U.S. Navy Band Opens Clemson Concert Series

Poole Opens Second Annual South Carolina Plant Food Educational Society Conference

The second annual meeting of the South Carolina Plant Food Educational Society opened at the Clemson House at 2:00 p. m. Wednesday, September 12.

Dr. R. F. Poole, president of Clemson college, made the address of welcome.

Dr. W. R. Thompson, associate leader of extension agronomy at Mississippi State College and author of "The Pasture Book," was the main speaker. Dr. Thompson was introduced by Mr. H. A. Woodie, agronomy extension leader at Clemson.

The response for the society was made by Dr. W. R. Paden, Clemson agronomist.

Mr. A. D. Kincaid of the Southern Cotton Oil Company of Columbia presided over the business meeting. Highlight of the meeting was the election of officers.

The board of directors of the society met at 4:30 p. m. Wednesday. At 7:30 p. m. the annual banquet was held in the Clemson House. Mr. Audley Ward was toastmaster.

On Thursday morning the group toured the Clemson experiment station, the campus, the nitrogen study plots of the agronomy department, the beef cattle farm, and the dairy pastures. Mr. Bruce D. Cloaninger, secretary of the Board of Fertilizer Control, was in charge of arrangements for the tour.

Over 100 members attended the two-day meet. Also in attendance were members of the staff of the various agricultural departments of the college.

Gator Farr Now School Principal

Frank B. ("Gator") Farr is now employed as the principal of the high school at White Springs, Florida. He is familiar to most Clemson students, since for many years he has buried the Gamecock in the giant pep rally before the Carolina game.

Farr is a Clemson graduate in the class of 1930. In that year he held the rank of cadet colonel, and he organized the Clemson Senior Platoon which has become recognized as one of the nation's finest fancy drill units.

Later, as a major, he returned to serve his alma mater in the capacity of assistant PMS&T of the military staff from 1940-1942.

Dr. Poole Honors New Faculty Members With Reception Thursday

A faculty reception honoring new members of the faculty of Clemson college will be held at the home of Dr. R. F. Poole, president, on Thursday evening from 8 to 10 o'clock. Invitations have been extended to all members of the faculty as well as members of the Clemson community.

C.D.A. Names Junior Staff

The Central Delta Association of Clemson College has announced the names of students which have been elected to the junior staff of the C. D. A. These students have been named because of their interest shown in the organization: Michael McMillan, Greenville; Miles Bruce, Greer; Bill Turpin, Piedmont; Bill Asnip, Pendleton; and James Talbut, Anderson.

Also, Jack McCachern, Concord, N. C.; Jack Early, Florence; Benjie Rowe and Dave Sedberry, Hartsville; Bill Reutershan, Springfield, N. J.; Andy Small, Georgetown; B. Snow, Hemingway; Lonnie Howard, Fort Mill; Bill Hughes, Martinez, Ga.; and Amos Wells, Columbia.

Hazing Ended By Fraternity Vote

CHAPEL HILL, Sept. 10—Hazing in any form has been outlawed by Chi Psi, a national college social fraternity.

Delegates from 27 chapters of the fraternity, attending the annual national convention at the University of North Carolina yesterday, turned thumbs down on paddles, raw egg gulping, midnight rides, and other stunts usually prescribed by social fraternities for initiates.

Spokesman for the group declared, "we have decided it is foolish and a waste of time, so we voted it out."

The Chi Psi's suggested a work week instead of the traditional hall week of fraternity initiation.

Clemson Honored By Trade Publication

Clemson College and its associated agencies, the experiment station and the extension service, are meeting the challenge for more and better food and raw materials, according to a feature article published in the September-October issue of the Grace Log, publication of W. R. Grace & Co., international industrial and trading concern with transportation interests.

The feature article on Clemson reviews the work which the college is doing for the farmers of South Carolina and enumerates some of the beneficial results which have been achieved as a result of the Clemson sponsored agricultural development program.

The article, which is entitled "Carolina's Clemson," is translated into Spanish for the benefit of the many thousands of readers in Latin America who receive the publication. It is illustrated with views of the Clemson campus and South Carolina agricultural scenes.

Nine State Wide Meetings Scheduled For Clemson House In Near Future

Clemson Professor Promoted To Major

Jack E. Tuttle, ass't professor of history and government at Clemson College, was recently promoted to the rank of Major, U. S. Marine Corps Reserve, it was announced today.

Major Tuttle was commissioned in the Marines in 1942, and served during World War II as an anti-aircraft artillery officer in Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, and on Okinawa.

He is a member of the American Association of University Professors, the Southern History Association, the South Carolina History Association, and Kappa Phi Kappa.

Major Tuttle's wife, the former Margaret Todd of Columbia, and daughters, Linda, 5, and Diane, 2, reside with him in Clemson.

