Arrangements For Room Assignments Are Completed

Arrangements for room assignment for the fall semester have been completed, according to H. W. Rimmer, dormitory manager. The $15 damage deposit will no longer be required at the close of the current semester. Instead an advance payment of $43 will be required of all students before an assignment can be made. This payment will be credited as one-half semester's room fee.

If a student is delayed in arriving on the campus he should notify the dormitory manager in order that his room assignment will not be canceled.

Students who are enrolled for the spring semester will receive priority on room assignments provided a room request is filed and the payment of $43 is made prior to June 1.

Priorities Established

The following priorities for current students has been established:

Seniors: During the period Apr. 13-17, rising seniors will be given unrestricted choice of rooms.

Juniors: After a proportionate part of each hall is reserved for new students, rising juniors will be given priority on assignments during the period Apr. 20-24.

Sophomores: During the period Apr. 27-May 1, rising sophomores will be given priority on room assignments.

Mailboxes Are Ingenious Devices -- In Spring

Strange things happen in the spring, and this spring is no exception. Young men's fancies turn to love, and mailboxes have strange attractions. This mailbox is even more than attractive; it's unbelievable, but we'll take our chances with its being true. Coed Barbara Able is one letter we'd be so anxious to get that we probably couldn't get the mail box open. (Tiger photo by Jerry Stafford.)

Complete Consent Given By Board At Special Meeting

By LEE CLYBURN
Tiger Assistant News Editor

Robert Cook Edwards, former acting president, was elected eighth president of Clemson College in a unanimous vote of the Board of Trustees at a special meeting held in Columbia yesterday. The announcement was made by R. M. Cooper, chairman of the board.

The meeting was attended by 12 of the 13 members, but T. B. Young of Florence, unable to attend because of illness, cast his vote by telephone.

Mr. Cooper, in announcing the new selection, paid particular tribute to the dynamic leadership Mr. Edwards has provided in the nine months he has served as acting president. Mr. Edwards has been supported by The Tiger since December.

"The Board of Trustees has had an opportunity to observe Mr. Edwards at work under the exacting conditions of this position," Mr. Cooper said. "And has developed a confidence in his ability to serve the institution well as its administrative head. We are delighted that a man of Mr. Edwards' dedication, ability, and enthusiasm is available to us."

Trustees Make Decision
"The Trustees made their decision only after carefully screening and investigating a number of well-qualified people who were available for the position. We are confident we have made the very best selection in the total best interest of Clemson College."

terest of Clemson College.

Prior to its final decision," Mr. Cooper said, "the Board heard from Mr. Frank J. Jervy, Chairman of the Selection Committee, who made a masterful presentation of the various people who were under consideration for the position."

The other members of the Selection Committee were Mr. R. M. Cooper, Mr. T. Wilbur Thornhill, Mr. J. F. McLaurin, Mr. Winchester Smith, Dr. W. A. Barnett, of the Board and Dr. Jack Williams, Dean of the Clemson College Graduate School. Mr. Cooper recalled a Board announcement at the time Mr. Edwards was made acting president . . . with the mutual understanding that Mr. Edwards would not be a candidate for the permanent position of president.

"The industry, efficiency and effectiveness with which Mr. Edwards has gone about his assignment as Acting President," Mr. Cooper said, "prompted the Board of Trustees to review its original position on the score of his potentiality for the permanent position. We now believe that all things considered he is the best qualified person for this responsible assignment."

Edwards Feels Humble
The new president had this to say of his position: "I am deeply humble at this most responsible moment of my life. I can say only that may love for Clemson College and the responsibility of the presidency of Clemson College to the people of South Carolina and to the young people we educate will govern my every action."

"I beseech the entire citizenry of our state, the state officials, the General Assembly and the great alumni body of Clemson College to stand shoulder to shoulder with me as all of us strive to help Clemson meet its great educational, research and public service responsibility."

In a letter addressed to deans of all schools, Mr. Edwards himself said, "... I appreciate the support and whole-hearted cooperation I have received from them (the faculty) during my entire stay at Clemson and particularly in the past ten months."

"I pledge to you and to them my complete and unqualified support in helping to continue at Clemson the strongest and finest academic program possible."

Reactions From Deans Stated
Reaction to Mr. Edwards' being named ran highly in favor of the trustees' action. Dr. H. L. Hunter, dean of the School of Arts and Sciences, said, "It is a great satisfaction to me that this outstanding Clemson graduate who has done such excellent work for the institution during the past year has been selected as permanent president of Clemson College."

"I am sure the new president will be most successful in forwarding the academic phases of our program and continuing the leadership of our great institution."

Dean J. H. Sams of the School of Engineering said that he thought Mr. Edwards will do an excellent job and that he is looking forward to working with him.

"I personally am delighted," Dean Harlan McClure of the School of Architecture said. "He is outstanding as an administrator and an asset to the college. We face a period of expansion and educational development which will take a man of Mr. Edwards' strength, energy and educational leadership."

In a letter to Mr. Edwards, Dean of Textiles Gaston Gage pledged support to the new president and he said he felt sure that everyone would work together for the college.

Dean of the Graduate School Dr. Jack K. Williams, said he was sure Mr. Edwards would have the support of everyone on campus; after all, he continued, we consider the best candidate.

1959 Junior Follies Loaded With More Talent, Variety Than Ever

By LEE CLYBURN
Tiger Assistant News Editor

Junior Follies of 1959 will be presented Thursday in the College Field House at 8 p. m., and according to Ronnie Crow, co-chairman for the follies, "This year's show will have more variety and talent than ever before."

The follies will be built around several vocal and dancing groups, some of which have never been represented at Clemson before. Ronnie also stated that more than one master of ceremonies would be used as a new feature of this year's show.

Several Acts Coming

Highlighted during the evening will be the Crew Necks, a vocal group and combo from Hickory, N. C.; the Tiger Tones; the Trade Winds; a dancing act from Coker; a dancing act from Lenoir Rhyne; the Fainettes; and the Clemson act.

The Crew Necks consist of a vocal group of four singers and also a three-person combo. They have appeared on radio, TV and at various schools, not to mention that the group has recently completed a 15,000 mile world tour.

The four Tiger Tones, featured at Spring Hop tomorrow, will also perform. This group, composed of Bobby Moore, Harold Truluck, Sammy Seatrunk and Johnny Ivester, sings a variety of music.

Two dance soloists will provide further entertainment. Patty Klutz, coed from Lenoir Rhyne, will give two dances—one entitled "Steam Heat" and the other "Tequila."

See Pictures Page 8

The other dance solo features

Valerie Powell from Coker, who will give her version of the "Dance of the Seven Veils." Another dancing group, the Clemson Fainettes, will give two modern dances—"St. James Infirmary" and "Charlyppo."

Lastly, the Clemson Act composed of members of the Clemson student body will be given. This act is given each year at Junior Follies and usually portrays some form of Clemson life.

Trade Winds To Perform
Between each performance, Clemson's own Trade Winds, composed of Art Lindley, Randall Mishoe and Rodney Sabiston, will give in-front-of-the-curtain acts to allow other acts to get on and off the stage.

Co-chairmen of the follies, Ronnie Crow and Ted Davenport, have toured at least 10 spring follies in South Carolina or out-of-state schools, and both men state that the Clemson Follies should be the best of the productions they have seen.

Tickets for the performance will be $.50 each.

Wayne Freeman Is Commencement Speaker; Will Receive Degree At Graduation June 7

Wayne Freeman, editor of The Greenville News, will be commencement speaker at graduation June 7. He will also be awarded an honorary degree along with five other South Carolinians.

Mr. Freeman, a native of Dacusville in Pickens County, attended Furman University. He served as a faculty member of the U. S. Army Engineer School at Fort Belvoir, Va. He joined the Greenville Piedmont as a reporter in 1939 and after military duty returned as assistant city editor in 1946.

Served in Columbia

He has served in Columbia as capital correspondent for The Greenville News and in 1948 was recalled as editor of the Piedmont. He became editor of The News in 1955. He is a member of the American Society of Newspaper Editors and is a past president of the South Carolina Press Association.

Mr. Freeman will receive an honorary Doctor of Letters degree. Others receiving degrees are J. C. Aull, associate professor of chemistry, Medical College of South Carolina, Charleston, Doctor of Science; Dr. Sydney J. L. Crouch, retired pastor, Fort Hill Presbyterian Church, Clemson, Doctor of Humane Letters.

Also, Rev. Ralph S. Meadowcraft, rector, Grace Episcopal Church, Charleston, Doctor of Literature; J. P. Williamson, vice-president, Winn-Dixie Stores, Inc., Greenville, Doctor of Industries.

Clemson Graduate

Prof. Aull, a native of Pomaria, is a 1924 graduate of Clemson with a master of science in biological chemistry from the University of Michigan in 1939. He joined the Medical College in 1924 and became associate professor in 1958. He is currently president-elect of the South Carolina Academy of Science.

Dr. Crouch graduated from Scotch College in Perth, Western Australia, in 1915, and Hartford Theological Seminary in 1922 where he received the bachelor of divinity.

He came to Fort Hill Presbyterian Church in 1925 and headed the Clemson College department of religion from 1929 until 1957. Since his retirement he has ministered to Presbyterian students on campus.

Rev. Meadowcraft, born in Chefield, England, came to the United States in 1924 to study for the ministry. He studied at Rutgers and Drew Theological Seminary where he received the bachelor of divinity in 1930, summa cum laude.

He formerly conducted his own NBC and ABC network radio pulp programs in New York. He was also a member of the Clemson College Board of Visitors for two years.

Play Presentation To Be Cancelled

The Clemson Little Theater has announced that "Life With Father," will not be presented this season due to casting difficulties. The group is looking forward to the possibility of presenting the sentimental comedy of the late 19th century early next fall.

Prof. Bob Ware, director, announced that as a substitute the English comedy "Here We Come Gathering" will be presented.

The play will be produced by Charlotte and Chris Greer.

Members of the cast are Alma Gene Putnam, Gil Parker, Manny Diarbekirian, Sally Lowry, John Hunter, Frank Sutherland, Geddes Anderson, Sue Dickman and Charlotte Greer.

He is director of Liberty Life Insurance Company, Peoples National Bank, and Ross Builders Supplies, Inc., all of Greenville.

Mrs. Greer said that "It may not be a familiar play to many people, but judging from the chuckles from members of the cast when asked about it, the play should be most interesting."

Class Officer Nominations To Be Monday Night

Roberts, Eskridge To Lead Student Body

By BILL HILL
Tigers News Editor

Franklin A. Roberts and Frank Eskridge were elected to lead the Clemson student body next year as president and vice-president of the Student Government. The voting was extremely close, the two offices being decided by margins of 21 and 33 votes respectively.

