Frosh Elect Only One; Wins Prove Elusive

Returns in the freshman class elections Tuesday afternoon of this week resulted in only one candidate being elected to office. The solitary victorious candidate was John Crosby, who was elected to the post of senator.

Mike Hammer and Jeff Raines will compete for the office of president in a run-off to be held Oct. 10. Eliminated from the race were Loren Brogdon and Stork Coker. Running for vice-president will be Charles Harmon and Andy Heiskell.

The two candidates in the running for secretary are Robert McCarley and Pete Sherratt. Lydia Threatt, the sole co-ed in the race for freshman offices was eliminated. Remaining in the campaign for the position of treasurer are Jimmy Glisson and Britt Pearce.

As but one candidate received the necessary majority of votes for senator, no less than 17 young men will find themselves contesting each other for the 8 remaining positions. The 17 are Charles Ables, Charles Andrews, William Bradley, Paul Bunch, William H. Campbell and Bill Casson.

Also, Albert Courie, Charles A. Funderburke, Bill Hagler, Lee Honeycutt, Lloyd Kapp, Angus LaFaye, Andy McCullough, Cap Prescott, Fred Reinartz, William Richards and Albert Thompson.

Gray Garwood, Chairman of the Elections Committee, stated, "The freshman turnout at this election was strikingly bad; of a class of 1328, only 472 persons voted. It is indicative of the spiritless attitude of this entire class.

"Perhaps if students had an opportunity to hear the candidates at a planned political rally, more interest would be taken in these elections. If you concur, express your views to the student government."

Becky Epting, Vice-Chairman of the Elections Committee, said, "Reaction on the part of the freshmen in their class election is extremely disappointing. If the freshmen have no more interest in their own campus political scene than this election indicates, something must be done, not only by their own class, but by the student body as a whole to overcome this disinterest. Campus politics should

"This Is Clemson" Picture Proves To Be Great Hit

"This Is Clemson" has been viewed by well over 500 people during the three weeks it has been available for public showing. At present the film is solidly booked through Dec. 19.

The movie is an educational picture of Clemson available to civic clubs and other groups interested in Clemson. The college has seven copies of the movie and has made all of them available to interested groups.

Bookings have already been made for January and February and one has been made for June 11, 1962. Requests for the picture should be made to the Public Relations Department of the College.

Band Day

Clemson-Wake Game Stars 50 High School Bands

Fifty schools, representing North and South Carolina and Georgia, with a colorful gathering of 3,200 high school band performers, will provide spectacular half-time entertainment for the Clemson-Wake Forest football game at Clemson October 14.

John H. Butler, director of the Clemson Tiger Band, is coordinating a program that will include color guards from Army, Navy, Marine and Air Force reserve units of Anderson and Greenville.

It will be the "Band Day" of Clemson's football season and the more than 3,000 young musicians will be guests of Clemson for lunch in the college dining hall and for the football game that afternoon.

The three areas of band activity, music, baton twirling and color guard participation, will be under the direction of three visiting specialists. Frank A. Piersol, director of bands at Iowa State University and president of the National Association of College Band Directors, will be guest conductor when the 50 bands form from end zone in Clemson Memorial Stadium for the mass performance.

Baton twirling will be coordinated by Dr. Aaron Schmidt, director of marching organizations at Austin Peay State College in Clarksville, Tennessee, and southern division chairman of the NACED. Color guards are to be coordinated by Morgan G. Brenner, famed percussion instructor from York, Pennsylvania, who is nationally prominent as a judge of marching band performances.

Dr. Shewfelt Begins Asst. Prof. Position

Dr. A. L. Shewfelt, a native of Manitoba, Canada, has been appointed associate food technologist and associate professor of food technology in the Clemson department of food technology and human nutrition.

He earned his doctorate in food technology from Oregon State College and has done post doctoral work at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and the University of Florida. He is a past president of the Canadian Institute of Food Technology and a member of the Canadian Society for Horticultural Science and the American Society for the Advancement of Science.

Ferrante And Teicher

Ferrante, Teicher Will Present Unusual Program

By HOYT BURDETTE
Tiger News Writer

Arthur Ferrante and Louis Teicher, performing here Nov. 9, are two energetic young concert pianists who have become widely known through their concerts, broadcasts, and recordings as an exciting and popular duo. They first performed with the Toledo Symphony in 1947 and since then have played in 48 states and Canada.

Appearing with leading orchestras and giving unique recitals, they combine classical music with their arrangements of tunes of Rodgers, Kern, Gershwin, Porter, and other great composers. They often use new sound effects from which they have devised original gadgets to extend the tonal range of their Steinway pianos.

Teicher and Ferrante have remained close friends while sharing the driving of their car across the U. S., perhaps due to the fact that neither is a back seat driver. A specially designed truck carrying their two Steinway concert grand pianos accompanies them on their trips.

They have appeared on television with Gary Moore, Steve Allen, and Ernie Kovacs shows and also Ding-Dong School. The two have appeared on every major radio network and have recorded extensively for Columbia and Westminster; they now record exclusively for United Artists Records.

They have appeared frequently with Percy Faith on the Woolworth Hour, and were for two years, the resident two - piano team appearing weekly on ABC's Piano Playhouse. The music for the motion picture "Undersea Quest," which dealt with deep sea spear fishing, was composed and played, with the original sound effects, by this team.

Since they were six, Ferrante and Teicher have been playing pianos together. They first met as students in New York's Juilliard School of Music. Ferrante, born in New York City, was the (Continued on page 6)

Traffic Group Approves Fines

The Traffic Committee, on Sept. 27, approved the inclusion of a $25 fine for freshmen having vehicles on campus without proper authority. The fine will be included in the next publication of student regulations under Schedule of Penalties, Fines and Payment. This announcement is made pending publication of revised student regulations.

It was noted at the meeting that through Sept. 26, approximately 200 tickets had been given to students due to careless parking. The parking areas most violated are those in front of the Student Center, the Quadrangle, unmarked areas at the motor pool, and the post office parking lot. Also mentioned was the grass area near the Highway Patrol station.

Of the tickets given prior to Sept. 26, it was estimated that approximately one-half were to Freshman day students.

Parking will be allowed in visitors' timed spaces 5 p.m. until 7 a.m. Monday through Saturday and from 12 noon Saturday until 7 p.m. Monday, according to Chief Security Officer Jack W. Weeden.