Over 2700 Students Seen By Registrar

The Registrar's Office has announced that a total of 2680 students had completed registration as of yesterday morning.

Last March the expected enrollment for this school term was estimated at 2660.

September 22 is the deadline for registration, and the enrollment is expected to go well above the 2700 mark.

Clemson House, modern eight-story hotel on the campus, will be the site of a number of conferences during September and October.

The South Carolina Plant Food Educational Society opened its second annual meeting at the Clemson House Wednesday, September 12.

The Wilby Kancy Theaters opened a manager's conference here today, September 13.

September 16 will mark the opening of the State Department of Public Welfare conference which will run through Wednesday, September 19. Also meeting at Clemson on September 16 will be a sales group of the Chicopee Manufacturing Company.

Chevrolet Motors will hold a zone meeting here on September 18, and members in this area of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers will meet here September 22.

The Tobacco Research Workers will hold a three-day conference at the Clemson House beginning October 9. A state Home Economics group will confer here October 19-20.

A Medical Social Workers' conference will be held here October 20.

Magnetic Comparator Saves Money

When 150 kegs of bolts, worth approximately $7,500.00, were rejected by a customer because of mixed steel contents, a General Electric magnetic comparator got a real workout.

Due to the fact that large numbers of bolts had to be separated from "mixes" of differing material, C. K. Hayward, metallurgist or the Rosell, Burdall & Ward Bolts and Nut Company of Rock Falls, Illinois, designed and built a testing bench for fast and easy separation of the bolts.

The comparator is recessed in the bench to make it easier for the operator to see the indicating instrument. The coil for testing is set in flush with the bench top so that the operator does not have to lift bolts into the coil, but much more easily drops them in.

An operator, after but little practice, is able to watch the indicating instrument while she reaches into the bin with her hand; takes a bolt; drops it into the testing coil; removes it with her right hand; and drops it through the proper hole in the bench top. Time and motion study experts had nothing to contribute to improve this operation.

To date, some 200 kegs of mixed bolts, approximately $10,000.00 worth, have been separated, using this comparator. Un-separated bolts would have had to be sold at the classification of the lowest grade material to be found in the mix.

Emmett L. Benjamin, 53 year old veteran of two world wars, is shown above with Mrs. Thelma Reid of the Registrar's Office as he looks over one of the innumerable blanks that must be completed for registration at Clemson. Mr. Benjamin's Clemson career began New Year's Day as he sat in the sunshine of the Orange Bowl and watched the Tigers whip Miami. When the game was over he scratched his head and said, "If such a bunch of farmers can come down here and beat the hide off Coach Andy Gustafson's team, that's the gang I'm for." Since 1936 Emmett Benjamin has lived in Miami after his discharge from an army hospital. In 1942 he again entered the army, retiring in 1944 with 17 years of service. (Staff photo by Jack Trimmer.)

Lt. Commander Charles Brendler Will Direct Navy Band In Two Concerts In Field House

The United States Navy Band will open the 1951-1952 concert series on the Clemson campus with two concerts on September 27. Opening with a matinee for the students and ticket holders, the Navy Band will present a program of all types of music under the baton of Lieutenant Commander Charles Brendler. The evening concert will begin at 8 p. m.

First Meeting Of A.A.U.W. Sept. 21

The first meeting of the Clemson chapter of the A. A. U. W. will be held at the home of Mrs. J. T. Bregger, president of the local chapter, on September 21. The purpose of this meeting is to develop the plans proposed by the different members of the association for the coming year.

The executive officers of the A. A. U. W. are Mrs. J. T. Bregger, president; Mrs. Frances Holleman, first vice president; and Mrs. Robert Lambert, second vice president. A secretary is to be elected at the forthcoming meeting.

Graduate Record Exams Be Given

The Graduate Record Examinations, required of applicants for admission to a number of graduate schools will be administered at examination centers throughout the country four times in the coming year Educational Testing Service has announced. During 1950-1951 nearly 10,000 students took the GRE in partial fulfillment of admission requirements of graduate schools which prescribed it.

This fall candidates may take the GRE on Friday and Saturday, October 26 and 27; in 1952, the dates are February 1 and 2, May 2 and 3, August 1 and 2. Since the GRE is not required by all graduate schools, ETS advises each student to inquire of his prospective school whether or not he is expected to take the test and if so, on which dates.

The GRE tests offered in these nationwide programs include a test of general scholastic ability, tests of general achievement in six broad fields of undergraduate study, and advanced level tests of achievement in various subject matter fields. According to ETS, candidates are permitted several options among these tests.