Roberts defeated Tom Harmon 609 votes to 588 for the presidential office. Harmon, an Agronomy major from Lexington, is currently serving as president of the junior class.

The voting was also close in the vice-presidential race. Eskridge defeated Erwin Abell, Arts and Science major from Lowrys, 605 votes to 572 for the post.

7 Council Seats Set

In the voting for Senior Council, seven of the eight seats were filled on the first ballot. Elected were Luther Bigby, Industrial Management junior from Greenville; Frank Clarke, Civil Engineering junior from Wadesboro, N. C.; Samuel H. Fleming, Textile Manufacturing junior from Ora; T. G. Hanner, Pre Medicine junior from Columbia.

Also David G. Jeter, Electrical Engineering junior from Columbia; Jeffreys A. McPhee, Chemistry major from Brevard, N. C.; and Clarence E. Putman, Civil Engineering junior from Gastonia, N. C.

The run-off was held yesterday between J. C. Scott, Industrial Management junior from

BOOTY ROBERTS

Gaffney and Allen Sloan, Ceramic Engineering junior from Mt. Pleasant.

In the Tuesday voting for Senior Council seats Dave Jeter led in total votes with 930. According to Frank Sutherland, acting chairman of the elections committee, 720 votes were required for election.

Roberts, the newly elected president is an Electrical Engineering major from Chester. He has been active in extra-curricular activities and presently serves as Wing Sergeant Major of the Air Force ROTC, is the assistant leader of the Pershing Rifles, a member of the Arnold Air Society and the Executive Sergeants Club. He has recently been elected to the Blue Key, Tiger Brotherhood, and the Scabbard and Blade.

Veep Is Active

The new vice-president has also been active in his three years at Clemson. Frank is currently a member of Junior C.D.A., ASCE, Phi Eta Sigma and Army ROTC. He is a Civil Engineering major from Florence.

Student Government president Joe Fox stated that he was well satisfied with the number of students which voted last Tuesday. He emphasized that the turn-out was one of the best in school history to his knowledge.

Fox also stated that nominations for class officers will be made next Monday night in scheduled class meetings. He said, "The meetings will be held in Room 1 of the Chemistry Building. The rising sophomores will meet at 6 p.m., the rising juniors at 7 p.m. and the rising seniors at 8 p.m."

He emphasized that nominations would be made from the floor and as many of the respective class members as possible should attend these meetings.

Nominate For Office

He stated that each class will nominate men for the offices of president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer. Also nominated will be men to fill the positions of class representatives to the student assembly. Each class has five representatives.

Voting will be held on Apr. 21 for all classes. Run-offs if necessary will be held at a date to be announced.

Joe stated that he expects to see a vigorous campaign conducted by all the nominees and expressed the desire that students in respective classes take active part in the election of their officers and representatives not only by voting but by active support of those they consider the best candidate.

Is Money Spent On Campaign Posters, Advertisements Worth The Effect?

About this time each year, as the trees begin to bud, the robins return and Nature gives us other indications that Spring is just around the corner, another new sight greets us as we go about our daily business. We cannot fail to notice the variety of political posters obtrusively displayed on the loggia and in the post office corridor.

Some posters are colorful or plain; others are quaint or ordinary; still others are of singular or common design. Numerous adjectives could be used to describe these "masterpieces" of hopeful candidates for campus offices, but we must remember that these posters were put there for a specific purpose.

That purpose is to solicit votes, but we sometimes wonder if the time, effort and money spent on these advertisements are really worth it. Election returns usually indicate that students are apathetic when it comes to campus politics and who gets what office. This uninterested attitude would mean that a lot of sweat poured into an election campaign is just a lot of wasted energy.

The fact that total student vote is usually low is not peculiar to Clemson. On the contrary, it is common knowledge that the total number of votes cast in national elections is seldom much more than fifty per-cent of the eligible voters. It would appear, then, that students are developing traits now that will follow them throughout life. Doubtless the same students who do not vote in campus elections will be the same ones who will not vote in national or state elections.

It is regrettable that the attitude of student voters is one of disinterest. Each of us should be very concerned with who our leaders are. After all, they do represent each of us in many circles, from administrative and educational groups on this campus to similar groups throughout this state and the South.

Their actions supposedly reflect the general attitude of the entire student body.

Perhaps they do, but can one be certain of this when, if all students had voted, the election might have turned out differently? One can easily see that a positive statement in this regard would be impossible to make. We can only speculate.

One will usually find that those who gripe most about the outcome of an election are generally the same ones who did not cast their vote when the opportunity presented itself. It is ridiculous for these people to complain since they did nothing to change the results, but they do nonetheless. Perhaps someday they will learn that less talk and more action would be beneficial.

One election is behind us and another will be held shortly. As we enter this election day it behooves us all to make a concerted effort to exercise our most valuable democratic right, the privilege of voting. Remember, even though our one vote seems small when viewed from the total, it plays a very significant part in the election. It could well be that our one vote, or yours, could be the deciding factor in the election's final results.

We don't care who you vote for—just vote!

See you at the polls!

Burning Paper Or Lighted Cigarettes Apparent Cause Of Recent Grass Fires

Just before Easter Holidays two grass fires broke out, or were ignited, beside 8th dormitory. Students were apparently responsible for the origin of these fires, either from throwing burning paper or lighted cigarettes from windows above.

Worse still is the fact that campus firemen were hampered in their efforts to extinguish the blaze by students throwing various objects, including bottles and more burning paper. Other students made a nuisance of themselves by getting in the firemen's way as they made an effort to bring their equipment into play.

It is inconceivable to us that Clemson students would be guilty of such conduct. In the first place, the fact that the fire was set is in itself entirely out of keeping with behavior usually associated with Clemson students. It certainly does not speak well for the college to have several hundred pyromaniacs on campus.

College Owned Ambulance Would Be Advantageous To Campus

Earlier this year a discussion developed about the possibility of the college having an ambulance included in its fleet of automobiles. The subject came up again a few days ago, and after considering the proposal we feel that it would be advantageous to have such a vehicle available on the campus at all times.

An ambulance must be on hand for all sporting events held here, and in cases of emergency one must be summoned from Seneca or Anderson. There may be a time when a person's life may depend on having immediate access to an ambulance.

Had the blaze not been brought under control the entire dormitory could easily have been destroyed. The loss in property, both personal and real, could have been tremendous. Other buildings have burned with less provocation than a grass fire outside.

If the persons responsible for the fire could be located, we would be pleased to see immediate disciplinary action taken by Senior Council. However, it would be impossible to ascertain the identity of the arsonist who struck the first match.

We sincerely hope the student body will realize the seriousness of this matter and make every effort to see that it does not happen again. Surely, Clemson gentlemen have the intelligence to comprehend the hazard involved. Anyone who does not is not worthy of being called a Clemson student.

One of the college station wagons could be converted to an emergency vehicle quite easily. There are personnel on the campus who could be recruited to drive the car. Another possibility might be to allow a campus organization to provide a pool of drivers as its project, since many clubs need a reason for existence.

At any rate we feel college officials should take a close look into this matter to see if the idea is feasible. It could well be that a permanent campus ambulance would be a life-saver to someone.

MESSY?

Talk Of The Town

Do You Hear This Often--'Psst!' What's the Answer to This Problem?

By CHARLES SPENCER

"Hey, buddy, would you mind just sitting a little sideways and keeping your paper on the edge of your desk?"

Is there a Clemson student who has not heard (or said) this at least five times this week?

"Sure, I know that students cheat, but they better not try it in my class!"

Breathes there a professor at Clemson who has not heard (or made) this remark at some time to or from one of his colleagues?

Do you think it would shock an "outsider" (a member of the Board of Trustees, for example) to learn how prevalent these practices are in Clemson's classrooms?

Possibly so, but that is not too important, because they couldn't do much about it if they knew.

What is your reaction when a good friend, or even a total stranger, asks you to "help him out a little" on this or that quiz?

I'll tell you my reaction, perfectly frankly. It wouldn't make much difference to me if he would just skip the preliminaries and stand up and spit on me. That's right, spit on me.

Because the way I figure it, one is about as expressive of contempt as the other. For this is what a person is insinuating to me when he asks me to "help him out a little."

"Say, fellow, it doesn't really make much difference how we get this grade, so long as we get out of this course, does it? Everybody else that I know would help me out if he were sitting next to me right now, and you aren't any different from the other fellows, are you?"

"I've watched you in class, and you aren't the type of fellow who really thinks cheating is dishonest, are you? I mean, if a fellow gets in a jam (my ride was late coming back to school last night), he's not supposed to suffer needlessly for that, is he?"

"You won't be taking much risk, buddy. You don't think I'd look at your paper when the prof is around, do you? And besides, even if you do take a little risk, and get nothing in return for it, we're all in this thing together, aren't we?"

"You don't have to worry about what the other fellows will think when they see you helping me. They all think the same as I do about it—I know all the fellows in this class and there's not one of them that wouldn't get a little help if he needed it bad. So come on, buddy, don't put on the virtuous act with me—just share and share alike, huh?"

This is what you are saying to me when you ask me to help you when the professor turns his back or leaves the room. And more too. You're asking me to do something that is basically opposite of everything our educational system is shaped around.

You are asking me to be an "equalizing influence" among a group of students whom no sane person ever claimed were equal in their abilities and potentialities. You are asking me to help you give the impression to your future employer that you are just a little smarter than you are.

You are asking me to add my little bit to the big load that every professor already has to carry. You are asking me to make it necessary to stand watch over us while we take a quiz, instead of standing at the window and thinking about his lecture for his class next period. You are asking me to help you whittle away at the quality of education at Clemson.

You are asking me to help you form habits that can do nothing but cause you trouble later on. I, who have already made up my mind that I want to do anything I can to help you. . . . You are asking me to forget everything I have ever been taught. . . . everything that I really believe is worthwhile in this life. . . .

That's asking an awful lot, friend. Oh, you hadn't stopped to add it all up, eh? Well, I hope I didn't embarrass you, but I had to show you the way I look at it.

Next time, just stand up and spit on me. Okay?

Week's Peek

Grading Is Faculty Matter Not Students'

By TIM TRIVELY
Tiger Associate Editor

During the recent controversy over grading, two interesting points were mentioned: grading was a faculty matter and not the business of students, and these were not matters for faculty concern because they were merely student opinion.

Because this column has sought to bring out several enlightening facts about Clemson's academic atmosphere, it is with interest that the column notes how quick the facts were overlooked.

Damaging as any fact may be, it is fact. And the true power of fact is that it needs no justification.

Let us for a moment recall a headline of earlier this year. "Students riot when 70% flunk. . . ."

One could say that this is the heart of the American academic anemia, the problem being that faculties have relied — not on any system of their own for evaluating their professors—on situations called to their attention by the students.

