TIGERS REGAIN HIGH GRID POSITION WITH 12 TO 0 VICTORY OVER FLYING SQUADRON

"Goat" McMillan Leads Smashing Offense Against Virginia Cadets

Turning loose the fury of a true "Prince of the Jungle" on a fighting, but helpless, V. M. I. eleven at Lynhburg last Saturday afternoon, the Yellow Peril of Clemson College came out at the big end of a 12 to 0 score. The "Flying Cadets" of Virginia Military Institute were never able to cope with the powerful, overwhelming drive of Cody's men, the pent up wrath and humiliation of the Tigers, suffered by them from the stinging defeat handed down at the hands of Ole Miss a week ago, being released full force on the "high fliers."

While the orange clad players were unfolding one of their best specimens of intercollegiate football the flying squadron from V. M. I. was in a hopeless daze. Barnes, the "Lindbergh" of the squadron, couldn't take off on a long distance flight as had been the case in all the other games of the Virginia team this season. V. M. I. found that on the ground the Tiger team was a barrier that could not be moved and when they finally got in the air they had a most deadly anti-aircraft gunner to contend with in the person of O. K. Pressley, a roving center, captain of the Clemson eleven and a bulwark of defense in the line. From his performance in this game alone, Pressley earned the reputation of being the best center in the south at forward pass defense.

On the offense Covington, "Goat", McMillan literally showed his heels to the boys from around Lexington. It is well to mention that he also gave these same men a few pointers on the art of forward passing ere the final whistle was blown. At the matinee in the college chapel, Mac was accorded a new nickname, that of "Nine-yard McMillan". From the reports on the game about the only time that he didn't gain 9 yards on a play was the time that he stepped off about thirty on an end run.

Neither team scored in the first half, tho Clemson piled up 11 first downs to one for their opponents. However, in the third period the parade started in earnest. Guy Davis recovered a V. M. I. fumble near the middle of the field. Here "Goat" opened up, tearing great, gaping holes in the cadet line almost at will. Carrying the ball first on the right side of the line then on the left, he soon had the pigskin resting on the 4 yard line, but not for long as he went over for the first touchdown on the next play. The try for extra point fell short of its mark and the score stood 6 to 0.

Just as the third quarter was ending, Pitts snatched a forward pass, thrown by Barnes, in a most intercepting manner, and from his own 20 yard marker carried the ball to within 47 yards of the enemy goal. Immediately after the final quarter started McMillan tossed a pass to Padgett for mere matter of 27 yards. After two attempts at the line Mac tossed another pass,

T. M. CLYBURN HEADS TIGER RIFLE TEAM

Range is Improved For Use by Marksmen

Efforts are being made toward the organization of another Tiger team that will endeavor to make a brilliant record as has the football team. However, this aggregation will seek honors in another field than athletics. This Clemson organization that is now practically ready to be whipped into shape is the rifle team which will be tutored by Lieutenant Johnson.

Recently a great increase in enthusiasm has been manifested; this manifestation has prompted approximately sixty cadets to express a desire to compete for positions among the picked riflemen. Some of these men have had experience in this line, while others desire to test their ability.

The officers elected to lead this year's marksmen are: Clyburn, T. M., Captain; Dorsett, H. W., Manager; Ray, C. E., Range Officer; and Hair, H. B., Supply Officer. These men are all energetic and capable. Their efforts thus far have resulted in improvements on the local range. The rubbish has been cleared away, and the range has been enlarged. Other efforts are being made to increase the efficiency of the local facilities. Plans have been made to begin the actual practice at an early date.

SEVENTY-FIVE GIRLS TO PRESENT MINSTREL

Anderson College Town Girls Club Will Give "Cotton Blossoms"

On Friday evening, Nov. 16 at 8:00 The Town Girls Club of Anderson College will present in the college chapel a minstrel entitled "Cotton Blossoms". This club consists of seventy-five beautiful young girls, many of them are talented dancers.

An interesting attraction of the minstrel will be a hot dance number by Erma Emerson, a little seven-year-old negro girl.

Although the program given every year by The Town Girls Club is considered a success, the 1928 minstrel is looked upon as the best ever staged. It was presented last Friday evening at Anderson and met with favorable comment. An Anderson paper states as follows: "The entire performance was one of beauty, tuneful songs, and witty repartee. Already requests have been made to have it repeated."

The Clemson Dramatic Club makes it possible for us to have the opportunity of seeing such an entertainment for the moderate price of twenty-five cents. Doubtless eager throngs will pack the college auditorium Friday evening.

REPRESENTATIVE OF ORIENT MAKES TALK

S. C. Leung, Chinese Native, Makes Inspiring Address in Chapel

Mr. Holtzendorf in introducing Mr. S. C. Leon, a native of China, and the National General Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., with headquarters at Canton, China, said, "Everybody admires a man of intelligence, character, and courage, both moral and physical." Those who were fortunate enough to hear the talk given by the secretary had many reasons to admire him.