Application forms and a Bulletin of Information, which provides details of registration and administration, as well as sample questions, may be obtained from advisers or directly from Educational Testing Service, P. O. Box 592, Princeton, N. J., or P. O. Box 9896, Los Feliz Station, Los Angeles 27, California. A completed application must reach the ETS office at least two weeks before the date of the administration for which the candidate is applying.

The Navy Band contains within itself a complete symphony orchestra which presents the works of the great masters. On the other hand, its ultra-modern "swing-phonette" section gives personality to light operas and the latest bebop.

The United States Navy Band has made thousands of radio broadcasts in the past quarter of a century, thus bringing its music to the greatest possible listening audiences, at home and abroad. The best known of these broadcasts is the "Navy Hour."

The band will bring a large number of soloists to the Clemson campus, among them Frank Scominelli, cornetist; Oscar Short, cornetist; and Carl Grove, saxophonist. Having appeared here previously, these musicians will be remembered for their performances.

The band plays everything from popular music to marches, from lullabies to opera, and from light, children's music to concerts, and handles any type with equal facility.

The members have discarded the traditional sea-going uniform of the sailor and adopted the regulation chief petty officer uniform. This note of distinction adds pride in the Navy's best public relations unit—The Navy Band.

The colorful history of the Navy Band antedates to World War I days. Its history dates back to the first musician ever to board an American Man-of-War, at least 125 years ago.

The first Naval Band officially recorded in the Pay Table of the Navy Register appeared in 1838. It consisted of a bandmaster, four first class musicians, and one second class musician.

From this year onward, bands in the Navy became more numerous and, although no specific plan was followed, most commanders of ships, fleets, and shore stations encouraged music whenever and wherever they found it.

The growth of Navy Bands continued through the years and wars of this country until March 4, 1925 when President Calvin Coolidge designated the United States Navy Band as the official band of the United States Navy.

Clemson Concert Series Dates Announced

The Clemson Concert Series will open on September 27 when Lieutenant Commander Charles Brendler brings the United States Navy Band to the Clemson campus.

Since 1925, when President Calvin Coolidge signed a special statute of the 68th Congress, the United States Navy Band has been officially recognized as the Navy's own. In 1925 the Navy Band made the first of the tours it has made each year since, except for the war years, to take its musicianship to the people of the nation. Lieutenant Commander Brendler, conductor since 1941, and a member of the band for more than 38 years, has presented it in hundreds of concerts and radio programs each year. The band's versatility gives its listeners music and inspiration wherever its programs are heard.

Endeavoring to bring better programs to the students and patrons of the Concert Series, arrangements have been made to bring other stellar attractions to the Clemson campus during the coming year.

On October 22 a top-flight team of duo-pianists, Morley and Gearhart, will bring the intimate, "at home" atmosphere in recital to the campus. Enhanced by the beauty of Virginia Morley and the easy, good nature of Livingston Gearhart, the team has proved to be successful in tours over this country and throughout Europe.

They have inspired at least three of today's most eminent composers and have reaped high critical praise for their best-selling Columbia Masterworks album, and their performances as soloists in New England nightspots.

The gay, melodious tunes of Rodgers and Hammerstein as presented by a concert orchestra of 30, a chorus of 12, and 4 soloists, the entire personnel of the company selected by Messrs. Rodgers and Hammerstein will be presented on the Clemson campus on December 4. This concert will feature the bright box office appeal furnished by the composers of the most fabulously successful Broadway musicals—"Oklahoma," "Carousel," "State Fair," and "South Pacific."

Beginning its fourteenth tour this fall, The Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo will appear on the Clemson Concert Series on January 15. True to its tradition and artistic philosophy, it has been entertaining enormous numbers of people all over the country. Although following the great classical tradition of the old Russian Imperial Ballet of half a century ago, the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo is now a truly American institution. In its tour last year, the Ballet broke all previous records, visiting 87 cities and giving 248 performances for 702,000 people. These figures emphasize the popularity and the significance of the work which this Ballet is doing in the field of ballet and music.

The Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, recognized as the nation's finest orchestra, has been closely associated with the musical life of America. It will appear at Clemson on April 17. In 1947 it was honored as the first major symphony orchestra of the United States to be invited for a series of concerts in Mexico City. The current season is under the direction of Paray, one of Paris' most distinguished musicians.

On April 15, one of the world's greatest coloratura soprano, star of opera, concert, radio, and screen, Lily Pons, will appear at the Clemson College field house. The tiniest of all prima donnas, the favorite of millions, the singing heroine of World War II who flew 100,000 miles has captured the public heart.

It has been announced by the President's office that season tickets are now on sale for the Concert Series. Price of season tickets is $6.00, and they may be ordered by mail.