It is important to note that Clemson does not employ a situation referred to as departmental probation. Clemson merely uses a simpler form: a chat with the dean.

They are quick to act when grading is too high. When a man grades too high you know there is something wrong, but when a man grades too low you have to WAIT to make sure there is something wrong.

The theory that two things can be the problem, the class or the course, leaves out the most important and most over looked factor of all, the prof.

However, rare is the case when things are allowed to get so far out of hand that students resort to TELLING (rioting) academicians to straighten out a department or course.

The situation would never arise if an AUDITING system were employed within the institution. What does the "chat with the dean" really boil down to? Less A's or more pass! But was that the problem? NO! Consequently, we have an ineffective system, WHICH COULD BE MADE EFFICIENT WITH AUDITING.

To avoid the chat with the dean? Simple. All a prof has to do is pass a respectable number. Who is to say whether the students are getting what the course is supposed to teach them. All the next prof knows is that the student doesn't have the background for his advanced courses.

Early academic interest was centered on the phrase "how well am I doing, prof?" As example, the early student asked, "When can I become a doctor?" But in time, this close relation of student and prof, which was separated only by the grade, slowly began to show change.

A change from "it's the student's work and his grade" to one of "grades are a faculty not student concern." Like a disease, students passed their obsession for grade to their teachers.

Thus today, because the grade comes from the prof, it is taken as the final say as to what and how much the student got out of the course. But does it? Not at all.

Well then who can say what a course is worth? Who evaluates all departments, attends all classes and pays his money? The student. Actually, the students are the only ones who really see the true situation.

It is a frightening thought, to know you're smart enough to learn but too dumb to think.

Let's Talk It Over

Clemson Is University Except For Name

By BOB CLARK

Recently, there has been much talk and discourse about the name of our college: The Clemson Agricultural College of South Carolina. Of course, this name does not do Clemson justice.

Anyone can readily realize that Clemson is no longer a college in actuality, but an institution rapidly approaching university status, if not already a university in everything but name.

We, at Clemson, wish to see this institution, as well as the community of Clemson, receive its just merits.

By continuing as Clemson Agricultural College, we are not opening ourselves to the advantages due a school of higher learning. We limit ourselves by the very name we have.

We, unfortunately, do not receive the national recognition which otherwise would be ours if the tag "agricultural college" were not upon our diplomas and every other document issued from the school.

It is our understanding that a university is an institution consisting of several schools or colleges, as they sometimes are referred to. Clemson is just that.

We have, in essence, several schools operating independently under one overall title: Clemson College. Webster defines a university in the United States as "comprising a college and one or more graduate or professional schools."

We very definitely have that. Our undergraduate and graduate programs are among the best in the South. They are equivalent to those of many schools which are classified as universities.

Our search for national recognition recently received a tremendous boost by the announcement that Clemson is equipped and qualified to confer a doctorate's degree in chemistry.

This is quite an advancement since the erection of our modern Chemistry building in the early 1950's. From the overcrowded conditions of the old chemistry building to the present spaciousness and up-to-date equipment of our present building, we have come a long way.

The establishment of a separate architectural school last year proved a much-needed "shot-in-the arm." We have made other advancements in our graduate programs, also.

We presently are offering a master's degree in nuclear science which was unknown here a few semesters ago. Our graduate school has excellent opportunities for one pursuing a master's degree in engineering, physics, agriculture and the like.

Why then are we still classified as a college? Well, there are technicalities which have to be overcome in order to be classified a university, or even have the name agricultural removed from the title of the school.

When these technicalities are overcome, and we feel confident that they will be, we expect Clemson to be one of the finest "universities" in the South.

Recently, it was our privilege to attend a banquet at which a member of our faculty spoke and commented on the need of several things here at Clemson.

This point was expressed so well that we have been considering the feasibility and probability of making several of his ideas a reality.

Among the points that were brought out was the absence of a debating team here at Clemson. Many schools throughout the states have these teams which bring recognition and renown to the respective schools. We, could certainly capitalize on a debating team at Clemson.

It was also noted that we at Clemson do not have a language society, a mathematics club or a drama club. These clubs have proven helpful to the schools which have them.

For a school which has made such large progress in the field of arts and sciences, we lack these essentials in furthering our school's prestige.

We are fortunate here to have an engineering magazine, but we are not privileged to have a literary magazine. A literary magazine published by those persons interested in English and the like could put Clemson in the ranks of the schools whose English departments are rated so highly. After all, we deserve that status; our English Department is among the best in the South.

We are looking forward to the advent of these societies and clubs, along with a literary magazine here at Clemson. Our social prestige has already been enhanced by our concert series, which is tops, and our fine athletic program.

We, who are interested in Clemson's development, should put out our best efforts in seeing that these goals are realized.

Bruner Says Clemson Offered Tools For Life

By TONY McALISTER
Tiger Feature Writer

"Clemson College has offered me the tools with which to make my way in life," says Bill Bruner, president of Scabbard and Blade and leader of the Senior Platoon. "Just how I accept, use and polish these tools will determine my future successes and failures."

Bill, a Forestry major, cites the Mardi Gras at New Orleans, and being a member of the National Championship drill team at the Cherry Blossom Festival in Washington, as being two of the most exciting experiences of his college career.

Being a nature lover at heart, most of Bill's spare time is spent camping, hunting, fishing or doing anything outdoors. As president of the Forestry Club, he has some opportunity for these activities on a group level.

Commenting on the Hartwell Dam, he says that the problem of a 20 foot variance in water level will be somewhat detrimental to this area. Also he believes it is a poor investment.

Throughout his four years he has been very active in the military in which he has risen to the rank of Lt. Col. As for the ROTC program, he thinks the mental and physical requirements are high, but sees a lack of motivation.

Clemson Still In Transition

He believes that he is graduating from Clemson while it is in a transition period going from a military institution to a coeducational, socially integrated university.

Although he does not call himself a fraternity man, in Bill's opinion, to come out of the "dark age" period, Clemson must bring in fraternities.

He feels that this would give students and everyone concerned a feeling of belonging or being wanted, which is such a necessary element of life. Also, more coeds would be a great asset to the school.

As for music, he is very liberal minded; he likes and dislikes some of all types.

Clubs Big Problem

According to Bill, a big problem at Clemson is too many clubs with too little interest directed at any one of them. The few outstanding organizations are constantly going down due to the fact that too few people are trying to belong to too many things.

Time, enthusiasm and a lot of hard work are required by the members of an organization to make it outstanding. He gives an example in the fact that for a 5 minute show, the Senior Platoon practiced a minimum of 35 hours.

Here again he feels that fraternities would help in solving this problem.

His viewpoint in the current discussion and debates on the circular or methods of teaching at Clemson is that those who are doing the most criticizing are those who have the most scholastic problems.

But he feels that a grade point giving a student credit for the actual numerical grade would give a much more accurate indication of the student's scholastic standing.

He has come to realize that there is much more to an education than just going to college, but agrees that college with its studies and extra-curricular activities is an excellent opportunity to get a well balanced education.

He believes that college life brings maturity and gives one the ability to question, which will ultimately assist him in getting a true education.

Predicts Winning Teams

Bill is enjoying watching the baseball team in its successful season this spring. He predicts that we will have a fine football team next fall. "With the winning teams we have had this year, I have no reason to criticize the athletic department—not even its book store."

After graduation Bill's plans are to enter the Army, but the

Bailey Given Fellowship

Joe Bailey, Clemson College senior in ceramic engineering is the recipient of a $2500 Phi Kappa Phi graduate fellowship for 1959-60.

The award is one of four presented nationally by the honor society for scholarship.

Bailey, of Clemson, will continue work in ceramic engineering at Clemson. Through 3½ years of undergraduate study at Clemson, totaling 130 credit hours, he has a perfect 4.0 GPR.

The fellowship winner is currently enrolled on a two-year Burlington Industries scholarship, after working his way through his freshman and sophomore year.

He is vice-president of the Clemson chapter of Phi Kappa Phi, a cadet captain in the Army ROTC, member of the American Ceramic Society, and was elected last year to 'Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities.'

length of his hitch is still undecided. He hopes to continue study of Forestry after completing his military obligation.

In The Collegiate Fashion
Dance Weekend Turns Thoughts To Dress-Up

By RUSS CAMPBELL

No matter whether you plan to "bird dog" or have your own date, this dance weekend is upon us. Dance weekends, as always, bring to mind formal dress, and some careful thought should be given this subject.

In case you didn't notice it over the winter dance weekends, the new styles in formal wear have caught on. The man with the madras or regimental stripe bow tie plus cummerbund was the rule.

The probable reason for the popularity of these sets is that they give the man a chance for personal expression on the dance floor.

If you don't own a tuxedo, this is the year to get one. The black silk shantung tux with a satin shawl collar is flattering and popular. The weave of this fabric affords the wearer comfort in both winter and summer.

Also the black or midnight blue tropical cloths with the shawl collar made up in satin are popular. Either one will look great set off by one of the new tie and cummerbund sets.

Be sure to wear a formal shirt with a formal suit. Your everyday white shirt never will do! Nor do you have to suffer in one of those stiff cardboard-like jockies. Comfort as well as good looks are available in new pleated soft bosom shirts.

Naturally, black socks are required. New style footwear runs to moccasins with pointed toe and tassels.

While the subject of formal wear is prominent, remember you also need a "formal" suit for the metropolitan area. Your favorite sports jacket or blazer may bar you from some bistro you wish to visit.

With "formal" suits like these, supplement your oxford button-

THERE'S AN IMPORTANT FUTURE AHEAD FOR THE MEN WHO WEAR THESE WINGS

The Air Force pilot or navigator is a man of many talents. He is, first of all, a master of the skies—and no finer exists. In addition, he has a firm background in astro-navigation, electronics, engineering and allied fields. Then, too, he must show outstanding qualities of leadership, initiative and self-reliance. In short, he is a man eminently prepared for an important future in the new Age of Space. Find out today if you can qualify as an Air Force pilot or navigator. Attitude of Students Toward Fine Arts Leaves Much to Be Desired

By FRED HOOVER
Tiger Feature Writer

The majority of Clemson students, perhaps because of their primary interest in the physical and technical sciences rather than the fine arts, tend to adopt a somewhat condescending, or superior attitude, towards those expressions of that art which is not directed at the lowest common denominator.

Perhaps the intent and purposeful concentration so necessary for scholastic excellence necessitates this one-track orientation of student thought. One cannot, after all, be expected to be both an accomplished technician and a connoisseur of music, art and literature.

Couch Attends National Meets

J. H. Couch, associate professor of Industrial Engineering, represents Clemson College this month at two technically-important national meetings in Chicago.

Prof. Couch attended the Engineering Welding Convention Apr. 7-10. The program, in the Hotel Sherman, offered 21 technical sessions and 63 new research papers.

