INTRODUCTION

For decades collectors have marveled and admired the works of William S. Burroughs. The sheer number and variety of publications, whether books, pamphlets, limited editions, signed editions, magazine or journal contributions, contributions to the works of other authors, or simply books and other printed biographical material about Burroughs is well over a thousand different items. The purpose of this Collector's Guide is to provide a gathering of Burroughs material which was available in the published world through 2008. Note that this outline of works pertains only to printed material. Burroughs was nothing if not multi-media, and many are the recordings on vinyl, audio tape, or compact disc, as well as movies and videos about Burroughs or his works. These non-print materials are not included here. It is left to other intrepid collectors to find and document that waiting trove of Burroughsiana. Again, the work herein does not include Burroughs material published after 2008.

Neither is this any sort of price guide. Some items are noted as scarce, but this pertains only to the author's experiences in the field. Finally, this Guide does not attempt to document Burroughs manuscript material. There are two reasons for this. Nearly all Burroughs manuscripts up to 1973 were documented in The Descriptive Catalogue of the William S. Burroughs Archive (London: Convent Garden/Am Here Books 1973, See Section IV, No. 38). This manuscript archive, which for a long period of time was owned by a private individual, is now at the New York Public Library and open to researchers. Much of the manuscript material from the 1974-1981 period was sold to the Ohio State University Library after Burroughs' death, where it has been cataloged and is now available for research. The rest, from the early 1980s onward, is in the archives of Burroughs Communications in Lawrence, Kansas. Some smaller amounts of Burroughs manuscripts are located in libraries at Arizona State and the University of Virginia, as well as in private collections. A few manuscript-type items are noted in the listings herein, but for the most part these are not an area of focus.

It is expected that those using this Guide will be somewhat knowledgeable about Burroughs and will have access to biographical material, of which much exists and is included among the holdings listed here. For the Burroughs collector, the single most important aid is William S. Burroughs: A Bibliography by Joe Maynard & Barry Miles (Charlottesville: University of Virginia Press 1978, see Section II, No. 128) and is indispensable for documenting Burroughs' output through 1973. It is referred herein as "Maynard & Miles." Although this Guide includes many listings for material from the period up to 1973 that are not in Maynard & Miles, their work remains a necessary tool for collectors and is still easy to find for sale on the market.

The guide is most useful for the post-1973 Burroughs published material through 2008. It does not propose to be a complete listing. Indeed, to have a "complete" Burroughs book collection, including titles of his works in all editions, and in foreign languages, would be nearly impossible. Similarly, finding all of Burroughs contributions to books, magazines, and journals from 1974-2008 is a daunting task and one that is not attempted here. Yet it is just these challenges that make collecting the work of Burroughs so much fun. It is hoped that collectors will benefit from information about “what is out there” contained in this Guide, and will be able to build their own collections of Burroughs more easily. One often needs to know what one is looking for in order to find it.

Using the Guide

This Guide is divided into seven sections. Each of the sections has listings arranged in chronological order according to the date of first publication for the title. Clearly there is an influence from Maynard & Miles in terms of the makeup of each section, but the numbering here is different and has its own pattern. However, the first three sections do correspond roughly to the arrangement in Maynard & Miles thusly: Books by Burroughs, Contributions to Books, and Contributions to Periodicals. Items which were numbered and listed in Maynard & Miles originally have those numbers provided within the description.

Whereas Maynard & Miles chose to have a separate section for foreign editions of Burroughs’ books, in this Guide these have been grouped into Section I under the appropriate title. There is also a Section on bibliographical and critical works about Burroughs, an area not covered in Maynard & Miles, as well as a Section describing miscellaneous items. Those interested in more critical analysis of Burroughs, including book reviews, are directed to William S. Burroughs: A Reference Guide by Michael Goodman (New York: Garland 1990, see Section IV, No. 139). Finally, this Guide also contains Sections on “Related Works” to Burroughs (such as publications by his son William Burroughs, Jr.). As previously mentioned, there are no audio recordings, films, or videos listed.

Within each section, items are individually numbered and subsequent editions and printings are lettered. Thus Section I No. 23b is The Wild Boys by Burroughs, and Section III No. 2 is Chicago Review Spring 1958. Section III will be particularly useful for those needing documentation of Burroughs’ prodigious output in journals and periodicals for the period covering 1974-2008. Again, this should not be construed as a complete listing, for it is not complete.

Each item is described following the convention of title, place of publication, publisher, date, and descriptive information. Comments are included where previously undocumented information is known or of interest to collectors. For primary works in Section I, authorship is attributed to Burroughs although other co-authors or editors may have assisted. Burroughs was at his best in collaboration with others and there are many examples of this. For the other Sections, author or editor of the work is named except for periodicals in which case the date of publication is included.

Any item signed by Burroughs has the underlined note “signed by Burroughs” if part of an issued series (almost always as part of a limited or fine press issue), and any other item that was signed by an author as part of the issue this is similarly noted. Signed, limited, or special editions are noted for any title where such an edition was published. Notes on publication are included where known.

The descriptions use some vernacular related to binding: hardbound is a book bound in boards which may or may not have been issued with a dust jacket. The presence or absence of a dust jacket is noted. Softbound books are bound in “wraps” or “wrappers” as conventionally described by book dealers. Most of the latter do not have dust jackets, but in Burroughs’ case the early Olympia Press editions had them as well as a few others. Any are noted as present or missing.

For items with contributions by Burroughs, those in Section II and Section III, the title of the contribution as it appeared in the work is included. Note that for publications other than those with primary Burroughs authorship (Sections III-V), these may have been issued in both hardbound and wraps editions, of which only one or the other may be listed here. The inclusion of one does not preclude the existence of the other. There may also be more than one edition of any of these works which may not be noted. In general, however, most items here are first printings of first editions as stated in the description.

Nearly all the quotations of total copies printed for items published through 1973 are taken from Maynard & Miles. Any others come from the publication itself, or from other sources. One very good source for information on Burroughs’ books is the “Author Price Guide for William S. Burroughs” published and updated regularly by Quill & Brush Booksellers of Dickerson, MD (Section IV, No. 214). It is one of the more complete listings of Burroughs books available and was helpful in developing Section I of the collection outlined here. In a few isolated cases, information on publication numbers was received from the publisher or someone with reliable knowledge of the publication pattern.

Uncorrected Galley Proof copies are included for some titles. Galleys, as they are known, are used for final proofing of the book by author, editor, and publisher and are often times sent to reviewers in advance of the book’s release to synchronize publicity efforts, or to booksellers to promote the book. An Uncorrected Galley Proof is different from an Advanced Readers Copy (ARC), although the terms are sometimes used interchangeably.

ARC, a term used by book dealers, is usually printed for reviewers or other for publicity uses. They may not contain the complete text of the work but often have other promotional information and are generally better quality than Galleys, usually with glossy covers. While publishers produce Galleys for nearly every title they print, their numbers vary and certainly they appear, for Burroughs titles, much more common in works of the 1980s and 1990s. ARCs appear to be less common for Burroughs publications, although Grove Press did publish one for Naked Lunch in 1962 and there are a few other such listings.

There are also a few listings in this Guide for “Review Copy” which is different from either of the above. A Review Copy is nearly always a first printing of the work which has publicity material laid in. Maynard & Miles did not include any references to Uncorrected Galley Proofs, Advanced Readers

Copies, or Review Copies in their Bibliography on Burroughs so these are heretofore undocumented. As mentioned previously, printing totals of these items vary, but all are rarer than first printings and often are quite scarce indeed.

An earlier version of this work was produced in print and distributed in 2000 as Collecting William S. Burroughs in Print: A Checklist (ISBN 0-964-10055-X). It quickly sold out in a print run of 200 copies. This updated work includes a number of changes and revisions and corrects at least two mistakes in the first printed version: Burroughs' Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse (see Section 1 no. 64) was first published in 1984, not 1988. And Burroughs' contribution to Tim Leary's autobiographical work Flashbacks (see Section II no. 264) is contained in the 1990 softbound edition, not the 1983 hardbound. No one likes mistakes in a book of this sort, and there may be others which are not yet apparent. Finally, this new enlarged edition has over 600 new entries not found in the first edition (1,500+ entries overall), including many not listed in the Maynard & Miles bibliography. Every section has been expanded, some extensively.

Acknowledgement

Thanks to the many individuals and book dealers who worked with me over the years in developing my personal William Burroughs collection, which is now housed at the Albert and Shirley Small Special Collections Library at the University of Virginia. Many thanks to James Grauerholz and the crew at William Burroughs Communications in Lawrence, Kansas. Finally, special thanks to Theo Green at Aftermath Books for continued inspiration, and for wisdom in the ways of the book world.