The native of the Far East became interested in the Y. M. C. A. in a Baptist Mission School printing shop some twenty years ago. He has been national secretary for the past ten years and came to the United States last year to take training. His professor at the Nashville school said Mr. Leon was one of the few students to whom he felt compelled to give A's in his school work.

This man of the Orient, dressed in a dark blue wool shirt and a gray ankle length checked skirt, representative of his native costume, opened his address by apologizing for his poor use of the American language and then related a humorous experience which befell one of his race in an effort to ride the train to Clemson. This unfortunate traveler was unable to pronounce the name of the college amid his studding, and after having been twice sent to the end of the long waiting line, said, "I'll have to go by freight, I can't express myself."

Mr. Leon forcefully said, "China has a continuous history of over 5000 years and is the only nation who has held her political independence for that length of time. In spite of her resources and intelligence she has become a back number. Since the opium war of 1885 changes have been continuing."

BABY ALLIGATORS PICK TIGER CUBS

Frosh Are Forced to Bow For First Time

With every break of the game going against them, the Clemson Cubs dropped a heartrending struggle to the Baby Alligators down in Orlando, Monday afternoon to the tune of 33 to 14.

The breaks of the game gave the game to the Floridians, two of their touchdowns, while a sensational, overwhelming aerial attack accounted for their other markers.

However, the individual who stood head and shoulders above the other performers was not a Florida player. He was none other than Maxie Welch of high school fame, who played havoc with the 'Gators' line and ends with his smashing, ruthless thrusts and long end runs.

The defeat must be attributed to the inability of the Cubs' forward pass defense. The Florida team keeping the Clemson players in a daze during their aerial attack.

JOINT ARMISTICE DAY PROGRAM HELD FOR DEDICATION OF MEMORIAL BRIDGE

SMITH-SPRING-HOLMES QUINTET GIVE CONCERT

Second Number of Lyceum Course is Enjoyed by Cadets

The second of this year's lyceum numbers was presented last Saturday evening in the college chapel when the noted Smith-Springs-Holmes Orchestral Quintet gave their classical program of solos on saxophone, cello, trombone, violin, and playing ensemble.

The music, being of a classical nature, could not be fully appreciated by some of the cadets, but nevertheless it was enjoyed. This is no reflection whatever on the visiting musicians. Several numbers on the program were composed by Mr. Clay Smith and Mr. G. E. Holmes, two members of the quintet. Another interesting fact is that the instruments used in their ensemble are of 22k gold, having been made by the Buescher Band Company for their exhibit at the Panama-Pacific exposition.

In the eyes of the cadets, the favorite member of the personnel was Miss Lotus Spring, cellist. Miss Spring is a pupil of Jaroslav Gons, who was a favorite pupil of the great David Popper, considered the greatest cellist of all time; hence she has had a splendid opportunity to study, first hand, the works of this grand old master. It would not be fair to give less than full credit to the other members of the personnel: Miss Coyle May Spring, reader and soprano; Miss Lila Groff, violinist; Mr. Smith, trombonist and saxophonist; and Mr. Holmes flutist.

This is the second visit of these high class musicians to Clemson, and it is hoped that they will return next season.

COL. MUNSON TALKS IN PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Preparedness For War Is Highly Recommended

Colonel Munson took the pulpit for a few moments in the Presbyterian Church last Sunday morning as the spokesman for the legioner guests, and gave some comments on the advisability of preparedness in the time of peace which gave a lasting impression to the congregation.

He quoted many noted authorities on the question of preparedness, and said he was definitely in favor of it. He said he had the cadet listeners in mind when he expressed himself as favoring Reserve Officers instruction in the time of peace.

He sighted a world war example of what preparatory training will do for America. Four hundred untrained men had replaced vacancies in a regiment at the last minute and after the battle the casualties showed that eighty percent of the men came out of the four hundred recruits and only twenty percent out of the trained men.

Cadets Take Part in Cere- monial

The Clemson College Post jointly with the Charles-McGee Byrd Post of Seneca held Armistice day exercises in the college chapel on Sunday, November 11, for the purpose of dedicating the Memorial Bridge over the Seneca river to the men of Clemson college and Oconee county who gave their lives during the World War. The general public had been invited and from the response, it was apparent that our dead have not been forgotten. Several hundred visitors as well as the corps of cadets filled the large auditorium to capacity.

Prof. J. T. McAlister, commander of the Clemson Post, presided over the exercises which were opened with music by the Clemson college band. The invocation was by the Rev. H. E. Harris of Seneca, State chaplain of the American Legion, after which the audience sang, "America"

Dr. Sikes next welcomed the visitors in the memory of those men of Clemson college and Oconee county who gave their all for the protection of their native land.

