The experience begins only 17 miles from Clemson's Death Valley, where you can relax at the Orchard House clubhouse. Soak up the sun at the Pool and Beach Club. Satisfy your sporting desires at the Racquet Club, the croquet lawn, and parks, along with miles of hiking trails. Also, take time to play our Jack Nicklaus Signature course. And all of this is so close to "where the tigers play."

Table Of Contents

Maurice Fountain ................................................................. 6,7
Senior Spotlight
Number 99. It represents a state of perfection, as it is the number of perfection (9), twice. It also means "keep out" when used as an abbreviation when communicating by telegraph or in the transmission of sound. In the sports world, it is the highest jersey number possible and the one worn by Maurice Fountain.

Eric Coleman ........................................................................ 12,13
Senior Spotlight
To the casual college football fan, Eric Coleman may not be a household name. In three years, he has yet to start a game. But to the die-hard Clemson football fan, the hope is that it will come in 2004. The defensive tackle will have an opportunity to have a breakout year.

George Bennett .................................................................... 49
Former IPTAY Executive Director
George Bennett has come full circle. After starting as a Tiger cheerleader in the 1980s, he went on to administrative stints at Clemson and other schools. Now, after 19 years with IPTAY, he has decided to retire. But he is not done with Clemson yet, as he still serves as an ambassador to the athletic department.

Brenton Buckner .................................................................. 63
Former Tiger & 10-Year NFL Veteran
Where most athletes shy away from the media, Brenton Bucknerlavishes the questions from reporters. The defensive lineman for the Carolina Panthers enjoys the responsibilities that come along with being a team leader. He has made quite an impression on and off the field, as he enters his 11th year in the NFL.

Hall of Fame Class ............................................................ 113-115
2004 Inductees
Brian Barnes (baseball), Sara Burkett (soccer), Coy Cobb (swimming) (picture right), Stacey Long (football), Clarence Ross (golf), Randy Stanton (football), and Nicole Stafford-Lake (tennis) are the seven members of the 2004 Clemson Athletic Hall of Fame class that will be inducted during halftime.

The Last Word ................................................................. 128
Skeeter Francis' impact on the ACC
The ACC lost another legend earlier this year with the passing of Skeeter Francis (left), a longtime sports information director at Wake Forest and the ACC. But his impact, like Bob Bradley's (right), will live on forever. Read some of the stories re-called by Tim Bourret in today's edition of "The Last Word."
Clemson-Wake Forest Series

To say a lot has happened since Clemson and Wake Forest last met on the gridiron would be an understatement. Last November 1, Wake Forest defeated Clemson 45-17 in Winston-Salem, a game in which the Demon Deacons held a 45-0 lead entering the fourth quarter. Few would have agreed with you at the time if you made the statement that Clemson would not lose the rest of the year and Wake Forest would not win again.

But, that is exactly what happened. Not only did Clemson close the season with four straight victories, two of them were against a #3 Florida State team and a #6 Tennessee team, two of the top-four, highest-ranked victories in terms of AP poll position in Tiger history.

Below are some items of interest about the Clemson-Wake Forest Series.

• Clemson owns 53 wins over Wake Forest in history, its second-highest victory total over any opponent. Clemson has 61 wins over South Carolina.

• Clemson leads the series 53-15-1 overall, including a 30-7 record in games played at Clemson and a 26-7 mark in games played in Death Valley. Clemson did not lose at home to Wake Forest between 1962-92. Wake Forest broke the streak in 1993 when Jim Caldwell’s first team defeated Clemson 20-16 at Death Valley. Clemson went on to finish that season 9-3.

• Only one coach in history has won as many as four games against Clemson without a loss in Death Valley, and the coach was from Wake Forest. Frank Howard and Peahead Walker had a close friendship, but Walker had a 4-0 record against Howard in Death Valley.

• Clemson has won four out of five from Wake Forest under Head Coach Tommy Bowden and eight out of 10 against the Demon Deacons dating to 1994. The Demon Deacons won back-to-back games from 1992-93, the only time Wake Forest has won consecutive contests against Clemson since 1946-47. Obviously, the Demon Deacons could do that with a victory today.

• Clemson has a 17-8-1 lead in the series in games played at Wake Forest, including 10-4-1 in games played at Groves Stadium. Clemson had won four in a row at Wake Forest prior to the loss in 2003. Bill Dooley defeated the Tigers 18-15 in 1992 at Winston-Salem, and that was the last Wake Forest win on its home turf before last year’s victory.

• Clemson has a 4-1 record against Wake Forest under Tommy Bowden, but three of the four wins have been close. The Tigers won 12-3 in 1999, 21-14 in 2001, and 31-23 in 2002. Clemson’s only blowout against Wake Forest took place in 2000, when Clemson won by a score of 55-9.

• The two teams have played at three neutral sites in history, including Tokyo, Japan. Clemson won that game in 1982 by a score of 21-17 to close out an ACC Championship season.

• Clemson defeated a Wake Forest team coached by current Virginia Head Coach Al Groh on Halloween Day, 1981 by an 82-24 score. That is the highest-scoring game in ACC history involving two league teams. Clemson was 12-12 on third down in that game, a school record. The Tigers went on to win the national title.

Wake Forest Overview

The Demon Deacons have made great strides under Head Coach Jim Grobe. No one has more respect for Grobe than Clemson Head Coach Tommy Bowden, who has publicly cited the Wake Forest coach as one of the leaders in the nation.

Grove is fond of saying, “When people used to see Wake Forest on the schedule, they used a pen to mark down a ‘W.’ We’re at the point now where we at least make them use a pencil.”

Since Grobe arrived in 2001, the Demon Deacons have defeated perennial powers from the Big East, the Big Ten, the Pac-10, and of course the ACC. The Demon Deacons defeated Oregon by 21 points in a bowl game at the end of 2002, and last year defeated Boston College, Clemson, and N.C. State, three teams that won bowl games at the end of the 2003 season.

Junior quarterback Cory Randolph, who started all 12 games a year ago, is the leader of the offense. He completed nearly 59 percent of his passes last year and also gained 404 yards rushing, best among ACC quarterbacks. He had one of his best games last year against Clemson when he was 6-8 passing for 85 yards, and rushed for 66 yards and a touchdown on just nine carries. He is the perfect fit for Grobe’s multiple, but ground-oriented attack.

The top rusher is junior running back Chris Barclay, the ACC’s top ball-carrier in 2003. The native of Louisville, KY is a definite All-ACC candidate after gaining 1,192 yards (the exact same total Terryl Allen had for Clemson in 1988, so that gives you a frame of reference), the second-best, single-season figure in Wake Forest history. He did that after suffering an ankle injury in the season-opener against Boston College.

Barclay has been a big problem for Clemson each of the last two years. As a freshman in 2002, he had 89 yards rushing on 14 carries, his season high in rushing yards. Last year, he had 163 yards on 24 carries and scored two touchdowns. He later torched Maryland for 243 yards on 28 attempts.

The top receiver from a big-play standpoint on Grobe’s club is Jason Anderson, a senior who has an 18-5 yards-per-reception average since he came to Wake Forest, second among all active ACC receivers. Another big threat from the receiver position is Willie Idlette, a freshman All-American at the all-purpose running position in 2003. Idlette had a little of everything last year when he had 319 yards receiving, 234 rushing, 410 in kickoff returns, and 146 yards in punt returns.

The Demon Deacon defense has eight returning starters and 20 returning lettermen from the club that held Clemson scoreless for the first three quarters last year. Returning starters Jerome Nichols and Jyles Tucker will lead the defensive line. Nichols is a very active defensive end, as shown by the fact that he had interceptions of 2003 Heisman Trophy candidates Philip Rivers (N.C. State) and Matt Schaub (Virginia). Tucker was the freshman who stripped Charlie Whitehurst in the second quarter and returned the fumble 12 yards for a score.

Red-shirt junior Brad White, a two-year starter at middle linebacker, moved to weak linebacker as a sophomore and recorded 78 tackles, including five tackles for loss. He has 172 tackles in 25 career games, all as a starter, including a career-high 24 tackles against Navy in 2002.

Eric King is another returning Demon Deacon who has scored a touchdown on defense against Clemson last year. He had the biggest play of the game when he intercepted a batted ball and raced 85 yards for a touchdown, the second-longest interception return in Wake Forest history and the third-longest ever against Clemson.

The Wake Forest special teams are led by punter Ryan Plackemeier. An All-America candidate, he was the ACC’s top punter in 2003 with a 45.6 average, sixth-best in the nation.

Clemson Overview

Clemson enters the 2004 season on a four-game winning streak, the first time it has entered a season on that long of a streak since the beginning of the 1991 season, when Clemson was coming off a five-game streak to end the 1990 season. Clemson returns 14 starters and 56 lettermen from the 2004 season, and as a result is ranked in the preseason top 20 of most polls.

One person responsible for a lot of the optimism is Charlie Whitehurst, the 6’4″ junior quarterback who established 33 school records last year. USA Today is among the list of publications who list Whitehurst as a preseaon Heisman candidate. He has a 12-6 record as a starter, including three wins over top-25 teams.

The running back position took a hit during the preseason when Duane Coleman suffered a broken foot, an injury that will force him to miss at least the first two home games. Coleman became just the second player in Tiger history to rush for 600 yards and receive passes for over 300 yards in a single season.

Yusel Kelly, Clemson’s leading rusher in 2002, Reggie Merriweather, a sophomore, and Kyle Browning, who started two games in 2003, are the candidates to start for the Tigers against Wake Forest. All three have had strong moments in the preseason.

The offensive line will miss graduated tackles William Henry and Gregory Walker, both of whom were getting strong looks in NFL camps during late August. Cedric Johnson is the most experienced of the returning starters at offensive guard. Tommy Sharpe is a former walk-on (now on scholarship) who has been the starting center for all but one of Whitehurst's 18 starts.

The top returning receiver is fleet-of-foot senior Aireese Currie. He had 43 catches for 560 yards in 10 games last year, including a Clemson record 12 catches against Middle Tennessee. Curtis Baham had 22 catches last year and should move into a starting role this year, while Kelvin Grant is a talented sophomore. Chansi Sluckey, a quarterback much of last year, is a gifted athlete who could fill the role provided by ACC all-purpose running leader Derrick Hamilton last year.

The defense is led by All-America candidate Leroy Hill. The native of Haddock, GA had 145 tackles last year, including 27 tackles for loss, second-best in the nation. Helping out in the front seven will be senior tackle Eric Coleman, who has never started a game, but has played 677 snaps in his career. Maurice Fountain is another team leader at defensive end.

According to the preseason magazines, the strength of the entire Tiger team might be the secondary. The group of defensive backs was ranked second-best in the nation in the 2004 Sporting News Preseason report.

Justin Miller and Tye Hill give the Tigers two outstanding corner backs. Like Currie, a sprinter on the Clemson track team, Hill was one of the most improved players in the ACC last year. Miller has 10 career interceptions and is ranked as one of the top five cornerbacks in the country by Sporting News. Jamaal Fudge and Travis Pugh are underrated safeties who made over 100 tackles last year. Eric Sampson is a hybrid linebacker/defensive back who is capable of making a game-saving tackle or interception.

Tigers in Openers

Clemson has won 15 of its last 20 season-openers. The only opening losses since 1983 took place in 1986 at Clemson when Virginia Tech and Coach Bill Dooley upset the Tigers by a score of 20-14, at North Carolina in Chapel Hill in 1996, in 1999 at home against Marshall, Tommy Bowden's first game as Clemson head coach, and the last two years against Georgia. Thus, Coach Tommy Bowden has lost his opener three of his five years, yet gone on to go a bowl game each year.

That 1986 game against the Hokies was a battle of eventual bowl teams, as the Tigers ended the year 8-2-2 and ranked #17 in the nation, while Virginia Tech was 9-2-1 and ranked #20 in the final poll. The 1999 loss (13-10) to Marshall was also a battle of eventual bowl teams.

The Tigers are 79-21-8 (.781), regardless of site, in their first game of the season in their previous 108 seasons. Even though this is the 109th season of Clemson football, the Tigers have had just 103 home openers in their history, because five seasons Clemson did not play a game at home. In the 103 home openers, Clemson has a 78-17-8 record against 29 different opponents. This will be the first time Clemson has met Wake Forest in its home opener since 1967. The two teams played to a 20-20 tie in the opener in 1968, at Wake Forest.

Clemson #15 in AP Preseason Poll

Clemson is ranked #15 in the nation in the Associated Press preseason college football poll. Clemson is one of five ACC teams ranked in the top 25 by the poll.

Florida State is the highest-ranked ACC team with a #5 ranking, while new ACC member Miami (FL) is #6. Clemson will play both of those teams on the road this year. Clemson is the third-highest ranked ACC team, and is followed by Virginia at #16 and Maryland at #22.

In July, Clemson was ranked #16 in the preseason USA Today/ESPN Coaches' poll.

This is the 19th season Clemson has been ranked in the AP preseason poll, including the first since 2001 when the Tigers were #18. The #15 ranking is Clemson's highest in a preseason poll since 1992, when the Tigers were #13. The Tigers' highest preseason ranking in history is #4 (1984-88).

Clemson has been ranked in the preseason 18 times prior to this year and has gone on to finish in the top 25 in 11 of those seasons. Once, in 1989, Clemson was ranked the same in the preseason and in the final poll (#12).

This is the third time under Tommy Bowden that Clemson has been ranked in the preseason of the AP poll. The other years were 2000 (#17) and 2001 (#18). Clemson finished the 2003 season ranked #22 in the final poll after it was unranked in the preseason. Clemson was not ranked in the top 25 in the preseason of 1981, the year the Tigers went on to win the national title.

"Preseason polls don't mean much to me because it is so early in the season," said Bowden. "The polls this time of the year are for the fans, the media, etc. But, it's good to have Clemson's name in the rankings.

"There is an exposure value, and it is never a negative to be mentioned with the elite teams in the nation. But, I don't spend a lot of time worrying about polls this time of the year, and I haven't mentioned it to the team during the preseason. It certainly is a goal at the end of the season. It was a motivation for our team in the bowl game last year."

Whitehurst, Hill on Preseason Lists

Clemson quarterback Charlie Whitehurst and linebacker Leroy Hill were both named to preseason "watch" lists for major 2004 awards. Whitehurst is one of 40 "Players to Watch" for the Walter Camp National Player-of-the-Year Award, while Hill is one of 65 preseason candidates for the Butkus Award. The Butkus Award is given to the nation's top linebacker.

Hill is one of seven ACC defenders on the Butkus Award Watch List. He is joined by Darryl Blackstock and Ahmad Brooks of Virginia, D'Oxwell Jackson of Maryland, A.J. Nicholson of Florida State, Pat Thomas of N.C. State, and Leon Williams of Miami (FL).

Last year, Hill led the Tigers in tackles with 145, including 27 behind the line of scrimmage. He ranked second in the nation in tackles for loss and was a First-Team All-ACC selection. Earlier this summer, he was named a preseason candidate for the Bronko Nagurski Award, which is given to the top defensive player in the nation, and the Lombardi Award, which goes to the top lineman in college football.

Whitehurst is one of five ACC players on the Walter Camp list. He is joined by P.J. Daniels of Georgia Tech, Tramain Hall of N.C. State, Chris Rix of Florida State, and Antrel Rolle of Miami (FL). Earlier this summer, he was named to the preseason list for the O'Brien Award, which goes to the nation's top quarterback.

Whitehurst holds 33 school records, including pass efficiency in a career and passing yardage in a season. He quarterbacked the Tigers to a 9-4 record as a sophomore when he threw for 3,561 yards and 21 touchdowns. Among the victories were triumphs over #3 Florida State and #6 Tennessee. He joined Homer Jordan as the only quarterbacks to lead the Tigers to two wins over top-10 teams in the same season.

Number 99. It represents a state of perfection, as it is the number of perfection (9), twice. It also means "keep out" when used as an abbreviation when communicating by telegraphs or in the transmission of sound. In the sports world, it is the highest jersey number possible and the one worn by hockey legend Wayne Gretzky.

In Clemson, SC, it is Gregory Maurice Fountain who dons the number and wears it fittingly. "Mo" always strives for perfection and wants to be the best. As a defensive end, his job is to keep opposing players out of the endzone. Fountain chose the number his freshman year because it was unique and made him stand out. He thought it suited him well.

The Camden, SC native started playing football when he was 10-years-old as a running back in the Kershaw County Recreational Park League. "I was a little shorter and faster then," he laughed.

His team won the recreation league title that year with a perfect 8-0 record, setting the bar high and elevating his interest in the sport. Fountain was an all-around athlete when he was younger; he played baseball through middle school and basketball through high school.

The current defensive end was a talented hoosier when he played, earning all-state honors. He received offers to play for some Division II schools. However, by 11th grade, Fountain realized his future would be in football. He still plays basketball in his spare time, but is careful to avoid injury.

Because he enjoyed basketball more as a youth, he watched NBA games growing up rather than the NFL or college football. He wanted to "be like Mike (Jordan)."

When Fountain started focusing on football, he did not have a favorite team. He followed two players who had gone to his high school (Camden High) Bobby Engram was a receiver at Penn State from 1992-95 who went on to be a First Team All-Big 10 selection his sophomore through senior seasons, and was the nation's top receiver in 1995. Engram was a second-round pick of the Chicago Bears in the 1996 NFL Draft and has played five years in the league, including the last three with the Seattle Seahawks.

Former North Carolina star Vonnie Holliday was also a Camden Bulldog during his high school days. The defensive end earned First Team All-ACC honors in 1997, his senior season, when he helped the Tar Heels to a victory at Clemson. The Green Bay Packers selected him in the first round of the 1998 NFL Draft, and he played five years in Wisconsin. In 2003, he was a member of the Kansas City Chiefs.

Fountain followed the successful careers of those two players, as they have served as mentors to the current Tiger. Another Tar Heel star has had influence on Fountain's career as well, as he has tried to emulate his play after Julius Peppers. He observed the current Carolina Panther when Clemson played North Carolina in 2001, and Fountain admired his style.

"He is a great hustler," described Fountain. "He's relentless. Even if he faces a double team, he still tries to make the play. He's exciting to watch."

While at Camden High School, Fountain was a two-time, all-conference player and was the MVP of the 1999 North-South High School All-Star game in Myrtle Beach his senior year. He earned all-area recognition his junior and senior seasons, and was all-region and all-state in 1999. His 94 tackles, including 17 for loss, and 11 sacks, which led the region as a senior, were deserving of SuperPrep All-America honors.

He played the 2000 season at Fork Union Military Academy in Virginia, where he had 71 tackles and 11 sacks. The stats came against quality teams as well. Fork Union plays prep schools composed of players who will be Division I players at schools like Virginia Tech and West Virginia, and against Division II teams like Towson in Baltimore, MD.

Fountain was hesitant about attending the military academy, but quickly realized that the experience would help him. "After I'd been there about a month, I knew it would benefit me in the long run."

Playing at a prep school made the adjustment to Division I college football easier for Fountain. "I had some good college football experience before I came here, and I think that has something to do with me being able to play early. Going to the military school gave me an extra year of discipline and an extra year of football. I used that as a stepping stone."

That familiarity enabled Fountain to play as a true freshman at Clemson in 2001. He played in every game that season, averaging 20 snaps per game and recording 21 tackles. He had six tackles for loss and one sack, a timely play in the thrilling 47-44 overtime victory over #9 Georgia Tech in Atlanta.

