Executive Committee Ratifies New Student Body Constitution

Document Includes Budget Review Board

By FRED HUGHES
Tiger News Writer

Executive Committee unanimously passed the new student body constitution after three hours of deliberation Wednesday evening following its initial ratification by the Student Assembly last week. It will now be sent to the Office of Student Affairs to be approved or revised by Dean Walter Cox. After this approval and/or revision the finished constitution will be submitted to the student body for ratification in a campus-wide election.

According to Bill Martin, assistant secretary of Student Assembly, "It was decided at the beginning of this year that the old constitution was ineffective and a new constitution should be written. This writing was undertaken by a special committee set up within the Student Assembly. This committee's work has been the major order of business for the Assembly this year."

body who shall be the Chairman of this committee.

2. The treasurers of each class.
3. Two members appointed by the president of the student body and approved by the Student Senate."

Other major changes in the new constitution include the lowering of the GPR requirement for candidates running for student body offices. This includes the candidates for election to the High Court (formerly the Senior Council). The GPR requirement has previously been 2.5 but the new section allows the point ratio for his class to graduate plus a .3 to run for a student body office.

The candidates for president and vice president of the student body are required to have at least a Junior classification and candidates for secretary and treasurer of the student body must have a Sophomore classification.

Immediately after the Executive Committee's approval of the new constitution, Angus McGregor, president of the student body and chairman of this com-

Work on the new constitution was begun in early October and terminated early this semester. Every aspect of student government was thoroughly discussed and thought out before it was entered in the new constitution. Ideas for the formation of the constitution were gathered from other constitutions and ideas pertinent to our own student body inserted to make up the content.

One of the most widely discussed and controversial sections in the new constitution is section 11, article 4, which deals with the establishment of a Financial Review Board. This section reads as follows: "The Financial Review Board shall review the budgets of all organizations receiving an allocation from the Student Activities Fee. It shall also review the budgets of organizations that sponsor campus-wide activities. This board shall serve in an advisory capacity to the office of Student Affairs, and shall publish two (2) reports yearly in the last issue each semester of The Tiger."

Bill Schachte, speaker of the Assembly, had this to say about the Financial Review Board. "It is felt by many that the establishment of the Financial Review Board will clarify the financial positions of our student organizations which receive allocations from 'Activities Fees'. It is an attempt on the part of student government to educate the student concerning questions that exist about financial proceedings of the CDA, Taps and Tiger."

The composition of this board as stated in the constitution is as follows: "The Financial Review Board shall be composed of —

1. The treasurer of the student mittee, stated, "With the advent of this constitution, I feel that Clemson student government will be given a tremendous boost."

This constitution is a good, strong and sound document that puts student government on a solid foundation. The Student Assembly committee that wrote it did an excellent job and we on the Executive Committee are

Obernkirchen Children's Choir Presents Next College Concert

Obernkirchen Children's Choir, one of the most heralded choral groups of Europe, will perform here for the next presentation of the current artist series. The concert will be held in the Field House March 17 at 8 p.m.

The present administrator and conductor of the Choir, Erna Piellicker and Edith Moeller, founded the organization in 1949. The scene was the town of Obernkirchen, West Germany, a land which had a few years before seen at first hand the Second World War.

Miss Moeller had found the value of music in her work with homeless children during the war. Her original plan was to organize a children's choir which would raise funds for a new hospital by giving local concerts.

Greatly impressed by the group, a British welfare officer arranged a concert for them in England. From this beginning, the dreams of the founders have been realized and exceeded.

In 1953, the group competed against 25 choruses, most of them larger and more experienced, at the International Elsteddford Music Festival in Wales. The entire Festival was enchanted by their radiance and the group received first prize.

"The angels in pig tails" became famous throughout Europe after this trip and came to the United States in 1954. They performed in Washington, New York, Boston, Chicago and Milwaukee and appeared on the Ed Sullivan television show. Among their appearances on the tour were 12 sellout audiences at New York's Town Hall.

Since that time, the Choir has toured the United States four times and were received with enthusiasm everywhere they performed. This season they are on another solidly booked circuit.

International fame has not spoiled the Obernkirchen Children's Choir. The children remain as natural and clear-voiced as they were before joining the group. While they sing, homeless children are now being cared for in a special home near Obernkirchen which has been rented and equipped from the earnings of their concert tours.

Audiences usually react to a performance by departing with a warmed and relaxed feeling imparted to them by the choirs golden voices. In terms of one of their hit songs, they commented, "we are a group of Happy Wanderers in America's great land."

English Professor

Professor John D. Lane Retires After Forty Years Of Service

Clemson's "one man School of Journalism," John D. Lane has recently retired from the College faculty after 40 years as a teacher of English. Mr. Lane has taught here continuously, except for last semester, since 1924.

During his teaching career, Mr. Lane offered such classes as "Imaginative Writing," "Business Law," "Business Letter Writing" and "Journalism."

Many of his students have entered the field of journalism. Mr. Lane established here the Gamma Alpha Mu Club to encourage creative writing. Earl Mazo, editor of The Tiger in 1939 and author of a biography of Richard Nixon, was a member of this group.

Also members of the Clemson Gamma Alpha Mu were Harry Ashmore, editor of the Encyclopedia Britannica, and George Chaplin, editor of the Honolulu Daily Advertiser.

Written Widely
Mr. Lane has written many articles, editorials and pamphlets during his years here. Among these publications are four booklets on the teaching of English which have been circulated and used in at least 38 states.

All Clemson publications had the services of Mr. Lane as faculty advisor for 30 years. He led The Tiger to three All-American ratings, and the Taps to one. He served as advisor to Tiger Brotherhood, Blue Key and Sigma Tau Epsilon.

Mr. Lane has served on the to Clemson to teach English in September, 1924, and he has done precisely that with great skill, with complete dedication, and with enviable success.

"The poet Gibran has written that the master teacher walks in the shadow of the temple of learning; he gives of his faith and his lovingness; he does not bid you enter the house of his wisdom; rather he leads you to the threshold of your own mind. Several thousand Clemson men in all walks of life will agree with all of us who know John Lane that this description of a master teacher fits him."

In June, Newberry College will bestow an honorary doctor's degree on Mr. Lane.

Parking

New Rule Goes In Effect Soon

New traffic announcements have recently been released by Office of Student Affairs, according to Dean Richard C. Armstrong. These regulations are effective immediately.

Students are urged to go by the signs which have been erected concerning who may park a car on the various campus locations. For instance, if a student does not see a sign in a locality where he wishes to park, it would be advisable for him not to park there.

Student cars being parked for a long period of time near the Clemson House are now being issued warning tickets, but violation tickets will soon be issued for those cars. Exceptions will be made for students cars parked there only for a short period of time such as for a student eating in the hotel or there for a meeting.

The parking lot adjacent to the Laundry has been reconverted into a Senior Parking Lot. All underclassmen are requested to remove their cars from this lot immediately. They may use Williamston Road by the stadium to park their automobiles.

The road between the new Senior Parking Lot and the Laundry is not to be used for overnight parking. Warning tickets are now being issued for this area but this will soon be discontinued and parking tickets will be issued.

Dean Armstrong emphasized that all warning tickets being given anywhere now will soon be discontinued and parking tickets will be issued.

McTeer Named New Circulation Manager

Gene McTeer, industrial management junior of Clemson, was elected Circulation Manager of The Tiger Monday night at a Senior Staff meeting. Gene assumes the position recently vacated by Jerry Hudson.