BOOK REVIEW

Dale Carnegie's "How To Win Friends And Influence People"

By Chuck Vuksta and Rafique Saigol

How many arguments have you won in the last week? Were you a welcome participant in the last bull-session? If so, how interesting was your two-cents' worth? Did you indulge in fact or fiction? Did anybody appreciate your criticisms? How many agreed with your point of view?

Probably you will answer the first question, "Many". But think for a moment, did you enjoy your futile victory? Do you think you convinced your audience? If you would know the truthful answer to these questions, read Dale Carnegie's, "How to Win Friends and Influence People".

At the bull-session, having told your story, did you pay attention to what the others had to say, or leave at the first opportunity? Do you think you left an indifferent, vague audience, or one genuinely interested in your conversational ability? Did you speak their language or were you talking over their heads? If you answer negatively, read and learn what Dale Carnegie has to say in "How to Win Friends and Influence People." He writes, "It is the individual not interested in his fellow men who has the greatest difficulties in life, and provides the greatest injury to others. It is from among such individuals that all human failure springs. Read in what manner Dr. Charles W. Elliott, president of Haryard, handled a freshman who applied for student loan and also walked off with a receipt for veal loaf, cookable in the barracks.

Did you indulge in fact or fiction? Were you afraid to admit your mistakes, or were you uncertain of the truth in your statements? Dale Carnegie's advice is to frankly admit your mistakes and shortcomings. Be candid. However, if you find a discrepancy in somebody else's stories, don't be hasty. Carnegie recommends that you suggest the mistake instead of challenging its authenticity. For instance the time when Lyman Abbot's wife, knowing her husband's text on the passing of Henry Ward Beecher was uninteresting and incapable of creating a response among the congregation, suggested that he submit the text as an article for the 'North American Review.' Lyman Abbot tore up the carefully prepared manuscript! Thus, praising the text, she had in addition subtly suggested that it was not good enough for the occasion.

Look around yourself. How many graduate-designates do you consider can think on their feet; that is, can express their ideas in business interviews, in social contact, before college organizations with clarity, effectiveness, and poise. Today, read Dale Carnegie's, "How to Win Friends and Influence People." If nothing at all, by just spending an hour every day for a week, you can assure yourself success in your next 'public speaking' class.

DON'T GET ME WRONG, BUT...

The Air Force Gets The Gravy But The Army Gets The Beans

By Stan Kohn

DON'T TREAD ON ME

Rumors are all that we seem to be able to get down here at Ye Olde Tigre Office. Latest one is a believable sounding ditty about the Air Force ROTC here. Bend me your ear and listen to this.

Freshman students that did not receive high enough scores on their recent aptitude tests are being dropped from the roll of A. S. 109, an air science course designed to capture the hearts of even the most unimaginative freshman. Some were bounced out before they even met the class.

Without batting an eyelash, I can say that this is unfair. It is unfair to the student because it throws him off guard from the very first week of his college career. It is also unfair to the student because of the extra energy needed to get into another branch of military, the energy needed to overcome the shock of being cast aside by the "Supermen of the Air", and the mental anguish that might be caused.

It is also unfair to any other branch of the military that might have kind enough a heart to take in these unwanted frosh. (Do I have you crying yet?) These branches will naturally feel that they are getting the dregs of the student body, that they are a second choice of the students.

Another telling blow was handed the sophomore A. S. students, those that were becoming juniors. Some of them in the maintenance section were told that they must transfer to flight operations or be dropped from Air Force ROTC. And you know what flight operations means—flight school after graduation. Sounds a trifle unfair, almost like they've got you by the neck and are slowly squeezing.

Naturally these are just rumors that I've heard from seven or eight hundred of my friends, so don't be alarmed. But should there be a smattering of truth in these statements, then students are being pushed around too much by the men that put the marks in those books that mean so much grade books.

Personally, I advocate the formation of a society on this campus—The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to College Students.

HOMECOMING TO POT

Mine eyes have seen the glory, but my ears have heard some dillies. Another hot rumor right from the news room of the Clemson TIGER, Thanksgiving holidays will be changed for the cadets. Here's probably the reason, too.

Thanksgiving holidays are scheduled to begin on November 21 and Homecoming is scheduled for the 24th. Seems like unless something drastic happens soon, we just won't have any festivities for students, because there won't be any students here to be festive.

I've heard all sorts of plans to move the holidays around, but the best came in a wire we just received from Washington.

"Am most willing to change national Thanksgiving celebration so it will not interfere with your Homecoming celebration. (signed) "Harry the Harpsichordist."

That just goes to show that at least one person is willing to cooperate. But what I'm aiming at is Should the holidays really be changed? Let's give it all a good thought before we go yapping about how wrong the administration is.

LETTERS TO TOM

Should you want to complain about anything, clear up anything, or just say something to a large number of people at one time, don't get a soap box and get out in front of the P. O. It just won't work.

