

Work Begun On Laundry Expansion

Laundry Addition Will Double Output

The new extension to the cadet laundry which is now under construction will almost double the present output of the laundry. The addition will put 1787.8 feet of new floor space in the laundry. The distribution room will be moved from its present location beneath the physics building to the laundry, and it will remain open from 8:00 to 12:00 a. m. and 1:00 to 6:00 p. m., which will be a great advantage to the cadets as well as the laundry.

At present, all laundry must exchange hands about ten different times before it is finally returned to the cadets. When the extension is completed, however, laundry will change hands only twice.

Three new laundering units will also be added; this will allow the laundry to wash about 325 more pairs of pants per day.

The laundry has announced that the service of having pants pressed while you wait has been discontinued because it puts an unnecessary strain on the laundry, and causes other cadets to have to wait longer for the return of their clothes.

It will take approximately two more weeks for the laundry to catch up on its back work. Mr. Frank Dillard has announced that, if work on the extension continues at its present rate, it will be finished by the first of November.

Bloodmobile To Visit Campus Again, Blood Is Urgently Needed

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will again visit the Clemson campus on October 15-16 for the purpose of taking blood donations. The bloodmobile will belong to the Asheville Blood Donor Center, the same group that made last year's collections on the campus.

On Monday, October 15, collections will be made from 1 p. m. to 7 p. m. However, on Tuesday the collections will begin at 9 a. m.

Blood is urgently needed by the Red Cross for the Korean battle front. All students and community people are urged to make appointments now to give blood, by calling Mrs. H. L. Hunter at 6070 in Clemson.

Correction

Correction—It was erroneously stated in last week's TIGER that an accident occurred in the wood shop. The accident took place in the industrial education lab and not the wood shop, which boasts a perfect safety record.

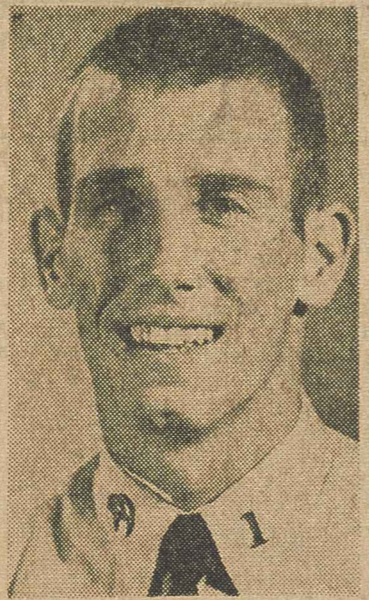

The Clemson chapter of Blue Key sent a delegation consisting of the Intercollegiate Relations Committee, faculty adviser, and president of the chapter to the University of South Carolina Wednesday to meet with the University chapter and plan for better relations between the schools on the State Fair weekend. Harry Dukes, chairman of the committee; Miles Bruce and Harry Lightsey, members of the committee; Frank Butner, faculty adviser; and Bill Brown, president of the Clemson Blue Key attended the meeting.

The purpose of the meeting is to plan the annual Clemson-Carolina dance on the Wednesday night before the game, and to make for better relations during the festivities.

Columbia, South Carolina

Dear Editor:

In view of the trouncing given South Carolina by Duke University and the brouncing given Presbyterian by Clemson's Tigers, we feel assured of a victory on Big Thursday; however, you undoubtedly feel the Gamecocks will triumph.

In order to establish better relations between the schools, we would like to revive a tradition of the past participated in by editors of the Gamecock and THE TIGER. However, we propose to participate on a larger scale this year.

We, the Co-Editors—Charles Meiburg and Louis Henry—and News Editor—Stan Kohn, hereby challenge the editor of the Gamecock, and two other representatives whom he may choose, to present themselves at the Wade Hampton Coffee Shop after the Clemson-Carolina football game, October 25, 1951.

At this time, the three representatives of the newspaper representing the losing school will publicly eat the previous issue of their "rag".

"Gamecock if you don't!"

Fraternally yours,

Louis Henry, Co-Editor
Stan Kohn, News Editor

The TIGER, in an effort to revive school spirit during the State Fair weekend in Columbia, and particularly at the Clemson-Carolina football game, has issued a written challenge to the Gamecock, University of South Carolina student publication, which is intended to be in the interest of better student relationships between the student bodies of both schools.

The Co-Editors of the TIGER, Charles Meiburg and Louis Henry, and the News Editor, Stan Kohn, have challenged the Editor of the Gamecock to present himself with two other representatives of his paper at a meeting in the Wade Hampton Coffee Shop in Columbia after the Clemson-Carolina football game. At this meeting the three staff members of the newspaper that represents the school that loses the game will publicly eat the previous issue of their newspaper.

The Gamecock has not yet answered the letter from the TIGER, however, it is expected that they will accept. This is not the first time that such a challenge has been issued by one of the schools.

Presbyterians Will Hold State-Clemson Game Radio Party

Clemson's Presbyterian Student Association will hold its second radio party on Saturday night, October 6 beginning at 7:45 o'clock in the Club Room of the Fort Hill Presbyterian Church. The medal is being presented for Major Gramling's exemplary service in Korea. The major has been reported missing in action.

General Beiderlinden was Commanding General of the 44th Infantry Division and was promoted to Major General in 1949. A native of Missouri, the General is a graduate of the Command and General Staff School and the Field Artillery School. He holds the Legion of Merit, the Bronze Star Medal, and the Commendation Ribbon. The General enlisted in the Army in 1917 and was appointed a First Lieutenant that same year. DON'T GET ME WRONG, BUT ...

Perish The Paddle Pulverizers; Put Pledges To Painting

By Stan Kohn

Destructive Initiations

Don't think for a moment that I'm against paddles. They are the greatest convincers that sophomores have, and they can't be beat as persuaders. But as used by fraternities in initiations, they're out of place. Here's why.

It is understood by all initiates that they are at the mercy of the actives of the fraternity or club they happen to be pledging. And as a lowly pledge (neophyte, cub, discard, or scab) they do just what any member wishes. That usually amounts to nothing more than bending over and letting some weak-minded student pound on your posterior with a four pound paddle. And believe me, that's as destructive as an organization can get. They're wasting valuable time.