"I was about 230 pounds that whole year and was playing defensive end, going against guys who weighed a hundred pounds more than me," he recalled.

His most memorable football moment came during the 2002 season. He intercepted a pass and returned it 43 yards against Louisiana Tech in the second game of the year.

Fountain remembers all the details of the play. "The receiver came across my area and I saw the quarterback look my way. I stayed there and hoped he'd throw it to me. I was trying to score with it, but they caught me at about the three-yard line."

His return set up the Tigers' final touchdown and the play that iced a 33-13 victory. Fountain had another interception against Maryland on November 16 when he deflected a ball and then made a diving interception, showing off his athletic ability.

Fountain recorded 25 tackles that season, including five against Louisiana Tech. He had a 13-yard sack during the game at North Carolina, and he played at least 21 plays in every game for 289 total plays.

Fountain began the 2003 campaign as a backup to defensive end J.J. Howard. After Howard suffered a season-ending injury against Virginia, Fountain earned the starting role for the final seven games. He ended the year with 39 tackles, including six for loss. He had six tackles in games against N.C. State and against Wake Forest. He had two sacks last year as well.

His sack of Georgia Tech's Reggie Ball helped set the defensive tempo of the game against the Yellow Jackets. On their second possession of the second half, Fountain and teammate Vontrell Jamison pressured Ball inside his own 10-yard line. The pair tackled the quarterback in the endzone to give the Tigers a 25-3 lead. Clemson won 39-3, its largest victory margin over the Yellow Jackets in 100 years.

Fountain also sacked N.C. State quarterback Philip Rivers last season, one of few players who can make that claim. The play occurred on the Wolfpack's first offensive series of the game. He tackled Rivers for a five-yard loss on a third-and-long play to force a punt. Fountain also had a tackle for loss on a reverse play in N.C. State's second possession.

Fountain is proud of his play and said, "If that gives me credibility, then I'll take it."

His six quarterback pressures against Rivers helped hold the future fourth-overall NFL Draft pick to just 213 passing yards, his lowest total all season. Clemson coaches voted Fountain the Defensive Player-of-the-Game for his play in Raleigh.

Fountain had 17 quarterback pressures overall last season, second-most on the team only to Donnell Washington's 25.

When asked about the last four games of the 2003 season, referred to as "The Finish," Fountain claims that the team came together.

"We knew that we had the capability of beating great teams. With Florida State on national TV, we figured that was the perfect time to show that we could play some football."

The team did just that. The Seminoles were ranked third in the country at that point, making the win the highest-ranked victory in Clemson history. After the Tigers scored on their first possession of the game, Fountain helped set the defensive tone of the game in Florida State's first offensive series. On third-and-six, Seminole quarterback Chris Rix threw a swing pass to running back Leon Washington. Fountain showed his athleticism by catching Washington and tackling him on the 30-yard line, for a gain of only one yard. Washington would have easily been into Tiger territory and could have scored without Fountain's outstanding play.

"I saw the quarterback look that way, so I jumped and ran and tackled him," he remembered.

Clemson carried the momentum through the end of the season, winning its last four games by an aggregate score of 156-48. Fountain had 12 tackles during those games, all as a starter, including a tackle for loss at South Carolina and three quarterback pressures in the Peach Bowl versus Tennessee.

Looking to the 2004 season, Fountain has high hopes for the team. "I haven't seen anybody slow down since the end of 2003. We trained hard in the offseason." He knows that he has a bigger role this year, on and off the field. "I know people are watching what I'm doing. I'm going to try to lead by example and voice positive opinions. Hopefully, my teammates will follow me and the other seniors, and we'll have a great season. I would like fans, coaches, and teammates to know that I'm going to try to make the big play every time. I would love for people to depend on me. I would love to be that guy and create excitement for the fans."

"Mo" has been one of our team leaders during camp," said Head Coach Tommy Bowden. "This is very important to our team, because we saw the importance of leadership last year. He loves to play every day and has earned the respect of his teammates.

"Last year when J.J. (Howard) was injured, 'Mo' stepped right in and was a big reason we gave up just 12 points a game over the last four games. I am looking forward to a big senior year from him."

Fellow teammate Eric Coleman believes Fountain will be successful in those ambitions as well. "He's one of the best athletes on this team. I think 'Mo' is a good guy and a good leader. I put my trust in him every day."

Both realize that fans have high expectations for Clemson this year; they are wondering if the team can continue and build upon the success of last season. Fountain thinks their goals are obtainable as long as everyone stays healthy and keeps a positive outlook. He just wants to take it one game and one week at a time.

However, Fountain has looked at the schedule and seen the likes of Texas A&M, Florida State, Virginia, and Miami (FL), all on the road. He claims though, "If you want to be the best, you have to beat the best."

Fountain does not back down from a challenge; the competition is his favorite part of playing football. He loves the season and seeing the payoffs of the offseason hard work. He likes to win as well, everything from cards to video games to football.

"If I'm playing it, I like to win," he confessed.

When it comes to football games, Fountain has a specific pregame ritual that he performs to influence a victory. Right before the team runs onto the field, he does 100 pushups in the locker room to get his blood pumping. Once on the field, he focuses on the game and remembers game film lessons from the previous week. Right before the game starts, he writes "for the fam" on his wrist-tape with the names of his brother, mom, and dad.

"They're why I'm here. I really go out and try to make them proud, and play hard for them."

Fountain has a 17-year old brother, whom he claims is Clemson's #1 fan. The younger Fountain always finds his way to the team's tunnel. He even managed to position himself at Clemson's tunnel at the Peach Bowl last season.

When his Tiger career is complete, Fountain hopes to have an opportunity to play professionally. Eventually, he wants to coach and be around kids.

"I want to teach them the importance of education and teach them how it ties in with sports."

IPTAY is widely regarded as the father of athletic fundraising. The IPTAY Scholarship Fund traces its roots to the 1930s. Dr. Rupert Fike is credited with being IPTAY’s originator, but the seed that Dr. Fike needed for his now much-envied group was planted there by then Head Coach Jess Neely.

On October 16, 1931, Clemson suffered a surprising 6-0 loss to The Citadel in a game played in Florence, SC. After the game, Captain Frank J. Jervey, Head Coach Jess Neely, Assistant Coach Joe Davis, and Captain Pete Hefnner (of the university military staff) met in a car outside the stadium to discuss ways Clemson could help its football program get back on track. The meeting started the ball rolling towards the establishment of the IPTAY Foundation. Clemson would score just three touchdowns and win one game during the 1931 season.

Soon, Fike came into the picture through correspondence with Jervey. Jervey wanted to form the “$50 ($50) Club,” but Fike wanted a smaller amount, which he thought would mean more members and more money. Neely believed that if he could get $10,000 a year, he could give the Tigers fans a winning football team.

Then in 1934, Dr. Fike wrote his now famous letter to Neely. It stated, “Last night, we had a little meeting at our house and organized the IPTAY club.”

So began Clemson’s athletic support group, which in those days stood for “I Pay Ten A Year.” At that time, the purpose of IPTAY was “to provide annual financial support to the athletic department at Clemson, and to assist in every way possible to regain for Clemson the high athletic standing which rightfully belongs to her.”

The organization was first established as a secret organization, and initial membership dues were set at $10 a year. A little more than $1,600 came into the coffers the first year of IPTAY, even in the heart of the Great Depression. Some payments were made in the form of barter. Milk, sweet potatoes, turnip greens, and the like were accepted in the initial efforts to build membership.

The excitement about the organization carried over into the 1934 season, and Clemson ran to its first winning season since 1930. Clemson had gone 0-5-1 against Furman and South Carolina in the previous three years, then defeated both teams in 1934. The fruits of the labor really began to pay off in 1938, said former Clemson publicist Joe Sherman.

In 1938, Clemson went 8-1-1, and the following season, Neely coached Clemson to its first bowl game, the 1940 Cotton Bowl, where the Tigers capped a 9-1 season by beating Boston College and Hall of Fame Coach Frank Leahy. Clemson ended the season ranked #12 in the final AP poll, its first top 20 season in history. Boston College was ranked #11 going into the game, and it was Clemson’s first win over a top 20 team in its history.

With over 22,600 members in 2003 fiscal year, the organization plays a major role in ensuring that all 19 of the varsity sports at Clemson are given the maximum amount of scholarships offered by the NCAA. IPTAY donors have contributed over $168 million since the inception of IPTAY, including over $10.5 million in 2003 fiscal year.

In accordance with the IPTAY Constitution, the four priorities are as follows:
- The payment of the annual cost of athletic scholarships.
- The payment or reimbursement of the operating expenses of IPTAY.
- The establishment and maintenance of an adequate reserve fund deemed appropriate by the IPTAY Board of Directors.
- Any expenditures other than those established under the previous three priorities shall be limited to either direct or indirect aids to the athletic program of Clemson University and must be approved by the IPTAY Board of Directors.

While the basic principles of IPTAY outlined in 1934 remain the same, the scope of IPTAY has grown tremendously. Not only does this unique organization provide for athletic scholarships, but IPTAY is a key toward building and maintaining the outstanding facilities that are essential for Clemson to remain as one of the top intercollegiate athletic programs in the United States.

In recent years, IPTAY has broadened its scope by building and renovating facilities that can be used by the entire Clemson University family - students, faculty, and administrators. In 1991, IPTAY funded the construction of a 27,000 square-foot facility to accommodate the extended schedules and needs of student-athletes. When this facility, Vickery Hall, opened in 1991, it was the first support facility in the country built solely for the all-around education of student-athletes. Even today, Vickery Hall and its programs are completely supported by funds from IPTAY. Unfortunately, with the escalating cost of tuition, IPTAY will be limited in its future funding of programs outside of the cost of athletic scholarships.

While the four priorities of IPTAY are the guiding force of the organization, the mission of Clemson University has not been overlooked. The IPTAY Academic Scholarship Endowment was created to help meet the need for more academic scholarships for non-athletes who are qualified academically. The IPTAY Academic Scholarship Fund is the second-largest scholarship of its kind at Clemson and has helped over 1,200 students attend the university.

IPTAY, under the guidance of its board of directors, is continuously making improvements and adding programs to enhance the organization and university. In recent years, some of the most impressive changes have been the addition of the Tiger Club of America, IPTAY CATS (Clemson Active Teen Support), and the IPTAY Collegiate Club. It’s focus is now on the WestZone Club, the fundraising effort to greatly enhance the West endzone area of Memorial Stadium, and the construction of a “One Clemson” museum, which will document the history of the university and its athletic program.

IPTAY is expecting even more growth in the coming years, and its members’ track record of loyalty and generosity is well documented. Those loyalists include Alan Johnstone of Orangeburg, SC, the only one of IPTAY’s 110 charter members that remains active. With his help and the help of many like him, it is no wonder IPTAY heads into its 71st year as strong as ever.

Rob Stephenson is IPTAY’s Assistant Executive Director and is in his first year at Clemson.

To the casual college football fan, Eric Coleman may not be a household name. In three years, he has yet to start a game. But to the die-hard Clemson football fan, the hope is that it will not take long for Coleman to start turning heads in 2004. The 6'5, 300-pound defensive tackle will have an opportunity to have a breakout year after learning the position behind NFL-caliber players the last three years.

"When I talk to my friends back home, I tell them they are going to see a new person on the field this year," Coleman proclaimed. "Everyone will ask 'what got into this guy?' That's the kind of attitude I want to display on the field. Clemson fans can expect to see something totally different than they saw last year. There will be more plays made and a lot more hustle."

Coleman has spent most of his life on the move. His father (Felix) began a military career when Eric was just three-years-old. For some, life in a military household is difficult due to the strict rules and regulations. For Coleman, that was not the case.

"My dad never enforced the military lifestyle on me," Coleman said. "He disciplined me, but in his own way. He allowed me to be my own person. The lifestyle was good because I got to travel and see different places. At the same time, you don't get to grow up with the same group of friends. I missed out on that part of my childhood. But everything turned out for the best."

To most astute observers and his coaching staff, the best is yet to come with regards to his on-field talents. Coleman is back for his senior season in 2004, but it has been a long, sometimes confusing journey for the Charlottesville, VA native. He began playing football at the age of eight, but it was not the only sport in which he competed. Coleman also played soccer and baseball when he was young, and basketball and track in high school. Football was not always good to him, either.

"I started playing Pop Warner football when I was eight-years-old," Coleman said. "But then I got too big for the league because I weighed too much, so I didn't play from the time I was 12 until high school."

His father saw something in Eric as his enthusiasm for football progressed. He began to push him to recognize his true potential. Eric cites his father as being a positive influence in his athletic career, and it was never more evident than his sophomore year of high school.

"I remember wanting to quit football," Coleman remembered. "The practices were hard, and at that time I wasn't in shape at all. My father told me if I quit playing football, he wouldn't let me play any other sport. Because he knew if I quit on football, I'd quit on the other things. I thought about what he said and knew that he was right. So I went back to practice the next day and I've been playing ever since. My father is a good motivator. He's a Manne, and he used to be a military recruiter, so he's good at getting people to do their best in everything they do."

One thing Eric began to do really well after that point in his life was play the game of football. He played tight end and defensive end for Charlottesville High School, and began to catch the eye of college recruiters from around the Southeast. After high school, he attended Fork Union Military Prep in Virginia to hone his skills and mature as a person. He totaled 15 sacks and caught four touchdowns passes as a multi-purpose threat. Clemson coaches recruited Coleman to play offensive or defensive line.

"I really don't think the coaches were serious about playing me on offense," he laughed. "During the recruiting process, I did think I might end up on the offensive line. But when I got here, I realized I wasn't going to be on the offensive side of the ball. I started out as a defensive tackle, and they wanted me to red-shirt. But I didn't want to red-shirt, because I felt I did that at Fork Union. Eric (Thelen) Smith caught me in the weight room and told me he wanted me to play defensive tackle for him. That's what happened and I'm loving it today."

Early in the 2001 season, Clemson coaches decided against red-shirting Coleman. He was a reserve defensive tackle, but by the fourth game of the season, he was already seeing live action.

"It was a different experience for me because the game was a whole lot faster," Coleman said. "It was a good experience playing as a true freshman."

Coleman played the final eight games of the 2001 season, totaling 106 snaps and recorded five tackles, including one tackle for loss. It was difficult for the coaches to find much playing time for the freshman, because he was wedged on the depth chart behind some talented veteran tackles. Nick Eason, a starter at tackle in 2001 and 2002 for Clemson, would go on to be drafted in the NFL by the Denver Broncos.

For the last two seasons, Coleman found himself playing behind 2004 third-round NFL Draft pick Donnell Washington. The 6'6, 320-pound Washington was also a positive influence for Coleman during his underclassmen days.

"Playing behind him definitely helped me," Coleman stated. "Donnell was a very good player. He had a lot of influence on the way I play the game on the field. When he played up to his potential and at full speed, there was no one that could stop him."

Coleman played in all 13 games in both 2002 and 2003 as a second-team defensive tackle, and never started a game. In fact, his first collegiate start will come shortly after 3:30 this afternoon as he prepares to take on Wake Forest. In 2002, he had 31 tackles in 265 snaps of action. Coleman started to show his true potential during the 2003 season.

"I think this year is going to be a big year for me," Coleman said. "I think this team is going to be better than last year, and it will be easier for me to make the impact. I have more experience and I think I can help the team."

He began the year on a high note with two tackles for loss versus #9 Georgia, although the team was not as fortunate to get off to a hot start. One of his fondest memories during his time at Clemson thus far was the win over #24 Virginia on Homecoming last season. Kevin Youngblood caught a four-yard, walk-off touchdown in overtime to give Clemson the 30-27 edge over the Cavaliers. For Coleman, the victory was extra sweet.

"The win over Virginia was great because I thought we were cheated my first year," Coleman said. A controversial score on the last play of the game gave the Cavaliers the victory that year, 26-24. "When I went home this year, everything was a lot different because people respect Clemson a lot more. Of course the win gave me bragging rights, so I went home with my head held high."

Coleman went on to have success in a supporting role for the remainder of the 2003 season, but it wasn't until the year's final game before he showed the Clemson fan base and entire country what he was truly capable of. When Clemson defeated #6 Tennessee 27-14 in the Peach Bowl..."
Bowl, Coleman was a large part of the victory for the rejuvenated Tiger defense.

His impact could be felt early on in the contest, as Casey Clausen directed the Tennessee offense down the field on the Volunteers' opening possession. However, the drive came to a screeching halt after Coleman burst through the line and hit tailback Cedric Houston square in the numbers. The collision jarred the football loose, and it was eventually recovered by teammate Eric Sampson.

Although the Tigers did not capitalize on the turnover with points on the scoreboard, Coleman's early play sent the Volunteers into a one-sided attack offensively. His strip of Houston led Tennessee coaches to shy away from the run. The result was a dominant performance by Clemson's run defense, as the unit yielded just 38 total rushing yards to Tennessee's high-octane ground attack.

Coleman further added to Tennessee's frustrations when he tipped a third-down Clausen pass at the line of scrimmage on their second possession of the game. His key stop led to a Tennessee punt, which was returned 58 yards by Derrick Hamilton to set up a field goal and an early 10-0 lead for the Tigers.

"That game was a great motivation for me," he said. "After I caused the fumble, I was excited because of the importance of the game itself. I started thinking, 'why can't I do this on every play? Why can't I do this every game?' I continued doing what I could to help the team out. I want to continue to play well after that performance."

The Tennessee win capped an impressive four-game winning streak to end the season for the Tigers. Included in the four victories were two top-10 victims (#3 Florida State and #6 Tennessee) along with a 63-17 win over in-state rival South Carolina. Coleman and his defensive teammates received much of the praise for the Tigers' improvement in the latter stages of 2003. Opponents rushed for just 80 yards per game over the last four games, a battle won by Coleman and his linemates in the trenches.

The exciting finish to the 2003 season has fan expectations high again for the Clemson program, something Coleman and his teammates are looking forward to. "Nobody expected us to beat either of those teams (Florida State, Tennessee), except for us and our fans," Coleman stated. "Now that we've done that, we just have to continue. Everyone knows that we can beat those types of teams. People see the talent level we have and are expecting us to win a lot of games, so we just have to keep playing hard."

Keeping the motor running has been a focus for Coleman since the end of the 2003 season. To improve his potentially high draft status, he feels he must display that inner drive to constantly make plays on a game-by-game basis. If he can do that, he believes he has a legitimate shot to be a high selection in the 2005 NFL Draft. Professional scouts are high on his athleticism and his ability to stop the run. It does not hurt that he possesses ideal size suitable for playing defensive tackle in the most elite football league in the world.

"I have to play hard on every single snap," Coleman remarked. "I believe that's the main thing I have to learn. I can already do a lot of the little things. That's what I trained this summer for. I ran a lot and worked hard with weightlifting so I can bring it on every play. If I can do that, everything will fall into place."

College football allows teammates to develop friendships that often last a lifetime. The bond shared between players is one of the most visible aspects of the game. One such bond on the Clemson team is between Coleman and defensive end Maurice Fountain. The two spent a year together at Fork Union, and are now the senior anchors of Clemson's defensive line. To hear both men speak of each other highly is a sign of mutual respect.

"Eric is one of my best friends" Fountain said. "He's the most athletic big guy that I know. He's very toned up and in shape. He's also a great guy. Eric comes from a great family background. I'm glad to see that he and I are getting our senior articles in the same program, because this is a game we talk about often."