Highlights included an address by Kurt Stiehling, head, Vanguard Rocket Propulsion, on rocketry and space travel and tours of four major midwestern nuclear-power, electrode and engineering.

Co-sponsors are The American Welding Society and The American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

Prof. Couch will also participate in educational shop courses and attend technical session of the Engineering Casting Congress and the National Engineering Casting Show, Apr. 13-17. The American Foundry Society is the sponsor.

Testing Lab Open House Next Week

The American Cotton Manufacturer's Institute cotton fiber testing laboratory here will have an open house next Thursday and Friday. From 150 to 200 people from the United States and Canada are expected to attend, according to Mrs. H. G. Beasley, who is in charge of the local testing laboratory.

Technical sessions, held both mornings, will feature speeches on the relationships of fiber testing and the textile industry. The afternoon will be devoted to demonstration and explanation of cotton fiber testing machinery by representatives of various companies.

The technical sessions will be conducted in the Gold Room of The Clemson House.

But surely the many concerts, art shows and the facilities of our excellent library shall not have passed in vain. This exposition of the creative talent of ages past and present, this talent spectacular of the people, by the people, and for the people shall not perish from the campus.

But this is negativism. We, some of us, do like music art, and literature. Therefore let us release the fount of hope that springs eternal in the human breast—yea, let us sing praise.

Complete Ballet Available

Mercury Records, fine fellows that they are, have recently put on the market the entire Sleeping Beauty Ballet by Tchaikovsky. It's by the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Antal Dorati. This is, o music lovers, the group that appeared here some weeks ago.

There are four records. They can be bought separately and are so arranged that each record constitutes a continuous segment of the entire program. They cost—write a check—about five dollars apiece and the set—for those who flunked Math 100—costs about 20 dollars. It must be sinful. Yea verily, we cast forth an opinion. They're worth it.

Sagan Writes

Francois Sagan has written a new book. Those Without Shadows she calls it. Miss Sagan is an existentialist, which explains the symbolism of the title and the contents of the book.

It's not as good as her others—Bonjour Tristesse and A Certain Smile—but still has that frank, straightforward, fundamentally honest approach that made her famous. No children, we'll get no vicarious stimulation from this one. Grace Metalious is out of style in Paris.

Dept. of Miscellany: Thesbian div.; Positivum subdiv. If orchids are back in style, we recommend a few for the Little Theater.

Mrs. McThing was, if nothing else, an artistic success. Our amateurs are good. We look forward to their next presentation.

Oliveros To Resign As Church Rector And Religious Instructor

Rev. Robert L. Oliveros, rector of the Holy Trinity Episcopal Church here and an instructor in religion, has resigned. His resignation is effective May 1.

Rev. Oliveros will begin active duty as a U. S. Army chaplain, with the rank of captain, on that date. He has been assigned to Fort Eustis, Va., following his graduation Mar. 11 from the U. S. Army Chaplain School at Fort Slocum, N. Y.

Since February of 1954, he has been Episcopal chaplain to Clemson students and an instructor of philosophy.

No successor has been named for Rev. Oliveros as yet.

Boners' Bag

One of Prof. Mark Steadman's boys claims that Machiavelli said that "a prince should not be too easily swayed by his own suspicions or by TAILBEARERS."

These are apocryphat, but they could have happened here: On an application for automobile liability insurance, this chap wrote under "Type of Body," "Very Healthy." And a bus repairman, in filing a report on a highway accident, came to this question, "Disposition of passengers?" He wrote, "Mad as hornets."

From a reference for a friend: "He does not drink but is a good mixer."

HOW TO BE A THUMPING BIG SUCCESS ON CAMPUS

While up in the attic last week hiding from the tax-man, I came across a letter, yellow with age, that dear old Dad had sent me when I was a freshman. I reproduce it below in the hope that it may light your way as it did mine.

"Dear Son, (Dad always called me Son. This was short for Sonnenberg, which used to be my first name. I traded it last year with a man named Max. He threw in two outfielders and a left-handed pitcher... But I digress.)

"Dear Son, (Dad wrote) "I suppose you are finding college very big and bewildering, and maybe a little frightening too. Well, it need not be that way if you will follow a few simple rules.

"First of all, if you have any problems, take them to your teachers. They want to help you. That's what they are there for. Perhaps they seem a little aloof, but that is only because they are so busy. You will find your teachers warm as toast and friendly as pups if you will call on them at an hour when they are not overly busy. Four a.m., for instance.

"Second, learn to budget your time. What with classes, activities, studying, and social life all competing for your time, it is easy to fall into sloppy habits. Set up a rigid schedule and stick to it. Remember, there are only 24 hours a day. Three of these hours must be spent in class. For every hour in class you must, of course, spend two hours studying. So there go six more hours. Then, as we all know, for every hour studying, you must spend two hours sleeping. This accounts for twelve more hours. Then there are meals—three hours each for breakfast and lunch, four hours for dinner. Never forget, Sonnenberg, you must chew each mouthful twelve hundred times. You show me a backward student, and I'll show you a man who bolts his food.

"But college is more than just sleeping, eating, and studying. There are also many interesting activities which you must not miss. You'll want to give at least three hours a day to the campus newspaper, and, of course, another three hours each to the dramatic and music clubs. And let's say a total of eight hours daily to the stamp club, the debating club, and the foreign affairs club. Then, of course, nine or ten hours for fencing and bird-walking, and another ten or twelve for ceramics and three-card monte.

"Finally we come to the most important part of each day—what I call 'The Quiet Time.' This is a period in which you renew yourself—just relax and think great thoughts and smoke Marlboro Cigarettes. Why Marlboro? Because they are the natural complement to the active life. They have better 'makin's', the filter filters; the flavor is rich and mellow and a treat to the tired, a boon to the spent, a safe harbor to the storm-tossed. That's why.

"Well, Sonnenberg, I guess that's about all. Your kindly old mother sends her love. She has just finished putting up another large batch of pickles—in fact, 350,000 jars. I told her that with you away at school, we would not need so many, but kindly old Mother is such a creature of habit that, though I told her quite hard several times, I could not dissuade her.

Keep 'em flying, Dad."

Here's more advice to freshmen—and upperclassmen too. If non-filter cigarettes are your passion, double your glass use with Filter-Mouth, made by the makers of Marlboro.

Baseballers Play Maryland, Virginia This Week In Two Important Games

By JOE DEMPSEY
Tiger Sports Writer

Clemson's Tigers will take to the road next Sunday to play two important ACC games with Virginia and Maryland. The baseballers have a 9-2 overall mark and a 4-2 conference record; they have dropped their last two games in a row to North Carolina and North Carolina State after winning the first nine games on their schedule. The Tigers, with their backs to the wall, hope that the road will bring them better fortune.

On Monday the Tiger nine will take to the diamond against Virginia in Charlottesville, a team the Tigers defeated by a 13 to 1 margin earlier in the season.

Coach Wilhelm will probably start either Dave Sprouse who has a 3-0 record for the season or Rudy Stowe who holds a 3-1 mark. Virginia is expected to counter with big Herb Busch, a right hander that can throw hard.

Even though the Tigs took their first game with Virginia, it is expected that they will have their hands full because the Cavaliers will be on their home grounds and will be hungry for revenge.

The next day the Bengals will travel to College Park where they will take on Maryland's Terps in another conference battle. Lefty Ty Cline will be Coach Wilhelm's likely choice to start the game. Cline holds a 2-0 record which includes a shutout victory against the South Carolina Gamebirds.

Earlier in the season the Tigers met Maryland in Orangeburg and came out on the long end of a 9-2 score, but the Terps have a dangerous team and could prove troublesome.

Coach Wilhelm said of his team, "I believe we have a better team than last year's ACC and District Three Champions, and I will be very disappointed if we do not go back to Omaha to play in the College World Series." If the Tigers are to do this, these two games are must games.

Deacons Fall Before Tig Bats

A triple by Ty Cline and a line single by pinch-hitter Sammy Poe in the ninth inning Wednesday enabled Clemson to defeat Wake Forest 4-3 and keep the Tigers record unblemished at 7-0.

The Tigers trailed until the eighth inning in this, their third, ACC conference game. But triples by winning pitcher Harold Stowe and Dick Suggs and a single by Larry Bagwell brought in two runs and tied the game at 3-3.

Cline led off the ninth with his triple and then pinch-hitter Bobby Norris and catcher Butch Coker were walked intentionally.

Wake Forest then sent in their third pitcher to face pinch-hitter Poe who connected with the first pitch for a liner off the leg of the pitcher, and Cline trotted home with the winning run.

Cline Leads Tigs In Win Over USC

The Tigers of Clemson won its eighth straight victory of the season by stomping South Carolina 11-0 for their first shut-out of the season. Sophomore south-paw Ty Cline limited the Birds of Carolina to two hits in the six innings he pitched.

Bailey Hendley hurled the last three frames for the Tigers. Clemson sewed up the game in the third inning when they scored five runs on two hits and four walks.

Fred Deberry and Jay Bryant each hit homers for Clemson. Bryant's came in the eighth with one man on base. Doug Hoffman led the Tigers with two hits.

State Hands Tigs 2nd Loss In Row

Last inning rally on the part of the Wolfpack of N. C. State beat the Tigers in a hard-fought ACC game by a score of 8-7. The Tigers were ahead all the way up to the top of the ninth inning when the Wolfpack scored four runs, all that was necessary to win the game.

For Clemson, Cline, Roller, and Stowe, pitched, with Roller taking credit for the loss. Cline pitched 8 innings, then was relieved by Roller who subsequently was relieved by Stowe.

Overby, Hardison, and Wright pitched for State, with Wright getting credit for the win. Wright is now 2-0 for the season.

Doug Hoffman hit a three-bagger for Clemson and Story and Hill hit triples for State. Doubles were hit by Lutusik and Strong of State.

Story, Hill, Eason, and Hafer had two hits for State; Hendley and Cline had two hits for Clemson.

The Tigers are now 9-2 overall and 4-2 in the Conference.

Ah! Fellows Please Have A Heart Today

This semester's Block "C" initiation began this week with several initiates finding it quite hard to sit down in the evening. The initiation will continue throughout the week and was topped off Thursday night. Eighteen Clemson men were initiated into Block "C" this week from the various different athletic teams on campus and the cheerleaders. Several smiling Cub faces are sure to be seen on campus Saturday morning. (Tiger sports photo by Jerry Stafford.)

Twenty-Three Initiated Into Block 'C' Club

Twenty-three athletes will complete a five day initiation today and become official members of the Clemson Block "C" Club. The initiation will end after noon today with the final paddling of the Cubs.

Included in the initiation was paddling, carrying of candy, cigarettes, etc. and an informal initiation Thursday night.