The so-called service clubs on this campus could do much to better the community, their reputation, and the campus outlook on their organization should they happen to do something constructive on the campus. Recently a service organization which incidentally, has a chapter on this campus, did away with paddling and hazing as part of their initiation. Their pledges were required to paint the interior and exterior of the home of one of the poorer families in the community.

Another fraternity at a Southern university required their pledges to canvas the community to collect old clothes, which were turned over to the community chest old-clothes drive. Still another fraternity on the same campus placed their pledges under command of the local Red Cross. They were used to circulate blood drive pledges on their campus.

There are innumerable ways that fraternities can better their names by doing away with their silly costume parades and stupid after-dinner meetings under the paddle. Lets get on it.

Wash Your Socks

I've heard so many boys wanting to know how to wash those woolen socks that the gal back home knitted last winter, that I thought I'd pass on the procedure that I've been using for mine. They're valuable keepsakes and besides they keep your footies warm, so do it right.

The best thing for the socks is to wash them after each wearing. Use only luke-warm water (that means almost cool), and only a mild soap (the kind you wash your face and not your floor). Put the socks under the water and squeeze the socks gently while sudsing. After completely sudsing the socks, rinse them in water of the same temperature as the wash water.

The drying process is as important as the washing procedure. Press water out of the socks, don't wring them. Then roll in a towel to remove the excess water. Shape socks on a towel or place on a form for drying.

Things not to do and which will ruin those precious memories of that gal back home include using hot water, soaking the socks before washing, using harsh soaps, and scrubbing and wringing the socks out.

Lesson number two on brushing your teeth will be given at a later date.

It Happened

These three football players woke up one morning at the Shamrock Hotel and discovered that all the liquor was gone.

"Boy! Do I need a drink," said the first one. Suddenly he had an idea. "I'm going to try something boys," he said after dressing. "Wait here and I'll let you know if it works."

He went down to the bar, ordered a drink, drank it, and started out. The bartender called, "Hey, bud, you didn't pay for your drink."

The would-be exitee said, "Oh, yes I did. I just paid you."

The bartender didn't want a quarrel so he let the football player go. He got back upstairs, and announced, "It worked!" He described what had happened, and the second of the trio hurried downstairs to the bar to try his luck.

The second fellow had his drink, started out, and was also halted by the bartender calling after him: "Hey, bud, you forgot to pay for your drink."

Number two said, "I just paid you." Again the bartender shrugged and let him leave.

So down came the number three footballer. He ordered his drink and while he was drinking it the bartender came over and said, "Pardon me, friend, but I'd like some advice. Two guys just came in here, had drinks, started out, and I said, 'You owe me for your drink.' Each said 'No, I just paid you.' Look at me. Am I goin' nuts?"

"I don't know," said number three. "Better give me my change and let me get out of here."

TALK OF THE TOWN

Conduct at Concerts Could Be Corrected or Cancelled

By: "Doc" Baker

OPENED WITH A CALL

Last Thursday night the Clemson Concert Series opened with the U. S. Navy Band doing the honors. This was their fourth appearance in the would-be auditorium.

The students really went wild when the band played "Tiger Rag"—Clemson style. These programs are a regular part of a student's life. Usually the conduct is excellent.

However, at Clemson some of the boys take courses that deal with swine. To those who were participating Thursday night, please don't call the performers on the stage with the "who-oops" of a pig-caller.

SMOKE DOESN'T HELP

While we're on the subject of the concerts, let's look at one of the undesirable things that happened during the evening. At intermission several people smoked. I must say here and now, the students were not the only ones puffing away. Nevertheless, some of the students were smoking inside the building.

I think it would be better for the non-smokers as well as the performers if we refrained from this practice inside the gymnasium—not only during concerts but athletic events as well.

Oh, yes! Those hog calling "who-oops" sound mighty appropriate when the visiting team is coming on the court—No implication, just psychological effect.

STRUTTIN' IN ANDERSON

Monday afternoon, Clemson's Band and Pershing Rifle Platoon drilled in a parade inaugurating Anderson's Community Chest drive. I heard several people compliment the band. Also, the cadets with the M-1's received several ovations as they went through their various movements with expert preciseness—Just letting a few more people know where Clemson is.

COLOR WEARERS

I have a few more reports on Clemson men who have entered the military services since their graduation.

A. Q. Woodward, Sam Morrah, and Marvin Livingston are at Fort Benning, Ga. Huh! These boys were Ordnance personnel, too. (?)

Gene McLeod is at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md.

Letters To Tom Clemson

Dear Tom,

Last June I left Tigertown for the last time and enrolled at the University of Michigan in order to finish the last two years of my forestry course. I can't say that I miss reveille or Saturday morning inspection very much, but after two years of Clemson training it is hard to forget the old place. (Especially since I didn't get but one year of rat service.) Therefore, I have one complaint, and it goes like this.

On Saturday, September 29, 1951, I am sitting with a crowd of 97,000 seeing Michigan State trample the University of Michigan 25-0. But what am I thinking? Just this—I wonder what the Tigers are doing now. Well, after the game I go home, turn on the radio, and get some football scores—thinking now I'll hear how they made out. I hear how Wake Forest beat N. C. State and how S. C. beat Citadel, but Clemson—"never heard of the place." On Sunday morning I look through the Detroit News, the Chicago Herald Tribune, and the Ann Arbor News. I see scores like Catawba 25-Erskine 6 and Lenoir Rhyne 21-Newberry 0, but Clemson—"where is that?"

I don't know whether grads and other transfers have this trouble, but if they do, I'm sure most of them must be "off their rockers" during the football season. It's bad enough to have to put up with these d—Yankees, and when I can't even get a football score the situation is reaching a crisis. Will someone please get on the stick down there and give out with some national publicity? Up here it's easy to understand why people have never heard of us and unless something is done toward giving the school some publicity, they never will.

I'll be looking for a full column in the Detroit News next Sunday. Sincerely,
Bob Farmer '53

Dear Tom,

This is the true situation on the Clemson-Carolina football game tickets. Out of a total of 34,000 seats in Carolina stadium, Clemson gets only 13,600. This is not the fault of anyone at Clemson but is due to the fact that the University of South Carolina allows the seats to be used in their stadium. Because of this, Clemson's allotment has to be spread very thin.