Coleman will start today's game against Wake Forest with two goals in mind. For one, he and his teammates hope to restore Clemson football to its place among the elite teams of the ACC. Secondly, he hopes to play well enough to catapult himself into the mix of college football's best defensive linemen. If he can do that, it will be because of the people who have stood behind and encouraged him for the last four years.

"I have to first thank God and then my family," he said. "I want to thank my grandmother; because without her, I wouldn't have my mother. And without my mother, I wouldn't be here. I love them both and they're the two most important women in my life. I also want to thank my father, teammates, the coaching staff, everyone who works in McFadden and Jervey (athletic offices), and my 'angels.' I want to thank them all for being supportive of me."

Coleman has patiently waited his turn at a chance in the limelight, and he appears ready for a breakout season. Perhaps when all is said and done, Eric Coleman will be even more than just a household name within the scope of major college football.

Senior Eric Coleman has yet to start a game as a Tiger, but he will be counted on to solidify the middle of the defense in 2004.

Philip Sales is an Assistant Sports Information Director in his first year in that position at Clemson. He previously worked as a graduate assistant at Clemson for two years.

Coleman, who caused a fumble in the first quarter against #6 Tennessee in the 2004 Peach Bowl, was a big reason the Volunteers rushed for just 38 yards in Clemson's 27-14 win.

2004 Clemson Football
Clemson University President, James F. Barker, came to the office in 1999 with a clear vision of Clemson’s future. A 1970 Clemson graduate, Barker has established a goal of making the university one of the nation’s top 20 public universities - an institution that draws outstanding faculty and students, provides an unmatched academic experience, and helps drive the state’s economic development.

“South Carolina needs a top-tier research university, and our students deserve to have access to a top-tier education without leaving their home state.” Barker said. “Building Clemson’s academic, research, and service programs to the level where we can compete with anyone will benefit our state, our students, and our alumni.”

Clemson, already South Carolina’s top-ranked public university, is making strides toward that goal. During Barker’s presidency, the university has:

- been recognized as Time Magazine’s “Public College-of-the-Year”
- developed an academic strategic plan with eight emphasis areas aligned with the state’s economic needs
- implemented an enrollment management plan to protect the quality of classroom teaching and allow for more student/faculty interaction
- redesigned the general education curriculum to focus on learning outcomes, and give undergraduates more opportunities for study abroad, service-learning, and research activities
- nearly doubled external research funding
- completed Clemson’s largest capital campaign

Working with private industry and state leaders, Barker also has steered Clemson into a greater economic development role. In six months, Clemson broke ground for a 400-acre automotive research campus in Greenville, dedicated a state-of-the-art biosystems research complex, and announced plans to invest $70 million over five years to support the advanced materials industry. All three projects represent substantial investment in areas related to South Carolina’s most promising economic clusters.

Barker also is becoming a leading voice in higher education in South Carolina and beyond. He served as chair of the ACC Council of Presidents for three years, including 2003-04 when he was significantly involved in the ACC’s expansion, with the addition of Boston College, Miami, and Virginia Tech. He is also chair of the Commission of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, the regional accrediting agency.

Over the past two years, he has earned recognition as a community leader, including South Carolina’s Order of the Palmetto, the Boys and Girls Club Hall of Fame, the Greater Greenville Chamber of Commerce’s Buck Mickel Award for Business and Community Leadership, and the Anderson Independent-Mail’s “Pointing the Way” Leadership Award for Community Service.

Barker earned his bachelor of architecture degree from Clemson and his master of architecture and urban design degree from Washington University in Saint Louis, MO. Before returning to Clemson in 1986 to serve as dean of the College of Architecture, he was dean of the School of Architecture at Mississippi State. In 1995, he became dean of the new College of Architecture, Arts, and Humanities, which was created after a comprehensive reorganization and has received national attention as a new model in education.

He is a recipient of the National Distinguished Professor Award of the Association of Collegiate Schools of Architecture and serves as president of that association. Barker was named Fellow of the American Institute of Architects. He also has been a partner in an architectural practice.

While at Clemson, Barker co-founded the South Carolina Design Arts Partnership to support community design outreach projects, initiated the Charleston Architecture Center, established the University’s “Arts in April” program, and developed a Mayors’ Institute to help city leaders learn how to manage issues related to growth and development.

Despite his responsibilities as president, Barker remains committed to the classroom, continuing to teach an undergraduate course each spring semester and serve as a facilitator for the freshman summer reading program.

The Barkers, Jim and Marcia, have two sons - Brit, a rising sophomore at Clemson, and Jacob, who graduated from North Carolina and attended on a baseball scholarship, and earned a master’s from Clemson.

Academics, Research, & Service

1. Excel in teaching, at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.
2. Increase research and sponsored programs to exceed $100 million a year in research support.
3. Set the standard in public service for land-grant universities by engaging the whole campus in service and outreach, including a focus on strategic emphasis areas.
4. Foster Clemson’s academic reputation through strong academic programs, mission-oriented research, and academic centers of excellence, relevant public service, and highly-regarded faculty and staff
5. Seek and cultivate areas where teaching, research, and service overlap.

Campus Life

1. Strengthen our sense of community and increase our diversity.
2. Recognize & appreciate Clemson’s distinctiveness.
3. Create greater awareness of international programs and increase activity in this area.
4. Increase our focus on collaboration.
5. Maintain an environment that is healthy, safe, and attractive.

Clemson’s National Reputation

1. Promote high integrity and professional demeanor among all members of the University community.
2. Establish a Phi Beta Kappa chapter.
3. Have at least two Clemson students win Rhodes Scholarships.
4. Send student ensembles to perform at Carnegie Hall.
5. Have at least two Clemson faculty members win recognition by national academies.
6. Publicize both national and international accomplishments of faculty, staff, and students.
7. While maintaining full compliance, achieve notable recognition with another national football championship, two championships in Olympic sports, and two Final Four appearances in basketball.

Educational Resources

1. Campaign goal surpassed by 40 percent.
2. Rededicate our energy and resources to improving the library.
3. Increase faculty compensation to a level competitive with top-20 public universities.
4. Increase academic expenditures per student to a level competitive with top-20 public universities.
5. Manage enrollment to ensure the highest quality classroom experiences.

Student Performance

1. Attract more students who are ranked in the top 10 percent of their high school classes and who perform exceptionally well on the SAT/ACT.
2. Promote high graduation rates by increasing freshman retention, meeting expectations of high achievers, and providing support systems for all students.
3. Promote excellence in advising.
4. Increase the annual number of doctoral graduates to the level of a top-20 public research university.
5. Improve the national competitiveness of graduate student admissions and financial aid.

2004 Clemson Football
The approximately $56 million WestZone Initiative is underway, and soon the west end of Clemson Memorial Stadium will be transformed into a unique campus landmark. As the new “front door” to Death Valley, the WestZone will welcome fans, student-athletes, coaches and friends of Clemson University in an unprecedented fashion.

The WestZone Club, featuring excellent premium seating, will eventually cater to 1,000 Clemson fans starting with the 2006 season. Boasting stylish amenities, comfortable seats and upscale cuisine, the WestZone Club combines indoor elegance and outdoor excitement. Private elevators and escalators will take patrons to the exclusive club, which includes a buffet dining area, along with lounge areas overlooking the Clemson campus and Lake Hartwell.

The Westzone Initiative also will include great benefits to future Clemson Tiger gridders, including new locker rooms, team lounge areas, media interview rooms, training room, weight room, team and position meeting rooms and coaches offices. The overall project also includes the One Clemson Center, which will feature the history and traditions of Clemson University and its athletic program.
After only his second year at Clemson University, Dr. Terry Don Phillips' quest for athletic and academic excellence is quickly becoming a reality. His first year as athletic director featured the establishment of a long-term strategic plan for Clemson athletics intended to provide an opportunity for the department to work toward becoming a model program that can compete at the highest levels in all sports.

To become a model program, Clemson must be able to not only compete at the highest levels, but do so with academic integrity, concern for the student-athlete, financial responsibility, and in full compliance.

In his second year, the benefits of Phillips' plan for the athletic programs became visibly evident, as the Tiger athletic teams set new records on the playing fields and in the classroom in 2004.

In the classroom, Clemson student-athletes earned an all-time best 2.90 GPA in the spring of 2004, with 116 student-athletes named to the Dean's List, another Clemson record. Seven different programs recorded a 3.0 GPA or better and 195 student-athletes were named to the ACC Academic Honor Roll.

The Tigers also broke new ground in athletic competition. The fall featured a much improved football team that won each of its last four games, including a pair of victories over top-six teams. The season concluded with a victory over #6 Tennessee in the Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl and a #22 final national ranking. In one weekend in April, Clemson won three ACC Championships, the first time that was accomplished in seven years.

The Clemson women's tennis team advanced to the NCAA Final Four, the first women's athletics program in school history to advance to the semifinals of any NCAA Tournament. That squad also captured the ACC regular-season and ACC Tournament titles en route to a #5 final ranking. The men's tennis team advanced to the Elite Eight of the NCAA Tournament for the first time since 1986 and had its highest victory total since that season. The golf team captured the ACC and East Region Tournament championships for the second consecutive year.

Strides were made toward his goals in his first two years through facility improvements and the development of concepts that will serve the entire department. Littlejohn Coliseum and Doug Kingsmore Stadium completed renovations in 2003 that now make them very competitive nationally. A new indoor track & field complex, widely acclaimed as one of the finest in the nation, was completed in the fall of 2004. It was the site of the ACC Indoor Track & Field Championships in 2004.

Phillips also introduced the West Endzone plan for Clemson Memorial Stadium in 2003. Clemson will begin its construction at Death Valley after the 2004 football season.

After the completion of the club seats and other new gameday operation facilities, future plans call for a new comprehensive football building at Memorial Stadium. The building will benefit the entire department, as it will create additional updated facilities for Clemson's Olympic sports program in the McFadden Building. A "One Clemson Center" to include the history of Clemson University and athletics is also a planned part of the project.

Phillips had an active first academic year (2002-03) at Clemson. On the field of competition, Clemson won its first ever national title in golf with a landmark victory at Oklahoma State's Karsten Creek. Larry Penley's team was the #1-ranked team in the nation for the entire season and became the first golf program in history to win its conference, NCAA regional, and NCAA national tournaments. It was an ironic first national title at Clemson for Phillips in that he had been at Oklahoma State for eight years prior to his arrival at Clemson.

Phillips has an undergraduate degree from Arkansas (1970), a master's degree from Virginia Tech (1974), a doctorate degree from Virginia Tech (1978), and a law degree from the Arkansas School of Law (1996). He is a member of the Arkansas Bar, American Bar Association, and the Sports Lawyers Association.

From an experience standpoint, Phillips has worked in nearly all phases of college athletics. He served as an assistant football coach at Virginia Tech, supervised spring sports and student-athlete enrichment at Florida, handled athletic fundraising and facility enhancement at Missouri and Arkansas, and had 15 years experience as an athletic director, including 13 at the Division I level prior to his appointment at Clemson.

When it came to success on the field and in the classroom at Oklahoma State, Phillips' programs were among the best in the Big 12 Conference. The achievements of the Oklahoma State program during his tenure (1994-02) included a pair of national championships in men's golf, a men's basketball Final Four, two trips to the College World Series, a women's softball World Series, 13 Big 12 Champions, and 11 individual national champions. Academically, it had 53 academic All-Americans.

Very importantly, Oklahoma State notched four football victories over arch-rival Oklahoma during his tenure, including an upset of a fourth-ranked Sooner team in 2001 that knocked Oklahoma from the national championship race. Before his arrival in 1995, the Cowboys had just three wins over Oklahoma in the previous 48 years and had won only a total of 14 games in the previous five years.

Before leading the Oklahoma State program, Phillips served as senior associate athletic director at Arkansas from 1988-94. He ran the daily operations and had oversight of facility projects for the men's programs, and was president of the Razorback Foundation.

Phillips was also athletic director at Southwestern Louisiana (1983-88) and Liberty (1980-81). He was an assistant athletic director at Missouri (1981-83), where he supervised athletic fundraising. He began his administrative career in 1978 as an assistant athletic director at Florida, where he worked with spring sports and student-athlete enrichment.

Phillips began his career in college athletics coaching football. He started as a graduate assistant at Arkansas in 1970-71. He then moved on to Virginia Tech as an assistant coach from 1971-78 before joining the ranks of athletic administration. During his coaching career in Blacksburg, he served with former Clemson Head Coaches Charley Pell and Danny Ford.

Winning has been in Phillips' résumé since his playing days. At Arkansas, Phillips lettered on Frank Broyles teams of 1966, 1968, and 1969. The Razorbacks were a combined 27-5 in those three seasons and played in two Sugar Bowl games. Phillips played for the Razorbacks in the famous 1969 Arkansas-Texas game that decided the national title. Phillips is the chair of the NCAA Division I Infractions Appeals Committee, which serves the appellate role for all university and individual appeals arising from the Committee on Infractions. He also works with the NCAA Certification Program. Phillips currently serves on the following ACC Committees: Finance Committee, Committee on Infractions and Penalties, Television Committee, the Men's Basketball Committee, and the Football Committee.

Phillips has two children - John Dennis and Sarah Jane. He has three step-children - Megan, Marshall, and Madison. He is married to Tricia Phillips, who earlier had an athletic administration career in marketing at Southwestern Louisiana and is a graduate of the Missouri School of Journalism.

Dr. Terry Don Phillips is pictured above with his wife Tricia and Clemson University President Jim Barker and his wife Marcia prior to the 2004 Peach Bowl in Atlanta, GA.
Records continued to fall in 2003 under Bowden. Charlie Whitehurst set the single-season mark for passing yards (3,561), completions (288), and tied the record for touchdown passes (21). Derrick Hamilton’s 10 touchdown catches also set a single-season mark at Clemson, while placekicker Aaron Hunt became the school’s all-time leading scorer in the game against the Seminoles.

The 2003 team showed improvement both from 2002 and over the course of the 2003 season. The Tigers averaged over 420 yards per game of total offense and ranked in the top 25 in the nation in passing yards per game, a first in school history. The Tiger defense was also outstanding, allowing under 20 points per game and under 330 yards per game, both ranking in the top 30 in the country. Perhaps Clemson’s strongest facet of the defense was the secondary. The Tigers were second in the ACC in pass defense, a top-25 mark in the country. Clemson also was second in the nation in kickoff returns, averaging 27.7 yards per return, a school-record figure.

Off the field, Clemson has graduated nearly 80 percent of its scholarship seniors in Bowden’s five years. In 2003, Clemson ranked #11 in the nation, including second among public Division I institutions, in the NCAA graduation-rate study for football scholarship signees who entered Clemson in 1996. Clemson was first in the nation in graduation rate among African-Americans (100 percent).

Bowden has a record of 38-24 (.613) as Clemson’s head coach and is 56-28 (.667) overall. He ranks ninth among active Division I coaches on a winning-percentage basis. He has recorded that ledger against a difficult schedule. His first year, Clemson’s schedule was ranked in the top 10 in the nation. In 2001, his team defeated five teams that finished the season with a winning record, tied for the third-highest single-season figure in school history. One of the victories was a 47-44 overtime triumph at #9 Georgia Tech. It was the highest-ranked road win in 20 years for the Clemson program. In 2003, Clemson’s schedule strength once again ranked in the top 25 by the Sagarin ratings.

When Bowden came to Clemson in 1998, he inherited a team with a 3-8 record. By late October of 2000, just 14 months after his first game, Clemson was ranked third in the nation in the USA TODAY poll after an 8-0 start. That ranking was the highest for the program in 16 years. The final #14 ranking in that same poll was the highest final listing for the program since the 1990 season.

Making a swift improvement is nothing new for Bowden. In 1997, he took over a 4-7 Tulane program and brought the Green Wave to a 7-4 mark in his first year. In 1998, the improvement continued with an 11-0 regular season and #7 national ranking. In 1999, Bowden elevated the Tigers from 3-8 to a bowl game and a 6-6 final record. The 2000 Tigers concluded the season with a 9-3 record, its highest win total since 1993.

In 2000 and 2001, his dynamic offense produced a Heisman Trophy contender in quarterback Woodrow Dantzler, who placed his name next to 52 school records as the Tigers’ signal-caller. The hefty total included eight single-game marks, 23 season records, and 22 career records. He is the school’s career leader in total offense, passing yards, and touchdown responsibility, records that could soon be eclipsed by current quarterback Whitehurst. In 2001, Dantzler became the first quarterback in Division I history to accumulate 2,000 yards passing and 1,000 yards rushing in a single season. Dantzler was named a semifinalist for the Davey O’Brien Award in 2000 and 2001.

Center Kyle Young was a finalist for the Rimington Award in 2000 and 2001, and won the ACC’s Jim Tatum Award, presented to the league’s top student-athlete. He was one of eight players nationally to receive a National Football Foundation Scholarship and became just the second offensive lineman in college football history to become a three-time first-team Academic All-American. Linebacker Chad Carson also performed well in the classroom and on the gridiron. He and Young were first-team Academic All-Americans in 2000 and 2001.

Young and Carson were both named first-team Academic All-Americans, making Clemson the only Division I-A school in the nation to have a pair of first-team selections. For the second straight year, the football team had its highest team GPA on record in 2001 and a record number of ACC Academic honor-roll recipients. Nineteen of the 22 seniors on the 2001 team earned their degrees. The top-five semester GPAs on record have taken place under his 10-season watch. Carson brought pride to the entire University in 2002 when he reached the final stage of the Rhodes Scholarship selection process, the only Division I college football player to hold that distinction.

When Bowden came to Clemson, he had one simple goal—improve. For Bowden, winning Clemson supporters that the Tigers were unlikely to be bowl participants in 1999, but his main focus was to improve. Bowden’s goal of improvement was reached and he was happy to be wrong about his preseason prediction, as the Tigers were invited to the 1999 Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl.

In 1999, Bowden accomplished a personal milestone that no Clemson coach had attained since 1981, the year the Tigers won the National Championship. He became the first Clemson coach since Danny Ford to be named ACC Coach-of-the-Year.
est schedule. The Tigers finished tied for second with Georgia Tech and Virginia in the final conference standings, a six-place improvement over the previous season, the greatest one-season jump in ACC history in league play.

The Tigers also made a four-game ACC-win improvement in 1999. It was just the fifth time in ACC history that a team made that big of a league victory jump. Bowden had taken over a team with a losing record and brought it to a bowl game in his first season, just the sixth coach in ACC history to accomplish that feat.

The Clemson program set or tied 41 school records in Bowden’s first year, including 26 on offense. Ironically, Bowden’s first Tulane team set or tied 26 offensive school records.

The improvements in the ACC standings were thanks in large part to an innovative offensive attack. The Clemson offense ended the season averaging 402.6 yards per game, nearly a 100-yard per game improvement over 1998. The Tigers scored 26.8 points per game in 1999 compared to 19.8 in 1998. Clemson’s 42 touchdowns in 1999 ranked fourth best in school history.

Under Bowden, Clemson continued its strong defensive tradition. With 47 sacks, Clemson was first in the ACC in that category for the second-straight season, and the final total established a school record. Three players (Adams - 15.5, Carson - 12.0, Robert Carswell - 10.8) all had nearly 11 tackles per game in 1999 to rank among the top-four tacklers in the league.