Gene has been a member of the circulation staff of the college paper during this year. He is also a member of Mu Beta Psi, honorary music fraternity. In commenting about the paper, Gene said, "We are presently the South's oldest college newspaper; we would like to be the South's most widely circulated college newspaper."

Presently The Tiger is sent to 33 states, including Alaska. "We would like to send it to 50 states," the new Circulation Manager said. This year's total circulation is 1200. It is hoped that circulation will be raised to 4,000 next year.

Koreans Desire Correspondence From Clemsonites

Angus McGregor, president of the student body, recently received a letter from Dwight Strawn, a 1960 Clemson graduate who is now serving as a missionary in South Korea, informing him of the organization of a political discussion group among Korean university students.

These Korean students are interested in corresponding with American college students about political affairs. In his letter to Angus, Dwight explained about the group. "There is a club at the seminar called the U. N. Student Club."

"It is of about 25 members and they are interested in corresponding with American college students. I've written several people in America, but two months have gone by with no reply, so I thought I'd write you about it."

"It is needless to say that at the present time students comprise one of the major forces in Korea. As a group they are perhaps one of the most influential forces on the political scene. This is both good and bad and everything we can do now is important."

"You and I cannot begin to imagine the significance of the students' role in the recent revolution. It has brought to the front in a most dramatic way forces which even the Koreans were largely unaware of and which will continue to increase in importance."

Any persons interested in this organization and participating in it are asked to contact Angus McGregor in room A-842 for further information.

From Nine States

Clemson To Host JESSI Third Consecutive Year

Junior Engineers and Scientists Summer Institute (JESSI) will be held on the Clemson campus for the third year from June 11-24. Male high school students from nine states will be eligible to attend this program.

The fields of pure and applied sciences will be introduced to the young scientists from Delaware; District of Columbia; Florida; Georgia; Maryland; North Carolina; South Carolina; Tennessee; Virginia; and West Virginia.

Moorman Speaks
Director of this program is Dr. Robert W. Moorman, head of the Department of Engineering Mechanics. He stated, "Clemson College feels that the JESSI program is extremely worthwhile. It offers prospective engineers and scientists the opportunity to gain insight into the various careers in these fields and serves to guide those young men who, though interested in the broad area of applied science, have not made up their minds about the specific fields in which to cast their lots."

"It is not a recruitment program for Clemson. Rather, it is a sincere effort to inform prospective college students of career fields in order that they may make a sound decision of what to take when they enter the colleges of their choice. During the two weeks, they will receive instruction from Clemson faculty members representing all areas of science and engineering. We have selected the faculty with care, and those who will participate are among the most able and best informed on the campus."

The approximately 100 rising high school juniors and seniors eligible for the program will be selected upon evidence of aptitude and interest in science. It is limited to students who rank in the upper quarter of their classes.

These JESSI students will live as a group in a dormitory and eat in the college dining room. For each group of about 25 boys, there will be a resident counselor who is a college student.

Include Films, Talks
The academic program will consist of lectures and demonstrations by the faculty. In addition, there will be films and talks by representatives from industry and a field trip to a nearby industrial installation.

A program of organized recreation in the afternoons and on the weekend will serve to keep the students' busy for the entire two weeks period.

"The total cost of the program is $100 per student," Dr. Moorman stated. "Most students will bear this cost themselves. Some financial aid is available through the generosity of industries and service clubs in the areas from which students will be drawn. Through this medium, it is hoped that no worthy student will be turned away because of financial need."

Literature concerning the program has recently been sent to 2,445 schools and 4,470 individuals in the nine states and the District of Columbia by Scientists of Tomorrow of Portland, Ore., the national organization which sponsors the JESSI program.

Additional forms and other information may be obtained by writing to the JESSI Program, Clemson College. Completed applications should be submitted to Clemson before May 1.

Member Faculty Senate
In 1956, Mr. Lane was elected president of the Clemson Academic Faculty Senate. This was the first year the Senate was in operation.

Dr. J. K. Williams, Dean of the College, said in announcing to the faculty of Mr. Lane's retirement, "One member of the academic faculty will retire this month for physical reasons and at his own request."

Little Theatre's "Family Portrait" Starts Saturday

"Family Portrait," a religious play by Lenore Coffee and William Joyce Cowan, will be presented by the Clemson Little Theater tomorrow at 8:15 p.m. and twice on Sunday; the matinee will be held at 2:30 p.m. and the evening performance at 8:15 p.m.

Twenty-two characters take part in this story of the family of Jesus. According to the directors of the play, this family is quite true to life and families of today, particularly in the relationship of the members of the family of Jesus to each other.

Through the conversations of family and neighbors, the character of Jesus is revealed. The story takes place during the last three years of Jesus' life from remote places on the sea to a winery in Capernaum.

Mr. Hal Coledge, associate professor of architecture, is director of "Family Portrait." He has been an active member of the Little Theater group for several years.

Aid Deadline Nears For Upperclassmen

Deadline for applications concerning upperclassmen scholarships and awards is Tuesday, according to Greg Hughes, director of Student Aid and Placement.

Acceptance or rejection of applicants will be announced later this spring. Information on scholarship opportunities for upperclassmen and other financial aid is available at the Student Affairs Office.

New Constitution Goes To Executive Committee Document Includes Financial Review Board

Clemson College now has a Constitution that will effectively govern and cover the many new and changing factions of Student Government. This Constitution has received a lot of work and forethought. Now it needs the backing of the student body. The Constitution of any country, organization, or form of government is only as good as the people who demand its enforcements. We must become familiar with our constitution and prove its worth. It needs only executive approval to become reality. The fate of the Constitution now rests in the hands of the Executive Council. Will they contradict the opinions of the Assembly? We think not.

The forethought that has been put in this Constitution is apparent in the section that provides for The Women's Resident Court. This legal body would have jurisdiction over the Coeds in matters not defined as matters for other courts The Student High Court (present Senior Council), The Freshmen Court (present "Rat" Council), and the newly formulated Appeals Court. The Judicial system proposed by the new Constitution would produce better enforcement for the student body and at the same time give the defendant a better break.

Further evidence of the "look to the future" contained in the Constitution that was approved by the Student Assembly is found in its ability to increase the size of the Senate as the student body grows to a set point. That point is a maximum of eighty (80) Senators with a ratio of three class Senators to one

Council of Club Presidents Senator.

The TIGER will publish the notices and excerpts from the minutes of the Senate to help keep the students better informed. This request is a part of the Constitution and we of The TIGER are proud to serve in this capacity. This has been one of the big faults of the Student Government—lack of communication between it and the students. Perhaps this situation has been rectified.

Three different committees have been included as a standing part of the proposed Legislative Branch. The traffic committee will deal with problems such as the present attempt to allow Freshmen to bring their cars on campus a week prior to dance weekends. The Elections Committee will handle all the difficulties that student elections create.

The newly proposed Constitution has allowed for more diversification in the powers of the student government, especially in this legislative branch. It has an open door for controlling the financial operations of the various student organizations. The Financial Review Board composed of the treasurers of the classes, the student body treasurer, and two other members appointed by the President of the Student Body and approved by the Student Senate, will be able to review the budgets of all organizations receiving an allocation from the Student Activities Fee. This is something that should be supported completely by the students. The Student Body has a right to know exactly where their money goes.

Twisted Opinions Of Some Question Honorariums

Honorariums then will be a controversial topic. Do student organizations deserve, need—are they worth—any monetary reward? Speaking for The TIGER we feel that the honorarium set up for this year's staff is completely justified. We have a budget which will allow the senior staff to divide eighteen hundred ($1800.00) dollars. This is a lot of money but it constitutes only a fraction of the budget.