Chief Weeden also stated, "It wouldn't hurt for one or a few cars to park in the quadrangle, but if this were permitted, everyone would want to park there. The fire insurance for the college calls for the quadrangle to be kept clean. Sometimes special permission is given to park in the area for dance bands, girls on buses for dances, and handicapped students.

For loading and unloading purposes, students should get permission from the police station to park in the quadrangle, otherwise, they will be subject to a fine.

"We have been asked about putting up signs; we have only one sign painter for the entire school, so efforts in this direction are, of necessity, limited.

Please don't park in the grassy areas and non-designated parking places," requests Chief Weeden. "It not only mars the grass, but detracts from the school's appearance. Temporary curbs are in the process of being made for the area behind the textile building. Behind the motor pool, yellow paint will be used to mark non-designated areas."

As there is definitely no surplus of parking areas on the campus it behooves everyone to follow these few simple regulations.

It only takes a late-arriving day student a little over 5 minutes to walk from Williamson Rd. to Tillman Hall.

During football games there will be no parking along Williamson Rd. from 2 a.m. Saturday morning until after the ball game. The no-parking zone is from highway 76 and 123 to the curb at Earle Hall. During this time, freshmen will be given (Continued on page 6)

Quartermaster Corps Visits Clemson; Display Exhibit

New paper clothing, new rations and the new plastic shelter for the armed forces are but a few of the items to be exhibited on the campus Monday and Tuesday when the Quartermaster Corps visits Clemson.

The display which fills a 10-ton tractor moving van, originates from Fort Lee, Va., will be visiting major colleges and universities throughout the United States this current academic year.

Exhibiting an actual model of the million-dollar Solar Furnace at the Quartermaster Research & Engineering Command at Natick, Mass., samples of the Disposable Paper-Base Clothing and many other innovations, the exhibit, which measures some 90 linear feet in length, will be set up in the basement of the Old Physics Building, and will be open from 9 until noon and from 1 until 5 p.m.

The solar furnace model, depicting the largest solar furnace in the Western Hemisphere which is used to evaluate items and materials that are designed to protect the combat soldier from the thermal effects of nuclear weapons. Energy drawn from the sun's rays is utilized by the furnace to simulate the tremendous heat pulse generated by nuclear explosions.

Samples of disposable paper-base clothing and other items will also be a part of the display. Several paper-base items such as surgeon's and nurse's gowns, clothing for maintenance men, towels and bed sheets, to mention only a few, are now being evaluated.

Quartermaster plastics technologists have developed something new in tentage for combat soldiers in the field. Known as the Foam-in-Place Field Shelter, this innovation and other plastics may ultimately enable one man of a 10-man squad to carry in two small containers the tentage requirements for the entire group.

Irradiated food products which enable perishable foods to be kept many months without refrigeration and the new dehydrated pre-cooked meals, both of which have aroused much public interest, will be on display.

In addition to the above there will also be exhibited models of the Missile Fuel Handlers Outfit, Cold Light Weight Clothing, a Combat Vehicle Crewman's Helmet, the Ballistic Missile known as the Lohrer, Thermal Boots, a Paper Tent, the new Armored Vest, the Fifty-Star Flag, and the recently developed Molded Shoe.

Accompanying the display will be Lt. Col. Robert W. Burns, of Tucson, Arizona, 1st Lt. David B. Browning, Jr., from Edenton, N. C., M/Sgt. William R. Perry from Elizabethton, Ky., Pfc. Donald F. Dysarz who is from Evergreen Park, Illinois and Pfc. James K. Russo of Evanston, Illinois.

Ag. Dept. Grants Award To Mills

Clemson College has awarded a new graduate fellowship in agricultural engineering to W. C. Mills of Blackstock, Orangeburg engineer with the soil conservation service.

This fellowship for graduate study in watershed hydrology is sponsored by the South Carolina Association of Soil Conservation District Supervisors and leads to a master's degree.

Professor T. V. Wilson, acting head of the Clemson agricultural engineering department, announced that Mills will conduct a new research project within a 600-acre watershed "laboratory" located in the Fant's Grove area south of Clemson.

His work will include complete control of the watershed free of highways and buildings. What happens to rainfall in a typical watershed of the Piedmont region, according to slope, vegetation and management practices, will be determined through careful observation and research.

A Fairfield County native, Mills graduated from Clemson in 1959. He is on a year's leave of absence from his conservation post.

Lutheran Notice

All Lutheran students at Clemson are urged by the officers to attend the L.S.A. meeting Wednesday night at 7. Mr. Roy Cooper of the "Y" will give a short speech on "The Church's Relation to the Y.M.C.A." The devotions and talk by Mr. Cooper will be a great inspiration to all attending, and it will be a beneficial experience for everyone," L.S.A. officials said.

Save By Flying Jet On Student Fares

Anyone from 12 to 22 can now fly Delta Airlines, piston or jet, at half the regular first class fare. And jet surcharges do not apply on these so-called Youth Fares.

Reservations may be made at any Delta office within three hours of flight departure time. If no Delta ticket office is in your area, you may buy an "open" Youth Fare ticket at any travel agency, airline military ticket office, or other airline ticket office. (In Clemson, the nearest such office would be Greenville.) Upon arrival at a Delta office, reservations may then be requested anytime within three hours of flight departure time.

Youth Fare passengers with confirmed reservations receive all the "extras" of personal service, meals, etc., that are enjoyed by full fare passengers. This plan presents an opportunity to fly the finest and fastest jets at very close to bus fare. An example of the economical fares is that it only costs $13.00 (plus 10% tax) from Charlotte to Jacksonville.

Many Factors Influence Success Of Graduate

How well does Clemson prepare its students for their selected vocation in life? This question should be of great concern to the student and faculty of this institution. As we all realize, a college degree does not necessarily indicate that the person who holds the degree will be successful in his job.

No one can predict with real certainty the success or failure of our graduates. What are the indicators that can be used to predict with some degree of certainty, the future of our graduates? We feel that there are four major indicators which can be used for this purpose: grades, personality, appearance and activities.

Some of the students and faculty believe that grades are the only indicator. This indicator, when viewed without the others, can be greatly misleading. Grades are representative of what an individual has accomplished academically, and when he enters industry or a private business, book knowledge alone will not carry him through.

This is not to say that high grades are not important. Of course, they are important, but there are other factors which undermine the true significance of grades. Some students who have a high IQ make low grades and vice-versa. It takes a tremendous amount of effort for some students just to pass a course. Their grades might be low, but the effort and determination is there.

