replays will be aired on Tuesdays at 7:00 PM on Comcast Sports Southeast/Charter Sports Southeast.

The game broadcast is anchored by Pete Yanity. The sports director at WSPE-AM in Spartanburg, SC took over this year after the passing of Jim Phillips on September 9, who had been the longtime voice of the Tigers since 1968. He has been a part of the broadcast team since 2001 as the host of the pregame, halftime, and postgame shows, and as the sideline reporter during games.

Yanity has been the sports director at WSPE-AM for 13 years. He has also been a sideline analyst for eight years on Carolina Panthers season football games and has considerable play-by-play experience for Comcast Sports Southeast, covering various college events, including Clemson football and baseball. Joining Yanity in the broadcast booth is former Clemson offensive lineman Will Merritt, who played for the Tigers from 1998-01. He was a starter in 2000 and 2001 when he was named Second-Team All ACC.

Merritt worked on the Clemson radio network pregame and postgame shows last year. He also provided color commentary on the television tape-delay broadcasts of selected 2002 games. The native of Easley, SC is the host of "The Morning Drive," a sports talk show that airs from 6:00 AM to 9:00 AM each morning on WCCP (104.9 FM) in Clemson.

As has been the case in the past, the gameday broadcast begins with the Tommy Bowden Pregame Show. Bowden meets with Clemson Sports Information Director Tim Bourret to provide Clemson fans with the latest lineup and strategy information as his Tigers prepare for another competitive contest.

Yanity and Merritt also provide a last-minute setter that will include the latest lineup and weather information. A special guest is added to each broadcast as a sideline reporter, and this person is introduced during the pregame show.

After the game, fans can tune into the "Fifth Quarter Show," hosted by Ralph Patterson and Yanity, or attend the show live from the Wild Wing Cafe in downtown Greenville, SC. Interviews with Coach Bowden and Assistant Coaches Scott Bridgman and John Lovett are also included. An added feature includes lockerroom interviews with Clemson's top players that day. A rundown of the game stats and audio highlights are provided. Scores and reports from the day's top games are also provided.

Fans can follow the Tigers by listening to "Tiger Calls," hosted live on location by Mike Hudson (84) of Roper Ford in Seneca and Herb Tyler (82) of the Chick-fil-A of Seneca. This one-hour program with Bowden and Don Munson airs live each Thursday evening from 7:00 PM to 8:00 PM. It can be heard on most of the network's affiliates.

Clemson Tiger Sports Properties also produces the Tommy Bowden Show, a recap of the previous game's highlights. "Yanity serves as the host of this program that gives fans insight into the coaches' decisions during the previous game and takes an up close and personal look at your favorite players." For more information, contact David Hubbard (General Manager) or Don Williams (Sales & Operations) at Clemson Tiger Sports Properties, P.O. Drawer 552, Clemson, SC 29633-0552. They can be reached via phone at (864) 654-5546 and fax at (864) 654-5509.

"Voice of the Tigers"

Jim Phillips, the legendary "Voice of the Tigers" for 36 years, passed away on Tuesday, September 9, 2003 at the age of 69. The dean of all broadcasters in the ACC, Phillips came to Clemson in 1968 and broadcast his first Tiger football game on September 21, 1968 at Wake Forest. The Georgia game on August 30, 2003 was his 400th football broadcast. At 69-years-old, he was the only ACC play-by-play announcer after the sudden passing of Jim Phillips on September 9, 2003. Phillips was the Voice of the Tigers for 36 years.

In his third year with the network, he served as sideline commentator during 2002 and 2003.

Other duties include being sports director at WSPE-AM (Spartanburg/Greenville) since 1968, sideline work on the Panthers' preseason television network, and play-by-play and color analyst on selected games on Comcast Sports Southeast.

1985 graduate of Ohio University.

Married to wife Kelly. The couple has two children, Paige (6) and Trey (4).

A Message to Our Boosters

Tiger fans, thank you for your support! As a fan, NCAA rules can define you as a "representative of your athletics' interests" or a "booster". Once identified as one, you hold this identity forever.

NCAA rules limit our booster's actions. Boosters may not try to persuade prospects, their family members, or their coaches to attend a particular school. Additionally, boosters may not provide or arrange financial assistance, transportation or living expenses for a prospect, their families, or friends. There are some NCAA rules that do allow boosters to help Clemson. For example, if you know of any outstanding prospects in your area, send information such as newspaper clippings to our coaches and let them contact the prospect on Clemson's behalf. You can also join IPTAY. IPTAY helps provide scholarship costs for Clemson's 10 men's and nine women's teams.

Once a prospect becomes a college athlete, NCAA rules prohibit anyone other than their family to provide benefits. A full scholarship covers basic educational needs, and those student-athletes with severe financial need can receive Pell grants up to $4,000 and they also can use funds from NCAA special assistance. NCAA rules strictly prohibit booster involvement with prospects and student-athletes. The penalties for ignoring these rules are too great. Help Clemson athletics operate free of booster problems. If you suspect a violation, or have questions about a particular NCAA rule, call Clemson's compliance services office.

Gambling

The Clemson athletic department asks for your cooperation in protecting intercollegiate athletes from the perils of gambling. Not only does the NCAA and Clemson oppose all forms of legal and illegal sports gambling, but it's against the law.

Did you know that sports wagering or gambling activities by Clemson athletic administrators, coaches and student-athletes are violations of NCAA rules and regulations? Please refuse to engage in these activities since penalties for these violations are severe. Violating these rules can result in permanent dismissal, suspension or loss of eligibility for your beloved Tigers.

The NCAA defines wagering and gambling activities as:

- Providing information to individuals involved in organized gambling activities involving NCAA events
- Soliciting or accepting a bet for cash or prizes on Clemson or any NCAA team
- Placing bets on any NCAA or professional athletic events through a bookmaker, parlay cards or other means used by organized gambling

Amateurism & Agents

NCAA rules require student-athletes to maintain their amateur status if they want to participate in NCAA competition. Student-athletes will lose their amateur status if they use their skill for pay or accept a promise of future pay while still competing for Clemson. Additionally, student-athletes may not sign a contract with a pro team, receive a salary or expenses from a pro team, compete on a pro team or ask to be placed in a pro draft or enter into an agreement with an agent.

Once a student-athlete's intercollegiate athletic career is over and the student-athlete has interest in playing professionally, an agent is hired for the purpose of marketing their athletics ability. However, if a student-athlete with eligibility remaining enters into a verbal or written agreement with an agent before their eligibility is complete, they will no longer be able to compete for Clemson. In addition, student-athletes may not accept transportation, clothing, meals, lodging, or any benefit from an agent or agency without jeopardizing their eligibility. Please do not contact our athletes on behalf of any agent or agency.

Conclusion

NCAA rules are complex and at times may seem confusing. If you have questions or would like additional information regarding NCAA rules, contact Clemson compliance services through our e-mail, compliance-l@clemson.edu, or through our website at www.clemson tigers.com/compliance/clem-compliance.html. Again, thank you for your support of Clemson and its athletics' program!

Atlantic Coast Conference

The Atlantic Coast Conference
Consistency. It’s the mark of true excellence in any endeavor.
However in today’s intercollegiate athletics, competition has become so balanced and so competitive that it is virtually impossible to maintain a high level of consistency.