We are not solely supported by student activity fees. We produce over half of our budget by subscriptions, local advertising, and national advertising. We then get actually less than half of this money from the students. We too pay activity fees.

Anyone can join The TIGER staff and with earnest endeavor can rise to a position which now entitles him to a modest percentage of the total honorarium. A senior staff position is not easily acquired. It usually takes at least two years and in most cases three. Those who only share in one year's honorarium receive pay at the rate of less than two cents per hour. They work for quite a few hours to get just a little reward. Who among our student body will carry copy to Anderson at three o'clock in the morning for two cents a hour? If any will, apply in The TIGER offices any Monday or Tuesday night.

We are not asking for anything that we feel is not justified. We do not want any more than we have asked for nor are we saying that we will get all we ask. Only if we stay within the budget do we share in the honorarium. The TIGER will not sacrifice quality for an honorarium. If we deplete our budget, then the remaining papers will come out of the honorarium. If we under-shoot our budget we will still only receive the set amount.

TIGER Staff Work Justifies Sizable Honorarium

The TIGER staff is not asking for your sympathy. We ask for your understanding. To some students honorarium is a contemptible term associated with thieves. These students demand to know why anyone who enjoys the prestige (?) that accompanies high position on The TIGER should receive any of his money. This is quite a question. It can best be answered by a quote from one of the senior staff, "The TIGER is no longer an extracurricular activity — it's my JOB." The time placed in placing a paper in that grey box on the Loggia for an average senior staff member is in the neighborhood of twelve (12) hours a week. For certain members its runs as high as eighteen (18) or better. Try losing that much time in three days each week!

IT WASN'T PLANNED THIS WAY!

One Man's Opinion

Problems Of New Constitution Require Serious Consideration

By FRED BISHOP
Tiger Feature Editor

Well, it seems we are finally on the way to solving the problem of obtaining a new constitution. For those of you who are not familiar with the problem, perhaps some background might be appropriate.

The greatest drawback was the apathy of the student body. In the old constitution or our present one, the requirement for amending the constitution was that it required an absolute majority of the student body which was never obtainable because not enough persons would vote.

Because of this oversight on the part of the writers of the present constitution, much of the things that the writers could not foresee were to plague student government until someone finally decided to just write another one.

My colleague, Mr. Rowland, is also commenting on the proposed constitution and he has explained what must be done before the student body to be accepted in a referendum, but when this will be done this writer does not know at the moment.

Several new features have been added to the proposed constitution. A Student Senate will be the new name for the Student Assembly. The new constitution also provides for increasing enrollment in that for increments of increases in population of the student body, there will be more representation.

It also has a difference in the ratio of class senators (representatives) and Senate members from the Council of Club Presidents. It provides that the ratio of class Senators and council representatives should not exceed three to one with the class senators being favored.

At present, we have a President, vice-president, and secretary of the student body. Under the proposed constitution, a treasurer would be added. There are also some differences in that we no longer have the statement that one must be "a rising senior or junior". There is also a fluctuating G.P.R. requirement so that there will not be conflict when the college changes its various requirements.

Perhaps the most important feature, except for that commented on by Mr. Rowland, is the provision that the Senior Council will make interpretations of the constitution. This has long been a sore point or one of confusion in our present constitution. This principle will give us what might be considered a "living document".

It seems this writer said that a certain student had been found cheating and that certain grades were received. Now this writer didn't want to "point the finger", but it would seem that some people took his reference as fact, unfortunately.

Now to clarify the situation, if there is any, let this writer point what has been pointed out to him. The supposed reference was found cheating. He received an "F" through some error. The situation has now been rectified and he has received an "F" and my supposed slur on the action of a professor was incorrect and I now apologize to that professor if he felt that I was making a reference to him.

Now to another point, from the same column. It was said that there were certain practices in the administration which were undesirable. Well, let me say that I have found no proof that I was right, on this count.

Since I believe myself to be a man of principle, I will apologize to those persons "hurt" by those statements which I cannot prove to be true, and let me hasten to add that I was not forced to make an apology. Let us hope that all persons in this school whether he be student, faculty or administration are persons who stand by the truth and are ready to defend it for its innate virtues.

Also let us hope that all persons will freely and correctly apologize when he has wronged either student, faculty, or administration. A man cannot long live with himself if he does not protect that which is dearest to him — TRUTH. Let us hope that apologies are always made when they are forthcoming!

Let's Talk It Over

Name-Calling Editor Shows True Character

By HERBERT ROWLAND
Tiger Associate Editor

Commenting on events not considered strict editorial material is not the usual practice of this writer, but recently one particular feud that originated on the sports pages of The Gamecock has become of such proportions that we have decided a few choice words would be in order.

Sports Editor Doug Gray of USC's weekly crow has seen fit to insinuate that Clemson athletes and coaches are so profane that they do not deserve to be observed or heard by the general public. He has made a great issue out of an item that appears to be based almost one hundred percent upon hearsay evidence coming from Carolina biased sources concerning a game which, incidentally, Carolina lost.

This is not a sports column, but when name-calling on the part of Mr. Gray gets so bad that he refers to Clemson students as "Boy Scouts" and "fat-heads," and to our college as "an Agricultural Extension Station" some sort of action should be taken.

He unjustly condemns Clemson's basketball team and coach for using uncalled for profanity on the court and in the same breath uses the low, underhanded name-calling tactics quoted in the preceding paragraph. Not only is this the cheapest form of journalism (we hesitate to even use the word in connection with said column) we have ever seen, but it borders on being libelous.

Is dragging the good name of Clemson College through the mud of Bull Street the only way Mr. Gray can comfort Carolina fans for the loss Clemson handed them on their own court? We've seen some poor losers in our time but never anything to top this exhibition! Further action on this matter will be forthcoming, and not necessarily in print. We of The Tiger only wish that all students could read in its entirety the column of which we speak. Its distorted comments are enough to boil the blood of any loyal Clemsonite.

New Facility Suggested

Suggestions concerning the plight of our campus laundry have been many and varied, but one received last week from an authoritative source seems especially good. As a matter of fact, we would like to propose to those who are in charge of seeing that the laundry continues to serve Clemson students seriously consider the following proposal.

Why can't the partially used downstairs of the laundry building be converted into a washerette? Such a facility could be coin operated as are the other enterprises of a like nature in this area. Any student who has had to wait in line to wash clothes or drive a relatively long distance in order to wash clothes, in addition to those students who must walk at least 3/4 mile to the nearest laundromat will certainly use and appreciate an up-to-date, convenient on-campus facility.

Let's face facts. Students are going to continue to use the automatic washers for a large proportion of their everyday wash so why not get a piece of the pie? True, a considerable investment will be necessary to put such an operation into effect, but is it best to spend some money in order to get back on a paying basis, or should the laundry continue to lose money and lay off employees as it is reportedly doing?

Providing a needed service plus coming out of the venture with figures in the black seems to be an ideal situation that can be accomplished with a little work and a lot of thought. What will be the outcome?

Constitution Has Merit

In regard to the proposed new constitution for the Clemson Student Body which by now has either been approved or vetoed by the Executive Committee (consisting of all class presidents, Student Body President and Vice-President), we should like to commend one particular section. The portion of which we speak is that which provides for a Board of Financial Review.

Such a board of review would protect the student body from exploitation by any campus-wide organization or any organization which receives money from the Student Activities Fee. A little bit of thought on the part of the reader will easily reveal to him just what organizations this will involve.