Adams, a sophomore that season, finished with 186 tackles, highest in the nation, and broke the Clemson single-season tackle record held by Anthony Simmons. They all contributed to the 17th-best pass efficiency defense in the nation, a unit that had 19 interceptions, ninth highest in the country.

Thanks to the wide-open offensive attack, several Clemson players made their presence felt in the national rankings and the Clemson record book. Junior wide receiver Rod Gardner became the school’s first 1,000-yard receiver. Gardner had 80 receptions for 1,084 yards, Tiger single-season records in both areas. He was 17th in the nation in receptions per game, with a 6.6 mark. He had another 1,000-yard season in 2000 when he was a first-round draft choice of the Washington Redskins.

Four of Clemson’s losses in 1999 came against teams ranked in the top 15 of the final AP poll. Bowden Bowl I, the first ever meeting between father and son head coaches in college football history, took place on October 23, 1999. Bowden faced his father Bobby’s top-ranked Florida State team in Death Valley in front of a national television audience. The Tigers lost a tough battle to the eventual National Champions, 17-14, the closest margin of victory for the Seminoles and the fewest points they recorded all season by two touchdowns.

Making strong improvement in his first year with a program was nothing new for Bowden. In the two seasons he was the head coach at Tulane, Bowden took a team that had been 4-18 in the two years previous to his arrival, and emotionally and numerically reversed the team’s fortunes with an 18-4 record, posted an 11-1 conference mark, and finished the 1998 season ranked seventh in the nation by both polls. Tulane and Tennessee were the only undefeated teams in college football in 1998.

It did not take Bowden long to put Tulane back on the college football landscape. In his first year, Tulane was picked last in the preseason polls of Conference USA. But he led the New Orleans-based school to a 7-4 record, a second-place conference standing with just one league loss, and set 33 school records in the process, including 26 on offense.

Tulane’s accomplishments on offense were noteworthy in 1997, but its offensive charts reached uncharted areas in 1998. Tulane stood as the only school in the nation that averaged over 300 yards per game passing and 200 yards per game rushing. The team ranked fourth in the nation in total offense (507.1 per game) and second in scoring (45.4 points per game).

The Green Wave scored 40 or more points in eight games in 1998, including each of the last seven games. In one game, the Green Wave scored 72 points and rolled up 704 yards of total offense. They converted 52 percent of their third-down opportunities for the season and had just 11 turnovers in over 800 plays. The 1998 season saw the program post a perfect 11-0 regular season under Bowden, its first perfect regular season since 1931. The Green Wave won Conference USA, its first league title since Tulane won the SEC in 1949. Bowden was named Conference USA Coach-of-the-Year.

Bowden’s team ranked seventh in the final AP poll and was a mainstay in the polls from the third week of the season on. Tulane had not been ranked at any time since 1979, and had not been ranked in a final poll since 1973. After Bowden accepted the job at Clemson, Tulane defeated Brigham Young in the Liberty Bowl, 41-27.

Bowden began his college football experience as a walk-on wide receiver at West Virginia. He played for his father between 1973-75 and then for Frank Signetti during the 1976 season.

As a junior, he caught 15 passes for 189 yards and one score. Bowden remained at West Virginia for the 1977 season and began his coaching careers, serving as a graduate assistant on Signetti’s staff. His interest in coaching only became more intense after that first year as a graduate assistant. His father then hired him as a secondary coach at Florida State for the 1978 season.

That experience confirmed to Bowden that he was in a profession that would be his life’s work. The Seminoles posted a 19-4 mark in his two seasons at Florida State.

In 1980, Bowden joined the staff at East Carolina, where he coached for the spring-practice session of 1980. That spring, he moved to Auburn and served as the Tigers’ running backs coach during the 1980 season. Among the players he coached was James Brooks, who went on to a 13-year NFL career and is still second in Auburn history in rushing.

Before the 1981 season, Bowden returned to Tallahassee as the tight ends coach. In two more years at Florida State, the Seminoles posted a record of 19-8. The 1982 team ranked #13 in the final poll, claimed a 9-3 record, and won a Gator Bowl championship.

From 1983-86, Bowden served under Steve Sloan at Duke as the Blue Devils’ quarterbacks coach. He was named coordinator in 1985. It was as a Duke assistant that Bowden made his first trip to Death Valley as a coach.

After four years at Duke, Bowden became the wide receivers coach at Alabama under Bill Curry. It was there that Bowden refined his offensive coaching prowess under noted offensive mind Homer Smith, then the Tide offensive coordinator.

In 1990, Bowden returned to a coordinator role, serving Kentucky as its offensive coordinator and wide receivers coach. That season, he helped the Wildcats to their first upper division Southeastern Conference finish since 1984.

In 1991, Bowden joined Pat Dye at Auburn. He would remain with Auburn for six seasons, his longest stint as a college assistant coach. During his tenure, Auburn had a combined record of 46-20-2, including a perfect 11-0 season in 1993. Auburn had four Associated Press top-25 seasons, including a #4 final ranking in 1993 and a #9 final ranking in 1994. The SEC Tigers were 20-1-1 in 1993-94 combined.

Bowden worked under his brother, Terry, for his last four years at Auburn and the Tigers had a 36-9-1 record with both Bowdons on the coaching staff.

Born on July 10, 1954 in Birmingham, AL, Bowden is married to the former Linda Joan White, who he first met when the two were in school together at Morgantown (WV) High. The couple has two children, Ryan (22), a 2004 Clemson graduate who is currently in law school at Bentley (VA) University, and Lauren (19), a sophomore at Clemson.

Linda, Ryan, Tommy, and Lauren Bowden.

Scott Highlights
In his first season at South Carolina in 1994, he led the Gamecocks to their first postseason bowl victory in school history in the Carquest Bowl... while with the Seminoles, they were 10-0-1 in bowl games... with the win at the Carquest, Scott never tasted a bowl defeat in his first 12 bowl games as a coach... Florida State had a 44-6 (880) record with Scott as offensive coordinator, which ranked as the most wins by a Division I program during those four seasons... Florida State also claimed the 1993 national title with Scott running the offense and finishing no lower than fourth in the nation in any one season during that span... coached Heisman Trophy winner Charlie Ward... two of his five recruiting classes at Florida State were ranked #1 in the nation (1985,89)... Clemson’s tight ends were productive in 1999, catching a pair of touchdowns in the same year for the first time in over a decade... the 2000 offense set 31 records, including total offense and touchdowns... the Tigers ranked in top 15 in the nation in total offense, scoring, and rushing in 2000... as offensive coordinator in 2001, he directed quarterback Woodrow Dantzler to the first 2,000-1,000 passing-rushing season in NCAA Division I history... two of the top four offenses in Clemson history (2001,03) were coordinated by Scott... his son, Jeff, was the Tigers’ holder for three years... his other son, John, is a junior football player at Harvard.

Lovett Highlights
Enters his third season at Clemson after three years as defensive coordinator at Auburn... has been a collegiate coach for 25 years, including 15 as a defensive coordinator... in his first season at Clemson, the Tigers picked off 21 passes, 10th most in the nation... both Justin Miller (5) and Brian Mance (15) ranked in the top 15 in the nation in interceptions, while they finished one-two in the ACC... his 2002 defense improved 40 yards per game and forced 66.7 percent more turnovers than the year before... in 2003, his defense finished in the top 25 in scoring defense and second in the ACC in pass defense... his defense held #3 Florida State to 11 yards rushing in the 2003 win, the lowest total in the Bobby Bowden era... his defense helped Auburn reach a bowl game each of the last two years... his 2000 defense ranked 14th in the nation in total defense and 15th in rushing defense... his defense stifled top-ranked Florida in Auburn’s 29-20 win, the defense limited Florida to 20 points, 36 yards rushing, and 328 yards of total offense, season lows in all three categories for a team that finished #3 in the nation... his defense also forced five Gator turnovers, including four interceptions thrown by Heisman Trophy finalist Red Grossow... his defense held Georgia to 17 points in Auburn’s 24-17 win... coached under Tommy Tuberville the last seven years before arriving at Clemson, including four at Mississippi and three at Auburn... coached two strikers in Maine in the 1980s... was defensive quality control coach under Joe Walton and the New York Jets in 1984... came to C.W. Post as a walk-on, but earned a scholarship and served as co-captain in a senior in 1973.

O’Cain Highlights
In his first season as a head coach at N.C. State, he was the only rookie coach in the nation that year to take a team to a bowl game... O’Cain led N.C. State to nine wins in 1993, tied for the most wins in school history... his 10 ACC wins during his first two seasons are the best ever for a Wolfpack coach in his first two campaigns... O’Cain, Lou Holtz (1972-75), and Chuck Amato (2000-02) are the only coaches in N.C. State history to take a team to a bowl in their first two seasons with the program... coached N.C. State to three bowl games... had a 41-40 overall head coaching record at N.C. State... recruited and coached NFL star Tony Holt while at N.C. State... quarterbacked Orangeburg- Wilkinson High (the same high school as former Clemson quarterback Woodrow Dantzler) to a 13-0 record, a state AAAA title, and #12 national ranking his senior year... his first coaching job came as a graduate assistant at Clemson in 1977, where he coached the running backs... was a big reason Woodrow Dantzler became the first NCAA Division I player to pass for 2,000 yards and rush for 1,000 in a single season in 2001... in 2002, he guided freshman Charlie Whitehurst to a noteworthy first year in which he set 22 Tiger records, including single-game marks for passing efficiency, yards, completions, and four touchdown passes. In 2003, he coached Whitehurst to 33 more Tiger records, including yards passing... Clemson averaged 420 yards per game in 2003.

Dear ACC Football Fans,

The Atlantic Coast Conference would like to extend a warm welcome to all the Tiger faithful as we take to the field for the 2004 ACC Football season. As a conference, we are extremely excited to once again turn our attention to what has made this league so strong for over 50 years – its student-athletes, coaches and fans.

As one of our treasured founding members, Clemson has enjoyed a rich football history. Since playing its first game back in 1896, Tiger football has recorded a national championship, 14 bowl victories and produced 54 All-Americans and countless All-ACC performers – an impressive resume. We also remember players and coaches such as Jerry Butler, Fred Cone, Jeff Davis, Steve Fuller, Frank Howard, Terry Kinard, Banks McFadden and many others who are indelibly written into Clemson football history.

In addition to athletics, this league has great respect for Clemson's academic success. The ACC has always made academics a top priority and with Clemson's recent notoriety as the 2001 Time Magazine’s Public College of the Year and being ranked 32nd among all national public universities by the 2005 U.S. News and World Report, Clemson is a tribute to our league.

As our conference continues its efforts for unrivaled excellence, we are proud to embrace the University of Miami and Virginia Tech as our newest members and we look forward to linking our current traditions and embracing new ones.

We sincerely hope that all the dedicated Tiger fans will continue to bring meaning to the ACC’s promise - A Tradition of Excellence ... Then, Now and Always.

Sincerely,

John D. Swofford
Atlantic Coast Conference Commissioner

Men's Soccer
- 124-51-17 at Clemson in nine seasons, he has an overall mark of 158-75-22 including his years as a head coach at Brown.
- Earned his 150th career win with the win over Flinders and also defeated #6 South Carolina in 2003.
- Led Clemson to the Final Eight of the NCAA Tournament in 2002 and a #7 final ranking in the coaches’ poll. It was his fourth Final Eight appearance as Clemson’s coach.
- Led Clemson to a 14-5-3 record in 2002, including a victory over top-ranked Wake Forest in the NCAA Tournament.
- coached the Tigers to the ACC regular-season title and a first-place finish at the ACC Tournament in 1998. Also led the Tigers to the ACC Tournament crown and an Elite Eight appearance in the NCAAs in 2001.
- Led the Tigers to the NCAA quarterfinals in 1998, and had #1 ranking for much of the fall, including the final regular-season poll. As ACC Coach-of-the-Year he defeated seven top-25 teams in 1998.
- Guided Clemson to a top-five finish and the second round of the NCAA Tournament in his first year with the program in 1995.
- Wojtek Krakauskis was the top player in the nation in 1998, winning the Hermann Award.
- Has taken Clemson to the Sweet 16 of the NCAA Tournament and a final top-20 ranking in six of his nine seasons.

Todd Bramble
Women’s Soccer
- Has led Clemson to the NCAA Tournament and a top-25 finish in each of his first three years as head coach.
- The Lady Tigers were #17 in the final Soccer America poll in 2003 when they recorded four top-25 victories.
- Led Clemson to #14 wins and to the ACC Tournament title game in 2002.
- Coached Deliah Arrington to the ACC Player-of-the-Year award, the first Lady Tiger to earn that honor.
- Has a three-year record of 40-20-5 overall and 11 top-25 wins.
- Guided Clemson to a 15-5-1 record and #11 final ranking in 2001, his first as the women’s soccer head coach.
- Served as Clemson’s top assistant under Men’s Head Coach Trevor Adair from 1995-99.
- Was a major contributor to that program’s success. Clemson had three top-12 seasons and reached the NCAA Tournament’s quarterfinals twice and the Sweet 16 three times. The 1998 team finished 22-2 with a #1 final regular-season ranking and an ACC Championship.
- Prior to his career at Clemson, he served under Adair as assistant coach at Brown University in Providence, RI from 1991-94.
- Also has international coaching experience. He was an assistant coach of the United States under-17 national team that competed in the World Championships in 1999.

Clemson Memorial Stadium has been held in high esteem for many years. Whether it be players from the 1940s and 1950s, opposing players from the 1970s and 1980s, or even professional players in the 1990s, the ambiance of this special setting is what college football is all about.

The storied edifice added to its legend when the first meeting of father and son head coaches (Bowden Bowl I) took place before a sellout crowd of more than 86,000 fans in 1999. Clemson has ranked in the top 20 in the nation in average attendance 21 consecutive seasons. That includes 2001 when Clemson set an ACC record for total attendance. Last year, the streak continued when Clemson averaged over 76,000 fans per game.

In the 70s, 80s, and 90s, various publications named top-10 stadiums in college football and Memorial Stadium, affectionately known as "Death Valley," has been a common denominator on those lists.

The facility’s mystique is derived from its many traditions, which date to its opening in 1942, the legendary games and players, and Clemson's corresponding rate of success. Clemson has won 222 games in 62 years there and has won over 71 percent of the contests (222-87-7). Thirty-nine times since 1963, a crowd has exceeded 80,000.

The stadium has definitely been good to the Tigers, but the stadium was constructed against the advice of at least one Clemson coach. Just before head coach Jess Neely left for Rice University after the 1939 season, he gave Clemson a message. "Don't ever let them talk you into building a big stadium," he said. "Put about 10,000 seats behind the YMCA. That's all you'll ever need."

Instead of following Coach Neely’s advice, however, Clemson officials decided to build the new stadium in a valley on the western part of campus. The place would take some clearing—there were many trees, but luckily there were no hedges.

The crews went to work, clearing, cutting, pouring, and forming. Finally on September 19, 1942, Memorial Stadium opened with Clemson thrashing Presbyterian, 32-13. Those 20,000 seats installed for Opening Day would soon grow, and grow and grow.

When the original part of the stadium was built in the early 40's, much of the work was done by scholarship athletes, including many football players. The first staking out of the stadium was done by two members of the football team, A.N. Cameron and Hugh Webb. Webb returned to Clemson years later to be an architecture professor, and Cameron went on to become a civil engineer in Louisiana.

The building of the stadium did not proceed without a few problems. One day during the clearing of the land, one young football player proudly announced that he was not allergic to poison oak. He then commenced to attack the poison oak with a swing blade, throwing the plants to and fro. The next day, however, the boy was swollen twice his size and had to be put in the hospital.

There are many other stories about the stadium, including one that Frank Howard put a chew of tobacco in each corner as the concrete poured.

Howard said that the seeding of the grass caused a few problems. "About 40 people and I laid sod on the field," he said. "After three weeks, on July 15, we had only gotten halfway through."

"I told them that it had taken us three weeks to get that far, and I would give them three more week's pay for however long it took. I also told them we would have 50 gallons of ice cream when we got through. After that it took them three days to do the rest of the field. Then we sat down in the middle of the field and ate up that whole 50 gallons."

Howard said that on the day of the first game in the stadium, "the gates were hung at 1:00 and we played at 2:00." But that would be all of the construction for a while. Then in 1958, 19,000 sideline seats were added and in 1960, 5,658 west endzone seats were added in response to increasing attendance. With the large endzone, "Green Grass" section, this expansion increased capacity to 53,000.

Later, upper decks were added to each side as crowds swelled - the first in 1978 and the second in '83. This increased capacity to over 80,000, which makes it one of the largest on-campus stadiums.

The effect spiraling inflation has had in this century can be dramatically seen in the differences in stadium construction. The original part of the stadium was built at a cost of $125,000 or at $6.25 a seat. The newest upper deck was finished in 1993 at a cost of $13.5 million, or $866 a seat.

Through the years, Memorial Stadium has become known as "Death Valley." It was tagged this by the late Presbyterian coach, Lonnie McMillan. After bringing his P.C. teams to Clemson for years and getting whipped, McMillan said the place was like Death Valley. A few years later the name stuck.

In 1974, the playing surface was named Frank Howard Field for the legendary coach because of his long service and dedication to the University.

Luckily, the stadium wasn't built behind the Y.

What They're Saying

"Florida was loud in the swamp. But, the loudest, not only the stadium, but the loudest place I have ever been around in my life was definitely Death Valley. I was yelling at the top of my lungs in that first series and I couldn't even hear what I was saying. My voice was gone after the second series, so we had to signal everything. That place was unreal in how loud it was. I don't think I will ever be in a louder place than Clemson."

Florida State Quarterback Chris Rix
What has been described as, "the most exciting 25 seconds in college football from a color and pageantry standpoint," actually started out as a matter-of-fact entrance, mainly because of necessity. The first 20,000 seats in Memorial Stadium were built and ready for use before the 1942 season, less than a year after Pearl Harbor was bombed and the United States was drawn into World War II.

The shortest entry into the stadium was a short walk down Williamson Road from Fike Fieldhouse's dressing rooms to a gate at the top of the Hill, which is located behind the east end zone. There were no dressing facilities in the west end zone - there was only a big clock where the hands turned and a scoreboard, which was operated by hand.

The team would dress at Fike, walk down Williamson Road, come in the gate underneath where the big scoreboard now stands and jog down the Hill for its warm-up exercises. There was no fanfare, no cannon shot fired, no Tiger Paw flag, no Tiger Rag played...just the team making its entrance and lining up to do the side-straddle hop.

That's pretty much the way things went for the next 25 years.

Either in 1964 or 1965, S.C. Jones, a member of the class of 1919, made a trip to California. He stopped at a spot in Death Valley, CA and picked up this white flint rock. He presented it to Coach Frank Howard as being from Death Valley, CA to Death Valley, South Carolina."

The rock laid on the floor in Howard’s office in Fike Fieldhouse for years. One day, he was cleaning up his office and he told Gene Willimon, who was executive secretary of IPTAY, to “take this rock and throw it over the fence, or out in the ditch...do something with it, but get it out of my office!”

Willimon didn’t think that was the way a rock should be treated. After all, it had been brought 3,000 miles by a very sincere Tiger fan.

By the mid-sixties, Memorial Stadium was pretty well living up to its moniker, Death Valley, because of the number of victories that had been recorded there. Actually, the name was first used by the late Lonnie McMillian, head coach at Presbyterian College in Clinton in the 1940s.