According to the athletic rules, one must go through the initiation before receiving both a letter and sweater. Initiates received letters from football (16), Swimming (3), Basketball (2), Head Cheerleader and football manager.

Going through the initiation are: Jack Smith, Larry Wagner, Dave Olson, Lowndes Shingler, Mike Jenkins, Parker Humphries, Willie Nickles, Bob DeBardelaben, Bobby Fant, Ed Krajack, and Doug Daigneault.

Also: Ray Bowick, Earle Maxwell, Samuel Cox, Erwin Abell,

Tiger Tennis Team Opens Season With Splendid Record

Clemson's varsity tennis team has opened their season with high flying colors and appear to be on their way to one of the most successful years in their history. The Tiger netmen are currently spiriting a fine 5-2 record and will set their sights on placing in the top division in the conference as they take on five ACC foes in a road trip starting today.

The first match will pit Clemson against Virginia at Charlottesville today. In the following days the Tigs will take on Maryland, N. C. State, and North Carolina.

Of the above matches, UNC will definitely be the strongest team in the conference and one of the most talented teams to face the netmen this year. Leading the Tarheels will be Malcomb Black, Marshall Harper, Ben Geer Keys, and Buzz Coward, all current or at one time ranking players in the South. Keys presently holds the South Carolina men's title.

Led by captain and number one man Sonny Summer the Tiger racketeers are a far cry ahead of last years team which was able to tally only two victories, neither being a conference win with a 6-3 score over Wake Forest.

The Bengals only two losses came from the hands of two exceptionally strong teams, Harvard and P. C. Presbyterian gave the Tigs their worst clipping with a 7-2 match which was much closer then the score. Winning for Clemson were Summer and Bob Burns. Mohammed Nasin put up a fine effort but lost a heart-breaker after having match point in the third set.

Clemson's other victories include two 9-0 decisions over Furman, a 7-2 win over Kalamazoo, and a 6-3 triumph over The Citadel. In two of the matches (Wake Forest and Citadel) the Tigs avenged defeats suffered during last year.

Present standing in the Tiger lineup include: 1. Sonny Summer, 2. Mohammed Nasin, 3. Bob Burns, 4. Wooten Cooper, 5. Len-

Clemson Wallops Virginia For 3rd

Clemson combined hitting with wildness on the part of Virginia pitchers to beat the Cavaliers 13-1 for their third straight victory, and their first in the ACC.

The Tigers nipped four Virginia hurlers for 10 hits, including two triples and two home runs, and mixed these with 10 walks to put men on base every inning except one.

Clemson loaded the base in the first inning on three walks and Tryon Cline swatted a towering drive that the wind carried for a grand slam homer.

Three Clemson pitchers gave up just four hits. Starter Jim Roller took the credit for the victory. Virginia's lone run came in the seventh on a walk, wild pitch, sacrifice fly and ground out.

Golfers Defeat Wofford, Furman; Lose To Georgia In Opening Matches

Clemson's golf team got off to a good start last week with two victories against one defeat. Ten members of the team have been practicing regularly and are hoping for a good season.

Clemson opened their season against Wofford Mar. 25 and succeeded in tripping the Terriers by a wide 25½-11½ margin. John Murray was low medalist for Clemson with a 73 as they played on their home course at Boscobel.

Clemson won their second victory in row by downing Furman 15½-11½ in a close match at Greenville last Friday. Leading the Bengals was Bob Moser with a 75.

The University of Georgia succeeded in handing Clemson their first defeat with a 21½-5½ score last week. The match was played at Athens, Georgia.

Burnham Uhler turned in the lowest score for the Tigers this year with a fine 72.

A triangular meet at Charlottesville, Virginia Monday will pit the Tigs against Virginia and Maryland. Tuesday, Clemson will travel to N. C. State to take on their third conference opponent of the year.

The ACC has been noted for its rugged competition in the golf field. Such favorites as Harvey Ward, Arnold Palmer, and current national open champion Art Wall were all at one time ACC contenders.

Wake Forest is the defending champions followed closely by Maryland. The Terps Deane Beman, who was among the eight top amateur golfers representing the U. S. in the Walker Cup, will be back this year.

Currently, there are six members on the Tig team along with four alternates. The first six include: Mac Long, Bob Moser, John Murray, Burnham Uhler, Toddy Crittenden and Buddy Grant. The alternates include: Sonny Darden, Dick Yearly, Joel Sherman, and Ed George.

Spring Games Show Tigers Stronger Next Year

The Clemson Block "C" Club working with the Athletic Department, IPTAY, Block and Bridle Club and various other student organizations presented Clemson with one of the most spectacular weekends, and without a doubt, the best spring football game weekend, in the history of Clemson.

The weekend was set on fire with the arrival of some 300 prospective Clemson freshmen and their parents and friends. The prospective Clemson men were introduced to the various schools and given an opportunity to investigate each department in the morning.

From noon until just before the game the Block and Bridle Club had a barbecue set up in the Little Gym of the Field House. At 3 p.m. the Orange and White Clemson teams clashed, with the White team winning the game 28-22.

Coch Howard Expresses Views Following Game

In a press interview following the game Howard said, "I think that we have more potential than last year's bowl team. We have almost our entire backfield back from last year and with the addition of Ron Scrudato and Harry Pavalic along with Jim Wilson we will have one of the strongest backfields in the country."

When asked the question of the possibility of having three teams (Chinese Bandits) next year, he quickly replied, "two teams are all that I need to win a ballgame, but we will definitely have much more depth than last year. This type of football builds moral, but if I had a boy like Cannon, I would surely want him playing every minute of the game."

Howard went on to say, "next year we will have a good man (Lon Armstrong) to kick-off and I plan to use Terry Eberhart in place of my quarterbacks on defense."

One writer brought up the question of the possibility of anyone on the team playing pro ball to which Howard quickly remarked, "I don't encourage any of my boys to play pro ball because they have to take a pay cut when they quit that will not be paid for while they are playing pro ball."

IPTAY Jamboree Held In College Dining Hall

That evening in the college dining hall, to top the weekend off the first annual IPTAY Jamboree was held. Following the invocation by Dr. S. J. L. Crouch, Head Emeritus of the Religion Department, President R. C. Edwards gave the welcoming address.

President Edwards said, "IPTAY has done more for Clemson and Clemson men than any other organization. Because of IPTAY Clemson is now known all over the nation. But Clemson is first and always educational. At the present time several athletes are among the top students, both academically and in student activities."

"Many people commented on Clemson men in New Orleans. They said that they had never seen so many wonderful people invade their city in mass as those that came from Clemson." In closing he stated that as of tonight (Mar. 21) they had 7,634 members in IPTAY.

A short business meeting followed, and, after this, "Red" Ritchie, Faculty Chairman of Athletics, recognized the various guests attending the Jamboree. Then Frank Howard recognized the various Intercollegiate Clemson teams.

ACC Commissioner James Weaver formally presented the respective coaches with the 1958 ACC baseball championship trophy, MCAA District III plaque and ACC football championship trophy. The 1959 Sugar Bowl trophy was presented to Howard by Claude "Monk" Simmons.

In between the latter and the first three, Ray Masneri and Bill Thomas were presented with the Morrow and Hamilton trophies for being the best defensive and most valuable players respectively on this year's Tiger team.

Jess Neely, Rice Head Coach and guest speaker for the evening, was then introduced by Frank Howard. Neely came to Clemson in 1931 as head coach and besides bringing Frank Howard and Clemson's first bowl team in 1940, after the "seven lean years."

Neely said that when he first came to Clemson he found all the football equipment piled in the basement of the Textile Building. His first task was to sort this equipment and the entire team got in condition by forming a sewing circle to repair the equipment. "We had the best sewing circle in the area."

After receiving several uncomplimentary letters during the "seven lean years" Neely conceived IPTAY in 1934. It proved highly successful and provided him with the 1940 Cotton Bowl team. Neely said, "IPTAY is absolutely responsible for athletic's at Clemson." In closing he invited anyone to drop in to see him if they were in the neighborhood of Dismal.

Go Away Crolley! Two's Enough

Halfback Bill Mathis can only hope that the Tiger tackling will be as effective against their opponents as it was in this play in the annual intersquad game. He found himself surrounded by Halfback Harry Pavlack, and Ronnie Crolley and an unidentified White player. The hard tackling was a major factor in the 28-22 upset by the White squad.

White Team Upsets Orange In Annual Block "C" Game

By TOM GLENN
Tiger Sports Writer

A sophomore-studded White team, led by junior quarterback Lowndes Shingler, turned loose a host of fast backs and a stout defense to upset the traditionally favored Orange team 28-22 in the annual intra-squad game played last March 21. A crowd of approximately 8,000 saw the Greenwood signal caller perfectly mix his plays and pick up yardage when the White unit needed it.

With only 4:08 gone in the first quarter, halfback Bob Chatlin shot through right tackle for a 20 yard touchdown run for the Whites. From then on it was all White until co-captain Harvey White got his Orange unit going with a 16-point final period.

The determination and desire of the Whites completely dominated the first three quarters, but the fourth quarter found Harvey completing seven out of 14. In all, White threw 21 and connected on 11 for 136 yards and one touchdown.

In the second half the Orange drove down to the white five on superb running by backs Bill Mathis, George Csry and Jerry Golden. With only a half a minute gone in the quarter, sub-quarterback Don Heilig connected with Harold Smith for an Orange score.

The Whites came right back on the kickoff with sophomore fullback Ron Scrudato going over from the one.

At the start of the third period, the Whites took advantage of a break when tackle Pat Killen blocked Virgil Dillon's punt at the 25. From there the White unit drove to the 14 and on the next play scored when halfback Jimmy May went into the end zone standing.

In the fourth period the Orange eleven began its do-or-die effort with White in command. The Greenwood senior opened up his famous passing game and directed the Orange unit to a score in 12 plays with Mathis going over from the two. End Bob DeBardelaben grabbed White's pass for the additional two points.

The Whites bounced back with Shingler in the driver's seat. After a series of plays Shingler circled right end for 11 yards and the fourth TD for the Whites. He went around the same side for two points and the Whites were ahead 28-14.

With time running out, White again went to the air and after nine plays hit DeBardelaben in the end zone for the final score of the day. White ran for the two points with only seven seconds.

However the most exciting run of the day came when end Gary Barnes picked up a on-side kick on his 32 and raced 67 yards before being pulled down on the one just seconds after the final buzzer had sounded.

Mathis of the Orange led all rushers with 67 yards. Shingler accounted for 63, Chatlin for 61, Scrudato for 43 and White had 44.

The White team led in the rushing department with 251 yards to the Orange 170. However the Orange under White were high in passing with 139 to the White's 39.