The most important indicator is personality. Personality is extremely hard to define because of its abstract nature. It is quite natural to assume that a person with a pleasing personality is more apt to be successful than one who has a repulsive personality. Any job carries with it the task of communicating and coordinating with fellow workers. If an individual cannot do this efficiently, then the probability of success is quite small.

Very little explanation is needed on appearance. We all cannot have expensive clothes, but we can be neat and clean with what we do have. The last of these indicators, activities, has a direct bearing upon the first two. Activities give a student a chance to work with other individuals toward a common goal and more important, he gets experience in decision making. Decision making is the most important function of any job, and it is a function that not even a high-speed computer can completely eliminate.

All of the indicators work together in determining the probability of success of our graduates. We as students should consider all of these indicators and evaluate ourselves. Will we succeed or fail?

Student Government Needs Attorney-General

This past Tuesday night Don Heilig, Vice-President of the Student Body, presented to the Senate the proposed new office of Attorney-General on behalf of the President's Cabinet. Vice-President Heilig presented the reasons behind the Cabinet's decision to create this new position.

The Cabinet was asking the Senate for confirmation of their decision. This vitally necessary office in Student Government was rejected by the Senate, thereby decreasing the efficiency and effectiveness of Student Government.

Through our presence in the Student Senate, and further clarification from the President and Vice-President of the Student Body, we have found the following to be the reasons for their decision to create the office of Attorney-General.

1. He will maintain codes of the student body by inserting acts and bills passed by the Senate and approved by the President.

2. He will keep a systematic record of the decisions of the High Court concerning constitutional interpretations.

3. He will give legal advice to the Executive Department as to the legality of proposed bills and actions.

4. He will present the case of Student Government to the High Court for the Executive Department who are the representatives of the whole student body.

We feel that the position of Attorney-General would greatly facilitate the working of Student Government. Instead of breaking down the functions of Student Government as implied by the Senate, it would make it more efficient and effective by expediting the necessary work of the President's Cabinet.

Growing Campus Causes Problems

The face of Clemson College is undergoing drastic changes. New buildings and dormitories are being built in every available location. The master plan calls for many more changes in the future.

Space has become the most valuable asset of this institution, but we, like many other educational institutions, have a problem—lack of centralization.

The campus is getting larger, so large, in fact, that in some instances it is impossible to get from one class to another in ten minutes.

Some students start out their day at the P & A Building. When the class is over, they start their journey to the Chemistry Building or Tillman Hall.

For many students, class changing means the start of a race against time. However, it is possible to transverse from one end of the campus to the other in ten minutes. Of course, the student who does this must really put forth some effort.

Very often the student does not have his allotted ten minutes. This is usually caused by two things: a last minute effort on a quiz question and the inability of some instructors to tell time.

Most of our instructors, thank goodness, have the students in mind. When the "five till" whistle blows, the class is dismissed. In other cases, the professor wants to make "just one more point". This generally takes in the neighborhood of five minutes. When this occurs, the student is usually late for the next class.

Most instructors are irritated when students enter the classroom late, and justly so. How would you feel if someone interrupted a lecture or speech you were giving?

Students and instructors are both guilty. The solution to the problem must come from both parties. Students should try to meet classes on time and the instructors should try to dismiss on time.

We Wouldn't Be Here Today If We Had Bought Coffee At "Dan's".

One Man's Opinion

Type Of Dance Involves Many Problems For CDA

By FRED BISHOP
Tiger Associate Editor

As always, the discussion after a dance weekend centers around the dance and the organization sponsoring the dances—Central Dance Association. Previously, I have never discussed this organization and its functions on the editorial pages of the Tiger, but I feel that it is necessary that I express some ideas.

Last year the Central Dance Association, known by many students as the CDA, ran a poll asking the students what type of band or group they would like and some other pertinent questions. The CDA was asking the students to express their choice. The answer given—that students apparently cared very little to express their ideas, because the poll's response was extremely poor.

I have been asked by several students to write an editorial on the dance situation. Some of the students dislike rock 'n' roll groups; others, big name dance bands.

In the first place, I am not going to set myself up as a self-styled critic on the musical prerequisites of a good dance band or singing group, nor am I going to tell the CDA what's wrong with their policies. If you personally dislike or like what they are doing, then tell them or write a letter to Tom. I am not going to fight your battles for you unless you exhibit a sincere effort to stand up and be counted. I will champion the cause of that which is just and in the interest of a better Clemson.

I have now asked you to do what I feel is the proper thing and if you care enough about the matter, I have told you what means are available to have something done, but before you do write a letter, let me explain what I feel the problems are which CDA faces.

Many students like rock 'n' roll and want the CDA to obtain this type group. On the other hand, the other students want a big name band. The CDA, like many other organizations on campus, are faced with the problems of trying to please the most students. But, to paraphrase Lincoln, they can not please everybody all of the time.

With this thought in mind, I believe the CDA has been doing the best they can—as demonstrated by the types of groups they bring to campus. Their apparent idea is to bring a big name dance band for one night; the other night, a rock 'n' roll group.

There are many other problems involved as to the availability of groups, etc., but they would be too numerous to mention. My one word of advice with regard to the CDA, book store, honorariums, and all the other matters discussed by students is this. . . if you are still dissatisfied as to explanation, then express your ideas to the persons involved or through a letter to Tom; otherwise, shut up!

Sign Or Monument Deserves Consideration

Something was suggested to me as I was walking over to the Tiger Tavern the other day, which at first sounded like a joke but seemed more likeable as time and thought were used.

In front of the library, there is a triangle recently planted with flowers and bounded on all sides by road. The first idea which came to mind was why couldn't Clemson have a fountain of some sort placed there? Another idea is to put some sort of monument or stone there announcing that this is Clemson College. There are many other ideas which might be good, but it is something to think about and possibly the architecture department could ask their students to submit ideas to put some sort of marker in this very useful space, and the administration could find out the various costs involved in the various ideas. It wouldn't have to be expensive.

A triangle has always been a somewhat basic symbol and that area could well be used to an advantage. A stone could say, Clemson College, serving world, nation and state through research, education and progress. There are many things which one can think of which are in terms of three-world, nation, state; education-spiritual, social, and scholastic; and so on.