Mr. George Speer of Anderson, a Clemson alumnus, in a short speech told of what happened here at Clemson on that stirring day in April, 1917, when the United States declared war upon Germany. He told some of the facts and gave figures showing the part Clemson men played in the war. He told of the spirit which has been built here through the years and our record in war and in peace. He closed with the words, "Clemson men died for you, and Clemson men will live for you." The audience then sang, "Onward Christian Soldiers."

The dedicatory address was made by the Hon. J. Lyles Glenn, solicitor of the sixth congressional district. Mr. Glenn is a very forceful and entertaining speaker who can be very serious one moment and humorous the next. He thrilled his audience with some of his experiences in the A. E. F., and of his contact with some of the men who lost their lives. He said he called them men, not boys, because they did a man's work. Those who died, went to their death willingly, fighting for what was right and they did not die in vain. The war was necessary in order to stop German atrocities and stamp down German philosophy which was ruinous to the world. The speaker told of the traditions and heritage which the men of South Carolina had to live up to, illustrated with incidents from his personal experience.

Mr. Glenn said that we should not forget our brothers of France and England, many of whom died without adequate experience and training, who stood between us and the Germans.

"Think of these boys as not gone—I feel as the writer of Hebrews that these men are witnesses. They are saying as the British, 'Carry on', and they would approve of the Legion and its work; the military training in our schools, so that if war were again necessary we would have a chance. They would approve of the state schools and the

The students have long realized the need for more barrack accommodations. With the present over-crowded conditions caused by the largest enrollment in the history of the school there are, in some instances, four men in a room that contains only 1780 cubic feet of air space. According to army regulations this amount of air space is scarcely enough for two men. The college officials have done their part in trying to remedy the matter. They put an end to visiting after certain hours so as to give the students the maximum comfort and time, unmolested, for the pursuit of their studies. They have undergone a great expense in an attempt to preserve the students' health under such crowded conditions. And they have, time and again, presented the matter of more barracks at Clemson but they have never received a favorable response from the governing body of this state.

In the light of urgency for a new gymnasium and agricultural hall, after the acquisition of our splendid engineering building, there had been no intimation of hope for a new barracks until Mr. J. F. Williams, senator from Aiken county, in his speech to the corps of cadets Friday, November 2nd, presented a means of solving this problem. Mr. Williams urged the corps of cadets as individuals to present the facts concerning the need of more dormitory accommodations to the legislative delegations from their respective counties. Stating that, if every member of the cadet corps did this, we would have new barracks ere twelve months had passed. Mr. Williams, an old Clemson man, with twenty years of experience in the state law-making body, is qualified to speak authoritatively on the subject. Has, then, any Clemson man any doubt as to what his duty is in the matter?

During the coming holidays let us every one make it a point to go to see every member of our home delegation and urge upon them the need of new barracks. Let us prevail upon our parents to use whatever influence they may have to this same end.

In this connection, I should like to say to parents of Clemson men who read the Tiger, "Your sons feel that you are with them in every forward and progressive move and they are looking to you for help, encouragement, and cooperation in the present undertaking."

FLORIDA NEXT ON TIGER SCHEDULE

Clemson Yellow Peril, with another victory added to its list, has returned from Lynchburg Va. where it defeated the V. M. I. Flying Squadron to the tune of twelve and a zero and has settled down to a gruelling preparation for the supreme test of this season, the game with the University of Florida Alligators. It is needless to say that the Florida aggregation is the best team appearing on the Jungaleers' schedule; for the fact that the Saurians still appear in the undefeated column and have scored more points than any other southern team is evidence enough of their strength. Josh Cody and his squad of fighting Tigers will entrain Thursday for Jacksonville, where the terrific struggle will take place Saturday.

From all reports the Gators have developed a powerful offensive machine, whose potential strength lies chiefly in a quartet of speedy ball-toters. Their line has never shown any appreciable strength, except in opening holes for their backs to attain the open field. However, the Saurians have thus far held every opponent to a lower score than they, themselves have been able to accumulate. Perhaps the only team with which local fans are familiar that resembles the Floridians is that of Carolina. Finally the Florida team is one to be greatly feared.

The Tigers have profited greatly by the drubbing that they received at the hands of "Ole Miss". Many mistakes have been ironed out, as the victory over V. M. I. has shown. Though their inviolate goal was crossed several times by the Mississippians, the Tigers showed a powerful defense in the Virginia game. The Tiger-Gator game will be another case in which a powerful line will endeavor to stop a foursome of fleet backs. The outcome may be most anything; both teams are determined to make the result in its respective favor.

JUNIOR HOP PROMISES TO BE BEST OF YEAR

Rudy Brown Will Furnish Music

All is in readiness for the most gala event of the season, namely, the Junior Collegiate Prom. The festive spirit, which has been evident in the Corps for the past week, is now at its height. and with this spirit the dance is sure to be a success. It is with eager anticipation that the dancing contingent of Clemson looks forward to this occasion.