First there are 2,800 Clemson students to be taken care of. Then there are 5,800 IPTAY members, approximately 50 Clemson football players who get tickets, 300 faculty members, and 600 date tickets. No Clemson tickets are put on sale to the general public. Under these circumstances, you can see what a problem the distribution of Clemson's allotment of tickets become. That is why no more than 600 tickets can be allotted for dates and why some IPTAY applications have to be returned.

L. W. Hampton

Dear Tom,

Dear Tom,

I want to thank you on behalf of all of us here for that good editorial that you put in your first issue. The article was clipped and posted on one of the main bulletin boards. Everyone read it and appreciated it very much. They appreciated most of all that someone understood the problem and wrote about it instead of writing with the seemingly popular viewpoint that the Academy was all wrong.

Sincerely,
John Cannon

Dear Tom,

In recent months many newspapers have published editorials and articles concerning honor in the nation in general and at West Point in particular. Very few have been favorable or even understanding to the problem we faced. We were either going to have an honor system or we were not. I have heard the question, "What do you like most about the Academy?", asked of several cadets and the answer has invariably been, "The honor system." I think that you will agree that no better situation could exist than to implicitly trust those about you and to be trusted yourself. Not to have taken the steps that were taken would have meant the end of this condition at West Point and of one of the things most loved by all cadets and alumni of the Academy—the honor system.

Your editorial in the September 10 issue of THE TIGER has been called to the attention of the entire Corps of Cadets and it is my pleasure to extend the gratitude of every one here for your excellent article and your confidence in us.

Sincerely,

Lovett, New Director of Music, Has Varied Career

By Tommy Matthews

Until the U. S. Navy Band concert last Thursday night, few people knew that Clemson has a new acting director of music, and most of those know very little about him. Robert Emerson Lovett is the acting director in the absence of Hugh H. McGarity, who is on leave for further study.

Mr. Lovett was born in York, Pennsylvania, in 1919. He graduated from high school there, and studied chemistry at Ithaca College in Ithaca, New York. He then worked as a chemist in a paper mill, but his "heart wasn't in it." After working at this for a short time, Mr. Lovett decided to pursue his study of music, since he began studying voice and violin at the age of nine. He decided to return to Ithaca College and major in music.

At this time, Ithaca, which is a part of Cornell University, had about 1500 students enrolled in music, and, from these students, Mr. Lovett organized his own fifteen piece dance band. This band soon became very popular among the eastern colleges and universities, and before Mr. Lovett graduated, they played dance engagements at West Point, Colgate, and other large schools. After graduating from Ithaca, he did post graduate work at Columbia University in New York.

Mr. Lovett's first teaching job was at Murray State Teachers College in Murray, Kentucky. While there, he was a very busy individual. In one two-semester school year he instructed twenty-five voice majors, directed over forty concerts, five oratorios and cantatas, took his thirty-six voice a cappella choir on two tours, directed a 150-voice mixed chorus, gave twenty-five personal voice recitals, directed the Presbyterian Church choir, traveled 200 miles per week over the Mayfield school system, was a member of the Murray String Quartet in Residence and the Murray Symphony Orchestra, and adjudicated all vocal music for the Western Kentucky high school music festival. When asked why he worked so hard and handled such a diversified program, Mr. Lovett replied, "I had to prove not only to the college, but also to myself that I could teach competently." He certainly proved that point well.

Mr. Lovett's time is not devoted to music entirely, however. He manages to spend the week-ends with his wife and two children, a boy of seven and a little girl six months old. He has been married nine years, and he says that his wife is "a better musician than I."

Mr. Lovett has a very good service record which he is very modest about. All the information about this record that he will divulge is that he was in five European campaigns with the tank destroyers. The reason he gives for telling this is "so the boys won't think it was a rear echelon job."

Mr. Lovett is a very proficient musician as well as a teacher. While he was at Columbia he appeared at Town Hall twice as tenor soloist, and played first violin in the famous Riverside Symphony Orchestra in New York.

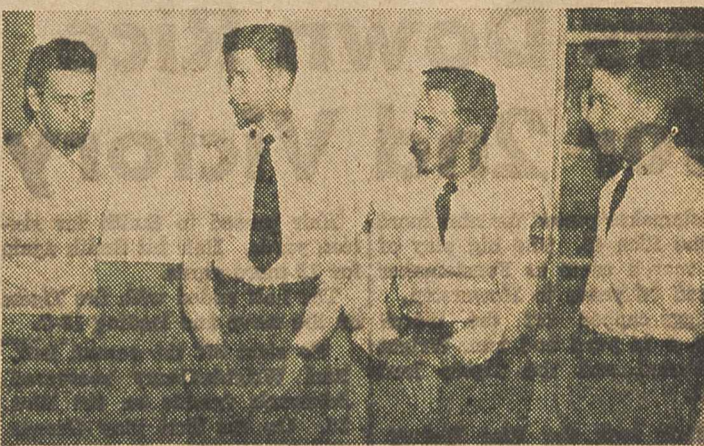

He likes all athletics, especially basketball, tennis, boating and his favorite, swimming. At Ithaca he was director of the YMCA summer camp, and at Murray he was a member of the executive committee of the 1950 North-South Cage Classic.

At Clemson Mr. Lovett says that he hopes to develop the music department, and have a band rehearsal every day. He says that "Clemson has one of the finest community concert programs in the country." He has already accomplished a good thing in having the band company designated official host to the concert personalities.

Clemson Branch AAUW Will Meet October 11 At Methodist Church

Easley Lions Will Hold Ladies Night At Clemson House

The Easley Lions Club will hold its annual ladies' night supper in the Sabre Room of the Clemson House on October 11 at 8 p. m. Approximately 150 guests are expected for the annual meeting.

Mr. Wade Burley, Spartanburg humorist, is scheduled to be the after dinner entertainer. President of the Easley Lions Club is R. A. Jones. The three vice presidents are E. S. Pepper, B. F. Childress and L. J. Blakely. Lawrence Lenhardt is secretary-treasurer of the club, Henry Holder is tail-twister, and Garnet Barnes is lion-tamer.