Something else has come to my attention about which I would like to express a few words. The Myrtle Beach Alert has given each hall counselor a copy of J. Edgar Hoover's Masters of Deceit. This is an excellent book on the threat of Communism to America. It gives factual details as to the insidious manner in which they infiltrate our way of life.

I, and many other persons, would like to thank the Myrtle Beach Alert for donating these books to the students and would like to commend them, and the other organizations like them, who are taking up the challenge of fighting the communist threat by making America aware of the dangers that face us.

I noticed in the newspaper the other day, that all freshmen at the Citadel are being required to read this book. The Myrtle Beach Alert also donated several hundred copies to the Clemson Library and they are available to all students to read. If you can't get to the library, then ask your hall counselor for his copy, but, in any case, read this book—it is particularly important to us, the college students, since we are the prime objective of the Communist Party.

Point Of View

Morals Of Society Changing Because Society Faces Change

By ZALIN B. GRANT

Every society develops a code of morals, usually with a religious foundation, which assures the conscience of the people and offers them a standing reservoir of pious rationalizations as to the propriety of their actions.

Morals are a peculiar thing. Every person has some standard, the standard may not be comparable to other accepted standards, but nevertheless it is usually there. Even the most dissolute, the most uninhibited heed their society's code in some way making it impossible to classify anyone as completely immoral.

As in everything there are extremes that strain the concepts of morals. Extremes are intensely luminous in such an enlightened society as ours, but it is the much sought after happy medium that is difficult to see.

Between the "free love" of Sweden and the harshly puritanical regard for sex of certain religious sects in the United States lies a vast amount of territory upon which a code of morals can be formed to satisfy an individual's religion and his society.

Talk Of The Town

Gripes, Complaints Need Airing In Proper Place, Not Canteen

By GRAY GARWOOD
Tiger Feature Editor

"I've got a gripe! Why don't they do this . . . or that . . . the food is lousy . . . the laundry stinks . . . who fumbled . . . prices are too damn high!"

How many times have you sat in the Canteen and jawed some of these complaints to your buddies? I have on many occasions and I know that all of you are just as guilty of this. Gripe, gripe, gripe!

Is it wrong to complain of these things? Should you stand up for your rights or should you lay back and see if the next fellow takes a stand on the issue and hope that his feelings and yours coincide?

How about the game last Saturday? I heard person after person turn to his neighbor and ask why the team didn't do this or why Frank Howard didn't play it such and such a way. Why can't we have a winning team when we spend so very much money in training that team.

Well my friends, money just can't do it alone. It takes talent and the right breaks. In

There is much publicity given today to the morals of the college student, and this facet of the subject should be of interest to every Clemson student. With a wave of so-called conservatism sweeping the nation's campuses in political beliefs, dress and culture, there seems to be an exact opposite trend forming on the subject of morals.

According to the Harvard CRIMSON, "in sheer wildness today's college students do not compare to their fabled predecessors." Of course this is all a matter of conjecture and perhaps the students of today are more reserved when it comes to things that are categorically classified as "wildness."

But the immutable fact remains, premarital sex is more widespread and more openly discussed among students than it has ever been before. This has been a cause of alarm for colleges because of the great amount of pregnancies occurring and the drop-outs resulting from this.

As a result, there has been an abrupt about face on the part of colleges in their policy of indoctrinating students about sex. Once the policy was to completely ignore sex as if it was some unnecessary abstract subject, then it changed to the sublime Hygiene courses offered at most colleges, but now there seems to be a noticeable increase of open classroom discussion about sex, thus, removing completely the shroud of mystery surrounding this subject in institutions of higher learning.

This change has resulted, too, from the realistic approach most colleges have adopted in assuming responsibility for the emotional and physical life of the students along with the primary purpose — education.

Colleges in condoning, while not officially recommending, the discussion of sex in the classroom have run into a few snags. Dr. Leo Koch, a former assistant professor of biology at the University of Illinois, was fired a year ago for stating that he saw no reason to condemn premarital sexual relations between mature and responsible students who were aware of the consequences.

This trend toward what can be called liberal morals may be attributed to post World War II fast living or it may be just the passing fancy of the new generation. But whatever it may be, there is no doubt that America is once and for all emerging from the dark ages of thought into an awakening that is penetrating the ideas of false morals.

road!" But do they do anything about it? Another good example of what I'm speaking of is the picture that we have been running about the President's Home. Many of you look at it and think no more of the matter. Then, there are those of you who believe that what we are advocating is wrong; that the sign is correct as it stands.

If this is your opinion we would welcome it, but those of you who differ with us on the matter just sit there and mutter among yourselves. "Why not," you will say, "they won't print what we have to say anyway." Try us!

In a similar vein, how do you stand on praise? Those of you so willing to gripe should be just as ready to offer a few words of praise to someone or thing that deserves it. This statement goes for THE TIGER also.

Now, by this column, I am not advocating that you all turn into a body of gripe-hounds. There are enough of these already. What I am saying is if you have an opinion on something that concerns you in some way and you want to have your say-so — Say so!

Uzziah Dies Alone, Undone

By MARSHALL JAMES
College Episcopal Chaplain
Isaiah 6:5. Then said I, woe is me; for I am undone. . . .

In the year that King Uzziah died; (to be specific, 740 B.C., give or take a little on either side), poor Isaiah was feeling low on the totem-pole. He felt alone. He was afraid. Afraid of the political situation. Afraid of world politics and the balance of power. The economic situation in the city of Jerusalem left something to be desired.

Uzziah (the big daddy) was dead; the world and the world's problems were closing in on the poor, alone and afraid Isaiah. He had no one to talk to, no one to understand his problem. He was alone on an uncharted sea.

Whom do you talk to when you think the world is closing in on you...when the grades begin to sag and the nagging letters from home begin to bother...when the world appears to wane and you begin to think that you are all alone on a sea of trouble?

You are not alone. There are individuals at Clemson who will listen to you and understand. For the most part, these are the Chaplains. Most of them have been to school and know some of the problems. A few of them have even been drafted or have served in the military. And, being human beings, they will listen, understand, and perhaps, by the Grace of God, be able to help you help yourself.

Get to know your Chaplain. You just might make a new friend.

I Love Them All Students Speak

This week the Tiger asked the co-eds "What do you think of the boys here at Clemson?" and asked the boys "What do you think of the co-eds here at Clemson?" Here are several of their answers.

"I love them all!"

Martha Embler

"Frankly, I think the Clemson boys I have met are wonderful."