Yet the Atlantic Coast Conference has defied the odds. Having celebrated its 50th year of competition during the 2002-03 academic year, the ACC has long enjoyed the reputation as one of the strongest and most competitive intercollegiate conferences in the nation. And that is not mere conjecture; the numbers support it.

Since the league’s inception in 1953, ACC schools have captured 99 national championships, including 44 in women’s competition and 44 in men’s. In addition, NCAA individual titles have gone to ACC student-athletes 114 times in men’s competition and 51 times in women’s action.

History
The Atlantic Coast Conference was founded on May 8, 1953 at the Sedgfield Inn near Greensboro, NC with seven charter members (Clemson, Duke, Maryland, North Carolina, N.C. State, South Carolina, and Wake Forest) drawing up the conference by-laws.

The withdrawal of seven schools from the Southern Conference came early on the morning of May 8, 1953, during the Southern Conference’s annual spring meeting. On June 14, 1953, the seven members met in Raleigh, NC, where a set of by-laws was adopted and the name officially became the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Suggestions from fans for the name of the new conference appeared in the region’s newspapers prior to the meeting in Raleigh. Some of the names suggested were Blue-Gray, Colonial, Dixie, East Coast, Mid Atlantic, Mid South, Piedmont, Seaboard, Shoreline, Southern Seven, and Tobacco.

Duke’s Eddie Cameron recommended that the name of the conference be the Atlantic Coastal Conference, and the motion was passed unanimously. The meeting concurred with Monaco’s suggestion assessed $200 to pay for conference expenses.

On December 4, 1953, conference officials met again at Sedgfield and officially admitted Virginia as the league’s eighth member. The first and only withdrawal of a school from the ACC came on June 30, 1971, when South Carolina tendered its resignation.

The ACC operated with seven members until April 3, 1978, when Georgia Tech was admitted. The Atlanta school had withdrawn from the Southeastern Conference in January of 1964.

The ACC expanded to nine members on July 1, 1991, with the addition of Florida State. On July 1, 2003, Virginia Tech and Miami (FL) were accepted into the league and will begin competition in the 2004-05 academic year. This will give the ACC 11 members, its highest total at any time in its history.

ACC Football
The Atlantic Coast Conference had an immediate impact on the national college football scene in the fall of 1953 when Maryland captured the first of what would eventually be five national football titles for the ACC within its first 50 years. Clemson laid claim to the league’s second national title in 1981, while Georgia Tech followed suit in 1990. Florida State pocketed national titles #4 and #5 in 1993 and 1999.

The nine schools that take to the field this fall under the ACC banner have produced 386 first- or second-team gridiron All-Americans and 61 first-team academic All-Americans. ACC teams have had 1,520 players selected in the annual professional football draft, including 113 first-round selections. A year ago, the nine ACC member institutions had 145 former players on NFL rosters during the regular season or playoffs.

If success is best measured in terms of wins and losses, then the ACC over the years has proved itself to be among the elite in Division I-A football. The ACC is the nation’s winningest bowl conference, as the nine current league teams are a combined 92-82-5 (.528) in postseason play.

A year ago, the ACC set an NCAA record when seven of its nine teams (78 percent) received bowl bids. Over the past two years, 13 of a possible 18 ACC teams (72 percent) have received bowl bids. Conference bowl participants posted a 4-3 mark and tied a league record, all having finished the regular season with winning records.

Two ACC teams (Georgia Tech and Florida State) rank among the nation’s winningest bowl teams. Among teams with 20 or more bowl appearances, the Yellow Jackets stand third behind only Southern California and Penn State with a 20-11-1 (64.5) postseason mark, while the Seminoles are fifth at 18-11-2 (.613).

This past season, the ACC had a consensus All-American, and over the past six years has produced 25 consensus All-Americans. For the third-straight year, the ACC set new football attendance marks. Over 56 home games, ACC teams drew 2,944,936 fans, breaking the previous record of 2,776,724 set in the 2001 season. In addition, in its 50th season, the league eclipsed the 50,000 per-game mark for the first time, averaging 50,775 per game. That mark surpassed the previous single-season record of 49,673 established in 2001.

The ACC set an NCAA record for percentage of teams participating in bowl in 2002 when seven of its nine teams (78 percent) earned bowl bids. ACC teams who participated in bowls in 2002 were Clemson (Tarzana Bowl), Florida State (Sugar Bowl), Georgia Tech (Silicon Valley Classic), Maryland (Peach Bowl), N.C. State (Gator Bowl), Virginia (Continental Tire Bowl), and Wake Forest (Seattle Bowl).

The current nine ACC teams have a combined record of 92-82-5 (.519) in postseason play, the winningest conference mark with at least 50 bowl appearances.

2002 ACC Football Facts
• The ACC set a conference attendance record, drawing 2,944,936 fans and averaging 50,775 per contest.
• For the second time overall, the ACC had four teams ranked in the final Associated Press and Coaches’ polls.
• The ACC had 17 football All-Americans (first team through honorable mention), including Clemson’s Brandon Manziel.
• The ACC was 13-9 (.591) against BCS conference foes, the second-best record among the six BCS conferences.
• The ACC played 47 percent of non-conference games against BCS conference opponents, the best percentage among BCS conferences.
• The ACC had 20 first- or second-team All-ACC players return in 2003.
• Clemson sophomore cornerback Justin Miller led the ACC and tied for fifth in the nation in interceptions (8). He tied the ACC freshman record for interceptions and led the league in kickoff return average. He was the first ACC player since 1985 to lead the league in both categories in the same year, and the first freshman to do it.
• The ACC has two of the nation’s top three returning tacklers for the 2003 season, North Carolina safety Dexter Reid and Clemson linebacker John Leake.
• The ACC has 141 starters from the 2002 season returning in 2003.

There's a week's worth of work to do.

When there's only Saturday to get it all done, and two kids are waiting on you,

Nothing runs like a Deere™

Some people have seven days a week to whip their property into shape. If you only have one or two, all the more reason why you need the best equipment: a John Deere 4000 TEN Series Tractor, winner of the prestigious AE50 Award for engineering excellence. Our full line has the solid strength and easy control the pros demand—at just the right size, power level and price for you. So don't waste another minute with anything less.

Hurry over to your John Deere dealer—and Test Drive one today.
Clemson fans look forward to seeing tough, hard-nosed football when they come to Death Valley or travel to other schools to watch their Tigers in action. But some of the Tigers' most intense competition and action doesn't take place on autumn Saturday's and it doesn't take place on a field. Take a peek into the Clemson Strength Training Room at almost any time of day, almost any day of the week, at any time of the year, and you will see the Tigers building the foundation for their pursuit of a championship.

Perhaps the most impressive characteristic of the facility is its size. Several years ago, it was enlarged to an astounding 11,000 square feet, making it one of the largest in the nation. In 1998, it was expanded to 14,000 square feet. The facility boasts two full lines of Nautilus machines and over 12 tons of weights. The large number of machines and free weights allows the weight room to be used by athletes from several other sports at the same time, without anyone having to wait in line at a particular station.