McMillian and the other Blue Hose coaches before him used to open the season each year by coming to Clemson. Seldom scoring (24 shutouts in 39 games) and with only three wins and four ties to show for it, his teams were getting killed by the Tigers regularly. In 1948, McMillian made the comment to the press that he was taking his team to play Clemson in Death Valley.

An occasional reference to Memorial stadium by that name could be heard for the next three or four years, but when Howard started calling it “Death Valley” in the 1950s, the name took off like wildfire. The Tigers celebrated the 50th season in the "Valley in 1991.
Running Down The Hill
"The Most Exciting 25 Seconds in College Football"

But getting back to Howard's Rock. The rock was mounted on a pedestal at the top of the Hill. It was unveiled September 24, 1966, on a day when Clemson played Virginia. The Tigers were down 18 points with 17 minutes to play and came back to win (40-35) on a 65-yard pass play from Jimmy Addison to Jacky Jackson in the fourth period. That was quite a spectacular debut for that rock.

The team members started rubbing the rock prior to running down the Hill September 23, 1967, a day when Clemson defeated Wake Forest, 23-6. Prior to running down the Hill that day, Howard told his players: "If you're going to give me 110 percent, you can rub that rock. If you're not, keep your filthy hands off it." Howard told of the incident the next day on his Sunday television show and the story became legend.

When Hootie Ingram succeeded Howard as head coach prior to the 1970 season, Ingram decided that the team would make its final entrance on the field out of the dressing room in the west endzone. In all home games in 1970 and 1971 and the first four games of 1972 when the Tigers did not run down the Hill, their combined record was 6-9. The team decided it wanted to come down the Hill once prior to the South Carolina game in 1972. The result, in a cold, freezing rain, was a 7-6 victory when Jimmy Williamson knocked down a two-point conversion attempt which preserved the win.

The Tigers have made the entrance for every home game since 1942, except for the seasons mentioned above - 301 times heading into the 2004 season.

After final warmups, the team goes back into its dressing room under the west endzone stands for final game instructions. About 10 minutes before kickoff, the team boards two buses, rides around behind the north stands to the east endzone, and debarks to the top of the Hill behind Howard's Rock.

At the appointed time, the cannon booms and led by a high-flying Tiger Paw flag, the band forms two lines for the team to run between and strikes up "Tiger Rag", the frenzy starts in all sincerity and usually lasts for three hours.

It is a tradition that has inspired Clemson players for many years.

"The Rock has strange powers. When you rub it, and run down the Hill, the adrenaline flows. It's the most emotional experience I've ever had." - Six-time All-Pro and former Tiger All-American Michael Dean Perry

At Carolina First, we couldn’t agree more. The winners we proudly serve range from students opening their first accounts to businesses notching their first million. Or their first hundred million. The way we see it, being a winner is not about the sheer size of your bank account. It’s about having a game plan and going for it with focus, energy, and persistence. After all, that’s what makes winners—on the football field, and in every other field. Winners do come in all forms. And we’re proud that so many choose to bank with Carolina First.

It makes us winners, too.

“Recognize winners. They come in all forms.”

As the curtain rises today on another season of Clemson Football, 80,000 orange-clad fans will enter Memorial Stadium with more in common than just a rooting interest in the Tigers. The chances are pretty good that an overwhelming majority of these fans have all been influenced at some point in time by former IPTAY Executive Director George Bennett. Bennett has had an impact on Clemson University for more than 50 years and will continue to do so for a long time to come. Whether at athletic events or IPTAY meetings, Clemson fans are used to seeing Bennett, and all welcome him back with open arms to Death Valley today.

The plan for Bennett was to retire earlier this year and ride off into the sunset with a nice sendoff from Tiger fans. However, circumstances took an unexpected turn when he was diagnosed with prostate cancer earlier this year. He went to Texas, and after 42 treatments said, “I am healed; the doctors haven’t told me that but God has told me that. That is how I feel about it.”

Even though Bennett was a long way from South Carolina, he received enormous amounts of support and well-wishes from the Clemson family. “I got so much support down there. People praying, and sending cards and letters – it was incredible. It also has made me realize I have a great opportunity to make people aware of prostate cancer. It’s been tough, but it has also given me an avenue to reach out and help make people aware of their health.”

The amount of love and support Bennett received does not really surprise him. He remembers the family atmosphere at Clemson in the 1950s when he first arrived on campus. “Our roots here at Clemson tell us we are a huge family,” said Bennett. “When you came to school here you were part of the Corps of Cadets. You ate together, studied together, and went to school together. It built camaraderie. That is what makes this place so special. I’ve been other places, but you don’t see the uniqueness that you see here at Clemson. They are all great places, but it’s hard to put something on Clemson other than that it is a very special place. People have tried and tried, but it is hard to explain just how unique Clemson is.”

The positive effects Bennett has had on Clemson University are too numerous to list, but some stick out more than others. This 2004 football season marks the 50th anniversary of a tradition that Tiger fans see every Saturday in Death Valley. It is a tradition that was started in 1954 by, you guessed it, George Bennett. The tradition is not running down the Hill, nor seeing the mascot do push-ups for every Tiger point, but rather the firing of the cannon each time Clemson scores. That’s right, that tradition began 50 years ago and was started by then Head Cheerleader George Bennett. His father had gone to a game at West Point in 1953, and every time Army scored a touchdown, they fired off a big cannon. Upon returning to South Carolina, Bennett’s father suggested that Clemson should think about firing a cannon after every touchdown, and Bennett agreed.

Before the 1954 football season, Bennett returned to Clemson with a cannon that his father had bought. Bennett knew that he could not simply bring it out on gamedays and start firing it, so he had to run his idea past Coach Frank Howard. Bennett went to the Clemson legend’s office and explained his idea and how he wanted to fire the cannon every time Clemson scored a touchdown, to which Coach Howard responded, “Well, what makes you think we are going to be able to score a touchdown?”

After Bennett further explained how he thought it would be possible for the Tigers to score a touchdown at some point that year, Howard finally gave in. “Well, if you really want to do that, then do it.”

The cannon tradition began during the first game of the 1954 season against Presbyterian, and from very humble beginnings, it has evolved into a long-lasting tradition at Clemson. The cannon got a lot of work that day, as the Tigers won 33-0.

“It was one of those things we just kind of did back then, and we had no idea it would last for what will now be 50 years this season,” said Bennett.

Bennett has numerous stories involving the Clemson-South Carolina rivalry, and often writes about his favorite memories in the Orange & White. If there is one that sticks out the most, it probably also goes back 50 years and that 1954 season for the Big Thursday Game in Columbia. Just moments prior to kickoff, Bennett noticed a classmate had decided to bring a live chicken into the stadium and recalled a time in high school when such an act had led to a near riot between fans of the two schools.

Not wanting to see history repeat itself, Bennett jumped the fence and went up into the bleachers to take the chicken away from the cadet. He got the chicken and was on his way to tossing the chicken over the fence and out of the stadium when Howard was informed of what was going on. Bennett calmly explained the situation and finally got the chicken out of the stadium.

The story did not end there, though, as Bennett explained that as years went on, Howard always liked to tell that story at IPTAY meetings with his own little twist to the ending. Howard said that instead of letting Bennett throw it over the fence, he took it away himself, took it home, and ate it for Thanksgiving dinner.

As far as individual games are concerned, Bennett ranks the 1977 game against the Gamecocks as his most memorable. Tiger fans remember vividly Steve Fuller to Jerry Butler and “The Catch.” It looked as though all was lost when the Gamecocks scored late in the game to take their first lead, but the Tigers came roaring back to win in the final 30 seconds.

There is no question that Bennett is proud of Clemson’s past, but looks to its future with great anticipation. He thinks the goal of a top-20 public institution is a great aiming point, and is something it should push for and be able to achieve. Clemson has improved by seven spots over the last two years.

He would also like to see Clemson have a Rhodes Scholar and a Heisman Trophy winner. Bennett recalls that Fuller was very close to achieving both. He would like to see Clemson continue to be one of the top schools in the nation both academically and athletically, and sees no reason why these goals cannot be attained.

Bennett has thoroughly enjoyed his time in helping Clemson. He is often asked if he ever gets tired of the meetings or the job, and his response is that his work has been, “a real labor of love, and I have enjoyed every minute of this job. I made a lot of friends, people you’ll always remember, like Coach Howard, Bob Bradley, Don Wade, and Fred Cone. I’ve loved watching the great players through the years and going to bowl games, and I plan to keep on doing that in the future.”

Clemson fans will have no problems with that and undoubtedly look forward to it just as much as George Bennett does.

Kyle Tucker, a first-year graduate student from Cartersville, Ga., is a graduate assistant in the Clemson Sports Information Office.

George Bennett has been a part of Clemson athletics for over 50 years, including his tenure as IPTAY Executive Director.

2004 Clemson Football
By Sanford Rogers

"I really like Charlie Whitehurst. He has the attitude you look for in a quarterback. He is in it to win games. That is what you want in a quarterback, both in colleges and the pros. All he cares about is winning. The attitude that he brings to the table gives the entire team a lot of confidence."

The above statement could have come from ESPN's Lee Corso, Ron Franklin, or Chris Fowler, or ABC's Mike Golic, Terry Bowden, or Gary Danielson. Most Tiger fans have heard similar comments from many prognosticators heading into the 2004 season.

But the assessment of Clemson's current signal caller comes from none other than former Tiger and current Carolina Panther Brentson Buckner. Buckner has not only enjoyed a solid 10-year National Football League career, but he has also developed into one of the larger-than-life sports personalities in all of Pro Football.

Buckner, who is heading into his 11th season in the NFL, is an outspoken team leader of the Carolina Panthers. He was also a starter on the Panthers' Super Bowl team in 2003.

"I have always enjoyed working with the media," Buckner said after a recent Panthers' pre-season workout in Spartanburg. "I've been around players that don't like talking to the media. They see it as an obligation instead of an opportunity. When I say something, I say what I mean and I mean what I say. I think it is important that other players, coaches, and fans know that I'm confident in my abilities and my team's abilities."

Pete Yanity, who serves as sports anchor for News Channel 7 in Spartanburg, "Voice of the Tigers," and sideline reporter for the Carolina Panthers' pre-season television network, has added insight to Buckner's off-the-field commentary. When the Panthers advanced to last season's Super Bowl, Buckner carried a camcorder for Channel 7 to give the Upstate viewers a behind-the-scenes look from Houston.

"Brentson is a natural," said Yanity. "He is one of the first players requested after a practice or a game. It has been said by more than one media member that with Brentson all you have to do is turn the camera on and he will do the rest. Players like him make our jobs a lot easier."

Buckner has obviously made an impression, so much so that he served as a co-host of the NFL Network's Total Access show with Rich Eisen on several occasions during the off-season. "I like sitting in the studio and speaking my mind," said Buckner. "It was different in that I was interviewing the player or coach instead of answering the questions. You have to ask the questions in a way that is not insulting. You take yourself out of the question. That is the hardest part about it, because I am still a Carolina Panther."

Minter is one current teammate who sees Buckner making an easy transition from the field to the booth when his playing days are over. "I can see 'Buck' on ESPN or broadcasting games in a few years," said Minter. "Brentson is the type of guy who is not afraid to tackle a tough issue, and he is funny on top of that. With that combination, you have a shot."

As Buckner enters his 11th NFL season, he is already looking ahead. "I'd like to get to 15 years in the league. I've crossed the 10-year mark, which is a milestone. To play another five years and then move into broadcasting is something I have my eye on."

While Buckner has certainly seen his media exposure grow in recent years, he has always been a media favorite. A starting point dates to his sophomore season at Clemson in 1991, Clemson's last ACC Championship season.

Buckner, a native of Georgia, was less than impressed with Georgia's Sanford Stadium. When asked about playing between the 'hedges' he replied, "The 'hedges' are nothing but a bunch of twigs." Georgia upset the #6 Tigers that evening in Athens.

When we lost that game, a lot of people were asking if I regretted making those statements. I didn't regret them then and I don't regret them now. 'Hedges' don't play football...players do.

Buckner enjoyed a successful career as a Tiger. In his final game at Clemson, he recorded 13 tackles and led the Tigers to a 14-13 Peach Bowl victory over Kentucky. He was named Defensive MVP of that game. At the conclusion of his career, a 1993 season in which he was First-Team All-ACC, he was third in school history in career sacks, trailing only the Perry Brothers.

He still looks back on his days in Tiger-town with fond memories. "Winning the ACC Championship in 1991 is one of the things I remember the most," said Buckner. "We had such great players on that defensive unit."

Chester McGlockton, Levon Kirkland, Wayne Simmons, and Ashley Shepherd were just some of the stars of that Clemson team. "Playing on a defense like that was almost like playing for an NFL team."

A member of the Panthers since 2001, Buckner is able to keep a close eye on his Tigers. "When I played in Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, and San Francisco, it was hard to follow them closely," said Buckner of his career in the pre-internet days. "Playing in Charlotte lets me read about them in the paper or see them on television a lot more. It is hard to get down there for a game with our schedule, but I watch every game I can."

I was really proud of the way they finished last season, Clemson has a great chance to be at the top of the new Atlantic Coast Conference."

With a 56-player roster in the NFL, there is always the opportunity to verbally joust with his teammates who happen to be from schools his Tigers face on Saturdays. He still recalls watching the South Carolina game last year on ESPN.

"To score 63 points on your biggest rival, and to do it on the road says a lot," said Buckner. "It is interesting watching that game and wishing I was there. The South Carolina fans would not have liked me much that night."

When the Panthers training camp opened in late July, Buckner still had that South Carolina game fresh on his mind. "I talked Travelle Whiton, who played for the Gamecocks in 2003, on the receiving end of Buckner's barbs.

"I told Travelle not to even talk to me unless his team could keep it within 30 points," laughed Buckner. "That ended any conversation of Clemson-South Carolina with him."

It should not come as a surprise to hear Brentson Buckner make such comments. He has and will continue to be a reporter's dream.

Sanford Rogers worked in the Clemson Sports Information Office from 1988-93 and now works in sales in Greenville, SC.
In addition to excellent preparation in their majors, Clemson students gain “hands on” experiences in life skills that make a Clemson education unique.

They learn to think critically through individual research, collaborative work, laptop innovations, cutting-edge laboratories, studios and many other opportunities that engage them as active learners.

They learn to communicate clearly through the Pearce Center for Communication, its award-winning Communication-Across-the-Curriculum program and the new Class of 1941 Studio for Student Communication.

They learn to live ethically through the Rutland Center for Ethics with its multidisciplinary programs, forums, outreach and activities that help students deal with ethical issues they’ll face throughout life.

Did you know?
Clemson freshmen are 12th in the nation in SAT scores. And our graduation rate is 19th.

Celebrate Saturdays...

ACC Football on Jefferson Pilot Sports!

Each Saturday this fall tune in to Jefferson Pilot Sports’ weekly telecast of Atlantic Coast Conference Football.

ACC Football has a new look this year with the addition of the Miami Hurricanes and Virginia Tech Hokies. New teams mean new match-ups, and new match-ups mean new rivalries. Catch all the excitement of the new season on the Jefferson Pilot Sports’ ACC Game of the Week.

The 2004 Jefferson Pilot Sports ACC schedule kicks off Saturday, September 18, and includes 10 weeks of telecasts, concluding on November 20. Over 40 broadcast affiliates throughout the South bring the action-packed games right into your home!

Start your ACC Saturday celebration at noon (Eastern time) with the Jefferson Pilot Sports’ exclusive telecast of the ACC Game of the Week.

Games to be telecast are typically determined 12 days prior to the air date. Visit www.JPSPORTS.com throughout the season for up-to-date broadcast schedules and a complete listing of all affiliates.

This brief NCAA rules education is aimed at outlining basic recruiting rules to help potential students-athletes and parents better understand the process. Clemson University is committed to recruiting and conducting our athletic program with the highest level of integrity. If you have questions about NCAA rules, please contact compliance services at (864) 656-1580 or through our website at ClemsonTigers.com and click on compliance. You can also visit the NCAA’s website at NCAA.org.

Important NCAA Terms

Academic Credentials - A prospect should check with his guidance office to see if he is taking classes that will meet NCAA eligibility standards. A prospect should do this early – at the end of his sophomore year - and keep track of core courses. A prospect will need to take either the ACT or SAT for NCAA certification.

Contact - NCAA rules define a contact as a face-to-face interaction with a prospect and/or his parents off Clemson’s campus by a coach. The NCAA sets a contact period for football prospects from late November through the end of January. That is the only time coaches can meet with a prospect away from the Clemson campus.

Core Courses - Courses at a prospect’s high school that are considered college preparatory. For the class entering Clemson in 2005, 14 core courses are required, including four in English, two in math, two in science, one additional from English, math, or science, two social sciences, and three additional courses. For the class entering Clemson in 2008, 16 core courses are required, including four in English, three in math, two in science, one additional from English, math, or science, two social sciences, and four additional courses. A high school prospect’s guidance counselor will have a list of the school’s core courses, or you can visit the website NCAAClearinghouse.net for more information.

Evaluation - In April of a prospect’s junior year, coaches will come to a prospect’s high school, and review his academic and academic credentials with his coach. In the fall, they may watch a prospect compete only one time, but they will not have any contact.

Home Visit - During the contact period, a prospect may invite college coaches to his home to meet his parents, and to talk in detail about the football program and academic offerings at any college the prospect is considering.

Receiving Mail - When a prospect is in the ninth and 10th grades, NCAA rules allow Clemson to mail just a questionnaire and summer-camp brochure to a prospect. After September 1 of the prospect’s junior year, coaches can provide a prospect with the following: write personalized letters, send a media guide and copies of newspaper articles, and a schedule card. A prospect can receive a football game program when he visits the Clemson University campus.

Recruiting - A term used to describe the process of acquainting a prospect with a college and the coaches of that college, who are striving to learn more about a prospect. Only coaches can recruit - no one else can try and persuade a prospect to play sports at a particular college.

Prospect - Any student who has entered the ninth grade. Once a person becomes a prospect, NCAA rules define how college coaches can interact with that prospect.

Telephone - Clemson football coaches can call a prospect once in May of the prospect’s junior year. After September 1 of a prospect’s senior year, a coach can call a prospect once a week. A prospect can expect unlimited calls during the contact period, before his official visit and once the prospect has signed a National Letter of Intent.

Frequently Asked Questions

- Are a prospect’s parents invited for an official visit? Yes. NCAA rules allow a school to provide lodging and meals for parents or legal guardians who accompany their child on an official visit. However, NCAA rules do not allow schools to provide transportation for parents unless they drive with their son.

- Can a prospect visit Clemson anytime during his high school career? Yes. A prospect can have his high school coach call Tiger coaches to set up an unofficial visit. He can attend a football game and talk with Tiger coaches, and it does not count as a contact when it is on Clemson’s campus. There are times a prospect cannot visit - NCAA rules refer to them as “dead periods,” and coaches will not schedule to meet with a prospect during that time period.

- Can IPTAY members help recruit me? No. NCAA rules are clear; only Clemson coaches can telephone, contact, and evaluate a prospect. Only college coaches can offer unofficial and official visits.

- Is the prospect’s high school coach invited for an official visit? NCAA rules are such that high school coaches may not be provided any expenses for official visits.