Tigs Whip Georgia

The Clemson Tigers rolled to their fifth straight baseball victory Monday, topping the University of Georgia, 8-2, on the hurling of sophomore Tyronne Cline.

The Tigers led by second baseman Zack Burnette and first baseman Fred Deberry, raked three Georgia pitchers for 15 hits. This was the Tigers best showing of the year as they seemed to hit everything that was thrown at them.

Tiger Winning Streak Broken After Nine Games By Determined Tarheels

The Bengal nine saw their beautiful nine-game winning streak tarnished by the North Carolina Tarheels in a comedy of Tiger errors and mental lapses in a 6-3 loss.

North Carolina opened the scoring in the first inning on three Clemson errors for two runs and were never caught by the Tigers. In the second frame the Tar Heels scored another tally but a 450-foot homer by Tiger second baseman Zack Burnette closed the gap at 3-2.

Southpaw Harold Stowe started for Clemson and yielded with two out in the sixth to Bailey Hendley. Stowe gave up four runs, two of them unearned. Hendley was touched for two scores, one of them being of the unearned variety.

Wayne Young, dependable Tar Heel starter, was chased in the second after giving up two earned runs. Ben Hammett came on for North Carolina and allowed the Tigers only one run on three hits while turning in a clutch performance.

The Tigers missed scoring chances in the first, fifth and sixth innings due to mental lapses and Hammett's relief job. Clemson turned a misfired Tar Heel squeeze play into a run in the eighth on one of six Bengal errors during the game.

This was Clemson's first loss in the ACC against four wins and North Carolina's first win against no losses.

Strongest Tig Tennis Squad Led By Captain and Top Man, Sonny Sumner

By BOB BURNS

Tiger Assistant Sports Editor

Heading what poses to be Clemson's strongest tennis team ever is captain and number one position holder Sonny Sumner. The success of the present season has largely been a result of Sumner's efforts and forecoming matches will depend much on his showing.

Last year, playing his first season for Clemson, Sumner turned in the teams most impressive record of seven wins and three losses. He well represented Clemson in the ACC tournament as he was the only Tiger to reach the single's quarterfinals and later breezed to the semi's in doubles.

Sonny came to Clemson some three years ago after Coach Hoke Sloan succeeded in getting him a scholarship. Sumner claimed, "I wanted to get a degree from a good school and would rather have come to Clemson than any other school in the state."

Sonny had spent his first year at Presbyterian College where he held his first tennis scholarship. Now at Clemson Sumner is a senior majoring in Arts and Sciences or English. Currently his future plans are not completely decided although he is interested in studying law at another institution.

On the tennis court Sumner poses to be one of the top players in the conference. Teamwise, Sumner claims, "We've gotten off to a good start this season and have a good chance to finish in the top division of the conference."

Before coming to college, Sonny earned himself quite a record as a junior player. He won the state high school championship for three consecutive years, the state junior title for two, and played in the quarterfinals of the high school national interscholastic doubles tourney.

As for his tennis ability, Sonny sports a well rounded game along with court tactics of a top notch player. The best of his strokes are his backhand and dropshot. His backhand is hit with good form, controlled well and may be hit with surprising speed. The dropshot is well timed and bites backward when hit due to good backspin.

His other strokes are good and hit consistently. Sumner's serve is not hit hard but is a very effective twist which will bounce either into or away from the receiving player. The serve has good clearance over the net and very seldom does he double fault.

Also, Sumner is probably the shrewdest player on the team. His tactics depend upon the type of game of his opponent. In either case he may be a good aggressive player rushing the net or staying off a player with good defensive baseline playing.

Sonny is married to the former Miss Sibyl Eskew of Greenville, also his home town. They have no children but are expecting an addition to the family in the near future.

The varsity tennis team has gotten off to a good start thus far this season and possibilities of one of their best season's ever look good. As an individual, one thing will be certain, Sonny Sumner will definitely be a big gun in the Tiger lineup.

Sumner Volley's Return

Team captain Sonny Sumner is shown here as he finishes stroking a volley. The ball has already crossed the net and is not shown in the picture. Sumner has held the top spot on the squad for the past two seasons.

'Mural Softball Deadline Mar. 11

Intramural coach Bill Wilhelm wishes to announce that entries are now being taken for the intramural softball tournament. Wilhelm has set the deadline for entries as Mar. 11 at 8 p.m. No teams will be accepted after this date.

Play will probably begin sometime the following week. Forms can be picked up in Wilhelm's office from 8 a.m. until 8 p.m. and must be filled out completely including the name of the team and the entire team roster. It is hoped that as many boys will enter softball play as did in basketball and football.

Many Campus Activities Highlight The Spring Season

By BARBARA ABLE
Tiger Feature Writer

Friday, before school was dismissed for Easter holidays, a group of coeds staged a mixer at the 'Y'. There was a surprisingly good turn-out of people at the dance, and it resulted in a rather crowded affair.

This group of girls was very grateful for the good response and promised to have another similar dance soon at the Food Industries building. The coming dance will provide more room and more college girls.

The next day, Saturday, the Block C Club held its annual Spring Practice game which brought people from all over the state to Clemson to see the underdog white team defeat the favored orange team.

After the game many of the IPTAY members and students crowded into the student dining hall for the IPTAY banquet. The banquet's success can largely be attributed to the entertaining speech of Jess Neely of Rice Institute and the jokes of 'Peahead' Walkekr of Montreal, Canada.

Students Scattered For Holidays

Mar. 26, the Clemsonites were dismissed for Easter holidays; the students scattered to their various homes, to Camden for the Carolina Cup and to the beaches to mingle with other college students.

Although 'The Pad' at Ocean Drive was handling a capacity crowd of vacationers, there was a damper on the beach scene.

This could have been because of the cool weather, but it seems that the main problem was the absence of the pavillion at Pawley's Island; the atmosphere has definitely changed.

Dance Held At 'Y'

Last Friday night Theta Tau Kappa held a dance at the 'Y'; but because the dance was held on such short notice, there was little publicity and the crowd was small. The club intends to have a more successful dance later this month.

Congratulations are in order for the baseball team; they have a remarkable record of nine wins and two loss. The team has constantly worked diligently, even through the holidays. All luck is wished to the boys to continue their winning streak to retain the ACC championship.

Open Service Station

John Griffin, I. M. Junior from Traveler's Rest, Don Jones, I. M. Junior from Greer, and Marvin Cudd, M. E. Senior from Gaffney, have recently opened a Texaco service station on the corner of College Avenue and Keowee Trail, next to the Winn Dixie store.

All three of these enterprising students are married and have children. They have made this business venture to try to finance their schooling, so would appreciate all student business.

At present they do not have a wash or grease rack but will have both in approximately 30 days. They will honor Texaco credit cards and are anxious to serve you.

Tonight and tomorrow night Clemsonites will have

Tamassee Students To Present YMCA Program

Canterbury Meets

The first meeting this month of Clemson Canterbury featured Rudy Jones, Physics major from Dillon, speaking on the Sixth Commandment. His talk was followed by discussion on the necessity and value of the Commandment and its implications in terms of human contact.

This week Buzz Yarbrough, Industrial Management major from Miami, Fla., continued the series on the Ten Commandments by presenting a talk on the seventh commandment. The Eighth Commandment will be analyzed by another member at the next meeting.

Spring Convention of South Carolina Canterbury groups will be held the last weekend of April at Camp St. Christopher near Charleston, he said.

WF Holds Service

Wesley Foundation held its pre-Easter services with the showing of two films centering around the life of Christ on Mar. 18, and a Communion Service on the Wednesday before Easter.

Dr. H. H. Macaulay, professor of Economics, presented Wesley Foundation with a talk "Why We Go To College and Why We Should Study" at the Apr. 1 meeting.

To Present Program

A group of students from Tamassee will present the program at YMCA Vespers on Sunday at 6 p.m. The meeting will be held in the "Y" Lobby.

Hold Social With USC

A social with the Newman Club or USC was held during last weekend. A party was held at Boscon Country Club Saturday night and Sunday morning breakfast was served at Newman Hall after Mass.

Edgar Lopez, publicity chairman, states a highlight of this coming Wednesday's program will be the election of officers for the '59-'60 school year. Also on the agenda will be a discussion of the National Convention of Newman Clubs which will take place at Albuquerque, N. M., Aug. 28.

Have Union Service

BSU met with other denominational student unions of the community for a union service at the Baptist Church Apr. 1.

A deputation from Anderson College will be in charge of the services Wednesday, according to Jackie Robbins, publicity chairman.

Robbins also announced that the BSU car wash last Saturday netted $37 for the Summer Missions drive, for a total of $223.50 collected in the drive.

To Have Dance

The Veterans' Club will sponsor a Spring Dance in the Clemson Room at the Clemson House Apr. 25. A combo from the Jungaleers will provide music for the evening.

All members, married students and guests are cordially invited, according to Bill Holt. This will be the last Veteran's Club Dance of the season.

Dr. Aull Select Participant In Regional Conference Held At Duke University

Dr. George H. Aull, head of the Clemson College Department of Agriculture Economics, was one of four select South Carolina participants at the regional conference of the American Assembly of Columbia University at Duke University, Durham, N. C.

The program, completed Sunday, reviewed U. S. monetary policy.

Other invited representatives of the State were Jeff Bates, State treasurer and chairman, Board of Bank Control, Columbia; Olin S. Pugh, associate professor of economics, University of South Carolina; and D. W. Watkins of Clemson, master, South Carolina State Grange, and retired director of the Clemson Extension Service.

The assembly, a non-partisan public service, established by President Eisenhower, as president of Columbia in 1950, brings together business, labor, farm groups, professions, political parties, government and the academic community.

John Swartzfager Has Been Awarded $500 Scholarship

John G. Swartzfager, second-semester dairy science junior from Columbia, has been awarded the $500 Ralston-Purina scholarship for 1959-60 at Clemson College.

The annual award, designated for the senior year at Clemson, becomes effective in September.

Swartzfager was selected on the basis of leadership, future potential and financial need in addition to scholarship achievement. The scholarship committee is comprised of Prof. C. L. Morgan, chairman; B. E. Goodale, head, dairy science department.

Also, Dr. R. F. Wheeler, head, animal husbandry department; J. B. Monroe, head, vocational agriculture education department, and Dr. G. H. Aull, head, agricultural economics department.

International Political Developments Grow Large

By RUSS CAMPBELL
Tiger Feature Writer

International political developments in the past weeks have assumed a spreading effect not unlike that of a middle-aged woman who threatens to grow larger.

Vital political happenings have cropped up in far flung locations from primitive Tibet to the air corridors over Berlin in Eastern Europe.

In Tibet, a three-week-old uprising by anti-Communist rebels has been stomped out by the Reds. The spiritual and temporal leader of the Tibetans, the Dalai Lama, was forced to seek asylum in India.