The best way to do it would be to write a letter to Tom Clemson. Address this missile to the TIGER and be sure to sign your name to it. If you don't sign your name, we won't print it, no matter how many times you send copies to us. Keep it in mind and let us hear from you.

Platter Chatter....

By "T. K." VASSY

The cool crew has really been working through the hot summer! Many, many great platters have been released during the hotter months. You know, the summertime is a good time to buy records, because it is the normal slack season for the platter racket. Only in the summer do record stores have their sales, and then, too, the record companies put on all manners of stunts to entice people to buy.

Enough of the shopping hints department. Let's get down to music, or I should say up. Charlie Ventura has just formed a new small outfit with Buddy Rich on drums, Chubby Jackson on bass, and Marty Napoleon on the ivories. Ventura says he will not play pop, but rather "swing—in its most exciting form." Charlie's original plan was to rebuild his big band around this foursome strictly to play in his New Jersey roadhouse known as "Open House". They started out August 10 in the Silhouette Room, Chicago, after putting in a recording date for Mercury on August 6.

Along the same line is the note that Oscar Peterson has straightened out his labor permit difficulties and is back in this country, with a kick-off at Birdland. Peterson is expected to be with JATP when they hit the road tomorrow (Sept. 14).

Now to the record department. Shearing's latest are Brainwave, Midnight Mood; Don't Blame Me; and Simplicity. The quintet now includes Don Elliot, vibes; Chuck Wayne, guitar; Al McKibbin, bass; Denzil DeCosta Best, drums. George's later sides seem to be slipping a little downhill from some of the earlier sides. Maybe it is the shifting of sidemen, maybe not. I believe George is going the way of all flesh—commercial. But, after all, the man has to have some of that old green stuff.

One of the best big band numbers to come out lately is Woody Herman's arrangement of Leo The Lion on an MGM label. The style is similar to Krupa's Disc Jockey Jump. Only weak spot in the record is that twelve bars done up by the sax section.

Harry James has come out with a wedding of a tango and the blues and oddly enough the name of the side is Tango Blues. Flip is When the Sun Comes Out, not as good as Tango.

If you have a chance, listen to Benny Goodman's Down South Camp Meeting and South of the Border. Lou McGarity is on both sides. Meeting has a terrific bounce, reminiscent of some of the old Goodman Bands. Only difference is that the band is fuller, and Benny older. The arrangements are still Fletcher Henderson, and should be a strong push to the back-to-swing movement. As for the other side, Goodman should stay North of the border. We saw Illinois Jacquet in Philadelphia this summer, and was it a show. The only sideman we recognized was Jo Jones on drums. They kicked off with Jivin' with Jack the Bell-Boy, which he has recently recorded. It rocks. Next was Black Velvet, from which Harry James stole Doncha' Go 'Way Mad (James paid dearly). The show stopper was Flyin' Home, which featured a 5 minute solo by Jo. The rafters were still vibrating when we left the friendly city.

Appearing on the same program —by some ungodly coincidence was a character known as "Piano Red". He is even more monotonous in person than he is on record. Another "also appearing on the same program" was Savannah Churchill, whose neckline is her main attribute. When she takes a deep breath, it makes things walk that never had feet. To sum it up, Illinois was the whole show.

To those of you who got this far with the reading, excuse this column on the promise of a better one for next week. It takes a little time to get back into this stuff, too.

McFadden Announces 20 Game Basketball Schedule

By Harold Owen

IF IT TAKES WORK...

If hard work will make a championship team, the Tigers should really come through in great fashion this season. Coach Howard has put his boys through the proverbial mill in the first weeks of practice. We've seen some tackles and blocks out at practice this year that brought shudders and gasps from the interested onlookers. Some of the tackles remind us of the kind that are so common to the Carolina game. But strange as it may seem, the spirit of the team as a whole seems to have never been better.

Varsity-Fresh Are Looking Good

From the looks of things in practice, the Tigers may benefit a great deal from the new freshman rule. The frosh who are working out with the varsity have been performing like veterans on the practice field. Just to mention a few, "Red" Whitten, of Macon, Ga.; Wilton Hopkins, of McCormick; Clyde White, of Greenville; Ralph Rivers, of Louisville; Scott Jackson, of Manning, and also the incomparable Buck George, of Rock Hill.

The first time Whitten ran the ball in the practice game Saturday he galloped all the way to the double strips. Hopkins has run like a wild bull in practice from his wingback position and has been hard to stop once he gets into high gear. White, the high school All-American from Greenville, has been showing plenty of drive and should see some action this fall.

WHAT THE SPORTS EDITORS ARE SAYING

In the issue of the "All South Carolina Annual" there's a couple of pages devoted to what various sports editors think about the outcome of this year's football wars in the state. Their opinions seem to be divided on how the Clemson-Carolina tussle will turn out.