Within the last four years, the dumbbell area and leg development areas were expanded as well as the nutrition and hydration area known as the Power Station. The Power Station features the energy and recovery drink to aid each athlete's recovery from intense training.

The plush atmosphere provides an interesting contrast to the physical exertion that takes place in the facility. When an athlete enters the etched glass doors, he is greeted by plush, wall-to-wall carpeting, walls lined with mirrors, ceiling fans, and music from a 26-speaker sound system - a worthy backdrop for well over $500,000 worth of state-of-the-art equipment.

Color television monitors are also positioned throughout the facility. These monitors are used for training and instruction, as Tiger strength coaches film the athletes and work with them on form correction.

The large staff of five full-time coaches, four graduate assistants, numerous student assistants, and volunteers ensures that each football player receives proper instruction on the fundamentals of strength and speed development. Training programs at Clemson are position specific and designed to meet the needs and demands of each athlete. Also, each position is appointed a full-time strength coach that serves as a personal trainer throughout his/her career.

Since its inception in 1991, the five-faceted Student-Athlete Enrichment Program has provided its student-athletes a continued commitment to excellence. Our approach is to address the total student-athlete, and we are committed to coaching our student-athletes to success (C.A.T.S.) not only in the athletic arena, but in the academic, personal growth, career, and service arenas as well. As an original member of the NCAA Life Skills/CHAMPS Program, we provide opportunities and services to address the changing needs and skills of student-athletes in the years during college and after graduation.

Clemson University’s commitment to provide its student-athletes with the very best of facilities is evident in many ways. From the soaring upper decks of Memorial Stadium, to “The New Littlejohn Coliseum,” to the state-of-the-art strength training facility, young men and women from all 19 of Clemson’s varsity sports have the very best in facilities for training and competition.

Vickery Hall is no exception, as the $3-million structure is as impressive aesthetically as any of the other facilities. But the importance of Vickery Hall to the Clemson University Athletic Department is not found in the structure itself, but in the many programs that the building houses.

Vickery Hall opened in the spring of 1991 and was the first facility in the nation built solely for the all-around academic support of student-athletes. The two-story, 27,000 square-foot building is open all day and into the evening to accommodate the student-athletes’ extended schedules.

The mission of the Student Athlete Enrichment Programs is to monitor, guide, and encourage Clemson’s student-athletes to fulfill their long-term goals, and to achieve their academic and career potential.

Vickery Hall focuses on five primary areas to meet the student-athlete’s needs.

Academic Commitment
A record eight Clemson athletic teams earned over a 3.0 GPA for the spring semester of 2003. A record 231 student-athletes were named to the Academic Honor Roll for the semester. Student-athletes had a combined GPA of 2.84, second highest for a semester on record behind a 2.85 mark set in the spring of 2002. At least 200 student-athletes have made the Academic Honor Roll in eight straight semesters.

Thirty-six student-athletes had a perfect 4.0 for the semester, one short of the semester record of 37 set in the spring of 2002. A total of 101 student-athletes were on the dean’s list, the fourth-straight semester the 100 mark had been exceeded.

These outstanding statistics have been a habit in recent years. The cumulative GPA of the athletic teams has improved 18 of the last 24 semesters, making a steady rise from 2.33 to 2.84 over the last 12 years.

Forty-eight student athletes went through graduation exercises last May. Fifteen times in the last five years a Clemson student-athlete has been named to a Verizon Academic All-America team, more than any other five-year period in Clemson history.

One of the most prestigious programs that has received recognition essential to the growth of Vickery Hall is the tutorial program. Of 450 tutoring programs certified by CRLA, the Clemson Student-Athlete Enrichment Program was one of the first three student-athlete programs in the country to be granted all three levels of certification from the College of Reading and Learning Association, International Tutor Certification Program. The program was also honored with the National Champs Skills Excellence Award in 1999, one of only six schools across the country to be honored.

Having tutor certification allows student-athletes to be provided the highest quality of academic assistance possible. Approximately 80 tutors are hired to provide academic support in the many subject areas offered.

The Department of Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs has recognized the need for students to have access to high-quality computing equipment and has made a commitment to provide the student-athletes at Clemson with one of the largest computer labs in the country.

Located on the first floor of Vickery Hall is the Dick Hendley Microcomputer Laboratory. The lab is open seven days a week, for 16 hours on Monday through Thursday, and a limited time on the weekend. Vickery Hall is now a "wireless facility" which allows students in the building with laptop computers to access the campus mainframe without physically plugging into the system.

The lab staff has a full-time computer manager, and also graduate students, many of whom are pursuing advanced degrees in computer science. Lab staff members are available for tutoring of any Computer Science course, as well as the management, engineering, and business courses that deal with personal computers.

The Department of Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs is committed to providing state-of-the-art computing facilities. New computers have recently been purchased bringing the lab to a state of the art facility. More than 50 computers are available for student-athletes.

All computers are fully connected to the internet allowing for access of computers throughout the world for research and communication.

The Dick Hendley Computer Lab is one of the areas of Vickery Hall that makes it one of the top facilities of its kind in the nation.
Career Development Commitment

The Career Assistance Program provides student-athletes an opportunity to fulfill career aspirations by participating in various career seminars offered by the Vickery Hall staff. The philosophy of this program is to provide student-athletes with job-searching skills and strategies, internships, practical experience, and summer employment. These programs are designed to address specific career opportunities and acquire information about the student-athletes for each year.

By using the resources available to the University, Alumni Center, and the Athletic Department, the staff is working to establish a network of businesses, companies, and executives who will help assist with the Summer Employment Assistance Program. The program’s main goal is to provide the student-athletes with job experience and a work history, which he or she can apply to his or her academic discipline.

The Career Assistance Program is coordinated from the academic colleges, the Placement Center, and through the Athletic Department contacts. This program is designed to better prepare the student-athlete for full-time employment and focuses on resume writing and interview techniques.

The SAEP career assistance program has a full-time career counselor housed in Vickery Hall. Unique to our program, the career counselor is a member of the Michelin Career Center staff as well as the Student-Athlete Enrichment staff. This link between athletics and the Michelin Career Center provides student athletes the most up-to-date information and resources in career development and preparation for entrance into the job market upon graduation.

Personal Development Commitment

One of the most important programs that helps student-athletes reach their full potential and engage successfully in this college experience is the Personal Growth and Development Program.

One of the key components of this program is the first-semester freshman transition class designed to assist the student-athlete in making a successful transition into his/her university and athletic life.

All first-year student-athletes are required to attend a semester-long series of workshops targeting the transitional issues of time management, organizational strategies, health and wellness issues, athletic issues, diversity issues, career orientation, and service training. Throughout the academic year, all student-athletes are required to attend four large-group programs, which focus on pertinent social, health, and athletic issues.

Service Commitment

Providing community and outreach service to student-athletes and the surrounding community by engaging the student-athletes in hands-on interactive programs is an important aspect of the Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs. The staff of SAEP coordinates various activities each year to engage student-athletes in community outreach projects along with academic programs.

Another aspect of the service commitment is that of community service. The purpose of community service is to allow the student-athletes to become involved with the happenings of the community while giving back at the same time. Each year, every team is required to perform at least two community outreach projects. Recently implemented was a new community service program entitled “Success Away From the Game.”