- What is a National Letter of Intent (NLI)? It is like a contract; a prospect and his parents sign a promise that the prospect will attend a particular college. In return, that college promises a prospect financial aid. A prospect signs it during his senior year (in February for football). Once the prospect signs it, he cannot be recruited by any other school, and it is binding for the prospect’s first year in college. It is a binding commitment for the prospect and the school that offers it.

- What is IPTAY? IPTAY is an organization of Clemson fans. It generates financial support for the athletic department, and it is the best in the country! It has over 23,000 members.

- What is an official visit? After September 1 of a prospect’s senior year, he can take five official visits, which are expense-paid. Before the visit, the prospect must present a high school transcript and proof of an SAT, ACT, PACT, or PSAT test. Official visit invitations are extended by Tiger coaches only.

- What is the NCAA Clearinghouse? It is the agency that certifies a prospect’s eligibility for NCAA Division I and Division II. A prospect should register with the NCAA Clearinghouse at the beginning of his senior year in high school. Applications are available in the prospect’s guidance office. Cost is $30.

One of the most important facilities on the Clemson athletic landscape is the strength training facility. Located in the Jerev Athletic Center, it has continued to keep up with one of the most progressive areas in college sports. Head Strength Training Coach Joey Batson, who is in his eighth year as Clemson's director, makes sure Clemson student-athletes in all sports are ready for competition physically.

This past summer, he oversaw a third major facility enhancement. When he came to Clemson, the facility covered 11,000 square feet. It has continued to grow and now covers nearly 15,000 square feet. It is one of the most modern all-around facilities in the country.

In the summer of 2004, the following improvements were made:

- State-of-the-art sound system
- Seven flat-screen plasma televisions
- State-of-the-art ventilation system
- New lighting system
- 10 new multi-functional Clemson power racks
- Mondo-rubber flooring throughout entire weight room
- New orange upholstery on all weightlifting equipment
- New paint on surrounding walls and columns
- Carpeting in entrances and offices
- Front entrance drop ceiling
- Metal overlay for awards displays
- Reconstruction of entryway walls

The plush atmosphere provides an interesting contrast to the physical exertion that takes place within the facility. When a Tiger student-athlete enters the etched-glass doors, he is greeted by nearly $700,000 worth state-of-the-art equipment.

The seven plasma televisions are positioned throughout the facility and are used for training and instruction, as strength coaches film athletes and work with them on their form.

Clemson has a staff of four full-time coaches, four graduate assistant coaches, and numerous student assistant coaches who ensure a Tiger football player receives as much individual attention as possible. Training programs are position specific, and are designed to meet the specific needs of each student-athlete.

Batson is one of the most highly-regarded strength coaches in the country. In his seven years directing the program, he has coached 10 strength All-Americans. He is a major reason Clemson has been to a bowl in six of his seven years. Also, seven of his assistants at Clemson are now strength training directors at NFL or college programs.

When Clemson's football players returned to campus for the second session of summer school of 2004, they reported to a new football locker room and player lounge area within the Jervey Athletic Center. The 4,200-square-foot facility has all the modern conveniences, including a player lounge that includes seven plasma televisions and four computer work stations. The lounge also features murals that document Clemson's greatest players, greatest victories, and prominent former players who have gone on to the NFL.

The following is a rundown of some of the features of Clemson's new lounge and locker room area:

- The locker room area is divided into eight sections, with the lockers corresponding to each player’s uniform number. There are 115 lockers in all. Each section of the locker room is highlighted by a logo and picture of historical significance from a bowl game Clemson has played in. Each section also features large interchangeable action photos of recent Clemson players.
- Each player has a new mahogany locker that features a helmet storage area and a storage compartment below a padded seat. There is also a private lock box for personal items.
- Each locker features a large Tiger Paw that introduces the helmet storage area and a personalized name plate.
- The lounge area features seven plasma televisions, complete with split-screen capabilities. All are tied to a central video hub. The television area also contains an Academic Hall of Fame, complete with photographs and accomplishments of Clemson's academic All-Americans and award winners.
- The lounge also features four computer work stations to enhance communications capabilities with professors or advisors at Vickery Hall.
- One wall of the lounge contains a complete list (by team) of every former Tiger who has played in an NFL game. Another wall is a mural of Clemson's All-Century team (chosen in 1996 in conjunction with the 100th year of Clemson football).
- The entrance is dominated by a 30'x8' picture of Death Valley taken at night from Howard's Rock.
- The locker room and lounge areas also feature pictures from Clemson’s 13 ACC Championship teams and the 1981 National Championship team.
- The back of the locker room, which has a new exit to the practice field, features a picture of Clemson players running down the Hill and rubbing Howard’s Rock. It is the last image seen by each Clemson player as he heads to the practice field.

Oconee Memorial Hospital is the preferred provider of medical services for the Clemson Tigers.

Since its inception in 1991, the five-faceted Student-Athlete Enrichment Program has provided its student-athletes a continued commitment to excellence. Our approach is to address the total student-athlete, and we are committed to coaching our student-athletes to success (C.A.T.S.) not only in the athletic arena, but in the academic, personal growth, career, and service arenas as well. As an original member of the NCAA Life Skills/CHAMPS Program, we provide opportunities and services to address the changing needs and skills of student-athletes in the years during college and after graduation.

Clemson University’s commitment to provide its student-athletes with the very best of facilities is evident in a variety of ways. From the soaring upper decks of Memorial Stadium, to the “New Littlejohn Coliseum,” to the state-of-the-art strength training facility, young men and women from all 19 of the Tigers’ intercollegiate varsity sports have the very best in facilities for both training and competition on the field.

Vickery Hall is no exception, as the $3-million structure is as impressive aesthetically as any of the other facilities. But the importance of Vickery Hall to the Clemson University Athletic Department is not found in the structure itself, but in the many programs that the building houses.

Vickery Hall opened in the spring of 1991 and was the first facility in the country constructed solely for the all-around academic support of student-athletes. The two-story, 27,000-square-foot building is open all day and into the evening hours to accommodate the student-athletes’ extended schedules.

The mission of Clemson’s Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs is to monitor, guide, and encourage student-athletes to fulfill their long-term goals, and to achieve their academic and career potential.

Vickery Hall focuses on five primary areas to meet the student-athlete’s needs.

Academic Commitment

Clemson student-athletes earned a record 2.90 overall GPA, and a record 44 student-athletes were named to the President’s List (4.0 GPA) for the spring semester of 2004. A record 116 student-athletes were named to the Dean’s List, the sixth-straight semester at least 100 student-athletes were named to the Dean’s List (3.5 GPA or better). The 2.90 GPA broke the record of 2.85 set by the student-athletes in the 2002 spring semester. Seven athletic programs eclipsed the 3.0 mark, tied for the second-highest semester on record.

“I am thrilled to no end about this record-setting report,” said Phil Grayson, Clemson’s associate athletic director for student-athlete enrichment. “Being able to sustain the effort necessary to perform so well, while continuing their practice and competition schedules, is a feat that cannot be overstated. It energizes those of us who work in Vickery Hall to know that our student-athletes make academic achievement a priority.”

Clemson’s football program posted a 2.52 GPA for the semester, the third-highest on record. All three of the program’s 2.5-or-better semesters on record have come under Head Coach Tommy Bowden. Twenty-three Tiger football players earned a 3.0 or better, including starters Cole Chason, Tony Elliott, William Henry, Justin Miller, Eric Sampson, and Charlie Whitehurst. Elliott was an Academic All-District selection this past year and was the recipient of a Weaver-James-Corrigan Scholarship from the ACC. Henry joined Miller and Elliott on the ACC’s Academic All-Conference team. Henry also earned his master’s degree in December of 2003, giving him two degrees in just four and a half years.

The outstanding statistics have been a habit in recent years. The cumulative GPA of the athletic teams has improved 20 of the last 26 semesters, making a steady rise from a 2.33 in 1991 to the record 2.90 in the spring of 2004.

Athletic Commitment

Clemson had another outstanding all-around sports program for the 2003-04 academic year. Ten of the 11 teams that compete in dual-meet formats had a winning record, including eight teams that had a winning percentage of 60 percent or better. Three programs (golf, men’s track, women’s tennis) won ACC Championships, and five programs (golf, women’s soccer, football, men’s tennis, and women’s tennis) had top-25 final rankings.

Clemson was very successful against rival South Carolina. Clemson had a 12-3 record in head-to-head matches, meets, or games, including a 6-0 mark in women’s sports. Two of the losses were in baseball, but Clemson also had two victories in that sport against the Gamecocks. Nine of the 11 sports that play head-to-head with South Carolina had a winning victory margin during the season.

One can make a case that the April 16-18, 2004 weekend was the most successful in school history. Between those dates, Clemson won Atlantic Coast Conference Championships in men’s outdoor track, men’s golf, and women’s tennis. Additionally, the men’s tennis team reached the finals of the ACC Tournament by upsetting top-seeded North Carolina, and the baseball team took two of three games on the road at a top-10 North Carolina team.

Clemson’s teams competed at a high level, as nine of the 11 sports that compete in a dual-meet format had at least one win over a top-25 team. That list was led by the baseball team, who had nine top-25 wins. That program also had five wins over teams that reached the Final Four of the College World Series. The women’s tennis team had a school-record seven top-25 victories during the season. The overall program had 34 top-25 victories in 2003-04.

The performance of the Clemson tennis programs was certainly a highlight in 2003-04. Both programs reached at least the Elite Eight of the NCAA Tournament, and both teams posted 26 vic-

Personal Development Commitment

One of the most important programs that helps student-athletes reach their full potential and engage successfully in this college experience is the Personal Growth and Development Program.

One of the key components of this program is the first-year Freshman Transition class designed to assist the student-athlete in making a successful transition into his/her university and athletic life.

All first-year freshmen attend a semester-long series of workshops targeting the transitional issues of time management, organizational strategies, health and wellness issues, athletic issues, diversity issues, career orientation, and service training. Throughout the academic year, all student-athletes are required to attend four large-group programs, which focus on pertinent social, health, and athletic issues.

Service Commitment

Providing community and outreach service to student-athletes and the surrounding community by engaging the student-athletes in hands-on interactive programs is an important aspect of the Student-Athlete Enrichment Program. The staff of SAEP coordinates various activities each year to engage student-athletes in community outreach projects along with academic programs.

Another aspect of the service commitment is that of community service. The purpose of community service is to allow the student-athletes to become involved with the happenings of the community while giving back at the same time. Each year, every team is required to perform at least two community outreach projects. Recently implemented was a new community service program entitled “Success Away From The Game.” The purpose of this program is to combine athletes of different sports in community outreach programs. By doing this, each outreach program participates, thus creating a diverse group of athletes with new and different ideas. At the end of each year, six student-athletes who have demonstrated outstanding commitment and contributions to the community are recognized as the Top Six by the ACC.

To assist our student-athletes in becoming effective service leaders and communicators, we provide service and speaking training, which anticipates the demands placed on a student-athlete when he/she might be speaking with a group of young people with members of the media.

Brian Barnes

Baseball • 1986–89

At a diminutive 5’9” tall, few would guess that Brian Barnes was a Major League pitcher with one of the most successful college careers in history. Barnes pitched for the Tigers between 1986-89 and led the Tigers to three NCAA Tournament appearances. Then, the tournament was set up where only 48 teams were invited.

The 1989 season was a record-setting year for Barnes. He recorded his 16th victory of the season during the NCAA Regional, still a Clemson and ACC record for a single season. He led the nation with 208 strikeouts that year, also a Clemson best. He was named the ACC Player-of-the-Year and the ACC Tournament MVP, as Clemson won the tournament title. Barnes finished the season with a 16-3 record, a 2.22 ERA, and nine complete games. He allowed only 36 earned runs and 87 hits in 146.0 innings pitched. Both the American Baseball Coaches Association and Baseball America rewarded his statistical achievements with a first-team All-America selection.

The All-America honor was the second of Barnes’ career. Baseball America named him to the second team in 1988. That year, he compiled a 13-2 record and struck out 140 compared to only 62 walks. He had a 3.33 ERA in 137.2 innings pitched. The Tigers were 18-2 in ACC play that year en route to a regular-season conference championship and a final ranking of #15 by Baseball America. He was also a First-Team All-ACC selection in 1988.

The native of Roanoke Rapids, NC set 12 Clemson records and is listed among the top 10 in 12 other categories. Barnes also holds claim to five ACC pitching records. He became the first Tiger to win at least 10 games in three consecutive years. He finished his career with a 44-10 record, school and conference standards for wins. His 513 career strikeouts and 475.1 innings pitched are also top marks. The lefty became the only fourth pitcher in major college history to record 500 strikeouts. His total is still fourth-best in NCAA history.

After his stellar collegiate career, the Montreal Expos selected Barnes in the fourth round of the 1989 Major League Draft. He was called up to the Majors in September of 1990, his first full year of professional baseball. The Expos were in a tight pennant race for the East Division title and needed Barnes to pitch a crucial game. He faced the division-leading Pittsburgh Pirates in his debut on September 14, allowing only four hits and striking out nine. However, two of those hits were homers and belonged to a young Barry Bonds. Barnes played a total of five seasons in the Majors, with stints as a Cleveland Indian and a Los Angeles Dodger.

After 12 years of baseball, Barnes hung up his cleats three years ago. He returned to North Carolina and is in the car business these days. He enjoys spending his free time with his wife and three kids. The family comes back to Clemson at every opportunity. When asked about his best memories as a Tiger, the former pitcher described the influence that Coach Bill Wilhelm had on all the players. He learned about life, as well as baseball, from the coaching legend.

“Coming to Clemson was the best decision I ever made. It’s a great place to grow into your adulthood. There are always people looking out for you.”

Sara Burkett

Soccer • 1995–98

The Clemson lady’s soccer team has had unparalleled success since the program was born in 1994, and Sara Burkett has been one of the program’s most decorated members. Therefore, it is only fitting that she is the first women’s soccer player to be inducted into Clemson’s Athletic Hall of Fame.

As Clemson’s first highly-touted recruit, she was the Tigers’ first All-American in women’s soccer. She was named second-team All-American in the 1997 season as a junior by both the National Soccer Coaches Association of America and SoccerBuzz.com. Burkett also earned All-America honors in 1998. SoccerTimes.com named her to the first team in 1998, as well as in 1997. She was one of 10 Hermann Trophy finalists in 1997, the equivalent of football’s Heisman Trophy for collegiate soccer.

During her career at Clemson, the Lady Tigers finished each season ranked in the top 20 nationally. Burkett was a vital member in the success of those teams; she started 87 of 89 games over her career. As a freshman in 1995, the team was ranked #16 by the Intercollegiate Soccer Coaches Association of America and #15 by Soccer America. In 1996, Clemson finished as high as #11 in the polls. The 1997 team reached the Final Eight of the NCAA Tournament before falling to Santa Clara. They were ranked #10 in the final poll that year. The team defeated #4 William & Mary in the Clemson Invitational that season, and Burkett assisted the two goals in the 2-0 win. She also scored a goal in the Lady Tigers’ 2-0 victory over #5 Virginia at home.

The following year, the Lady Tigers finished the season with a #11 ranking in the final Soccer America poll. Burkett tallied 16 goals that year, giving her 38 for her career. She also had 36 assists during her four years. Her 114 points are second-most in school history, but were the most for a Clemson player at the time. Burkett holds the record for the most assists (12) as a junior and is listed among the top 10 in 12 total categories, including points per game and career goals.

The native of Florissant, MO, near Saint Louis, was a First-Team All-ACC selection all four years of her career. This is quite an accomplishment, as only 15 other student-athletes in Clemson history can make that claim. Burkett was also named to the All-Southeast Region team every year, earning first-team honors in 1995, 1997, and 1998, and second-team honors in 1996. She was named to the ACC’s 50th Anniversary Team in 2003, recognizing the best athletes in their respective sports.

After graduation, Burkett played for the Atlanta Classic of the USISL’s women’s league in 1999. The team advanced to the title game that year, but was defeated after many of their players had returned to their collegiate teams. She has remained in Atlanta and is currently a manager with Enterprise Leasing.

Coy Cobb

Swimming • 1981–85

Five-time All-American Coy Cobb is arguably the school’s greatest male swimmer of all time. He was one of only three Tiger swimmers to be named to the ACC’s 50th Anniversary team and was Clemson’s first ACC Swimmer-of-the-Year. He also represented the United States as a member of the national teams in 1984 and 1985. His 200m medley relay team set an American record in 1984 at an international meet in Brazil. Cobb recorded a second-place finish in the 100m backstroke at the same competition. At the 1985 international meet, Cobb placed in four events. He was also a finalist at the 1984 Olympic Trials in the 100m butterfly; he qualified in two other events. His time in the 100m fly at the meet was among the top 25 in the world.

The Maitland, FL native began swimming when he was six. By age 10, he had already earned national accolades as the best 10-year-old swimmer in the country by Swimmer’s World. However, the young star took a five-year break from the sport. He later returned to the pool with college in mind. Swimming was his ticket to a scholarship. He chose Clemson because it stressed school along with sports. He never regretted his decision and became a lifelong Tiger. His father describes him as being very modest about his personal achievements and always focusing on team goals. Both attributes made Cobb successful during his tenure as a Tiger.

The 1985 team finished 26th at the NCAA Championships, the highest finish ever for the men's swimming & diving program. Cobb earned NCAA All-America honors in the 100m butterfly and in the 100m backstroke by finishing in the top 12 in the nation at the NCAA meet. The 1985 team placed second at the ACC Championships and was even ahead by one point entering the final event. Cobb won three individual events and one relay title, as he had the fastest times in the 100m backstroke, 200m backstroke, 100m butterfly, and as a part of the 400m medley relay.

Cobb set numerous records and garnered countless honors from 1981-85. He was a three-year All-ACC selection after placing in the top three at the conference meet in 12 events. When he graduated, Cobb held four pool records and eight school records, including five individual and three relay. He set four school records during a single meet in 1983. Nine of his times were among the fastest in history by Clemson swimmers. Three of his pool records still stand today, and he is still listed among the top 10 in six different events. Cobb qualified for the NCAA Championships in 1983, 1984, and 1985 in eight total events. In addition to his two NCAA All-America awards in 1985, the swimmer earned national honors in three events at the United States Senior Nationals in 1982 and 1984.

Cobb graduated from Clemson with a degree in administrative management and took a position with Colgate-Palmolive, where he worked for 14 years. He competed with the Master's Swim Program in 1990, an organization for swimmers over 25 years of age. At the championship meet, he set a national record in the 50m butterfly and placed in four other events.

Cobb lost his battle with brain cancer on October 26, 2000, at his home in St. Petersburg, FL. The new record board at the recently renovated McHugh Natatorium was dedicated to his memory. His former teammates raised the money on their own to honor one of Clemson's best.

"His teammates described him as their 'go-to' guy," his father Edgar Cobb remembers. "They knew Coy would always come through."

The elder Cobb and Coy's sister (Grace) will accept his Hall of Fame award.

Stacy Long

Football • 1986-90

Stacy Long took a different route after the completion of his eligibility, but the road led him to a successful destination. He came to Clemson from Griffin, GA in 1986, but was academically ineligible in 1987.

He returned to Atlanta and worked the third shift loading trucks. The year spent in the workforce convinced Long to seek an opportunity to return to Clemson and to work harder in the classroom. He took full advantage of his second chance.