Wilton Garrison of the Charlotte Observer picks the Big Four Carolina team in this order, (1) Clemson, (2) South Carolina, (3) The Citadel, (4) Furman. The same goes for Red Canup of the Anderson Independent. Jake Penland of the State, Connie Morton of the Rock Hill Herald, and Ken Balfin of the Greenwood Index-Journal all like the chances of the Gamecocks in the state race. Nolly Sams of the Charleston Evening Post thinks The Citadel has a fine chance to finish on top.

TIGERS TO FINISH UNDEFEATED?

During one of our latest trips to the Clemson House we were handed a list of the predictions of the outcome of the Tiger games this year. This Bengal supporter (we presume he was a Bengal supporter) seemed so confident that he was right we decided to pass the scores along.

Here they are:
Clemson 44—PC 0
Clemson 14—Rice 7
Clemson 20—N. C. State 14
Clemson 24—College of Pacific 12
Clemson 14—Carolina 12
Clemson 13—Wake Forest 12
Clemson 14—Boston College 0
Clemson 20—Furman 0
Clemson 14—Auburn 0

But we aren't making any bets.

FROSH TEAM GIVEN PARTY

The Tiger Frosh football team was entertained at what was called by the coaches as one of the best parties ever given the freshmen last Saturday night at the Anderson Recreation Hall. The affair was sponsored by the Anderson Iptay Chapter.

It had everything possible that could be crammed into one night—food, talks, dancing and a floor show put on by performers of the city's amateur program.

The boys were fed old-fashioned barbeque and enjoyed talks by Coach Howard and the Anderson mayor, W. C. Johnston, who welcomed them to the city.

Cary Cox, former coach here, was master of ceremonies. Possibly the best feature of the night's activities was the fact that there was a girl for every boy at the affair.

West Virginia, N. C., And Tennessee Added To Tiger Basketball Schedule

Coach Banks McFadden has announced the 1951-52 Clemson basketball schedule. The Tiger cagemen are expected to begin regular workouts about the middle of November.

Doug Haugk, back for his final year on the hardwood for the Tigers, is expected to again bolster the McFaddenmen during the basketball season.

The Bengals are again to have one of the 'strongest teams in the state with such returning lettermen as John Snee, Doug Haugk, John McGraw, Ron Richardson, and Sonny Mooror. They lost only two men from last year's squad, Jack Neel and Bummy Townsend.

The Tiger squad opens their twenty game schedule Saturday, December 1, here at Clemson with the Georgia Bulldogs. Eight other home games are on the slate.

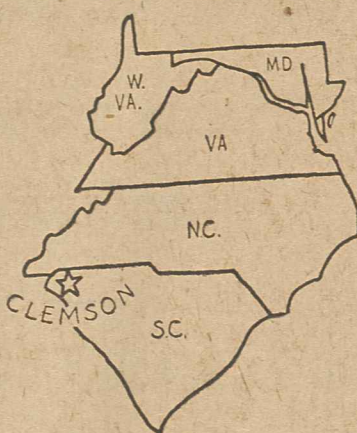

The schedule is as follows:
Sat., Dec. 1—Georgia—Here
Wed., Dec. 5—Georgia—There

The Southern Conference The Southern Conference

Editor note: This is the first in a series on two articles previewing the Southern Conference eleven in football this year.

With Washington and Lee leading the way in 1950, the powers of the Southern Conference of 1951 will be out to knock off the Generals. With Maryland, North Carolina, and our own home town Tigers furnishing the spark the race for the Conference crown should be tight down to the finish line.

Maryland with 22 returning lettermen, lead by All-American fullback Dick (Mighty Mo) Mod-zilewski, looks to be one of the powerhouses of the Southern Conference. Coach Jim Tatum says this is the best team he has ever had at Maryland.

The Blue Devils of Duke with William D. Murray at the reigns, after the appointment of Wallace Wade to commissioner of the conference will be switching to the split T from their traditional single wing. Ends Blaine Eason and Jim Gibson are expected to carry the major burden.

Although not looking for the powerhouse characteristic of past teams, Coach Carl Snavely is expecting to put the Tar Heels on the comeback trail. Captain and guard Joe Dudeck along with 25 veterans will have plenty to say about this subject.

Halfback Ed Weber who runs the 100 yards in less than 10 seconds, is expected to lead William and Mary to the top of the pack. Weber led the Indians in ground gained in 1949 but he was handicapped with a broken wrist last season.

The Demon Deacons of Wake Forest with a new coach, Tom Rogers, will be out to improve their last year's record of six victories, one defeat, and two ties. The Deacons, the No. 1 defensive eleven in the land last year, will be paced by Fullback Bill Miller and Larry Spencer.