Judging from the number of girls on the list, there will be more feminine dancers on the floor than there has been for any dance here since Clemson has been C. A. C. One reason for this large attendance is because of the orchestra which the Junior Dancing Club has secured for this occasion. It has been said, as well as published, that the organizations sponsoring dances do not have the proper type of music. To these critical speakers and authors, it may be safely said that their dope will be all upset Friday evening.

At present, Rudy Brown is the best collegiate orchestra that could be secured in the sphere of Clemson's dancing contingent. He has played at Auburn, Georgia, Tennessee, Georgia Tech, and many other places this season, and has received nothing but the highest praise from all these places. So if it is good music you want, you are certain to get the very best type of it.

The decorations will be entirely different, novel, and plenty "hot". The committee has been planning them for weeks, and from all indications they will furnish a topic of conversation for weeks. So taking every thing into consideration, the "Junior Dancing Prom" promises to be the best dance of all at Clemson and we sympathize with anyone who cannot attend, so don't let us waste our sympathy on you.

HORTICULTURAL CLUB INITIATES NEW MEN

Seven Outstanding Juniors are Admitted Into Society

Last Friday evening between the hours of 7 and 11 P. M. there was "something doin'" on or near the rifle range. Now don't get excited for if you do you will be nearly in the same condition of seven young juniors who are majoring in horticulture.

These young men, W. C. Barnes, J. C. Crowther, W. H. McCleod, H. C. Parham, R. W. Sanders, B. S. Wilson, and T. K. Watts explored and conquered hitherto unknown worlds in the initiation ceremonies of the horticultural society at the time mentioned.

Perhaps the most valuable discovery made by these young men was the apple futures of this state. The corps of cadets need have no fear of being caught off limits stealing apples in the future. If you want an apple, pluck it from the potato plants, cabbage patch, or even from the magnolia trees in front of the barracks. If this is not true the experiments conducted by the pledges went for naught for from their tests apples will certainly ly grow on the above mentioned plants.

The ceremonies began with a series of impromptu speeches made by the pledges. These short talks were on deep subjects, such as wells, and were enjoyed very much by the spectators, tho they were quite embarrassing to the pledges. Immediately after these talks were rendered the real fun began and lasted until ten o'clock at which time a delightful weine and marsh-mellow toast was indulged in about a giant bonfire built especially for the occasion.

Professor McGinty brought the meeting to a close with a speech which defined the purpose of the organization.

VESPER SERVICE

The Vesper Service Sunday night was conducted by J. F. Callahan. The speaker of the service was Rev. Gardner of the Baptist church of Seneca. Rev. Mr. Gardner spoke on the topic which has been taken for the discussion this month, Choosing Your Life Work.

Rev. Mr. Gardner emphasized the fact that in deciding what you are to do for your life work the decision must be reached between you and God. Before God will direct us in our life work we must acknowledge Him, yield our life to Him and turn our backs to sin. God's plan for us is an unselfish plan. He helps to decide the work which would be most helpful to Him and which would give you the greatest pleasure. God wishes us to be happy in our life work and He helps us to decide on a profession which you will enjoy and to which you will give your time in furthering the advancement of this profession.

Before the service Mrs. Lewis' orchestra gave a selection, which was followed by a solo by Mr. Morrow. Mr. Morrow also gave another selection at the close of the service.

CABINET-FACULTY BANQUET

On Tuesday evening, November 6th, the annual Cabinet-Faculty Banquet of the Y. M. C. A. was held. There were approximately seventy-five people present. An excellent plate supper was served which was followed by ice cream and cake. The speaker of the evening was Mr. S. C. Leung, National General Secretary of the Canton, China, Y. M. C. A. Mr. Leung continued the speech which he started in chapel Tuesday morning. The speech of the evening was more about the activities of the Young Men's Christian Association in China. The Y. M. C. A. of China seems to be doing great work in aiding to stabilize the present form of government. Mr. Leung said that possibly the work which was doing the most good was the classes in reading and writing which the Y. M. C. A. are holding in Canton. These classes are conducted for the benefit of those Chinese who neither read or write. Over eight hundred thousand Chinese people have been taught to read and write their language through the efforts of the Y. M. C. A. in conducting these classes.

At the conclusion of his talk, Mr. Leung answered several questions which members of the faculty and others asked.

THE POWER HOUSE

Back of the willing hands and feet,
Of the ears and the tongue and eyes—

There is the brain that governs all,
And Oh, if the brain is wise—

You may be sure that its wisdom comes,
From the power house sublime,

From the One whose service has filled with light,
The echoing halls of time.

You may be sure that the light will grow,
That its glowing beam will last,

'Till the shadows flee, and the dawn-time comes,
And the night, itself, is past!

Radio Directs the Navy's Flyers

Where do young college men get in a large industrial organization? Have they opportunity to exercise creative talent? Is individual work recognized?

AIRPLANE carriers are a recent development in naval history—and they have a communication problem that calls for the engineering resources of an organization which has shown it can make radio history.