Frances Mitchell

"On the whole I think they are quite friendly, but Clemson needs more gentlemen."

Martha Hyatt

"I think a lot of the boys at Clemson. Most of them are courteous and treat a co-ed with the same respect that they receive from the co-eds."

Anne Sherman

"I think that they are at a definite disadvantage because of their minority status. More co-eds would certainly boost respect for them."

Mike York

"I think they should be admired for coming to Clemson when the campus is not facilitated for co-eds as yet."

Sammy O'Neal

to military with no women at all."

Mike Troy

"I think we have really got to hand it to the co-eds who stick it out in spite of the disrespect shown by some of the boys."

Bud Young

"I'm glad we have a few co-eds here to enlighten the atmosphere. Due to the fine academic standards of Clemson I am 100% in favor of providing dormitories and more courses of study for the co-eds in hopes of attracting others to come here."

Pleasures Tilt Scale Of Life

By JOHN ALLAN LONG

Oh, to live a life of pleasure—no cares, no worries, just pure, unadulterated pleasure! Ah, how sensuous. Oh, for "a jug of wine, a loaf of bread, and thou!"

Isn't it amazing how the pursuit of intellectual achievements will often tend to corrupt our minds, turning our thoughts frenziedly away to a riotous Bacchic festival?

Sure, why it was only Monday that I was sitting in my drama class listening to the professor tell us about Agamemnon, that victor of Trojan wars, and how Clytemnestra killed him and ran off with Aegisthus, and how this Greek tragedy was put on in the theatre of Dionysus, and... and how Dionysus was god of wine!

By now my intellectual curiosity was jumping up and down, rising to that climax which only more study of Dionysus would satisfy.

Ah, the library and all those books, books on drama, books on tragic drama, books on the wine, Dionysus, that god of wine, and books on...aha, Bacchus! Did you know that Bacchus was also god of wine?

Oh, those intellectually curious. Bacchus soon brought to my mind my favorite symphony, Beethoven's Seventh—that passionate exultation of Dionysian revels. Why, Beethoven once said of it, "I am Bacchus who presses out for men this glorious wine and intoxicates their soul."

And it is only when we hear the finale of this ancient ritual that we can say it is the most energetic, unbuttoned and exuberant four movements he ever wrote...and most imagination provoking, too.

All this happened on Monday—an entire week to go; and Tuesday was no different.

The history of civilization is an interesting course. You can learn about ancient man and his ancient fertility rites. Then man and civilization progresses to the Greeks and their gods. Did you know that Dionysus and...Oh, yes we have been through that, haven't we?

We also studied about Epicurus Tuesday in history. He was a philosopher—brilliant man, intellectual, knew all about people and nature and the world. You know his philosophy? It was simply this: the secret to life is the pursuit of maximum pleasure. That was it, just pure, unadulterated pleasure.

Then Wednesday morning at eight o'clock in my 18th century literature class, we studied all about Dryden, satire and King Charles and, uh oh, here we go again.

Do you know about Charles and his mistresses? Well, three hours later I was in the library. (Continued on page 4)

Happiness Follows Pursuit Of Many Varied Experiences

By CHARLES FUNDERBURKE

Many people have some vague ideas of what true happiness consists of. They think readily of such things as falling in love, seeing beautiful sights, participating in sports, eating exclusive meals on special occasions, getting their own way all the time, or even creating a full schedule. Nevertheless, a certain degree of happiness is present in all of these but certainly not enough to define them as true happiness.

Falling in love is classed as one of the most wonderful experiences in existence. But, too often we hear people say that they will always remember their falling in love. It doesn't last forever. Therefore, in defining happiness we are looking for something that will leave statue rather than a mark.

To observe a beautiful sight and understand the magnificent determination and work put forth to develop it, can certainly create a feeling that would participate in the happiness category. However, everyone observing this scene could not possibly appreciate the true arts involved and this could not be classified as true happiness.

Many of us dream of getting a new car or other luxuries that might have a considerable bearing on making us happy. A little boy getting a new toy will toss the toy aside when the newness wears off. I am afraid that many of us would fall in this same category decreasing, of course, the angle of true happiness to a very small degree.

Sports are considered the cleanest entertainment that the American public can find to bring them excitement and enjoyment, which assist in relieving the routine drudgery of their everyday lives. The spirit that accommodates sports is sensational, but you can't live in a football stadium or cruise around a basketball court twenty-four hours a day. Thus, continual happiness falls out of the picture here.

Banquets and parties are filled with laughs and good times. Eating an exclusive meal and living it up is certainly a lot of fun, especially when it is planned and the enthusiasm of the event is built up. Consequently, for most people the hangover developed from the occasion can only bring night- (Continued on page 6)

THE TRUE AND HARROWING FACTS ABOUT RUSHING

It is well enough to sit in one's Morris chair and theorize about sorority rushing, but if one really wishes to know the facts, one must leave one's Morris chair and go out into the field. (My Morris chair, incidentally, was given to me by the Philip Morris Company, makers of Marlboro Cigarettes. They are great-hearted folk, the makers of Marlboro Cigarettes, as millions of you know who have enjoyed their excellent cigarettes. Only from bountiful souls could come such mildness, such flavor, such filters, such pleasure, as you will find in Marlboros! For those who prefer crushproof boxes, Marlboro is available in crushproof boxes. For those who prefer soft packs, Marlboro is available in soft packs. For those who prefer to buy their cigarettes in bulk, please contact Emmett R. Sigafos, friendly manager of our factory in Richmond, Virginia.)

But I digress. I was saying that in order to know the true facts about sorority rushing, one must go into the field and investigate. Consequently, I went last week to the Indiana College of Spot Welding and Belles Lettres and interviewed several million coeds, among them a lovely lass named Gerund McKeever. (It is, incidentally, quite an interesting little story about how she came to be named Gerund. It seems that her father, Ralph T. McKeever, loved grammar better than anything in the world, and so he named all his children after parts of speech. In addition to Gerund, there were three girls named Preposition, Adverb, and Pronoun, and one boy named Dative Case. The girls seemed not to be unduly depressed by their names, but Dative Case, alas, grew steadily more morose and was finally found one night dangling from a participle. After this tragic event, the father abandoned his practice of grammatical nomenclature, and whatever children were subsequently born to him—eight in all—were named Everett.)