Section I

Books By William S. Burroughs

Including Maynard & Miles "A" Items

Junkie

1. _____ New York: Ace Double Books D-15, published 1953 and bound with Maurice Helbrant's Narcotic Agent, attributed to William "Lee" as Burroughs used his mother's maiden name so as not to discredit his family. Maynard & Miles A1a, in which they note that as many as 100,000 copies may have been printed. Certainly this title is not hard to find, but it was printed on poor quality paper and excellent copies carry a high price premium as they are scarce. It is particularly interesting that even for Burroughs' first published work, there was concern about the subject and contents which was only overcome by the inclusion of the Helbrant's Narcotic Agent. This was a title originally published in 1941 and one assumes that acquiring the softcover rights was done cheaply since 'Agent' was apparently not a big seller. But legal and moral concerns about Burroughs' writings would follow him well into the 1960s.
- 1a. _____ New York: Ace Star (K-202) 1964, first separate publication under the name Burroughs and first issue with price of 50¢. Somewhat lurid cover art shows a drug user(?) crouched and leaning against a wall. The publisher's note was expanded for this edition, and a foreword by Carl Solomon added. Ace Books surely felt they were sitting on top of a goldmine as they trumpeted the blurb "By the Author of Naked Lunch" on the front cover. And they were right as a quarter million copies of this title were sold over the next decade. Maynard & Miles A1c.
- 1b. _____ New York: Ace Star (41841) 1964, re-numbered reprint of the above with a 60¢ price, bound in wraps.
- 1c. _____ London: Olympia Press/New English Library 1966, bound in stiff olive-green wraps, one of 5,000 copies. Maynard & Miles A1d.
- 1d. _____ Copenhagen: Stig Vendelkaers Forlag 1966, first Danish edition, also includes The Yage Letters, bound in wraps. Maynard & Miles D1.
- 1e. _____ Tokyo: Shichosha Publishers 1967, first Japanese edition of the author's first book, spelled "Junnie" on the cover, silver wraps with a lovely psychedelic drawing of an opium hallucination. Scarce. Maynard & Miles D41.
- 1f. _____ London: New English Library 1969, second British printing in wraps. Curiously, Maynard & Miles do not provide separate entries for the New English Library editions, ostensibly because the 1966 Olympia Press edition was distributed by New English Library. At any rate, both the 1969 and 1972 (see below) editions feature different artwork on the covers. Both had print runs of approximately 5,000 copies each.
- 1g. _____ Amsterdam: Meulenhoff Edite 1970, first Dutch edition in stiff card wraps. Maynard & Miles D4.
- 1h. _____ Paris: Editions Pierre Belfond 1972, first French printing, bound in wraps. Maynard & Miles D16.
- 1i. _____ New York: Ace Books 1972, new cover design, still rather lurid, with blue-jeaned addict nodding out on a doorstep. Maynard & Miles A6c.
- 1j. _____ London: New English Library 1972, third British printing in wraps.
- 1k. _____ London: Bruce and Watson 1973, first thus British printing and rare (for this title) in hardcover, with pictorial dust jacket, one of 1,500 copies. Maynard & Miles A1e.
- 1l. _____ Paris: Editions Belfond 1979, a new edition in French, entitled "Le Came" bound in wraps.
- 1m. _____ Amsterdam: Pranger 1979, first thus Dutch edition in wraps.
- 1n. _____ Frankfurt: ein Ullstein Buch 1979, new German printing in wraps.
- 1o. _____ Tokyo: Serie Fantastique 1989, new Japanese edition, bound in wraps with dust jacket.
- 1p. _____ Ljubljana, Slovenia: Samozalozba 1992, first Slovenian translation, one of 500 numbered copies, bound in wraps.

- 1q. _____ Istanbul: Iletisim 1994, first Turkish edition as Canki, bound in wraps.
- 1r. _____ Denmark: Bokforlaget Pan 1998, first thus Danish edition in wraps.
- 1s. _____ Paris: Editions 10/18 1998, first thus French edition in wraps.
- 1t. _____ Milan: BUR La Scala 1998, first thus Italian edition in wraps.
- 1u. _____ Hamburg: Rowahlt Taschenbuch 1999, first thus German printing in wraps.
- 1v. _____ Zagreb: Celeber 2002, first Croatian edition, bound in wraps.

Naked Lunch

- 2. _____ Paris: Olympia Press 1959, the first printing with the decorative border around the title page, one of 5,000 copies. Maynard & Miles A2a. Lacking the dust jacket with a design by Burroughs. The first printing showed the price of 1,500 Francs printed on the back cover. However, according to the Chronique de la France et des Francais, the franc was devalued and a "new" franc appeared in use on Jan. 1, 1960. Any unsold copies of the book were stamped with the new price of NF 18 (18 "new francs") over the old printed price. Some dealers refer to the stamped copies as a second state of the first printing, but this is not a clear point of issue. Unsold first printing copies were merely stamped, at a later date, with the new price so they could be sold in the prevailing economy. However, according to M&M the first copies printed did not receive dust jackets. These were added "after a month or so." Therefore, a case could be made that copies without the new price stamp and lacking the dust jacket are the truest first issues since they were sold before jackets were added and before the devalued franc was instituted.
- 2a. _____ Paris: Olympia Press 1959, the second printing lacking the decorative border around the title page, one of 5,000 copies. The second printing of the work, issued soon after the first, did not have a dust jacket and had a printed price of "NF 18" on the back cover.
- 2b. _____ Paris: Olympia Press 1959, the 1965 reprint with colophon on the last page reading "Copyright 1959, 1965" one of 5,000 copies, according to Maynard & Miles.
- 2c. _____ New York: Grove Press, first US publication, copyright dated 1959 but actually published in 1962. Maynard & Miles A2b. Although they note that the first printing was 3,500 copies, Morgan writes in his biography that in correspondence between Burroughs and Girodias (Olympia Publisher) it was mentioned on more than one occasion that Barney Rosset (the publisher at Grove Press) was holding 10,000 copies of the book which had already been printed. If this is true, then the first two or three printings of the book were probably released around the same time, although each, including the first printing is clearly marked. Goodman notes that by March 1963 over 14,000 copies had been purchased by the public. Maynard & Miles specify the publication date as March 21, 1962. But in a publicity release from Grove Press dated October 30, 1962, which accompanied the prospectus for NL (see Section V, No. 2), the publication date is quoted as November 20, 1962. It is reasonable to assume that the Grove documents are correct and that M&M got the date wrong. Goodman also notes the correct publication date as November 20, 1962. An accurate printing history of the work, developed from Grove Press archives, is found in Goodman's book about Naked Lunch (see Section IV No. 49).
- 2d. _____ New York: Grove Press 1959, 2nd printing, dust jacket is identical to the first printing, "second printing" noted on collation page. Hardbound in dust jacket.
- 2e. _____ New York: Grove Press 1959, 3rd printing, identical to the first two printings except the dust jacket has [iii] in small type printed vertically on the rear panel. All subsequent printings have this small Roman numeral which should match the printing of the book. This is an excellent way of preventing the "marriage" of a first printing copy with a later state dust jacket.
- 2f. _____ New York: Grove Press 1959, 4th printing copy with [iv] on rear jacket panel. Hardbound in dust jacket.
- 2g. _____ New York: Grove Press 1959, 5th printing copy with [v] on rear jacket panel. Hardbound in dust jacket.
- 2h. _____ New York: Grove Press 1959, 6th printing copy with [vi] on rear jacket panel. Hardbound in dust jacket.
- 2i. _____ New York: Grove Press 1959, 7th printing copy with [vii] on rear jacket panel. Hardbound in dust jacket.

- 2j. _____ New York: Grove Press 1959, 8th printing, two changes from previous printings are noted to dust jacket: the Grove Press catalog number [GP 244] has been added to the bottom spine of the jacket in black printing, and the address of Grove Press given in the lower area of the rear jacket has been changed and now incorporates a zip code. The zip code system was officially adopted by the Post Office on July 1, 1963. One might surmise that all earlier printings of the book were prior to this date, but adoption of the zip code was not immediate and uniform. Still, it is fair to assume that the first seven printings of Naked Lunch were completed within a year of the official publication date of November 20, 1962. Assuming each print run was 3,500 copies, it is accurate to say that Naked Lunch sold well for such a non-mainstream book: nearly 25,000 copies in its first year. Hardbound in dust jacket which continues to be numbered [viii in this case] on rear jacket panel.
- 2k. _____ New York: Grove Press 1959, 9th printing copy with changes as noted in 2j, hardbound in dust jacket.
- 2l. _____ New York: Grove Press 1959, 10th printing copy, hardbound in dust jacket.
- 2m. _____ New York: Grove Press 1959, 11th printing copy, hardbound in dust jacket.
- 2n. _____ New York: Grove Press 1959, 12th printing, hardbound in dust jacket.
- 2o. _____ New York: Grove Press 1959, 13th printing, hardbound in dust jacket.
- 2p. _____ New York: Grove Press 1959, 14th printing, hardbound in dust jacket.
- 2q. _____ New York: Grove Press 1959, 15th printing with zip code in publisher's address and [xv] on rear of dust jacket. Maynard & Miles note that Naked Lunch was "reprinted perhaps a dozen times." The fifteenth printing is the highest documented printing.
- 2r. _____ Taiwan piracy of Grove Press first edition, smaller in both height and width than the Grove edition and thinner as well, but having the same dust jacket design, printed on cheap paper, some copies with Taiwan Booksellers' stamp on rear leaf. Date of publication unknown, but scarce. Not listed in Maynard & Miles.
- 2s. _____ Wiesbaden: Limes Verlag 1962, first German edition, hardbound in dust jacket. One of 1,500 copies printed. Maynard & Miles D20.
- 2t. _____ London: John Calder 1964, first British publication, one of 4,000 copies, hardbound in dust jacket. This edition was reprinted at least five times. Maynard & Miles A2c.
- 2u. _____ Paris: Editions Gallimard 1964, first printing in French (numbered 3327), the number is ink stamped on the next to last page of the book, bound in wraps. Maynard & Miles D9.
- 2v. _____ Paris: Editions Gallimard 1964, second French printing (numbered 4282) in wraps.
- 2w. _____ Paris: Editions Gallimard 1965, third French printing (numbered 8811) in wraps.
- 2x. _____ Tokyo: Kawade Shoboo 1965, first Japanese printing as Hakaka No Ranchi, heavily censored, one of 20,000 copies printed. Hardbound in crimson cloth boards, lacking the glassine jacket but including the blue wrap-around band. Maynard & Miles D39.
- 2y. _____ New York: Black Cat 1966, first paperback printing, one of 25,000 copies. Maynard & Miles A2d.
- 2z. _____ Wiesbaden: Limes Verlag 1966, second enlarged German edition, hardbound in dust jacket. One of 1,500 copies printed. Maynard & Miles D20.
- 2aa. _____ Copenhagen: Gyldendal 1967, first Danish printing as Nogen Frokost, bound in wraps with dust jacket. Maynard & Miles D2.
- 2bb. _____ London: Corgi Books 1969, second British softbound printing, cover is the same as the Calder hardbound dust jacket design.
- 2cc. _____ Paris: Editions Gallimard 1969, fourth printing (numbered 14213) bound in wraps with red wrap-around band. Maynard & Miles D9.
- 2dd. _____ London: Corgi Books 1972, fourth British softbound printing, cover is the same as the Calder hardbound dust jacket design.