With one of the trickiest formations in football and with 21 returning lettermen, VMI may prove to be the surprise team in the conference. In the formation, called the I-T, the linemen take their places in split T, spaced formation and the four backs are in a straight line in back of the center.

Intramural Schedule Announced For Year

As announced in last week's Tiger, the first of the Intramural Sports will be the swimming tests to be given to all freshmen. Beginning Thursday, September 14, the freshmen of the first battalion are scheduled for the tests. The schedule calls for freshmen from one of the battalions each night, September 14, 17, 18, and 20.

The volleyball courts have been put in condition with lines repainted and posts put up. Six games are to be played on each day of the activity, which is scheduled to begin on Wednesday, September 12. Volleyball will be the featured item on the Intramural sports calendar until October 10. The tournament takes up the major part of the final week of play. During this elimination tourney the school champions are determined.

Following volleyball in the Intramural program will be touch football, which makes its debut on October 10. There will be four games played each Monday, Wednesday, and Friday.

The swimming pool is open for students every day, but on Tuesday and Thursday nights and on Saturday morning, ladies are admitted for swimming. On Sundays the pool is open from 3:00 to 5:30 p. m. only and is for the use of students who are registered at Clemson.

A grenade throwing contest is scheduled for the last week of November and the first week of December.

Intramural basketball begins on December 10 and will continue through the first of March.

A NECESSARY EVIL is one that we like so well that we do not want it abolished.

Campus Interviews on Cigarette Tests

No. 22...THE WOODPECKER

Woodrow almost bit off more than he could chew when he tackled the cigarette tests! But he pecked away 'til he smoked out the truth: Such an important item as mildness can't be tossed off in a fleeting second! A "swift sniff" or a "perfunctory puff" proves practically nothing! He, like millions of smokers, found one test that doesn't leave you up a tree.

It's the sensible test... the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke—on a day-after-day basis. No snap judgments! Once you've enjoyed Camels for 30 days in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why...

After all the Mildness tests...

Meet Your Captain . . .

By WAYNE R. DAVIS

"I love that defense", were the words of the 1951 Captain of the Tiger team, Bob Patton, as he gazed across to the spot where the Tiger defensive platoon was scrimaging. Bob was working out in sweat togs due to a bruised hip suffered in practice, but with the will and love of the game shown by the 23 year old senior tackle from Gray Court, spectators knew that it would only be a day or two before he would be "cracking" again.

Strange as it may seem his football talents were not revealed until his entrance to Clemson in 1945. Bob played baseball and basketball in high school but it was his football ability that drew the praises of the coaches here at Clemson.

Uncle Sam called at the end of the 1945 season, and the big tackle was off to the Marine Corps. Bob served until 1948, then returned to the Tiger team to take up where he left off as a freshman.

Patton was just another name on the roster until 1949 when the hard charging lineman began to use his 219 pounds to the greatest advantage. Then in 1950 as the Tigers rolled to a great season the name Patton became well-known, for the likeable lineman was placed on the all-state team and on the International News Service all-southern squad.

Bob, who is majoring in vocational agricultural education, thinks that being named captain of the '51 Tigers is one of the greatest honors ever bestowed on him. He also says that the spirit and will to win of this year's squad is as good if not better than last year's.

It is not likely that the big boy will conclude his football playing with the end of this season, for he would like to play a few years of professional ball before hanging up the old moleskins.

It is not probable that the name of Bob Patton will be forgotten for a long time, for there will be very few players of the future that will attain the heights gained by the friendly tackle, who never played football until entering Clemson.

Letters to Tom Clemson

Dear Tom,

Recently I made application for a Senior N. C. A. R. B. Registration, the requirements for same are no doubt familiar to you.

After successfully completing my Record, I received a letter from the Examining Board, which began as follows:

"Your Council Record is not complete. As you are not a graduate of an accredited school of architecture, it will be necessary for you to establish proof of having obtained the equivalent of experience in practice."

Meeting the above requirement is no problem, the point is that graduates like myself are continually being reminded that as far as rating among architectural schools in this country is concerned, our degree isn't worth the paper on which it is written.

I concede the fact that if an individual applies himself, there is no scholastic reason why he would be below average after completing the architectural course at Clemson, but I think you will agree that steps should be taken by the school to eliminate the handicap placed upon its students, of being graduates of anything short of an accredited school.

There are thirty-eight schools and colleges on the accredited list furnished me by the examining board. Among them are: Auburn, Georgia Tech, N. C. State, V. P. I., and the University of Virginia. We have always presented high competition with these schools in every department of athletics, so why not in architecture?