Complex maneuvers are directed, scouting expeditions controlled, and far-flying planes recalled—by radio.

On the U. S. Navy Airplane Carriers "Lexington" and "Saratoga" the situation is met with crystal control transmitters designed to send on different wave lengths. Each plane's receiving set has its own wave length. A turn of the dial on the transmitter selects the wave length corresponding to that of the plane to be reached with a message.

Radio equipment on the "Lexington" and "Saratoga" was designed, built, and installed by Westinghouse—the organization which in 1920 established KDKA, the pioneer radio broadcasting station of the world, and which also operates stations KFKX, KYW, WBZ, and WBZA.

Opportunities to do the history-making things in engineering fall naturally to an organization with a record for making history in its field. And Westinghouse, quite as naturally, offers powerful attractions to those young college men whose initiative and enterprise fit them for history-making tasks.

GOINGS ON

Mame Roth, one of Clemson's most unfortunate sons, and the lad who thinks a mole can crawl, has some of us guessing. Why did he dawn his Sunday School pin? By the way, these frequent trips to Anderson are rather expensive, aren't they?

And then there's Steven, a one time hard guy, but recently he's been singing. The last song he sang was was: "Oh Daddy—Oh Doctor."

Possibly you've heard of a guy around here called Dr. Sikes. Well, here's a confidential tip. He's trying to run this place. He can't do that—Chico West has been doing it a long time.

All of which reminds me of Johnny Pitts, the daredevil rider of the one-lung vehicle. Upon being asked by his superior why he had on a blue necktie at inspection, replied that his mother told him a blue tie goes well with his blue eyes.

Speaking of wearing things, wonder what's become of Prof. Tate's Al Smith button? Wear your button, Professor don't be downhearted. Bill Lippincott hasn't any hair but he isn't crying.

Ordinarily, Professor Brearly gets along O. K. But the other day some student asked him if the pickled brain on his desk was his. Tonight it was learned that he may recover.

Yes, Yes; Go On!

Lil—How is it that Bill never takes you out any more?

Sady—Well, one evening it rained and we sat in the parlor.

The Victim (as barber cuts him for the fourth time) You'd better give me a razor too, so that I can defend myself.

She refused to kiss,
She refused to pet,
So this little miss
Ain't a missis yet.

She—Did you know that the water has rotted the post in front of our house?

He—Mercy me, and the tee-totalers put that stuff in their stomachs!

Sophs (at football game)—Sit down in front, rat.

Rat—Quit your kidding. I don't bend that way.

Guy Davis—They say you know women better'n they know themselves.

Fat Hall—Yup, but whenever one of 'em comes near me I lose my memory.

Hold Everything

The trolley rounded a curve and the drunk fumbled for his fare.

"May I help you?" said the conductor.

"If you please," said the drunk. "Hold this danged strap while I get my m-m-money out."

Teacher—Who was the mother of Moses, Children?

Pupil—Pharaoh's daughter.

Teacher—No, she only found him in the bullrushes.

Pupil—Yeah, that's what she said.

Ask B. S. Wilson what product it is that is picked, soaked three days in salt peter, then soaked in water over night to take part of the brine, shipped directly to the grocer and sold 3 for a nickel.

Sam Thompson—Aw you can't ketch me on sucha' old 'un.

Jane Earle—Huh? So you are a smart one eh? Well, follow your nose around a circle till you get tired, then rest on your head.

Sam—What for?

Have you ever heard the story about the gossiping landlady who killed herself because there were too many roomers around her?

Bathing Girl—Hello there, grandpa, how old are you?

Grandpa—Eighty, Dammit!

She's a very nicely reared girl. Yes, and she looks good from the front, too

"You can't keep a good man down," said the cannibal as the missionary steak came up.

He—Have you heard the one about the traveling salesman?

She—Shut up! I'm a farmer's daughter.

When the cat's away the mice will play—but maybe the cat's not having such a rotten time either.

Father—Lucile, this disappoints me terribly seeing you smoke. You are no daughter of mine.

Daughter—Well, cheer up Dad, I wont tell a soul.

When a girl gets her dates mixed up her liability is her best asset.

She—How do you like my new dress?

He—Great for the shape that is in it.

A Short Story

CLUBS AND SOCIETIES

DAIRY CLUB

The Dairy Club held a meeting Thursday night at seven o'clock in the dairy building with nine members and two visitors present; and in the absence of both the president and vice-president, Prof. Goodale called the meeting to order. Then as no business was brought before the club, he introduced the speaker, Director Barre.

The speaker was greatly handicapped by lack of time, as cadets had to return to barracks at eight o'clock; and therefore he had to hurry through his speech just touching the high points of interest. His talk consisted of a brief description of the interesting things he had noticed and the places he had visited in the different countries of Europe while on a trip there this past summer. Director Barre visited France, Switzerland, Germany, Holland and England while in Europe and gathered there a storehouse of information along agricultural lines. From this storehouse of knowledge he gave the members some choice bits of information that are always interesting to the inhabitants of other countries. His talk was especially interesting to Clemson students studying agriculture because it gave them a comparison between the agriculture in this country and Europe.