- 2ee. ____ Frankfurt: ein Ullstein Buch 1972, first German softbound edition.
- 2ff. ____ Secaucus NJ: Castle Books 1973, published by permission of Grove Press, this is essentially a hardbound copy of the first Grove edition having a $6.00 price but showing small changes to printing on the dust jacket: [Burroughs] on the spine is printed vertically, [Castle Books] printed on the spine at bottom of the jacket, and the name and address of the publisher on rear panel are deleted. The text is bound in tan colored paper boards, whereas the Grove example has black paper and buckram coverings. Also, the Castle publication is a quarter inch taller than the Grove edition. Maynard & Miles A2f.
- 2gg. ____ New York: Ballantine Books 1974, first printing of this edition in wraps with the Dali-esque cover design, very surreal looking. Maynard & Miles A2g.
- 2hh. ____ London: Corgi Books 1974, "reissue" as stated in collation, an apparent first edition thus, bound in wraps.
- 2ii. ____ Madrid: Ediciones Jucar 1978, first thus Spanish printing in wraps.
- 2jj. ____ Osterval, Sweden: Bo Cavefors Bokförlag 1978, first Swedish edition, bound in wraps.
- 2kk. ____ Amsterdam: Uitgeverij De Arbeiderspers 1979, first thus Dutch printing as Naakte Lunch, bound in wraps.
- 2ll. ____ Barcelona: Editorial Bruguera 1980, first thus Spanish printing, No. 22 in the series "Coleccion de Literatura Universal Bruguera" hardbound without dust jacket as issued.
- 2mm. ____ London: John Calder 1982, new edition and first thus, adds a new Foreword and additional appendices including the so-called "Ugh" correspondence about the book originally printed in the Times Literary Supplement in 1964, bound in plain black wraps with white printing.
- 2nn. ____ New York: Black Cat 1982, a seventeenth wraps printing copy with a new wrapper design, white printing on black background.
- 2oo. ____ Frankfurt: ein Ullstein Buch 1984, thirteenth German printing in wraps with new cover illustration from the Naked Lunch movie: typewriter head.
- 2pp. ____ New York: Grove Press 1984, Twenty-Fifth Anniversary Limited Edition, one of 500 copies numbered and signed by Burroughs. Hardbound in slipcase without dust jacket as issued.
- 2qq. ____ New York: Grove Press 1984, the trade edition of the 25th Anniversary Edition, hardbound with a new dust jacket design, Foreword by Jennie Skerl. Print quantity unknown, but scarce enough not to have been very large.
- 2rr. ____ Frankfurt: ein Ullstein Buch 1984, first thus German edition in wraps.
- 2ss. ____ Paris: Gallimard 1984, later French edition reprint, bound in wraps.
- 2tt. ____ Belgrade: Prosveta 1986, first Yugoslav edition in wraps.
- 2uu. ____ London: Paladin 1986, new larger size British printing in wraps, reprinted 1990.
- 2vv. ____ Wiesbaden: Limes Verlag 1988, fifth German edition, hardbound in dust jacket.
- 2ww. ____ Bussum: Uitgeverij Contact 1992, first thus Dutch edition in wraps.
- 2xx. ____ New York: Grove Weidenfeld 1992, first thus in wraps. Re-released, along with four other original Grove titles by Burroughs, upon the opening of the Naked Lunch movie.
- 2yy. ____ Paris: Gallimard 1992, later printing of this French edition in wraps.
- 2zz. ____ Barcelona: Compactos Anagrama 1992, second Spanish edition, bound in wraps with movie tie-in cover (man with typewriter head).
- 2aaa. ____ London: Paladin Books 1992, another movie tie-in re-release, this one has actor Peter Weller as Burroughs on the cover, first printing, bound in wraps.

- 2bbb. _____ New York: Acid Books [n.d.], an interesting and undocumented copy of this work printed in New York but in German language, bound in plain red wrappers. No date of any kind but would appear to be late 1980s or early 1990s. No copies found in major libraries around the world via online searching. Scarce.
- 2ccc. _____ New York: Grove Press 1992 (actually 1994?), appears to be a first printing but is, in fact, a later printing of 2xx above. The print font has changed and the Weidenfeld part of the Grove publishing moniker has been dropped. The reverse of the title page has no edition statement or numbers whereas 2xx has numbers 1-10. Researcher Jeff Taylor has identified five discreet variants of this publication, all of which have the same ISBN.
- 2ddd. _____ Budapest: Holnap Kiado 1992, first Hungarian edition as Meztelen Ebed, bound in wraps.
- 2eee. _____ Tokyo: Kawadeshoboshinisha 1992, first uncensored Japanese edition, published as Hadaka No Ranchi, first printing, hardbound in dust jacket.
- 2fff. _____ Ljubljana, Slovenia: Cankerjeva Založba 1993, first Slovenian translation issued in a small printing of 500 copies, hardbound.
- 2ggg. _____ London: Flamingo 1993, first thus printing with a new introduction by J.G. Ballard, bound in wraps.
- 2hhh. _____ Denmark: Bokforlaget Pan 1997, first thus Swedish edition in illustrated wraps.
- 2iii. _____ Barcelona: Anagrama 1997, tenth Spanish printing in illustrated wraps.
- 2jjj. _____ Istanbul: Altikirkbes 1998, first thus Turkish printing in wraps.
- 2kkk. _____ Hamburg: Rowohlt Taschenbuch 1999, first thus German printing in wraps.
- 2lll. _____ Tokyo: The Sakai Agency 1999, first thus Japanese printing, hardbound in dust jacket with wrap-around band.
- 2mmm. _____ Moscow: Glagol 1999, first thus Russian printing, also includes Electronic Revolution and an excerpt from Last Words. Hardbound without dust jacket as issued.
- 2nnn. _____ New York: Grove Press 2000, 17th printing, with new Introduction by Terry Southern. Curiously, Grove has changed this publication several times since the first printing in 1992 under the Grove Weidenfeld moniker, but has not designated a new edition even though some of the changes, such as this with a new Introduction, have been substantial. See 2xx and 2ccc above.
- 2ooo. _____ Koprivnika, Croatia: Sareni Ducan 2000, a scarce copy of this title, published in Croatia as Goli Rucak in an edition of only 800 copies, bound in wraps.
- 2ppp. _____ London: Flamingo 2001, a new British edition published in a boxed set of 9 volumes by various authors called "The Swinging Sixties," bound in wraps. Also published separately as a stand-alone volume.
- 2qqq. _____ Milan: Adelphi Edizioni 2001, first thus Italian printing in wraps.
- 2rrr. _____ Paris: L'Imaginaire Gallimard 2001, new French edition, bound in wraps.
- 2sss. _____ Tel Aviv: Shadurian 2001, first Israeli edition in Hebrew language, bound in wraps.
- 2ttt. _____ Moscow: Symposium 2002, first thus Russian printing, hardbound without dust jacket as issued.
- 2uuu. _____ Buenos Aires: Leviatan 2003, first thus Argentinean edition published as Almuerzo Desnudo, bound in wraps.
- 2vvv. _____ Rome: La Biblioteca de Repubblica 2003, first thus Italian edition published as Pasto Nudo, hardbound in dust jacket.
- 2www. _____ Belgrade: Algoritam 2005, first Serbian edition as Goli Rucak, 1,000 copies printed, bound in wraps.