The Clemson branch of the American Association of University Women will be host to new and prospective members at a covered dish supper in the social hall of the Methodist Church at 7 p. m. on Thursday, October 11.

Mrs. H. H. Willis, membership chairman of the local branch, has announced that the supper will be open to any eligible woman in the community or adjoining town.

Miss Marguerite Tolbert, state president of A. A. U. W., will be honor guest and speaker. A graduate of Winthrop College, and former faculty member of that school, Miss Tolbert became a trustee of the college in 1950.

Last June she was awarded the Mildred Sullivan Medallion, which is given annually to an alumna. She is the twelfth Winthrop alumna to receive this honor.

Miss Tolbert has been supervisor of adult education for the State Department of Education since 1946. She is the newly-elected president of the Southeastern Association for Adult Education.

Through the American Association of University Women, college and university alumnae in 1,154 communities are working together in behalf of practical education, and especially for a fellowship program to encourage gifted women scholars.

Miss Anna C. Pitts of Seneca, and Miss Margaret Burr Des Champs of Bishopville are the two South Carolina beneficiaries of the fellowship fund during the 1951-52 academic year.

BOOK REVIEW

'THE SUN ALSO RISES'

By RAFIQUE SAIGOL and CHARLES VUKSTA

"Mike was a bad drunk. Brett was good drunk. Bill was a good drunk. Cohn was never drunk." So goes the story of this group of English and American drifters on the continent who have the money and the time to blow where they list, from the boulevards of Paris to the bull-fights of Spain, bathing, eating and drinking while. The story was written at a time when United States was trying its great experiment—prohibition. And yet, the consumption of liquor per square inch in "The Sun Also Rises" reaches the maximum pressure, for just as these characters could not exist without their frequent and generous libation, so, I think, Hemingway's story could not be told within the limits of what was so preposterously known in this country as "law enforcement"—meaning usually the illegal imposition of one measure. If there are people who wonder why six cocktails grow where only one grew before, this book will tell them. The characters bathe and eat much of the time, they make love part of the time, but they never stop drinking.

Conversation is the method chiefly used, and it is real talk, not mere writing. One critic praises it thus: "The dialogue is brilliant. If there is better dialogue being written today I do not know where to find it. It is alive with the rhythms and idioms, the pauses and suspensions, the innuendoes and shorthands of living speech." But another attack is thus, "If to report correctly and endlessly the rapid talk and indolent thinking of Montparnasse cafe idlers is to write a novel, Mr. Hemingway has written a novel." Personally, regardless of the subject-matter of the book, the fact remains that Ernest Hemingway writes dialogue very effectively, so effectively, that he has merely to allow one to hear the sound of the character's voice in order to plant him vividly before the reader. Those familiar with the particular world of Paris, which is the axis of the narrative, will note that Hemingway has managed to introduce several easily identified people of minor importance intrinsically, but of deeper importance as physical phenomena: Robert Cohn, who learning boxing "painfully and thoroughly to counteract the feeling of inferiority and shyness he had felt in Princeton on being treated as a Jew," is something more than an impression of a certain editor in exile. is portrait at Hemingway's hands becomes an amazing character study.

But all of the portrait is not there. Hemingway doesn't fill out his characters and let them stand for themselves; he isolates one or two chief traits which reduce them to caricature. His perception of the physical object is direct and accurate; his vision of character, singularly oblique. No one can dispute with a writer the significance he derives from his subject matter, one can only point out that the significance is mixed or incomplete. Brett is a nymphomaniac, Robert Cohn, a most offensive cad; both are puppets, for the emphasis is false. And Hemingway actually betrays the interior machinery of his hard-boiled attitude "It is awfully easy to be hard-boiled about everything in the daytime, but at night it is another thing," says Jake Barnes, the sexually impotent, musing at the futile access of Brett Ashley, the attractive, wayward, oversexed Lady Ashley, whose activities consist mainly of having drinks, lovers and passionate moments of sincerity with the author's ego. The history of Jake's sentimentality is thus complete.

Ernest Hemingway is not merely a student of expatriate alcoholism, he is a bull-fighting connoisseur too, and when his group of tragic comedians arrive at Pamploplona for the fiesta, he dwells with the expert's affection upon every aspect of the affair without giving the impression that he is determined to show how much he knows. He enters into the technicalities and leaves the picturesque to emerge as best it can, and it does emerge more truly and impressively than from any bravura passage. The reason being that the technical details of the bullfight are no more and no less to the author than the details of the innumerable drinks and dishes consumed in the course of that hectic week. All these matters are equal in the sight of the author, who with the utmost gravity, certain in managing his effects, carefully records what each person drinks or does.

The technique of this book is fascinating. When one is not being swept along by astonishing dialogue, obvious, profound, subtle or commonplace—but always alive—one is listening to careful enumeration of the little facts whose cumulative effect is to give them the importance of remarkable incident. The description of Pamplo during the festival week is reporting of the most laconic type. We are told what preparations are made, we see the bulls being unloaded from the train, the peasants swarming in from the countryside, and we are plunged into tavern brawls and carousals. At no time does the author attempt to "write up" the scenes, but in the end one has the feeling of having spent the week there.

In the midst of all this, Mr. Hemingway never loses sight of his psychological deracines, who so strongly merge themselves into the stream of elementary content. Fishing in Spain or drinking scotch. Remote as they seem from the setting, they are part of (Continued on Page 6)

TIGERS SPARKLE IN BEATING OWLS

The Tigers played a great brand of ball in hurdling the "big test" of the season by beating the Rice Owls in Houston Saturday. The Tigers outplayed, outfought, and outguessed the big Texans in winning their second game of the season.

As one who only listened to the game over the radio it seemed to us that the Tigers exhibited a flashier and more potent offensive than they did last season. It's been a long time since Clemson has seen a better pass combo than the Hair-Smith team. Whenever Billy slings Glenn is usually somewhere around to gather the oval in.

Hair was nothing short of sensational again last week against Rice. The big, burly Rice linemen seemed set upon putting Billy out of the game. But William, the great competitor that he is, shrugged aside his aches and pains to carry the Tigers to the victory, though Billy may feel the effects of the game for sometime.