But I digress. I was interviewing a lovely coed named Gerund McKeever. "Gerund," I said, "were you rushed by a sorority?"

"Yes, mister," she said, "I was rushed by a sorority."

"Did they give you a high-pressure pitch?" I asked. "Did they use the hard sell?"

"No, mister," she replied. "It was all done with quiet dignity. They simply talked to me about the chapter and the girls for about three minutes and then I pledged."

"My goodness!" I said. "Three minutes is not very long for a sales talk!"

"It is when they are holding you under water, mister," said Gerund.

"Well, Gerund," I said, "how do you like the house?"

"I like the house fine, mister," she replied. "But I don't live there. Unfortunately, they pledged more girls than they have room for, so they are sleeping some of us in the bell tower."

"Isn't that rather noisy?" I said.

"Only on the quarter-hour," said Gerund.

"Well, Gerund," I said, "it has certainly been a pleasure talking to you," I said.

"Likewise, mister," she said, and with many a laugh and cheer we went our separate ways—she to the campanile, I to the Morris chair.

Clemson lost its second game of the season, making a total of seven points by which the Tigers have lost the two games. It appears that this Tiger team is losing games because of the mistakes they have seemed unable to shake thus far. The costly fumbles on offense and the porous pass defense have already cost the Tigers two defeats.

Unless something is done to stop the number of completions that have been plaguing the Tigers thus far, they can expect to see 30 passes a game. It seems a shame that the Tigers can have such fine potential and still lose games by the barest of margins. The line seems to be one of the Tigers finest in recent years, but the best line in the world isn't going to help if they can throw the ball over your head.

Sophomores Star In Game; Cheering By Students Needs Improving

Sophomore quarterback Jim Parker played another tremendous game. His passing and running was the reason that the Tigers were even in the game at the finish. Thus far his poise has been that of a veteran, as he has guided the team very well, and spiced the attack with his pinpoint passing. The other sophomores have also been playing good ball: Aliffi, Fogle, Poole, and Aaron have taken over, and thus far have performed like veterans.

At the game the other day, the cheering section did not sound as loud as they have in past years. There seems to be a definite lack of volume from the student body. Whether this was due to the fact that the Tigers were behind much of the game, I don't know, but this shouldn't really make any difference. The Tiger student body has long been noted for their fine school spirit, and while the cheering exhibition may have been good for some schools, it was hardly reminiscent of the Clemson spirit in the past.

Another thing I observed at the game that I thought was in bad taste was the yelling of the students to take certain individuals out of the game. If a boy is having a bad day, the coaches know it sooner than anyone else, and all it does to yell "Take the bum out" is make the player feel bad, and possibly not play as well in the future.

North Carolina Causes Concern, But Tigers Carry Much Weight

As far as the game with North Carolina is concerned, it looks like another rough game. The Tar Heels opened with an upset of N. C. State last week, and could be on the way to a fine season. They have a big team, but are not expected to throw as much as some of the other teams we play, and this should be a big help to the Tigers. So far, Clemson has not had too much trouble containing opposing running attacks. If they can put a stop to the passing of North Carolina quarterback Ray Farris, the Tigers should come away victorious.

Despite a twelve yard kick in last Saturday's game with Maryland, punter Eddie Wernitz still averaged 36 yards in four boots. Plus his 45 yard average against the University of Florida, Eddie is now averaging a fraction above forty yards per kick.

Last week's game with Maryland was televised live back to Cole Field House in College Park. The play-by-play was handled by the B-C headache man on television. With two "green" spotters for both Clemson and Maryland and a close ball game, he not only needed a whole pack of B-Cs, but a couple of Anacin as well.

End Gary Collins of Maryland certainly proved Saturday that he is everything that he has been built up to be. Barring some unforeseen injury, Collins should be everyone's pick for All-American honors this year.

Mistakes Hurt

Terps Whip Clemson In Closing Seconds

By TOMMY PEELE

For the third straight year Maryland shocked a strong Clemson team by taking a slim victory. The Terps, defying even Death Valley, have recorded successive 28-25, 19-17, and 24-21 victories over the Tigers. Clemson played well, as in the Florida game, but fumbles and a leaky pass defense precipitated defeat. John Hannigan's tie-breaking field goal with eight seconds remaining was the clincher.

The exciting game featured grinding offenses by both teams as Clemson gained 320 yards and Maryland 318. Clemson's versatile offense picked up 172 yards rushing and 148 passing while Maryland's flying Terps traveled 219 yards through the air lanes and 99 yards along the ground.

Dick Novak and Dick Shiner consistently penetrated the Clemson secondary with accurate aerials. The pro-type offense, employed by Maryland, was used effectively and often against a Clemson defense which could not adjust to the new pattern. The Terp quarterbacks relied chiefly on hook passes to split ends and flanked halfbacks who were not guarded closely.

Fumbles were costly to Clemson. Halfback Harry Pavlack mishandled the ball on the first play from scrimmage to present Maryland with its first touchdown opportunity. Maryland received another break when Gary Barnes, who otherwise played a fine game, fumbled into the end zone to end an early drive.

Following Maryland's first touchdown on a three yard pass from Novak to Jim Davidson, Clemson roared back to knot the score on Ron Scudato's one yard plunge. The key play of the drive came on fourth and four at the Maryland 26 when Joe Anderson passed to end Bob Poole for thirteen yards.

Both teams registered once more in the first half. Maryland sailed goalward on the passing of Novak and the receiving of star end Gary Collins. Clemson came back to score on a 34 yard pass play from Jim Parker to Tommy King on a fourth down play.

Clemson moved well in the open field and, except for fumbles and penalties at critical times, would have scored at least once more. Although both units played well, the second outshone the first as quarterback Parker twice guided them over the alumni line.

Parker and King combined for another beautiful play in the fourth quarter, as King grabbed a 36 yard pass from two Maryland defenders. He moved to the Maryland 21 to keep a Clemson drive going in the fourth quarter.

Tigers Eager For Win

By FRED CRAFT

Tiger Assistant Sports Editor 1925 was the last year the Clemson Tigers had an 0-2 record going into their third game. The Tigers in 1961 go into the North Carolina game tomorrow having lost two heartbreakers—21-17 to Florida and 24-21 to Maryland in the final minute last week.

North Carolina on the other hand won their first opening game since 1954 last week with an amazing 27-22 upset of highly-rated North Carolina State. The Tar Heels came from a 10-0 deficit to hand the Wolfpack their second straight defeat.