Minutes to Go

3. _____ Paris: Two Cities Editions 1960, bound in wraps, one of 1,000 copies. Maynard & Miles A3a. A collaborative effort between Burroughs, Brion Gysin, Sinclair Beiles, and Gregory Corso, and the first of the “cut-up” publications. There was also a limited edition of 10 copies (only five of which were for sale) each signed and numbered by the publisher and containing a manuscript page from each of the 4 authors. Contrary to Maynard & Miles statements, these copies are not printed on special paper or in special bindings. They are merely the standard work signed and numbered with an envelope containing the manuscripts pasted onto the inner rear cover. These were offered for sale at $25.00 each, rather more than the $1.50 retail for the trade edition. A copy of the limited edition is held at the Brown University Library and includes a letter from the publisher outlining prices for the different issues of the work. Correspondence from Miles indicates that most of the 1,000 copies had a wraparound band but these are seldom encountered now.
- 3a. _____ San Francisco: Beach Books 1968, bound in wraps but a different design from above, text is the same, one of 1,000 copies. Maynard & Miles A3b.
- 3b. _____ Paris: Seuil 1976, first edition thus in French, bound in wraps.

The Exterminator

4. _____ San Francisco: Auerhahn Press 1960, bound in wraps and one of 1,000 copies. Maynard & Miles A4a. A collaboration with Brion Gysin, not to be confused with Burroughs’ work Exterminator! published by Viking Press in 1973 (see item 25 below). Cover design by Gysin. A short piece with but 47 pages.
- 4a. _____ San Francisco: Dave Haselwood Books 1967, first edition thus, Haselwood’s reprint of the Auerhahn (1960) original, in pictorial wraps different from above and one of 1,000 copies. Maynard & Miles A4b.

The Soft Machine

5. _____ Paris: Olympia Press 1961, stiff olive-green wraps, with decorated dust jacket, one of 5,000 copies. Maynard & Miles A5a. The second publication of Burroughs’ work by Olympia Press. Dust jacket design by Brion Gysin.
- 5a. _____ Milan: Sugar Editore 1965, first Italian edition which preceded the American publication, hardbound in dust jacket and one of 3,000 copies. Maynard & Miles D32.

Dead Fingers Talk

7. _____ London: Calder/Olympia 1963, first printing and one of 4,000 copies. A somewhat rare Review Copy with slip laid in which was sent to a Canadian distributor, possibly the only such copy in existence. DFT includes some material from the Naked Lunch, Soft Machine, and Ticket That Exploded and was not released in the USA. Hardbound in dust jacket. Maynard & Miles A7a.

7a. _____ London: Universal Tandem 1970, second British edition in pictorial wraps. Maynard & Miles A7c.

7b. _____ London: Star 1977, first British edition thus, bound in pictorial wraps showing a bloody hand and syringe.

The Yage Letters

8. _____ San Francisco: City Lights 1963, one of 3,000 copies in wraps. Maynard & Miles A8a. Consisting mostly of letters written to Allen Ginsberg by Burroughs on his trip to South America in 1953, but including letters by Ginsberg as well.

Roosevelt After Inauguration

9. _____ New York: Fuck You Press 1964, by "Willy Lee", first edition, bound in stapled wraps. Maynard & Miles A9. Small and short (only 14 gathered leaves), this routine was originally intended for inclusion in The Yage Letters but was censored by the English printers. A version appeared in Floating Bear (#9, 1961) before being co-opted by Sanders into this edition. Some copies of this work were released from the publisher with the spines not stapled. The publisher estimates 500 copies printed.

9a. _____ New York: City Lights 1979, first edition thus in illustrated wraps, one of 3,000 copies.

9b. _____ New York: City Lights 1980, second printing, bound in wraps.

Nova Express

10. ____ New York: Grove Press 1964, first edition and one of 10,000 copies, hardbound in dust jacket. Maynard & Miles A10a. A new work, part of which was written in collaboration with Ian Sommerville, and part of which uses the "fold-in" method of rearranging text, a variation of Gysin's cut-up method.
- 10a. ____ New York: Black Cat 1965, first wraps edition, a Review Copy with slip laid in. Maynard & Miles A10b.

Time

11. ____ New York: 'C' Press 1965, one of 100 numbered copies signed by Burroughs and Brion Gysin, in wraps as issued. Maynard & Miles A11a. There was also a signed hardcover issue lettered A-J. Illustrated with four calligrams by Gysin. The top half of the cover appears to be an issue of Time magazine and features portraits of Nehru and Mao, reproduced as a part of a collage by WSB. Indeed, the November 30, 1962 issue of Time magazine, with the title "India's Lost Illusions," was apparently chosen by Burroughs for parody because that issue includes a savage review of Naked Lunch, as well as Burroughs' other Olympia Press works, in which Burroughs and other Beat writers are put down as frauds.

- 11a. _____ New York: 'C' Press 1965, the trade edition-as above but not signed or numbered, one of 886 copies, bound in wraps.
- 11b. _____ Sussex, England: Urgency Press Rip-Off 1972, a piracy of the "C" Press edition by Roy Pennington, limited to 495 copies and scarce. In correspondence with the author, Pennington estimates that only about 100 copies were actually distributed, legal-size mimeographed sheets stapled together. Maynard & Miles A11b.

APO-33: A Metabolic Regulator

12. _____ San Francisco: Beach Books 1966, first printing of this Burroughs-approved edition, one of 3,000 copies. Maynard & Miles A12b. Burroughs objected to an earlier design of the publication by Ed Sanders (of which only about 20 copies exist according to M&M) and settled on the Beach Books version, which still has a rather amateur-ish look about it.
- 12a. _____ San Francisco: Beach Books 1968, second edition of this work in wraps, one of 3,000 copies. Has "second printing" on inside cover. Maynard & Miles A12c.

So Who Owns Death TV?

13. _____ San Francisco: Beach Books 1967, small pamphlet in white wrappers stapled at top, this copy of the "first state" of issue with 50¢ price, one of 3,000 printed. Maynard & Miles A13a. A collaboration with Carl Weissner and Claude Pelieu.
- 13a. _____ variant edition with silver printing on black paper. M&M estimate 200 copies printed.
- 13b. _____ San Francisco: Beach Books 1967, the so-called "second state" with price of 75¢ inside the white wrapper. This variant not listed in Maynard & Miles.
- 13c. _____ San Francisco: Beach Books 1967, second edition adding four pages of collage photos to the text, in wraps with 75¢ price, one of 3,000 copies. Maynard & Miles A13b.
- 13d. _____ Frankfurt: Nova Press 1969, first German edition, in wraps. Maynard & Miles D23.
- 13e. _____ Birmingham UK: TOPY Heart [nd (1988?)], piracy from the Temple of Psychick Youth in England, printed in b&w and lacking photo of Claude Pelieu, cheap photocopy folded and stapled.

Burroughs, Pélieu, Kaufman: Textes

14. _____ Paris: Editions L'Herne 1967, Cahier de L'Herne #9, published only in French - no American edition, this book contains over a dozen works by Burroughs as well as photos, first printing copy bound in stiff white wraps, scarce. Maynard & Miles D11. There was also a limited edition of 40 numbered copies including a lithograph by (and signed by) Jean Helon.
- 14a. _____ Paris: Editions L'Herne 1998, a new edition of this work which appears identical in size to the original listed above, bound in wraps.

Apomorphine

15. _____ Paris: Editions L'Herne, 1969, first French printing, bound in stiff black laminated wrappers, contains the entire APO-33 reproduction as well as three other Burroughs pieces. No English edition published. Maynard & Miles D14.

The Dead Star

16. _____ San Francisco: Nova Broadcast Press 1969, printed stapled wrappers which fold-out accordion fashion, one of 2,000 copies, first separate printing of this piece which originally appeared in a different form in Jeff Nuttall's My Own Mag. Maynard & Miles A14.

Entretiens Avec William Burroughs

17. _____ by Daniel Odier and William Burroughs, Paris: Editions Pierre Belfond 1969, first printing of The Job one year before the American edition was published, issued in paperback only. Some copies with a purple wrap-around band printed with 'Burroughs' now rarely seen. Maynard & Miles A15.
- 17a. _____ Paris: Belfond éditeur 1979, a new French edition in wraps, titled William Burroughs: Le Job Entretiens avec Daniel Odier. Contains several pages of photos not included in the original 1969 edition.

The Job: Interviews with William Burroughs

18. _____ New York: Grove Press 1970, first printing and one of 5,000 copies, hardbound in dust jacket. Maynard & Miles A16a. First American edition (and the first edition in English), with a new Introduction by Burroughs. This collaboration with Daniel Odier is an excellent collection of interviews with Burroughs.
- 18a. _____ London: Jonathan Cape 1970, first British printing, hardbound in dust jacket. Maynard & Miles A16b.
- 18b. _____ London: Jonathan Cape 1970, Uncorrected Galley Proof, bound in light green wraps, scarce.
- 18c. _____ Barcelona: Editorial Mateau 1972, first Spanish printing, bound in wraps. Maynard & Miles D46.

- 18f. _____ London: John Calder 1984, first thus British printing in wraps.
- 18g. _____ Frankfurt: ein Ullstein Buch 1986, first thus German softbound edition.
- 18h. _____ New York: Penguin 1989, first thus in wraps.