The Tiger pass defense was unusually alert in batting down the Rice tosses. In past years pass defense has been one of the great Tiger weaknesses. But in this game the backfield rose to the occasion in holding down Rice's passing attacks. The most notable occasion was Jimmy Quarles' 90 yard touchdown run after he intercepted a pass.

The Tigers worked well together and seemed to be greatly improved over their showing against PC. STATE MAY BE RUGGED ELEVEN

Clemson may be in for a rough time this Saturday when they travel to the north country to meet NC State. The Tigers should be able to take their third win Saturday, but if Billy Hair isn't in top shape the game could develop into a close battle.

The Tigers will enter the game at least a six point favorite since the Wolfpack has had tough going in their last two encounters. They lost to Wake Forest last week and North Carolina the week before. Pigskin Pete whose predictions appear in the Sporting News and who last week gave the Tigers a six point spread against Rice, picks the Tigers to win this one by the same number of points.

The Wolfpack will enter the game with virtually the same lineup that went through last season. This should make them a greatly improved squad over the one that the Bengals beat last year 27-0.

The 'Pack line will average slightly over 200 pounds but will be led by Elmer Costa who was mentioned on numerous All-American selections last year. NO BOWL GAME FOR TIGERS

As things stand now, the Tigers will not play in a bowl game come New Year's Day, undefeated season or not. The Southern Conference decided last Friday night that no Southern Conference team would be allowed to participate in a post season game.

This was a cruel blow to the Tigers who appear to be headed for a great season and especially to the players who were looking forward to playing in a bowl.

This decision will possibly end in either some of the conference teams withdrawing to form a new league or the eventual end of bowl games. Southern Conference teams have long been one of the best drawing cards for post season affairs and with them out of the picture it may prove difficult for bowl committees to find enough high calibre teams. And without good teams the bowls won't make any profit.

If the glamor and glitter is removed from the bowls it will lead eventually to the deemphasis of football. Lately it's been hard for the athletic associations to break even and it will be harder without the money obtained from bowl receipts.

The Conference's decision undoubtedly was aimed at trying to keep college football from turning pro and possibly in the long run the decision may turn out to be a wise one. FRESHMEN TO HAVE RIFLE TEAM

All freshmen who are interested in joining the freshmen rifle team are asked to sign up with Sgt. Reed next Monday. The team will begin practice almost immediately after the freshmen have signed up.

RICE'S TEDDY RIGGS GETS 3 YARDS, HAND IN FACE
A Group of Tigers Gang Teddy on Clemson's 35-Yard LineHair Stars As Tigers Down Rice
Saturday 20-14 for 2nd Victory

Clemson's high flying Tigers took their first big step toward an undefeated season as they subdued the Rice Owls 20-14 in Houston, Texas, last Saturday night.

It was Billy Hair who lead the Tigers to their second victory as he carried the ball 18 times for 84 yards and completed nine passes to Otis Kempson and Glenn Smith for 137 yards.

"Sweet William" took a terrific beating in the game, but it failed to slow down the amazing and versatile tailback.

Buck George also did an outstanding job at wingback as he played with the finesse of a veteran. George raced 26 yards for the Tigers' victory clinching TD in the third period.

Jimmy Quarles, Archie Baker, Bob Patton, Tom Barton, and "Knobby" Knoebel were the defensive standouts for the Tigers, as they time and again stopped the Owl offensive machine.

Approximately 35,000 spectators saw the Tigers win the toss and elected to receive. Buck George took the boot and returned to the Clemson 23. Billy Hair faked a pass and skirted end for 15 yards.

Hair then passed to Glenn Smith, but Rice was offside and the Tigers took the penalty. Shirley hit the middle for two.

Hair again passed to Smith, this one good for 14 yards to the Rice 37.

The Tigers bogged down for three plays, but on fourth down Hair faked a kick and raced to the Owls 25. The Tigers first TD came on the next play as Hair faded and passed to Otis Kempson in the end zone. Radcliff converted and the Tigers lead 7-0.

The Owls could gain only ten yards after taking the kickoff and were forced to punt.

Cook caught the punt and was downed on the Tiger 11. A ten yard gain by George was nullified by a backfield in motion penalty. With the ball on the nine yard line Hair punted on third down.

Billy Daniels carried the punt back 24 yards to the Clemson 21. Riggs carried to the Tiger 11. Riggs lost seven but gained five of them back on the next play. Burkhalter was hit for no gain.

On fourth down with ten to go, Jimmy Quarles intercepted Drake's pass and galloped 90 yards to score the Tigers' second touchdown. Radcliff's conversion was wide and the Tigers led 13-0.

The first quarter ended a minute later.

The Tigers held the Owls on the next series of plays and Johnson punted to his own 46.

Hair passed to Kempson for 20 yards to the Rice 25. Shirley drove for 15 yards in three attempts to place the ball on the Owls' 10.

Hair ran for one and then passed to Kempson who was tackled on the one yard mark. But the play was nullified by a penalty and the Tigers were moved back to their 25.

Rice then took the ball over on downs. This was the beginning of a 75-yard touchdown march by the Owls.

Fenstermaker passed for 10.

yards to the Rice 45. The big play of the march came as Fenstermaker passed 36 yards to Howerston.

Riggs capped off the march with a 14 yard end run. Wright converted and the Tigers lead 13-7.

Hair took the Rice kickoff and raced back 33 yards to the Clemson 44. Hair overthrew Kempson on the next play.

The Tigers gained a first down on the Rice 46 because of pass interference. The Tigers were then penalized 15 yards for illegal use of the hands.

The Tigers failed to gain back the lost yardage and Rice took over on their own 38.

Rice also failed to make a first down and booted to the Clemson five. Hair gained six. Shirley bulled for 11 more.

Hair passed to Smith for sixteen yards. Hair hit Smith again for 13 more yards.

The half ended with the Tigers on the move and leading 13-7.

To start off the second half, Earl Wrightenberry recovered Johnson's fumble on the Rice 26. On the first play George slid off tackle and went over standing up. Radcliff converted and the Tigers lead 20-7.

Riggs carried the Bengal kickoff to his own 41. He picked up 11 yards to the Clemson 48. Fenstermaker passed 34 yards to Howerston who ran to the 11. Riggs ran for the nine.