The purpose of this program is to combine athletes of different sports in community outreach programs. Each outreach program participates, thus creating a diverse group of athletes with new and different ideas. At the end of each year, six student-athletes who have demonstrated outstanding commitment and contributions to the community are recognized as the Top Six by the ACC.

To assist our student-athletes in becoming effective service leaders and communicators, we provide service and speaking training, which anticipates the demands placed on a student-athlete when he/she might be speaking with a group of young people with members of the media.

Clemson’s “Rock” solid tradition includes having its student-athletes earn their degrees even before their eligibility is finished. The 2003 Clemson football team has eight players who are playing as graduate students. Left, J.J. Howard, Kevin Youngblood, DeJuan Polk, Chad Jasmin, Gregory Walker, Khaleed Vaughn, and William Henry have all made significant contributions on the field. Above, Tony Elliott receives his diploma from President Jim Barker.
Your son slides into home and you’re sure he’s broken his arm. Your husband sprains his ankle acting like a 10-year-old at the bowling alley. Your mother mentions symptoms you believe could be a heart attack.

Extend your Clemson Weekend...

The Rock at Jocassee is nestled in the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains and surrounded by the spectacular Jocassee Gorges. Whether you are looking for that second home, a Clemson weekend getaway or a permanent residence, we can offer you a homesite on our 6,700-yard golf course or lots with views of nature’s paradise - the Jocassee Gorges. With lots priced from the low $40,000 and homes starting at less than $300,000; The Rock at Jocassee is one of the last affordable pieces of mountain paradise. In addition, you can let others help pay for your mountain retreat by placing it in our high demand rental program for the periods you are not using it.

Our Clubhouse is a friendly place to unwind after the Clemson game or a day of golf, tennis, swimming or horseback riding. The grill is open daily for lunch and Friday and Saturday for dining. Our friendly staff will gladly help you with planning that special event or accommodating you on game days with that special meal for your tailgating plans.

You’ve thought about it, even dreamed about it. A home in the mountains that is less than 30 minutes from Death Valley. Now it can be yours. For a free video call 1-888-690-7625 (864-878-4500) or visit www.golftherock.net on the web.

IPTAY Endowment Program

IPTAY is widely regarded nationally as the father of Athletic Fundraising. It all started in 1934 from a private meeting of a small group of Clemson supporters who have sprung into an organization that raised a record $16 million in 2001. The organization plays a major role in ensuring that all of the varsity sports at Clemson are given the maximum amount of scholarships offered by the NCAA.

The organization also has helped finance facilities that contribute to the well-being of student-athletes on and off the field. Varsity Hall is a 27,000 square-foot facility that houses the training and advising programs. It is a major reason that Clemson student-athletes have had their highest cumulative GPA on record for five consecutive semesters.

While IPTAY is primarily concerned with athletic fundraising, the mission of Clemson University has not been overlooked. The IPTAY Academic Scholarship Endowment was created to help meet the need for more academic scholarships for non-athletes who are highly qualified academically. The IPTAY Academic Scholarship Fund is presently the largest scholarship endowment of its kind at Clemson, helping more than 40 students at Clemson.

Executive Director George Bennett has continued to keep the IPTAY among the best in the nation in terms of fundraising by the establishment of the IPTAY Endowment Program. In 1994, he kicked off the beginning of the endowment of positions program at the 85th birthday celebration for Frank Howard. The endowments are secure with a $100,000 donation paid over a five-year period.

"This is a chance to broaden the horizon of IPTAY," said Bennett. "It gives an individual or a group of people an opportunity to endow a position that meant something during their college days, or to honor a person at a position. The money being endowed is going to secure our future as the interest is used to carry on our program forever."

The first endowment was for the head football coach position, in honor of the legendary Frank Howard. He coached football at Clemson 39 years, 30 as the head coach. During his tenure, the Tigers won 165 games, 100 of which were against conference foes.

“Former players and friends of Coach Howard made donations over the cost of attending the celebration program and that was enough for the endowment. Their gifts were a way of permanently thanking Coach Howard for all that he did for Clemson. Following Coach Howard’s birthday party, we began to look for an individual to help us support and promote the program, and Bill Hudson’s name came up. He was an outstanding player at Clemson who has been equally successful in the business world. We went to him and explained the program and its goals, and that we were looking for his leadership to help get the program going, and he accepted."

Hudson, a 1956 Clemson graduate, was a three-year letterman at tackle, who played professionally for the Montreal Alouettes, San Diego Chargers, and Boston Patriots. He earned Pro Bowl honors in 1965. Hudson sees this program growing into a large part of Clemson’s athletic funding.

“When other people see information on the endowment program and learn what it is about this program will grow. Success builds on success. People who are looking to honor a friend or family member now have a great means to do that."

Besides the Hudson’s family endowment, four other football endowments were made, and one manager position in the first year. Now there are more than 100 positions endowed. The goal of the program is to get every position endowed.

“From the free safety to the K player in women’s tennis, we hope to have every position endowed,” said Bennett. “We will likely use the Avenue of Champions as a physical place to honor these people further for the positions they have endowed. That will have plenty of space, so we will be working to have as many endowments in all of our sports.”

“The personal satisfaction that they helped Clemson University, specifically the athletic department, and that they are securing its future are the main reasons for becoming involved."

And with more involvement, Clemson University will have a secure future for generations to come.

The Clemson Athletic Department would like to thank the following donors for their generous and loyal support of the Tigers!

The 2004 Clemson men’s tennis team is as talented as ever, and is poised to battle for a conference championship and make a run in the NCAA Tournament. The Tigers return four of their six singles players from last season, and receive a huge addition, as senior Goran Stenijosvik returns after missing last season with a knee injury.

"Everybody is excited about this year," said Head Coach Chuck Kriese, who is entering his 29th season at Clemson. "Last year, we took a severe hit before the season even started. Goran was our #1 player, and he went down with a torn ACL, and was gone for the season. Everybody had to move up in the lineup. Players grew, players got better, and we ended up with a darn good season."

Clemson finished the 2003 season with a 25-11 overall record, finishing second in the ACC before falling to top-ranked Illinois in the second round of the NCAA Tournament.

"We were really starting to peak at that time," said Kriese. "The guys had a really good feeling last year going into the NCAA Tournament, and the loss really left a taste in our mouth that the guys didn't like. The guys trained very hard over the summer and they came back this season with a higher level of play."

In 2004, Clemson looks to improve upon last season, and play up to its potential. The Tigers return eight lettermen, and have the talent and experience to battle with the top schools in the country.

"It takes certain things to be in a position to compete for championships and to be in the hunt," said Kriese. "It takes senior leadership, hungry young freshmen who push the older guys, really good doubles, and three or four guys battling for the top spot. And we have all of those. The intangible is how it will all come together, and how the guys perform as a team and get on the same page."

The Tigers will have plenty of opportunity to prove themselves, as they have put together one of the toughest schedules in the nation. Clemson will face off against 15 teams that made the 2003 NCAA Tournament, including Final Four participant UCLA.

Kriese will look immediately to the leadership of seniors Goran Stenijosvik, Damisa Robinson, and John Boetsch. In the 2002 season, Stenijosvik finished with a 12-14 record and a 17-8 record in doubles. He will be one of the key guys battling for the #1 position.