The Last Words of Dutch Schultz

19. _____ London: Cape Goliard Press 1970, hardbound in dust jacket. A fiction written in the form of a screenplay, this work was inspired by Burroughs' interest in reputed mobster Schultz. Although never made into a movie, it was produced as a play in some small theaters (see Section V, No. 10). This limited edition of 100 copies was numbered and signed by Burroughs, and bound in grey green buckram. Issued in fragile tissue dust jacket. Maynard & Miles A17.
- 19a. _____ London: Cape Goliard Press 1970, trade edition of the above bound in light blue cloth with white dust jacket.
- 19b. _____ London: Cape Goliard Press 1970, simultaneous wraps edition. Maynard & Miles A17b.
- 19c. _____ Palma de Mallorca: Las Ediciones de los Papeles 1971, first Spanish printing in wraps. Maynard & Miles D45.
- 19d. _____ Koln: Kiepenheuer & Witsch 1971, first German edition in pictorial wrappers. Maynard & Miles D25.

19j. _____ London: John Calder 1986, first thus British printing in wraps.

19k. _____ New York: Arcade 1993, first thus, in pictorial wraps.

Jack Kerouac

20. _____ Paris: L'Herne 1971, first printing, bound in stiff black pictorial wrappers, no American edition of this work was published. A collaboration attributed to Burroughs and Claude Pelieu, this work includes contributions by Burroughs, Gregory Corso, Allen Ginsberg and notes by Pelieu, as well as an interview with Kerouac by A. G. Aranowitz. One of 1,200 copies. Maynard & Miles A18.

Ali's Smile

21. _____ Brighton, UK: Unicorn Books 1971, an edition of 99 numbered copies signed by Burroughs hardbound without dust jacket, accompanied by a 12-inch vinyl recording of Burroughs reading a draft of the text. Maynard & Miles A19. It has always been difficult for collectors to find this title, and is probably the most sought-after of any Burroughs A-item even though subsequent publications were issued in more limited editions. Email correspondence with Richard Cupidi, publisher of Ali's Smile at Unicorn Books, is revealing as he notes: "There were 99 copies of the book to be issued, but my then-partner left 20 or so LPs on a heater which warped the play out of them. So, some books were sold without the record, and the remaining couple of dozen unsold books were pulped. There were probably less than 50 full sets distributed including a number of which went to libraries."

21a. _____ Bonn: Expanded Media Editions 1973, bi-lingual with text in both English and German, bound in stiff pictorial wraps. One of 100 copies signed by Burroughs and numbered with an ink stamp on the title page. Not listed in Maynard & Miles.

21b. _____ Bonn: Expanded Media Editions 1973, bound in blue pictorial wraps and text printed on ochre colored paper. One of 900 copies comprising the trade edition. Maynard & Miles D28.

21c. _____ Bonn: Expanded Media Editions 1973, variant issue bound in blue pictorial wraps and text printed on white paper. Publisher Udo Breger says this was a second printing of 'probably 1,000 copies,' though all copies are marked 'First Printing.' Not listed in Maynard & Miles.

The Wild Boys

22. _____ New York: Grove Press 1971, first printing and one of 5,619 copies, hardbound in dust jacket. Maynard & Miles A20a. The small number of copies printed indicates that the publisher felt demand for the book would be minimal. Burroughs first real novel after all the cut-ups and re-arrangements of earlier works borrowing from his "word horde."

22a. _____ London: Calder and Boyars 1972, first British printing, hardbound in dust jacket. Maynard & Miles A20b.

22b. _____ London: Calder and Boyars 1972, first British wraps printing. Maynard & Miles A20c.

- 22k. _____ Paris: Editions 10/18 2003, new French edition in wraps.

Electronic Revolution

23. _____ Cambridge: Blackmoor Head Press 1971, first edition, this is number 64 of 450 copies, bound in wraps. There was also a limited signed/numbered edition of 50 copies printed on special paper. Drawings by Brion Gysin. Bilingual French and English text of a two-part 52-page essay on media and manipulation, about equal parts paranoia and genius, as much of Burroughs' work tended to be. Maynard & Miles A21.
- 23a. _____ Bonn: Expanded Media Editions 1971, bi-lingual with text in both English and German, bound in stiff pictorial wraps with dust jacket. One of 900 copies in the trade edition, another 100 comprised the signed/limited edition. Maynard & Miles D27.
- 23b. _____ Paris: Editions Champ Libre, 1974, first French edition, also includes Time and The Dead Star, bound in wraps. Maynard & Miles D19.

Brion Gysin Let the Mice In

24. _____ West Glover, VT: Something Else Press 1973, a curious collaboration in which the authorship is attributed to Gysin with "texts by William Burroughs & Ian Sommerville, edited by Jan Herman" according to jacket copy. One of 500 copies hardbound in dust jacket. Technically this should probably be a 'B' item because of Burroughs' contributions, but it was placed on the 'A' list by M&M. Maynard & Miles A22a.
- 24a. _____ West Glover, VT: Something Else Press 1973, simultaneous wraps issue, one of 1,000 copies in wraps. Maynard & Miles A22b.

Exterminator!

25. _____ New York: Viking 1973, hardbound in dust jacket, one of 7,500 copies. From the collation it is noted "Portions of this volume have been previously published, in somewhat different form, in the following places: Antaeus, Atlantic Monthly, Cavalier, Daily Telegraph (London), Esquire, Evergreen Review, Mayfair, Rolling Stone, Village Voice." M&M note that a copy bound in quarter leather with gilt-edged paper exists in the Burroughs Archive. Having examined this book, the author notes that laid into the copy is a printed note "Compliments of Viking Press." Exterminator! being Burroughs' first book for Viking, it is reasonable to assume that it is a one-off specially bound copy given to Burroughs by the publisher as a memento and not part of any series or special issue. Maynard & Miles A23a.
- 25a. _____ London: Calder and Boyars 1974, first British edition, hardbound in dust jacket.
- 25b. _____ New York: Viking Compass 1974, first printing in wraps.

- 25g. _____ New York: Penguin 1979, first Penguin printing, bound in wraps.
- 25h. _____ New York: Penguin 1985, second Penguin printing, bound in wraps.
- 25i. _____ Moscow: Kolonna Publications/T-ough Press 2001, first Russian printing, hardbound without dust jacket as issued, one of 1,000 copies printed.

White Subway

26. _____ London: Aloes Books 1973, one of 1,000 copies in wraps. Another collection of previously published articles, mostly from magazines. Maynard & Miles A24a. There was also a special signed/limited edition of 25 numbered copies.
- 26a. _____ London: Aloes Books 1973(?), second printing of 500 copies with slight changes to the wrapper design.
- 26b. _____ London: Aloes Books 1974, the third printing and final printing, bound in wraps.
- 26c. _____ Paris: Christian Bourgois Editeur 1976, first French printing issued as Metro Blanc, bound in wraps.
- 26d. _____ Valencia: Pre-Textos 1977, first Spanish printing, bound in wraps.

Mayfair Academy Series More or Less

27. _____ London: Urgency Press Rip-Off 1973, a compilation of articles by Burroughs which appeared in Mayfair magazine, bound in wraps, one of 650 copies. Maynard & Miles A25. A piracy, if one considers that neither Burroughs nor Mayfair magazine were compensated for the work. But a helpful compilation of articles for collectors who cannot find all the Mayfair copies.

Port of Saints

28. _____ London: Covent Garden Press 1973, this first edition was hardbound in a dust jacket and housed in a white slipcase. It consisted of 100 copies numbered and signed by Burroughs. Later editions by Blue Wind Press vary slightly in text and also lack the illustrations of the Covent Gardens production. This was Burroughs last work written in England before the return to America in the mid- seventies, and contains much material which was to lead to his first major work of the 1980s, Cities of the Red Night. Although dated 1973, the publication was not issued until 1975 due to labor and paper supply difficulties.
- 28a. _____ London: Covent Garden Press 1973, first trade edition, hardbound in a dust jacket consisting of 100 copies only, not numbered or in slipcase.
- 28b. _____ Paris: Flammarion 1977, first French edition, bound in wraps with wrap-around band.
- 28c. _____ Berkeley: Blue Wind Press 1980, first printing, one of 200 copies numbered and signed by Burroughs, hardbound with dust jacket in publisher's slipcase. All copies of the signed limited edition were issued in dust jackets with the upper left-hand corner clipped off since the printed price was correct only for the hardbound trade edition and incorrect for the limited edition. They were clipped and sold at a higher price.
- 28d. _____ Berkeley: Blue Wind Press 1980, Advance Review Copy, bound in wraps with stamp on inner leaf noting release date and pricing.
- 28e. _____ Berkeley: Blue Wind Press 1980, first trade printing, hardbound in dust jacket, unusually difficult to find in the first printing. The publisher reports that when the first printing hardcover sold out, they were getting ready to do the fourth printing of the softcover. So the second printing of the hardcover is actually labeled "fourth printing." There were some leftover dust jackets from the first printing, so those were used with the "fourth printing” until they ran out. The “fourth printing” hardcover was still available from the publisher as late as 2002 but without the dust jacket.

- 28f. _____ Berkeley: Blue Wind Press 1980, simultaneous issue in pictorial wraps.
- 28g. _____ London: John Calder 1983, first British edition thus, hardbound with dust jacket.
- 28h. _____ London: John Calder 1983, simultaneous British wraps edition.
- 28i. _____ Moscow: Kolonna 2003, first thus Russian printing, hardbound without dust jacket as issued.