This board, if approved by the Executive Committee, will provide for the publication of a financial statement twice at the end of each semester by all organizations which fall under the category as outlined.

These statements, if published this year, would have been quite interesting we are sure. This judgment is based upon some of the arguments against the "Board" provision that were launched at Student Assembly last week. We gathered the impression that some campus-wide organizations have something to hide. If this is true, then let's see the matter corrected before any more harm is done; if not, then this is the chance for such organizations to clear themselves.

Other sections and provisions of the proposed new constitution will be discussed both here and on the WSBF "Editorial Page of the Air" heard at 11:00 p.m. on announced dates. We urge all students to acquaint themselves with this important document which we hope will be submitted for student approval in the very near future. It is definitely a step forward in Clemson's progress.

Letter To The Editor

Anonymous Author Submits Unusual Quiz; 'College Board Revised' Provides Humor

Well, it has happened again. The anonymous author who submitted the interesting telephone number to The Tiger last week has come up with the following "quiz" this week. The note which is reprinted complete below was attached to the manuscript we received. Only one further statement from this editor to the anonymous author; please reveal yourself to us, both The Tiger and Calhoun Society need your talents!

1. Dear Poverty-Ridden Editor, "Fear not, Oh Noble Editor. For printing last week's telephone numbers, neither Perry Mason nor Clarence Darrow will summon you to the bar — at least not the bar of justice. In fact, both last week's directory and this week's test were, in their entirety, CAC".
- "I have just one question. What did you mean when you said 'another libel suit'? Are such things everyday occurrences? Gad! Such a situation is shameful, to say the least!"
- "Contrary to what you may think this does not mean 'Condemned at Cleveland' — it means 'Created at Clemson'."
- And so, with the proper credits given to he who prefers not to reveal himself to the public, here goes with the most unusual quiz we have ever seen. Oh yes, if the author wishes answers to his questions as presented in the foregoing letter, come by The Tiger and ask to see the Associate Editor.

Blanket Party Undaunted By Rainy Weekend

By ZIP GRANT Tiger Feature Writer

It was a perfect week for a dance week-end; and then the rains came. The spasmodic downpours coupled with the seemingly continuous drizzle succeeded in casting a dreary shade over the entire week-end.

Clemson once again had a "big-name" band for its week-end, but the reaction to this "name" band was varied and interestingly emphatic. Students either liked Earl Bostic or they disliked him without any hint of equivocation.

The concert was good because that's the type of music Bostic excels in. . . jazz, concert style. He is so great with the saxophone that it seems a part of him. He even talks in much the same key as he plays.

The music as a whole did not seem to have the beat that students at Clemson are accustomed to dancing to — maybe at Newport or Greenwich Village, but not at Clemson. Jazz is a loser at a dance, that is, at this phase of changing dance music.

The dance was put on in the traditional flamboyant CDA way and went over with impeccable smoothness. They did good — it was just a case of that old saying. . . "win a few, lose a few, a few. . ."

Since last week, questions have been asked as to why Playboy magazine cannot be purchased in Clemson. The answer is, I don't know. Rumor says that a town ordinance prohibits the sale of the magazine.

Obviously, it's not the result of a ruling by the college because at the University of South Carolina, another state supported institution, Playboy can be bought at the book store of the Russell House, their student center.

It probably all goes back to when the magazine first went into publication. To build up circulation, ribald stories, risqué jokes, and suggestive pictures were included in the make-up of the magazine to appeal to the male buyers. As the years passed and Playboy became very popular, it evolved into a college-type magazine that appealed to students around the nation.

It replaced Esquire as the men's fashion authority and injected current musical trends, mostly jazz, into its growing coverage of male appealing subjects. Of course the stories, jokes, and pictures were still there, but not in such gross form. These facets of the magazine became accepted as "just Playboy".

Playboy pinups dot the walls of nearly every institution of higher learning in America, and Playboy Clubs are more plentiful than London Foggs. But here at Clemson, Playboy is on the blackmarket. The ordinance was probably passed in Playboy's growing years and town officials must not have reconsidered its now obvious worth.

And whoosh went the push-button umbrellas, both to ward off the rains of the monsoon season and the torrent of protective measures being rained upon the "good little boys of Clemson" by a motherly administration. We are not to be allowed to see the word "Sex" because in one opinion it connotes lust; lust is evil, therefore the word "Sex" is evil. Such reasoning is fine in logic, but will it work in practice?

Heaven help any college student who is so naive that he needs to be protected from one word. The same goes for the collegiate guests who were also supposed to be "protected" by the removal of signs containing the above mentioned word!

First no Playboy, now no "Sex"!

Jazz Concert Anyone?

Some listened, and some just rested, but everyone seemed to enjoy Earl Bostic's concert Saturday afternoon.

Campus To Lose 3 Large Trees

J. C. Carey, Superintendent of Grounds at Clemson, recently announced that three trees in the avenue leading from Tillman Hall to Riggs Hall are to be cut down next week.

"The trees to be removed are the first and third in the first row and the first tree in the second row," said Mr. Carey. "One tree's trunk is badly cracked and decay has started."

"The other two trees are dying very rapidly. These trees are over fifty years old and need to be replaced very soon. They will be replaced with ground water oaks," he stated.

This replacement is a part of the Physical Plant's program to keep the campus ground beautiful, according to the director.

Since last week, questions have been asked as to why Playboy magazine cannot be purchased in Clemson. The answer is, I don't

"I'VE GOT NEWS FOR YOU"

I know all of you have important things to do in the morning—like getting down to breakfast before your roommate eats all the marmalade—so you really cannot be blamed for not keeping up with all the news in the morning papers. In today's column, therefore, I have prepared a run-up of news highlights from campuses the country over.

SOUTHERN RESERVE UNIVERSITY

Dr. Willard Hale Sigafos, head of the department of anthropology at Southern Reserve University, and internationally known as an authority on primitive peoples, returned yesterday from a four-year scientific expedition to the headwaters of the Amazon River. Among the many interesting mementos of his journey is his own head, shrunk to the size of a kumquat. He refused to reveal how his head shrinking was accomplished. "That's for me to know and you to find out," he said with a tiny, but saucy grin.

NORTHERN RESERVE UNIVERSITY

Dr. Mandrill Gibbon, head of the department of zoology at Northern Reserve University, and known to young and old for his work on primates, announced yesterday that he had received a grant of $80,000,000 for a twelve-year study to determine precisely how much fun there is in a barrel of monkeys.

Whatever the results of Dr. Gibbon's researches, this much is already known: What's more fun than a barrel of monkeys is a pack of Marlboro. There is zest and cheer in every puff, delight in every draw, content and well-being in every fleecy, flavorful cloudlet. And what's more, this merriest of cigarettes comes to you both in soft pack and flip-top box wherever cigarettes are sold at prices that do no violence to the slimmest of purses. So why don't you settle back soon and enjoy Marlboro, the filtered cigarette with the unfiltered taste.

EASTERN RESERVE UNIVERSITY

The annual meeting of the American Philological Institute, held last week at Eastern Reserve University, was enlivened by the reading of two divergent monographs concerning the origins of early Gothic "runes," as letters of primitive alphabets are called.