"I call him (Stenijosvik) Jake, after Jake LaMatta, the Raging Bull, because that is how he plays," said Kriese. "He is one of the biggest ball-strikers we have had since the early 80's. He hits the biggest, heaviest shots. When he gets into the flow, the guy's intensity is tremendous."

Senior Damisa Robinson finished 2003 with a 26-9 overall record and a 22-12 doubles record. Robinson will team up with Stenijosvik to play doubles this season.

"Damisa won #5 singles in the conference last year and #2 doubles with John Boetsch," said Kriese. "Damisa is a senior leader who started out as a non-starter. He has grown and grown."

Senior John Boetsch joined the team last season as a transfer from Erskine. He tallied a 19-12 singles record and an 18-12 doubles record.

"John has tremendous work ethic and is a confident athlete," said Kriese. "It is just a matter of time until he realizes big things for himself in tennis. He has a rare ability to know what to do under pressure. He knows the game."

Junior Nathan Thompson moved up to #1 singles last season after Stenijosvik was injured. He finished the season with a 19-17 singles record and 23-13 doubles record. He teamed up with Jarmaine Jenkins in last season's Flight 1 doubles team and made it to the NCAA Tournament. This season, the pair is ranked #9 in the preseason doubles rankings.

"I call him "Top Gun," said Kriese. "He is our top gun. When Goran went down last year, he really stepped up and did a tremendous job. This summer, he really grew a lot. He is a great athlete and a great competitor. He best attribute is his competitiveness. You can drop him in any competitive situation and he finds a way to scrap it out."

Sophomore Jarmaine Jenkins earned his way into the starting rotation last season as a freshman. He finished the 2003 season with a 27-8 record and a 22-12 doubles record, and Kriese expects him to continue to improve and contribute.

"As a freshman last year, Jarmaine won the MVP award for our team," said Kriese. "He was 7-1 last year in the conference at #3, and he played #1 doubles and made it to the NCAA Tournament. Jarmaine was ‘Mr. Clutch’ for us last year. He came up big for us in many tough situations."

Junior Ash Misquith and sophomore Brett Twente round out the top returners for Clemson this season. Misquith finished the season with a 17-7 overall record and a 14-6 doubles record. Misquith was undefeated in conference action last season, going 7-0 against ACC opponents.

Twente joined the team last season as a freshman walk-on and made an immediate impact in doubles action with a 15-7 record to go along with his 3-0 singles record.

"He has been a great surprise," said Kriese. "He was a walk-on a year ago. I had no idea that this guy could bring so much to the table. He started out as #9 or #10 on the team, and ended up playing #3 doubles for us last year. I am looking for Brett to step up in his singles like he has in his doubles."

Sophomore Ian Keeler and freshmen Robbye Poole, Ryan Young, and Claymorn Reix will also add depth to the lineup and battle for playing time.

"Ian was a walk-on last year, and he really brings a lot to the table every day," said Kriese. "His work ethic is great. He is a main pillar of this team by his work ethic, and he is a great role model."

Clemson's three freshmen are very talented and will look to push the upperclassmen. "We have three very good freshmen in Robbye Poole, Ryan Young, and Claymorn Reix. Robbye is in the top 25 in the United States Junior Division. Robbye doesn't back down from any of the older guys, and he is a tough competitor. He will definitely play in the mix somewhere. Any time there is a big match to be played, you hope that Robbye is there to play in it." "Ryan Young is one of the top players in South Carolina in a long time. He won 15 out of 15 titles (eight singles, seven doubles) at the Belton Championship. He never lost a match over there. Once he can hang with the top guys, the guy has a knack for winning. He knows how to win."

"Claymorn Reix is coming along really well too. He has made a big adjustment this semester coming over from France. The talent is there, the head is there, the work ethic is there, the heart is there, and it is just a matter of time until he matures into a role where he will be a starter."

Clemson Women’s Tennis
2003-04 Season Preview

By Libby Kehn

In her seventh season as the head coach of the Clemson women’s tennis team, Nancy Harris has made great strides with the program and plans to continue the trend. The team, which was unranked at the end of the 2001 season, finished the 2002 season #34 in the Intercollegiate Tennis Association’s final poll.

Last season, the Tigers posted a 19-6 overall record, a 7-1 mark in the ACC, a second-place regular-season conference finish, and a final ITA ranking of #19, which was the best finish for a Clemson team since the 1996 season when the Tigers also ranked #19 in the final poll. The 1996 team reached the Final Eight of the NCAA Championships before falling to eventual national runner-up Stanford. Harris believes that the 2004 team is in a position to bring the program back to that high level of achievement.

The 2004 team will be led at the top of the lineup by junior Julie Coin, who finished the 2003 season with a 31-6 overall record and a #22 ITA singles ranking after being named the 2003 ITA Southeast Region Player to Watch. The Amiens, France native won the 2002 ITA Southeast Region Singles title, becoming only the third player in Clemson history to accomplish that feat and the first since the 1986 season, when Ingelise Driehuis won the title for the second consecutive year.

“From a coach’s standpoint, I couldn’t be more pleased with an athlete than I am with Julie Coin,” said Harris. “She is an exceptional person and an exceptional tennis player who brings great leadership to the team and sets an outstanding example for her teammates. What I see in her that I have seen in other champions is that she is very focused on what she wants to accomplish and is willing to do the work that is necessary to be successful.”

Junior Alix Lacelarie, from Villeneuve-Les-Beziers, France, will play near the top of the singles lineup for the Tigers in 2004. “Alix is a great competitor. Unfortunately, she has battled serious injuries the past two fall seasons. However, when she cannot practice, she is inside watching film, reading, and studying the game.”

Lacelarie reached the second round of the 2003 NCAA Singles Championships before falling to sixth-ranked Raquel Kops-Jones of California. She was the ACC Flight Champion at #2 singles in 2003, and finished the season with a 17-6 record and a final singles ranking of #48.

Daniela Alvarez will also see action in the top half of the singles lineup for Clemson. The sophomore from Santa Cruz, Bolivia posted a 17-6 singles record and was named to the All-ACC team in 2003.

“Daniela was extremely well-trained in South America and she has an excellent understanding of the game. She has a competitive nature and wants to be the best. She is a tremendous doubles player as well, and her strength in both singles and doubles will make a terrific contribution to the team.”

Harris looks for freshman Maria Brito to contribute in the middle of the Tigers’ singles lineup in 2004. “Maria fits into our team chemistry so well you would think she has been here for years. She has a wonderful court presence and an outstanding ability to see the court, and she also brings great doubles experience to the team.”

The Mexico City native was an Orange Bowl Doubles finalist, and ranked #48 in singles and #11 in doubles by the International Tennis Federation. Another freshman, Karen Rombouts of Huisien, Netherlands, will likely see action at #5 singles in 2004. “Karen is very relaxed on the court and that mindset will really help her. With her capability, work ethic, personality, and desire to be a team player, she has all the tools to be a future #1 singles player for Clemson.”

Harris expects junior Ioana Paun to be the Tigers’ mainstay at flight six singles. Harris is looking forward to having an athlete with Paun’s experience and leadership at the bottom of the singles lineup.