The Book of Breething

29. _____ Ingatestone, Essex, UK: OU Henri Chopin 1974, one of 50 copies signed by Burroughs and hand-numbered in Roman numerals comprising the ‘deluxe presentation,’ bound in wraps.
- 29a. _____ Ingatestone, Essex, UK: OU Henri Chopin 1974, one of 350 copies in wraps. The correct first edition. The colophon calls for these to have been numbered though apparently none were.
- 29b. _____ Berkeley: Blue Wind Press 1975, one of 250 hardbound copies without dust jacket as issued, laid in this copy are publicity materials which give a publication date of February 15, 1976, and a catalog for Blue Wind Press. This edition was published with an extra ‘e’ as The Book of Breeething as were subsequent Blue Wind Press editions of this work.
- 29c. _____ Berkeley: Blue Wind Press 1975, simultaneous wraps issue.
- 29d. _____ Berkeley: Blue Wind Press 1980, second hardbound edition, one of 175 copies signed by Burroughs, bound in red cloth binding without dust jacket as issued.
- 29e. _____ Berkeley: Blue Wind Press 1980, second hardbound trade edition, bound in blue cloth without dust jacket as issued, somewhat scarce.
- 29f. _____ Berkeley: Blue Wind Press 1980, second edition in pictorial wraps.
- 28g. _____ Zero Verlag 1982, first German edition in wraps, published as Das Buch vom AAAtmen, same cover illustration as other editions.

Sidetripping

30. _____ New York: Derbibooks 1975, text by WSB, photos by Charles Gatewood, bound in pictorial wraps. The texts are from previously published works.
- 30a. _____ San Francisco: Last Gasp 2001, contains a new Introduction by Gatewood, and dedicated to the memory of WSB, bound in wraps.

Snack

31. _____ London: Aloes Books 1975, pale green stapled wraps, two transcripts of taped conversations with Burroughs. Tape One from a radio broadcast by Eric Mottram. Tape Two a meeting between Eric Mottram and William Burroughs. These transcripts from BBC tapes (one in 1964, with work by Burroughs nowhere else preserved; the other from 1973). An often-overlooked source of considerable information.
- 31a. _____ Valencia: Pre-Textos 1978, first Spanish printing, bound in wraps.

Johnny 23

32. _____ Milan, Italy: Sugarco 1975, first Italian translation of Burroughs' Exterminator!, here inexplicably re-titled. Perhaps the original title could not be translated into appropriate Italian phrase? Bound in wraps.

Cobble Stone Gardens

33. ____ New York: Cherry Valley Editions 1976, one of 50 hardbound copies signed by Burroughs. The title is taken from the name of the gift shop run by Burroughs' parents. Cover photograph of William Burroughs with his brother Mort and their father. Contains several pages of black and white photos from the author's collection.
- 33a. ____ New York: Cherry Valley Editions 1976, first printing in pictorial wraps, the trade edition.
- 33b. ____ Augsburg: Maro Verlag 1979, first German printing, titled as Die Alten Filme, bound in wraps.
- 33c. ____ Frankfurt: Fischer Taschenbuch Verlag 1983, new German edition, bound in wraps.
- 33d. ____ Augsburg: Microverlag 2000, another new German edition in wraps.

The Retreat Diaries

34. ____ New York: City Moon 1976, one of 2,000 copies in wraps. This title was printed in an edition of 2,000 copies, with a limited edition of 100 wrapped in a color jacket, 26 of those lettered copies signed by the author. The limited edition copies were issued in a special envelope die cut to reveal the color cover. There is some confusion about this publication since Morgan's bibliography on Ginsberg notes that the limited edition copies were never distributed and are still in storage, but that some copies may have "escaped." Clearly some copies have made it onto the market as one of the lettered copies can be found in the collection at Kent State University Library, and other Burroughs collectors have copies as well.
- 34a. ____ Basel: Sphinx Verlag 1980, first German printing, bound in wraps.

Oeuvre Croisée

35. ____ Paris: Flammarion 1976, the first French printing of The Third Mind and the first appearance of this title which would not be published in English until two years later. A book on which Burroughs and Brion Gysin had worked since 1965 but only now just published owing to difficulties in production, bound in wraps and somewhat scarce.
- 35a. ____ Paris: Flammarion 1998, later printing in nicely illustrated wraps.

Le Colloque de Tanger Vol. 1

36. ____ Paris: Christian Bourgois Editeur 1976, based on a symposium held in Geneva in 1975 to celebrate the works of Burroughs and Gysin. Contains excellent photography of Burroughs. Bound in wraps. No English language edition published. Second volume published later (see number 46 following).

Junky

37. ____ New York: Penguin 1977, first printing in pictorial wraps. Includes material not found in the original Junkie. The first unexpurgated edition thus. Introduction by Allen Ginsberg.
- 37a. ____ New York: Penguin 1977, later printing in pictorial wraps with a different cover design.
- 37b. ____ Athens: Apopeira 1983, first Greek edition, bound in wraps.
- 37c. ____ London: Penguin-UK 1999, first thus British printing in newly decorated wraps.
- 37d. ____ Paris: 10/18 1999, first thus French printing in wraps.
- 37e. ____ Tolyo: Clays/ICG Muse 2001, a Japanese edition published in English with a Japanese glossary, bound in wraps with a wrap-around band.

- 37f. _____ London: Penguin 2002, new British edition with a new Introduction by Will Self, bound in wraps.
- 37g. _____ New York: Penguin USA 2003, so-called “50th Anniversary Edition” contains a new Introduction by Oliver Harris as well as Burroughs’s own unpublished Introduction and an entire omitted chapter, along with many “lost” passages and auxiliary texts by Allen Ginsberg and others. Although it celebrates 50 years since the release of Junkie, the later spelling with a “y,” which Burroughs is said to have preferred, is used. Bound in wraps, no hardcover edition issued.
- 37h. _____ New York: Penguin USA 2003, Advanced Uncorrected Proof of the “50th Anniversary edition” bound in wraps.

Parler Pour Joe

38. _____ Rouen France: Dierriere la Salle de Bains 1977, a curious pamphlet which prints a French translation of “To Talk for Joe” translated by Mary Beach, bound in green wraps with tissue jacket.

Composite Text

39. _____ Rouen France: Dierriere la Salle de Bains 1977(?), a curious pamphlet which prints a bilingual (French/English) translation of this short work that was originally published in “Bulletin from Nothing” (see Section III Item 75). This edition not dated, but similar enough to the above publication from the same source to assume the same date. Bound in red wraps with tissue jacket.

The Third Mind

40. _____ New York: Viking 1978, first U.S. printing, hardbound in dust jacket. A collaboration between Burroughs and Brion Gysin. Burroughs, known to have worked more productively in collaboration with others, wrote that the title stemmed from Think and Grow Rich a twentieth-century guide to salesmanship by Napoleon Hill, who counseled that when two minds work together there is always a third one that results. Others have interpreted the third mind comes from the interaction of writing and visual art.
- 40a. _____ New York: Viking 1978, uncorrected proof copy, bound in wraps.
- 40b. _____ London: John Calder 1979, first British printing, hardbound in dust jacket.
- 40c. _____ London: John Calder 1979, first British printing in wraps.
- 40d. _____ New York: Seaver Books 1982, bound in wraps. Unusually scarce in softcover. Curiously, this title has never been reprinted in English post-1982.

William S. Burroughs Anthology Vol. 1

41. _____ Frankfurt: Zweitausendeins 1978, first German edition, second printing. Bound in embossed imitation leather and with publisher’s labeled cardboard slipcase without dust jacket as issued. Contains a frontispiece with a b&w photograph of Burroughs taken by Charles Gatewood, ribbon page marker with salmon-colored paper and black endpapers. Contains Junkie, The Yage Letters, Naked Lunch, and Nova Express.
- 41a. _____ Frankfurt: Zweitausendeins 1978, simultaneous wraps issue of this German title collecting four of Burroughs’ works.

Ali’s Smile/Naked Scientology

42. _____ Bonn: Expanded Media Editions 1978, text in German and English, translations by Carl Weissner, first printing in wraps. First co-publication of these previously published works.
- 42a. _____ Bonn: Expanded Media Editions 1985, second edition in pictorial wraps.
- 42b. _____ Bonn: Pocio’s Books/Expanded Media 2000, fifth edition in new wrapper design.

Letters to Allen Ginsberg

43. _____ Geneva: Claude Givaudan/Am Here Books 1978, first printing of the English edition, limited to 400 copies. Hardbound with clear acetate dust jacket as issued. There were also 100 signed/numbered copies in an acetate dust jacket with facsimile signatures printed in blue. Published simultaneously with the bilingual edition listed below.
- 43a. _____ New York: Full Court Press 1982, first trade edition, hardbound in dust jacket, unusually scarce in trade hardcover, although the publisher estimates some 750-900 copies were printed. There was also a signed/numbered edition of 100 copies, and an additional 12 lettered copies designated hors commerce.
- 43b. _____ New York: Full Court Press 1982, simultaneous first edition in wraps. One of approximately 2,500 copies. This wraps edition was also reprinted at least once.
- 43c. _____ Paris: Christian Bourgois Editeur 1990, first French printing issued as Lettres de Tanger a Allen Ginsberg, bound in wraps.

Letters to Allen Ginsberg / Lettres a Allen Ginsberg

44. _____ Geneva: Claude Givaudan/Am Here Books 1978, first printing of the bi-lingual edition, limited to 400 copies. Hardbound with clear acetate dust jacket as issued. There were also 100 signed/numbered copies in an acetate dust jacket with facsimile signatures printed in blue.