Dr. Tristram Lathrop Spleen, famed far and wide as the discoverer of the High German Consonant Shift, read a paper in which he traced the origins of the Old Wendish rune "pt" (pronounced "krahtz") to the middle Lettic rune "gr" (pronounced "albert"). On the other hand, Dr. Richard Cumberbund Twonkey, who, as the whole world knows, translated "The Pajama Game" into Middle High Bactrian, contended in his paper that the Old Wendish rune "pt" derives from the Low Erse rune "mf" (pronounced "gr").

Well, sir the discussion grew so heated that Dr. Twonkey finally asked Dr. Spleen if he would like to step into the gymnasium and put on the gloves. Dr. Spleen accepted the challenge promptly, but the contest was never held because there were no gloves in the gymnasium that would fit Dr. Twonkey.

(The reader is doubtless finding this hard to believe as Eastern Reserve University is celebrated the length and breadth of the land for the size of its glove collection. However, the reader is asked to remember that Dr. Twonkey has extraordinarily small hands and arms. In fact, he spent the last war working in a small-arms plant, where he received two Navy "E" Awards and was widely hailed as a "manly little chap.")

Tigers Rout Cocks

The Clemson-Carolina clash Tuesday night proved to be one of the most spectacular basketball tilts of the season. Everything one could imagine occurred when the Tigers ripped the tail feathers of the Gamecock's varsity and freshman teams. The Baby Bengals closed out the '60-'61 season with a 17-2 record. This past Tuesday the Baby Tigs avenged an earlier loss suffered at the hands of the Biddies, 90-80.

Jim Brennan led the Tig Freshmen with a rousing 38 points; Nick Malasovich followed with 23, and Gary Burnisky tallied 15. Richard Hall should be commended for his excellent floor game. Space does not allow us to exploit all of the achievements of the freshman team. Congratulations men, on an excellent season.

Maxwell Leads Scoring

The varsity likewise played one of the most impressive games this writer has witnessed. The 93-72 victory margin gave the Tigers their season's highest record score as well as the widest margin of victory. The Tigers got off to a locomotive start by scoring 15 points to the Cocks' 0. Maxwell, Mahaffey, and Patterson led the Bengals in scoring, but every man who played added his share in downing the battle weary Birds. We believe in giving credit where credit is due—Gamecock Art Whisnant is undoubtedly a great basketball player, and he would be an asset to anybody's team. We find only one thing wrong with Whisnant—he plays for the Carolina Gamecocks.

Referee Lou Bello also put on one of his best performances of the year. Lou kept the Tigertown crowd in a good humor with his humorous antics during the entire game. Lou's favorite pastime was to pass the ball to spectators located under the baskets. If the ACC had more great referees like Bello, the game of basketball would be greatly improved.

Sportsmanship Trophy?

ACC Commissioner Jim Weaver was among the spectators at the clash Tuesday night. Officials of the ACC sportsmanship trophy committee were also present. Could it be that Clemson has a good chance to take the sportsmanship trophy home this year? The students greatly aided in the cause at the game by behaving themselves in a respectable manner. Wonder if the Gamecocks will see it that way—Well, maybe so

Baby Bengals Bop Biddies 90-80

Frosh Avenge Previous Loss To S. Carolina

By TOMMY RISHER
Tiger Sports Writer

Clemson's freshman basketball team romped from a two point halftime deficit to catch the Biddies with about fifteen minutes left, and moved on to a 90-80 revenge victory. Thus the defeat suffered in Columbia to the Biddies was in part avenged.

The Cubs were once again led by Jim Brennan, the flash from McKeesport, Pa., as he contributed 38 points to the freshman cause. He brought the Cubs from behind by putting on a blazing shooting exhibition in the early stages of the second half.

Tuesday's game started off as a see-saw affair with the Cubs moving in front by as much as six, only to see the Biddies come back and lead in the latter stages of the first half. Nick Milasovich converted two free throws with a few seconds left in the half to tie the game only to see Ronnie Collins toss in a layup to give the Biddies a two-point halftime lead.

As the second half started, the Biddies moved out to a five-point lead. However, with Brennan and Milasovich leading the way, the Cubs took the lead with about five minutes gone in the half. At this point Brennan was taken from the game with four fouls on him.

His replacement, Gary Burnisky, quickly gave the Tigers a substantial 7 point lead by converting a pair of freethrows and sinking a couple of quick baskets. Brennan returned and led the Cubs to a 12-point lead before fouling out with 3 minutes left.

However, with Milasovich hitting 8 points in the last 3 minutes, the Biddies could not overcome the Cub lead. A basket at the final buzzer by Terry Lucansky cut the Cub margin to 10 points, as the Cubs took the 90-80 victory.

Brennan set a season record for the highest average for a freshman basketball player by averaging 26.2 points per game. This broke the existing record of 26.0 points per game set by Vince Yockel in 1955.

The Cubs also broke the record for most wins in a season by running their record to 17-2. The old record was 16-5 set by the 1954-55 freshman group. Thus ended the most successful season for a freshman team in Clemson history.

Brennan Sparks Record-Breaking Cubs; Lauds Cubmates As "Great"

By ROBERT BERGER
Tiger Sports Writer

One of the main cogs of the cub's highly polished quintet is Jim Brennan. Jim is a 175 lb., 6'2" performer from McKeesport, Pa. He led the team in scoring with a 26.2 point per game average setting a new freshman scoring record.

Brennan first started playing organized basketball in the 7th grade, playing junior varsity basketball in the 9th and 10th grades. He soon moved up to the varsity and was elected captain of the team his senior year. Brennan said of his coaches: "I had a fine coach by the name of 'Neenie' Cambelle.

"I'm fortunate, also, that we have Coach Bobby Roberts here at Clemson. He's a great guy and I don't think I've ever met a nicer fellow. He acts just like 'one of the gang!' We concentrate on the running game a lot here, and I think Coach Roberts is a real fine instructor." Apparently, Coach Bobby Roberts is doing quite well. As the record shows, Brennan had this to say about the upset defeat at the hands of the South Carolina Biddies. "We certainly were down against them. We should win the next game we play with them. They are definitely not the best team we've played. 'I'd say that the best team we've played was the Piedmont Rangers. They really have some fine players (several former Clemson stars included) and we were fortunate to beat them.

"In the first game against Piedmont, the score was nip-n tuck all the way. Piedmont was playing for the last shot in a three minute overtime. They made it good to go ahead by 2 with only seconds to go in the overtime. But ol' Burnisky tied it up. Well, I suppose youth prevailed because we won by about 10 points in the second overtime."

Jim was asked to comment on his hobbies. "My only hobby is basketball. I would rather play basketball than do anything else, so I guess that pretty much narrows myself down to one activity."

Brennan says that his taste in girls is narrowed down to blondes, brunettes, and redheads. Jim was asked what he thought of the South. He replied, "Man, it's warm. I lived where it is real cold and I guess that is why I played a lot of basketball."

Brennan is majoring in Arts and Sciences here at Clemson. He said that boys from back home such as Doug Shamble, Walt Gibbons, and the Krayjacks influenced his choice of Clemson as his Alma Mater and since then he has been very impressive.

Maxwell Stars In 93-72 Win

By FRED CRAFT
Tiger Sports Writer

South Carolina had a rough time of it Tuesday night as the Tigers smashed the hapless Gamecocks 93-72. The Tigers built up an early 15-0 lead and it was smooth sailing from then on. With the score 45-23 at the half, Coach Bob Stevens started an entire new team but there was no stopping the flying Tigers as they rolled to their ninth win in 23 games.

The Tiger's two big men, Tommy Mahaffey and Earle Maxwell, had a field day as they grabbed off 33 rebounds together and scored 25 and 29 points respectively. Choppy Patterson contributed 19 points and sparked the Tigers with his tricky floor play.