“One of Ioana’s main strengths is her mental toughness. She is famous for putting every ball in play and breaking down her opponent one play at a time.”

Paun was 17-7 in dual singles matches last season, posting a 6-2 mark in conference play at the four, five, and six singles positions.

Junior Michele LeSaldo may see some action in singles for the Tigers, but Harris looks for her to be a major contributor in doubles. According to Harris, LeSaldo, who is from Saint Thomas, Barbados, “has a quick eye and is a super athlete who gets better and better every day. Her experience, especially in doubles, will help the team significantly this season.”

Ashlea Bowen, a senior from Lawrenceville, GA, joins the Tigers for the fall season, but will not return for the spring, as she will graduate in December. “Ashlea never lets anyone work harder than her. She is a player who has given so much to the program. She is a proud Clemson Tiger and has, without a doubt, made the most of her four years at Clemson.”

Sophomore Gabrielle Solek-Tefft of Underhill, VT rounds out the Tiger roster. “Brie is such a hard-worker,” said Harris. “Her endless desire to improve is one of the things that I, as a coach, really respect and enjoy from a player.”

Harris looks for Clemson to have considerable success in doubles play in 2004. “I think doubles is really going to be an asset for us this year. At this point, there are already three very solid doubles teams, which is not something that we have always had in the past.”

Brito and Coin won the 2003 ITA Southeast Regional Doubles Championship this fall in Winston-Salem, NC, becoming the first doubles team in Tiger history to claim the regional title. The duo is ranked #29 according to the ITA preseason poll and has an 11-3 overall record so far this fall.

Alvarez and Lacelarie will team up at flight two doubles again in 2004. The pair was the ACC Flight Champion at #2 doubles last season and recorded an 18-2 overall record. The duo was undefeated in regular-season doubles play at flight two (17-0) in 2003, including an upset victory over the sixth-ranked team in the nation, DeRoo and Johnson of Duke.

LeSaldo and Rombouts, who had a 6-1 record in the fall, will likely team up at #3 doubles. The pair reached the quarterfinals of the 2003 ITA Southeast Regional Championships before falling to the tournament’s runner-up and #4-seeded team of Coetzee and Smith (Wake Forest). The duo upset Duke’s Johnson and Zika, the #5-seeded team in the tournament, en route to the quarterfinal match.

Harris expects great things from the 2004 Clemson women’s tennis team. “I am really looking forward to the season. Eventually, I would like to see Clemson become a perennial top-five program, and I think that with the talented athletes that we have and our enthusiastic and devoted staff, we are well on our way towards reaching that goal.”

Maria Brito (front) and Julie Coin (back) won the 2003 ITA Southeast Regional Doubles title, becoming the first doubles team in Clemson history to claim the title.

"Listen, I learned a long time ago that if you're gonna be successful, you got to work with folks who are willing to go the extra mile, people who always do whatever it takes. I was lucky to find football players who weren't scared of the extra mile. Kind of surprised me to find a bank that feels the same way. Everybody – and I mean everybody – at Carolina First is real familiar with the extra mile. Hey, I ask them to do a lot for me, and they've never let me down. That's why Carolina First is such a good bank.

They spend a lot of time on the extra mile."

Today is Military Appreciation Day at Clemson, and Tiger Band will play a major role in the festivities. Beginning with "90 Minutes Before Kickoff" in the outdoor amphitheater, the band will honor military veterans. We will also welcome the Upstate United Pipe Band as musical guests at that concert.

During pregame, we will honor our graduating seniors. The United States Air Force will provide a flyover of the stadium at the end of the Star Spangled Banner. "Dotting the i" today during pregame festivities will be four current and former Clemson students who are active in two ROTC programs.

Cadet Seth Taylor and Capt. Kyle Long represent the Air Force ROTC, while Cadet Anthony Mayne and Lt. Justin McCormick represent the Army ROTC. Long is a veteran of the war in Iraq. Mayne is a combat veteran of Afghanistan and Iraq, while McCormick served in Operation Iraqi Freedom with a lead element from Kuwait to Baghdad.

Pregame concludes with the "most exciting 25 seconds in college football," as the Tiger players will run down the Hill above the East endzone.

For halftime, Tiger Band will welcome some high school seniors during our "Tiger Band Member for a Day" program. This will give local band students the opportunity to see what playing in a college marching band is like, as well as give them an opportunity to perform in Death Valley on gameday.

The halftime show will open with a tour-de-force on the Rogers and Hart tune "Johnny One Note" from the musical "Baby in Arms." Our halftime military tribute will begin with the laying of a wreath in memory of those who gave the ultimate sacrifice in defense our country. The Pershing Rifles will offer a 21-gun salute, followed by the playing of "Taps."

Next, we will welcome the Upstate United Pipe Band as they play "Amazing Grace." Veterans from the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marines, and Coast Guard will then join the band on the field as we pay tribute to them with the "Armed Forces Medley."

Halftime festivities will conclude with the national march of the United States as the high school seniors join us in John Philip Sousa’s "Stars and Stripes Forever."

Tiger Fans, join Tiger Band for its annual "Pass-in-Review" concert this Thursday evening, November 20 at 8:00 PM in the Brooks Theater on campus. It will be a great event for the whole family, as we highlight the past season’s musical selections. The $3 donation will go directly to the Tiger Band Scholarship Fund.

Where the Blue Ridge yawns its greatness
Where the Tigers play
Here the sons of dear old Clemson
Reign supreme alway.

Chorus
Dear old Clemson, we will triumph
And with all our might
That the Tigers’ roar may echo
O’er the mountain height.

Tiger Baseball

2004 Season Preview

by Philip Sikes

Powered by the return of a deep pitching staff and talented offensive players, Clemson baseball hopes to make a run at another College World Series appearance in 2004. Jack Leggett, who will begin his 11th year as head coach at Clemson, looks for the Tigers to be an exciting squad this spring.

“In order for us to be successful, we’ve got to be a team that can pitch and play defense,” Leggett said. “We’ve got to be more aggressive than we have in the past on offense. We have to put pressure on the other team to get leads early, so that our pitching can take over.”

Junior lefthander Tyler Lumsden, who was 8-2 last season, returns with the potential for a breakout year. He had a 3.77 ERA and a team-high 72 strikeouts in 2003. Patrick Hogan, who was selected as a captain for the second year in a row, returns with the ability to fill a number of roles. Hogan has starting experience and has the ability to relieve as well. He had a 4.30 ERA last season in 17 appearances. Steven Jackson, a senior captain, was 7-3 last season in 13 starts.

A pair of sophomore pitchers will be instrumental in the Tigers’ success this season. Jason Berken had an outstanding summer and fall according to Leggett. He started eight games, compiled a 4-2 record, and had a 3.19 ERA in 2003. Lefthander Robert Rohrbaugh, a freshman All-American, appeared as a reliever in 26 games last year and boasted a team-best 3.03 ERA.

Jef Hahn also has the ability to pitch in different situations. He started seven games in 2003, but played more comfortable in long relief. Leggett also looks for big things out of sophomore righthander Kris Harvey. He posted a 4-1 record as a freshman. Sophomores Josh Cribb and Adam Walker return to give the pitching staff quality depth. Also vying for time on the mound this season are newcomers Aaron Eubanks, Stephen Faris, Chris Howard, Tony Sipp, and P.J. Zocchi. Stephen Clyne, who red-shirted last season, will also miss the 2004 season due to injury.