The members of the club regret that the time was short, and hope that Director Barre will consent to talk to them again when the time is not so limited.

PALMETTO LITERARY SOCIETY

The Palmetto Literary Society held its regular meeting last Thursday evening. A large number of active members as well as two honorary members were present. The members of the society are continuing to increase their interest by coming out and taking a regular part on the program when called upon.

The society was called to order by the president, Mr. J. F. Hawkins. The secretary was absent on account of sickness, consequently the minutes of the last meeting was not read. Mr. F. B. Polard acted as secretary for the meeting.

The query for the debate was: Resolved, That capital punishment should be abolished. Mr. E. H. Townsend and Mr. O. W. Lloyd upheld ably the affirmative. Mr. D. C. Hudgens and Mr. Black upheld the negative. The debate was especially good from several standpoints. The judges decided in favor of the negative and declared Mr. Black the best speaker. Mr. H. H. Horry and Mr. L. O. Clayton also took part in the program.

As a special attraction a musical selection by an orchestra of three was given.

After the regular program had been carried out, Dr. Daniel and Mr.

B. O. Williams, two honorary members, gave some constructive criticism. Each urged that more boys be taken into the society and that even more interest be taken in the program.

A. I. E. E.

The meeting of the A. I. E. E. last Thursday night was one of the most interesting meetings of the year. The men who attended the convention in Atlanta told their experiences, and many at the meeting were open-mouthed with wonder at the talks. Many of the things that were told seemed so utterly preposterous and unheard of that it was hard for the engineers to believe it all. Just to hear of the wonderful developments in the electrical field helped many of the engineers and gave them more hope for the future. Next meeting is to be another feature meeting. George Sackman is to give a lecture on television. Sackman has worked on television systems and he knows. All the electricals are urged to come out and learn something of this latest marvel of electricity.

CALHOUN LITERARY SOCIETY

A function that, for the past few years, has been lying dormant and has been on the verge of becoming extinct has been revived and is making rapid progress such as has not been witnessed at Clemson for several decades. This function is the literary society work. At present there are at Clemson two literary societies, each of which has a membership of about fifty. This number promises to be increased.

What does this revival of the literary work mean? It means that the students are beginning to realize their deficiency and need of knowledge of literary subjects and of the art of public speaking. We hope that more will appreciate this need and join one of the societies.

The Calhoun met last Tuesday night and carried out a very interesting program. Mr. D. H. Rogers read a nessay, which was followed by the reading of jokes by Mr. J. D. Welborn. The next number was a reading by Mr. J. F. Higgins. Next came the debate, the query of which was "Resolved: That labor-saving machinery has been injurious to the laboring classes". The affirmative was upheld by Mr. T. R. Wannamaker and Mr. J. R. Adair, while the negative was upheld by Mr. M. A. Wackmy and Mr. H. B. Wilson. The last two men named gave impromptu debates which were very creditable. It has been quite a while since we have heard as good an impromptu debate as that delivered by "Rat" Wilson.

The Calhoun society meets every Tuesday night after long-roll. Any new members or visitors will be welcome.

Larry—I like Dr. Taylor's course in Shakespeare. He brings things home that you never saw before.

Harry—Huh, the laundry does that for me!

Al Smith says that he'd rather be right, anyhow.

road building programs—of the memorial and the services of the bridge to mankind. They gave their lives for us, and they appreciate our meeting here today", were the closing words of the speaker.

The band played the "Star Spangled Banner", and Dr. Mills of Clemson pronounced the benediction to close the exercises in the chapel, after which everyone went to the bridge which is about a mile distant from the chapel.

The road was lined with several hundred cars on either side, through which the corps marched, lead by the band. The corps marched across the bridge, which was decorated with numerous American flags, while a Pathe cameraman took pictures of the event.

The cadets reassembled on the bridge, many climbing upon the steel work to get a better view, until the structure was crowded from the road level to the top of the steel work.

Mr. McAlister gave some facts concerning the erection of the bridge and the structure itself. The bridge was designated as a memorial bridge by the State Highway Commission on April 17, 1927, and construction began on June 1, 1927. The bridge was opened to traffic on November 1 of the same year. The main structure is a single steel span 180 feet long, one of the longest single steel spans in the state, if not the longest. The bridge was erected at a cost of approximately $48,500, and was designed by Capt. Joseph W. Barnwell, Jr., and Wm. Mills, Clemson alumni of the classes of '13 and '23, respectively.

The bridge is very beautiful in design, and the four obelisks at either end form a fitting memorial to the men who made the supreme sacrifice.

The Rev. H. E. Harris closed the afternoon's exercises by dedicating the bridge with a prayer.