Gentry was stopped for no gain. But Johnson hit the middle for a touchdown. The conversion was good but the Tigers were still ahead, 20-14.

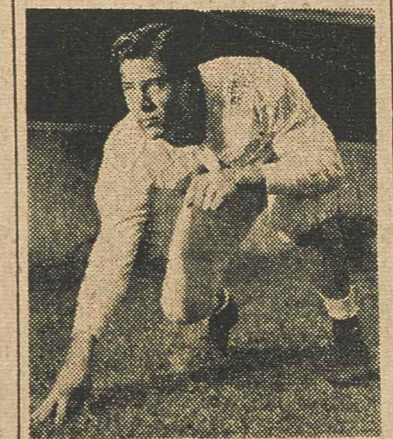

On the third play after the

Kempson, Tig End, Plays
Great Game Against Rice

By BOBBY MIXON

Just before the football season started, Clemson End Coach Bob Jones made the statement that the Tigers' crop of flankmen rated among the finest in the history of football at the school.

One of the reasons which prompted Coach Jones to make this statement is a youthful, dark-haired athlete called Otis Kempson.

Kempson was also featured in another announcement of that week in which Coach Howard mentioned that Kempson would be called on during the coming year to strengthen the Bengal punting department. This partially illustrated Kempson's amazing versatility in almost all aspects of athletics.

The 6' 2" Kempson was born in Kingstree, South Carolina, and participated in three major sports, football, baseball, and basketball.

In his first four years of high school football, Otis played end, but was transferred to a halfback position during his senior year.

His ability to play almost any position was demonstrated also on the baseball diamond, where he alternated between the hot corner and the pitcher's mound.

In the remaining time sandwiched between the football and baseball seasons, Otis functioned as a scrappy guard on the basketball team.

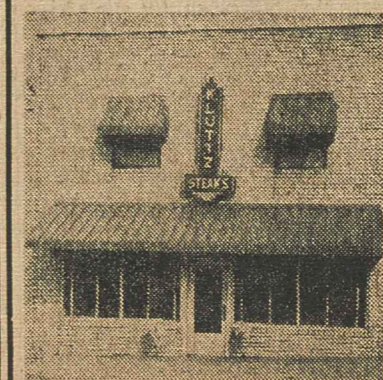

During his final year in high school, Kempson was selected to play in the All-Star game held in Columbia every year as a climax to the annual Coaches' Clinic.

Kempson then enrolled in Clemson College and played on the freshman team which had a fair season that year. He began to make his capabilities known during his sophomore year.

Otis is a junior now and still has another year of eligibility left after this season. He is studying agronomy at Clemson, but he would like to go into the coaching profession after graduation.

Kempson, considered the fastest end of the squad, says that he received his greatest football thrill when he was assigned a starting position in last year's Missouri game. This was the first time he had drawn a starting post in his varsity career.

Last week, against Rice, Kempson lived up to all that had been expected of him. He made a leaping catch of Hair's pass in the end zone for Clemson's first score. It was also Kempson's first varsity touchdown and it was his way of celebrating his 21st birthday which happened to fall on that date.

Pete Manos Playing Last Year At Guard Position For Bengals

By Carroll Moore

Pete Manos, better known as "Greek" around the Clemson campus, has already proven himself to be one of the best running guards ever to play on the Tiger team. Pete, now playing his final year at his offensive left guard position, tion, is expected to be a main cog in opening the way for the Tiger backfield.

Although Pete is from Brooklyn, N. Y., he has spent the last eight years of his life in the South. He attended Carlisle Military Academy in Bamberg, S. C., and then entered Clemson in September, 1948. The likable senior is majoring in education and is expected to graduate in February, 1953. Pete stands 5' 10" and weighs in at 195 pounds.

While attending Carlisle, Pete participated in two major sports. "Greek" played the guard position on Carlisle's football squad his freshman and sophomore years and moved to quarterback his junior year. His senior year at CMA he again played in the backfield, but this time it was from the fullback position.

Pete was captain and was voted the most valuable player during his final year at the military prep school. He also played in the Upper and Lower State All-Star game his junior year.

Pete also played on the Carlisle baseball nine. He captained the team his senior year from his regular backstop position.

TIGERS, GAMECOCKS, FAVORED IN PIGSKIN FORECAST FOR WEEK

By Bill Burnett and Bobby Mixon

Here we go again out on the limb with our predictions for the third week. Last week we were correct in 32 out of 42 guesses for an average of .762. This brought our percentage down to .769 for the first two weeks, having made 60 selections out of 78 games. Upsets hurt us last week as LSU surprised Alabama 13-7, Mississippi stunned Kentucky 21-17, and Auburn stopped Vanderbilt 24-14. Other games which failed to comply with our forecast were Army-Villanova, Notre Dame-Indiana, Miami-Tulane, and VPI-Davidson.

We are going even further out on the fateful limb this week as we are going to attempt to predict the exact score of some of the games, although we don't expect them to be very accurate.

Clemson 27, NC State 13—The Tigers are still prowling after their win over the Rice Owls last week. The Wolfpack is fielding a strong team this year, but the Howardmen are a little stronger and are going a long way this year.

South Carolina 21, Furman 6—The Gamecocks are keyed up for this game and should take the weak Hurricane easy. Carolina plays for Furman second in line to Clemson.

Davidson 33, Citadel 19—The Bulldogs are a mite undermanned for their stronger Wildcat foe.

Maryland 28, George Washington 0—The Terps are supposed to field one of the stronger teams in the conference this year, and George Washington is somewhat weaker than they have been in the past two years.

Kentucky 13, Georgia Tech 13—These are two of the stronger teams in the Southeastern Conference, and this should prove to be a good game.

Duke 14, Tennessee 13—The Volunteers are a strong team, but the Blue Devils are the ones to upset them, so this is the way we are guessing it.

Mississippi 32, Boston College 9—The Eagles won't show much against the Rebels.

Georgia 27, Mississippi State 7—The Bulldogs are showing their strength this year, and they will beat the Maroons more than Tennessee.

Alabama 13, Vanderbilt 7—The Tide is out for revenge after the upset received from LSU last week. Vanderbilt was also upset, but Alabama will have the edge.