The win over the Gamecocks was the Tiger's fourth conference win against eight defeats. The Tigers were never better from the foul line as they made 17 of 23 attempts. Clemson missed its first foul shot with 17:11 to go in the second half.

In the first half the Tigers made 16 of 40 from the floor for 40 per cent, while the Gamecocks hit on 10 of 33 for 30 per cent. The big factor in the game was the superior rebounding of the Tigers as they completely outclassed the smaller Gamecocks.

Center Art Whisnant played an inspired game as he led the Gamecocks in scoring with 22 points and grabbed off almost all of the rebounds for Carolina. Scotty Ward was the next high for the Roosters as he pumped in 10 points. Two substitutes, Bill Bonzulak of Clemson and Bob Haney of Carolina, gave their teams a boost as they scored 4 and 7 points respectively.

For the second time this year Coach Maravich was completely able to empty his bench as the Tigers built up leads of up to 23 points. Two seniors, Earle Maxwell and Ed Krayjack, played their last home game and closed out their home varsity career in fine fashion.

It was the first time since 1943 that the Tigers have won both games and it makes Coach Maravich's seventh win over the Gamecocks to five defeats. Coach Maravich now has a 3-1 lead over Coach Stevens. The 93 points scored by the Tigers is a high for the season. The previous high was 89 points against Virginia. The victory margin of 21 points Tuesday night was the highest this year.

Junior Dave Wallace played a fine game for the Tigers as he grabbed off 13 rebounds and scored four points. Tuesday night's game was played before an overflow crowd of more than four thousand and the fans were given an extra treat by the colorful antics of officials, Lou Bello and Charlie Eckman.

Clemson established one new record in scoring 36 field goals. Before Tuesday night's game the Tigers' high mark for the season was 32 against the Citadel in Clemson's 78-68 triumph. Clemson beat every team in the state at least once and suffered their only loss to a state school in Furman's (Continued On Page 6)

Cavaliers, Terps Seek Vengeance For Losses

By JOHN SNAVELY
Tiger Asst. Sports Editor

Next weekend will find the Tiger basketball team on the road for two ACC games. On Friday the Bengals meet Virginia's Cavaliers at Charlottesville and then travel to College Park, Maryland on Saturday to take on Maryland's Terrapins. The Tigers will be meeting both these teams for a second time, having played both previously at home.

In the first game with Virginia the Bengals won over the Cavaliers 89-81, and, although the score seems to indicate that the game was close, the Tigers played that night as if they had the game in the well-known "bag."

However, the Cavaliers are never pushovers on their home grounds, and Friday night's game could tell an entirely different story. As things stand now, bets are on the Tigers to take another one from the Cavaliers.

The big game next weekend is, of course, the Maryland game. Maryland will certainly be seeking revenge for the 76-59 trouncing that they received here in Tigerland two weeks ago. Fans at that game seemed to be in general agreement that the game was one of the best the Tigers have played in years and hope for a repeat performance at College Park.

One cannot deny the difficulty of facing the Terps on their home court. The Tigers will probably be facing a capacity crowd of yelling, screaming Terrapins in Cole Field House (capacity 12,500).

Clemson's record against the Terps now stands at 10-20, the Tigers having two losses for every win in roundball competition with Maryland. They would like nothing better than to bend this one-sided tally a little more our way.

The Tigers now stand in undisputed sixth place in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Next Friday's game with Virginia can have no effect on Clemson's Conference standing, but the Maryland game means the difference between fifth and sixth place to the Tigers. A win over the Terps will mean that the Tigers will play the Terps in the first game of the ACC Tournament which starts on Thursday, March 2, at Raleigh, N. C.

In case of a loss to the Terps the Tigers will still play the Terps first in the Tourney. Why? In this year's Tourney the fifth and sixth place teams will be matched against each other. This will pit Maryland against Clemson. Since a win by Clemson over Maryland would result in the teams just swapping Conference position, they still play each other first in the Tournament.

North Carolina has withdrawn from the Tourney as they are on probation. This withdrawal puts Duke in the number one spot going into the Tourney.

Baseball Rained Out

Volleyball, Handball Start As Basketball, Bowling End

Rain on Saturday and early this week curtailed baseball practice after five days of strenuous, progressive work. Coach Wilhelm has been stressing the need for good weather in preparation for a successful season for his sophomore-dominated Tiger nine. But with the rain coming constantly, there is nothing that can be done.

"It's not that a few days of little work will slow us too much physically," he said, "but the boys worked pretty hard last week for five days in ideal February weather; and with the physical progress they achieved, there was in evidence a strong, psychological edge. The weather, I am hoping, will not dull that edge."

According to Wilhelm, the Tigers have a nine-man pitching staff as of this date. By Friday all nine were throwing hard and beginning to break the ball over the plate. Each appears to have the arm that college pitching requires. Just how some will do, regarding control, changes of speeds, and breaking stuff remains to be seen. On the staff there is size, speed, and experience. The problem: which five or six out of the nine have the most of the best?

Intramural Picture Develops

The intramural picture is also developing this spring. All next week Clemson students, faculty, and employees have the opportunity of entering intramural competition in two, very different but highly enjoyable, sports activities.

For a team, sports-minded volleyball is an activity that requires skill and cooperation. Interest has increased in this activity to the point where 26 teams entered competition last year. Six players comprise a playing unit but rosters must have at least 8 names with no more than 12.

Handball tournaments, both singles and doubles, will be held this year and supervised by trainer Fred Hoover. All football players will enter along with several coaches and employee enthusiasts. The tournaments will be of the single elimination type. The three, best of five, fifteen-point games will decide the winner.

To enter either of these activities, sign the appropriate sheet in Coach Wilhelm's office before 6 p.m. Saturday, March 4. Play begins Monday, March 6.

With the ending of the basketball and bowling seasons, these will be the only intramural activities in progress. They must be concluded before the spring holidays after which softball, golf, and horseshoes will begin.

Our history department has in its midst a fine college track star. C. W. Bolen. Professor of History and Government, competed in track in a small college in Virginia, Emory and Henry College. While studying at this small Methodist college Prof. Bolen competed in the pole vault for four years, lettering for three years. Not being happy with just the pole vault, he also ran the half-mile and the low hurdles on occasion.

During his senior year Prof. Bolen managed the football team in the fall. The following spring, in a fitting climax to his college career, he set a pole vault record that stood for six years at Emory and Henry. He eased his way over the bar at 11'-0" to break the old Emory and Henry varsity mark.

Prof. Bolen believes that the pole vault record, now at 15'-9", will soon top the 16' mark. "The record has risen 3' in 29 years and will soon top this mark since we now have supermen as athletes today. The finer equipment and training that athletes receive today are the major cause for these new records."

After graduating, Prof. Bolen took a high school coaching job in a small school in southern West Virginia. He coached every sport but football and, "as a sideline", taught history. After he had left college he took up tennis "since there was no offer to advertise Wheaties." He has "never played much tennis," yet he went all the way to the finals in the intramural tennis tournament before Prof. Miller finally stopped him. Even then it was a close match.

During the summer months he attended the coaching school at Duke University and also took additional courses in history. In this manner he went to the fine coaching school and also received a M. A. He then attended the Duke graduate school to qualify for a Ph.D. in European History.

Prof. Bolen then went to Potomac State College in northern West Virginia to teach history. He taught there for three years. "Then the United States government got into trouble. The diplomats failed to keep us out of the war so I was called in to help bail them out."