Yours very truly,
David S. Cuttino, Jr. '28

P. S. For your information the National Architectural Accrediting Board was established in 1940 by joint action of The American Institute of Architects, The Association of Collegiate Schools of Architecture, and The National Council of Architectural Registration Boards. Howard Speaks At IPTAY Football Rally

Coach Frank Howard was guest speaker at the Greenville Clemson Alumni chapter's annual banquet held at Epps Eating Place in Greenville Tuesday night. Approximately 150 IPTAY members and Clemson supporters attended the pre-season football rally.

Prior to the main address, new officers in the Clemson Club for the coming year were elected and installed. The new officers were: President, Edgar A. Rosamond; vice-president, Bill Baker, Jr.; and secretary-treasurer, Herbert Provance, Jr. Retiring president, Fred Thompson, served as master of ceremonies.

Coach Howard spoke very cautiously concerning the Tigers' chances for the coming season. He did state that he thought that this year's forward wall is the best, both defensively and offensively, that Clemson has ever had. However, it remains to be seen how the backfield will shape up.

He added that the Bengals are planning to use the two-platoon system to a great extent but a good many of the players will play both the offense and defensive positions.

Howard summed up the positions and players as follows: He named Bryant as offensive center and McClellan as his substitute. Defensive centers were listed as Wade and Jolley.

Dan DiMucci is the number one man at the offensive right guard position with Hudson, Knight, and Freudenberger backing him up.

The left guard position seems to be capably filled by one Pete Manos. Charles Wyatt and Joe LaMontagne are the subs at the offensive left guard slot. Tom Barton is the number one candidate at the defensive position.

The right tackles on offense are Byrd, Arnold, Graham, and Gressette. Graham and Gressette are the defensive hopes for this position.

Mooneyham, Hipp, Wrightenberry, Patton, and White are the candidates for the offensive left tackle slot. At defense it will be Patton, Wrightenberry and White.

The offensive and defensive ends will be split up between Glenn Smith, Dreher Gaskins, Kempson, Gentry and Noel.

At the quarterback position will be either George Rodgers, a former guard, or Doug Herlong. Rodgers has been looking good at the signal calling position vacated by Dick Hendley.

Jim Shirley, Lawrence Gressette, and Marion Thompson are the number one candidates at the fullback position.

Besides triple-threat Billy Hair at the tailback slot will be Wells, Rivers, and Parades.

The defensive safety position is headed by Cook, Wells and Moxley.

The wingback candidates are Buck George, Frank Kennedy, Ward, Whitten and Hopkins. Howard stated that he thought one of the five should come through in great fashion.

At the defensive halfbacks we will find Knoebel, Wade, Ross, Baker or Hankinsen.

Howard summed up the team as being pretty good but he was uncertain about the safety and line backer positions.

Colonel Forrest E. Cookson, commandant of Clemson College, paid tribute to Coach Howard as he lauded him as a great coach and a patriotic American.

New Technique In Physics Classes Taught At Baylor

Waco, Texas.—(I.P.)—To most college students seeking a general education, physics is nothing but a maddening tangle of obscure theories lost in a maze of logarithms and trigonometric formulas. Such is no longer the case at Baylor University. The change is due to a new textbook written by Dr. Sherwood Githens, Jr., chairman of Baylor's physics department.

Dr. Githens' text seeks to familiarize the student with the basic fundamentals of physics without over-taxing his knowledge of advanced mathematics. While some high school trigonometry and algebra are used in the new system, the emphasis is on physics and as is stated in the preface of the text the student will be getting a course "in" physics, not "about" it.

"It is hoped," says Dr. Githens, "that this new text will be better not only for the student seeking a general education, but also for those who intend to go into some field requiring knowledge of only certain phases of the broad study of physics."

Dr. Githens is a consultant of the Applied Physics laboratory of Johns Hopkins University at Silver Springs, Md., where he was employed before coming here. He also taught at Harvard.

DO YOU INHALE?

Then you certainly should be smoking PHILIP MORRIS!

THIS TEST TELLS YOU WHY:

1 Take a PHILIP MORRIS and any other cigarette. Light up either one first. Take a puff—get a good mouthful of smoke—and s-l-o-w-l-y let the smoke come directly through your nose.

2 Now, do exactly the same thing with the other cigarette. Notice that with PHILIP MORRIS you don't get the bite, sting and irritation that you do with your own brand.

PROVE TO YOURSELF PHILIP MORRIS IS DEFINITELY LESS IRRITATING, DEFINITELY MILDER!

REMEMBER: The irritation you feel in your nose is the same irritation that occurs in your throat every time you inhale! Don't let irritation spoil the good taste, the fine flavor, the rich pleasure of smoking. For a better smoke than you've ever known before, try PHILIP MORRIS—the one cigarette proved definitely less irritating, definitely milder than any other leading brand.