Texas 20, North Carolina 7—The Longhorns are playing on home soil, and this should prove to be the margin with their added strength.

Rice 27, LSU 20—The Owls are on the upgrade. Their loss last week was just to a stronger team, of course Clemson. This game should be fairly offensive with Rice coming out on top.

Tulane 7, Baylor 0—The Wave's defense should win this game. Tulane made a good showing against Miami last week by beating them 21-7.

Auburn 41, Wofford 9—Auburn showed off last week by upsetting Vanderbilt, and are a great deal stronger than their South Carolina opponent.

Michigan State 14, Ohio State 0—The Spartans will be held back by the Buckeyes' strong defense that held SMU scoreless last week.

SMU 26, Missouri 13—The Mustangs are victory hungry and will take it out on the Missouri Tigers.

Wake Forest 34, Richmond 0—The Deacons are undefeated this season and will probably be that way until they tangle with Clemson.

West Virginia 20, Washington and Lee 13—The Mountaineers from Virginia hold only a slight edge.

Wolfpack To Field An Experienced Eleven; Game Time Set At 8 O'clock

The Clemson Tigers will be looking for their third consecutive win as they meet the N. C. State Wolfpack Saturday night in Raleigh, N. C. The game will be played at Riddick Stadium; gametime has been set at 8 o'clock.

Cubs Lose Opener; Play Univ. Of Fla. There Sat. Night

The Clemson Junior Varsity eleven began their season last Saturday night by bowing to the Wofford Junior Varsity in Spartanburg 7-13.

Wofford scored both touchdowns on long pass plays, and except for those plays, the Clemson defense looked good.

Dick Sobocinski, fullback, drove over for the Cubs' lone score. Clemson used both the spread and T formations.

Linebacker Benny Rowe and Bobby Wactor were standouts on defense.

Morrison showed up well as an offensive fullback, while Billy Radcliffe and McGugan displayed passing possibilities at the quarterback post.

Pete Wall from Charleston looked good at end on both defense and offense.

The Baby Tigers play again next Saturday night against the University of Florida Junior eleven at Gainesville. They will leave Friday morning at seven o'clock and return Sunday.

Hair And Shirley Among Leaders In Conference Scoring

Billy Hair and Jim Shirley are high in the conference scoring with 18 points each, which puts them in a four-way tie for second place. Leading the league scoring is tailback Alex Webster of N. C. State, with 24 points. Seventeen league elevens have scored 98 times so far this season, with 76 different players doing the scoring. George Washington is the only team that hasn't scored.

The leading scorers of the Conference are:

Player	Games	td	pt
Webster, N.C. State	3	4	0
Hair, Clemson	2	3	0
Shirley, Clemson	2	3	0
C. Smith, Duke	2	3	0
Grambling, VMI	3	3	0
Luciani, W. Virginia	2	2	0

Ten players are tied with twelve points each.

Tennis Prospects

With returning veterans Claire Draper, Glenn Smith, Bill Ansp, Bud Coleman, Louis Seaborn, Forrest Cookson, Billy Trapp, and Rembert Stokes, Clemson's tennis picture is brighter than it has been for several years.

Although the loss of last year's freshman star, John Speer, will be felt, Harold Owen, Sam Watson, and Gene Moxley are coming along to bolster the squad.

Seniors Draper, Smith, and Coleman have had two seasons of competition under their belts and are

The Tigers won their last week's game over the stubborn Rice Owls by the score of 20-14, while N. C. State dropped their game to the Deacons from Wake Forest by the score of 21-6. The Wolfpack opened their season with a 34-0 score over Catawba, they were dropped the following week by the boys from Chapel Hill by the score of 21-0. At present the N. C. State squad has a record of one win, against two losses.

Clemson won last year's game with the Wolfpack by the decision of 27-0. Despite the one-sided score of that one, the fans will remember that it was one of the hardest fought games of the season and the N. C. State lads are capable of dishing out plenty of trouble to the Tigs again this year. Coach Beattie Feather's single wing squad has 22 returning lettermen. The Wolfpack will have the same starting line-up at last year except for the right end and left halfback.

The Tiger's line-up will be about the same as usual except at the end positions. Otis Kempson, who was a stand-out in the Rice game, will again be back at the left end position. The defensive ends will be Withers and Gentry. Glenn Smith will again be back at his regular offensive right end position.

N. C. State's line-up will be as follows: Offensive: At left end will be Steve Kosilla, 6' 2", 180 lbs. senior. Left tackle will be held down by J. C. Britt, 6' 3" junior weighing 200 pounds. He played guard last year and was a key man in the Wolfpack line. At left guard will be Walter Schacht, 5' 9" senior weighing 190 pounds. Tom Tofaute, 6' 2" senior weighing 215 pounds will be the center for the N. C. team. Vince Bagonis will be the number one man at the right guard slot. He stands 5' 11" and weighs 200 pounds. Elmer Costa, 6' 1", 215 pound senior, will be the right tackle for the Wolfpack's offensive squad. Costa received numerous All-American selections last year for his outstanding play in the line. At right end will be either Bernard Allman, 5' 11" senior weighing 195 pounds or Thompson, 5' 11" stand-out weighing 180.

The offensive backfield will be as follows: Ray Barkouskie will handle the blocking back chores for the Wolfpack. Ray stands 6' 1" and weighs 205 pounds. At the wingback position will be Jimmy Smith, 5' 8" senior weighing but 175 pounds. Smith is noted as an excellent pass receiver. Jim O'Rourke, captain of the Wolfpack squad, will be the number one man at the fullback position. O'Rourke stands an even six feet and weighs 175 pounds. The tailback slot is probably the brightest spot on the N. C. State squad. It is headed by Alex Webster, a big 6' 3" 210 pound junior. He is heralded as the best State ball-carrier since Howard Turner earned All-Southern honors in 1945 and '46 on the Wolfpack squad.

Little Theatre Playhouse Renovation Begins Here

By ALAN CANNON

If plans go through, Clemson College will have a humdinger of a Little Theater soon. The College Board of Trustees and the Buildings and Grounds Committee have tentatively approved the conversion of the building known as the sheep barn into a playhouse for the Clemson Little Theater group.