The bronze tablets which were to be unveiled did not arrive, the shipment having been delayed in transit. When the tablets arrive they will be placed on the obelisks at each end of the bridge without further ceremony.

ally taking place. The last few years of Nationalistic Revolution has served as a climax."

Outlining briefly China's Renaissance, he eloquently said, "The Chinaman of Yesterday was supposed not to ask questions concerning national questions and believed what he was told. Today he puts a question mark before everything—he demands reason for everything.

The speaker's deep insight into national problems was clearly understood when he said, "The blind hate between China and America was due to the difference between the two types of civilization and they felt the inferiority. This has changed to a blind love in the last few years due to the influence of American industries and teachers in China. They have now taken over the Western ideas and civilization without question and have taken it as it is, buildings, dress, and all other comparable matters. China is still in the first stages of her development. In the process of development there will be a great deal of cost to be eliminated. I would like to describe her hunger for the great Church, but I have not time."

To give an idea of the immensity of China's population he pictured the civilization in a single line passing before the audience and said, "The 400 million and their offspring would form a chain of which no man in the audience would see the end in his life time."

China has assured herself of five things—she doesn't want monarchy, she doesn't want Bolshevism and to continue as a Communist, she doesn't want war, and wants to continue the progress in construction. Along with these she doesn't want opposition in her cabinet, since the present cabinet is largely composed of Christian men who have greatly helped the nation. Only one tenth of one percent of China is Christian, yet one-sixth of the cabinet is Christian. They believe in constructive and not destructive forces and that is the China that will win, yet they have no assurance that these forces always prevail.

China can follow two distinct forces—Russia or the United States—which will she follow? Mr. Leon raised his voice considerably, stepped forward to close his speech by saying, "China needs your help for a reign of perpetual peace."

After hearing this speech the entire audience realized that no apology for poor English was needed from this intelligent man and also realized that the Americans are few who can speak English equally as well. Every listener left the chapel feeling that he had heard a very informative and pleasing address.

The steamer was only a few feet from the dock when there was a sudden commotion, and a man came running madly from the dock gates, shouting to the officials to wait a moment.

Without pausing in his stride, he flung his bag on the boat, took a desperate leap, and landed on the deck with a crash.

"Good!" he gasped. "A few seconds later I should have missed it."

"Missed it!" exclaimed the officer who helped him to his feet. "This boat is just coming in."

Molly Cassidy—Shure, Pat, I had a certificate of character, but I lost it coming over. Phwat shall I do?

Pat Murphy—Nivir mind, Molly, I'll write ye wan. (And this is what he wrote):

"This is to certify that Molly Cassidy had a good karacter before she lift the ould counthry, u but lost it on shipboard coming over!"

The Joke Was On Them

Ex-Senator Chauncey M. Depew in his new volume of reminiscences gives one of Theodore Roosevelt's favorite stories as follows:—

While Roosevelt was on the ranch the neighbors had caught a horse thief and hung him. They soon discovered that they had made a mistake and hung the wrong man. The most diplomatic among the ranchers was selected to take the body home and break the news gently to his wife. The cowboy ambassador asked the wife: "Are you the wife of"? She answered "Yes." "Well," said the ambassador, "you are mistaken. You are his widow. I have his body in the wagon. You need not feel bad about it, because we hung him thinking he was the horse thief. We soon after found that he was innocent. The joke was on us."

TIGERS RISE AGAIN

SPORTS

BY MITCHELL

Clemson's triumph over the V. M. I. cadets last Saturday strengthened the theory that the Tigers were not up to their best form when they took such a licking from Ole Miss. From the very start in the game Saturday the Bengals uncorked an offensive that kept the Virginians on the run and but for an untimely fumble they would have scored in the first few minutes of the game. Only once did the Cadets menace the Tiger goal, and then they were held for downs and Clemson began a march that ended in a touchdown. The cold facts of the game show how far in the lead the Tigers were. Clemson chalked up 18 first downs against five for V. M. I. Two forward passes out of seven gained 60 yards for Clemson, with no Tiger passes intercepted. V. M. I. completed four passes out of sixteen attempts for 95 yards, but Clemson intercepted two and returned them for 38 yards. The Tigers showed more interference in this game than they have shown before. Their orange jerseys seemed to build a wall around the man with the ball and swept the Cadets completely out of the path. On the defensive Capt. Pressley towered above the other twenty-one men on the field, and earned his reputation as the best center in the South on forward pass defense. Fatty Hall, Guy Davis, and Bob Swofford continued playing their slashing defensive game and Asbill, at end, besides playing a good defensive game punted to decided advantage. O. D. Padgett continued to prove that he is the most valuable man on the team with his blocking and secondary defensive work. In the offensive the two McMillians continued to star, "Goat" McMillian in addition to passing with deadly accuracy seemed to be able to rip the Cadet line almost at will, and when he was taken from the game Raeford, the other McMillian, substituting for him provided the fans with flocks of thrills.