Head Coach Jim Hickey's Tar

Heels were great as they held N. C. State to a meager seven yards rushing and State's heralded quarterback Roman Gabriel to 170 yards passing. The Wolfpack couldn't manage a first down until the final period and the Tar Heels ran up a whopping 240 yards rushing and 77 yards passing.

Coach Hickey has twenty-one returning lettermen from a squad which posted a 3-7 record in 1960. Fifteen of the lettermen played on the first two units last year. Hickey says this about his team, "We have no quarrel with the personnel, we simply have to eliminate mistakes."

The Tar Heels are strongest at tackle and fullback and have several swift halfbacks who can be trouble. Ends John Runco and Conrad Sloop should start as should Duff Greene and Co-Captain Jim LeCompte at guards. Coach Hickey has really high hopes for LeCompte and thinks that he could develop into one of the best in the conference.

At tackle North Carolina has four lettermen and one hold-out, Steve Serenko, who may be the finest in the lot. Ben Gallagher, John Hegarty or 272 pound Tony Hennessey should be on the first team Saturday. Two lettermen, Joe Craver and Gary Truver, are battling it out for center, a position left vacant by the graduation of the great Rip Hawkins.

Smooth operating Ray Farris, a senior who was a high school All-American, holds down the quarterback position and this could be his big year after two disappointing seasons. Backing up Farris is Junior Edge, an accurate passer, who was held out last year.

Gib Carson, who scored three touchdowns last week against North Carolina State, leads the Tar Heels at halfback. Lettermen Jimmy Addison, Ward Marslander, Lenny Beck, and redshirt Wally Dunham, give the men from Chapel Hill great breakaway ability at halfback.

Fullback is strong with the first two men from last year back in Bob Elliott and Joe Davies. Elliott, a Co-Captain, was the team's finest ground gainer last year, never losing a yard while compiling a 4.0 average.

Frosh Harriers Feature Former Prep Champions

The freshmen jump the gun on the varsity by traveling to Furman Thursday, October 5th, for a dual meet with Chuck Rohe's usual strong group. The Furman harriers are expected to be led by Rocky Soderberg, N. C. State mile champ and record holder with a high school time of 4:21.

The Clemson frosh appear stronger than in several seasons and hope to make a successful bid to down the little Paladins. Andy Heiskell, state cross-country champion from Atlanta, is expected to lead the Baby Tigs but will receive strong competition from teammates Richard Towns, Georgia State mile champion; E. J. Brown, Florida state high school cross-country champion; and Pete Anastos, a native-born South Carolinian who has been running in Greece for the past four years.

The varsity travels to Chapel Hill on Saturday, Oct. 7th, to meet the defending Atlantic Coast cross-country champions, the University of North Carolina. UNC will be strong favorites with most of the championship team returning. Jim Moorhead, Clemson captain, should give the front runners a good battle and could emerge as the individual winner.

Halfback Gary Barnes

Barnes Proves To Be Versatile Footballer

Gary Barnes, the former end, was moved up to the first team this week at the halfback post he is playing this year. His position of flanker back or slot back provide the team with another outstanding pass receiver in the line-up.

Standing 6-4 and only 165 pounds, He and a Clemson schoolmate, Mickey Entekin, played high school football at Fairfax, Alabama — approximately twenty miles from Auburn. Auburn was apparently unimpressed with the duo and made the mistake of allowing them to go elsewhere.

Following high school, they played a year at Gordon Military Academy. Both soon received scholarship offers, and they almost went to Georgia before Coach Charlie Walker contacted them. He signed the two prospects and Clemson profited from the bargain.

Gary has been a mainstay in the Tiger line for the past two years. Although he had always played end before, he is rapidly mastering the techniques of his new halfback position. Oddly enough, Mickey Entekin, one of Alabama's best high school backs, broke his leg his freshman year and has since been relegated to punting duties.

To put it mildly Gary has been somewhat of a success at Clemson. He has made all-state twice, all-Atlantic Coast Conference once, and an honorable mention all-American once. If he has the opportunity, the text-file management major would like to go into professional football before he goes into business.

The Auburn game holds a special interest for Gary as he will be opposing some of his old friends, who are playing for the Plainsmen. In pre-season polls Auburn has been selected as a top contender for the Southeastern Conference championship and for national recognition. Gary is really looking forward to this game which will be played in Auburn near his home town.

Gary feels that Maxie Baughan, former all-American center at Georgia Tech; Roman Gabriel, potential all-American quarterback for N. C. State; and Collins, star end for Maryland, are the toughest opponents he has faced, with Baughan as the best defensive player.

October 14 Is To Be Tennis Meet Deadline

Tennis Coach Les Longshore has announced that this year's intramural tennis tournament will begin on Oct. 16. Last year, Dr. Gil Miller, professor of mathematics, ousted Dr. C. W. Bolen, professor of history, in the finals.

The tournament is open to any member of the student body, except those persons on the varsity and freshman tennis teams, and to any member of the faculty, except those who have earned a college letter later than 1951.

Last year the number of entries was rather low. Here is a good chance to win yourself an intramural medal. Matches will be played at the convenience of the persons concerned. All matches will be best 2 out of 3 sets, and will be played on the varsity courts behind the field house, with tennis balls being furnished by Coach Longshore.

All persons interested should fill out the blank below and turn it in at the dormitory office, the intramural office, room 20 Main, or to Coach Longshore. Sign up now; entries will close at 6:00 on Saturday, October 14.

Cubs Beat Wake In Opening Game

The freshmen football squad ventured to Winston-Salem for their opening game against Wake Forest and won 35-26. The Cubs pulled away in the first quarter scoring two touchdowns, but found themselves on the short end of a 20-14 first half.

The defense was bad in the second quarter and nearly proved disastrous. Coach McMillan said, "They thought they had it all wrapped up after that first quarter, and I had to lose my religion to make 'em come back in the second half." The Coach continued, "It's been six years since they beat us. They haven't won since the days of Norman Sneed."

Wake Forest is considered one of the Cubs' tougher opponents, and they really had to work hard to win. The Cubs looked ragged in places and this week's practice sessions are being spent trying to overcome these difficulties. The line - up is being changed around in an effort to find the best man for the job. A substantial lead. As the second

Harold Davis and Billy Ward scored one touchdown each in the first quarter to give the Cubs what they thought to be a substantial lead. As the second quarter rolled around the Clemson defense began to fall apart and the Wake Forest offense began to move. The Deacons scored three touchdowns and two extra points to put them out front at the end of the first half 20-14.