The Tiger offense returns five players who hit .300 or better in 2003. Leading the way is Brad McCann, who will man third base in his second season with the Tiger program. McCann had a team-high .347 batting average, 21 doubles, and 67 RBIs. He also showed flashes of power last year with nine home runs, including a walk-off shot in the three-game sweep of Georgia Tech. Red-shirt freshman John Ingram and Bryan Yates will vie for playing time behind McCann at third.

Russell Tripplett returns at shortstop for the Tigers. He will also be serving as a team captain for the second consecutive year. Tripplett, who was an All-ACC selection as an utility infielder in 2002, had a .335 average and started all but one game at shortstop. The leading candidates at second base are Herman Demmink, who started 30 games last season, mostly as a designated hitter, and Travis Storrer, a junior college transfer who is a talented left-handed hitter. Others who are competing for middle infield spots include Daniel Pritchard, Tanner Leggett (son of Coach Jack Leggett), and Tyler Winningham.

Replacing former All-American Michael Johnson at first base is a priority for Leggett’s squad this year. Three freshmen will likely compete for the starting job, including red-shirt Dan West. Andy D’ Alessio is a left-handed power hitter who will see plenty of action at first. Also in the mix is freshman Tyler Cohn. Harvey can also play at first base.

The catcher position returns a wealth of experience. Brady Everett started 18 games a year ago behind the plate and hit .296. Collin Mahoney, who should also see time this year as a catcher, returns after starting 18 games as well. Gene Pierce played in eight games last season at catcher. Newcomers battling for playing time include Doug Hogan, the brother of senior pitcher Patrick Hogan. Also new to the Tiger program at catcher is Lou Santangelo, a transfer from Seton Hall.

The leading candidate to replace veteran Kyle Frank in centerfield is Garrick Evans, a streak hitter who began his career as a middle infielder. Evans hit .311 in 29 games last season. The coaches are looking to use his speed and range in the outfield.

Returning in the outfield are seniors Ryan Hub and Zane Green. Hub started 34 games in 2003 and showed some power, with five home runs and 24 RBIs. Green, an integral part of the 2002 team that finished #3 in the country, hit .326 last season while only committing one error in the outfield.

Three newcomers will compete for a spot in the outfield. Justin Barefoot is a freshman who impressed coaches in the fall. Jesse Ferguson, a sophomore junior college transfer, is a valuable left-handed hitter. Tony Sipp is a promising junior transfer who will see playing time in the outfield and as a left-handed pitcher.

The Tiger coaching staff remains intact from the 2003 season. Kevin O’Sullivan enters his sixth season as the Tigers’ pitching coach and recruiting coordinator. Tom Rignons returns for his second season as an assistant coach. Bradley LeCroy will serve as a volunteer assistant for the second consecutive year. The group will try to lead Clemson to its 18th consecutive NCAA Tournament appearance in 2004.

Leggett feels that motivation and team chemistry will be the key this season. “The players have a great deal of motivation to get better and get back to Omaha. We’ve got to put the team chemistry together. We’ve got a chance to have better team chemistry than what we had last year. That should be a big factor in helping us be a strong, winning team and one to be reckoned with this spring.”

The schedule presents a tough road ahead for the 2004 team, one that Leggett is looking forward to. “I look at this as one of the toughest schedules that we can play. It will present a great challenge to this baseball team, but we’re looking forward to it.”

Philip Sikes, a first-year graduate student from Aiken, SC, is a graduate assistant in the Clemson Sports Information Office.

Stacy Long
Genorosity to Fight Cystic Fibrosis

by Tim Bourret

How many times have you attended a sports banquet that features speeches by the departing seniors? At some point in the evening, an emotional athlete will state that these were the best four years of his life because, "I have made friendships that will last a lifetime."

Former Clemson football players Stacy Long and Chuck O’Brien are living proof that those quality-relationships formed over the four-year period as members of the Tiger football program have a strong bond that overcome the challenges created by time and distance.

Long was a first-team All-America offensive tackle in 1989 and 1990. He was one of three finalists for the 1990 Outland Trophy, just the second Tiger in history to be named a finalist for nation's top lineman award. He was the leading vote-getter among offensive linemen for the All-ACC team in 1989 and 1990, and was a major reason Clemson ranked among the top 10 rushing teams in the nation both seasons, years the Tigers were 10-2 each season.

While Terry Allen got all the offensive glory for his 73-yard run at Florida State in 1989, a 34-23 Clemson victory, Long had a breakout game with an 85-percent grade and 10 knockdown blocks against Florida State All-American Odell Haggins.

O’Brien, was a four-year letterwinner as a linebacker in 1987, 1988, 1990 and 1991. He was a starting linebacker on Clemson’s 1991 ACC Championship team, when he had 45 tackles on a team that led the nation in rushing defense.

Long and O’Brien were Tiger teammates for four years (1987-90). They were both major reasons Clemson had a 40-8 record during that four-year stretch, the best four-year period in Clemson history.

Those Clemson teams had talented players, but they were also players of strong character, a necessary intangible for success in any team sport. The friendships formed on the Jersey Athletic Center practice fields and in Death Valley were strong, and are evident today.

Long played professionally in the Chicago Bears organization for two years, but had to cut his career short as the result of a knee injury. While his playing career in Chicago was short, he did meet his wife, also named Stacy, during his stay in Chicago. They go by Mr. Stacy and Ms. Stacy to avoid the inevitable confusion. The ultimate confusion occurred, however, when their first child was born.

"When Tanner, our first son, was born in 1994, the hospital documents stated that I had given birth," said the former Clemson All-American with a laugh. "It took us a while to straighten everything out with the insurance companies."

Long and his wife came back to Clemson for a year so Stacy could finish up his degree, which he accomplished in 1995. With degree in hand, he returned to Chicago where he is a district manager for Home Depot. O’Brien signed a free agent contract with the San Diego Chargers, but was injured and did not play. He is now an area manager in Texas for Loomis Fargo.

The former teammates kept the friendship going after their Clemson careers, but it has reached a new level in recent years.

In 1997, Long and his wife had twin boys. Colton and Austin, a joyous occasion they shared with O’Brien and his wife (Sonya). The O’Briens were very interested in the progress for an obvious reason. They also had twin boys just two months earlier. When Connor and Corey O’Brien were born, they called the Longs to share their excitement.

Soon, the respective fathers were arguing over which son would be starting for Clemson when the 2015 season opened.

One day, a phone call came to Long from O’Brien that was not a joyous occasion. After many tests, O’Brien’s twin sons (pictured right) were diagnosed with Cystic Fibrosis, a genetic disease affecting 30,000 children and young adults in the United States. It is a fatal disease for which there is no cure for now. The disease primarily attacks the lungs and digestive system, causing acute difficulties in breathing and digesting.

O’Brien’s sons, now six, have to take breathing treatments three times a day and must take medication 20 minutes prior to each meal to help in the digestive process. Periodically, they must be hooked to a machine that shakes them to break up mucus in their lungs. Both boys are very susceptible to respiratory infections.