Clemson has a chance to beat Florida next week and they are going to take advantage of that chance at the first opportunity. In the game with V. M. I. the Tigers showed the best team-play and co-ordination that they have shown this year and all signs point to a fierce struggle when the Tigers meet the undefeated University of Florida for a possible tie in the Southern conference. Clemson will go to Florida not with the idea of holding them to a low score or holding back for the Furman game, but with the intentions of winning. The exact extent of injuries received in the game last Saturday have not been learned, but the squad is thought not to be seriously hampered.

Next Saturday Carolina plays Furman and the dope looks as if "Dad" Amis may show Billy Laval a thing or two about football. Furman has been going good so far this year. Furman beat Citadel 12-0 while Carolina only succeeded in holding them Cadets to a tie, 0-0, but no comparative rating of the two teams can be drawn from this. Furman and Clemson are the real contenders for the State Championship, neither having lost a state game, and each showing much power and drive in offense and excellent defensive play.

Georgia Tech has just about the best team in the nation today. They have beaten many of the best that the country has to offer, and it seems that they have not yet exerted all their power. Last Saturday they downed Vanderbilt 19-7, and a noted sports writer said that "The Golden Tornado Saturday would have been something for any team to stop from Berkeley to Cambridge. It has greater all around power than any team east stronger than any Tech team since Guyon Strupper and others who beat Pennsylvania 41-0. Tech is tied with Tennessee and Florida for the top place in the Southern conference and they seem to be the team that will at the end of the season be on the crowning peak of Southern football.

Do you know that our Josh Cody is rated as one of the best ten coaches in college athletics in America, and do you realize just what he has done for Clemson? Last year when Josh came here we were in pretty bad shape and almost at once gave us a team that was almost first class and this year he has given us one that is first class. Vanderbilt claims him as a former student and coach, well that's all right, but we want it distinctly understood that we adopted him as a Tiger from the first time that he made one of his famous talks in chapel and that he is OURS. But we can't afford to argue with Vanderbilt because they seem to be too good friends to us, so we will just let them go on claiming him and we'll help them honor him and we'll just go on wearing that knowing smile that says, it's all right for you to claim him but he's all ours and we want him. Dan McGugin, Vanderbilt's famous coach, paid a fine compliment to Josh, an old player and former assistant coach of his, on receiving the telegram from Josh announcing our victory over Carolina. Here is what McGugin says: "Josh's Clemson victory put a lot of life in our practice Wednesday afternoon. We were so glad on account of Josh and Red Saunders and the whole Clemson team. Nobody will ever know, as I do, just what Josh's coaching meant to our team at Vanderbilt. He was so clear and thorough in his thinking and so faithful in his work and spirit. His work at Clemson confirms my belief that he ranks among the first ten coaches of America." This was the first wire that Josh sent after the game and the Nashville Banner says: "The idea of big old Josh, with a heart so big that his body had to grow to 255 pounds to fit it, should think of his old coach first was something to bring a stinging to the eyes."

So here's three cheers for Cody and make them go gang!

FOOTBALL MATINEE

The old tradition that Clemson always loses her football game when a matinee is held in chapel, was broken for the first time last week when the Yellow Peril took the Flying Squadron into camp. That started the luck our way again and it is expected that the whole corps will watch the Tiger tackle the Alligator in chapel Saturday. Send the Bengals off with good luck by being with them in spirit in chapel for the last Southern Conference game this season.

How Gold Prospector "Went Scotch"

Minneapolis, Minn.
April 30, 1928

Larus & Bro. Co.
Richmond, Va.
Dear Sirs:

Two years ago last winter I went into the Red Lake gold fields in Canada. It was a tough trail from Hudson, over 140 miles of snow and ice. There were fourteen of us on the trail going in, and frequently at night when seated around a big camp fire, some one would ask me for a pipeful of Edgeworth. These Canadian boys sure like our Edgeworth.

In four weeks' time I ran out of Edgeworth. I was glad to get 'most any old tobacco.

One day, however, I dropped in to Dad Brown's tent, a 72-year-old prospector, and seeing a can of Edgeworth on an improvised table, back there 150 miles from the "steel," I perked up at once, saying, "Dad, I'm plum out of tobacco—how's chances for a pipeful?" "Help yourself," he said. So pulling my heavy duty pipe from my pocket, I loaded it with Edgeworth, packing it in so tightly that I couldn't get the least bit of a draw.

I excused myself for a moment, and stepped outside to remove about three pipefuls to put in my pouch. Dad stepped out, saying, "You're worse than any Scotchman I ever saw." Then I confessed. I told him what happened to my Edgeworth—that I was just dying for a smoke, and he understood right away. He said, "Boy, Edgeworth is mighty scarce in these parts, but I reckon I can spare what's left of that can. Help yourself."

You can just bet your last nickel that I guarded this Edgeworth with extreme care until I got back to the "steel."

Yours very truly,
C. M. Bahr