Flees To India

With the flight of the 23 year old Dalai Lama, the Communists established a puppet government headed by the Panchen Lama.

The Dalai Lama, who is revered as a living Buddha, escaped an extensive air and ground search by the Communists over treacherous mountain terrain.

Prime Minister Nehru of India, who has maintained a neutralist attitude to this point, seems to be ready to recognize the Communists threat in the Far East now.

Nehru's India is traditionally weak and the Indian Prime Minister must be extremely careful of every action and word he chooses to use.

Globe-hopping to Cuba, Capt. Duque de Estrada, legal officer at Havana's La Cavana fortress prison, announced the "war crimes" against the followers of ex-dictator Fulgencio Batista will step-up the pace.

500 Expected

The trials were to begin on a 24 hour work-day schedule and a total surpassing 500 executions were expected during the week.

The Berlin dispute has now taken on a new dimension as the Soviets sent a diplomatic note of protest of American planes flying above 10,000 feet along western air routes to Berlin.

The United States has maintained it will fly where it pleases. The U. S. reply indicated there has been no agreement on stratification of the air access routes into Berlin as yet.

From Washington the 15-nation NATO council strengthened the Allied stand on West Berlin in a statement directed at the Russians. The note warned the Reds of "unanimous determination to maintain the freedom of the people of West Berlin and the rights and obligations of the Allied powers."

shut-off once during the Suez crisis in 1956 and he can do it again.

If Nasser does halt Iraqi oil and ruin the Iraqi economy the Kasim regime might try desperate measures.

The Communists want Iraq's oil but hesitate jumping territorial borders as no Communist state borders Iraq. The aim of the Communist so far has been to promote Arab-Arab conflict and keep the Middle East in turmoil and uncertainty.

R. C. EDWARDS

are all working to build academic greatness.

"We are extremely pleased that Mr. Edwards is receiving the presidency," Dean of Agriculture Mr. D. Farrar said in speaking for himself and for his department. "We have liked and appreciated the work he has done as acting president."

Born in Fountain Inn on March 25, 1914, President Edwards is the late son of the late John T. and Effie Cook Edwards.

He attended public schools in Fountain Inn, and upon completion of the 10th grade in high school, received an academic scholarship to Clemson. He enrolled here in Textile Engineering in 1929.

After graduating in 1933 with a Bachelor of Science Degree in Textile Engineering, President Edwards received an ROTC commission as a Second Lieutenant in the U. S. Army.

He did not immediately go into the service; however, but worked in his field of study two years, after which he married the former Miss Louise Odum of Red Springs, N. C., on May 30, 1935.

The Edwards' now have two children—R. C. (Bob) Edwards Jr., born June, 1936, graduated from Duke University, 1958, and now enrolled in the University of North Carolina Dental School; and Nancy Edwards, born December, 1940, now enrolled as a freshman in Arts and Sciences at Clemson.

From 1933 until 1942, President Edwards was affiliated with the quality control laboratory of the Dunean Mill of J. P. Stevens and Company, Inc., where he was supervisor; Charles B. Thomas Company, Inc., of Red Springs, N. C., where he served as designer and later superintendent; superintendent of weaving of Aberfoyle, Inc. of Norfolk, Va.; and later plant superintendent of Aberfoyle, Inc.

In 1942 he entered the service and Fort Meade, Md., was his first home. Here he served as post salvage officer, post sales officer and lastly quarter officer. It was also here that he was promoted to the rank of First Lieutenant and later Captain.

After two years, in 1944, he was affiliated with the General Staff Corps in Baltimore. There he became a director of distribution services as staff supervisor of supply activities for the

Agricultural Seniors Teach In Schools

Clemson seniors in Agricultural Education began their directed practice teaching on Mon. Apr. 6, and will teach in various South Carolina high schools for the remainder of the semester.

The students will observe the regular teachers for a few days, plan lessons, teach agricultural students and adult farmers, visit students and farmers, and assume all the duties of teachers of agriculture.

Students and schools represented are Gene K. Starnes of Lancaster and Francis W. Mack of North at Easley High School; Andy H. Cross of Cross and Clarence V. Parker of Pisgah Forest, N. C., at Seneca High School.

Billy R. Abercrombie of Fountain Inn and States M. McCarter of York at York High School; Vaughn L. Carmichael of Johnstown, Pa., and L. C. Case of Clemson at Gilbert High School.

Also practice teaching are James L. Jackson of Fair Bluff, N. C., and Braxton E. Lewis of Dillon at Loris High School; Daniel L. Coleman of Latta and James L. Alford of Dillon at Mullins High School.

James D. Stone of Johnsonville and Richard E. Hussey of Harleyville at Pleasant Hill High School; Bruce F. Wyatt of Williamston at Mullins High School.

Also, Vanik S. Eaddy of Lake City and Ralph D. Roberts of Asheville, N. C., at Allendale High School; and John J. Rankin of Salem at Anderson High School.

seven technical services of the U. S. Army in Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania. He was discharged with the rank of Major in 1946.

Returning to South Carolina and textiles, he became plant manager of Deering-Milliken's Abbeville concern. From 1948 until 1956 he served as Treasurer and General Manager of the same.

In 1956 after 19 years in textiles, President Edwards chose to come to work for Clemson as vice president for development. Since last summer after the sudden, untimely death of the late Clemson President Dr. Robert Franklin Poole, President Edwards served in the capacity of acting president.

While at Clemson President Edwards was a member of Clemson Chapter of Blue Key, National Leadership Fraternity and Tiger Brotherhood.

He has been a member of the Lions Club International since 1946 and has served at one time or another as president, deputy district governor, cabinet secretary and director.

President Edwards has been a master mason since 1936, a shriner since 1940 and a member of the American Legion for 13 years.

He and his family are members of the Clemson Methodist Church.

AF Drill Team Will Perform Before Dance

"The Air Force Freshman Cadet Drill Team will perform at 8:45 p.m. on the quadrangle prior to the commencement of the Military Ball," announced Col. C. B. Thompson, professor of Air Science.

The 15-minute precision drill exhibition will be the first public performance since the drill team was formed in Oct., 1958. Led by Robert Boles, Industrial Management major from Lexington, the 40-man unit is entirely composed of freshman Air Force ROTC students.

Col. Thompson stated that the drill team plans to perform at the Anderson Panorama Air Show on May 9, and at the joint review on ROTC Honors Day.

Words To The Wise

By BILL WEEKS

Associate Student Chaplain

There once lived in England a man who was an avowed atheist; he never hesitated to criticize or attack Christianity. One day he challenged one of the well-known pastors of that country to argue with him about Christianity.

The pastor was always glad to defend his faith and accepted the challenge. He asked for only one argument—that he be allowed to bring 100 people who believed in the Christian faith. The atheist was allowed to bring 100 of his followers. Both agreed and the date was arranged.

When the day arrived, many people gathered at the meeting place to witness the widely publicized argument. At the appointed time, the pastor arrived and behind him followed his witnesses.

Many of them wore old and tattered clothing; everyone could see that. But they also noticed something different about them; they did not seem ashamed nor restless nor afraid.

The crowd restlessly waited for the other group to arrive, but neither the atheist nor any of his followers ever appeared. The pastor climbed upon the platform and arrested their attention.

Then one after another he introduced those who came with him and asked each to say a few words. From varied life backgrounds the story was the same—the story of how unhappy and unpurposeful lives had been changed by God.

Why did these people and others give their lives to the kingdom of God? Christ had not promised them a palace in heaven; he did not promise freedom from pain or hardships. He did not force them to surrender to Him. What was the reason?

The answer is found in a spiritual experience each had with God. Sometime in their lives they spiritually saw God's love expressed in His Son's death. In the light of such love they saw their lives and their need for a saviour and turned to Christ for forgiveness.

A little girl had been asked to read a portion of the Bible in Sunday School and her mother asked her to read the verses before Sunday arrived. The daughter did so, and when she had finished, her younger sister said, "Mama, can

I read some too?"

"Of course, dear. Go ahead," Paula turned to the middle of the Bible and read, "God is Love." She turned a few pages and read, "God is Love." As she turned to another portion and began to read, her sister impatiently exclaimed, "Oh, Paula, stop it! You know it doesn't say that!"

Paula looked to her mother. "Mother, it does say that, doesn't it?"

Thanking God in her heart, the mother replied, "Yes, Paula, I think it does."

Yes, the Bible does say that God is Love. It is God's love that transforms lives today and leads them to a higher plane of living. He offers His love to those who genuinely give their lives to Him.

Letter To Tom

Unwritten Law Of College Violated In Student's Dining Hall Behavior

Dear Tom,

I want to take a few minutes of your time to report a condition that has been especially appalling to me, and I'm wondering if maybe I'm the misfit. In my home, no one helps his plate or begins eating before the blessing.

I know I'm not at home now, but if the blessing in the dining hall is nothing but a ceremony and a relic of the past not to be abided by, I suggest that we dispense with it and return to barbaric principles and morals.

If I am the only one that has noticed so many people violating this unwritten law of Clemson, I apologize for troubling you. However, I am sure that I am not alone.

Perhaps there will always be a minority group that indulges in these practices, but I do not feel that as many as are present today were brought up in such a manner. I wonder how they would feel if they should suddenly see their family walk in the dining hall and see.

Have we forgotten that God is continuously watching?

of the Olin Foundation and Clemson, distinguished guests, the college administration and the Chemical Engineering staff will be introduced.

Mr. F. L. Jervy will announce the list of articles in the box in the cornerstone. Dr. Earle will give construction features of the building and Dr. C. E. Littlejohn, Head of the Department of Chemical Engineering will discuss the projected use of the building.

The cornerstone will then be placed by Dr. Horn and Dr. Wynn of the Olin Foundation with the assistance of Dr. Sams and Dr. Littlejohn.

Will Address Assembly

Dr. Wynn and Dr. Horn will address the assembly. Acting President R. C. Edwards will make a response and Rev. Charles A. Arrington, Pastor of Clemson Baptist Church, will conclude the ceremony with a prayer.

Dr. Sams urges the student body and faculty members to attend the ceremonies at the building site.

The faculty of the School of Arts and Sciences carry on a varied program of research and also make many literary contributions.

In the Department of Industrial Management, the newest and largest department on campus, several members are studying various phases of the field. Dr. W. D. Trevillian, head of the department, prepared an article on Industrial Management at Clemson for an issue of Alumni News.

Almost every faculty member in the Department of Social Science is engaged in research, according to C. L. Epling, head of the department. Mrs. M. S. Ringold, assistant professor of social science, is currently editing numerous letters of Henry and Robert Gourdin, staunch segregationists in Charleston who lived during the Civil War Era.

In the Department of English and Modern Languages Dr. C. B. Green, head, contributed a chapter in a book of historical Essays, published by the University of Georgia Press.