The Cubs took the second half kick-off and began a 55 yard drive that resulted in a touchdown by Harold Davis. The extra point was good and Clemson led 21-20.

Wake Forest pulled ahead once again in the final period, but was unable to make the point after the touchdown. The Cubs, half-way through the fourth quarter, got possession of the ball on their own 40 yard line. A pass play from Jimmy Bell to Walt Goldman netted thirty yards and Harold Davis ran thirty yards for his third touchdown of the afternoon.

The Cubs held this slim two point advantage until the last minute of the game when Jimmy Bell ran 15 yards around right end for the final score of the game. James Bailey kicked all five extra points perfect and the Tiger Cubs came out on top 35-26.

The Clemson freshmen will play their first home game of the season today in "Death Valley" at three o'clock. They will play host to the University of North Carolina freshmen.

R.C.'s and Moon Pies will be served at the President's Reception.

Cabinet Release

At its regular meeting Monday night, the cabinet confirmed the appointment of the following men to the Ways and Means Committee: Martin Lightsey, Jimmy Jordan, Donnie Gollightly, John Farmer, Bob Kearse, Bill Speights, and Bobby Boughers.

Ken Blakeney, chairman of Ways and Means Committee, reported on his efforts to secure a Bloodmobile visit to the campus. The Anderson Hospital and The American Red Cross have been consulted concerning the visit, and the Office of Student Affairs is co-operating fully in this project. Parent permission forms are being prepared for students under 18 years of age who wish to donate blood.

After a presentation by Don Heilig, Vice President of the Student Body, the proposed cabinet post of Attorney General was denied by the Student Senate at its Tuesday night meeting. The cabinet regrets that the student body was not allowed the benefit of this vital office.

John W. (Jack) Team, a fifth-year Architectural student, has been appointed Cabinet Press Secretary with unanimous approval granted by the Senate. The Press Secretary will be in charge of compiling all cabinet press releases and co-ordinating the Student Government radio program over WSBF, Thursday nights at 9:00. He will also issue explanatory brochures on Student Government to the students when needed.

The possibility of establishing a Student Discount Co. - op whereby students could purchase items at a reduced price from member merchants is being investigated. Jerry Lominack, Secretary of the Student Body, is serving as executive head of this committee.

For the purpose of discussing honorariums, Dean Walter Cox along with Bob Newton,

President of the Student Body, held a meeting Monday afternoon with Don Heilig, Vice President of the Student Body; Frank Turner, editor of TAPS; Jim Stepp, editor of The Tiger; Bob Wall, editor of Bobbin and Beaker; James Bryant, editor of Slipstick; and Henry Goodwin, president of CDA. Also present was Mrs. Sybil Albert of the Office of Student Affairs.

Main topics under discussion at this meeting were the background of honorariums, their present handling, and the possible complete revision of these awards.

The cabinet regrets the immature actions of the students in littering the amphitheater during last week's pep rally. It is strongly felt that these actions are unbecoming Clemson gentlemen, and it is hoped that no further action will be necessary to put an end to this childish behavior.

Teicher, born in Wilkes Barre, Penn., moved to New York at five and a half, chiefly with a view to his entering Juilliard Institute of Music Art. They studied under the same teachers and graduated as piano majors under Carl Friedberg.

After a brief period of appearing in concerts, they returned to Juilliard as faculty members, teaching theory and composition. They combined teaching with a limited schedule of concerts, and worked together creating new duo piano material. In 1947 they resigned from teaching to devote full time to concert work.

Both Ferrante and Teicher enjoy weight lifting as a hobby; both are accomplished photographers. They temporarily part company in other pursuits, for Ferrante is an avid boater while Teicher is a serious stamp collector.

Plaque Honors WWII Veteran J.C.C. Kirtland

John C. Calhoun Kirtland, great, great-grandson of John C. Calhoun, has become remembered in a bronze plaque placed at Fort Hill in his memory. Mr. Kirtland was a Navy pilot who crashed and died in the Atlantic Ocean during World War II.

The site of the plaque marks the Calhoun Mansion flagpole which formerly belonged to Mr. Kirtland. Admiral William Lowndes Calhoun, an uncle of Mr. Kirtland, presented a new American flag to the Calhoun Mansion in recent ceremonies placing the plaque.

Letter Spots CDA

Dear Tom,

In regards to the C.D.A. sponsored "Rat Hop" of this past weekend, I have a few comments to make in which I am sure all will agree.

First of all, the sound system, if you could call it one, is absolutely the poorest system I have ever heard. The nationally known "Clovers" according to what was written by Les Mathews, "take the music and words and balance them delightfully." They may do this, but over the P.A. system in the dining hall, if there was any balance between the band and the "Clovers" singing it was out on the quadrangle and I sure as hell have never heard a delightful sound come over the P.A. system in the dining hall.

"One Mint Julep" on a scratched 45 R.P.M. record, would have sounded better than the Clovers did singing over that collaboration of microphones and speakers in the dining hall. Why get these nationally known singing groups and bands if we can't hear the quality of music that they are capable of producing. When anyone pays $4.50 for a dance they expect to get quality, and we sure didn't get it this weekend. I sure hope there can be some changes made before the Homecoming Dance.

Second of all, the dance was supposed to be from 8 until 12 Saturday night and it was from 9 until 12. It happens sort of often, doesn't it?

The annual School of Architecture exhibit of student theses, which includes town planning and other special projects, will be held from June 1-30.

HAPPINESS

mares, which will leave no one in a state of happiness.

Many of us idolize getting our own way in everything. In our efforts to inherit this position we obtain a certain degree of satisfaction that leaves us in an extreme state of happiness. However, living an extreme life does not always result in a happy one.

Some people try to comprehend their unhappy possibilities by creating a full schedule to keep them busy. They plan the things that they enjoy most and participate wholeheartedly in them attempting to leave no time for unhappy occasions. Since life is full of its ups and downs, a schedule such as this can very easily be broken, shattering the attempt for continual true happiness.

What is true happiness? Certainly it is an existence that none of us have. Sometimes, when we think about it, we can visualize many things such as all the previous happy traits that can contribute to it. However, in my opinion, true happiness can only be obtained by everyone achieving the love and fellowship of every person on earth. With this we can be none other than truly happy.