Long broke onto the scene in 1989 during a game at Florida State. He had 10 knockdown blocks, which takes the defender off his feet, against All-American Odell Haggins. Clemson defeated the Seminoles in Tallahassee that night. Clemson has not won in the state capital of Florida since.

Six weeks later, when Clemson played host to N.C. State, Long lined up against future All-American and ACC Defensive Player-of-the-Year Ray Agnew. He had seven knockdowns that game. He set a Clemson record for an offensive tackle with 69 knockdown blocks during the 1989 season and was named the ACC Lineman-of-the-Week four times. Long was a First-Team All-ACC selection in 1989 and 1990, and was the leading vote-getter for offensive lineman both years. The AP named him a third-team All-American in 1989, while Sporting News selected him to the first team that same year.

Long was a consensus All-American as a senior in 1990. He was also one of three finalists for the Outland Trophy. During the year, Clemson running backs averaged 255 yards per game, ninth-best in the nation, thanks to the holes Long created. The ACC tabbed him Player-of-the-Week twice in 1990. The first came after Clemson's 34-3 win over Georgia on October 6, when he had six knockdown blocks. He earned the honor for the second time the following week in a loss at 1990 National Champion Georgia Tech. Although the Tigers lost, the offense rushed for 290 yards against the Yellow Jackets' nationally-ranked defense.

Long recorded 141 career knockdown blocks during his career as a Tiger, a Clemson record for an offensive tackle. The Tigers rushed for over 300 yards in six games over Long's junior and senior seasons, including four in 1990.

Long was taken by the Chicago Bears in the 1991 NFL Draft and played two seasons before a knee injury ended his career. He returned to Clemson to finish his degree and now resides in the "Windy City," where he is a district manager for Home Depot. He and his wife (Stacy) have twin seven-year old boys (Austin, Colten).

The couple is involved in a fundraiser for Cystic Fibrosis each December. Long's former teammate and good friend Chuck O'Brien's twin sons suffer from the disease. In 1999, the O'Brien's were sponsoring a walk-a-thon to raise money for research and asked for their friends' help. The Long's goal was to raise $100 with donations from friends, but they ended up giving the O'Briens $800. The success gave them the idea to serve as host to a benefit in Chicago around Christmas time called the Holiday Hoopla. Choirs sing, local restaurants provide food, and businesses donate raffle items for the event. They have now raised over $18,000 for Cystic Fibrosis in just four years.

Long continues to make his presence known, and his induction into the Clemson Athletic Hall of Fame will create a lasting memory for all Tiger fans.

Clarence Rose

Golf • 1978-80

Although the Clemson golf program had much success and many All-Americans recently, the team's national heritage had to start somewhere. That somewhere was during Clarence Rose's time at Clemson. He was the first Tiger golfer to earn All-America honors, as he was named to the second team in 1980. The 1980 team, which he led as a senior, was the first team in Tiger history to play in the NCAA Tournament, as they finished tied for 12th.

Rose transferred to Clemson from Mount Olive Junior College prior to his junior year. He chose Clemson over golf pro tours. His recruiting visit to Tiger Town included a football game, and he decided he liked the campus and wanted to be a part of the Clemson family. Although he only played two years for the Tigers, he managed to gather plenty of awards in his short tenure. He was a First-Team All-ACC selection in both 1979 and 1980, the first two-time honoree in Tiger history. In the 14 tournaments that he played, Rose finished in the top 10 seven times. In 2003, he was named to the ACC's 50th Anniversary Team, honoring the sport's greatest players in conference history.

After his Clemson career, Rose progressed to the professional level, where he had exempt status on the PGA Tour for 16 years. He won his first title in 1966 at the Sprint International at Castle Pines (CO) Golf Club. He sank an eagle putt on the first playoff hole to capture the title over former Furan golfer Brad Faxon. Prior to the victory, Rose had six second-place finishes in PGA tournaments. The 1996 season was his best year on the tour, as he finished 41st on the money list. His total driving, a combination of rank in driving distance and driving accuracy, ranked 10th among PGA golfers.

The success came after a break from golf and a year on the Buy.com Tour. Rose's 18 month-old son had been diagnosed with cancer in the summer of 1990. The golfer played in only a few tournaments until 1995 to be with his son, who has since recovered. Rose spent 1995 on the Buy.com Tour, where he won the Pensacola Classic. He also claimed the JCPenney Classic with Amy Fruth of the LPGA in 1997. During his 16 (exempt) years on the PGA Tour, Rose finished in the top 10 at 26 different tournaments.

The first former Tiger to win over $1 million on the PGA Tour, Rose has returned to and made his home in Goldsboro, NC with his wife Jan and their two children, Clark (15) and Allison (14). He has spent the last few years being a traditional dad, but he has played in various tournaments and plans on joining the Senior PGA Tour when he turns 50. This past summer, he returned to Clemson to help with Head Coach Larry Penley’s golf camp. The two were roommates on road trips during Rose’s senior year.

Rose has started the Clarence Rose Foundation to help needy children in the Waycross, NC area. They have raised over $250,000 from four golf tournaments to give back to the kids of the county. The money helps to fund children’s organizations, health costs, and school needs.

Randy Scott

Football • 1975-78

Honors and awards seem to follow Randy Scott wherever he goes. The former Tiger football star and two-time All-ACC selection was named the 2003 Burdines Florida Teacher-of-the-Year.

After his career on the gridiron, Scott turned to the classroom and the sidelines. These days, he teaches seventh grade at PK Yonge Developmental Research School in Gainesville, FL, and coaches the varsity football and basketball teams. His teaching methods involve energetic, hands-on activities and are one of the reasons for his recent honor as the teacher-of-the-year. For example, he created a rap song for students to remember the bones in the human body; and through one of his units, students decreased the levels of pollution at a hazardous creek on the school campus. The curriculum received one of 50 National Service Learning awards. Because of the success of the program, Scott was invited to share the series at conferences in Washington, D.C. and San Francisco.

Scott is very involved with his students, and encourages educators, parents, administrators, and community members to work together to better their education system. He also takes part in the Parent Educational Empowerment Program Services, the Tutoring After-School Cooperatively Force, and the Science, Engineering, Communications, Mathematics Enrichment Consortium. Scott also organizes monthly cookouts to bring parents, administrators, and community and business leaders together.

While at Clemson, the linebacker led the team in tackles in 1976 and 1977 with 130 and 133, respectively. He followed those seasons with 134 in his senior campaign in 1978, second on the team after Bubba Brown’s 170 that year. He led the team in tackles for loss in 1976, 1977, and 1978, the first Tiger linebacker to lead the team in that category three years in a row and one of just two (Anthony Simmons) to accomplish that feat in school history.

The Waycross, GA native recorded 41 tackles for loss during his career, a school record at the time. He is still ranked among the top 10 in that category. Scott led the team in takeaways in 1976 and recovered fumbles in 1978. Affectionately known as “Mudbone” for his style of play, he was a First-Team All-ACC selection in both 1977 and 1978. He was elected to be a permanent team captain when he was only a sophomore, the school’s first sophomore to be honored with that leadership distinction.

Scott and his wife (Teresa) reside in Gainesville and have five children, three of whom are adopted. Their son Ian, a former defensive tackle at Florida, was selected by the Chicago Bears in the fourth round of the 2003 NFL Draft. Another son, Alk, also plays for the Gators.

Scott is currently working on his Ph.D. at Florida in Curriculum Educational Leadership, where he also earned his master’s degree.

Nicole Stafford-Lake

Tennis • 1984-88

Nicole Stafford-Lake came to Clemson with great expectations and delivered early in her career with two ACC Championships and an All-America honor in 1985, her freshman season.

The tennis star was the ACC champion at the #3 singles position and at the #2 doubles slot. In the conference tournament, she only went to three sets in her championship singles match. The doubles team did not lose a set as well. Stafford-Lake was 9-1 in ACC singles matches and had a 35-14 overall singles record that year. She finished her freshman campaign ranked #51 in the nation. The Tigers were crowned ACC Champions and were ranked #19 in the final poll.

Stafford-Lake was one of four freshmen to contribute heavily during the 1985 season. "Given that we were so young and inexperienced, the success was unexpected, but exciting," she recalled.

The team won its fifth consecutive ACC title in 1986 and finished the season ranked #8 in the country. Stafford-Lake secured her third ACC Championship individually and as part of the team title, in 1987. She and Ingegise Orehuis won the trophy as the ACC's #1 doubles team. They were both named to the All-ACC team and earned All-America honors. The duo had a 27-12 record for the season and was ranked #15 in the polls.

Stafford-Lake's senior year came to an abrupt conclusion. She suffered a hairline fracture in her back right before the ACC Tournament. The Gainesville, FL native was unable to add to her already remarkable list of accomplishments in the postseason due to the injury.

She completed her career with a 101-50 overall singles record, still the sixth-most victories in Clemson history. Her and Orehuis' nine wins in 1987 are the most three-set matches won as a team for a single season. Stafford-Lake is also listed among the top 10 in eight other statistical categories.

In her three ACC Tournaments, she did not lose a single match. She participated in the NCAA Singles Tournament in 1985, 1986, and 1987, and the team finished ranked in the top 25 nationally in all four years that she was a Tiger. Stafford-Lake was also named to the ACC's 50th Anniversary team in 2003.

Her best memories were the experiences of being a student-athlete and the friendships made with other athletes. She remembers the support of the men's soccer team and the players' knowledgeable, yet enthusiastic cheering.

Stafford-Lake, is a nurse at the Georgetown Medical Center in Washington, D.C., and she and her husband (Barry) live in Alexandria, VA.

"Hungry TIGERS Love Paw Paw John's"
Tiger Band
The 2004 Edition

By Dr. Mark Spede, Director of Bands

Clemson fans will welcome the 200-member Tiger Band (the largest since 2000) during pregame prior to the Wake Forest game. Pre-game festivities will contain all the traditional elements, including "Sock It To 'Em," "Tiger Rag," and the Clemson Alma Mater in addition to the patriotic elements of "God Bless America" and "The Star Spangled Banner." Pregame will conclude with the "most exciting 25 seconds in college football."

The halftime show is titled "Sketches of Spain" and includes "Captain from Castile" from the 1947 film composed by Alfred Neuman, "La Suerte de los Tontos" (The Fortune of Fools), as recorded by Stan Kenton, and closing with the famous "Malaguena." All evoke the different moods and excitement of Spain and its rich musical heritage. Tiger Band will perform for the north stands during halftime.

Tiger Band's new CD is now available! With 45 selections, "We're an American Band" contains a variety of music. Fans of Tiger Band will recognize many of their favorites, like "Eye of the Tiger" and the Clemson Alma Mater. The CD also contains other tunes that have not been heard for more than 50 years, such as "Tiger Rali" and "Clemson, All Hail," which were reintroduced to fans last year.

The university's patriotic spirit is also showcased. The CD features the band performing "God Bless America," "The Star Spangled Banner," and "America, the Beautiful."

This recording is the first Tiger Band CD in three years, and it contains music from the 2002 and 2003 seasons. From the 2002 tribute to New York City are the always popular "On Broadway" and "Rhapsody in Blue." Also included from that season are selections from the gospel show.

"Don't Cry for Me Argentina," "El Toro Caliente," and "Russian Christmas Music" are tunes from the 2003 World Tour show. Among the songs from the "Earth, Wind, and Fire" halftime show are "In the Stone," "Getaway," "September," and "After the Love is Gone."

"We're An American Band" also contains a set of cheers that we are calling a Clemson Pep Rally, which will be perfect for tailgating. Included in this set are cheers Tiger fans love to chant at critical points of a game, such as the first-down cheer and the third-down defense cheer. The new "Rage" defense cheer, introduced last season, is on the CD. This cheer was so popular that fans recorded it and posted it on the Internet. It has even been used on cell phones. Now, Clemson fans can get a studio quality recording of it from the CD for their personal use.

The CD also features spontaneous crowd chants and commentary by Tim Willis, the voice of Tiger Band. It is as close as one can get to being at an actual game without being there!

"We're an American Band" contains 45 selections and costs $17, plus $2 for postage. Proceeds from the sale of the CD go to the Clemson University Tiger Band Association's scholarship endowment program. To order copies, call the Clemson University band office at (864) 656-3380.

Clemson Alma Mater
Where the Blue Ridge yawns its greatness
Where the Tigers play
Here the sons of dear old Clemson
Reign supreme alway.

Chorus
Dear old Clemson, we will triumph
And with all our might
That the Tigers roar may echo
O'er the mountain height.

The 2003 Fall Finish

Clemson finished the 2003 season with four consecutive victories, the first time the Tigers accomplished that feat since the 1960 season when they won their last five games. What made it a landmark set of games was the margin of victory and the level of competition during the season-ending run.

If we had an NCAA football tournament now, Clemson probably would have been the #3 seed in the West Regional,” noted Charlotte Observer writer Ron Green, Jr. after Clemson’s victory over #6 Tennessee in the Peach Bowl.

As the chart below shows, Clemson defeated #3 Florida State and Bobby Bowden, the winningest coach in Division I coaching history, and #6 Tennessee, and former national championship coach Phillip Fulmer, during the four victories. Those represent two of the top-four, highest-ranked victories in Clemson football history.

In addition to those victories, Clemson downed arch-rival South Carolina 63-17 in Columbia, the most points Clemson has ever scored against the Gamecocks and the largest margin of victory for the Tigers against South Carolina since 1900. South Carolina is coached by Lou Holtz, another mentor who has won the national championship. Clemson also defeated Duke 40-7.

The 2003 Clemson team became just the second in school history to defeat two top-10 opponents in the same season. The only other Clemson team to accomplish that feat was the 1981 National Championship Tiger team, which had three top-10 victories.

Leroy Hill and the Tiger defense kept #6 Tennessee off the scoreboard in the second half en route to the 27-14 Peach Bowl win.

Tigers Enter 2004 on Four-Game Win Streak

Clemson is one of nine schools that will enter the 2004 season on a four-game winning streak. Over the last four games of the 2003 season, Clemson outscored its opposition by 108 points, or 27 points per game. Only Southern California equaled Clemson’s victory margin over the last four games of the season among the nine schools who won their final four games.

Tigers #8 in New York Times Computer

Clemson’s 4-0 finish brought it to a #8 final national ranking according to New York Times’s computer. The ranking was one of the computer rankings used in the BCS formula in 2003. Clemson made an 11-place jump in the rankings by virtue of its win over Tennessee in the Peach Bowl. The formula for the computer ranking puts a high priority on schedule ranking and how a team is playing at season’s end. Clemson was the highest-ranked team in the nation by the New York Times computer poll with four losses. The Tigers were ranked #22 in the final rankings according to AP and USA Today.

Other Notes of Interest on Clemson’s Finish

- Clemson scored 19 touchdowns over the last four games and allowed just six. That included a 10-1 margin in rushing touchdowns.
- Linebacker Leroy Hill was the top tackler for Clemson over the last four games with 43 tackles, which matches his uniform number.
- Head Coach Tommy Bowden and the Tigers defeated three of the top-12 winningest active coaches in Division I football (Phillip Fulmer (3rd), Bobby Bowden (4th), Lou Holtz (12th)).
- Bowden became the first coach in history to defeat two coaches in the same month who had already reached at least 200 wins (Bowden, Holtz).
- Quarterback Charlie Whitehurst joined former Tiger Homer Jordan as the only Clemson quarterbacks to start two victories over top-10 teams in the same season. During the last four games, Whitehurst completed 84 of 133 passes for 1,151 yards and eight touchdowns. That is a 63.2 completion percentage and 288 passing yards per game. He also gained 306 yards per game in total offense during the four-game run.
- Running back Chad Jasmin was also important in the streak, as he gained 307 yards rushing in 58 attempts, a 5.3 average. He scored four touchdowns in the victory at South Carolina and was named the Offensive MVP of the Peach Bowl.

Notes on Clemson’s Fall Finish

- Clemson finished the 2003 season with four consecutive victories, the first time the Tigers accomplished that feat since the 1960 season when they won their last five games. What made it a landmark set of games was the margin of victory and the level of competition during the season-ending run.
- The 2003 Clemson team became just the second in school history to defeat two top-10 opponents in the same season. The only other Clemson team to accomplish that feat was the 1981 National Championship Tiger team, which had three top-10 victories.
- Clemson’s 4-0 finish brought it to a #8 final national ranking according to New York Times’s computer. The ranking was one of the computer rankings used in the BCS formula in 2003. Clemson made an 11-place jump in the rankings by virtue of its win over Tennessee in the Peach Bowl. Clemson was the highest-ranked team in the nation by the New York Times computer poll with four losses. The Tigers were ranked #22 in the final rankings according to AP and USA Today.
- Ben Hall caught a 39-yard touchdown pass in the first quarter at South Carolina. It was one of nine touchdowns the Tigers scored in the 63-17 win at Williams-Brice Stadium.

The 2004 Clemson Men’s Soccer team is looking forward to a successful season. With a healthy roster, as well as key newcomers, Head Coach Trevor Adair believes this team can bring the Tigers back into contention for an Atlantic Coast Conference Championship.

"Overall, this team features no real superstars, but a lot of solid players," said Adair, who is in his 10th season at Clemson. "A team like that can accomplish a lot. This team will be able to get us back to where we need to be - ranked in the top 10 and challenging for a spot in the Final Four."

One key player needed to help Clemson back to its old form is senior Steven Rhyne, who missed all of the 2003 season with a knee injury. While Rhyne will be called on to produce offensively, Adair looks for the fifth-year senior to have his greatest impact from a leadership standpoint.

"One of our strengths entering the season is a healthy Steven Rhyne," said Adair. "Not having him last year hurt us in many ways. We lost a lot of pace, a very technical player, and a very good attacking midfielder. Having Steven back has made a big difference."

Though Clemson lost six senior starters off its 2003 team, Adair thinks the young players will be able to contribute to the team success this season. "Last year, we had a big senior class, but at the same time we had a lot of young players. This year, all those players have had a year to develop, and they did well enough in the spring to compete again in the conference and win some of the close games. We’ve got good depth this season. We have a great recruiting class coming in to add to that depth."

One area to improve upon this season is offensive production. In 2003, the Tigers were only able to manage 30 goals in 20 games. This season, Adair hopes to have a more potent attack.

"One of our strengths will be our ability to attack. Players like James Georgoff, Stuart Holden, Rhyne, Charlie Roberts, and Olatomiwa Ogunsola have been able to develop an attacking relationship that will make us more potent offensively. We shouldn’t have to worry about manufacturing goals like we did at times last year."

Roberts, a senior, will be one of Clemson’s leading forwards in 2004. Like Rhyne, Roberts was injured for much of the 2003 season, but he came on strong at the end of the year, tallying five goals and two assists. He earned ACC Player-of-the-Week honors for two consecutive weeks.

"Charlie has filled the role of the attacking player who can play well with his back to the goal and combine with people," said Adair. "Steven and Stuart offer him great options. Stuart had an outstanding freshman year, then he earned experience with the US U-20 National Team. He is a very dynamic player who can score and set up goals."

One surprise in 2003 according to the coaching staff was the emergence of Holden as a key contributor. Unfortunately, he suffered a broken arm during the season. He is back healthy in 2004.

"We thought Stuart would not develop until his sophomore year; but as a freshman, he stepped in and showed he was one of the best players in the conference," said Adair. "When he got hurt, we missed him dearly. He brings a lot of flair to our team. I know that the players enjoy playing with him because of his ability to hold the ball and get others involved.”