The class of 1916 is now conducting a campaign to raise funds for the renovation. Architect's plans have been completed in the department of architecture for the building.

Constructed many years ago to house the flock of sheep kept on the campus, the barn stands about a block off the main Greenville highway adjacent to the well-known Hanover House. It is a very large, 120 by 38 feet, structure, which Professor Gates, head of the architecture department, says will lend itself perfectly to theatrics.

Conversion will include a physical set up for either regular stage plays or "theater in the round" which the Little Theater has been presenting for the past several years.

The building is large enough to house a full sized auditorium, stage, lobby, dressing rooms, lounges, etc. No outside additions will be needed.

It has been said that for good acoustics a theater should be twice as long as it is wide. The auditorium will be 71 by 38 feet. Practiced roles also call for 150 cubic feet per seat and there will be exactly that number for 375 seats.

There were 500 paid memberships in the theater last year. Officials of the Little Theater hope that the membership will top all previous years this season. Richard A. McGinty is now president.

position on the freshman football squad. The freshman team that year was the best team they have had in many years, with such stars as Dimucci, Smith, Wade, Rodgers, Bryant, Hair, Barton, Crawford, and Manos in the regular lineup. They lost only one game that year, to the Carolina Biddies.

Pete was moved to the varsity his sophomore year and back to his original guard position, where he earned a starting berth and has held it very capably since that time. "The Greek" is expected to give opposing tacklers plenty of trouble with his down field blocks this season.

Pete has also participated in baseball while here at Clemson primarily to keep in shape for the coming football season.

When asked about his biggest thrill in sports, Pete stated that when he was a little boy in Brooklyn, he would go to see the Dodgers play every time they were in town.

He added that the large crowds at Ebbetts Field always astonished him and he never dreamed that he would ever play any kind of sport in front of a crowd near that size. Playing in the Orange Bowl last year reminded him of his days in Brooklyn and gave him the thrill of his lifetime.

Pete stated that he loved music, he loved New York, and he loves those "Bums". He added, "win or lose, the Dodgers are still tops in my book."

"The Greek" is well known for his witty remarks around the Clemson campus and is well liked by all. Pete can always be seen around the campus with his bosom buddy, Dan DiMucci.

Pete and Dan met their freshman year here at Clemson and have remained the closest friends since. "Where there's Manos, there is always DiMucci."

The Rice game meant more to Pete than most people realize. Pete's father saw his son play football for the first time. Mr. Manos should be highly pleased with the way that Pete played in that game.

The Sun Also Rises

at Zelli's these American express themselves, the curious synchopated rhythm of their lives; just as Frances, the American girl, endures in a nagging scene outside a cafe, Brett bares her soul in fierce moments of tortured feeling. It is the hard, acid truth about this group of ineffectuals, model post-World War I. It conveys the tragedy of their lives, particularly through the futile love of Lady Brett Ashley and Jake Barnes, who tells the story. It all looks so simple. He hasn't even a story to tell. There are no witty or purple patches. Yet, when the book is finished, the reader has heard a story, his mind has been titillated by something which must obviously have been the author's sense of humor, and flashes of scenes remain in the memory despite his refusal to do more than hint at what he sees.

The play is a satire on life in Communist Russia. The author, Valentino Kataev, is one of the most colorful personalities among the present generation of Russian writers.

The play will be given on November 12 and 13 in the Episcopal Parish House. Mrs. John Gates is director of the play.

Hair Stars

Tigers fumbled and Rice took over on the Tiger 24. They drove to the 21, before the Howardmen braced and held, as Archie Baker batted down a fourth down pass.

Hair ran for 14 yards. After Hair bulleted a 14 yard pass to Smith, the ball rested on the Clemson 46. Hair made a first down to the Rice 40.

Hair passed to Smith to the 27. Shirley picked up two. George went for 15 yards to the Rice five. Hair picked up three. On fourth down with a yard to go for a TD Radcliff tried a field goal but the ball was wide. Rice took over on the 20.

Rice punted after three negligible plays and the Tigers took over on the Rice 45. Hair passed to Smith for 14 yards as the third period ended. The Tiger offense bogged and Shirley punted.

Rice failed to gain and had to punt but Knoebel fumbled and the Owls recovered on the Clemson 25. But Knoebel intercepted a pass in the end zone to prevent a Rice score.

Neither team was able to do much more damage as the ball swapped hands at mid field. The game ended with the Tigers on the Rice 21 after the Owls had tried four desperation passes in an attempt to overcome the Tigers' 20-14 lead.

Freedom Crusade Now In Progress On Campus Here

The Crusade for Freedom is now in progress on the Clemson campus. Posters and collection boxes have been located at various points on the campus and in town, and the student body will be canvassed on October 8.

The Crusade for Freedom is the American people's challenge to world Communism. It offers each one of us, as individual citizens, the opportunity to strike a blow for freedom—to add our voice to the voices of truth piercing the Iron Curtain.

Every day, hour after hour, the hard-hitting transmitters of Radio Free Europe pierce the Iron Curtain, sending hope to the enslaved people, spiking Communism with the truth, and undermining the influence of the Red rulers.

In launching the Crusade for Freedom last fall, General Eisenhower said, "Radio Free Europe has the simplest, clearest charter in the world: 'Tell the Truth.' General Lucius Clay, leader of the Berlin Airlift, is directing the Crusade for Freedom. Your contribution, great or small, will help him expand Radio Free Europe into a network of freedom stations."

J. Paul Shedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

SHEDY was a big walrus-flower. "All I ever get is the cold shoulder," he blubbered. So his roommate said: "Tusk, tusk, you old soak—try a new wrinkle on that messy hair: Wildroot Cream-Oil! Non-Alcoholic. Contains soothing Lanolin. Freeze your hair from annoying dryness and loose, ugly dandruff. Helps you pass the Finger-nail Test!" Now Shedy's really in the swim! Just sealed his engagement to a pretty young flapper—and he's about to whisker off to an ivory-covered cottage. So water you waiting fur? Get a tube or bottle of Wildroot Cream-Oil Hair Tonic at any drug or toilet goods counter! And ask your barber for professional applications. "Now," you'll say, "Ice sea why there's snow other hair tonic like Wildroot Cream-Oil!"