"The Air Force, viewing my record, then sent me to the most logical place considering my background and training. They made me a physical instructor in the Air Force because of my experience in coaching. I was ordered to 'build up big men' through calisthenics roadwork and intramural sports. All of this took place at Gulfcourt Field, an Air Force mechanical school and training center in Mississippi on the Gulf."

In 1947 Prof. Bolen came to Clemson because of Dr. Poole, the late President of Clemson College. Dr. Poole said that this was good place to live, so Prof. Bolen came with him to look at Clemson. He has enjoyed his stay here and will teach European History here as long as there is a place for him and the college keeps on paying him.

McGuire Praises Tig Efforts At Charlotte

By BOBBY COWSERT
Tiger Sports Writer

Coach Frank McGuire, the highly-successful mentor of fifth-ranked University of North Carolina paid Clemson one of the most complimentary remarks received by the Tiger quintet all season when he said: "The trouble with Clemson is that the boys are good and they don't know it."

This statement came as a result of a 61-55 victory for UNC over Clemson last Saturday night in the North-South Doubleheader in the Charlotte Coliseum. A crowd of 8,340 witnessed the game as they battled the Tarheels down to the wire in the first game Saturday.

Clemson took the lead early in the game and it took UNC fifteen minutes to catch up, doing so on a three point play by All-American York Larese. Clemson battled back, however, and led 32-31 at intermission.

It did not take the McGuire-coached lads long to jump into the lead as the second half began, and once they had it, they never relinquished it. The big factor in the outcome of the game was due to Clemson's poor shooting from the charity line. The Tigers made good 15 of 25 from the free throw line. Many of the misses came on one-and-one chances.

With the score 53-42 in favor of North Carolina, the Bengals began to rise and cut the lead to 53-48. At this time the Tarheels began to stall with beautiful tactics, and the game was icing on the cake when Jim Hudock ran loose for a three point play with 4:10 left in the game.

In the doubleheader's final Saturday night, North Carolina State College defeated the University of South Carolina, 97-84. The Gamecocks played a spirited ball game, and should be given credit for their hustle, even though they did lose.

Friday night Larese and Doug Moe, the other All-American from UNC, could not have been better as they teamed to defeat USC by a score of 92-63. This came as somewhat of a revenge match and the North Carolina boys had a 35 point lead at one time. When Coach McGuire replaced his front line players with the benchmen, the score stood at UNC, 92-USC, 56.

In the final four minutes South Carolina scored 12 points while the Tarheels were held scoreless. Referee Lou Bello was quoted as having said, "The students are now playing." This statement (Continued On Page 6)

Earle Maxwell Proves Asset To Basketball

By PHIL SCOVILLE
Tiger Sports Writer

One of the toughest and most aggressive members of the Tiger cage team is center Earle Maxwell. Although Maxwell does not possess many of the spectacular talents of the super-star, his determination has made him one of the sparkplugs of the team.

The biggest thrill of Earle's college career came during his sophomore year in a game against the University of South Carolina. The game was tied at the end of the regulation period, and Earle dropped in the winning two points in the final seconds of the overtime.

What are Maxwell's views

Earle Maxwell

Earle, a 6'7", 220 pound senior, is practically a local boy, having come to Clemson from Greenville, South Carolina. It was at Greenville High School that Earle first took to the hardwood courts, earning two letters in basketball under Coach Don Linn, as well as a letter in baseball during his senior year.

Upon being asked why he decided to come to Clemson, Earle replied: "My parents like basketball and wanted to see me play. Clemson is close to home and also one of the best engineering schools in the South, so it was naturally my first choice."

Maxwell, who is noted for his hard-fought play under the backboards, earned his first varsity letter during his sophomore year. He did not letter last year due to a knee injury which plagued him during most of the season. So for this year, Earle has started in almost every game and leads the team in field-goal percentage with a .453 accuracy. He is also tied for second in scoring with a 12.7 average per game. The hook shot is his most effective shot from the floor.

about this year's ball club: "We have a pretty fair team this year, but we need more reserve strength to give us a break in the close games. If some of our reserves come through, we can go all the way in the ACC Tournament next month."

Softball and golf take up most of Earle's spare time when he is not on the basketball court. He also likes to travel and has worked for the Green Giant Canning Company in the state of Washington during the past three summers. As far as the future is concerned, Maxwell, who is majoring in Mechanical Engineering, states that he would like to go to work for some large corporation after he graduates. He lists his marital status as "no plans yet."

"GIVE A MAN A TOUGH JOB AND A CHANCE TO GO SOMEWHERE ...AND HE'LL BREAK HIS NECK TO DO IT"

In 1958 when Bill Ebben was only a few months away from his engineering degree at the University of Detroit, he was in touch with 15 prospective employers.

He chose the Michigan Bell Telephone Company because: "This company offered the kind of engineering management opportunity I wanted—and they weren't kidding."

One of Bill's first assignments was a survey of Michigan Bell's big Central District to find out how long available building space could accommodate the switching equipment required by rapid telephone growth. "I wasn't given any instruction," Bill says, "I was just told to do the job."

So Bill did it. His report became the guide for planning and budgeting future construction.

On his next move, Bill proved he could handle supervisory responsibility. He was sent to head up a group of seven engineers to design a new long distance switching center for Saginaw, Michigan—a $4,000,000 engineering project.

Today, Bill is on the staff of Michigan Bell's Program Engineer. He's working on a system for mechanized control of telephone construction costs.

How does Bill feel about his job? "Give a man a tough job and a chance to go somewhere—and he'll break his neck to do it. Of course, I don't think I'm going to be running the business next year—but I'm getting every opportunity to hit the top. You don't worry about opportunity here—you worry about whether you're as big as the job."

If you're a man like Bill Ebben, a man who can size up a job, figure out what needs to be done, and then do it—then you should get in touch with one of the Bell Companies. Visit your Placement Office for literature and additional information.

"Our number one aim is to have in all management jobs the most vital, intelligent, positive and imaginative men we can possibly find."

Delta Phi Kappa Pledges Total 21

Delta Phi Kappa, a service fraternity, recently pledged 21 boys. Some of the services are promoting better voting in the student elections, keeping the lounge open, and promoting the Clemson baseball program. The fraternity has been organized since March of 1960.

The pledges of the fraternity are: Buzz Byrd, a pre-med sophomore from Edgefield; Crawford Chavous, an A & S freshman from Anderson; Tommy Cooper, an I.M. major from Camden; Roddy Edens, an I.M. freshman from Moncks Corner; Roy Gossett, a T.M. junior from Fort Mill; Ken Hill, a forestry freshman from Moncks Corner; Jim Harry, a T.M. junior from Grover, N. C.

Also selected were: Link Knight, an A & S freshman from St. George; Neal Kightlinger, an I.E. sophomore from Columbia; Een Langford, an I.M. junior from Saluda; Henry Lee, an I.M. freshman from Charleston; Jimmy Cusley, an I.M. sophomore from Hartsville; Sammy O'Neal, an A & S junior from Fairfax; Marshall Snoddy, an I.M. freshman from Greenwood.

Also selected were: Fred Tucker, an I. M. sophomore from Columbia; Laddie Stover, an M. E. junior from Greenville; Bill Miller, an Ed. sophomore from Warren, Ohio; Bill Wilhelm, an I.M. sophomore from Hampton; Mac Castlebaum, a C.E. junior from Florence; Barry O'Dell, an I.M. junior from Union; and Skip Yates, a Ch. E. freshman from Camden.