Clemson’s midfield does not return many experienced players. Kenny Cutler, a First-Team All-ACC selection in 2003, along with 2003 starter Paul Souders, have graduated. Junior Brad Gibson and senior J.D. Brooks will anchor the midfield.

"Losing Kenny will hurt because he was such a distributor in our system," said Adair. "He always knew where to put the ball. Brad Gibson has been elevated from a red-shirt year and has established himself as a good defensive midfielder. J.D. Brooks will get some action in the midfield."

“We will also have some freshmen pushing for playing time as well. Mark Buchholz can fill in the defensive midfield role, as can Kevin Howell. We are going to have quite a few options. Brad and J.D. performed very well in the midfield and have solidified positions. Olatomiwa can play out on the flank, as can incoming freshmen Danny Poe, Ryan Roushandel, and Nathan Sturgis.

“We have balance in the midfield, something we lacked last year when Steven (Rhynne) and Charlie (Roberts) were injured.”

As long as the “injury bug” does not spread through the team, the defensive third may be the most consistent area for Clemson this season. Returning starter and senior Landy Mattison and junior Justin Moore, last season’s starting defensive midfielder, will anchor the central defense. The strength increases with the addition of Sturgis, a starting defender on the United States U-20 National Team along with transfer Randy Albright. Justin and Landy will anchor the center defense," said Adair. "Nathan Sturgis looks good in the back. He was the starting left back for the U-20 National Team even though he was only 16-years-old. We played against him in the spring, and he can get up and down the left side. He is also a great crosser of the ball."

The right back position is up for grabs. We may look at J.D., a couple of freshmen, or Randy Albright, a guy who transferred in this spring. Albright is 6'3" with a great engine. He was a big surprise. He can run all day and is a big, athletic kid. We are not as deep in the back. If we were to have any injuries, we would have to rely on some freshmen, or maybe push J.D. back to the back; but we have a lot of guys that can fill in."

Clemson also has a solid goal-keeper, returning both Phil Marfuggi and Hunter Gistrap, who split time in goal during 2003. Adair expects the two to battle for playing time during the 2004 campaign.

"Phil and Hunter are both back after good seasons in 2003," said Adair. "We will wait until pre-season to determine who will be the starter in goal. You like two guys pushing each other and battling for the goalkeeper spot."

Adair believes this season’s freshman class to be among the best in the nation, with some expected to contribute immediately.

“Our freshmen have a good balance of size and technical ability. We have some good pace. If we could get three or four of them to contribute this season, we may look at red-shirting some others. We have good size, which will help at the end of the season to finish strong. The recruiting class addresses a lot of our needs, so we will just need to see how quickly they can adjust.”

Though the 2004 Tigers may not feature many All-America candidates, Clemson expects to compete for the ACC title by working well together to score goals and featuring a tough, stingy defense.

“Our chemistry appears to be very good, with not a very wide gap between the freshmen and the seniors,” said Adair. “We don’t have high-profile players, but we have a lot of solid guys who work well for each other and like the style we play.”

Add Clemson's IPTAY Student-Athlete-of-the-Year Award to the list of accolades that Gisele Oliveira has earned over the last three years. Entering her final season of collegiate competition, the senior from Porto Alegre, Brazil already ranks among the most decorated Clemson women's track & field athletes of all time. She is a multiple NCAA All-American, Academic All-American, ACC Champion, and All-ACC team member, and ranks among the nation's elite in the triple jump.

The IPTAY Student-Athlete-of-the-Year Award is presented to the top all-around student-athlete at Clemson and is presented by the family of Gene Willimon, the longtime Executive Secretary of IPTAY, who passed away two years ago. As you will see, Oliveira fits the bill as an all-around student-athlete; she was the only athlete to earn academic and on-the-field All-America honors in 2003-04.

With the 2004 IPTAY Student-Athlete-of-the-Year accolade, Oliveira joins an elite group of former Tiger student-athletes to attain this honor. She is the second Lady Tiger track & field athlete to earn the honor, as Lisa Dillard was chosen as the 1990 honoree. Dillard was later inducted into the Clemson Hall of Fame, only the fourth track & field Lady Tiger to earn that honor. On the track, Dillard was a four-time All-American and an eight-time ACC Champion while earning a degree in PRTM.

After only three years, Oliveira is closing in on Dillard's outstanding accomplishments, as she has already earned four All-America honors and is a four-time ACC Champion. Oliveira has set the standard for future Lady Tiger student-athletes both on the track and in the classroom. A model student-athlete, Oliveira owns a 3.95 GPA in management, while leading the ACC and ranking among the nation's best in the long and triple jumps.

In addition to her four track & field All-America accolades, Oliveira is an academic All-American. A two-time academic All-American honoree, she has earned the distinction from the United States Track Coaches Association as well as from CoSIDA. Oliveira is the second track & field Lady Tiger to garner the CoSIDA honor, as Tina Krebs, Clemson's only track Ring of Honor member, claimed the accolade in 1986. To further emphasize the extent of this accomplishment, only 23 Clemson student-athletes have earned this honor since Lou Cordleone, a football player, was the first recipient in 1959.

That elite list includes former football players Steve Fuller, Kyle Young, and Chad Carlson, men's basketball standout Bobby Conrad, swimmers Jennifer Mihalik and Liz Dulan, and current PGA golfer Jonathan Byrd to name a few. Should Oliveira claim the accolade again in 2005, she would become only the seventh Tiger student-athlete to achieve dual CoSIDA Academic All-America honors.

Her four NCAA All-America honors are the most earned by any women's track & field athlete in the horizontal jumps. She is the only Lady Tiger to earn more than two All-America certificates in the triple jump, and she is on pace to tie the Lady Tiger field-event all-time record of six All-America honors earned by Janine Moton, a thrower for the Lady Tigers from 1999-02.

"Head Coach Marcia Noad has witnessed Oliveira's growth and determination firsthand as her event coach. A former long jump All-American at Clemson, Noad attributes Oliveira's success to her determination and goal-oriented lifestyle.

"Gisele is one of the most focused student-athletes that I have ever encountered," said Noad. "She sets her goals high and sticks to the track and in the classroom. Very few student-athletes can actually set such high goals, and actually achieve or surpass them. She is truly a 'leader by example' of what can be achieved with high levels of hard work... just think, she hardly knew how to speak English when she first arrived here (that was the only semester that she did not achieve a 4.0 GPA). Additionally, she has been an All-American in at least one event each year since she has been here."

Oliveira gave notice of her triple-jumping ability as a freshman in 2002, when she went to Baton Rouge, LA and earned her first All-America honor outdoor. She posted a mark of 43.05" in the final, tying Clemson's all-time record in the event.

As a sophomore in 2003, Oliveira made track & field history as the first Lady Tiger to earn All-America accolades in the long jump and triple jump in the same year, let alone at the same national meet. In fact, only one other Lady Tiger, Nanette Holloway (1989-92), has earned the national honor in both events during her career. Oliveira finished third in the triple jump, setting a then-Clemson and ACC record of 44.6". That finish was the highest ever by a Clemson jumper, and she became the ninth Lady Tiger to finish among the top three in any outdoor NCAA event. In the long jump, Oliveira took eighth place with a leap of 20.575". She completed the 2003 NCAA Championships as the only Lady Tiger in Clemson history to earn All-America honors in two outdoor field events in the same year. In 2004, Oliveira continued her record-setting performances, breaking her own ACC triple jump record with a mark of 44'10.75" set at the NCAA East Region Championships, then repeated the feat in the finals of the NCAA Outdoor Championships. She claimed the East Region title with that mark, and took third place in the triple jump at the national event for the second consecutive year.

With that finish, she became only the third Lady Tiger to finish in the top three of a NCAA individual event final at least twice during her career. Krebs, a two-time NCAA Champion, finished among the top three on five occasions, while Moton, another NCAA Champion, was also a five-time, top-three finisher. Following the NCAA Championships this past season, Oliveira continued competing internationally and bettered her personal-best performance to a mark of 45'4.25".

1. What former Wake Forest coach owns the record for the most opposing coaching victories in Death Valley without a loss? (He is 4-0 against Clemson.)
   A) Bill Dooley  B) Al Groh  C) Tom Harper  D) Peahead Walker

2. Only two opposing coaches have brought three different teams into Death Valley. One is Bobby Ross, who brought The Citadel, Maryland, and Georgia Tech to face the Tigers at Clemson. Who is the other coach to do it? (Hint: He brought teams from North Carolina, Virginia Tech, and Wake Forest to face the Tigers.)
   A) Paul Amen  B) Bill Dooley  C) Al Groh  D) Chuck Mills

3. When Clemson defeated Wake Forest 82-24 in 1981, what Clemson running back raced 72 yards for a touchdown on his first college carry? (He wore #44 that day, but no one in the press box knew who he was when he crossed the goal line.)
   A) Wilbur Bullard  B) Craig Crawford  C) Stacy Driver  D) Otis Lindsey

4. The Clemson record for rushing attempts by an individual in a single game in Death Valley is 36, set in 1969 against Wake Forest. What former Tiger set this record, leading Clemson to a 28-14 victory?
   A) Buddy Gore  B) Smiley Sanders  C) Charlie Waters  D) Ray Yaeger

5. What Tiger quarterback completed 13-18 passes for 193 yards and two touchdowns in Clemson’s 28-20 victory over Wake Forest on his birthday, November 1 (1986)?
   A) Randy Anderson  B) Mike Eppley  C) Chris Morroco  D) Rodney Williams

6. What Tiger running back established a Clemson single-game record for all-purpose running with 274 yards in that same 1986 victory at Winston-Salem?
   A) Terrence Flagler  B) Kenny Flowers  C) Tracy Johnson  D) Ray Williams

7. What Clemson kicker booted a 52-yard field goal against Wake Forest in 1997, the last time a Tiger kicker made a field goal of at least 50 yards?
   A) Aaron Hunt  B) Tony Lazazza  C) David Richardson  D) David Treadwell

8. In 1959, what Wake Forest defender ran 69 yards for a touchdown with an intercepted pass in Death Valley? (Hint - He has the same first and last name as a former Clemson athletic director, but they are not related.)
   A) Bill McElhaney  B) Terry Don Phillips  C) Bobby Robinson  D) Bud Saunders

9. When Clemson defeated Wake Forest 82-24 in 1981, the Tiger mascot did 456 pushups. Who was the mascot who lost nearly 10 pounds in his Tiger costume that day?
   A) George Bennett  B) Ricky Capps  C) Jon Potter  D) Will Sykes

10. Clemson has 53 victories in its series with Wake Forest, second among all opponents. What school has Clemson defeated the most (61) over its football history?
    A) Furman  B) North Carolina  C) N.C. State  D) South Carolina

11. What Clemson defensive back had three interceptions against Wake Forest in 1965, the first Tiger in history to record three interceptions in a single game?
    A) Jacky Jackson  B) Kil Jackson  C) Phil Marion  D) Wayne Page

12. Who is the only coach to serve as a coordinator at Clemson and a head coach at Wake Forest?
    A) Tom Harper  B) Lawson Holland  C) Ellis Johnson  D) Whitey Jordan

13. What Clemson athletic Hall of Fame member was offensive line coach under Bill Dooley at Wake Forest?

14. What Wake Forest quarterback had a 242.5 pass efficiency rating against Clemson in 1988, still the highest rating by any opposing quarterback in Tiger history (given a minimum of 15 attempts)?
    A) Mike Elkins  B) Gary Schofield  C) Norm Snead  D) Jay Venuto

15. Clemson won the ACC title in 1982 with a 21-17 win over Wake Forest. Where was the game played?
    A) Beijing, China  B) Clemson  C) Tokyo, Japan  D) Winston-Salem

16. Mark Packer, a Clemson graduate and host of the syndicated radio program 'Primetime with the Packman' is the God Son of what former Wake Forest football legend?
    A) Skeeter Francis  B) Bill George  C) Brian Piccolo  D) Norm Snead

17. The top two punters in the ACC during the 1981-84 era were Clemson’s Dale Hatcher and Wake Forest’s Harry Newsome. Both continued their careers in the NFL, but few realize they attended the same high school in South Carolina. What high school did they attend?
    A) Cheraw High  B) Greenville High  C) Irmo High  D) Seneca High

18. Clemson defeated #14 Wake Forest 31-0 in 1979. What Tiger linebacker had a 17-yard interception return for a touchdown to turn the momentum of the game in Clemson’s favor?
    A) Bubba Brown  B) Jeff Davis  C) Chuck Rose  D) Danny Tripplett

19. What Tiger lineamen blocked a Wake Forest extra point with under a minute left to preserve a 13-12 Clemson victory in 1950?
    A) Tom Barton  B) Bill McElhaney  C) Bob Patton  D) Phil Prince

Tim Bournet is a former Clemson athlete and current Director of Athletics. He is in his 27th year at Clemson.

20. What All-American on Clemson’s 1981 National title team went to high school in Winston-Salem, home of Wake Forest’s campus?

A) Jeff Bryant  B) Jeff Davis  C) Terry Kinard  D) Perry Tuttle
By Tim Bourret

When Clemson played at Florida State on November 4, 2000, the normal ear-piercing pregame show stood still just prior to the national anthem when a moment of silence was held for Clemson Sports Information Director Emeritus Bob Bradley, who had just passed away the Monday prior to the game. That’s right, the road team had a moment of silence for “Mr. B.” It spoke volumes of the respect level Bradley had across the conference, and it also spoke volumes of the level of class of the Florida State athletic department.

I thought about that “Seminole Moment” when Marvin “Skeeter” Francis passed away this past July 6, after his heart gave out after 82 years. The former Wake Forest sports information director died during surgery to implant a pacemaker, a deemed necessity by doctors after he had nearly passed out while playing golf just four days earlier.

I usually do not write columns about the opposition in “The Last Word,” but for this week I will make an exception. If Mr. Bradley was still alive, he would be writing this column, and I guarantee it would be about Skeeter.

Since I arrived at Clemson in 1978, I have been very fortunate to have some outstanding mentors in the sports information profession. Bradley, for whom I worked as an assistant from 1978-89, would obviously be at the top of the list. I could not have had a better boss. He was the consummate gentleman and the most respected person I have ever known in the profession.

A second gentleman I would single out as a personal mentor would be Joe Blair. He served with distinction in this profession for nearly 40 years at Maryland and with the Washington Redskins. I first met Joe when I was a graduate assistant at Notre Dame, and our friendship continued when I came to Clemson. One stat will tell you all you need to know about Joe Blair. Over his career, nine Terrapin or Redskin football players named a son after him.

I first met Skeeter Francis when he was working for the Atlantic Coast Conference as its assistant commissioner for media relations. He had been the sports information director at Wake Forest between 1955-68, then succeed Gene Corrigan in the media relations position with the ACC. Skeeter worked in that position until 1989, the same year Bradley retired from Clemson.

But neither man really retired; they remained fixtures in their respective jobs until the day they died. In fact, Francis was still the voice of the Skeeter Francis Football Press Box at Wake Forest, and last year, the last Demon Deacon victory he called was a 45-17 win over Clemson. He celebrated his 82nd birthday on January 10, 2004 by working the Clemson-Wake Forest basketball game as the TV timeout coordinator.

Skeeter had a positive impact on many people in the SID profession, coaches, student-athletes, and especially those in the media. An example of a student-athlete and member of the media he helped was Billy Packer, who has been the most recognized voice of the NCAA Basketball Tournament since 1975.

When Francis died, the service was fittingly held at the Wait Chapel on the Wake Forest campus, just a couple of blocks from Francis’ on-campus home. Packer was one of three people who gave a eulogy, and during his emotional talk he told how he got his start in broadcasting.

One day in February of 1974, Packer got a phone call from Francis, who had been the sports information director at Wake Forest when Packer led the Demon Deacons to the Final Four in 1962. Francis asked Packer if he wanted to drive with him to that night’s N.C. State-Maryland game in Raleigh.

This was the 1973-74 season when N.C. State had David Thompson and Tom Burleson, and Maryland had Len Elmore, Tom McMillan, and John Lucas. The first game between the two teams had been decided on a buzzer shot by Thompson on Super Bowl Sunday in College Park, and both were still ranked in the top five in the nation.

It was an easy decision for Packer. “What time are you going to come by?” Skeeter said he would come by at 3:00 PM for the two-hour drive to Raleigh from Winston-Salem. Packer thought it was a little early for an 8:30 game, but he figured Skeeter must have some duties to perform prior to tipoff.

When Packer and Francis got to the game, they went straight to the TV truck. “I thought this was great,” Skeeter was going to show me how a game is put on TV, some real behind-the-scenes stuff.”

Both men entered the truck, where Skeeter introduced Packer to C.D. Chesley, the founding father of ACC sports on television and the entire syndicated sports television industry for that matter.

Chesley talked with Packer for a few minutes and finally turned to Francis and said, “So he’s the guy, Skeeter?” Skeeter nodded his head. A confused Packer said, “What are you talking about?”

Francis then told Packer that he was going to do to the color commentary that night for the N.C. State-Maryland game. Francis feared that Packer might have second thoughts if he gave him advanced notice. He told Packer to go to the bathroom and fix his hair (he had more then) and to get both team’s stats so he could prepare for the broadcast. He had 90 minutes until tipoff. At this point, he had not even met Jim Thorpe, who would be his partner on ACC telecasts for the next 15 years.

That is how Billy Packer got his start in broadcasting. A year later, he was working the national title game between UCLA and Kentucky for NBC.

This is probably the most dramatic example of the impact Francis had on someone’s career, but there are many more. We do not have enough room on this page to document them all.

Francis is a legend in the history of Wake Forest and the ACC. He, along with the aforementioned Bradley and Blair, were behind the scenes, hard-working men who brought their schools and conference to the forefront by telling the legendary stories or their school’s student-athletes and coaches.

Fans at this afternoon’s game will be rooting for either Clemson or Wake Forest. The reason you love these institution’s athletic teams is because of what you know of the the school’s personalities, traditions, the thrilling victories, and overall accomplishments.

You know about them because of Bradley and Francis.

Somewhere above they will be watching today’s game together for the first time in four years. Both were in the Bob Bradley Press Box for the Tigers’ 55-9 victory over Wake Forest early in 2000, the last time they saw an athletic event together.

With all the stories they will be telling, I hope they have a chance to pay attention to today’s game.

Francis celebrated his 82nd birthday prior to the Clemson-Wake Forest basketball game in Winston-Salem on January 10. As media relations director at Wake Forest and for the ACC for nearly 40 years, he had a positive effect on the heritage of every ACC school.

Clemson and Wake Forest fans know of their school’s athletic heritage because of the efforts of Skeeter Francis (left) and Bob Bradley (right). Former Duke SID Ted Mann is also pictured.

Team up with the stores of the Carpets of Dalton campus. It's a truly unique shopping experience!

If it goes on the floor, Carpets of Dalton has it. We have the finest products at the best prices. And our people will help you make the right decision for YOUR needs. The nation's largest floor covering store.

American Home Showplace is the nation's finest furniture store. Our interior designers can help you with furniture, kitchen and bathroom cabinets, accessories, ceiling fans, lighting, and electronics.

The largest Broyhill Showcase Gallery is at Buy The Room.

And outdoor kitchens and fireplaces, grills, and patio furniture are displayed like no where else at the all new World of Outdoor Living.

Now open 7 days a week including Sundays 1 until 6 p.m.