Where Naked Troubadours Shoot Snotty Baboons

45. _____ Northridge CA: Lord John Press 1978, limited edition broadside prints a piece from Cities of the Red Night and was designed and illustrated by James R. Silke, one of 100 copies each signed by Burroughs and Silke. There was also an edition of 26 signed and lettered copies.

Le Colloque de Tanger Vol. 2

46. _____ Paris: Christian Bourgois Editeur 1979, second volume of this work, based on a symposium which was held in Geneva in 1975 to celebrate the works of Burroughs and Gysin. Text in French, bound in wraps. This volume contains no photos. No English language edition published.

Ah Pook is Here

47. _____ London: John Calder 1979, first British publication of this title, hardbound in dust jacket. Also includes The Book of Breeathing and Electronic Revolution which were previously published elsewhere.
- 47a. _____ London: John Calder 1979, simultaneous wraps issue of this title.
- 47b. _____ Paris: Christian Bourgois Editeur 1979, first French printing as Ah Pook est La et Antres Contes, bound in wraps.
- 47c. _____ Tokyo: Pharash Kikaku 1992, first Japanese printing, bound in wraps with dust jacket and wrap-around band.

Doctor Benway

48. _____ Santa Barbara: Bradford Morrow 1979, one of 26 lettered copies which were hors commerce, each hardbound and signed by Burroughs. This passage from Naked Lunch was issued on the 20th Anniversary of its original publication.
- 48a. _____ Santa Barbara: Bradford Morrow 1979, one of 150 copies numbered and signed by Burroughs, hardbound in dust jacket.

- 48b. _____ Santa Barbara: Bradford Morrow 1979, one of 324 numbered copies in wraps. Booksellers have long been confused by apparent “out of series” copies, those being numbered above 324, but the simple explanation is that the softbound wraps edition did not begin with number “1” but rather with number “151.” That is, after the run of the 150 signed hardbound copies. This means collectors could expect to find copies numbered as high as 474 in the unsigned series, and several numbered in the 400s have been noted.

Blade Runner (a movie)

49. _____ Berkeley: Blue Wind Press 1979, first trade edition, hardbound in dust jacket. Somewhat scarce in trade hardcover. There was also an edition of 100 signed and numbered hardbound copies. A treatment for a science fiction film, although not the one that eventually came out with that title.
- 49a. _____ Berkeley: Blue Wind Press 1979, Advance Review Copy ink-stamped with handwritten info concerning publication date, price, etc. Dated 6-21-79, bound in wraps.
- 49b. _____ Berkeley: Blue Wind Press 1979, simultaneous wraps issue.
- 49c. _____ Zurich: Eco-Verlag 1980, first Swiss printing, text in German, bound in wraps.

The Streets of Chance

54. _____ New York: Red Ozier Press 1981, cloth covered boards without dust jacket as issued, one of 160 copies, each signed by Burroughs and the illustrator Howard Buchwald. The text is an excerpt from the 1968 UK edition of The Soft Machine. A lavishly produced fine press production.

Early Routines

55. _____ Santa Barbara: Cadmus 1981, bound in cloth covered boards with thin tissue jacket, one of 125 copies signed by Burroughs. There were also 26 signed/lettered copies. A collection of routines (Burroughs' term for skits or scenarios) from back in the 1940s and 50s, these show just how funny Burroughs could be when engaged in free-form extemporizing.
- 55a. _____ Santa Barbara: Cadmus Editions 1981, first numbered edition and one of 349 softbound copies.
- 55b. _____ Santa Barbara: Cadmus 1982, first trade edition, bound in wraps.

A William Burroughs Reader

59. _____ London: Picador 1982, an original British anthology with an original introductory essay by John Calder and a number of photographs, published only in the UK and only in pictorial wraps.

The Place of Dead Roads

60. _____ New York: Holt Rinehart & Winston 1983, one of 300 copies signed by Burroughs, issued in slipcase without dust jacket. Burroughs enjoyed reading about the American West of frontier days, and he uses that setting as the basis and background, and in a sense the springboard, for this book.
- 60a. _____ New York: Holt Rinehart and Winston 1983, first trade edition, full brown cloth binding, spine lettering in bronze, hardbound in dust jacket featuring wrap-a-round cover art by Robert Reed.
- 60b. _____ New York: Holt Rinehart and Winston 1983, variant issue of first printing of the trade edition, quarter bound in an orange-brown cloth, spine titled in metallic silver, light brown textured paper-covered boards, hardbound in dust jacket. Ruski

62. _____ New York: Hand Job Press 1984, limited to 500 copies. An espionage story about a cat with references to The Great Gatsby.
- 62a. _____ New York: Odd-Job Press [n.d.], an apparent piracy of the Hand Job edition, this one differs in that it is bound using hand-made paper wraps and printed on white bond paper. Colophon notes “limited to 50 copies” but fewer than ten actually distributed. Bound in blue-purple wraps but other colors used for the rest of the copies. Though undated, this item was published in 1998.

New York Inside Out

63. _____ Toronto: Skyline Press 1984, text by Burroughs and photos by Robert Walker, hardbound in dust jacket. Another questionable ‘A’ item as this is mostly a photo book.

Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse

64. _____ Bonn: Expanded Media Editions 1984, first printing, bound in wraps. Contains a speech delivered by Burroughs in 1980 at the occasion of the Institute of Ecotechnics’ 1980 Planet Earth Conference in Aix-en-Provence. Speech transcript by Terry Wilson. Photographs by Udo Breger, Y. Fujii and C. Kohlhofer. Bilingual edition with text in English and German. The book’s contents divided in half with the German in front and the English portion in rear. The edition was reprinted in 1988, 1993 and 1996. A source of confusion is that all of the reprint editions are marked “First German Edition” on the collation page. However, only the true first is dated 1984.
- 64a. _____ Bonn: E.M.E. 2000, fifth (?) edition, bound in pictorial wraps.

Tornado Alley

72. _____ New York: Cherry Valley 1989, first hardbound edition, issued without a dust jacket, one of 100 copies signed by Burroughs. This includes 90 copies signed by Burroughs and 10 copies signed by both Burroughs and illustrator S. Clay Wilson. The copies were signed on the title page and were to have been numbered, but when book dealer Quill & Brush received theirs they found none were numbered. They went and got a stamp that reads "This is number ___ of 100 signed copies" and stamped theirs on the last printed page. They numbered them 1-10, then they sent the stamp to the publisher who had agreed to stamp and number the other copies. But he apparently did not. Neither are the 10 double signed copies numbered, through some have penciled "1 of 10 signed by both" on the first inner page
- 72a. _____ New York: Cherry Valley 1989, first trade edition, one of 400 hardbound copies.

Clause 27 is Proposition 6 is The Whole Tamale

75. _____ NP: The Horse Press [nd 1989(?)], small pamphlet is 8 pages and consists of a one page of introduction by Burroughs, 6 pages of text concerning the anti-gay Proposition 6 which is reprinted here. Back of the last page printing a photo of Burroughs in the jungle. The cover features a silhouette of Burroughs in a top hat (from a photo), along with the title. The cover illustration is black on dark green paper, though some were bound in blue. An item on every Burroughs collectors' want list, but one that few have ever seen, bound in wraps.

Seven Deadly Sins

76. _____ New York: Lococo/Mulder 1991, the trade edition in cloth covered boards without dust jacket as issued, one of 2,000 copies. There was also a signed and numbered limited edition of 150 copies bound in full leather. Cover features an original piece of wood "shotgun art" by Burroughs. Frontispiece photo of Burroughs aiming a shotgun by Robert Mapplethorpe. Features reproductions of Burroughs' paintings illustrating the "seven deadly sins," with text by him. Probably more of a true 'A' item than some of the other photo and art books in this section. Though all copies of the book have the printed page with "Luxe Edition of 150 copies" this often creates confusion among collectors. But only the limited copies were bound in leather, and were signed and numbered by hand. In addition, there was a boxed portfolio of the same title, each with the seven prints and seven sheets of text, and each print numbered, signed, and dated. The edition includes 90 boxed sets, 10 artist proofs, 4 hors commerce, 3 printer's proofs, and 1 right to print. All published by Lococo-Mulder in NYC Sept. 1991.