Soon after the discovery of the illness, O’Brien and his family became involved in fundraising to find a cure for Cystic Fibrosis. "Chuck sent us a form for a Cystic Fibrosis walk-a-thon they were sponsoring and asked us if we wanted to donate to help find a cure," recalled Long. "Our goal was to send them $50 and then find 10 friends who would give us $5 apiece for an additional $50."

"But, when we told our friends and family about the disease, the response was so great from our area that we sent them a check for $800."

The success of that first venture gave the Longs an idea. Why not have a benefit in Chicago for the cause.

"That next Christmas, we decided to have a benefit at our home, something we call ‘Holiday Hoopla.’ We charged $50 a couple and invited people to our home in Chicago. We had the local high school choir come over and they sang Christmas Carols.

Long (left) and O’Brien (right) are trying to win the battle against Cystic Fibrosis by providing a benefit in Chicago each year.

"Local restaurants donated food and businesses donated raffle items. Coach Tommy Bowden sent an autographed football and we were able to get other sports-related items for a silent auction."

That first year, the Longs raised $1,500. The second year, the gathering raised $3,500. Last year, the O’Brien family flew to Chicago for the affair, and former Tiger Vance Hammond (Long’s college roommate) and his wife (Dena) also came in for the event.

With the help of auction items from Peyton Manning, Boomer Esiason, and Brian Urlacher, the 2002 event raised $7,500.

"We are hoping to hit the $10,000 mark this year," said Long. "It is getting bigger and bigger. Last year, we had 125 guests at our home and that doesn’t include the choir and the pianist (who donate their time). We are hoping that it will continue to grow to the point that we’ll have to move it to a banquet hall."

O’Brien is involved to the same extent in Texas with the walk-a-thon and other events that involve his surrounding community.

For Long and his wife, “Holiday Hoopla,” scheduled for December 6 this year, is certainly a high-light of their year. "The most rewarding aspect to us is knowing that someday soon there will be a cure to knock out this disease for good," said Long. "With just a few people getting together each year, you can see what can be accomplished."

"The response from our friends and family has been so tremendous that we just keep feeding off of their generosity. Our goal is simple. We want the people who have this disease to continue to dream that one day they can wake up one morning and not have to go through their strenuous, difficult routine."

When I called Gregory Walker a week ago last Sunday and asked him to come to Vickery Hall for some interviews with the local media the next day, I knew he would not be "jumping up and down" about the request. The Tigers had just suffered a disappointing defeat to Wake Forest the previous day, and he knew the questions from the local scribes would not be positive in nature.

After reviewing some possible questions, I cut to the chase. I told him it would be important that he and the other senior leaders do these interviews and communicate to the public that all was not lost. The team was in fact still together, still very much goal oriented, and focused on the task at hand...beating Florida State for the first time since the Seminoles joined the ACC. Saturday's game gave the Tigers the opportunity to record a Clemson first. A victory over the #3 Seminoles would be the highest-ranked victory in Tiger history.

Walker, Kevin Youngblood, and others showed up for those interviews on Monday and answered the difficult questions. John Leake, Tony Elliott, and other requested seniors followed suit on Tuesday. They could have made up an excuse or just not shown up, but they came and faced the tough questions, a sign of their true character.

In my 26 years in sports information at Clemson, one of the barometers I use when judging a student-athlete's character is their reliability and maturity when it comes to dealing with the media. One would be amazed at the correlations. Many times if a player runs away from the media, he will run away in "crunch time" on the field, or when it comes to game preparation in this team sport.

Jeff Davis, perhaps the best team leader of any sport of my career at Clemson, was a "stand-up" guy when it came to doing interviews. Obvi-ously, he did not have to deal with a lot of adversity in 1981, his senior year, when Clemson won every game of the way to the National Championship.

In 1980, the Tigers were just 6-5 and had to upset South Carolina in the last game of the season to do that. But, whenever we asked him to do an interview and represent the team that tumultuous season, he was there, looked the writer in the eye, and answered the questions.

This senior class has a lot of "stand-up" guys as well, men of character who will go on to be just as successful as "The Judge," whether it be in professional football or in some other line of work. The 15 seniors who will play in their final game at Death Valley today have brought consistency to the Clemson program, something that was lacking before many of them arrived.

For the fifth-straight year, Clemson is headed to a bowl game. Nine of the Tigers in this class came to Clemson in 1999. Tommy Bowden's first recruiting class and have a chance to be a part of five bowl teams.

The year before Khaleed Vaught, Chad Jasin, William Henry, Elliott, Tyrone Lee, Tore Francis, DeJuan Polk, Walker, and Youngblood came to Clemson, the Tigers were 3-8. After redshirting in 1999, they were a part of a Clemson team that started the 2000 season with an 8-0 run and a #3 national ranking. Clemson's highest ranking in 16 years. That team finished #14 in the nation, the best final ranking for a Clemson team since 1991.

The 2001 season saw the Tigers gain victory over #9 Georgia Tech in Atlanta, followed by a thrilling 45-37 victory at N.C. State. The 2002 season featured four wins by a touchdown or less, including a third win in four years over South Carolina. Next week, they hope to make it four out of five.

As seniors in 2003, the team is already bowl eligible and has gained two wins over top-25 teams, the first Tiger team since 1996 to defeat two ranked teams in the same year. But, one of those ranked wins is arguably the greatest regular-season victory in school history, or at least since 1981. The 26-10 victory last Saturday over Florida State was a day that will be the signature moment for this group when they reflect on their playing days 50 years from now.

This senior class includes Youngblood, who is now seventh in Clemson history in career receptions. His leaping catch against Virginia provided the Tigers with a walk-off, game-winning touchdown. Aaron Hunt became Clemson's all-time leading scorer last week when he had 14 points, including four field goals in the epic victory over Florida State.

Walker has been a starter for three years and has 127 catches for 1,810 yards and 19 touchdowns. His signee this year, a two-year starter, as common denomi-nators on three Clemson offenses that have averaged at least 400 yards per game.

Alec Leake has been a leader of the Clemson defense for the last three years. Leake, the final signee in this class, is now ranked in the top five in school history in career tackles (143), while Vaught has 21 tackles for loss in his career that already includes three starts in bowl games.

Elliott, Lee, and Francis are players who have made considerable contributions to the Tigers as scholarship players after initially coming to Clemson as walk-ons. Elliott's life story has been well-documented in previous programs. A survey of Clemson players last summer asked the question, "Who is the most respected player on the team?" Elliott, who earned his degree last year in engineering with a 3.55 grade point average, received 43 percent of the votes. No one else had more than 18 percent.

The other walk-ons are certainly worthy of recognition. Steve Creed, Nick DePrimio, Kyle Tucker, and Joshua Smith have worked hard in practice for four or five years to make the Tigers better. Smith showed his character when he was called on in the North Carolina game to fill in for Geoff Rigsby as the snapper on placekicks. He had never played in a game, but has now performed the duty flawlessly the last three weeks.

The stats and accomplishments aside, it should be noted that eight of the 15 seniors for today's home finale already have their degrees. A look to the players' remaining course load shows that the other seven will graduate by May at the latest. How many Division I football programs are going to have a perfect graduation rate for their senior classes this year? That might be the best testimony to this group's level of character.