President of Delta Phi Kappa is Jim Lloyd, an education major from Edgefield. Vice President is Booty Hooker, a pre-med major from Columbia. John Quarles, an I.M. major from Edgefield, and Jim Hicks, a pre-med major from Hartsville, are secretary and treasurer respectively.

came as a result of the 36 point lead being closed to 24.

North Carolina State had more gas in its tank Friday night than did Clemson and pulled away from the Tigers in the second half for a 63-52 victory. The Tigers played State on even terms for 25 minutes, but then seemed to collapse and the Wolfpack swept to its seventh ACC victory in thirteen league games.

Clemson troubles were led by a 27 per cent shooting accuracy. The Tigers just couldn't buy a basket in the second half, and this fact, along with fatigue and better bench strength from State, ended the two game winning streak that the Maravichians were enjoying.

With the score deadlocked at 3-33 with 16:34 remaining, the Wolfpack began to click and Clemson began to pant, and State eventually opened up a twelve point lead to assure its victory. Bob DiStefano's hook shot with 14:40 left put State ahead to stay at 36-35.

The score stood at 37-35 when Ken Rohloff nabbed a pass from Tommy Mahaffey and raced down court for a four point lead. State then began to pad the margin on some neat work by John Pungier and Russ Marvell. Press Maravich summed up the game with three words a few minutes after the final buzzer sounded by commenting: "We got tired."

Spectators numbering 15,450 watched the two North Carolina entries make a clean sweep of all four games. In the three North-South doubleheaders to date, the teams from South Carolina have won only three games out of 12 games played. Maybe beginning next year Clemson and South Carolina will be able to play the calibre of ball that comes out of the state of North Carolina. Let's hope so anyway!

TRAILING THE TIGER

Attention Mr. Gray!

Two weeks ago we printed our opinion of a write-up that appeared in the Gamecock concerning the sportsmanship of several of our Clemson basketball players. We labeled these so-called facts as lies and the consensus is still the same. As far as the TIGER still wants to play "high school" it is their privilege. Good night Mr. Gray, We know where you are.

Musicians Speak Via Mu Beta Psi

We, the membership of Mu Beta Psi, honorary music fraternity, feel that in general the music presented at the campus-wide dances this year has not met the standards of preceding years, with respect to danceability and musical quality. We feel that better bands are available, and that Clemson can afford the better bands with present ticket prices. We also observe other area schools enjoying top-flight music at their dances, while Clemson has been plagued with inferior groups.

Therefore, this organization requests and urges that the Central Dance Association exercise more discretion in the choice of bands for the school dances. With proper planning and better judgement on the part of those in authority, Clemson College can regain its former position as a showcase for the best dance music of our era.

Resolution passed by Mu Beta Psi at a meeting Feb. 21. Copies sent to Central Dance Association and The Tiger.

BOYS OF AMERICA HOME SENDS THANKS TO ALL

Dear Tom:
Thank you so much for your interest and help in our Boys Home. We assure you your group has been of much benefit to our work here and we look forward to having you visit us again real soon.

Just wonder if you know some persons who would do some typing for us, no charge. We would supply stationery, carbon paper, form letter, etc. Also, our boys need tutoring in reading. Perhaps some one or some group would like to build for us a model of our new Home. We could place this in various places over the city at different times, or put it in the hall at the Home, helping to stimulate interest in our future plans for expansion. Anything you can get done for us will be greatly appreciated and helpful.

Sincerely,
BOYS OF AMERICA HOME

Jim had this to say about his teammates. "They're the best team I've ever played with. They're really a great bunch of guys. I believe and hope that the current Freshman team will help the Varsity considerably next season."

One close to the situation could have no doubt that the excellent Cub team will help the Tigers next year. There is also little doubt that Frosh star Jim Brennan will be heard from continually in the next three years.

Baptists Have Lead In Clemson Students

Denominational preference of the 4,048 students enrolled at Clemson for the first semester shows there are 1,612 Baptists.

Other denominations represented are Methodist 1,060, Presbyterian 530, Episcopal 209, Roman Catholic 205, Lutheran 157, Associate Reformed Presbyterian 24 and Jewish 14.

A total of 113 students listed other preferences while 124 indicated no preference, announced K. N. Vickery, Registrar.

FROSH

Our Cubs averaged 92 points per game for the season, while their opponents could muster only 67 per game. This difference of 25 points per game is an indication of the scoring power of the Cubs. Richard Hall and Milasnovich also averaged in double figures to give the Cubs three scorers above the ten per game average.

Slipstick Elects Bryant, Wilcox

Slipstick, campus engineering magazine, recently announced that James Orr Bryant, Jr., had been selected by the staff to edit the 1961-62 issues of the publication. Also selected at the same time was J. H. Wilcox as business manager.

Bryant, as editor, is in charge of planning future issues, checking to see that plans are understood and insuring that the rules of good form are carried out.

A junior in chemical engineering, Jimmy is attending Clemson on a U. S. Rubber scholarship. He is secretary of A.I.Ch.E. and a member of Phi Eta Sigma and Tau Beta Phi.

Wilcox, as business manager, will be concerned with the business matters of SLIPSTICK. He will be in charge of collecting advertising and dealing with the finances of the publication.

Jim, a junior in chemical engineering, belongs to A.I.Ch.E. and Phi Eta Sigma. He is also a member of Kappa Sigma Nu fraternity.

The new leaders of the publication stated that their first issue of Slipstick is now in the process of being printed and should be ready for distribution in a few weeks.

MSA SPONSORS DANCE, TICKETS NOW ON SALE

Married Students Association will sponsor its annual spring dance Saturday night, March 18. The dance will last from 8 until 12 with the Blue Notes supplying the music.

Tickets are presently being sold at Mary's Record Shop or by any member of the association at $2.50 per couple. All married students are urged to attend.

Block And Bridle Initiate Nine

Lambs, new members of the Block and Bridle Club, will end informal initiation Tuesday. The nine new members began their initiation Wednesday and will become formal members of the group at a supper Tuesday.

Dr. R. C. Edwards, president of Clemson, will be guest speaker for this Formal Initiation supper in the Meats Lab of the Food Industry Auditorium Tuesday evening at 6:30. Dr. Edwards will speak on the topic of "The Future Outlook of Clemson College."

Bob Hunnicutt, president of the club, will lead the formal ceremony of initiation to the new members. According to Rudy Bell, chairman of the initiation committee, all present club members are urged to attend the supper meeting.

MAKE MONEY! Dr. Frood is unable to answer letter from perplexed student. Your help needed. Lucky Strike will pay $200 for best reply to this letter:

Dear Dr. Frood: How can a man such as yourself be so wrong so often, so stupid so consistently and yet, at the same time, have the intelligence, good sense and outstanding good taste to smoke, enjoy and recommend the world's finest cigarette--Lucky Strike?

Perplexed

If you were Dr. Frood, how would you answer this letter? Send us your answer in 50 words or less. Try to think as Frood thinks, feel as Frood feels. For instance, his answer might be "HAVEN'T YOU EVER HEARD OF SCHIZOPHRENIA?" You can do better. All entries will be judged on the basis of humor, originality and style (it should be Froodian). Lucky Strike, the regular cigarette college students prefer, will pay $200 to the student who, in the opinion of our judges, sends the best answer to the letter above. All entries must be postmarked no later than March 1, 1961. Lean back, light up a Lucky and THINK FROOD. Mail your letter to Lucky Strike, P. O. Box 165F, Mount Vernon 10, New York.