Owings Reads Paper

Dr. M. A. Owings, professor of English and Modern Languages, read a paper entitled "Episcurus Own Son?" before the South Atlantic Modern Language Association.

Dr. T. A. Garbaty had his article "Feudal Linkage in Beowulf" published recently in Notes and Queries. Three other articles by Dr. Garbaty have been accepted. One, "Chaucer's Guildsmen and Their Fraternity" deals with the actual guild that existed at that time. The others are "On the Breaking of Swords" and "The Betrayal of the Swiss Alps."

P. L. Elliott had his article, "Another manuscript Version of Tennyson's 'To the Queen,'" printed in Notes and Queries. Another article, "Tennyson's 'To Virgil," as Bibliographical Note," has been accepted for publication.

In the Department of Mathematics, there is both mathematical research and the presentation of papers pertaining to mathematics. Eugene Park recently read his paper "The Pace of Modern Mathematics in the South Carolina High School."

Dr. M. C. Palmer read a paper "The Analysis of Variance" which was later printed. Dr. A. T. Hind prepared an analysis of "Data Smoothing Methods as Related to Radar Data for Rockets" for the Navy. L. A. Rife prepared a confidential publication for the U. S. Navy Mine Defense Laboratory.

Reads Three Papers

Dr. W. G. Miller has recently read three papers. They were "Feedback," "Stem Method for System of Differential Equations" and "A Necessary and Sufficient Condition Imposed Upon the Interval of Advance for Convergence of Iterative Numerical Methods." Dr. J. E. Miller and Dr. C. A. Reed of the Physics Department are currently investigating the X-ray diffraction of solid state at high temperatures under a National Scientific Foundation Grant. The temperatures are in the range of 1,000 degrees Centigrade, according to Dr. Miller.

The title of their research is "Determination of Debye characteristic temperature by X-Ray Diffraction." The Debye characteristic temperature is closely related to the physical properties of the solid.

Similar research, but in the low temperature range is being carried out by Tom Hutchinson, a graduate student. Temperatures of 80 to 90 degrees Absolute are used in this research, which is for a masters thesis.

Studies Metals

Lawrence Rice, graduate student in Physics, is studying single crystals of metals by X-ray diffraction for his masters thesis. He is also studying the crystal defects of the materials.

There is also a great deal of research being done by the Department of Chemistry and Geology. Dr. F. L. Brownley, head, had his article "Determining Fundamental Chemistry of Manganese in Water Systems" in the Journal of American Water Works Association.

In the field of geology, C. Q. Brown had an article "Clay Mineralogy of Sediments in the York River Basin, Virginia" published in the Bulletin of Geological Society of America.

In Washington ROTC National Championship

Pershing Rifles Compete Today

By BILL HILL
Tiger News Editor

The Pershing Rifles will drill today at the ROTC National Championships. The platoon will be in competition for the Schaffer Cup which is awarded annually to the best ROTC fancy drill platoon in the nation.

"Buck" Deaton, leader of the Clemson unit, stated that the meet will be held in the National Armory just outside of the Capital. He estimated that approximately 35 or 40 units from all over the United States will be in competition for the cup.

Win In Raleigh

Last weekend, the unit went to Raleigh, N. C., where they took part in the Fourth Regimental Drill Meet which was held on the campus of North Carolina State College. The Clemson P. R.'s won the overall meet with a total of 17.5 points out of a possible 20.

The unit won first place positions in three events. They were, precision platoon drill, best drilled individual, basic and advanced, and drill quiz.

Radio Chemistry Advanced Work Being Offered

Advanced work in radio-chemistry is being offered during second semester at Clemson in a laboratory "as well equipped as any of its kind in the Southeast," according to Dr. J. G. Dinwiddie, associate professor of chemistry.

Dinwiddie, who introduced the first course in radio-chemistry here in 1957, praises the lab which houses $36,000 worth of apparatus and is housed in the new Chemistry Building.

"Each student is encouraged to perform experiments involving applications of radioisotopes that are of particular interest in his major field of study," he said.

The introductory course, conducted by Dinwiddie, who holds a doctorate from the University of Virginia in organic chemistry, consists of a study of nuclear radiations, radiation detection instruments, and tracer techniques. Students in one of the physical sciences or a biological science are eligible.

The second, advanced course a theory course - will be available only to nuclear science majors. It will be taught by Dr. F. J. Lindstrom, assistant professor of chemistry, who did his graduate work at Iowa State.

Selection Officer Here Apr. 20-21

Major Charles B. Redman, Marine Corps Officer Selection Officer for the Carolinas, announced that he would visit Clemson on Apr. 20-21.

While here he plans to interview students interested in obtaining a Marine Corps commission. At present vacancies exist for both ground and pilot training.

Major Redman stated that several excellent programs are offered by the Marines. Freshmen, sophomores and juniors are eligible for the Platoon Leaders Class program.

Seniors may participate in the Aviation Officer Candidate Course or the Officer Candidate Course. Marine officer training is so arranged as to not interfere with college work and all students will be required to receive their degree before being assigned to active duty.

While at Clemson Major Redman and the members of his team will be located in the Visitor's Lounge in the Loggia, daily from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. All interested students may contact him there. This will be his last visit during the current academic year.

College Extension Service Assists In Large-Scale Turnover Of Farm Products

The Clemson Extension Service assisted in either purchasing or selling almost 30 million dollars worth of farm products in 1958, according to a report prepared by J. E. Youngblood, chief of the Clemson Extension Division of Markets.

The assistance consisted of such things as locating markets, establishing routes, pooling products to get a higher price and cooperative buying for lower cost.

Demonstrations and instruction were given in the proper grading, packaging, processing and storing products to meet market demands.

Aids In Selling

Included in the items the extension service aided in selling were almost 12 million dollars worth of fruits, vegetables, poultry and poultry products. Aid was given in the processes of harvesting, grading, packing, marketing and supervision of inspection.

Farmers were also assisted in the sale of meat-type hogs and beef cattle in addition to pork and beef.

The service also assisted in the purchasing of forest seedlings and the sale of timber and pulpwood. Altogether, over 45,000 farmers were assisted in the sale of their products and the purchase of necessary supplies.

Hugh McClimon Elected Prexy Of Clemson FFA

Hugh P. McClimon, Agricultural Education major from Greer, has been elected president of the Clemson Collegiate Chapter of Future Farmers of America for the 1959-1960 term.

McClimon, a junior, has served as first vice-president of the chapter for the past year. He is also member of Alpha Zeta, Arnold Air Society, and Phi Kappa Phi.

Other officers elected were as follows: first vice-president, Joe White, Vocational Agricultural Education major from Clover; second vice-president, Luther Collins, Vocational Agricultural Education major from Mullins; secretary and Eldred Clardy, Vocational Agricultural Education major from Wampee; treasurer. Also George Bedenbaugh, Vocational Agricultural Education major from Leesville; reporter, Joe Hughes, Animal Husbandry major from Duncan; sentinel, Robert Hayes, Agricultural Education major from Johns Island.

Professor F. E. Kirkley is serving as chapter advisor.

Academy Of Science Meeting Will Hear Paper By Dr. Miller

Dr. W. G. Miller, professor of mathematics, will present a paper on psychosocial systems at the 32nd annual meeting of the South Carolina Academy of Science tomorrow. The University of South Carolina is host to the meeting which begins today.

Attending the meeting with Dr. Miller will be Dr. J. G. Dinwiddie, professor of chemistry at Clemson and vice-president of the Academy, and Dr. Ray Rutledge, professor of botany at Clemson and South Carolina representative to the American Society for the Advancement of Science.

The paper, one of a series of interdisciplinary studies by Dr. Miller, will be given in the philosophy section. It shall conclude that the application of rigorous laws from the physical sciences to data from the human sciences is a questionable procedure- if not valid.

Left Wednesday

The P. R.'s left for the Capital late Wednesday night by bus. While in Washington they will be quartered at the Naval Receiving Station. "Buck" said that some 40 members are making the trip.

The platoon will also drill in the annual Cherry Blossom Festival Parade which will be held tomorrow night. Competition is also keen in this parade for marching honors according to Deaton, and he stated that the P. R.'s will be "out to capture first".

Clemson, Purdue Battle

For the last two years the meets have boiled down to a duel between Clemson and Purdue. The midwestern team won last year with 974. The P. R.'s scored 966, losing many points due to a dropped hat and a sash that came unpinned during drill. Their drill, despite these mishaps, earned them second place.

They said it couldn't be done... They said nobody could do it... but —

Letters To The Editor:

Plan To Solve Parking Problem During Classes

From time to time I have read editorials and feature articles in The Tiger concerning the problems of student campus parking. The recent feature article concerning this problem in the March 6 issue of the Tiger incites me to recommend the students a plan which I suggested to the Administration, March, a year ago.

This plan will not solve all of the parking problems, but it will resolve the problem of having to drive to classes in order to meet classes on time.

The plan is very simple. The four morning classes should follow this schedule—7:50 to 8:40; 8:45 to 9:45; 10:00 to 10:50; 11:05 to 11:55. This schedule would allow fifteen minutes, which should be ample time, between morning classes. The afternoon classes would follow the existing schedule.

I have seen this schedule work on a much larger campus than Clemson's. Everyone there met classes promptly without the aid of cars which were not allowed on the campus during class hours.

Disadvantages Seen

There are two disadvantages in this plan, one being the forfeiture of 15 minutes of sleeping time and the other being walking instead of riding to class. The latter would be an advantage from a health point of view.

With best wishes for a better Clemson, I am
Sincerely,
W. B. Boykin
Assoc. Prof. of Agronomy

Are Tennis Courts For College Use?

Dear Tom,
As spring approaches, tennis fever mounts on campus. Lately many Clemson Students have been drawn by this fever to the tennis courts. But to their great surprise, these courts were filled by the local high school students.

For example, today, Mar. 24 at 4:00, by some strange twist of fate one court (out of 6) was under the control of Clemson players. The other five were overrun with the high school tennis players. At least 20 Clemson students were denied the privilege of playing tennis because of this situation.

We would like to know if these courts are for our use or for the benefit of these high school students. We are confident that many Clemson students share our curiosity on this subject.

Bauknight To Speak At Meeting Of STE

L. M. Bauknight, associate professor of Agricultural Economics, will speak on "Management in Your Future" at the next meeting of Sigma Tau Epsilon.

The meeting will be held Apr. 13 at 7:30 in Room 118 Chemistry Building, according to Rufus Land, president. Land has extended an invitation to the student body and faculty to attend this meeting.

Mr. Bauknight received his B.S. degree in Agricultural from Clemson in 1935 and his M.S. degree in 1948. He served in the Regular Army from 1941 until 1946 and is now a lieutenant colonel in the reserves.