Miscellaneous Burroughs Print Items

1. International Writers Conference – Transcript of a Panel Discussion, Edinburgh Scotland: August 1962, a mimeographed transcript of the proceedings of the entire conference. Folio, mimeographed sheets, [138] pages (printed on rectos only) [paginated in sections, by day: pp. 23, 28, 25, 27, 35], bound with a filing string through punch-hole in upper left corner (“foolscap” binding as issued). A complete printed transcript of the International Writers Conference, August, 1962 [five days: Monday 8/20/62 through Friday 8/24/62]. Prints several statements by William S. Burroughs, which appear in the sections for 8/23/62 & 8/24/62 [Maynard & Miles F6]; additional contributions by Mary McCarthy, Norman Mailer, Stephen Spender, Henry Miller [Shifreen & Jackson B137], Muriel Spark, Rebecca West, Lawrence Durrell et al. This was Burroughs “debut” among peers as a major writer and his works were debated. The conference is mentioned in all the biographies of Burroughs and its importance to Burroughs writing career noted. Apparently, co-producer of the conference, John Calder, hired court stenographers to record the proceedings. Described in the Atticus Books Catalog #8 (Section II, No. 66) as “one of perhaps six copies produced” which seems an improbably low estimate. Maynard & Miles note “number of copies produced unknown.”
2. William Burroughs: Naked Lunch New York: Grove Press October 1962, a publicity flyer released to promote the publication of the book in the U.S. for the first time, sixteen page pamphlet includes excerpts from the book, bound in stapled wraps. Maynard & Miles F7. There was a publicity letter from publisher Barney Rosset originally laid in to most copies, but these are seldom encountered now. One accompanies the copy at Brown University Library.
3. Electronic Revolution a flyer by Blackmoor Head Press announcing the book Electronic Revolution, single sheet printed on one side in two languages, scarce. Maynard & Miles F27.
4. Postcard announcement for “The Moroccan Art of Mohammed Mrabet at the Gotham Book Mart Gallery in New York during March and April [not dated but probably 1970], verso prints an untitled statement by Burroughs about the artwork Mrabet. Thick green paper at 4 x 6 inches.
5. Le Colloque de Tanger Photo (Geneva, Switzerland) 1975. The Colloque de Tanger symposium was held in Geneva Switzerland from September 24-28 to celebrate the work of Burroughs and Brion Gysin. This 9.5 x 12 inch photo reproduces Legarde's The New Reformers with Burroughs' and Gysin's heads superimposed on the torsos of two statues (Martin Luther and friend). The photo is signed by Burroughs and Gysin and dated 26 September 1975. On the back is ink-stamped “Le Colloque de Tanger” and hand numbered. There were fifty signed/numbered copies. Atticus Books Catalogue Eight notes “Planned for publication but never released.” It is believed that most went to Richard Aaron but they apparently were never distributed.
6. Flyer for the play “The Last Words of Dutch Schultz” [n.d.] at the Prop Theater, Fullerton CA. Black and white illustration of Burroughs shooting a .45 handgun.
7. The Nova Convention Broadside poster announcing the weekend -long festival in New York, November 30 - December 2, 1978. Burroughs contributes a quote and is photographed.

William S. Burroughs: Related Works

1. Biography of a Grizzly by Ernest Seton-Thomas, New York: Century 1900, first printing of this book which was highly influential to an eight-year-old Burroughs and led him to write his first (unpublished) essay entitled “Autobiography of a Wolf.”
2. You Can’t Win by Jack Black, New York: MacMillan and Co. 1927, a book that Burroughs said had tremendous impact on him in his youth and whose influence was pervasive during his entire life. Hardbound in dust jacket, scarce and rare, especially with the dust jacket.
3. The Wild Party by Joseph Moncure March, no place: no publisher, no date [1928]. The true first edition limited to 200 copies, bound in gold paper over boards, black cloth spine without lettering. The original self-published edition, of which Burroughs said “it’s the book that made me want to be a writer.” Introduction by Louis Untermeyer. Not as scarce as one might imagine. A book apparently ignored by collectors, but which was reissued in the 1990s.
4. The White Negro by Norman Mailer, San Francisco: City Lights 1957, first printing with 50 cents price on cover. Mailer’s work appealed to Burroughs’ interest in the lower social strata. And Mailer’s description of a hipster as a “philosophical psychopath,” while not directed at Burroughs, seems to fit perfectly. Mailer, of course, was quoted for decades after he, in the early 1960s, called Burroughs “The only living American writer who might conceivably be possessed of genius.” A seminal work for its time. Bound in stapled wraps.
5. Liberty or Death: International Protest ed. by Mary Beach, Beach Books, Texts and Documents [n.d.] presumably 1968 or 1969. Special section on Chicago ‘68 by Jeffrey Blankfort, photos from the Democratic Convention, including a portrait of William S. Burroughs, bound in wraps.
6. Speed by William Burroughs Jr., New York: Olympia Press 1970, first printing of the first novel by Burroughs’ son, bound in wraps.
- 6b. _____ Milan, Italy: Olympia Press Italia 1970, first Italian printing, hardbound without dust jacket.
- 6c. _____ Woodstock NY: Overlook Press 1984, first hardbound printing of this autobiographical novel by Burroughs’ son, hardbound in dust jacket.
- 6d. _____ Woodstock NY: Overlook Press 1984, simultaneous wraps issue, first printing.
7. Kentucky Ham by William Burroughs Jr., New York: Dutton 1973, second autobiographical book by Burroughs’ son, first printing, hardbound in dust jacket.
8. Bastard Angel #2 (Spring 1974), prints “Cut Up to the Last Resort (To William Burroughs) by Nanos Valaoritis, a cut-up in the style of Burroughs’ sixties works, bound in wraps.
9. The Beat Book by Arthur and Glee Knight, Berkeley: unspeakable visions 1974, anthology and criticism, many photos, first printing, bound in wraps.
10. Creem Magazine April 1976, William Burroughs, Jr. interviews Allen Ginsberg, bound in wraps, scarce appearance for Burroughs’ son.
11. National Lampoon September 1976, prints “The Collected Works of William Burroughs” which consists of an open desk drawer filed with drug paraphernalia - an obvious parody, bound in wraps.
12. The Beat Diary by Arthur and Kit Knight, Berkeley: unspeakable visions 1977, anthology and criticism, first printing, bound in wraps.
13. Naropa Institute Catalog Summer 1979, prints course descriptions taught by Burroughs and a profile in the Faculty section, bound in wraps.

14. Bombay Gin #7, Boulder CO: Summer-Fall 1979, William Burroughs, Jr. contributes "Surgery" in a rare journal appearance, bound in wraps.
15. Poetry Flash No. 103 (October 1981), prints a review of a reading by WSB, John Giorno, and Laurie Anderson in San Francisco, photo of Burroughs on cover, bound in wraps, scarce.
16. Full Court Press Publishers Catalog c. 1982, includes listing for Burroughs' Letters to Allen Ginsberg among other offerings, bound in wraps.
17. William Burroughs and Friends: A Reading program for October 5, 1982 Reading in London at the Centre Hotel, also includes information about the Final Academy Convention, folded and stapled in wraps.
18. Press Kit for "Burroughs, The Movie" 1984, biographical info with 2 photos, William S. Burroughs, William Burroughs, Jr., Allen Ginsberg, Terry Southern, Brion Gysin, Patti Smith, movie directed by Howard Brookner, loose leaves in envelope. A film not widely distributed that might have been forgotten if not for the proliferation of home video. Now that Burroughs has passed away, this film provides historical info as well as many clips of Burroughs reading his works. There are many humorous moments, especially the skit with Burroughs acting out the part of Dr. Benway.
19. Flyer for "Burroughs, The Movie" (San Francisco: Fillmore at Clay) reprints two reviews of the film, blue ink on orange paper with photo of Burroughs
20. The Beat Road ed. by Arthur and Kit Knight, California, PA: unspeakable visions 1984, includes four photos of Burroughs and info on many other beat writers, bound in wraps.
21. The Moment Fall 1989, prints "On the Street: An Interview with Billy Burroughs" by Lee Hill that was originally done in 1978, no indication about why it was published eleven years later. Burroughs, Junior died in 1981, bound in wraps.
22. Bacon Beckett Burroughs by John Minikan, London: October Gallery 1990, exhibition catalog for a showing of photographs by John Minihan at the October Gallery in London, reproduces many of Minihan's outstanding, sensitive photos of these three masters, bound in wraps.
23. The Naked Lunch: A Screenplay by David Cronenberg, London: Recorded Picture Company 1990, this is the first draft of the screenplay, dated February 12, 1990, for the movie based on Burroughs' book. It was directed by Cronenberg and starred Peter Weller. Issued in unbound separate sheets with three holes punched. This first draft is not particularly rare and seems to have been photocopied and widely distributed.
- 23a. ____ Second draft of the screenplay dated March 5, 1990. Not as common as above but easy to photocopy and therefore probably not rare.
24. Press kit for the film Naked Lunch released by Twentieth Century-Fox. Stars Peter Weller, Judy Davis, and Roy Scheider. Released 1991, written and directed by David Cronenberg, press kit contains six b&w (8x10) photos along with publicity and production information, loose leaves in folder as issued.
25. Brochure for the film Naked Lunch produced for the Japanese market in 1992. Text in Japanese but lots of full color photos from the movie. Bound pictorial wraps. Scarce.
26. American Film Magazine January/February 1992, prints "The Novelist, The Director, and The Mugwumps" about the Naked Lunch film. Includes photo of Burroughs with Cronenberg and several photos from the movie, bound in wraps.
27. CAD: The Handbook for Heels edited by Charles Schneider, Los Angeles: Feral House 1992, prints "BEATING Off With Dr. Kinsey" on Beat views of sexuality, a humorous and entertaining book. Bound in illustrated wraps.
28. Understanding the Beats by Edward Foster, Columbia: University of South Carolina Press 1992, excellent scholarly study, bound in wraps.
29. Image April 18, 1993 (magazine of the San Francisco Examiner), prints "Herb Vinaigrette" by Herb Gold, excerpts from his book on the Beats in Paris. "William Burroughs serves up a nearly naked lunch..." bound in wraps.
